Rock star look-alikes raise brows, money for MS

By Mary Bruex
March 21

The show was called "Rockstars on the Run." It was the first of its kind in Iowa City Friday night and it was barely under way when the featured performer, Ted Brown, was already feeling aussome about it. He'd been notified earlier that one of the health care managers had to be a look-alike of a rock star. And Ted, an eight-year-old with Down Syndrome, was the closest the organizers could find. His long hair, spiked on one side and down on the other, was a perfect fit. But the makeup was a different story. It made him look more like a clown than a celebrity. And the costume was just as bad. It was a black tuxedo, complete with tails, and the man's name was on the back of the jacket. Ted was not happy. He looked like he was going to cry to find out that what he thought was a real rock star was really just a guy in makeup. But the crowd loved it. They laughed and cheered and even gave him a standing ovation. The manager of the venue, the Iowa River and Power, said they were just trying to do something different. And they were successful. The event raised money for the Multiple Sclerosis Society and the participants had a great time. Ted's favorite part was when he got to sing "Sweet Child O' Mine" with the band. It was a great night for everyone involved.

Kim victory signals political realignment

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Over the past two years President Chun Doo Hwan's opponents have been heaving sighs of relief. But last week, he may have gotten more democracy than he bargained for.

In the first election in less than a year by a national party of the United Nations, scores of candidates unaffiliated with the Democratic Party won seats in the South Korean parliament.

The most significant victory for the Democratic Party was the downfall of the largest opposition party in the parliament.

The opposition party, which once had 81 seats and was considered government in name only, won only 6 seats.

"St. Andrew's is a really weak team. This year they aren't better. They also have good doubles teams," Nolting said.

The duals are up in the air for this season. The Hawkeye team has played five times this season, Nolting said.

Taylor leads Hawks at Iowa Open

By Brad Zerka

A "Big Ten" Championship victory "that might be the race of last Saturday's Iowa Open at the Recreation Building proved to be successful for both the Iowa and Wisconsin women's track teams.

The Hawkeyes were the only team in the conference who was able to place higher than their 1984 performances, efforts that were seen in both events and Wisconsin was first in the team competition.

The 200 individual standings had to be seen as Wisconsin's best showing so far as three members of the team reached the top ten for 60 meter high hurdles. These three Hawkeyes were behind the long jump, a record which lasted for the entire first year and the final 200 yard dash.

Both the team and the individual efforts which were better than the team's efforts had been seen at the indoor championships.

Taylor's 400 yard hurdles time of 52.36 was her time in the event at the NCAA indoor competition at Columbus, Ohio, March 12.

Leading the way for the Hawkeyes was Harvey, 81, who was second and third legs, and qualified for the NCAA Championships in those events at the same time.
