Proposed cold beer ban receives warm response

Safety bid supported by bar owners

By Sean Sain

A newly formedassociation of area bars is supporting a proposal in the Iowa House of Representatives that bars sell only cold beer. The Johnson County Tavern Association is one of the groups supporting the proposal.

The proposal, which has been supported by a number of state legislators, would allow bars to sell only cold beer. The proposal was introduced by Rep. John Kates, a Democrat from Coralville. The proposal would also prohibit the sale of warm beer at bars.

The proposal is being considered by the Iowa House of Representatives.

Autopsy confirms Brown drowning

By Greg Mike

Dems. 109-117 years old, mentally disabled, the coroner said, was a victim of a fire that began in the basement of The Iowa River Wednesday afternoon. The Iowa City Fire Department and the Johnson County Sheriff's Office were on the scene. The cause of death was ruled drowning. Brown's body was reportedly identified by his wallet, which contained his Social Security card and an American Express card. The Iowa River is located in the town of Yost, northeast of Des Moines.

Courts

By Terry Fred

Dems. 109-117 recently filed a $50,000 lawsuit against Johnson County, the Iowa City Police Department, and three officers in connection with the 1986 death of Brown. The suit was filed on behalf of his widow and several other family members.

Police

By Greg Mike

As of 4 p.m. Wednesday afternoon, the Iowa City Police Department had not yet released any information about the circumstances surrounding Brown's death. The police department was expected to release a statement later in the day.

SIGI helps students choose appropriate career direction

By Jennifer Jacob

The career center at the University of Iowa is helping students select careers that will suit their abilities and interests.

The open career counseling center at the University of Iowa has a staff of six professionals who work with students on a variety of issues related to career development.

"SIGI helps students choose appropriate career direction because we have "first-hand of what it's like to be a professional," said Sigam Kline, director of the center.

The system of career counseling and information is continually being updated to meet the needs of students.

"Most students are very interested in the process of choosing a career," said Kline.

"SIGI uses a variety of tools to assess student interests and abilities including the Holland Interest Inventory, which measures students' level of interest in a variety of career fields.

"SIGI also uses a variety of other tools to assess students' strengths and weaknesses, including the Strong Interest Inventory, which measures students' level of interest in a variety of career fields.

"SIGI provides students with realistic expectations about their career possibilities, which is important for students who are considering majors in fields that are not traditionally gender-specific.

Introducing UI’s ‘typical’ student

By Mary Brown

Staff writer

It’s a white, middle-class Iowa student who is the most typical student at the University of Iowa, according to a study of student characteristics.

Still, there are some differences in the patterns of student behavior at UI and other universities, according to a survey of student characteristics.

The survey, conducted by the Iowa State University of Science and Technology, found that the most typical students at UI are those who are 18, live in the United States and are single.

The survey also found that students are more likely to be female and to live in the Midwest than in other parts of the country.

The survey was conducted by the Iowa State University of Science and Technology, which is a partner in the National Center for Education Statistics.

The findings are based on data from a survey of students at UI conducted in 2015.

The survey found that the most typical UI student is an 18-year-old woman who lives in the United States and is single.

The study also found that students are more likely to be female and to live in the Midwest than in other parts of the country.

House makes farm relief moves

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The House passed one last farm bill before the session ended Tuesday night and sent it to President Reagan urging him to sign it.

The House passed, 257-118, and sent to the Senate a $3.2 billion farm plan Thursday that would allow up to $3.2 billion in federal guarantees for private crop insurance. The plan would also increase Farm Credit System loans to $1 billion in federal guarantees for private crop insurance. The plan would also increase Farm Credit System loans to $1 billion in federal guarantees.

The House approved the bill, 254-118, and sent it to the Senate on the same day, June 14, 1984.

Democrats split; new council formed

WASHINGTON (UPI) - House Majority Leader James Wright of Texas said the Democratic Caucus voted Tuesday night to organize a new council to replace the Democratic Study Group.

Wright, who has been majority leader since 1979 and may seek the Senate seat of the late Edward Kennedy, said the new council would be formed.

The original Study Group was formed in 1979 and has had a strong influence on the Democratic Party, including its leadership.

Wright said the new council will have a similar structure and will be responsible for the caucus's policy and program.

The new council will be led by Wright, who has been majority leader since 1979.

The council will include representatives from the House and Senate Democratic caucuses and will be chaired by Wright.

The council will meet regularly to discuss policy issues and will have the authority to make recommendations to the Democratic leadership.

IRA wrecks carnage in Ulster salvo attack

NEWRY, Northern Ireland (UPI) - A British army officer said Friday that an IRA assault on a police station in the Newry area of Northern Ireland was carried out by a group of about 50 guerrillas.

At least 15 members of the Ulster Defense Regiment were wounded in the attack on the station in the center of the town, about 15 miles southwest of Belfast, and 50 British army troopers were deployed to the scene.

The attack was the latest in a series of IRA attacks in recent days.

U.N. report censures Afghanistan

NEW YORK (UPI) - A new United Nations report on human rights in Afghanistan said that the government has failed to prosecute the attackers of a U.N. staff member who was killed.

The report said that the government had not yet taken any steps to investigate the murder of the UNICEF official, who was killed in a gun attack in Kabul.

The government has been criticized for its failure to protect the rights of civilians.

Iowa, Lebanese, Israelis fortify lines in wake of clash

IOWA CITY - The Iowa Legislature met Tuesday to begin the first clash between two armies after the Israeli assault in southern Lebanon.

The Legislature was set to debate proposals for a peacekeeping force in the region, with Israeli and Palestinian members of Congress supporting the proposal.

The report said that the government had not yet taken any steps to investigate the murder of the UNICEF official, who was killed in a gun attack in Kabul.

The government has been criticized for its failure to protect the rights of civilians.

Iowa Governor: 'No way or another way'

IOWA CITY - Governor Terry Branstad on Tuesday said there was "no way or another way" to resolve the impasse in the Iowa General Assembly, which has been unable to pass a budget for months.

"There is no way or another way," Branstad said. "We have to come to a resolution, and we have to do it soon."

Today's grand jury indictment of former Student Financial Aid Funds director Mike Figgertringer was a welcome turn in the Charges against virtually all students who received aid, as many as $500,000 in relief of student loan claims by federal officials. The fact that many students who take out these loans have to work part-time or find other ways to make ends meet.

Bankable student aid was considered particularly, in light of the rising cost of higher education. Federal and state governments, along with the National Governors Association, will have to find ways to ensure that students who receive aid are not only reluctant to capitalize on their financial aid, but also to be opponents of the proposed microcomputer system.

In response to the student organization Right to Life, the university offered an opportunity for students to receive financial aid that would only mandateensen for the Midwest.

I always vote for Sen. Ted Kennedy.

You shot him! I'll tell you what... . . .

I'm sure you are all familiar with the problem that has been so widely publicized these days, the lack of a disciplined and organized approach in the Justice Department for the protection of American citizens.

Long before I went into the field of public service, I had been a student of the late Senator Kennedy. He was a man of letters and a great civil libertarian, and he knew how to bring together the diverse elements of American society.

So NOW LET'S WARN DOOMED CARS

If I were to add that Mr. Figgertringer's appointment is long overdue, I would not only be failing to do justice to the man, but also to the university. Mr. Figgertringer has been at the university for ten years, and I think he deserves a chance to continue his work.

The solution to this problem is clear: The financial aid office must check "each student individual" to see where the funds are being spent, and the university must develop a system to make sure that the aid is being used for its intended purpose.

Hawks eye 12th-straight Big Ten crown

By J.B. Gross

It's easy to bet on the Big Ten title these days. It's just too easy. No one has ever repeated as the Big Ten champ, and the Hawkeyes' 12-straight title is more than 20 years old. No one has even come this close to winning 12 straight titles in a row. The Hawkeyes are the only team in Big Ten history to win more than 10 titles in a row. They've won 12 out of 14 seasons, with only two losses in the last 20 years. The Hawkeyes have set a new record for the longest unbeaten streak in Big Ten history. It's a record that is likely to stand for many years to come.

The American Cup is an apt venue for Retton, who is a five-time U.S. world champion and world record holder in the floor exercise. Kobe’s assistants have been plenty international by winning the senior women’s competition, which is a last-minute substitute for injured teammate Mary Lou Retton. Also representing the United States in the senior women’s competition is three-time national champion Chen Li. Retton’s chief rivals in the 1985 American Cup competition should be China’s Ning Li and Daggett. The Taiwanese won both the 1984 and 1986 Olympic games.

THOUGH DAGGETT will be the favorite for the individual floor exercise later in the competition, Daggett is happy with his team’s efforts through the first night. Daggett has decided to return his gymnastics career by defending his 1984 and 1986 American Cup titles.}

The Hawkeyes are favored to win the meet against Bradley, which is 0-1 this season, Garlick said. "If we’re not there in the most mentally we will be okay."

Mark Gardner and John Franey are paying well together this season, Garlick said.

The meet against Bradley will help the Hawkeyes prepare for the spring season, Garlick said. "It’s not a great win if we don’t take it."

The Hawkeyes will travel to Columbia, S.C., next weekend to compete in the Southeastern Invitational. The meet will provide gymnastics with some opportunities to match younger, lower level gymnasts looking to replace university programs.

Independent powers might miss tourney

Chicago (UPI) — They don’t keep records, but the University of Chicago is assuming it has the fewest places on a postseason tournament field.

But four major midwest conferences — the Big Ten, Missouri Valley, Midwest and Great Lakes — have 22 teams in their respective leagues. And many schools from those four conferences are not serious national title contenders.

"We’re the only one that’s really downgraded," said University President Elwood Haynes.

Death casts pall over 'Finnegan'

By Maryvonne Gris

MONDAY, Nov. 16, 1982

The play, written in 1908 by the German critic, was later translated as a serious work and re-derived in the French language. Its themes of love and death were as important then as they are today.

DIRECTOR BEN KATZ, 50, who directed the production, said he was drawn to the original German text. He believes this translation better

flts the many moods that the German text, which was written in a very personal and imaginative manner, can evoke. Katz said he plans to retain a feel for the period setting and the use of period costumes, which are important elements of the play.

The play is set in 1908 in the German city of Bremen. It tells the story of a young man who falls in love with a woman who is married to another man. The play explores themes of love,

death, and the complex relationships between the characters.

Books

Dillard's method is different, as is her interpretation of the text, for she envisions her work through the eyes of her own. Her unique method of writing, with logical precision and literary accuracy, is a testament to the legacy of her predecessors. Dillard's work problematizes the actual world with a distinct style. This unmediated style adds to her question of a text's urgency.

The question of whose fiction is truly Dillard's is further illuminated through her artistic approach and her selection of themes. The Dillardian nature of her work, with logical precision and literary accuracy, is a testament to the legacy of her predecessors. Dillard's work problematizes the actual world with a distinct style. This unmediated style adds to her question of a text's urgency.

Night life

House music is "just the time of all time, all the time..." a Vangelis effort. If you're a party animal, get on your party shoes and somewhere out there, you're not afraid of being out. In a mythical nightclub, the five senses are heightened by the music. For ONE TIME, they're out of the first line of the night. Their eyes are renewed by the music, their minds filled with the beat. They're living in the beat. That's what they want. As a result, maximum entertainment and musical values were achieved. Dillard's voice was set to a nearly blank background, free of all fear and anxiety. She was right where she wanted to be. She was born to be there in the beginning. If there is a time to hold back, it may be in the overwhelming atitude of edição's M. A. C. A. G. and M. F. John Barrat, that there has to be a line distinction, if any, between performance and art. This solution is entering a contribution in arts and sounds in the world of Dillards. M. A. C. A. G. and M. F. John Barrat
