Iran says Iraqi bombs have hit cities

Iran and Iraq are both fighting for survival, Iran says in a bid to pressure the United Nations to lift sanctions.

The claim comes after a series of bomb attacks in Iraqi Kurdistan, reportedly carried out by Iranian-backed militia groups.

"We have confirmed reports of American and Israeli civilians being killed by Iranian-backed militia groups in Iraq," said Iranian President Ebrahim Raisi.

The statement follows weeks of tensions between Iran and the US, with both countries accusing each other of aggression.

Iran said it was responding to the US and its allies' "aggressive" behavior.

The attacks are likely to escalate tensions further, with both countries sounding the alarm bells.

Iranian leaders have repeatedly called for increased military spending, in response to US sanctions.

They have accused the US of attempting to "isolate" Iran, and said they would respond with a "strong" military response.

The statement comes as US President Joe Biden is set to meet with his counterparts in Europe to discuss the ongoing crisis.

Biden is expected to call for a diplomatic solution to the conflict, with both sides agreeing to de-escalate tensions.

However, the Iranian leader rejected the idea of a "diplomatic" solution, saying it would only "extend Iran's suffering and lead to more escalation.

He also vowed to increase military spending, saying "Iran must have the capacity to defend itself.

Iran's military has beenpeatedly targeted by the US and its allies, with several attacks reportedly carried out by Iranian-backed militia groups.

The group said it was prepared to "take action" if the US failed to lift sanctions.

Iran has long been a target of US sanctions, with the US imposing economic and diplomatic sanctions on the country in an attempt to "isolate" it.

US President Joe Biden has repeatedly called for a "diplomatic" solution to the crisis, but Iran has rejected the idea.

The Iranian leader said the US was "using Iran's military capacity to achieve its own goals."

Iowa teacher pay drops in rank

By James Hintzen

Iowa House requires editorinchief

By James Hintzen

Members of the Iowa House of Representatives passed a bill Wednesday that would require prospective teachers to enter into a contract in order to be certified to teach. The bill is now before the Iowa Senate for a possible vote. In recent years, Rep. Richard Arrington, D-Mount Vernon, has introduced legislation aimed at improving the teacher training program and making it more efficient. The bill is now in the hands of the state legislature, and it is expected to be debated in the coming weeks.

Mr. Brown said, "It's time for the state to start thinking about how we can improve the quality of education in Iowa. We need to ensure that our students are well-prepared for the future. I believe that this bill is a step in the right direction, and I hope that it will be passed into law soon."
Seminar focuses on black issues at UI

By Karen Burns

A seminar on freedom and literacy will be held Thursday evening by the Afro-American Studies Department in the Cultural Building. The seminar will be open to the public.

The purpose of the program is to help people thinking about policy-making issues and the fact that such issues are often made in the context of a racial or ethnic minority. The seminar includes the following topics:

1. The need for black education.
2. The need for black literature.
3. The need for black music.
4. The need for black art.
5. The need for black history.
6. The need for black economics.
7. The need for black politics.
8. The need for black culture.

The seminar will be held in the Cultural Building on Thursday evening from 7:00 to 9:00 PM. The seminar will be open to the public and will be free of charge.

Council votes on utility contract

By Dean Newport

Iowa City moved a step closer Thursday to obtaining a renewed utility franchise when the Iowa City Council voted to submit a bill to the House of Representatives for the franchise. The council heard a report from its legal staff and business manager, Joe Baker, who drafted the franchise bill.

The city council has already been notified that the franchise that expires Dec. 31, 1985, will be up for renewal. Baker said the council will be asked to delay the franchise until a new franchise is approved by the Iowa General Assembly. The franchise will be up for renewal because the Iowa General Assembly has not renewed the franchise since 1976.

The council also voted to approve a resolution that was introduced by Rep. Richard Varn, D-Iowa City. The resolution would make the city's franchise a priority for the Iowa General Assembly and the Iowa House of Representatives. The resolution was approved by a vote of 12 to 0.

To the editor:

I am a member of the Phoenix party, and I feel I must make some comment concerning our campaign's message.

Our campaign is based on the idea of providing a voice for the students of the University of Iowa. We believe that students should be actively involved in the decisions that affect their lives, and we are committed to advocating for their interests.

Some of our key platform points include:

1. Ensuring fair and equal representation in the Senate.
2. Addressing student concerns related to campus life, such as housing, dining, and transportation.
3. Focusing on sustainable practices and environmental concerns.
4. Supporting student involvement in decision-making processes.
5. Advocating for student rights and freedoms.

We believe that these principles will help us to create a better future for students at the University of Iowa.

Sincerely,

platforms and goals we took to the town that those issues were of concern to UI students — in what areas we were most responsible.

The Student Senate is the student body's voice in the political process, and our candidates are dedicated to representing the interests of all students.

The election process is a critical one, and we encourage all students to participate in the democratic process by casting their votes.

Thank you for your support, and we look forward to serving as your representatives.

Smell the coffee

To the editor:

I am a member of the Smell the Coffee party, and I would like to address a concern we have regarding the University of Iowa's coffee offerings.

We believe that the current selection of coffee options is insufficient and does not meet the needs and preferences of the student body.

Our party advocates for a wider variety of coffee flavors and brands, including fair-trade and organic options, to cater to the diverse tastes of students.

We encourage the administration to consider expanding the coffee menu to better serve the needs of the student community.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — Knew­ling Iowa's wrestling brilli­ness off their lofty perch may not be realistic but it is possible.

Joe Seay, coach of the Big Eight Champion Oklahoma Sooners, told the press that we are not ready to write us off.

"I've seen enough of our guys and individually I have none of them out yet," added Seay. "But they are all coming into the national tournament thinking they are going to go, "

In the Midwest and the rest of the NCAA tourney, the Sooners are trying to develop style-free line-ups to the NCAA Championship," he said.

"We'll find out, the Sooners have their own style," added Seay.

Iowa State, led by Coach Dan Millea, dominated Arkansas over the first half, holding the Razorbacks in check, and then went on to win 41-28.

Defending champion Bob Eastwood and other rising stars also will play the first major of the season at March 14, 1985, at Augusta National. The Masters is the first major of the season at Augusta National. The Masters is the first major of the season. The event will feature the best players in the world, and is considered one of the most prestigious tournaments in golf.

Missouri State guard Bruce Thomason was pleased with her play. "I've hit some good shots and some misses," she said. "I've been very consistent with my short game, which is important."

Missouri will have to handle Dan Patterson of Missouri-St. Louis, who leads the nation in scoring. Patterson, a junior, averages 24.2 points per game and has scored more than 40 points in three of his last four games.

Iowa Coach Duane McLaughlin said his team will be ready for the challenge. "We're excited about playing in the NCAA tournament," he said. "We've been working hard all season to get to this point, and we're ready to take on any challenge that comes our way."

Jeff Gurtcheff is the leading Iowa latter with 260 batting average after 11 games. He has hit four home runs and 15 doubles. He is leading the Missouri in batting average.

"OBVIOUSLY, WE ARE IN FOR A huge battle as the Hawkeyes are one of the top teams in the nation," said Coach Mike Denk, whose team is ranked No. 5 in the nation.

The Hawkeyes have the most talented team in the country, and we know we have a tough challenge ahead of us," said McLaughlin. "But we're confident we can come out on top with a good performance."

Missouri is coming off a 2-0 loss to Iowa last week, but is looking forward to the opportunity to get back on the field.

"We're excited to be playing against Iowa," said Missouri Coach Gary Barnhart. "They're a tough team, but we're confident we can get the job done."

This game will have a big impact on the NCAA tournament seedings. Missouri is currently ranked No. 3 in the nation, while Iowa is ranked No. 4.

"We're looking forward to the challenge," said Barnhart. "We have a lot of respect for Iowa, but we're confident we can come out on top with a good performance."

The game is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. on April 15 at Memorial Stadium in Columbia, Missouri. The winner will advance to the regional semifinals.

Jeff Gurtcheff is the leading Iowa latter with 260 batting average after 11 games. He has hit four home runs and 15 doubles. He is leading the Missouri in batting average.

"OBVIOUSLY, WE ARE IN FOR A huge battle as the Hawkeyes are one of the top teams in the nation," said Coach Mike Denk, whose team is ranked No. 5 in the nation.

The Hawkeyes have the most talented team in the country, and we know we have a tough challenge ahead of us," said McLaughlin. "But we're confident we can come out on top with a good performance."

"Expected" effort gives Bird record

Bird's lawayer's says Cardinals might move

ST. LOUIS (UPI) - The lawyer for the St. Louis Cardinals has told a newspaper here in greater than 90% that the team will move to Phoenix for the 1988 season.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch and KSDK-TV in a report Monday that Cardinals president Bill Bidwill has decided that 1.50 Margaritas, a restaurant and bar in Phoenix that is a favorite of team owner Bill Bidwill as a move to the West Coast for the Cardinals.

"It is a serious move," a source familiar with the negotiations said.

"I will not comment on the matter," said Cardinals general manager Dick Schmatz.

When asked about the report, Bidwill said: "I am not going to comment on the matter." He added that he is "the master of my own fate, just as Bird has been."
Texas hands Yankees another loss

It's only spring training but rookie George Steinbrenner has his pick, now, and New York Yankee investors aren't doing anything to rein it in.

The Minnesota Twins, with the set of Willy Tucker, on deck and Dutchswitcher's two-run double in the fourth, had taken a 2-1 lead into the eighth when it all came apart on them.

Dale Wurster, the first Yankee pitcher, was the victim of a throwing error by Bobby Meacham and two errors by Bobby Meacham and two errors by (Troy) Hill. That's where the two-time AL Big Eight runaway hit's two-run single came, and his hit was one of only three singles in Big Eight history to score the first run of spring training.

The Philadelphia Phillies scored four runs in the eighth when Schmidt's RBI double and Stottlemyre's two-run double turned the game out of reach himself by scoring the fourth, had taken a 1-0 lead.

'Pentalon' offers student dance

By Karen Hackett

FIVE DANCERS by four student choreographers will be featured in "Pentalon," the UI Dance Program's annual concert this Thursday and Saturday in the North Oval Theatre.

The student works were choreographed in class and embody the range of generational differences in today's dance world. Their work is truly expressive of younger minds, and yet it is not without a sense of purpose.

One of the student choreographers, Andrea Brass, has a bottomless well of creative imagination. Her program was a collection of Four Elements, a haunting and thought-provoking tribute to the beginning of all things. Her work was entitled "Rites of Spring." She used the imagery of a dancer or an animal being reborn from a cocoon to symbolize the rebirth of the spirit and of life itself.

Another student, Karin Hanlon, was concerned with the concept of the Bermuda Triangle. In her work, "Be True to Your Self," she spoke about the power of dance and how it can, in fact, alter the course of negative thinking. She used imagery of dancers creating a large wall of light, and then dissolving into a new shape. This work was performed by the student Karn Junkins.

Junkins' work, "A Mixture of Frightfulness" will be one of the five dances in "Pentalon," the UI Dance Program's annual concert. This work was choreographed by UI student Karn Junkins to the music of Ravel. "I want to show that you can develop movement by looking at other art forms," says choreographer Linda Logan.

Logan and Kneller said they hope to present an evening of a different dance program, said.

I'm trying to arrange the end of a cycle. I want to bring something into this piece. Women get depressed, and there is no way to get their work. Men are healing and fighting. So I am trying to combine the suffering of life.

Held together, who came to the UI Dance Program, will be a strong presence in the dance world. It was the only student work, performed by 30 dancers, that was selected to represent the program at the University of Minnesota-Minneapolis Sunday, March 16th.

"This is a real transformation for me," said Junkins, who received her undergraduate degree in dance from University of Kentucky College and moved to New York to further her education. "It's the most amazing thing I've ever done. I see a justification of music forms and dance forms. Yoga and dance and music and thought and memory. I think it's about the traditions of the human mind," she said.

What's in the future for these student choreographers as they go through the tapestry of their graduate studies? "I think it's about the traditions of the human mind," she said.

"I want to show that you can develop movement by looking at other art forms," says choreographer Linda Logan. "You Get What You Push For."
Baroque concert lacks excitement despite excellence of sound quality

By Kate Van Orden

The Academy of Ancient Music presented a programme under Christopher Hogwood in the Scott Auditorium, University of Iowa, on March 25. The concert was well attended and was a success. The programme was divided into two parts: the first was Baroque music, and the second was contemporary music.

The Baroque music included two works by J.S. Bach, the Concerto for Two Violins in D Minor, BWV 1043, and the Oboe Concerto in G Minor, BWV 1055. The performance was given by two members of the orchestra, followed by a recording of the group.

The contemporary music included a work by John Tavener, a contemporary composer. The performance was given by the same orchestra, followed by a recording of the group.

The overall excitement was a bit lacking, but the music was well performed. The audience was attentive, and the overall quality of the performance was good. The encore, a recording of the group, was well received by the audience.

The Academy of Ancient Music is known for its excellent presentations of Baroque music and contemporary music. The concert on March 25 was a success, and the audience was pleased with the performance. The Academy of Ancient Music is a great place to experience music in a beautiful and unique setting.
Films

working to create his TV video called "Portrait of a Woman." It shows the artist observing his nude model, and the viewer can see the excitement of Jeanne's character. It is a baroque, extravagant, and satirical portrait of a woman, a brooding and alienated intellectual, a man who is both self-indulgent and self-tortured. Paul is a fascinating character of some complexity, with a vivid and memorable image. The film is a masterpiece of Italian cinema, and a profoundly moving and unforgettable experience.

"Nashville" film bizarre, diverse

"Nashville" is a backstage musical, an untidy and avant-garde experience. It is an honest, raw, and unapologetic portrayal of the entertainment industry, and it is a remarkable achievement. The film is a masterful blend of music, drama, and realism, and it is a testament to the power of film to convey the truth.

Recital will feature
Bach organ music

Delores Bruch, a faculty member of the UI music school, will present an all-Bach organ recital at 1 p.m. Sunday in St. Luke's Church. Organist and the organist of the University of Michigan, Bruch has received several grants for her study of historic organ music. Her recital will include the Magnificat, Fantasia in D major, Toccata, and Prelude and Fugue in C major. The recital is free and open to the public.

Student work debuts in concert

New works by UI composition students will be presented at the Spring
Recital. Included in the concert will be March Johnson's "Abstractions" for viola and piano, Jonathan Mossler's "Four Songs" for mezzo-soprano and bass, and "Veneziano" for solo and piano. Philip Hudson's Trio for soprano saxophone, bassoon and violin, and Wayne's "Fire" for alto saxophone, and a work by UI student in cello and oboe. The concert is open to the public for free.

Malice: Your Honor, the right to a free and unobstructed press is the most sacred of all constitutional guarantees. As a representative of ZBS News, the nightly news program secretely gathering organization in the free world, we ask the star of this hour, 30 Seconds, exceptionally the most trusted and respected video news service, I must say that I am thoroughly appalled that you could even suggest that we should abuse our traditionally cherished rights. To even suggest such a thing is to uproot all of the brave young men and women who sacrificed their lives in defense of those freedoms and our cherished heritage of liberty. I am not aware of the very word our guiding principles have done on paper by this point for freedom and dignity. By the way, have you met your Edward Try. I always try to work with the people who are in charge of the freedom at the press.

Judge: THAT'S all very well and good, Mr. Malice, but did you tell the jury of the people who are in charge of the freedom at the press.

Malice: Well, maybe. Judge: Sometimes, I thought you might answer that very literal Rdntntneirntall, the accusations are false. Set me the record straight. Did you tell the jury of the people who are in charge of the freedom at the press.

Malice: I have to tell you, I love that you do what you do, and I think we could have a deposition of this.”

Wastemoretime, ZBS on trial in "People's Court"
