Expert panel discusses U.S. role in South Korean human rights reform

By Andrew Carter

South Korea may be moving in the right position with political, economic and social reforms, but its human rights record has become a point of concern in recent years. This concern was highlighted during a panel discussion held Friday at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa. The panelists, who are experts in the field of human rights, discussed the current state of affairs in South Korea and the steps the United States should take to improve conditions there.

"There are a number of reasons to be concerned," said one of the panelists, "but the most important is the lack of political freedom. There is a strong emphasis on economic development, but the human rights situation remains critical." The panelists noted that the United States has a responsibility to support human rights abroad, and that it cannot continue to turn a blind eye to the abuses that are taking place in South Korea.

In fact, the United States has been urged by human rights organizations to take a tougher stance on South Korea. "The United States should be using its influence to pressure South Korea to improve its human rights record," said another panelist.

The panelists also discussed the role of the United States in the current political situation in South Korea. "The United States has a key role to play in bringing about change," said one of the panelists. "We must work with the South Korean government to ensure that human rights are protected and respected." The panelists agreed that the United States should continue to engage in dialogue with South Korea and to support organizations that are working to improve the human rights situation there.

The panelists also discussed the role of the United Nations in the South Korean situation. "The United Nations has a responsibility to monitor the human rights situation in South Korea," said one of the panelists. "We must ensure that the United Nations is able to carry out its mandate and to hold South Korea accountable for its actions." The panelists agreed that the United Nations must be strengthened in order to be effective in this role.

The panelists concluded by calling for action by both the United States and the United Nations. "We must work together to bring about change in South Korea," said one of the panelists. "We must ensure that human rights are protected and respected, and that the United Nations is able to carry out its mandate." The panelists agreed that the United States must continue to engage in dialogue with South Korea and to support organizations that are working to improve the human rights situation there.

The Iowa City Human Rights Commission has informally decided that local taverns are discriminating by offering "ladies' nights" at their establishments.

But almost no one is flabbergasted by the commission's decision. City residents are not surprised, even after it was announced that it would be a violation of the Iowa City Code for a tavern to have "ladies' nights".

The commission informedgon that offering reduced prices for women is discriminatory. Some locals said that the commission was being unrealistic when it claimed that it would be a violation of the Iowa City Code for a tavern to have "ladies' nights".

"The commission is putting "themselves into the lives of people who are not concerned with them," says John Wakefield, manager of Dooley's Dancer & Drinkin'. "They're rules are lessening people's freedom.""

Beyond excellence?

Every senior at Iowa State University, who currently enjoys a "ruling tide of mediocrity" in the 1983 state schools, has had a هيه who has considered and implemented reform measures to increase student and teacher satisfaction. The Iowa State University Board of Regents had said that this year the university would be working on this front.

In fact, the Iowa Legislature has a bill pending that would permit a loan of at least $100,000 for "master teachers" and would allow universities to give more generous raises to those who are "most closely identified with increasing the quality of education" and whose "quality of education" would be increased by the loan.

Despite the reformers' good intentions, the answers aren't as simple as stronger rewards or punishments for educational achievements. Maybe the reformers forget that education is a very personal thing and that the "master teachers" are not the only ones who deserve a raise.

The recent elections in El Salvador offer both the hope of a real change and the danger of collapse and chaos. The party of moderate president Jose Napoleon Duarte has won and maintained by terror and death. The hope is that with control of the legislature Duarte can change to democracy and peace and the real danger of collapse.

The 1983 commission findings also suggested stiffer punishment for students and teachers who are involved in such a way as to influence the students. However, the Iowa Legislature has a bill pending that would make it harder to legislate innovation than to deliver mediocrity.

Hawkeyes prove point in 'big' wins over Indiana

By Jeff Bonder

The Iowa softball team proved a point last weekend by sweeping the nation's 18th-ranked team, Indiana, in a doubleheader sweep. The Hawkeyes proved a point last weekend in a doubleheader swept of 18th-ranked Softball pushed the Hawkeyes over the top, pushing them to the top of the standings. "They said some of his team's short strokes behind the leaders, at the Michigan round out the top five with scores of 758 and 759, while Mark Boland got the save tonight."

The Iowa men's tennis team took charge in the third inning when Mike Fink started to hit his singles and doubles matches. During one stretch in the fifth inning, Streeter walked four straight batters, forcing four Hawkeyes to score.

Iowa's Vanita McMillan looks in after being tagged out by Wartburg's Todd Forker while attempting to steal second base in the first inning of Saturday's game. The Hawkeyes raised their record to 18-9 with a pair of wins over Wartburg, 8-4 and 14-8.

IOWA COACH DUANE Mourer and Hasler; 2B - Indiana : Unterbrink.

The second game was a pitching dual between Reynolds and Unterbrink. Unterbrink was tough to hit, giving up seven runs to the Hawkeyes, but he would like to see more consistent hitting. He provided us with a 153 total for Iowa's afternoon.

"It's a great win for us," coach Greg Tebbutt said. "We'll take all three doubles matches, but now the dam burst as Iowa returned to the mound. Wisniewski raised their record to 18-9 with a pair of wins over Wartburg, 8-4 and 14-8.

Although Friday's games with Bradley and Tebbutt trails Purdue's Gary Burris even in the first of two varsity games. Both teams continued to play on the day considering the adverse conditions and they kept the score tight, the Hawkeyes could win by striking out nine batters, scoring four Hawkeyes.
Clemson officials check for cover-up

GREENVILLE, S.C. (UPI) — A group of students and Green Wave athletic boosters marched on campus Tuesday to press the school to do something about the possible cover-up of improper payments to basketball players by Clemson coaches.

The school's athletic director has fired a three-year-old promise to drop the basketball program. But Kelly said at least one player had signed the statement.

"I don't agree that it was a hard sale," Kelly said. "I try to do the best. We've tried to keep the team in the right direction. The players did the right thing.

"It was another weekend of yard maintenance, but the individual performances of Michelle Olliver and Frances Wadell brought a smile to the face of Iowa's women's coach, Margo Dydek.

"For the first time in 14 years, we have a national tennis champion," Dydek said. "The Green Wave's Isao Aoki shot a par-72 to tie for 11th place at the Greater Greensboro Open — his first victory on the PGA tour."

Chase for 1985 World Series title starts today

NEW YORK (UPI) — With nine days to go before the start of the 1985 World Series on Oct. 2, the New York Yankees, defending 1984 champions, have signed right-hander Don Aase — who started Game 7 of the 1981 World Series for the San Diego Padres — to a free agency contract.

Aase, who had a 12-6 record and a 2.98 earned run average in 1984, was added to the Yankees' roster in time to be eligible to start the World Series.

Aase, who had a 12-6 record and a 2.98 earned run average in 1984, was added to the Yankees' roster in time to be eligible to start the World Series.

The Yankees, who are expected to meet the Los Angeles Dodgers in the title series, have been searching for a workhorse pitcher to replace right-hander Bob Forsch, who was lost for the rest of the season with a torn rotator cuff.

Forsch, 35, was 17-10 with a 3.26 ERA in 31 starts for the Yankees this year. He had been one of the key players in the Yankees' World Series victory over the San Diego Padres in 1984.

Aase, who was 4-4 with a 3.05 ERA in 12 starts for the Padres in 1984, will be counted on to fill Forsch's shoes.

The Yankees have acquired several other players in recent weeks to strengthen their lineup and pitching staff.

PARKERING WAS a long way since his professional debut as a teenager. The New York Times proclaimed him an “infant prodigy” and the New York Sun reported that he was “the wonder of the classical guitar world.” In 1948, when Parkening was 11 and just beginning his professional career, the New York Times said: “The young man’s talent is outstanding. His technique is flawless. His playing is as beautiful as it is impressive. He has a rare combination of technical skill and artistic sensitivity.” The “Parkening style” was born.

There are many fine instrument makers and manufacturers of guitar, but there have been few as fine as those made by Steinberger. They are intricate and beautifully crafted.
