Public hearing on divestment set for Wednesday

Pentacrest rally keeps the issue in public forum

By Karen Burns
Staff Writer

As some leaders of the Iowa Coalition Against Apartheid proclaimed a "victory" in the scheduling of a public hearing to discuss divestment of UI holdings from firms doing business in South Africa, more than 400 people gathered to keep the issue in the public's mind with a rally on the Pentacrest Monday.

A speaker at the rally, UI student Amy Smith, said "we are unified behind the process set up" for student protesters and UI administrators to negotiate about divestment, but added the protesters will re-occupy Jessup Hall if the process breaks down.

"It is important to remember we have not achieved our goal" of divestment, Smith said. She added this is "not the time to let up pressure," but to increase pressure on the administration to divest.

"The UI knows it's being watched like hawks — should they misstep, they know we'll be back," Smith said.

UI President James O. Freedman, in a statement released Monday, urged the UI community and public to attend the Wednesday hearing from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Union Main Lounge.

THE MEETING WILL be conducted by a six-member committee appointed by Freedman to assess the economic impact of the "continuing instability in South Africa on the university's stockholdings." Freedman stated: "The social and political turmoil in South Africa, individual corporate policies and profits from South African corporations all have a bearing on the university's investment decisions with respect to these stockholdings. CAC legislation lends support to recent protests

Staff Writer

The majority of the UI Collegiate Associations Council members Monday bucked sentiments expressed last week by their president and passed legislation in support of the recent demonstrations calling for divestment of UI stockholdings from corporations doing business in South Africa.

CAC President Larry Lassiter said publicly last week that he does not agree with recent methods used to force divestment but that he applauds the efforts. He said Monday, "Last week I had no authority to endorse any actions," on behalf of the CAC because "my authority goes only as far as what the council allows me to do."

"The council made their decision tonight, which was what I was waiting for," Lassiter said after the CAC passed a resolution supporting the protest efforts and allocating $347 to the Iowa Coalition Against Apartheid for a teach-in on civil disobedience.

LASSITER ADDED the CAC was "never asked to negotiate, but we are willing to use the context we have and the respect we've developed to push for divestment." The CAC also passed a resolution that "restates it supports the divestiture of UI funds in corporations doing business in South Africa."

"I always believe in negotiation as a preference to confrontation. If the confrontation has made the negotiations more successful, I won't complain. I'll use it and keep right on working," Lassiter concluded.

Some of the CAC members echoed Lassiter's concern when they debated a resolution urging students "to responsibly consider acts of civil disobedience" as a sign of protest.

Kulow agrees to lesser murder plea

By Tamara Rood
Staff Writer

Ronald Lee Kulow pleaded guilty Monday to second-degree murder in a plea-bargain agreement less than a week before his trial was scheduled to begin in Johnson County District Court.

Kulow, 33, was charged with first-degree murder following the death of his wife, Deborah, in the couple's apartment Aug. 18.

Kulow was charged after he walked into the Iowa City Police Department on Aug. 18, bleeding from a cut on his hand, and told officers "they had better get someone to his residence because he just cut his wife's throat," court records state.

After being read his Miranda rights, Kulow told police he grabbed his wife by the hair, beat her head against a table and then took a kitchen knife and cut her throat, court records state.

POLICE FOUND Deborah A. Kulow, 27, dead in the couple's apartment at 1024 E. Washington St.

"I knew I was going to hurt her" with the knife, Kulow testified Monday during questioning by District Judge Harold Swailes. When asked by Swailes if he admitted killing Deborah A. Kulow, Kulow said yes.

Swailes reduced Kulow's bond to $50,000 from $250,000, and set the sentencing on the charge for June 17 at 2:30 p.m.

Douglas S. Russell, one of Kulow's

two court-appointed attorneys, declined to comment on the plea-bargain agreement because litigation is still pending until Kulow is sentenced.

County Attorney J. Patrick White said Monday that the attorneys agreed on the plea bargain last Friday. The court took depositions Thursday from witnesses who tested Kulow and evaluated his condition, and White determined that second-degree murder was the most appropriate charge after

ADF offers fraternal alternative

By Greg Miller
Staff Writer

When John Guidotti and 10 friends looked into the greek system at Western Illinois University, they thought it was unappealing so they founded their own Roman fraternity and called it ADF.

"ADF is an alternative fraternity for those who either don't like the greek system or who want to party just for fun," said UI ADF President Paul Guidotti.

Guidotti, known to his friends as "Guido," started an ADF chapter at the UI. He modeled after his brother's idea at Western Illinois. The ADF movement has also spread to the University of Texas in Austin and another group is trying to start a chapter at Illinois State University.

"ADF is well known at Western (Illinois). My brother and about 10 of his friends moved into the same house and called themselves ADF," Guido said. "The only criteria to join ADF is just the desire to belong."

ADF VICE PRESIDENT Phil Menzel added that "he has had a lot of fun being with the group" and "has made a lot of friends through it."

Six men live in the UI ADF house, located at 719 N. Johnson St. Unlike the greek fraternity system, membership in ADF is open to women. Also, ADF allows students affiliated with recognized greek chapters to join.

Socially, ADF members recently held their Fourth Annual ADF Pete Goodman Celebrity Golf Classic at Quail Creek Golf Course.

"Pete Goodman was our R.A. my freshman year in Hillcrest," Guido said. "Last year we had 16 people in the tournament. This year more than 25 people entered."

Guido said ADF is thinking about starting an alumni association. "We have no graduates yet, so our alumni program is not formed, but some people are graduating so we'll have to get going on it," he said.

THE FRATERNITY HAS a mascot named Bill the Donkey. Unfortunately, Bill was stolen during a party last fall while he was sitting on the lawn. Bill is 2-feet tall, made of stone, wearing a straw hat, an ADF blanket and dark sunglasses.

"A reward of $50 in cash will be given to anyone for the safe return of Bill, no questions asked," Guido said.

The meaning of the letters "ADF" can only be revealed to someone who goes to one of the fraternity's parties and asks to join.

"My brother decided to formalize ADF a little and so we had everyone order T-shirts with the ADF letters on it, put ads in the paper and created some interesting things to go along with it," Guido said.

Included is a motto, describing ADF

Legionnaires' disease kills 30

STAFFORD, England — Medical authorities said an air-conditioning system at a hospital in central England was the source of a two-week outbreak of Legionnaires' disease that claimed its 30th victim Monday. Scientists said they believed infectious bacteria were harbored in the water in cooling towers on the roof of the Stafford district general hospital in central England.

Tibetan monastery reopened

PEKING — A 1,000-year-old Tibetan monastery destroyed during the Chinese Cultural Revolution has been partially restored and opened to visitors, the official Xinhua News Agency said today. Xinhua said part of Rongbo Monastery, located 17,060 feet up Mount Everest's northern slope, was repaired with $35,000 in funds allocated by the Tibet Autonomous Region government.

Belgium shaken by 15th bomb

BRUSSELS, Belgium — A bomb exploded Monday at state police offices, severely damaging the building in the first attack against a law enforcement target in the 15th bombing of an eight-month terrorist campaign. A group known as the Combatant Communist Cells claimed responsibility for the attack in a telephone call to the Le Soir daily newspaper of Brussels.

Marine helicopter crashes

TOKYO — A U.S. Marine CH-53D helicopter with 17 people aboard crashed in the Pacific off southern Japan Monday, disappearing with only an oil slick left on the ocean surface, American officials said. Search crews pinpointed the site about 15 miles south-southwest of the island of Yakushima. The cause of the accident was not immediately known.

Canada joins Star Wars plan

OTTAWA — The Canadian government has consented to participate in President Ronald Reagan's Star Wars research project, a senior government scientist said in a letter released Monday. The scientist, who was not named, said in the letter that Canada was now committed to the project, which is officially known as the Strategic Defense Initiative. The National Research Council, the letter said, was to act as a negotiator between the Canadian and U.S. governments.

N.Y. honors Vietnam vets

NEW YORK — Ten years after the last U.S. soldier came home from Vietnam, veterans were honored with a two-day celebration beginning Monday with the lighting of New York's Vietnam veterans memorial and a fireworks display. In addition to the memorial dedication and fireworks, the belated bash will include a tickertape parade, a reunion for veterans aboard the USS Intrepid and a sail aboard two yachts on the Hudson and East Rivers.

Interior chief wants drilling

HOUSTON — Interior Secretary Donald Hodel lashed out at Congress Monday for continuing a moratorium on offshore oil leases, warning of the "grave consequences" of interfering with energy development. Hodel told 800 people at an international Offshore Technology Conference the moratorium — originally a one-year ban that has now stretched into its fourth year — has "rendered unavailable an estimated 1 billion barrels of oil."

Man charged with assault, weapon

By Tamara Rood
Staff Writer

Harvey Harlan Harr, 35, of Lone Tree, made an initial appearance Monday in Johnson County District Court on charges of assault with intent to inflict serious injury and carrying a weapon.

On May 4 in rural Johnson County, Harr allegedly held a woman by her hair and made a "slashing motion" across her neck using a knife with a blade more than three inches long. Harr was stopped by another person and the woman escaped, court records state.

Judicial Magistrate Sally Peck set Harr's bond at 10 percent of $1,000, and he was released after posting $100. A preliminary hearing on the charges has been set for May 9.

An Iowa City man was sentenced May 3 to a prison term not to exceed 10 years after he was found guilty of second-degree robbery.

Paul Emery Hawkins, 36, of 2502 Bartelt Road Apt. 1-B, was charged after he entered QuikTrip, 955 Mormon Trek Road, on Dec. 13 and told the cashier to give him the money from the register. He then left the store with an unidentified amount of cash, court records state.

Hawkins was ordered to pay $62 in court costs as part of the sentence.

Willowwind to relocate, add programs in August

Willowwind school announced that it will be moving this August in order to expand programs and add more students.

The school will be moving from its present location at 416 E. Fairchild St. to a larger structure at 226 S. Johnson St.

One of the improvements that will result from the move will be to make the school accessible to the handicapped, said Principal Ruth Manna.

The new structure is an older home in the College Green district. Willowwind school plans to preserve the home in its original style and also improve such aspects of the house as the wiring and plumbing.

Willowwind is an independent, private school that has educated children in Iowa City since 1972.

Film to depict plight of 1930s working women

The Iowa Women in the Workplace Film Series will show its first presentation, "Union Maids," Tuesday, May 7, at 1 p.m. in the Iowa City/Johnson County Senior Center. The film will also be shown at 8:30 that evening in the Iowa City Public Library.

"Union Maids" pictures the 1930s and the American labor movement by focusing on three women of that time.

The film is free and open to the public. The film series is co-sponsored by the Senior Center and the Women's Resource and Action Center, with cooperation from the public library, Job Service of Iowa and the UI Labor Center. The program is funded by a grant from the Iowa Humanities Board and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

UI English professor awarded fellowship

Gerald L. Bruns, an assistant professor of English, has been awarded a Guggenheim Memorial Foundation fellowship for 1985.

Bruns is one of 270 scholars, scientists and artists chosen from 3,548 applicants nationwide to receive the award. The $21,000 fellowship is the second Guggenheim for Bruns, who also received a fellowship in 1974.

Bruns' major field of interest is history and theory of interpretation, including interpretation of Biblical, legal and literary texts. Under the fellowship, he plans to study the practice of interpretation in early Judaism, Christianity and Islam.

He will spend next year as a senior fellow at the Institute for Advanced Study at Hebrew University in Jerusalem. Bruns became a faculty member in the UI College of Liberal Arts in 1970.

Freedman appoints eight-member ombudsperson search committee

By Charlene Lee
Staff Writer

Following recommendations from the UI Faculty Senate, Student Senate and Staff Council, UI President James O. Freedman has appointed an eight-member search committee to evaluate applicants for the position of UI ombudsperson.

The ombudsperson will attempt to solve problems and mediate disputes and conflicts involving faculty, staff, students and administration.

The search committee will look for a current UI faculty or staff member to fill the half-time position. UI Vice President for Academic Affairs Richard Remington — who also represents the administration on the search committee — said funding for the position will be appropriated from the central university budget.

In addition to Remington, three faculty members, two staff members and two student representatives are also serving on the search committee. The committee hopes to recommend three applicants to Freedman, who will make the final decision.

Some UI Faculty Council members, however, are expressing discomfort at the idea of an administrator serving on the search committee. The faculty council narrowly passed a proposal calling for administrative representation on the committee in a 6-5 vote during a senate meeting months ago.

UI CHEMISTRY Professor David Cater, a member of the faculty council, said the appointment of an administrator to the search committee is a reflection of poor policy. "I, myself, think this was a poor choice... It was made clear that the ombudsperson should be independent of the administration," Cater said.

Another faculty council member, UI Orthodontics Professor Samir Bishara, said Remington's appointment to the search committee is unnecessary because Freedman will make the final decision from the three recommendations made by the committee. "In essence, the administration is being represented twice," Bishara said.

But members of the search committee said they are not bothered by Remington's presence on the committee.

"Perhaps they think that the administrative representative will carry more weight in the committee deliberations," said Donal Carlston, search committee member. Carlston pointed out that the administration — with only one representative — is outnumbered by the three faculty members, two staff members and two student representatives who are also in the search committee.

SEARCH COMMITTEE chairman

Richard Sjolund said he believes the committee is well-balanced. "My tendency here is to welcome the input of the faculty, the staff, the students and the administration."

Staff Council President Pat Piper agreed, adding those who do not like the idea of an administrator serving on the search committee should have complained "before the door was shut."

The two student representatives on the committee — Collegiate Associations Council President Larry Lassiter and Student Senate President Steve Grubbs — echoed Piper's belief. Lassiter said he is sure the committee will take "great pains" to ensure the ombudsperson remains autonomous of the administration's influence.

Grubbs noted that the structure of the rules "practically guaranteed" that the appointed ombudsperson will be a UI faculty member. "If anything, I think the student side should be concerned about that," he said.

Remington said it is important for the three who will be recommended by the search committee to have the confidence of all facets of the university — including the administration. He also said that it has become common practice to appoint administrators to search committees. "Everybody thinks it's appropriate."

Students on academic probation may benefit from mid-semester review

By Jerry Duncan
Staff Writer

UI liberal arts students with grade point averages "in the basement" are expected to benefit from a policy change calling for two reviews each year of students on academic probation.

The policy, which went into effect last semester, will be a "better check" on students in the UI College of Liberal Arts who, for various reasons, have failed to achieve the required GPAs specified by their enrollment status, said Miriam Gelfand, acting assistant dean of the college.

Students may have their registrations cancelled for one year if they fail to achieve a GPA of 1.6 for freshmen, 1.75 for sophomores, 1.9 for juniors and 2.0 for seniors, Gelfand said.

Gelfand said holding two probation reviews annually rather than one will be "fairer to people with problems" relating to their low GPAs. She added medical problems, trouble adjusting to the university or "some drastic thing" can force students to leave before the end of the semester.

THE CURRENT POLICY involves mailing a notice to students placed on probation that encourages them to seek counseling in the college's advisory office, Gelfand said.

"The probation review process during the semester is very important... The purpose is not to drop the student — the purpose is to help the student graduate," she added.

UI Assistant Director of Curricular Affairs Luke Flaherty said the additional probation review is a "compassionate" policy that will enable liberal arts students to discontinue courses of study that could lead to an "academic mess."

According to the College of Liberal Arts by-laws, if a student returns to the college after a one-year cancellation and continues to achieve a GPA lower than required, he or she can be refused readmittance for an additional five years.

"We're not totally sold on that idea," Flaherty added.

A Liberal Arts Advisory Office report states that last semester 880 students were placed on academic probation, 205 were returned to good standing, 450 continued on probation and 153 were "dropped" by the UI.

Republicans launch attack on Democrats for budget, taxes

DES MOINES (UPI) — Republican leaders Monday launched a political assault blaming Democrats for raising taxes and passing a $2.2 billion state budget that may face across-the-board cuts by September.

The criticism of the majority party came just two days after the 1985 legislature adjourned, despite the fact 1986 is a non-election year and all lawmakers will return for the second half of their term.

Upon adjournment Saturday, Democrats dubbed the January to May gathering a "landmark session" for increasing economic development spending as well as boosting aid for such social programs as Aid to Families of Dependent Children.

However, during a statehouse news conference Monday, Republicans criticized lawmakers for ignoring farmers, failing to provide adequate hikes in education spending and pushing the cost of current programs on to future legislatures.

Senate Minority Leader Calvin Hultman, R-Red Oak, specifically attacked legislation passed by labor union advocates to widen the scope of issues placed on the negotiating table and order contractors to pay employees prevailing wages.

HE SAID THE PREVAILING wage bill was a "step backwards" at a time surrounding states are repealing such measures to help attract business.

Meanwhile, House Minority Leader Del Stromer, R-Garner, defended the GOP's image with farmers by saying President Reagan's unpopular farm policy will be overshadowed by pro-farmer work by Gov. Terry Braustad and Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa.

Both lawmakers concentrated on tax hikes and budget woes during the 30-minute media session. Asked what the 1985 legislature did for the average Iowan, Hultman said, "Raise his fees and taxes."

Stromer read off a list of increased taxes and fees, including cigarettes, gas, Blue Cross-Blue Shield premiums, court fees, divorce papers and birth certificates.

DESPITE THE TAX increases, Hultman said the state may face some "real fiscal problems" in the year ahead.

"The governor is going to have to do a tough juggling act to balance the budget," he said. "There is a real possibility of across-the-board cuts in September if revenues do not hold up."

At least one senior Democrat Monday called the minority party's comments on taxes and the budget "standard, political rhetoric."

"The Republicans obviously are looking for an issue because the Democrats did a very good job of passing most of the governor's priorities," Rep. Elaine Baxter, D-Burlington, said.

"We were out front doing things that needed to be done while the Republicans weren't supporting their governor on key votes."

She said the fate of the state budget will depend upon how soon Iowa's economy is revived.

"None of us expect a speedy turnaround, but without the steps taken this session, we would have continued a downward slide. These steps have given us the potential for an upward turn," Baxter said.

HOUSE APPROPRIATIONS Committee Chairman Tom Jochum, D-Dubuque, said lawmakers "did as much as we could with the resources we had available."

Troops seal off Soweto following riots, nationwide racial unrest

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Police fired rubber bullets and tear gas Monday into crowds of rioters in South Africa's largest black city as the last troops withdrew from a black township sealed off in a search for dissidents.

The violence in Soweto, the nation's largest black city with 1.5 million residents, came after a weekend of racial unrest nationwide that left at least five people dead and 57 others injured, a police spokesman in Pretoria said.

About 200 rioting blacks in Soweto stoned and tried to loot delivery trucks, the spokesman said. Police moved in and broke up the crowd with volleys of tear gas and rubber bullets. No injuries were reported.

In another disturbance in Soweto, about 15 miles south of Johannesburg, some 500 people stoned and looted a milk delivery truck, the spokesman said.

He said outbreaks of unrest were also reported in other black townships around Johannesburg.

Soweto has been largely unaffected by racial unrest that broke out near Pretoria in February and spread to the industrial eastern region of Cape Province, Natal Province and townships in mining areas of the central Orange Free State Province. At least 150 people have died in the violence this year.

Soweto was at the center of year-long rioting in 1976 that claimed about 600 lives.

TWO OF THE FIVE people killed over the weekend died just hours before units of regular police, railway police and army troops sealed off the black township of Kwanobuhle, about 600 miles south of Johannesburg, at dawn Sunday.

Up to 1,000 police and army troops surrounded the town and then moved in, conducting house-to-house searches and making arrests, residents said.

The police spokesman said Monday that 26 people were arrested during the nine-hour sweep on a variety of charges stemming from unrest in the town.

The bulk of the force was pulled out of Kwanobuhle Sunday afternoon and the police spokesman said the last army units left Monday morning.

Officials claimed that the operation was launched at the request of Kwanobuhle residents following a wave of arsons and the murders of black people who cooperated with the white minority government.

Meanwhile, at the United Nations, South Africa rejected as "ill-founded" a statement from the U.N. Security Council condemning its plan to grant limited independence to Namibia.

South Africa announced last month it would grant limited self-rule to Namibia, a mineral-rich territory on its western border which it administers under the name South West Africa in defiance of United Nations resolutions.

UNDER THE PLAN, first proposed by a group of Namibian parties that are allied with the South African government, the Pretoria government would retain control of defense, foreign relations and negotiations on independence.

The arrangement excludes the South West Africa People's Organization, which has been fighting a guerrilla war against South Africa for 18 years and has been endorsed by the United Nations as the legitimate representative of the territory.

SWAPO has already rejected the South African plan, which runs counter to a U.N. blueprint for bringing the territory to independence.

When South Africa initiated elections in 1978 against U.N. resolutions, all political parties other than those allied with the South African government boycotted the elections.

Security Council President Birabongse Kasemri of Thailand said that the council's members "declare the establishment of the so-called interim government in Namibia to be null and void."

South African Foreign Minister Roelof Botha denied the limited home-rule plan was in conflict with Security Council Resolution 435, which was passed in 1978 and provides guidelines for U.N.-supervised elections and independence in Namibia.

South Africa has linked acceptance of Resolution 435 to the withdrawal from Angola, Namibia's northern neighbor, of Cuban forces whom it considers to be providing support for SWAPO guerrillas.

This linkage is backed by the Reagan administration, although the United States joined several other Western European and African nations in authoring Resolution 435.

Reagan talks with Spanish leaders

MADRID (UPI) — President Ronald Reagan ended an emotional and controversial visit to West Germany Monday and immediately held talks with Spanish leaders on the future of U.S. military bases in Spain and his Central American policy.

While Reagan met with Spanish Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez for 30 minutes, the controversial issue of reducing the number of U.S. troops in Spain was raised in separate talks between Secretary of State George Shultz and Foreign Minister Fernando Moran.

Moran has publicly called for U.S.-Spanish negotiations aimed at reducing the number of the 12,600 U.S. troops stationed at four American bases in Spain.

U.S. officials gave no details on Reagan's talks with Gonzalez, but a Spanish government spokesman said they dealt with Spain's pledge to hold a referendum next year on remaining in NATO and its desire to reduce the U.S. military presence in Spain.

King Juan Carlos I and Queen Sofia welcomed Reagan on his arrival aboard Air Force One at Madrid's Barajas airport and later hosted a private dinner for the Reagans at the royal Zarzuela Palace.

Reagan's arrival was preceded by major demonstrations by tens of thousands of Spaniards in 13 cities Sunday to protest the presence of U.S. troops in Spain and the country's continued membership in NATO.

AFTER LEAVING SPAIN, Reagan is to give a speech to the European Parliament in Strasbourg on Wednesday, the 40th anniversary of V-E Day. He is expected to unveil a series of ideas aimed at easing tensions with the Soviet Union.

The main items on Reagan's agenda in talks with Spanish leaders are the four American military bases; Spanish entry into the European Common Market in January; the country's continued membership in NATO; and U.S. policy in Latin America, particularly Nicaragua.

Before leaving West Germany Monday, Reagan addressed a massive German youth rally at Hambuch Castle.

"Democracy will only be complete when all Germans and all Europeans are united," he said in a 30-minute address interrupted more than 30 times by applause from the specially selected crowd of 10,000.

"Unlike your cousins on the other side of the wall, your future is in your hands — you are free to follow your dreams to the stars," Reagan said.

Despite the busy schedule, Reagan appeared rested and relaxed and said his European visit, now in its fifth day, was "going just fine."

Gemayel holds talks amid violent clashes

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Maronite Christian and Shiite Moslem militiamen battled Monday with rockets, mortars and machine guns in Beirut, killing at least six people and forcing hundreds of civilians to flee their homes.

President Amin Gemayel held emergency talks with army officers on ways to end nine straight days of violence in the Lebanese capital, but the militiamen ignored them and kept on fighting throughout the city.

Security sources said two people were killed and 13 wounded in mainly Moslem west Beirut. Four civilians were killed and six wounded in Christian east Beirut in shelling that began in mid-afternoon, nine hours after a cease-fire took effect following heavy fighting overnight.

The latest violence has been heaviest along the Green Line, the 3-mile-long strip of land dividing east and west Beirut.

As fighting raged along the Green Line, gunmen raided a west Beirut theater showing a pornographic movie and forced the all-male audience out to the city's front lines to fill sandbags.

The gunmen, members of a fundamentalist Moslem militia, assailed the moviegoers for "wasting time watching depraved movies," one witness said.

LEBANESE ARMY units in east Beirut got involved for the first time since the fighting began April 28, with a spokesman saying the government troops were forced to "answer back and repel attacks" by Moslem gunmen on the Green Line. Twelve soldiers were reported wounded.

The Lebanese Red Cross appealed for "all types of blood." Hospital sources said the fighting was so intense that some ambulances were blocked from reaching areas where casualties were reported.

Taking advantage of a brief lull in the shooting and shelling, hundreds of Green Line residents packed up and fled for safer areas of the capital or into the mountains overlooking the battle-scarred city.

The latest round of sectarian fighting in Beirut broke out April 28 after a Moslem sweep through a belt of Christian coastal villages in southern Lebanon. About 30 people have been reported killed and 230 wounded in the divided capital since then.

The violence has underlined the government's inability to control the warring militias and has threatened to return Lebanon to the days of 1975 and 1976, when full-scale civil war swept the nation.

Israeli labor boss rejects U.S. plan as unacceptable

ACRE, Israel (UPI) — The leader of Israel's major labor union said today Israel "cannot accept" U.S. proposals for austerity measures because they would create "mass unemployment."

The proposals, which included recommendations for stringent budget cuts and devaluation of currency, were made earlier this year by the U.S. administration while considering the latest Israeli request for increased American aid.

The measures are expected to come up when Secretary of State George Shultz arrives in Israel Friday for a three-day visit to be followed by stops in Amman, Jordan and Cairo, Egypt.

Israel receives $2.6 billion a year in U.S. aid and has requested an additional $1.2 billion for 1986 for a total of $3.8 billion.

In Israel, Shultz will attend ceremonies marking the 40th anniversary of the end of World War II, but is also expected to discuss economic and diplomatic issues in talks with Prime Minister Shimon Peres and other top officials.

"WE ARE VERY grateful to Mr. Shultz and the American administration, but we cannot accept their proposal concerning unemployment," said Yisrael Kessar, chairman of the Histadrut labor federation and a member of the Israeli parliament, the Knesset.

The Histadrut is an umbrella organization of all major labor unions in Israel.

"Our country cannot live with mass unemployment, especially in the development towns, where 50 percent of the young people are unemployed," Kessar told a labor meeting.

Peres said last week he would not accept American proposals to devalue the Israeli shekel and to take other austerity moves that could lead to large-scale unemployment.

Nicaraguans seek methods to fight U.S. embargo

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — A Nicaraguan leader called Monday for a "national dialogue" on ways to fight the U.S. economic boycott and Nicaragua's ambassador to the United Nations asked for an urgent Security Council meeting on the Reagan administration's embargo.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, Ambassador Javier Chamorro asked for the meeting during a talk with council president Birabongse Kasemri of Thailand. Diplomatic sources said the meeting most likely would take place on Wednesday.

"We have asked for an urgent meeting of the council to take into account the economic aggression that Central America is now facing," Chamorro said.

The embargo cuts off some $58 million in imports to the United States and ends more than $110 million in annual exports of U.S. goods to Nicaragua. It also ends direct flights between the two countries.

President Daniel Ortega traveled to Moscow last week and received a pledge of economic assistance from Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. Ortega was in Prague Monday for talks with leaders.

In an interview with the official Barricada newspaper, Commander Bayardo Arce, political coordinator of the ruling Sandinista Front Party, said a "national dialogue will begin in the next few days" between leaders of state-run businesses and the private sector.

response from leaders of the Private Enterprise Council, the leading businessmen's group and long a critic of the Nicaraguan government's economic policies.

Arce called on all households and factories to prepare for more sacrifices and to support government policies, because "if the United States fulfills its threat of direct military aggression, their bullets and bombs will not distinguish between those who support the revolution and those who do not."

On the battlefield, U.S.-backed rebels fighting to overthrow the government killed two militiamen and a child and wounded four others in a late night ambush of a northern town, the Defense Ministry said.

"Rebels attacked Somotillo at midnight Sunday, killing three peasants. Four other peasants were wounded, including three small children less than five years of age," the ministry statement said.

Meanwhile in Washington, House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., told reporters, "There has been some talk and a couple of meetings in view of the fact Ortega went to Russia" — a reference to Ortega's recent visit to Moscow.

"Politically-wise, he embarrassed us by his activities, to be truthful," O'Neill said, adding, "Nothing he has done affected the way we acted."

"There's a lot of feeling the votes are out there for" the administration backed plan to provide $14 million in non-lethal aid to the Contras, he said.

Advisors go to Costa Rica

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — About 20 U.S. military advisers will arrive this week to teach the Civil Guard counterinsurgency tactics, establishing American military training programs in all three nations bordering Nicaragua, officials said Monday.

It would be the first large-scale American military training program introduced in Costa Rica, which abolished its army in 1949 after a civil war between the two main political parties.

Costa Rica now is protected by its 5,000-man Civil Guard.

The United States already has advisers training troops in El Salvador and Honduras. Both countries and Costa Rica share borders with Nicaragua.

"In the next few days, a group of American advisers will arrive as part of an ongoing program of cooperation to train the Civil and Rural Guard," Costa Rican Security Minister Benjamin Piza said. He disclosed no further details.

"The advisers will help train the Costa Rican forces along with the 45 Civil Guards who were trained recently in Honduras," a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

Concerned over an alleged spread of leftist revolution from Nicaragua, the Reagan administration began training soldiers of Central American allies in Honduras in 1983.

A COSTA RICAN GOVERNMENT official said about 20 Americans were expected to oversee training at "El Murcielago Hacienda," a ranch in Guanacaste province less than 10 miles from the Nicaraguan border and once owned by the late Nicaraguan dictator Anastasio Somoza.

The advisers will begin teaching some 700 Civil Guards in "counterinsurgency techniques" May 15 at the ranch about 130 miles northwest of San Jose, said the official, who asked to remain anonymous.

He said an "anti-guerrilla commando team" intended to prevent rebels from entering Costa Rica will also be trained.

Four U.S. advisers already are stationed at the ranch directing the construction of shooting ranges, obstacle courses and barracks, he said.

"The course will be divided in two stages lasting until September and will include officer preparation, the handling of arms and strategic defensive military training," he said.

U.S.-backed Contra rebels fighting Nicaragua operate along the northern Costa Rican border and Costa Rican President Luis Alberto Monge has frequently denounced cross-border attacks by the Nicaraguan Army.

Nigerian port city overflowing with departing aliens

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — Thousands of illegal aliens ordered to leave Nigeria flooded the port of Lagos Monday in a scramble for spaces on ships after neighboring Benin refused to allow them to cross its territory, Lagos radio said.

Police were called to restore order at the harbor's Ijora wharf as 2,000 people, mostly Ghanaians and some Togolese, pushed to get places on a boat designed to carry about 200 people, the radio said in a broadcast monitored in London.

The radio said few of the immigrants had the $175 fare for the trip to the southern Ghanaian port of Tema, but the ship's decks and spaces between cargo were crammed with passengers.

At least four other ships had left the harbor for Ghana and two more were expected to depart within the next two days, the radio said.

Nigerian news reports said ship operators were having problems coping with the crowds because many people were "growing anxious."

ONE OPERATOR said bureaucratic snags involving certificates of loading had slowed the evacuation.

The Ghanaians are among 700,000 illegal aliens ordered to leave Nigeria before the end of the week by the military government, which took power in a bloodless coup on New Year's Eve, 1983.

It is the second mass expulsion of illegal aliens since former President Shehu Shagari, who was toppled in the coup, ordered 2 million people to leave the country in 1983.

News reports from the Ghanaian capital of Accra said 4,000 Ghanaians had arrived home in a convoy of chartered trucks and private automobiles loaded with electrical equipment and appliances, which are in short supply in Ghana.

Customs officials arrested those who could not pay customs duties on the goods, which were stored in a bonded warehouse at the border town of Afllao, the reports said.

Mengistu denies army burned camp for victims

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Ethiopian President Haile Mariam Mengistu denied his army helped burn part of a camp for famine victims, an act that prompted American and U.N. protests, a U.N. spokesman said Monday.

The Ibbet camp in Ethiopia's central highlands was reported to have been burned last Monday by an unidentified camp official, who sent all 52,000 drought-related famine victims away before it was torched.

Djibril Diallo, spokesman for the U.N. Office for Emergency Operations in Africa, told reporters that the head of the office in Addis Ababa, Kurt Jansson, met with Mengistu Monday and raised the United Nations' "deep concern" over the incident.

Jansson reportedly was assured by Mengistu that there will be no repetition of such actions.

DIALLO SAID Mengistu emphasized that "the action was not authorized and that he did not agree with it or approve of it."

"He added that appropriate action will be taken with respect to the local officials concerned. The chairman (Mengistu) denied any involvement by the army in the burning of the empty huts and he pointed out the camp itself was not burned," Diallo said.

The U.N. spokesman explained that only the area outside the camp's perimeter — made up mostly of thatched huts — was burned down and that the camp's main shelters were not touched, as was previously reported.

Challenger's success paves way for space station

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The shuttle Challenger glided to a gentle landing on a dusty desert runway Monday with a crew of seven men, 24 rats and two monkeys. NASA officials called the seven-day, $220 million orbital expedition an outstanding success, one that paves the way for research for a space station proposed for the 1990s.

Pilots Robert Overmyer and Fred Gregory and the five shuttle scientists — William Thornton, Don Lind, Norman Thagard, Taylor Wang and Lodewijk van den Berg — were reported in excellent shape. They left the ship 40 minutes after the touchdown at 11:11 a.m. Iowa time.

The animals rode back to Earth in their $10 million cages in the big Spacelab module in Challenger's cargo bay. There was no immediate word on the condition of the rats or of the monkeys of whom Thornton said: "We've established a friendship."

A jet plane stood by to rush the monkeys and rats to the Kennedy Space Center in Florida to see how they were affected by weightlessness. The rats were to be killed and dissected during the night but the monkeys will be spared.

NASA SPOKESWOMAN Evvie Rasmussen said the squirrel monkeys eventually will be returned to the Ames Research Center, Mountain View, Calif., and will be candidates to fly on another Spacelab mission next year.

After circling Earth 109 times, the 106-ton spaceplane began its descent over the Indian Ocean, swept to the northeast over the Pacific and crossed 100,000 feet above Los Angeles at four times the speed of sound.

It was the 11th shuttle landing in the Mojave Desert, but the first time a shuttle had passed directly over Los Angeles.

A double sonic boom rattled the Los Angeles area and prompted a surge in emergency calls to the police from people about the "explosion," a police spokesman said.

It was the seventh landing for Challenger. Never before had a spaceship returned from orbit seven times.

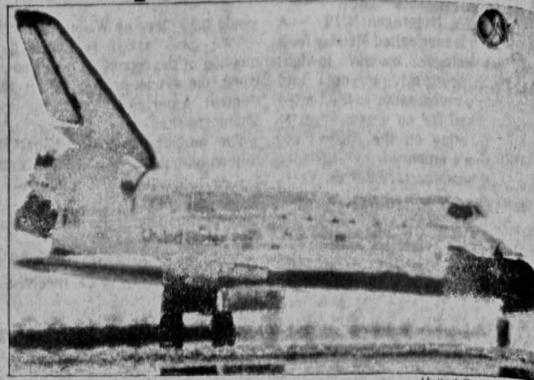

"I describe it as being a fantastic mission," said Jesse Moore, NASA's associate administrator in charge of the shuttle program. "Challenger and the crew did an outstanding job on this flight."

He said a preliminary examination showed that Challenger received much less damage to its heat shield tiles than did Discovery when it landed at Cape Canaveral April 19.

MOORE ALSO SAID Challenger apparently encountered none of the brake and tire problems experienced by Discovery. A locked brake and tire blow-out on Discovery forced officials to send Challenger to the broader, longer runways at Edwards while they studied the chronic shuttle brake problems.

Moore said the successful completion of two seven-day shuttle flights in a 24 day period "is a big shot in the arm for the program."

Actresses plead for farm support in Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jessica Lange, flanked by Jane Fonda and Sissy Spacek, cried as she described to House Democrats Monday the anguish she saw farmers suffer as she prepared for her role in the movie Country.

About 20 farm women, seated behind the actresses in a packed House Agriculture Committee hearing room, fought back tears listening to Lange's impassioned plea for help to victims of the farm crisis.

The actresses, all of whom have played farmers in recent movies, appeared before the House Democratic Caucus Task Force on Agriculture after meeting with lawmakers and a group called Women Involved in Farm Economics.

Lange, who played a woman whose family was losing its farm, said she has spent countless hours trying to understand what farmers are experiencing. It is heartbreaking, she said — pausing as her voice caught and she cried quietly — "to witness their anguish as they watch their lives stripped away."

"The American public has to step out of this apathetic emotional state they are in with regard to the farm," Lange said.

"A few people have been cynical about your coming up here," Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., said to Lange, Fonda and Spacek of their move from the entertainment world into a public forum to spur concern over the farm crisis.

SPACEK, WHO PLAYED a farmer in the movie, The River, and whose father was a county agent in rural Texas, said, "Our largest and most vital industry is disintegrating."

"It is not marginal producers, speculators or bad managers who are being squeezed out, but the solid core of our agriculture which is threatened."

Fonda, who won an Emmy for her role as a farmer in the television movie "The Dollmaker," turned directly to the many TV cameras in the hearing room to explain she and her colleagues hoped to mobilize citizens to write Congress in support of legislation to help farmers.

"The reason we are here is to underscore the gravity of the crisis that is leading to the bankruptcy, humiliation and banishment of farmers from their lands at a rate not seen since my father (Henry Fonda) made The Grapes of Wrath," she said.

GOP outspends Democrats in '84

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans outspent Democrats three to one in the last election even though Democrats increased their campaign spending by nearly 150 percent, the Federal Election Commission reported Monday.

The FEC accounting of political party fund raising and spending in the last election cycle showed that the Republicans raised $300.2 million and spent $303.2 million in 1983-1984, an increase in both categories of 40 percent compared to 1981-1982.

The Democrats raised $96.7 million and spent $97.2 million, an increase of 148 percent in receipts and 143 percent in expenditures.

The FEC's breakdown of spending by the party committees showed:

- REPUBLICAN NATIONAL Committee, $104.6 million; National Republican Senatorial Committee, $83.6 million; National Republican Congressional Committee, $61.7 million; other committees, $218,130.
- Democratic National Committee Services Corp., $46.6 million; Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, $8.7 million; Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, $10.2 million; Association of State Chairs, $5.6 million.

In all, the report showed that in addition to contributions directly to candidates' campaigns, the Republican committees spent $6.9 million on behalf of the GOP presidential ticket, $6.8 million on Senate candidates and $6.3 million on behalf of House candidates.

The Democratic committees spent $2.7 million on behalf of the presidential ticket, $4.4 million for Senate candidates and $1.8 million on behalf of House candidates.

PHYSICAL ACTIVITY & AGING PROJECT

The Motor Behavior Laboratory (University of Iowa) is seeking SENIOR CITIZENS (65 years and above) to participate in a research project to determine how gait, posture, flexibility and strength are affected by advancing age, free exercise prescription and instruction also available.

Spark of conviction

Maybe if ... people weren't human, and finals weren't coming and the public attention span weren't so short ...

... Maybe then this glorious news item, this wave of excitement that put Iowa State's Veishea to shame, would vigorously continue.

But protests are protests and sooner or later, they have to wind down. And while it's easy for "supporters" and media hounds to urge the protesters on, they are, in fact, human. They had been sleeping on dusty floors or dirt for nearly five days, a number of them had been participating in the strenuous protest while fasting for the cause, and the fickle public is gradually losing interest.

So, they gave up? That would be easy for the onlookers to say — the ones who have been going about their daily lives, stepping in to be a part of it on the way to class, going home to the luxury of a shower and a warm bed.

They compromised — but did anyone really expect the UI administration to suddenly open its portfolio and fork over all its stocks in firms doing business in South Africa? That's what the protest was for (for those who missed it); the euphoria of it should at least make "divestment" a familiar word.

The show of commitment will wreak havoc with some protesters' academic standing, leave others with a college memory to tell the kids about, and spur others to further, but more covert, action.

Perhaps this clandestine action is disappointing to the public after the spectacular weekend events. People can complain they have seen it all before and the students have hit a brick wall. People can play down what they at one point invested so much idealism in.

But, the fact is, the student protesters got the UI's name into the national limelight with the likes of Columbia, Cornell and Berkeley. And now is the time for those with a deeper conviction to continue the fight.

The demonstrators have reached a point in negotiations mirroring similar protests that dwindled off years ago — but they're further than they were on May 1, 1985.

It's all right to work on the issue from the inside for a while, but after a little R & R, the protesters should be careful that the spark they have created doesn't die.

Legislature cashes in

The Iowa Legislature's 1985 session was successful in assisting Iowa's struggling economy.

The implementation of a state lottery, which was supported by a majority of Iowans, was finally approved after two years of vetoes by Gov. Terry Branstad. It's estimated the lottery could bring in $45 million in revenue to be targeted for economic development and construction of a $9.5 million World Trade Center.

The legislature also repealed the state tax on machinery and equipment, which will keep Iowa competitive with neighboring states while increasing the number of taxable services.

Additionally, municipalities were given the authority to implement local option taxes as a way to supplement shrinking property tax revenues.

While acting on overriding economic concerns, the legislature neglected, however, to act on several other measures that would have benefited Iowans.

Legislators did not move to curb drunken driving in the state, concentrating on legislation that would have raised the state's drinking age from 19 to 21 instead of toughening penalties. Even that bill, though, died in committee — as did hopes the state's streets and highways would be made safer.

In addition, the legislature failed to act on a law that would have made it mandatory for people to wear seatbelts in their cars. Discussion of critical legislation dealing with child pornography was also postponed until the 1986 session.

But the 1985 session as a whole was a success. The legislature addressed the state's economic problems and acted forcefully to solve them. While a state lottery and World Trade Center should not be counted on solely to revive Iowa's financial outlook, they should be seen as a positive step toward economic recovery.

A city's civil rights

It's ironic, but the Reagan administration — proponent of state and city rights, of all rights (and responsibilities) but federal rights — has intervened to prevent a city from carrying out its own affirmative action plan.

The city of Indianapolis, after a 1978 suit, set up a plan to increase its hiring and promotion of women and minorities. The city likes its plan and wants to continue to implement it. The goal is to have 17 percent of the police force black; it is now only 14.1 percent black, up from 11.4 in 1978.

City Public Safety Director Richard Blankenbaker said, "I wish there was an alternative to quotas, but after four years in this job, I can't identify one, and we need to have people on the force that represent the population as a whole." The white Republican mayor agrees.

The administration's stand on the Indianapolis case clearly reveals its opposition to civil rights. They might argue that they do not wish to file any more suits forcing affirmative action goals or quotas, that such suits are unnecessary, unfair, or none of the federal government's business. But it is hard for this administration, with its stated principles of state and local rights, to justify telling a city it may not act to rectify a local wrong.

After hundreds of years of hiring white men, regardless of their qualifications, 20 or 30 years of active effort to recruit, hire and promote capable minorities and women is hardly rampant reverse discrimination.

The solution to discrimination is to make careful plans, geared to the specific local setting. Indianapolis is trying to do so and should be left alone.

Committed coalition takes pause

By Kate Head

WE WILL NOT be moved. Twenty fasters, only drinking so as not to dehydrate, did not move for a week. Hunger pains, physical illness and offers of food were not motivation to break the fast for apartheid.

Thirty occupants of the president's office did not move for six hours on Thursday. Classes, water, food and bathrooms were not motivations to leave.

One hundred and thirty-six students blockading the president's office and the arrest bus did not move. Legal penalties, permanent records and court appearances were not motivations enough to sit on the sidelines instead of frontlines.

This movement is not just for kids anymore.

JUST AS WE WERE not moved last week without protest, we will not be moved in discussions with the administration; nor will we be moved to sell short our goal of divestment. There is a healthy mistrust of the administration by the students. The UI financial team examined their stocks in South Africa in 1977, but took no action.

Administration members personally oppose apartheid, but cannot state their concerns in their professional capacity. The UI states that investing in stocks in South Africa is not a political issue, but that divesting them is political. All these notions are couched in the concept that the university is a bastion of neutrality.

Guest opinion

Although they describe their inactivity as neutral, it is not. It is the nature of the administration to engage in doublespeak to impress their hardline constituencies they are not taking sides or succumbing to the softline constituencies. The hardline constituencies are the state Board of Regents, the legislature and individual contributors. They are money sources for the UI. And regardless how united the students, faculty and staff stand for divestment, the university's concern will remain with appeasing the hardline. The myth that the university is neutral will reassure the Des Moines politicians and funders that the UI is maintaining their integrity. For this reason the UI will not use the word divestment in their rhetoric. Instead they will "economically review their stocks" in South Africa.

REGARDLESS OF HOW the administration avoids the labels, the coalition still maintains the UI's decision not to act, is still a position. The administration's attitude is the same as the individual who walks by someone being beaten and does not stop. By walking by, refusing to acknowledge injustice and refusing to become involved, they have taken the position that the injustice is acceptable. By its mere inactivity the administration has maintained the status quo of business as usual.

The coalition rejects the administration's notion of business as usual. The administration has worked to diffuse the protests and the outcry of the students, faculty and staff by creating a committee that can only make recommendations to President Freedman. The administration hopes this will appease the students, take the pressure and publicity off them, and will keep the students off the lawn and out of their building. A return to normalcy is not what we intend to give them. We cannot be diffused that easily, just as we have not moved that easily.

ALTHOUGH WE have agreed not to participate in further illegal activities, as a good faith gesture, we reserve the right to take the building at any time. If the student member of the stock review committee or the Iowa Coalition Against Apartheid believes the UI is attempting to stall or renege on mutual agreements, the pledge that we will not engage in illegal activities will no longer exist. There is a list of 200 people who have not yet had the opportunity to be arrested. They are willing at any time to skip their classes, work and parties to reoccupy Steven Biko Hall. The coalition has this mechanism to keep the university honest.

The coalition also can pressure the UI by continuing legal protests, rallies, pickets and vigils in the liberated zone outside Biko Hall. We will fade in numbers as we begin the not-so-visible work of organizing the faculty, staff and community at our offices, instead of on the Pentacrest. But we cannot disappear from their sight at this point.

We must serve as a reminder to them that they have not pledged to divest entirely. Formation of a committee does not assure divestment will be the end result. We can't let the members of the committee believe the only responsibility they have is to examine the economic potential of these stocks. They must also recognize through our efforts the moral and social questions of investing in apartheid. We cannot ignore or forget that the members of this committee have not pledged to divest everything, either as individuals or as a group. Therefore, the pressure that has been placed on the administration must also be directed at the committee.

THE COMMITTEE was given a time limit of one month to complete the process of reviewing the stocks. This is ample time for the Iowa Coalition Against Apartheid to prepare for an undesirable recommendation by the stock review committee. Local merchants have been tapped for resources for the occupation, but this is only a small percentage of the Iowa City community that is willing to become involved. The outreach to the individuals and organizations of Iowa City has begun, but it is not over. This movement is not just for kids anymore. We are a broad-based movement; we have broad-based support. The community will be incorporated into the movement to keep our strength during the slower summer months.

We do not intend to be turned around on this issue or diffused because the UI administration has formed a committee to generate paperwork. We will keep on picketing and educating until divestment is ours.

All-volunteer army losing its ranks

IF PRESIDENT Reagan should be so bold as to mention to any of our European allies their relatively low level of defense spending, he will be certain to hear at least one effective rejoinder.

Kohl and Mitterand will remind him that those comparisons are flawed because Germany and France, like most of our NATO allies, use conscription to fill out the ranks of their armed forces while the United States still relies on that flawed relic of Vietnam, the all-volunteer army.

Meanwhile, back in the states, Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., has once again introduced legislation to re-institute the draft. As in previous years, neither he nor anyone else really expects anything to come of it.

But he does it anyway, because he thinks it's right and because he thinks the time is drawing nigh when we will be forced to address the issues he has been talking about since 1973, the year the all-volunteer force was established. The man has a point.

WE STILL FACE the absolute certainty that the casualties in any future combat will come disproportionately from those in our society who get the least from it, the poor and minorities, particularly blacks.

Last year, one-quarter of all new recruits were black, more than double their percentage in the population of the country. And the inequity is even greater in armor, infantry and artillery — where casualties are always highest.

"A free society defended by the least free," as Hollings puts it, in his usual pungent fashion.

Those philosophical arguments have always been and will remain valid. But they have also been and are likely to remain insufficiently persuasive. On this issue, appeals to the supposedly conservative collegians of today experience no more success than did appeals to the social conscience of their supposedly liberal predecessors.

WHAT IS CHANGING and what bodes well to bring the issue to a head are the practical considerations.

First, there is the matter of demographics. "The baby boom is history," as Hollings points out. Which means that the pool from which the military recruits is shrinking yearly.

In 1980 there were 11 million American males aged 17 to 21. In 1990 there will be fewer than 9 million.

In 1980 our manpower goals required the enlistment of one-fourth of those eligible, now it is two-fifths. By some estimates we will need one-half in 1993.

The fact of the matter is that we will not be able to do it. Though we are meeting recruiting goals at the moment, a combination of the shrinking pool and the expanding economy has already produced signs of trouble.

The military's Delayed Entry Program, generally considered to be the best indicator of recruiting potential, is lagging. Compared to the first five months of 1984, the D.E.P. has experienced a dropoff of 19 percent through May of this year.

THE OTHER inescapable fact is that the attempt to recruit an all-volunteer army in the 1990s will be frightfully expensive.

If Reagan wishes to press this discussion with Kohl and Mitterand, he will learn that they spend considerably less of their military budget on salaries than we do. He will learn, for example, that a German draftee's salary is 4,000 marks per year — that's about $1,300 at today's exchange rate — as compared to $6,900 per year for an American recruit. (There are, of course, factors that narrow the contrast, but not enough to eliminate it.)

If the president had quizzed David Stockman on his recent diatribe against military retirement and other personnel benefits, his budget director would have been forced to admit that a significant factor in those rapidly escalating costs is the necessity of increasing benefits to attract a sufficient number of volunteers.

In the 1980s we are attempting to do as a society what was left to individuals in the 1860s: the hiring of substitutes to fight and die for the wealthy and privileged.

By any standard of morality that attempt is an abomination. Practically, it is working at the moment, but just barely. Hollings thinks that the budget squeeze may one day soon force us to do in the name of economy what we are unwilling to do simply because it's right. This writer for one hopes he turns out to be correct.

University professor charged with sexual assault of 10-year-old girl

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bond was raised to $100,000 Monday for a 45-year-old New York university professor, a former resident of Iowa City, accused of raping a 10-year-old Iowa City girl in a Chicago hotel room.

Cook County Violence Court Judge Francis Gembala ruled there is probable cause to hold Dr. Jon Michael Casey, a psychologist, for trial on the charge of one count of aggravated criminal sexual assault. Gembala also raised bond from the original $50,000 to $100,000.

Under Illinois law, rape is included in the charge of aggravated criminal sexual assault, as are other types of sexual assault, said Rick Stock, deputy supervisor of the felony review division of the Cook County State's Attorney's Office.

Casey is an associate dean at the medical center for the State University of New York in Syracuse, N.Y.

During a preliminary hearing, the victim testified that Casey molested her in a hotel room.

The girl had been flown to Chicago Thursday by her mother to meet Casey, who said he had permission from the girl's mother to show the girl the city. Casey said he dated the girl's mother when he lived in Iowa City from 1978 to 1981.

CASEY WAS ARRESTED Friday after police received an anonymous tip that Casey was showing the girl pornographic pictures.

Police said they found Casey in bed with the girl when they raided the hotel room. They also found in the hotel room a camera and an envelope filled with pornographic pictures of adults.

Police said Casey admitted showing the girl the pictures and touching her but claimed that it was part of her sex education and he was qualified to teach her as a psychologist.

The girl was in the custody of the Department of Children and Family Services.

hearing the test results, he said.

THE WITNESSES WHO testified Thursday included Frank S. Gersch, a psychologist, Vernon P. Varner, M.D., and a psychiatrist from the Iowa Medical and Classification Center.

Gersch's evaluation concluded that Kulow "functions in the mild range of mental retardation and that there is clear-cut evidence of brain damage," according to a memorandum filed Monday by White.

Varner found in his tests that Kulow suffers from a seizure disorder and organic personality syndrome. An evaluation performed at the Iowa Medical and Classification Center shows Kulow has an "atypical personality disorder with an explosive temper under certain psychosocial conditions" and "borderline intellectual functioning," the memorandum states.

The evaluation also states Kulow had some diminished capacity at the time of the murder, and says Kulow's condition was probably caused by meningitis he suffered when he was 7 months old.

"In light of all these factors," the second-degree murder charge is appropriate for Kulow, the memorandum concludes, requesting that the state accept the plea-bargain agreement.

ACCORDING TO THE Iowa Code, first-degree murder occurs when a person willfully, deliberately and with premeditation kills someone else. If Kulow had been convicted as charged at his trial, which was scheduled to begin May 13, he would have faced a mandatory life sentence.

Second-degree murder occurs when a person kills someone with malice aforethought, and carries with it a maximum sentence of 50 years.

Because the knife Kulow used had a seven-inch blade, it is classified as a dangerous weapon and the court may infer he killed his wife with malice aforethought, the memorandum states.

Kulow's attorneys, Douglas S. Russell and Kristin L. Hibbs, had filed motions contending that Kulow had not knowingly waived his rights before making the statements that led to his arrest.

Russell and Hibbs had argued that Kulow did not knowingly, voluntarily and intelligently waive his rights before making the statements, and that evidence obtained by police as a result of the statements was "illegally obtained," court records state.

Protest

Principles shall not exempt it from scrutiny." The Sullivan Principles are a set of guidelines to encourage equal treatment of black and white workers in the apartheid country.

At Monday's rally, which included a march through downtown Iowa City and concluded with a picket in front of Jessup Hall, loud cries for divestment continued.

UI History Graduate Assistant Tom Smith told the crowd that 22 million non-whites pay for white people's lifestyles in South Africa.

"International capitalism is the glue that holds it together," Smith said of the racist government.

POINTING OUT A three-year trend of budget deficits in South Africa, Smith said the country is not an "economic colossus" and "divestment can cripple the faltering economy."

"I'm not saying divestment will bring (the government) to its knees, but it will soften it up for the revolution that is building at this moment," Smith said.

Tess Catalano, a protest organizer and member of the Iowa Coalition Against Apartheid, presented an "armband update" to the crowd. "We're running out of them because there's been so much support," she said, urging people to make their own or donate black and red material for more armbands.

Protesters are wearing red armbands to show they will participate in civil disobedience as a means of forcing the UI to divest and black armbands to show solidarity with the divestment movement.

"Keep wearing them until the UI has divested," Catalano said, adding that graduating seniors should attach their bands to commencement gowns during graduation ceremonies.

UI STUDENT April Lidinsky, who began eating again Monday after fasting for a week in an effort to force divestment, also spoke at the rally in front of a banner that proclaimed the Pentacrest a "food-free zone" as part of a public fast Monday.

The Iowa Coalition Against Apartheid asked people to fast for one day or give up one meal and donate the money saved to help defray legal costs of those arrested during Thursday's protest as well as educational outreach.

Protester John Stonebarger said the public fast was designed to help "support us financially" in paying the potential $13,700 worth of civil disobedience charges. Lidinsky said the fast was called off as a show of "good faith" in the negotiating process between student protesters and the administration.

Following the rally, about 300 people marched from the Old Capitol steps to the fountain in the downtown walking mall. One marcher, UI sociology graduate student Mike Homan, said he was involved in similar protests during the late 1960s and early 1970s, and he hasn't "felt this kind of feeling since then."

He added he hopes the ultimate outcome of the demonstrations will be that "we look at our racist attitude in our country and clean up our own act."

ANOTHER PARTICIPANT in the march, Johnson County Auditor Tom Slockett, said he "supports the students' position for complete and total divestment."

"We all understand if we're to survive we have to work toward justice to achieve peace in the world. We must do that to ensure a future for younger generations," he added.

The continued support for divestment pleased protester Gordon Fischer, who said the movement is growing with "no sign of letting up." An observer at the picketing in front of Jessup Hall, UI graduate student Tony Etz, echoed Fischer's belief.

"It's good to see that the people are still coming out — so the administrators know it's not fashion, but commitment" on the part of the protesters, Etz said.

But UI Dean of Student Services Phillip Jones said if the protesters "coerce the UI to take a stand, then everyone has a right to coerce the UI to take a stand," adding that some rights may be violated or ignored as a result.

He added he "applauds" the protesters for educating people on the issue of apartheid and supports their right to freedom of expression, but he does not agree that the UI should take a political position by divesting.

CAC

CAC member Paul Thompson said that to "responsibly consider" seems to mean that civil disobedience is "the only appropriate further response."

CAC VICE PRESIDENT Jeff Devitt proposed the clause be deleted because "being arrested is not an institutional decision," and does not "need us to legitimize it."

"I don't think (the CAC) has any right to encourage or discourage students from being arrested," Devitt said, adding it is a personal decision students must make.

CAC member Mike Connell said the student call for divestment has been successful in the past year through state legislative channels.

The Iowa Legislature passed legislation mandating the divestment of state funds from corporations doing business in South Africa that do not adhere to the Sullivan Principles, which are guidelines for equal employment opportunities for blacks and whites.

"For the administration to yield to civil disobedience will only encourage increased usage in the future. Personally, I've got to condone the more established and proper channels," Connell said.

BUT OTHER CAC members supported this section of the legislation before the entire resolution was passed. CAC member Mike Reck said he submitted the resolution because of "some misconceptions about whether CAC supports" the protest efforts.

"My conception is that we do support" the efforts, Reck said, adding it is important for the CAC to show support for the people who were arrested and those who spent several nights outside Jessup Hall in constant vigil.

"For them to believe that student government is not supportive is a slap in the face," Reck said.

The resolution also states that the CAC "is pleased that the administration is continuing dialogue with the Iowa Coalition Against Apartheid in good faith, to resolve within the month the moral dilemma the UI now faces."

The teach-in funded by the CAC will feature Kris Penniston, who is well-known in Madison, Wis., as an "expert on civil disobedience," according to a representative from the Iowa Coalition Against Apartheid.

dress the council tonight to ask for a resolution supporting the Mary O. Colder federal housing project.

"We have a concern about downtown locations because HUD won't give enough funds to build a building (downtown)," Hiland said. "That's why we turn away from downtown sites."

If the council delays the rezoning adoption one week, city officials will have more time to investigate the two proposals and the price at which the city is planning to sell the Gilbert Street property, City Manager Neal Berlin said.

City Attorney Robert Jansen said the city will "have to look at the price alternatives. We don't want to give away property."

The city had placed a $125,000 price tag on the land along Gilbert Street, the location of the former U-Smash-Em auto body shop, a 17-space public parking lot and Chauncey Swan Park. Jansen noted the city spent $240,000 to purchase the property.

THE PLANNING AND zoning commission, on a 6-1 vote, opposed the rezoning request because the city would forfeit parking space and possible land that could be used for future expansion of city offices.

"It's not just the loss of 17 parking spaces, but the impact an additional 75 dwelling units would bring to the central business district without any provision for additional parking in that part of the city," commission Chairman Tom Scott told the council.

Under HUD requirements, the proposed complex needs 38 parking spaces — one for every two apartment units. Woodrow Morris, president of Ecumenical Housing, said, however, that Ecumenical Towers has 40 parking spaces but only 18 residents have cars.

"Enough said," Councilor Ernest Zuber said.

"A housing facility there, regardless of the type, is an improper use for that ground," Scott said. "There's a potential for development of parking in that area that you're losing."

SUE HOROWITZ, the only commission member who voted to recommend rezoning the Gilbert Street property for the elderly housing complex, said, "This is the city's potential for maintaining the intergenerational life within that area."

"It's an excellent chance for Iowa City to do some long-range planning to maintain the life of the inner city," she said.

"The city will live to regret it if it sells this property," Scott said, adding that releasing the property will "limit the expansion of city services" because city offices will not be able to expand directly south of the Iowa City Civic Center.

THE FRATERNITY, which has grown on the UI campus from six to 50 members, also has a saying: Go Roman or go to hell. UI Interfraternity Council President

Alex Taylor said he had never heard of ADF, but said to be recognized by the IFC "they would have to show a lot of things. They (ADF) would have to provide a constitution stating a purpose, bylaws, show an academic atmosphere and statement of goals."

Also, ADF would also have to "be approved by the Office of Campus Programming, voted in by the IFC Executive Council and then again be voted in by the IFC Legislative Body," Taylor said.

"We are known as the ADF Roman Iowans," said Guido, "and we were the second chapter founded after Western Illinois. ADF doesn't have any bylaws or written rules though because ADF is a state of mind."

Opinions varied on days off rule for athletes

By J.B. Glass
Staff Writer

A traditional conflict exists between building a top-notch athletic team and seeing that students get the best education possible. The job of the Board in Control of Athletics is to mediate and try to find an optimum level between the desired goals — always remembering the major purpose is education. Recently, Iowa's Board in Control of Athletics, in accordance with the Academic Achievement Committee, took more control and limited the number of days a student-athlete can miss from class per semester to eight.

workable program," said Iowa men's Athletic Director Bump Elliott, adding that the number would be flexible.

"IT'S A GUIDELINE, a beginning," Pat Donahue, a member of the Academic Achievement committee, said. "We did come up with eight (days) per semester through the Athletic Directors who had input from their coaches."

While some coaches agree with the rule mainly because it doesn't really affect their respective sports competitively or in recruiting terms, at least one Hawkeye leader does not.

Iowa's women golf coach Diane Thomason, whose team missed 21.5 days in 1983-84 (two semesters), according to a Big Ten survey, stated it would "put a bind on the golf program."

"What upsets me, and I'll speak for myself, is that no one from the committee consulted with the coaches," said Thomason, the senior member in the women's athletic department and whose team had the highest grade-point average among women this year. "They think we're ogres, slave drivers. They think we don't have any care for athletes as students."

"GOLF IS A different sport than others," Thomason added. "Every basketball court is the same. It's to your advantage to go out and see it (and play on the terrain) first. Wisconsin had this rule and they think it's dreadful. I recruit kids who are good students. I just would feel better if I had more personal contact."

Sam Becker, Iowa's men's faculty advisor to the Big Ten, said many sports are taking students away from classes at an increasing amount — especially the so-called minor sports. "It seems to me what we are concerned about is students who want to participate in athletics, that they shouldn't have to let their academic work suffer. Especially students who are not doing real well academically. I think the Board has a responsibility to protect students who are involved in athletics."

PETE KENNEDY, the women's swimming coach, said the issue is important and it has to be addressed, but it has to be stamped with a notice: handled with care.

"An athlete's primary purpose here is to graduate and have competency in an area. But, I think each sport is unique to itself," Kennedy said. "You have to look at what they are missing and when they are missing it and then you have to look at how many athletes are having a problem."

"If I had a pre-med student on my team and they couldn't afford to miss even seven days (as his swimmer did the last two semesters), quite honestly the person shouldn't be in pre-med," Kennedy added. "If a kid walks up to me and they have a major test, I just tell them to go and study. But we can't have a kid walking in all the time saying they have major tests. We have to say, what did you do this weekend, study or go and mess around?"

Iowa eyeing sweep in finale

By Jill Hokinson
Staff Writer

A doubleheader with Western Illinois is the Iowa softball team's last chance to erase its "splitteyes" nickname for the season.

The Hawkeyes will battle the Westerwinds in their last games of the season today at the Hawkeye Softball Complex at 3 p.m.

Softball

Iowa is coming off weekend games against Minnesota in which it split two doubleheaders with the Gophers.

The Iowa team has only one goal for the final series, taking both games against Western Illinois. "We want to sweep a doubleheader," Iowa Coach Ginny Parrish said.

TWO VICTORIES would also raise the Hawkeyes' record to the .500 mark for the total season. Iowa finished conference play with a 11-13 record and the Iowa team goes into this afternoon's games with a 26-28 overall mark.

The doubleheader also marks the last regulation game for the Westerwinds. The Westerwinds are 19-16 for the season and 11-7 in their conference. Western Illinois will use the series as a "final tuning" for the Gateway Conference Championships, Western Illinois Coach Kathy Veroni said.

"We want to get comfortable in knowing that we can play consistently throughout a doubleheader," Veroni said.

Veroni added she wants her team to come out of the doubleheader with not only two wins, but strong pitching and few

Hawkeyes 'stink' in two losses

By Melissa Rapoport

Fourteen stranded Hawkeyes and four runs on no hits in the top of the ninth proved the Iowa baseball team could do nothing right against Minnesota.

The Hawkeyes dropped the first game of the doubleheader, 11-5, at the Iowa Diamond Monday, before letting the second game slide by, 8-5, in nine innings.

"We stunk," Iowa Coach Duane Banks said. "It's really sad when it's the biggest game of the year and our guys don't come out to play."

"It's a sad situation when our young people have the chance to go to the tournament... and because we have 22 guys who aren't ready to play, we are cheated out of the games."

"WITHOUT A DOUBT, this is one of the most important games of the season and we can't suck it up and go 14 innings. We don't deserve to go anywhere," he continued.

In the second game, the Hawkeyes had more than their share of chances to put the game away, but Minnesota's Pat Pohl's diving catch in the bottom of the sixth halted Iowa's scoring bout. It even appeared to be the turning point of the game.

At the bottom of the sixth, the score stood at 2-1, in Iowa's favor, and the Hawkeye bats started warming up. Leading off for Iowa, designated hitter Vance McKinnon knocked a short center fly that resulted in a double after Minnesota left fielder John Beckman and Pohl collided trying to make the play.

HAWKEYE THIRD BASEMAN John Knapp tapped a sacrifice bunt, advancing McKinnon to third base. Catcher Brian Luedtke kept the rally alive, hitting a single to short left field. McKinnon scored, extending Iowa's lead to 3-1.

Next, Hawkeye shortstop Mike McLaughlin knocked a grounder to third and Luedtke was thrown out at second on the play. Then center fielder Craig Conti was walked and the next batter, first baseman Rick Jennings, hit a line-drive single to left field, moving Conti to second and bringing McLaughlin across the plate to further the gap, 4-1.

With two Hawkeyes in scoring position, Randy Frakes reeled the ball to center field, but Pohl's spectacular catch may have been the Gopher's ticket to victory, putting an end to the Minnesota catcher Mike Halloran puts the tag on Iowa left fielder Rob Eddie at home plate during the first game of a Big Ten doubleheader played Monday afternoon at the Iowa Diamond. The Hawkeyes, now 7-5 in the conference, were defeated by the Gophers in both games by the scores of 11-5 and 8-5.

Baseball

inning with two potential scorers left on base.

BUT THAT WAS only the beginning of Iowa's troubles. The Hawkeyes went through six pitchers in the game and at this point the Gophers were still putting Mark Denkinger to the test.

In the top of the seventh, where it's usually too late, Minnesota started to retaliate. Denkinger walked right fielder Bill Lentsch, the first batter, but then struck out two consecutive Gophers.

One out away from victory, the Hawkeyes watched their three-run lead turn into a tie game. Denkinger walked catcher Mike Halloran and then Pohl stepped up to the plate, slamming the ball to left field.

Pohl's single moved Halloran to second and scored Lentsch, putting the Gophers' one run closer, 4-2.

THAT SINGLE BROUGHT Iowa's Mark Boland from the bullpen, only to allow Beckman to keep the two-out rally alive by nailing a two RBI triple to right-center to tie the score at four apiece.

The top of the inning finally came to an end when Minnesota's Pehrson flew out to center field.

The bottom of the seventh continued Iowa's bad dream. After Hawkeye Rob Eddie reached second base on Gopher Dan VanDehey's error, Gary Ellis tapped a sacrifice bunt, moving Eddie to third.

In turn, Minnesota's second pitcher of the game, Mike Clarkin, intentionally walked McKinnon and Knapp to load the bases. However, Luedtke, struck out on full count and McLaughlin was thrown out at first.

"We didn't do anything right all day," Banks said. "Hell, we still haven't hit a ball when it means something in a scoring situation."

Iowa's bad dream turned into a nightmare. In the last two innings of play, a combination of Iowa pitchers walked seven of 10 Gopher batters, four of those scored with no hits.

"We did it ourselves," the Iowa coach said. "There's a difference between getting beat and losing and today we were losers. If we can't run in any of 14 runners, we don't deserve to win."

Hawks learned valuable lessons from worst season in history

By Mike Condon
Sports Editor

"It was definitely a learning experience but I would never want to go through it again."

Put in prospective, Michele Conlon's comment is a positive statement in a season of many negatives for the Iowa women's tennis team. Not only was it a learning experience, it was a difficult one as well.

The Hawkeyes had the worst season in their history, finishing 3-24 overall, 10th in the Big Ten. "No question we had a lot of adversity to overcome," Iowa Coach Charley Darley said. "I was pleased with the character we showed through the year when times got tough."

Losing players early in the season was the first sign it would be a rugged spring for Iowa. Jenny Reuter, the Hawkeyes No. 1 player in the fall, was declared academically ineligible and her status for next season is unclear at this time.

TO GO ALONG with Reuter's loss, sophomore Jennifer Forti transferred to Baylor as well leaving Iowa with only five players. Kathy Ruck and Pam Moyer joined the squad as walk-ons, but early on it was apparent the Hawkeyes were in for a long spring.

Tennis

"I think it got really hard to keep getting up for matches," freshman Pat Leary said. "People can keep trying to get ready but after a while, people get bummed out and it keeps getting harder without wins."

Conlon said the season will help her in the future, after she finishes at Iowa. "I want to be a coach after I finish playing at Iowa," she said. "Having a season like this will help me understand how to deal with it. If I was on a successful team right from the start, I wouldn't have been able to understand about losing."

"I KNOW WE'RE going to be better next year," Conlon added. "When we finally make it to the top, I'll appreciate the wins that much more because of the past two years."

Last weekend's Big Ten Tournament was typical of 1985. "I think it was very consistent with the rest of our season," Darley said. "We had strong showings in singles only to struggle in doubles."

"But we had a number of courageous performances," he added. "Kim (Martin) went out and played her heart out with a damaged shoulder; Patty (Leary) made a great comeback against Ohio State and Pennie Wohlford also showed a lot of determination, playing with a sore shoulder."

WITH ALL THE negatives, a number of positives came out of the season, leaving players and coaches alike anxious for next season. Conlon moved into second place on Iowa's all-time victory list, behind Karen Kettenacker, and was named to the second team all-Big Ten squad. "It's a neat honor," the Iowa City native said. "I give a lot of

White aide fired at Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — Brad Childress, an assistant University of Illinois football coach, said Monday he has been fired because Coach Mike White is "reorganizing" the coaching staff.

"The team is reorganizing and I'm not part of the reorganization," Childress said from his home.

Childress, who spent seven years at Illinois, coached running backs and most recently wide receivers. He said he had no immediate plans but said "there's a lot of possibilities."

"I obviously would have liked to have been part of (the coaching staff)," Childress said. "(But) things didn't work out."

Childress started as a graduate assistant in 1978 before becoming a full-time assistant in 1981. As wide receiver coach, Childress coached all-America receiver David Williams, who last season caught 101 passes.

Childress indicated White planned to become more active in coaching both the quarterbacks and wide receivers.

In five seasons at Illinois, White has recorded four winning seasons and coached a string of passing quarterbacks. White could not be reached for comment.

Bears signs ex-Buckeye quarterback Tomczak

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bears will sign former Ohio State quarterback Mike Tomczak to a free-agent contract, Tomczak's agent says.

Peter Johnson said Tomczak agreed to a three-year contract over the weekend.

Tomczak played high school football at Thornton Fractional High School in Calumet City, a south Chicago suburb.

The Bears' spring roster includes three other quarterbacks — Jim McMahon, Steve Fuller and Rusty Lisch.

Tomczak, who broke his leg in 1984 and missed an entire season, completed 121 of 207 passes for 1,662 yards last fall for the Buckeyes. He was not selected in the recent NFL college draft.

Dolphins acquire Clark from Bengals

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins, looking to bolster their quarterback corps, Monday acquired Bryan Clark from the Cincinnati Bengals for a future conditional draft choice.

The Dolphins are facing the opening of minicamp with Dan Marino as the only available quarterback. Reserves Don Strock and Jim Jensen have indicated they won't report until they negotiate new contracts.

Clark, 24, is the son of Monte Clark, former head coach of the Detroit Lions and a former Dolphins assistant. The 6-foot-2, 196-pounder was drafted ninth by the San Francisco 49ers out of Michigan State in 1982 but did not play in the regular season. After being cut after the second game last season, Clark appeared in one game for Cincinnati.

"We were in need of a quarterback and Bryan's got some professional experience," said Dolphins coach Don Shula. "We're in a situation where we can give him the opportunity to show us what he can do."

USOC appoints Abel as public affairs director

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — The U.S. Olympic Committee Monday announced the appointment of Richard Abel as director of public affairs, effective July 1.

George Miller, USOC secretary general, said Abel will coordinate the committee's public affairs program, including legislative matters.

Abel has extensive background in public affairs. He was director of public affairs for the U.S. Air Force in Washington, D.C., for four years and attained the rank of brigadier general.

Abel, a 51-year-old native of Akron, Ohio, graduated from the University of Detroit in 1956 and attended graduate school at Boston University. In addition to a public affairs assignment at the U.S. Air Force Academy from 1966-68, Abel also served as assistant football coach for the Falcons.

He has served as vice chairman of the National Board of Directors of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and is a member of the American Academy of Achievement.

Ripken named AL Player of the Week

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cal Ripken, Jr., of the Baltimore Orioles has been named the American League's Player of the Week for the period ending May 5, it was announced Monday.

Ripken, who broke Brooks Robinson's club consecutive game record Friday night, has played in 465 straight games and 4,198 consecutive innings through Sunday.

The Orioles' shortstop collected 13 hits in 23 at-bats, with six extra base hits, for 25 total bases and a slugging percentage of 1.087. He also drove in 11 runs during the week.

Mark Langston of the Seattle Mariners was runner-up in the voting after posting a pair of victories and a 1.69 ERA. Boston's Mike Easler finished third in the voting.

Ripken twice was named American League Player of the Week last year.

UI rugby club fails to reach nationals

By John Gilardi

The UI Women's Rugby Club may not have qualified for the National Championships last weekend in the Midwest Qualifier held here in Iowa City, but they did prove to themselves that they are a good team.

"It's always a disappointment when we don't qualify for the finals, especially when we went the year before," Jean O'Leary said. "But nobody is depressed about it. Sure, it would have been nice to go, but we're pretty happy about the consistency of our play this weekend, compared to what's happened in the past."

The team had a chance to play out on the West Coast in the finals after shutting out Chicago — Lakeshore, 11-0, and downing Southern Illinois, 12-8.

AN 11-0 LOSS to Chicago in the semifinals, however, kept the team from playing in the championships that are going to be held later this month in San Francisco, giving Iowa a third-place finish. The top two teams, Chicago and Minnesota, will move on to the nationals.

"The games were tough and they were actually pretty close, we weren't beaten badly by anyone," O'Leary said.

In the first game, Iowa downed Lakeshore without much trouble. The Hawkeyes took control of the game from the beginning when Tanya Fry scored a kick for a 3-0 lead. Sherri Edwards then scored a try for a 7-0 lead and Diane Pfile scored a try to seal the 11-0 victory.

Iowa lost in the semifinals to the eventual winner, Chicago, 11-0.

IN THE CONSOLATION round final, Iowa took care of Southern Illinois, 12-

8. "It was really close towards the end of the game," O'Leary said. "Southern Illinois kept coming on strong, they never gave up and they fought until the end."

Edwards scored two tries on intercepted passes and Pfile scored a try to round out the scoring. Iowa will be playing in Chicago this weekend against Chicago and Michigan State. The following weekend, Iowa will be hosting Madison at the Hawkeye Drive Apartments field.

The Hawkeye Soccer Club lost to Burlington Strikers, 6-5, Sunday. Iowa scored two goals in the first 15 minutes, but after that the performance declined.

"WE LOST CONTROL of the mid-field and allowed Burlington to tie up the score," Raul Curto said. "During the second half, we didn't play bad, but we had some serious errors that they capitalized upon. Towards the end of the game, we came close to tying the score on a couple of occasions, but we didn't succeed."

Joao Cardoso scored two goals. Lucio Arones, Alvaro Rendon and Orlando Hernandez scored goals.

The Kayaking Club will be holding their last meeting of the school year tonight at 1101 Tower Court at 7:30 p.m. Discussion will include participation in summer trips and events. For more information, contact Sara Felts at 353-6071.

credit for that to the support of my coaches and teammates."

Wohlford proved to be one of the best freshmen in the conference. She posted a 13-10 singles record in her rookie season, many of the wins coming at No. 1 earlier this year when Conlon was injured.

THE LEARNING WAS not only done by the players. "I learned a lot about the different aspects of college coaching," Darley said. "It goes way beyond on-court coaching. There's numerous administrative details and I admire all the coaches that have been able to perform at a high level for such a long time."

Darley also credited his assistant coaches, Sara Loetscher, who left the team in mid-season to accept the head boys coaching position at West High School and Su Oertel. "Su is just a super-fine coach who related so well to all of us all year," Darley said. "She could coach at any Division I school."

The future is bright for the Hawkeyes. Only Moyer is lost from the squad while new recruits Madeline

Pat Leary

Willard and Robin Gerstein will join the fold. "I think we're going to improve," Leary said. "I know none of us want to have another season like this one."

errors. "I'm expecting to win," the Western Illinois coach said. "If we can pitch two balanced games, we'll do well."

VERONI DOESN'T know what to expect from the Hawkeyes but she says her team is playing the best that they can now both offensively and defensively.

Parrish hasn't seen the Westerwinds play a full game this season but she expects a very competitive doubleheader.

"They'll be a good, competitive team, but we should be the stronger team," she said.

The Westerwinds, who won their conference title last season, lost their top five hitters from that team and are in a rebuilding year. Veroni puts four freshmen on the field, including her two pitchers.

Brenda Heyl and Mindy Smith, both freshmen, share the pitching duties for the Westerwinds this season. Heyl boasts a 10-6 record and Smith's mark is 8-9.

VERONI SAID THE two pitchers have come a long way since the season began. "They've gained quite a bit of maturity throughout the season."

Western Illinois has taken on two other Big Ten teams this season. The Westerwinds defeated Ohio State and lost to Michigan State in the bottom of the eight inning earlier in the season.

Today's doubleheader also marks the last games for two Hawkeye players. Shortstop Marty Pump and left fielder Mary Wisniewski are seniors on the Iowa team this season.

Both Hawkeyes are transfer students who have come into the Iowa program and performed well. "I wish we had them for four years," Parrish said.

"Marty has done a very good job for us this year and added another dimension to our offense and defense," the Iowa coach said. "Mary has also done a really good job for us."

GRID TICKETS ON SALE

Tickets are on sale to students for the 1985 football season at the Ticket Office, Carver Hawkeye Arena. The cost of the tickets is $39.00 per student and $84.00 for a guest ticket. A limited number of guest tickets will be available; therefore, all students ordering these tickets may not receive them. The guest ticket, at the public price, will not be available after May 17, the deadline for student priority.

STUDENT FOOTBALL TICKET POLICY — 1985

- A student may purchase one season ticket at the student price. An additional ticket may be purchased at the public price. A limited number of guest tickets will be available; therefore, all students ordering these tickets may not receive them. The guest ticket, at the public price, will not be available after May 17, the deadline for student priority.
- Students will receive a priority based on the number of consecutive years they have purchased or applied for football tickets at the University of Iowa with no loss in priority for student exchange programs off campus or bona fide illness. An individual who misses two or more consecutive seasons for reasons other than the above will lose all priority.
- Students, to receive their priority for football, must order sometime during the period from April 15 to May 17, 1985. These orders will be filled according to priority and will be available for pickup at fall registration. The student ID card and current registration must be presented at the time of pickup.
- A University student may order season tickets for a group no larger than 8, provided he or she has the additional student credentials with him or her. Each student must pay for his/her own tickets and all students must pick up their own tickets and sign for them. All students must be currently registered and "in good standing" (University bill paid) by August 27. All students cancelled on that date will forfeit their tickets and will receive refunds.
- The lowest priority within a group will determine the location of the entire block of tickets for that group. That is, all students within a group will carry the lowest priority of any member of that group.
- Student season tickets will continue on sale on a non-priority basis after May 17, and will remain on sale through Friday, August 24, 1985, if available.
- A student ticket, to be valid, must be accompanied by an ID card and a current registration certificate. A student ticket may be used by the original purchaser or any other University of Iowa student, but the original purchaser will be held liable for any violations of the student ticket policy. DUPLICATE TICKETS CANNOT BE ISSUED FOR LOST OR STOLEN TICKETS.

Study

ACCORDING TO DONAHUE, most Hawkeye coaches are conscientious of the amount of time their team should miss when making schedules.

"It is important to keep these kids in class," softball Coach Ginny Parrish said, adding "but we're finding a need to start our season earlier, because we can't play in the fall. So it's keep up with the Jones' and go south, which entails missing more class days. But we can live with it (the rule)."

Women's Athletic Director Dr. Christine Grant called Iowa's move "timely." "I think you'll see more and more schools doing it," Grant said.

"For extenuating circumstances we can add a day," Grant commented about the flexibility of the rule.

ON THE POTENTIAL problem with the women's golf program, Grant said it could be solved.

According to Grant, a compromise of sorts could be worked out concerning when the golf team will play, as the bulk of their competition comes on weekends because the weekends are usually reserved for the public, as they are high revenue producing days for university golf facilities.

Concerning revenue, another aspect comes into play — travel. "Yes, we are looking into that," Grant said. "We send a lot of teams on the road by vans and that eats up days."

On the topic of transportation, Casey Mahon, a member of the Board in Control of Athletics said, "You'll see an increase in travel cost, not only because of this, but teams want to compete with top-level teams."

BECKER SAID IT is a problem that good competition often is some distance away. "In field hockey all of the good competition is some distance away," Becker said. "You can explain to students, 'look we're concerned about your education, we're not just concerned about you winning the field hockey game, because when you get out of college you're probably never going to play field hockey again — But you're going to do a lot of other things'."

Becker said the concern right now is with the University of Iowa. "But we are also looking at it in the Big Ten and nationally."

"This is not a policy saying students have to go to class," Becker added. "It is important that we have guidelines that will work for a long time and that will help us keep some kind of balance and help remind people we bring students to the university primarily to be students."

Sixers now waiting for 'survivors'

United Press International

Having won their conference semifinal series in four straight, the Philadelphia 76ers will sit back and wait for three other survivors to emerge.

The Los Angeles Lakers and Denver Nuggets can seal their respective playoff series and move into Western Conference final with victories at home Tuesday night.

Philadelphia's 121-112 win over Milwaukee Sunday knocked the Bucks out of the playoffs, but the 76ers will wait at least a week until the Boston-Detroit Eastern Conference semifinal ends.

The Celtics and Pistons are tied 2-2 after Detroit swept two games at home from the defending league champions.

The Trail Blazers surprised the Lakers Sunday by applying a trapping defense in their 115-107 victory over Los Angeles to post their first victory in the series, now 3-1 in favor of the Lakers.

BUT THE TRAIL BLAZERS, who must meet the Lakers on their home court for Game 5 Tuesday night, sound like their elimination is just a matter of time.

"They know they can wrap it up at home," Trail Blazers guard Jim Paxson said. "There's nobody who expects us to win that game. Nobody in Portland, nobody anywhere."

Group to present eclectic program

The Iowa City Choralaires will present a free concert of sacred, classical, popular and folk music at 8 tonight at Zion Lutheran Church, 310 N. Johnson St.

The program will consist of the Mozart "Magnificat"; "Come, Lovely Spring" from Haydn's oratorio, "The Seasons"; "Exultate Justi" (Psalm 33) by Lodovico da Viadana; three songs arranged by Fred Waring ("Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," "Aura Lee" and "Red Wing"); the spiritual, "Ain't That Good News"; the folk song, "The Turtle Dove," arranged by Ralph Vaughan Williams; the barbershop quartet, "Coney Island Baby"; and a medley of selections from Frank Loesser's "Guys and Dolls."

Patricia Cahalan, doctoral candidate in the UI School of Music, directs the Choralaires, a community chorus of 27 singers. Contributions will be gratefully accepted.

R.E.M. values self-satisfaction over critical favor

By Allen Hogg
Arts/entertainment Editor

Music

FOR R.E.M. bass player Mike Mills, the critical acclaim his band's music has received is nice, but it's not really what his job is all about.

"It's really good that (the critics) like it," he said in a recent telephone interview, "but you can't really think about it all that much. You can't make records for anybody else, so we just make them for ourselves. And if we're happy, then whatever else happens is fine."

The "whatever else" that has happened for the members of R.E.M. includes winning the Rolling Stone magazine designation as best new artists of 1983 and having their first LP, Murmur, win the magazine's best album accolade the same year. The previous year, the group's debut mini-album, Chronic Town, topped the Village Voice's critics' poll list of the best EPs. Their second album, Reckoning, also scored high in all of the past winter's critics' polls and Record magazine called the group one of the five best live acts of last year.

This Thursday night, the group will bring their highly-acclaimed live act to Hancher Auditorium where they will perform in a concert presented by the Student Commission on Programming and Entertainment beginning at 8 p.m.

R.E.M. IS KNOWN for a jangly pop sound that the group's often-fanatical fans find to be both immediately accessible and totally unique. Some writers have identified the cause of this sound to be the combination of lyricist and lead singer Michael Stipes' avant-garde impulses and guitarist Peter Buck's traditional rock 'n' roll instincts. Mills agreed with this line of thinking. "If Michael were left to his own devices, we would be a lot stranger than we are now. And if Peter were doing it without Michael, certainly the lyrics wouldn't be as interesting—or at least they wouldn't be what they are," he said.

But Mills sees himself and drummer Bill Berry as having important roles as well. "Everyone always looks at the singer and the guitar player as the leaders of the band, and that's fine," he said. "I don't do what I do for the band to get known for it. But everyone writes the songs; everyone does their bit. And none of us are more important than any of the others. I mean, without any one of us, the band would break down."

Mills, however, believes it is the band's attitude as well as its music which has inspired fans and critics alike. "I think what people like is the way we've gone about things in terms of not knuckling under to show business pressure," he said. "We still do things our way. I think that's what people really enjoy seeing, some people who haven't had to compromise their integrity to get somewhere."

IF THEIR HAS BEEN one main criticism levelled at R.E.M., it's that the group's records are produced so that the lyrics can't be understood. Mills, however, denies this is true. "For the most part they can. It's just that people have been told so often that they can't that they don't even try," he said. "The thing is that these days everything is so surface and everyone's words are so easy to understand that if you can't hear them right off people just go, 'Oh, well, you can't understand them,' and they give up."

Mills added that the lyrics aren't really the main thrust of the band's songs anyway. "The words are not really all you are supposed to hear; it's just not really what our music is all about," he said.

ALTHOUGH BOTH OF R.E.M.'s LPs have made the Top 50 and such album cuts as "Radio Free Europe" and "South Central Rain" have received considerable radio airplay, the group really doesn't have its oft-predicted breakthrough hit. The band's murky lyrics are probably one big reason for this. Mills, however, sees this as more of a blessing than a curse. "People say, 'Oh my God, if you clear 'em up and make 'em louder people could understand 'em and you could have a hit.' I can't really think of Peter Buck, Mike Mills, Bill Berry, and Michael Stipes. R.E.M. has gained critical success and public popularity, but values most the integrity of its music.

anything worse than having a huge hit. After you do that, that's all people want to hear. They come to your show and all they want to hear is the hit. People hear one song and that's 'you to them. 'R.E.M.? Oh, that's THAT song.' This way, people buy our records and they like all the songs; there's no one song that's a real stand-out," he said.

SO, INSTEAD OF concentrating on a big hit, Mills says R.E.M. has been working on "slow, but steady" growth. "If you have the hit, 'Bang!' there you go. I mean, look what happened to the Go-Gos. Their very first album went straight to No. 1 and anything after that's a failure. Their second album sold 700,000 copies and people thought it was a failure because it didn't sell 2 million. So, I prefer we grow by going out and playing live and having word of mouth, the press, college radio and that sort of thing get us more fans."

R.E.M. has, in fact, emerged in the last couple of years as leading champions of college radio and "underground" American music. "There's definitely a lot of great things going on," Mills said. "It's real exciting, as a matter of fact, because even when we started just five years ago there was just not much at all. Just in that time, American music has made great strides."

Although Mills is hopeful some "underground" groups like Jason and the Scorchers and Let's Active can bridge the gap into the commercial mainstream, he does not think Top 40 radio will be able to handle much of an "emergence." "I think Top 40 runs in cycles. At any point, half of it sucks and that's on a good day. It's just the state of radio, what (programmers) think people want to hear. I don't know of any way of changing that other than to just keep playing and touch as many people as possible. And, if bands like us and the Scorchers can be successful, maybe that will show the radio industry that there is something other than love ballads or disco or whatever they think is the big hit stuff."

R.E.M.'s NEWEST album, Fables of the Reconstruction, is due to be released on I.R.S. Records May 27. Unlike the band's previous two LPs which were recorded in Charlotte, N.C., with Mitch Easter and Don Dixon producing, the new disc was recorded in London with Richard Thompson's producer Joe Boyd running the show. "We were really happy with (Easter and Dixon), but life is an experience, you know, and we wanted to see what would happen if we used other people," Mills said.

Mills describes the sound of the new album as "pretty different." "I think the songs are even better. And there are some surprises on the record—strings and horns and things like that. A lot of people are going to hear it and go, 'What is this?'" he said.

Mills said Thursday's Hancher show should include a lot of the new material, but he couldn't predict exactly what it would be like. "They're all different, which is the best thing you can say about them. You never know what to expect."

He's a famed biologist. But she's more interested in anatomy.

Twenty-five years ago, Dr. Harry Wolper became a widower. Ever since, he's been trying to bring back his wife.

But just when he was about to unravel the mystery of life, a sexy young assistant moved in.

Now, the only life that's come unraveled is his own.

Creator

It's potentially dangerous, probably illegal and definitely crazy.
