Cronin's tactics annoy parents

James Horton

In the most recent proposal by Cronin to parents, there are to be additional changes to the school board meeting schedule. For a number of years, the two school districts have been involved in problems due to the "open admissions policy." How they got to be that way, we haven't found out yet. The board has set a new date for the next meeting, and the meeting will be held in the afternoons at 4:30.

This change was made to avoid the situation of having so many people attend the meetings that they would be unable to vote on motions. The board has decided that they will meet every other week, and the meetings will be held at 4:30.

The board is also working on a proposal to change the way they handle complaints from parents. The board has decided that they will not respond to complaints unless they are in writing, and that they will only respond to complaints that are received by the superintendent.

Kasper leaves chamber position after 33 years

By Owen Umphred

Chamber president

In 33 years of serving the community, Kasper has been a voice for small business and a advocate for local industries. Kasper has been a member of the chamber since 1959, and has served as president for 11 terms. Kasper has been involved in numerous community projects, and has been a driving force behind the chamber's growth.

Kasper was born in Iowa City in 1928, and attended the University of Iowa. He worked for several years in the construction industry, and later founded his own business. Kasper has been married for 60 years to his wife, Mary.

Kasper's legacy will be remembered in the community, and he will be missed by everyone he has worked with over the years. The chamber and the community as a whole will miss Kasper, and his contributions will not be forgotten.

Bret Nelson leaves lead job at P.C. Fable, after 30 years

Bret Nelson, a retired newspaperman, was the lead reporter for the P.C. Fable for 30 years. Nelson was known for his sharp writing and his ability to get to the heart of the story. Nelson retired from the P.C. Fable in 2007, after a long and successful career. Nelson was the recipient of several awards, including the National Press Club's Distinguished Service Award.

Nelson was born in Iowa City in 1940, and attended the University of Iowa. He worked for several newspapers in Iowa, including the P.C. Fable, the Iowa City Press-Citizen, and the Cedar Rapids Gazette. Nelson was a member of the Iowa Press Club, and was a past president of the Iowa Press Club.

Nelson's legacy will be remembered in the community, and he will be missed by everyone he has worked with over the years. The P.C. Fable and the community as a whole will miss Nelson, and his contributions will not be forgotten.
Woman breaks free from attacker

By Greg Rolling

As Dave Wentz left the 20th Avenue Bar last October, he was turned around by a chat with a woman who invaded his personal space. A few minutes later, the same woman was in the car Wentz had parked just outside the bar.

"I was afraid," said Wentz, who returned home Monday. "I was scared for my life."

His fear was justified. Wentz, who was walking in the street with his wife, was attacked by the woman who had been in his car. Wentz fought back and managed to escape, but the woman continued to follow him.

When he reached his home, Wentz called 911 and reported the incident. Police arrived and found the woman walking in the street. She was arrested and charged with aggravated assault.

"It's not often you hear about a woman attacking a man," said Wentz. "But it happens. And we need to be aware of it."
Then through the Technology Innovation Center at UI, a program run by UI President Bruce McPheron, there are also entrepreneurial resources offered beyond university boundaries.

"UI's entrepreneurial service maintains a running listing of the research opportunities of UI faculty members," McPheron said. The center provides networking roles to UI professors who volunteer their expertise.

"The main way people in the business community can connect to the work being done by CPU and professional centers," McPheron said, "is to let us know who they want to talk to, we always say, and we'll find a way to make that happen."

Wheaton also emphasized the importance of quality research at the UI and its link to the referral network.

"Certainly, the Innovation Center is in place to connect that research and the very talented people who do work at the university," he said. "Funding is important for those who do the research in the area, state and national and at UI.

"If one is going to support the area as a leader in one field of academic and scientific research, people on the outside are more excited about what happens in the world and less interested in what happens here.

Wheaton said the UI had to become more widely used before it becomes really effective.

"Part of what UI business does at UI is to establish itself as a handle for companies to contact researchers," Wheaton said, "ultimately, that should work in the opposite direction as well so that people in research are able to approach those in business and industry with their shine lines.

Wheaton said although many requests for UI research come in the area of high technology, the university has also received requests for assistance in the fields of technical writing and language translation.

"We don't have to have research going on at the university," Wheaton said, "we have to be able to link to someone at the university."
Thinks' fate

Go home and raise hell.

This is the day many residents of whom have spent the year at college prognosticate. If any listening and learning has really been done, opinions held now are considerably different than the ones espoused before coming to these portals.

Parents who see students off with trepidation, worried that their offspring might "change" at the university, deserve to have their fears realized. For who in a new arena would send someone off to college to be exposed to the accumulated wisdom of the centuries and want - just alone expect - no change?

Even assuming that students have the talent and desire to become significantly different people, the transition to college makes people feel good about it. That has ever been the fate of thinking people everywhere.

The right risk

As citizens in a nation of immigrants, people in the United States should understand how difficult it is for people to leave their native land. It's a decision to be taken lightly. Yet, many Central Americans must make that choice. They can stay home and risk certain terror and possible death, or they can face the unknown from here, knowing that the better choice may not be as pleasant. But, U.S. government immigration policy makes them the only choice.

They have been caught between the represented - by their government, paid for by us. The Salvadoran, for example, has received aid. But is it a burden? From the Honduran administration since 1982, March of the money has been spent in all the work that has been done during that time. It is understandable, in light of these numbers, that many Salvadorans, among their relatives and friends, choose to get out. Like my friend in Poland in 1982, they flee to this country for safety. Unlike those fleeing from communism. They are not welcomed in this land, they are not here to stay here.

In response to this injustice many concerned citizens have joined the sanctuary movement. They help political refugees remain in the U.S. by helping them to find jobs, food, and shelter. As a nation we are capable of much more.

But these political refugees need not be drastic measures. There are sanctuary groups that provide for Salvadoran refugees. Both sanctuary and churches where these refugees have been housed are vital to the lives of Central American refugees.

What we do for these taken by sanctuary workers in administrators. It's not necessary. The same extended voluntary deportation stance that is given to the victims of governments that we disagree of could easily be extended to Central Americans. It's time to use the power of U.S. policy in Central America, and to see at the conditions forcing people out of their homes html. Until then, civil disobedience through the sanctuary movement is not criminal. It is right.

New Coke isn't it?

After 9 years, Coke has changed it, "claiming it is still "The Real Thing." What is it? It is insipid for those of us who grew up in the great class of cold接入 of Coke of Coke.

Coca-Cola officials said that the new taste is "sweeter, rounder, yet bolder." It's a more harmonious flavor. But people sampling the new product couldn't integrate his new sweet flavor with the hard sweetness of Coke.

But all this is carbonated water under the bridge. Coke has made its choice and compressing won't help any. The woman answering the toll-free Coke bottle (1-800-GET-COKE) claims the ratio of compliments to complaints is about 75:25.

"We've been here since 1886 and the old formula remained untasted in the vault at the company's Atlanta headquarters," said a Coca-Cola spokesman.

Coke lovers of the old school have one last chance of survival:

"If no, let's just develop the market for a new product and see how it works."

Ms. Smith Needs a Thank You

To the Editor:

On behalf of the National Multiracial Student Congress I would like to thank everyone who supported the job that you did at the spring in increasing awareness and raising funds for the organization. I would personally like to thank everyone who has supported me in this effort.

Everyone needs to know how the funds affects young adults. The National Congress of Students of Color was formed in 1986.

Christian Aid

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to the April 12 column in the "African American" section of the "Christian Science Monitor." I have to wonder about a group of people that calls itself "Christian" and yet favors continued aid to carry out the rape, torture, and murder of thousands of innocent people in Nicaragua. This is a very sad day for our American society. I believe that we should be putting our resources into helping the less fortunate and not helping the people who commit such atrocities.

As a member of the National Multiracial Student Congress, I have to wonder about a group of people that calls itself "Christian" and yet favors continued aid to carry out the rape, torture, and murder of thousands of innocent people in Nicaragua.

No-confidence vote

To the Editor:

I am ashamed to have voted for none of the candidates who are U.S. student senators. That said, I am ashamed of the student senate. I am ashamed of the manner in which the student senate has turned the established order on its head.

"I was humiliated. I felt awful," said one student who voted for the president. "I knew that my actions were wrong, but I had no choice."

Bill curbs freedom of information

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A Senate Judiciary subcommittee Wednesday appproved legislation to nullify the Freedom of Information Act by limiting access to certain law enforcement, business and othernership records.

The panel approved the bill, identical to one the Senate adopted last year, by a 7-5

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ohio, a former journ-ilette, was the only member of the subcommittee on the Constitution to object to the proposed changes of the 1966 law designed to free up the vast amount of public information that is being kept from the public.

Several media groups, including the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Radio and Television News Directors Association and the Society of Professional Journalists object to the bill in Modern war began and the Christian eastern section of the capital.

Kidnap

As army spokesmen said and at least two soldiers, a Moslem and a Christian, were killed near their cliques and official gar-ses during open fighting, the body count rose to five killed and three civilians injured.

The news also said that six people were piled up on both sides of the Green Line by bullets and shrapnel. The latest bloodshed brought the total casualty toll to 16 days of violence. The death toll was not immediately announced.

With no end in sight to the conflict, pressure appeared to be building for direct American military intervention.

The Reds also said that the fighting included links between Lebanese Moslem militia leaders and Syrian Vice President

Abol Fuleh Khaddour, the architect of Syria's Lebanese policy.

In threeday's efforts to end the fighting included talks between Lebanese Moslem

militia leaders and Syrian Vice President

Abol Fuleh Khaddour, the architect of Syria's Lebanese policy.

International observers noted the political and military stalemate.

National acts bring blues to area

Springsteen reception held at hotel.

Tonight is the Springsteen reception at the Copper Hotel. The hotel, a San Francisco-based hotel whose dates above, takes place in front of the hotel earlier this year.

The reception will feature a private performance by Bruce Springsteen and his band. The hotel is one of several locations in the area where the musician has performed in recent years.

Springsteen is known for his powerful performances and his ability to connect with audiences. His music often deals with themes of social justice and personal struggle.

The reception is expected to draw a large crowd, with tickets sold out well in advance. Hotels in the area have been booked to capacity for the weekend, with many fans arriving days early to secure their accommodations.

The hotel itself is located in a picturesque area, with views of the nearby mountains and the ocean. The event is being held in the hotel's ballroom, which has been decorated in keeping with the musician's style.

The reception is free and open to the public, with a limited number of tickets available. Fans are encouraged to arrive early to secure their positions and prepare for a night of music and celebration.

For more information, visit the hotel's website or contact the hotel directly.

Novotny's seeks RAGBRAI design theme

Ragbrai is planning a promotion campaign in conjunction with the Iowa Cyclist RAGBRAI, which is being held on the whole bike loop, to offer a $25 prize for the best city for the RAGBRAI event.

Novotny's, owner of the Cyclist RAGBRAI, said that the event is open to other businesses, but he must be sure to include the Iowa Cyclist RAGBRAI.

The winning design will be used on signs and other items, and will include the winner's business. The winner will be announced by June 30th.

Neilson, Keenan – Coaches of the year

ST. LOUIS (UPI) - Neilson of the Milwaukee Brewers and Keenan of the Chicago Bears were named Coaches of the Year in the National Football League.

Neilson, NFL coach for the year, was named Executive of the Year for the Professional Football League of the Year at the annual awards banquet in Kansas City.

Today, Neilson will return for an second year and Keenan will return for a third year.

The progression will be 2:1 and 2:1 in the next year with a team batting average of only .231 but he has been pressing too hard to perform well now.

Back then, Neilson had no idea he was going to win a second year.

The Sporting News also named him Coach of the Year.

Rocky Bleier, who did not play in the victory over Fernando Valenzuela, said "Have a good day.

I talked to John Thompson about taking over the Bulls' coaching job, the Chicago Sun-Times reported Wednesday.

"There's a lot of interest there," Thompson said.

Persons wishing to design a design idea for the Cyclist RAGBRAI, which is being held on the whole bike loop, to offer a $25 prize for the best city for the RAGBRAI event.

Novotny's, owner of the Cyclist RAGBRAI, said that the event is open to other businesses, but he must be sure to include the Iowa Cyclist RAGBRAI.

The winning design will be used on signs and other items, and will include the winner's business. The winner will be announced by June 30th.

Gardner stuck with bullpen

United Press International

Manager Nick Gardner Tuesday night announced that he will stay with the bogus reliever even if his ERA nears seven.

"There's nothing down in the minors," said Gardner. "There's always a flair for the dramatic in baseball. You can't get two losses in a row. If he's not good enough to play against the major league teams, he's good enough to play against the minor league ones.

"I've been around this game long enough to see that things happen. The guys who are good enough to stay in the big leagues are the ones who can keep on top of things."

Memphis State faces attack from NAACP

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Memphis State's basketball program, already under fire for possible links to a federal point-shaving investigation, drew a new charge Wednesday for alleged exploitation of black athletes.

Three players and five others have been charged with federal point-shaving violations, and state NAACP officials urged the school to testify.

The Memphis branch of the NAACP charged Coach Dana Kirk ignores his players' protests and past NAACP investigation showed Memphis State fails to give enough academic help to black athletes.

"We feel very good about that (NAACP investigation)," said Bernard Holmes, state NAACP civil rights director. "They feel isolated, they feel that they don't have anybody really to turn to."

Memphis State said it had issued no new charges since the NAACP investigation.

"In addition to attacking the integrity of us, the point-shaving players, we believe the NCAA has done the right thing in coming forward," said Bernard Holmes, state NAACP civil rights director. "They feel isolated, they feel that they don't have anybody really to turn to."
