New sites for city offices suggested

By David Roth

The construction of a new three-story building that would replace the current City Council building has been approved by the City Council, pending the purchase of a suitable site.

The new building would be located at the intersection of Main and Market streets, with construction to begin immediately.

The current building, which was built in 1920, is no longer able to accommodate the needs of the City Council.

The new building will be designed to meet the needs of the City Council and will feature increased space for meetings and offices.

The cost of the new building is estimated to be $5 million, with construction expected to take three years.

The City Council has already begun the process of purchasing the land for the new building, and the site is expected to be ready for construction within the next six months.

Melrose developers may sue

By David Roth

New Melrose may expect to face a lawsuit from some of the property owners who lost land when the city council bought the land for a new water tower.

The council purchased the land in 1995 for $1.5 million, with the hope of building a new water tower to serve the growing city.

Some of the property owners are now suing the city, claiming that the city did not pay a fair price for the land.

The city has already begun the process of constructing the new water tower, with the hope that it will be completed within the next year.

Iowa homecoming 'draws' on local artists

Gov. Terry Branstad has been working hard to improve Iowa's economy, and he has been especially focused on supporting local artists.

One of the ways he has done this is through his "Iowa Homecoming" program, which was created to help bring artists back to their home state.

The program has been successful, with many artists moving back to Iowa and contributing to the local economy.

Child-rearing costs listed at $140,000

By James Hohler

Children can be a great thing, but about $148,000, according to the Iowa Office of Planning and Accountability, is needed to raise a child from birth to age 18.

The state estimates it costs middle-income families $109,000 to raise a child to age 3; $48,000 for children age 3-6 and $42,000 for children age 6-18.

The figures, based on a 1985 study, include college.

Hettinger said the figures were the result of a planning group going on between the two agencies. He said the figures were a fragment of a larger study of state agencies. The figures include the cost and expenses.

Leo Theilen, director of the Iowa Department of Education, said the figures are based on a 1985 study.

"I'm glad to see that we're doing something more for children," he said.

"People are getting married later, and I don't think that's all because of the high cost of child care," Pope said. "I think it's a combination of things. Part of it's the lack of child care, but there are other factors that make it difficult for people to have children.

"The figures, based on a 1985 study, include college.

"In the past, the figures did not include college costs."

Wilson said that the history of textile is not generally included in the history of art, and that he hopes the workshop will break some stereotypes about fiber art.

Wilson, whose work has been on view in New York City, said that his work is a mix of both graphic and textile art. "I'm really special to see what is going on," Wilson said.

The development of a foot traffic management system on Iowa Avenue and Washington Street is a step closer to reality, as the city council on Tuesday approved $200,000 to move the project forward.

The project, which has been in the works for several years, aims to improve pedestrian safety and accessibility in the area.

Mayor John McDonald said the approval was a significant milestone for the project and he looked forward to seeing the finished product.

The council also discussed other matters, including a proposed increase in parking rates and a potential increase in the city's property tax rate.

The meeting concluded with a vote to approve a resolution supporting a new regional transportation plan.

Frat offer summer housing
By Rhys Fregg
For the Daily Iowan

The city of Iowa City is currently offering a new type of housing option for students during the summer months. The option, called "summer fraternity," has gained popularity in recent years.

The program allows students to lease apartments for the summer months, effectively becoming residents of fraternity houses.

"Summer fraternity" offers several benefits to students, including reduced monthly rent, access to social events, and the opportunity to live in a more residential setting.

"Summer fraternity" is a unique concept that has been gaining traction in recent years. If you're interested in learning more about this option, please speak with your resident advisor or contact the city of Iowa City's housing department.

U.S.-supplied helicopters used in Salvadoran army operation

SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Hundreds of troops backed by U.S.- supplied helicopters and tanks searched a village north of the capital Wednesday for guerrillas who have been fighting a 20-month-old civil war. An unidentified black man was killed and 12 others were wounded when helicopter gunships fired at a home in the town of San Rafael, about 50 miles east of San Salvador, police in the town said.

The military said it was searching for guerrillas who are supposed to be barricading a road near the village.

The United States has provided $110 million in aid to the El Salvador government since the war began in 1980. The United States is providing military equipment to the Salvadoran army to help in the war against guerrillas.

The guerrillas, who are mostly peasants, have been fighting for independence from the United States.

Police fire youths in Soweto

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — An 18-year-old black man was killed and about 50 youths were wounded when police opened fire on a crowd of about 1,000 who had been marching in a demonstration against the white minority government.

The man was killed when the crowd of youths, who had been marching for hours, began to throw stones and taunt police, an official said.

The police opened fire with tear gas cannisters after warning the crowd to leave the streets.

The demonstration was one of several that have been held in Soweto, a township of about 1 million people, during the past week.

Famine woesms: Sudan faces crisis

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The specter of impending famine is haunting Sudan, a country that has been plagued by drought and famine since the early 1980s.

Bill Elliott, passing up a tire on the 17th turn, was still not quite fast to advance to the pole Friday night before a record crowd of more than 185,000 at Michigan International Speedway.

Elliott gambled on the last round of pit stops when he passed leader Rusty Wallace on the 17th turn of the final lap and won the pole by one-tenth of a second.

"I was disappointed, though," he added. "Even if it didn't make it in the final, I was hoping for a p.r. (personal record)."

"I don't think the race was very good," Warrance said. "But I don't think it finished well. He had some problems with the motor. It was good experience for him, that's for sure. He's hanging quite well for a freshman.

"It will be the first time in his career this spring, qualified for next weekend's Junior National in Elkton, Md."

Elliott races to Michigan 400 title

Elliott qualifier, gave up a five-car change in his car with 10 miles remaining, used the extra time to capture the Michigan 400 NASCAR race heading over Darrell Waltrip before a record crowd of more than 70,000 at Michigan International Speedway.

Elliott qualified on the last round of pit stops when he decided to change times while Waltrip was in second place, took a right-hand truck. Elliott sped 62 seconds in the pits while Waltrip took 1 minute 33 seconds.

"The race is the last one and the last time I'll be here," Elliott said. "I'd have Waltrip by 133 seconds at an average speed of 174.6 mph.
"I didn't need to change times," Elliott said. "We felt good on the left. I think we got out too fast. I guess I got out too fast. I wasn't thinking of being the leader at the end. I was working the corners better than Darrell. He's a very hard man to beat."

Elliott added he will not run out of fuel.

Pacers facing NBA draft dilemma

NEW YORK (UPI) - The Indiana Pacers can select one of the greatest centers in NBA history in Tuesday's NBA Draft. But they may not want him.

The Pacers, the low 2- pick, will choose from a pair of earlyEntering the draft. Indiana Pacers Forward of the Year Reggie Miller and Kentucky Center Patrick Ewing of Georgetown. So the spotlight falls on the Pacers.

Today, the sixth-leading scorer in NBA history, is a proven commodity with an exciting offensive game and personal skill to match. Bigman, who never thought he would remain in college for his senior year, was not selected heavily and there are questions about his body weight.

"I don't know how it came from within me," said Bradley, who last won at the 1984 Chicago Bulls. "I didn't know how it came from within me to hang on, making par from everywhere when I needed to make par."

Hawks perform against the best

By Melissa Mapport
Sports Editor

"It was just one of those days," the Hawks' senior and team captain, said about their game against the Aledo Bears. The Hawks, with a record of 12-2, were looking to advance to the state playoffs and needed a win to do so. The Bears, on the other hand, were only 5-9 and had never won against the Hawks in their history.

Despite the odds against them, the Hawks came out strong in the first quarter, scoring 14 points. The Bears were unable to keep up with the pace and found themselves down by double digits. In the second quarter, the Hawks continued their dominance, scoring another 18 points to take a 32-0 lead into halftime.

The third quarter was a dominant display of the Hawks' skill and determination. They scored 24 more points, bringing their total to 56, and essentially put the game out of reach for the Bears.

In the final quarter, the Hawks slowed their pace but still managed to score 10 more points, finishing the game with a final score of 66-0. The win was a testament to the Hawks' hard work and dedication, and they look forward to the state playoffs that await them.

North wins coveted Open title

BREMINGTON, Fla. (UPI) — Andy North, who for the last several years has struggled to live up to the expectations of a U.S. Open champion, carried a 5-foot birdie at the 18th hole to win the 98th U.S. Open golf title for the second time.

North, 38, whose two earlier titles came in a heat with (Iowa's) Morgan Hoffman in the final heat in the 1988 U.S. Open, had a total of 281, nine under par, for the two rounds.

North's victory at the U.S. Open was his third major championship win, following two wins in the British Open.

"It was North, standing himself after three consecutive losses in the middle of the crowd," said an elated Andy North.

LE Mans, France (UPI) — Klaus Ludwig of West Germany, whose recent faith in the Porsche 956 car has been vindicated, won the 24-hour race in Le Mans Sunday and took his second consecutive Le Mans crown. West German Hurst won for the first time.

Ludwig, 27-years-old, earned his third Le Mans victory with the West German Porsche team of Briton Rene Millet and Italy's Michele Alboreto, the world championship leader.

"It was our first try," Ludwig said of the win. "We've been trying for two years now and finally we've done it."

Porsche FILLED

With 14 hours left, top Porsche Caracciolo, which led most of the race, hit the brakes at the 12th hole, but hit a wild tee shot to the 13th green. He then hit the shot on the 18th green, but missed the hole.

"It was a dramatic finish," said Ludwig, who had been leading the race since the 12th hour. "I had a chance to win, but I didn't."
