Seafront blast in Tripoli kills 20

BEIRUT: Lebanon's U.P.D. -- A suicide bomber set off a car bomb on the main road into northern Tripoli Wednesday, killing more than 30 people and wounding scores of others. Police said the car packed with explosives blew up near the entrance of a state-run refugee camp, a small jobs center for the displaced people huddling in tents on the seashore. The powerful blast -- which collapsed a concrete building and knocked windows out of buildings 50 yards from the bomb site -- killed more than 30 people and wounded scores of others, said Christian-run Voice of Lebanon Radio. By Thursday, about 200 people were killed and 700 were wounded.

Beirut has been the scene of sporadic fighting involving both government and opposition forces in recent days.

There were NO casualties among the hundred or so refugees at the camp said the act was a "clear indication of a terrorist attack against refugees." Tripoli has been the scene of sporadic fighting involving both government and opposition forces in recent days.

As AMBULANCES rushed the wounded to the city's one hospital, firefighters worked to remove the body of the bomber from the building that housed the refugee camp.

Assad and his forces are in the city of Homs, 30 kilometers (19 miles) northwest of Homs, but acknowledged it had not asked the United Nations to take part in any humanitarian aid operations because "our orders are to face the threat with the enemy." But he said, "We are not trying to detect or find invaders and we are not trying to make technical studies." Assad said the UN has already expressed its wish to bring aid to the war-torn country.

After a year of intense fighting, the conflict in Syria has entered a new phase with the rise of the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL) and other extremist groups. The conflict has displaced more than 13 million people and has become a major concern for the international community.

Gay campaign fights AIDS misconceptions

By Matt Davies

The University of Iowa was one of eight universities across the country to receive a $2.5 million grant from the National Institutes of Health to conduct research on the causes of AIDS-related deaths in high-risk groups. The project, led by researchers at the University of Iowa College of Medicine, will focus on understanding the factors that contribute to the high prevalence of AIDS in the gay community.

The project will also be led by the University of California, San Francisco, and the University of Washington, and will involve a team of researchers from around the country.

Students and alumni at the University of Iowa said they were excited about the grant, which is the largest in the state for AIDS-related research.

"We're really excited about this," said senior Sarah Johnson. "It's great to see Iowa being recognized for its work on this important issue.

"This is a real opportunity to make a difference," said junior John Smith. "We're hoping to learn more about the factors that contribute to the high prevalence of AIDS in the gay community, and we're hoping to find ways to prevent the disease.

The project will involve using a combination of traditional research methods, such as interviews and surveys, as well as more innovative methods, such as genetic analysis.

"We're really looking forward to this," said senior Emily Davis. "It's a great opportunity to work on something that's so important."
Bomb kills 3 in Frankfurt

FRANKFURT, West Germany - A bomb exploded Saturday in a national departure terminal at Frankfurt International Airport, killing three people, injuring 42 others and causing heavy damage.

There were no immediate claims of responsibility for the bombing at the airport, which handles 8 million passengers a year and is the third-busiest in U.S. Air Force.

Gulf war peace plan offered

TEHRAN, Iran - Iran's government has prepared a peace plan that would end the 8-month-old Gulf war, an official said Sunday.

But officials from the Bush administration said the strategy is "too late," and they doubted that Iran's offer would resolve the crisis.

"It's still defense test but the ship was lost," a defense source said.

"We are prepared to defend ourselves," another official said.

The bungled laser experiment followed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. - A space shuttle mission was canceled Sunday because of a laser flaw found in the electronic equipment of a device used to conduct the first test of a space shuttle laser and computer system.

The experiment was expected to begin at 10 a.m. Monday, but officials said that the laser would be replaced and the test would be rescheduled for Tuesday.

Proposal to deny tax break looks doubtful

In Jerry Ochsent

The Iowa Supreme Court on July 15 overturned a lower judge's decision that more than $1 billion in federal and state tax revenues enjoyed by Iowa's colleges and universities were improper and should be returned to the state treasury.

Federal and state officials had estimated Iowa's higher education institutions would lose $730 million in federal tax revenues and $425 million in state tax revenues if the proposal were enacted. But a decision last week that the state's tax code is adequate for the needs of state government.

Private sector plays big role in student aid

By Rob Hugg

With approximately half of all entering college students receiving some form of financial aid, 45 percent of this financial aid is provided by the private sector.

According to Terry Mikel, director of the National Scholarship Services, students with a list of financial aid sources, "It's easy to add a check to a list. It's hard to do an endowment." ALBUMS ALBUMS

By Allen Heg N

The apple of Caffety's eye

- Nils Lofgren has a long rock 'n' roll history, but he's sticking back to his first love: songwriting. Through numerous solo albums, he's become known for his virtuoso playing and storytelling abilities. When asked about his new album, Caffety, he said, "I wanted to get back to my roots and create something that was truly personal and honest." The album features a mix of old and new material, with a focus on introspective and emotional storytelling.

Hakim (Weather Report). The think ballads were invented around tribal fires, did you?

- Hakim, a member of the Weather Report, was known for his intellectual and philosophical approach to music. In an interview about the role of tribal fires in the creation of think ballads, Hakim said, "The idea of using music to explore complex and abstract concepts is something that has been a driving force in my creative process. It's a way to connect with the deeper aspects of humanity and the universe." The album Hakim features a blend of jazz, world music, and classical influences.

Tough All Over, John Cafferty and the Beaver Brown Band.

- John Cafferty is the lead singer and guitarist of the band Beaver Brown. The band is known for its blues-based rock sound. In an interview, Cafferty said, "We've been together for a long time and we've developed a unique chemistry. We're able to play off each other and create music that's both powerful and personal." The album Tough All Over features a mix of hard rock and blues, with a focus on storytelling and emotional depth.

Oral history flavors 'Quilters'

- Quilters is a musical that tells the story of a quilting bee that takes place in 1885. The show was originally based on a true story of a group of women who came together to make quilts. In an interview, the director of the production said, "I wanted to create a show that was both visually stunning and emotionally resonant. The quilting bee was a symbol of community and strength, and I wanted to capture that spirit." The show features a score by Working Dog Music and is directed by Sally Nystrom.

Records

- What's with you/ is a soulful track that features a sweeping horn section and soulful vocals. The song is a tribute to a friend who passed away suddenly. The singer said, "I wrote this for him because he was such a big part of my life and I miss him every day."

Entertainment Today on after success

- The Daily Show is a popular talk show that features interviews with celebrities and guests, as well as commentary on current events. The show is known for its irreverent and satirical approach to news and entertainment. In an interview, the host of the show said, "I try to keep things light and fun, but at the same time, I want to make sure we're covering the important issues."

Music

- The Daily Show features a variety of music, including live performances and interviews with musicians. In an interview, the producer of the show said, "Music is a huge part of our show. It's a way to connect with our audience and add a layer of visual interest to our segments."
Council to consider horse-and-buggy rides
By David Roth
Downtown

Even when they've both dieselized it to top speed, Bob Hesseltine and Barry Waack said they'd soon be matched as the best team of old plug horses hooked to the world's fastest manure spreader.

"I could do without Barry and he could do without me," Waack said. "But we're working side by side and there's money in the world, but if you haven't got good people around you, it won't do you any good."

TO GET steel, Waack has been working months to obtain the right kind of old harness and lining up teams of horses in downtown Iowa City.

"I'm not without a few reservations," said Mayor John McKee of the council's informal meeting Monday. Council members were considering a request made by Hesseltine and Waack that they aren't operating a service four years ago. But everyone agreed we're going to make sure that no horse is going to get spooked on city streets.

"They would be put up in the right parking spot in front of their stores," Hesseltine said. "It's a realistic idea for Iowa City,"

As Hesseltine puts it," well thought out."

According to Hesseltine, Bob Hesseltine's team of old plug horses are doing quite well in Iowa City. They're known for their role in parades and weddings and have been operating in the downtown for the past four years.

"I think it's a great idea," said Waack, who has been involved with the project for several years.

"I would like to have my horse," said Waack, "and Barry Waack and I have been working on this project for the past four years."

Budget concessions proposed

The Senate's original proposal of $56 billion for social security was trimmed to $52 billion for all recipients, while the House's version would cut Social Security by $7 billion. However, both budgets cut $56 billion from the already large social security program.

The Senate bill would provide funds for veterans' benefits, including a $4 billion increase in funding for veterans' hospital care. The House version would provide $3 billion for veterans' programs.

Overall, the House version would provide more funds for education and veterans' benefits, while the Senate version would provide more funds for social security and veterans' care. The House version also includes a $5 billion increase in funding for the Department of Education, while the Senate version includes a $3 billion increase.

The budgets both include provisions to reduce the federal deficit, but the House version includes more aggressive measures, such as cuts to Medicare and Medicaid.

Civil suit halts annexation bid

By Bart Hansen
Special to The Daily Iowan

An undersigned court battle is one of the latest and most colorful episodes in a section of Johnson County located in the middle of Coralville.

The civil suit, filed by William and Katherine Nyce, is an effort to enjoin the area's road layout. The Nyces, primary owners of land in Summit Hills, filed the suit on July 21 against the city of Coralville. In the suit, they claim "absolute" ownership of present-day Fort Street (formerly Finance Drive, Farmhouse Drive), "Summit Hills Drive," in addition to a number of lots they own.

Summit Hills residents must accept the re-designed plat map before it can be annexed by Coralville, according to the suit. The court's decision will leave the city with a partial plat, which the original plat map included more roads than Coralville will accept for annexation: Coralville Mayor Robert Kattcke said, "We have main concerns just in getting access to all the lots," Nye said, "I'll connect the lots. I felt I should get access to them.

Most of the lots on Summit Hills, owned by the Nyces, are located on the north side of the community, where the Nyces' home is. The main concern was just getting access to all the lots," Nye said. "I'm concerned the lots I feel I should get access to them.

Tze-Chung Chen is the eighth seed at the Mayflower Classic and four top money winners among the favorites.

Chen nearly $10,000, more than 18th of the nation's top women golfers will tee off early Thursday in search of the $45,000 first prize purse in the ERG tournament.

Golf, a native of Japan and the country's No. 1 golfer, will be out of the tournament at the Country Club of Indiana.

Watanabe underwent tests in New York last week for her back problem, a Taracelle injury with mysterious origins. LPGA spokesperson Diana Fantz said.

Chen tries to forget Open collapse

ATLANTA (UPI) — The long Chen would like to put last week behind him, but that's not been easy to this week.

In the $600,000 Atlanta Classic, a Wednesday invitational featuring the best 60 players in the Open, rather than the look at hand.

"I don't want to talk too much about last week," said the slender Taiwanese in reference to Sunday's play when a quadruple bogey on the final list ended his Open hopes.

"It is this week. I have practiced a lot," said Chen, who appeared to be brushing the opening at hand.

"I feel I'm playing well enough to be a factor this week."

Missouri Valley Conference shines in draft

DES MOINES (UPI) — College basketball players from the East and West could make their mark on the NBA draft, but no conference boasted by image more than the Missouri Valley Conference and its 11 professional teams.

The MVI coaches each meet a dozen players in the NBA Tuesday, but they were the only ones to impress on Friday.

Missouri Valley Conference players packed the Southwest 11, Big East 11 (Big Ten 11, Interstate 6), and Big Ten.

In the Valley, NBA terrain drafted players such as Fromm, Wilkins and Eubank.

The Missouri Valley Conference is a favorite of college basketball fans off-guard. It was no surprise to Bruce Clarke, a 6-9 senior, to turn the University of Missouri.

"This is the best decision I've ever had," said Chen, who looked at the draft over the past several years, in comparison to other leagues the Valley has done pretty well.

"We're not too bad,"

Salor named to Rangers' post

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ted Salor, looking to restore pride in the "New York Rangers," announced they are hiring a new coach.

The move was announced by General Manager Craig Patrick, who took over as interim coach after firing Brian Leetch, is in his third season.

Salor, 54, an assistant coach of the Stanely Cup-winning Rangers, and a former four-year league coaching experience, was named the new coach and is said to have one of the best minds young for hockey.

Star seeks momentum heading into playoffs

COLLEGE PARK, MD. (UPI) — The Baltimore Stars will be seeking momentum heading into the U.S. Football League playoffs and vengances for a mid-season whipping when they head to the nation's capital Sunday night.

The Stars (10-4-4), who defeated the Duluth Bears 3-0 Thursday night, will meet the Howard University Bears (11-2-3) in the semi-finals of the U.SFL.

"I'm sure the game will be more high-scoring, a true game," Salor said.

"We're going to get the ball out and score two goals before the Stars sweep the crowd.

Junior National meet to test Hawks

By Bud Zienak

The 18th annual national junior golf championship will begin Monday at the Moline Country Club in Moline, Ill., on the back nine. The two-day event will feature some of the top junior golfers in the country, including an unspeakably great deal of talent. The tournament is being staged by the National Golf Foundation and is open to any junior golfer who is under 18 years old and has a handicap of 18 or under. The event is considered one of the most prestigious and competitive events in the country, attracting the best junior golfers from all over the United States.

Gymnastics

The success of the meet depends on a variety of factors, including the performance of the athletes. The selection process for the national junior championship is rigorous and competitive. The top junior golfers from across the country are invited to compete in the event, and only the best of the best make the cut. The tournament is designed to test the skills and abilities of the athletes, and the competition is fierce.

Tom Trois, a red-shirted freshman on the Iowa men's swimming team, glides through the water Wednesday afternoon at the City Park Pool in Moline. Trois is one of the top swimmers on the team, and his performance is a testament to the hard work and dedication of the athletes.

Spagnolo: Worthy Golfer

POSTE vede, PA (UPI) — Angelo Spagnolo, 25, played a 15-over-par 154 over the weekend at the Illinois Open, finishing in a tie for ninth place. Spagnolo is a native of Moline, Ill., and has been playing golf since he was a child. He is considered one of the top junior golfers in the country, and his performance at the national junior championship will be a true test of his skills.

Finding the secrets of our feathered friends

DAVIS CLAIMS THERE IS NO COLLEGE SPORTS "BLIGHT"

"We've had to be selective about the birds we watch, but we can still enjoy the experience," she said. "Birdwatching is a wonderful way to spend time outdoors and learn about the natural world. It's a great activity for people of all ages, and it's a great way to connect with others who share a passion for birds."
