Israel to release 300 more prisoners

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel's state-run media said Monday that 300 of 735 Arab prisoners in Israel will be freed by Wednesday. Officials insisted the release was not part of a deal that led to the freedom of 39 Americans held hostage in Beirut.

In a related development, an Israeli official accused Syria of at least indirect involvement in the hijacking of TWA Flight 847 on June 14.

The Lebanese hijackers, who released their last 39 American hostages Sunday, had demanded throughout the 17-day ordeal that Israel release more than 700 prisoners in return for the hostages.

MOST OF THE PRISONERS are Shiite Moslems who were captured in southern Lebanon by Israeli occupation forces. They were transferred to Israel's Ansar detention camp in April as Israeli forces withdrew from Lebanon.

Washington called the transfer a violation of international law but Israel denied it.

Israel Radio, in an announcement following a meeting Monday of Israel's inner Cabinet, said authorities decided to release 300 more of the detainees within a 38-hour period. The inner Cabinet is a group of 10 of the 25 ministers in Prime Minister Shimon Peres' unity government.

THE RADIO SAID a decision to release the remaining prisoners will require further government deliberation and will depend on "the security situation in the border region."

Later, an Israeli television report said the "lists of the detainees to be freed has already been finalized, but the International Committee of the Red Cross needed more time to prepare the transfer." It said the rest of the 735 will be released

"gradually," but did not elaborate.

The radio said Israel had planned before the hijacking to set free 300 Lebanese and Palestinian prisoners July 5. The release of the American hostages Sunday persuaded the government to advance the timetable, the radio said.

EARLIER, AN ISRAELI official who spoke to reporters on condition he not be identified, charged that praise of Syria for its help in the freeing of the Americans was inappropriate.

U.S. officials have credited Syrian President Hafez Assad with playing a vital role in securing the release of the prisoners.

"It's very unfortunate that Syria is now being portrayed as the power that brought about the end of this ordeal," he said. "Syria was partly — if not directly, then certainly indirectly — involved in this hijacking."

Meanwhile the Israeli Cabinet declared a state of economic emergency for three months and called for "extremely harsh" steps that will drastically lower the average Israeli's standard of living.

Public aid to church schools banned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, in twin rulings fortifying the wall between church and state, said Monday that using tax dollars to hold special classes at religious schools is unconstitutional.

The high court, in a major defeat for the Reagan administration, struck down programs in New York City and Grand Rapids, Mich., that send public school teachers to private schools for remedial and enrichment classes.

JUSTICE WILLIAM BRENNAN, leading 5-4 majorities in both decisions, said, "Providing for the education of schoolchildren is surely a praiseworthy purpose. But... even such a praiseworthy secular purpose cannot validate government aid to parochial schools when the aid has the effect of promoting a single religion or religion generally."

Allowing tax money for special classes would "let the genie out of the bottle," the court said, and lead to "ever larger segments of the religious school curriculum to be turned over to the public school system, thus violating the cardinal principle that the state may not in effect become the prime supporter of the religious school system."

IN OTHER ACTIONS Monday, as it neared the end of its 1984-85 term, the court:

• Struck down, 6-3, a Texas ordinance that excluded homes for the "feble-minded" from areas zoned for apartment living. The court refused, however, to carve out a special constitutional niche for the retarded.

• Let stand without comment an appeals court decision that the constitutional right to privacy protects unmarried couples living together. The case involved a married North Muskegon, Mich., police officer fired for living

39 hostages are 'up-beat' after ordeal

WIESBADEN, West Germany (UPI) — The 39 freed American hostages underwent a battery of tests at a U.S. military hospital Monday and doctors said they had weathered 17 days in captivity in "upbeat" condition. Seven men kidnapped earlier in Beirut were not among those released.

In Washington, President Reagan, having vowed to fight back against terrorism, ordered steps to isolate the Beirut airport until Lebanon "puts terrorists off limits" in the aftermath of the crisis.

Freed hostage Jack McCarty, a nightclub owner from San Francisco, said the 39 "held another one of our famous meetings" Monday and the majority agreed to return to the United States this afternoon.

In Washington, the White House issued a statement saying the flight would arrive at Andrews Air Force base outside Washington at 2 p.m. Iowa time today, where the former hostages will be greeted by Reagan. A formal White House ceremony was ruled out.

ONE FORMER HOSTAGE, who asked not to be identified, took exception to calls by some of his fellow captives for understanding of the Lebanese Shiite cause.

"It wasn't a party," said the man, one of the four held apart from the main group of hostages by gunmen of Hezbollah, the radical Shiite faction responsible for the hijacking.

"I can't believe everyone is being so positive about it. All this stuff about 'they (the hijackers) are our friends' I just don't buy. I saw them shoot a guy between the eyes," he said, referring to a young U.S. serviceman who was killed on the second day of the siege.

McCarty said many of the hostages felt the environment in the Wiesbaden military hospital was too confining, so they moved to hotels in the area.

The decision was made after Col. Charles K. Maffet, commander of the Air Force hospital in Wiesbaden, said he was "astounded at how upbeat they are."

"SPIRITS ARE VERY high," Maffet said. "Obviously they are very happy to be here. I think they are in excellent condition."

Hospital sources said the youngest member of the group, James Hoskins Jr., 22, of Indianapolis, left the hospital carrying his suitcase and in the company of a woman for an unknown destination. There was no official word whether he had quit the medical program, which was voluntary.

Meanwhile, the sister of an American reporter held hostage in Beirut sought a visa to visit Syria so she could plead for the release of her brother and six other Americans kidnapped in the past 18 months.

Peggy Say, sister of Associated Press newsman Terry Anderson, 37, said she hoped to persuade U.S. officials to allow her and two others to visit Syria for talks with President Hafez Assad.

Assad was reported to have used his influence with the Shiite Moslem Amal militia to gain the release of the 39 hostages from TWA Flight 847.

ANDERSON'S FAMILY in Batavia, N.Y., said they had been assured three times by State Department officials 24 hours before the release of the TWA hostages that there was reason to hope that the seven kidnap victims would also be released.

"I was devastated and so was my

Special Collections holds treasury of works

By Carol Hardesty
Staff Writer

Q: What do Euripides, Gail Godwin, John Irving, Albert Einstein, Playboy and George Eliot have in common?

A: Special Collections at the UI Main Library.

The famous figures above represent a tiny fraction of the authors — famous and virtually unknown — whose letters, diaries and documents are housed on the third floor of the Main Library. There are letters by Irving, Einstein and Evans, a photo of Gail Godwin by Jill Krementz, and from Euripides, a 1503 copy of the first edition of his collected works.

Director of Special Collections,

Frank Paluka, said the UI department has four types of material: rare books, manuscripts, university archives and maps.

One very special item in the collection is a leaf from the Gutenberg Bible, the first book set with type. The collection also has several handwritten books that were produced prior to that 1455 event.

PALUKA SAID ONE outstanding collection is the material from Leigh Hunt, a prolific though minor writer who was friends with Dickens, Browning, Keats, Shelley and Byron. The collection includes several hundred letters and about 170 essays, poems and other pieces of writing.

Paluka stressed that much of the material in Special Collections came to the UI as gifts, a critical form of acquisition. Most of the Hunt Collection came from Luther Brewer, who ran the now defunct Torch Press in Cedar Rapids.

Another noteworthy collection is the material on Lincoln. "It's one of the top dozen in the country," Paluka said.

Other kinds of collections include diaries from Civil War times and from frontier settlers, records from Iowa companies, and papers from politicians including former Iowa Gov. Harold Hughes and 1982 Iowa gubernatorial candidate Roxanne Conlin. About 350 feet of shelf space is devoted to papers from former Iowa Sen. Dick Clark.

IN ADDITION TO the rare, valuable and the one-of-a-kind materials, the collection also has charge of "material which left in the stacks would be stolen."

Paluka said these materials don't fall under the rubric of Special Collections but their facilities provide needed protection. Included are publications like Playboy, Penthouse and film magazines with photos considered to be appealing for theft.

A collection scheduled for future donation to the UI is from restaurateur and author Louis Szathmary. The native Hungarian, known as Chef Louis in and around Chicago, has a collection of 18,000 cookbooks.

Other materials in Special Collections include university archives — papers and books about the UI as well as those produced here, and the map collection, housed in a separate room on the third floor.

ACCORDING TO UI Map Librarian Richard Green, there are 100,000 aerial photos of Iowa, and fire insurance maps of virtually every town in the state. Drawn near the turn of the century, these maps are scaled 50 feet to the inch and give an architectural history of the buildings through details.

Special Collections users must leave purses, coats and bookbags in the catalog area and fill out a form requesting the desired material. They are then let into a roped-off area with comfortable chairs and lots of table space.

The surveillance may make some users uncomfortable, but Paluka said considering some of the materials in the collection are worth more than $10,000, the rules are necessary.

Iranians invade Iraq

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Iran said its soldiers broke through Iraqi minefields and trenches in southeastern Iraq on Monday as an Iraqi-declared cease-fire in the nearly 5-year-old war ended. The Islamic Republic News Agency monitored in Beirut, said "hundreds of Iraqi troops" were killed or wounded in the surprise infiltration operation and a strategic observation post was captured.

Militias battle over Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Beirut's two most powerful Moslem militias fought street battles Monday with grenades, heavy machine guns and automatic weapons, killing six people. It was the first major clash between the Druze Progressive Socialist Party — headed by Tourism Minister Walid Jumblatt — and the Shiite Amal militia of Justice Minister Nabih Berri since the two militias seized control of most of west Beirut in February 1984.

Airline offices bombed

MADRID — A bomb exploded in a crowded British Airways ticket office Monday, killing one woman and injuring 27 other people, including an American teenager. In a second attack minutes later, gunmen shot out the windows of a Jordanian airlines office in a nearby building and hurled a grenade inside. Police deactivated the grenade and no injuries were reported.

Bomb explodes at airport

ROME — A bomb exploded Monday in a suitcase being moved between flights at Leonardo da Vinci International Airport, wounding 15 airport employees, police said. The suitcase containing the explosives could have arrived on flights from Lagos, Nigeria, or Athens, Greece, for transfer to New Delhi, India, or Madrid, Spain, police said.

Group spends to halt bias

WASHINGTON — A conservative group said Monday it will spend at least $250,000 — and perhaps as much as $1 million — in an advertising campaign to convince people that the major U.S. news organizations have a liberal bias. Television ads sponsored by the National Conservative Foundation urge people to call a toll-free number "if you want to help fight liberal bias." Callers receive a free bumper sticker saying "I Don't Believe The Liberal Media" and a pitch for contributions to fund the foundation's effort.

Register sold to Gannett

DES MOINES — With a promise that his company's $250 million check won't bounce, Gannett Co. Chairman Allen Neuharth took over the reins of Iowa's largest newspaper Monday. The deal, which received overwhelming approval at a stockholder's meeting Monday, was finalized at noon with the transfer of the money. The presses were set to roll Monday night with the Des Moines Register labeled as "A Gannett Newspaper."

Duplex proposal limits dwellers

By David Roll
Staff Writer

Doors are swinging shut on a proposal that would technically forbid some unrelated couples from living together in Coralville, according to Mayor Michael Kattchee.

In practice, the proposal wouldn't have forbidden cohabitation anyway, he said.

"This was brought up way too quickly," he said. "I really didn't study this as much as I should have when it was presented to me."

The present ordinance allows two families plus five extra roomers in the city's two-family zone. Kattchee proposed a change that would have allowed only two families to live in those homes.

On paper, the ordinance would have forbidden unrelated people from renting duplexes in the zone. Councilor Robert Dvorsky was concerned that the ordinance would discriminate against singles who lived together either in a romantic relationship or just to save on rent.

BUT THAT WAS not the intent of the proposal, Kattchee said, and it would not have been enforced that way.

"There's no suggestion of discrimination," he said. "Whatever we talked about had nothing to do with any human-rights definition (of family). I'm probably just going to drop this whole thing."

The proposal shouldn't be on the books if it isn't going to be enforced, Dvorsky said.

"I think if you have too many ordinances that are too restrictive, people just ignore the ordinances," he said.

The change was designed to deal with complaints about too many people living in houses in the two-family zone, he said. The city gets about two such complaints a month, he added.

"We would never go after it unless there was a complaint," he said. "The majority of calls that we get from neighbors are that people park cars all over their lot and all over somebody else's lot."

MOST COMPLAINTS are resolved quickly, Kattchee said. But about three times a year, a city employee has to go to the house and tell the residents only two families should be living there.

Although the ordinance allows an additional five people, the city has been enforcing it as though only two families were permitted, Kattchee said.

The proposed ordinance is an effort to "bring the law up to the status quo, to bring the law into line with what everybody thought it was," he said.

But since the questions about cohabitation arose, Kattchee has found another ordinance to solve housing complaints without changing the zoning ordinance.

The city can use a provision in the housing code that requires 110 square feet of floor space for every roomer in a house. In effect, the code prohibits five people from living in duplexes in the two-family zone.

"I DON'T KNOW of a single duplex which has 550 square feet," Kattchee said.

As a result, the proposal for changing the ordinance is unnecessary and will probably be dropped, he said.

For zoning purposes, the Coralville law defines family as people related by "blood, marriage, adoption, or co-ownership." The proposal would have restricted unrelated couples from renting houses, but not from buying them.

Iowa City laws define "family" more liberally, including any two people, even those who aren't related by blood or marriage. University Heights restricts the definition of family to those related by "blood, marriage, or adoption," but the zoning laws allow unrelated people to live together anywhere in the city.

An Iowa City man made an initial appearance Sunday on a charge of fourth-degree criminal mischief for allegedly breaking a car window.

Joseph Henry Kindon Jr., 23, Thatcher Trailer Court, Apt. 47, was arrested by Iowa City police after they responded to a domestic dispute call involving Kindon and Vala Calkins.

Calkins was "sitting in her white 1978 Buick with the driver's side window broken," court records state. Calkins also had "several scratches on her arms and a redness around her neck," according to court documents.

The woman told officers Kindon "choked her and broke her car window," and Kindon admitted to police "he broke the car window with his fist during the incident," according to court documents.

The preliminary hearing for Kindon has been scheduled for July 18 and he was released on his own recognizance. He was ordered to have no contact with Calkins.

Daniel Roy Anderson, 45, of 614 Sixth Ave., Coralville, made an initial appearance Saturday in Johnson County District Court on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and driving under a suspended license.

Anderson allegedly "drove his vehicle off the roadway on two occasions while traveling eastbound on Highway 6," at the Alamo Friendship Inn, Highways 6 and 218, Coralville, court records state.

Anderson "failed" field sobriety tests, according to court records.

Anderson was released on his own recognizance and his preliminary hearing is scheduled for July 9.

Richard Andrews Davis, 34, RR 2, made an initial appearance Sunday in Johnson County District Court on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Police observed Davis back his pickup truck out of Mumm's Saloon and Eatery, 21 W. Benton St. He backed the truck "onto the curb and also blocked westbound traffic on Benton Street," court records state.

Davis "performed poorly on field sobriety tests," court records state.

Davis was released on his own recognizance and his preliminary hearing is slated for July 18.

Michael Gerard Dunne, 24, of 1601 Highway 1, made an initial appearance Sunday in Johnson County District Court on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Dunne was observed "driving a vehicle left of center and also in a very erratic manner" and he "failed" field sobriety tests, court records state.

Dunne was released on his own recognizance and his preliminary hearing is scheduled for July 18.

Rollins Emory Walters, 28, West Branch, Iowa, pleaded guilty to public intoxication Monday in Johnson County Magistrate Court.

Walters was observed "staggering down the roadway" one mile west of Highway 80 on a local road Sunday evening.

When police officers approached, Walters "stepped backwards towards a ditch and nearly fell," court records state.

John Patrick Halsch, 20, Oxford, Iowa, pleaded guilty to public intoxication Monday in Johnson County Magistrate Court.

Halsch was found by police "passed out" in the 1100 block of North Dodge Street Sunday evening, court records state.

Jeffrey Joseph Dolphin, North Liberty, Iowa, pleaded guilty to public intoxication Sunday in Johnson County Magistrate Court.

Coralville police officers encountered Dolphin "assaulting his sister who was trying to restrain him from driving due to his intoxicated state" Sunday while "in the parking lot of the Canterbury Inn," 704 First Ave., Coralville, according to court records.

Dolphin was fined $123.

Andrew James Hellmich, 22, of 1165 S. Riverside Drive, pleaded guilty Saturday to public intoxication in Johnson County Magistrate Court.

Iowa City police officers found Hellmich "passed out on the steps of the Zoology Building" early Sunday morning.

Thomas C. Long, 38, of 407 N. Dubuque St., pleaded guilty Monday to disorderly conduct in Johnson County Magistrate Court.

Officers responded to a call of a window peeker from residents of 411 N. Dubuque St. Sunday evening. When they arrived they "found Long near the residence," court records state.

The residents "positively identified Long as having been on the property and looking inside their windows," court records state.

DI tromps KRUI in softball

A softball team composed of The Daily Iowan staff members defeated a group representing student radio station KRUI 17-14 at Napoleon Park on Saturday afternoon.

The DI effort was boosted by hot play early in the game. After the first two innings, the scrappy scribes had jumped to a 15-2 lead. The belligerent broadcasters fought back, however, eventually cutting the DI lead to just one run. But the winning writers held on, scoring one run in each of the final two innings of the nine-inning game, while holding the anguished announcers scoreless.

"Now I'm not going to say we let them come back or anything, but it wouldn't have been a very fun game if we'd continued demolishing them like we did in the first two innings," the DI's arts/entertainment editor and on-field manager Allen Hogg said after the game.

The DI is now 2-0 on the season and is accepting challenges from local media.

Steinbach earns state post

Sandra J. Steinbach, elections deputy at the Johnson County Auditor's Office, was named the new state director of elections Thursday, effective at the end of this month.

Steinbach, who has been elections deputy in Johnson County since 1981, will replace Louise Whitcome, who is retiring after 13 years.

Secretary of State Mary Jane Odell, who announced the appointment, said Steinbach has "exceptional qualifications."

Steinbach received her Master of Arts degree in library science from the UI in 1975, and a Bachelor of Arts degree in history from Iowa State University in 1974.

UI receives computer gift

The UI Computer Science Department has received a unique grant from Hewlett Packard valued at $260,000. Added funding from the UI will allow two faculty members to take leaves of absence and provides for three research assistants, making the total cost of the project approximately $335,000.

Under terms of the equipment grant, the UI will study issues associated with "local area networks." The UI network consists of 10 computers working independently while sharing information located in one Shared Resource Manager machine. The seven computers received under the grant will complement three computers given to the department in 1983.

In addition to receiving the computers, the department will also be given access to technical personnel. Two research assistants were able to obtain summer internships with Hewlett Packard.

People wishing to get an inside view of the Joffrey II will get their chance today.

Joffrey II dancers will be holding an open house rehearsal today in Halsey Gym. It will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 1:45 p.m. and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The dancers arrived at the UI June 10 to begin a five-week residency, sponsored by the Iowa Dance Residencies Program.

The Joffrey II has concentrated on the preparation and performance of "Tales Of Hans Christian Andersen," a new full-evening ballet choreographed for the company by Donald Mahler, artistic director of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet.

The Joffrey II ballet was founded in 1969 as the first American company to bridge the gap between the training studio and the professional stage.

Nicaraguan rebel group opposes U.S. assistance

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — Nicaragua's largest rebel group has massed a fighting force of 17,000 members and does not need the "direct participation" of the United States to overthrow the Sandinista government, a rebel leader said Monday.

The statement from an official of the Nicaraguan Democratic Force, or FDN, placed rebel forces at some 5,000 to 7,000 more than previous U.S. estimates.

"Our forces have grown so much that we have had to organize operational commands over the regional commands that used to operate," said Indalecio Rodriguez.

Rodriguez, a specialist in veterinary medicine and former dean of the Central American University in Managua, left Nicaragua in 1980 "after the Sandinistas betrayed the revolution," he said in a broadcast over the clandestine rebel 15 de Septiembre radio station.

HE IS CURRENTLY the head of recruitment in the FDN, which was formed in late 1981.

"We have overcome errors to be able to turn ourselves into a structure capable of offering an alternative for the immediate liberation of our country," he said. "Right now, we have some 17,000 men fighting in 75 percent of Nicaraguan territory."

Rodriguez accused the Nicaraguan government of participating in a "worldwide plan of terrorist activities to destabilize the West." He listed the hijacking of TWA Flight 847 by Lebanese Shiite Moslems as an example.

"In our history, we have never murdered or kidnapped people or hijacked air planes," he said.

Meanwhile in Managua, a government official charged that U.S.-backed Contra rebels have carried out several attacks against unarmed Miskito Indians returning from Honduras to their native villages.

JOSE DAVID ZUNIGA, government representative in the province of Zelaya Norte, said the Contras had carried out 25 attacks or ambushes against the Miskitos since the Indians began returning June 21 to the tropical rain forest along the Rio Coco, which separates Nicaragua and Honduras.

In one attack, Zuniga said 30 Miskitos were kidnapped by the rebels and were later rescued by Sandinista troops. Another five were wounded in an ambush and are being treated in a hospital in Puerto Cabezas, 210 miles east of Managua.

In 1982, thousands of Indians fled into Honduras to escape a campaign by Nicaragua's government to remove them from their native lands and many joined the rebels.

But they began returning home this month after the Sandinista government reached an accord with Indian and other minority leaders who support the Sandinistas on an autonomy plan for the Caribbean region.

THE GOVERNMENT HAS also been discussing amnesty with some Indian rebel leaders.

The return to the Rio Coco — which is expected to take six months and involve 25,000 people — is considered crucial to the Sandinista plan to grant limited self-government to the seven ethnic groups in the Caribbean coast region.

The relocation campaign by the Sandinista army began after several cross-border raids by Contras. The Indians were moved from 43 Miskito villages along the Rio Coco to new villages in the interior of the country. Many of their old houses and crops were burned.

The relocation, which was sharply criticized by human rights groups, prompted an estimated 10,000 Indians to flee to refugee camps in Honduras.

plan, 15-7, after a 24-hour session that Peres said may have been the longest in Israeli history. Peres had staked the future of his 10-month national unity government on the plan's approval.

The proposal was sent to the Knesset for almost certain approval today. A "no" vote would bring down the government, which is led by two major parties, Likud and Labor.

Peres said the one-year plan included a three-month "state of economic emergency," in which the government would cut salaries, budgets, income and profits.

The Histadrut, Israel's 1.6-million member labor federation, complained that the proposed austerity measures will cut the average worker's real income by one-third, and quickly called a nationwide general strike for today.

HISTADRUT REPRESENTS 90 percent of the country's work force. Of the total membership, 1.25 million were told to strike.

Youths blocked roads and burned tires to protest the new measures, and police used batons to disperse the demonstrators.

Israel television said protesters demanding that the government nationalize the banks and change its economic policy also tried to torch automobiles. Police and border guards took at least 13 demonstrators into custody, according to the report.

Israel had a 451 percent inflation rate in 1984, and it suffers from shrinking foreign currency. Two tripartite "package deals" reached by the government, Histadrut and business were ineffective.

family," she said when the seven were not released. "We had been up all night the night before celebrating the fact Terry was coming home."

"We'll talk to the Ayatollah (Khomeini). We'll talk to Nabih Berri. We'll talk to Amal. We'll talk to anyone with a title," said Say, who has met with ambassadors of Syria, Lebanon and Algeria in her attempt to get visas. If plans work out, she will leave this week.

Say will be joined by John Weir, son of the Rev. Benjamin Weir, a Presbyterian minister kidnapped May 1984, and Jeremy Levin, a former newsman and kidnap victim in Lebanon who escaped in February after 11 months in captivity.

ANDERSON, THE AP'S Beirut bureau chief, was captured by three gunmen March 16.

The kidnapped Americans are believed to be held by groups or individuals tied to the Shiite Moslem group Hezbollah, or Party of God, in the Syrian-controlled Bekaa in Lebanon near the town of Baalbek.

Hezbollah is also believed to have masterminded the TWA hijacking.

In Washington, the State Department announced a termination of U.S. landing rights for the Lebanese national carrier Middle East Airlines and of authority for any air cargo service between the two countries by U.S. or Lebanese carriers.

A senior administration official said other Western governments would be encouraged to take similar action to close down Beirut airport and discourage terrorists from using Lebanon as a base of operations.

IF THEY DO NOT, he said, U.S. landing rights could be canceled for any airline that continues service to Beirut.

The Americans' first request on their arrival in Germany was for telephones to call relatives and friends at home. Col. Maffet said. Some huddled with loved ones, who had arrived on flights from the United States.

After being examined, some of the freed hostages were taken by bus on a shopping expedition with their families to the local post exchange military store. They returned a couple of hours later laden with goods.

First lady Nancy Reagan said she got "the happiest present" she could get for her birthday — the safe return of the hostages from Beirut.

Mrs. Reagan, who will celebrate her 64th birthday Saturday, was elated over the release of the 39 hostages, her press secretary Jennefer Hirshberg said.

The hostages were expected to be released Saturday but a last-minute hitch developed when militants holding some of the men demanded a guarantee that the United States would not retaliate.

The State Department then issued a vaguely worded statement that did not mention retaliation but was adequate to secure the release of the hostages.

UNDER THE GRAND RAPIDS program, the public school system rented classrooms in religious schools for "shared time" instruction in math, reading, physical education, languages and art.

Inspectors had to post "public school" signs on the wall and to cover any religious symbols during the class.

The court said covering religious symbols is not enough to make the program constitutional because "no attempt is made to monitor the shared time courses for religious content."

"The symbolic union of church and state inherent in the provision of secular, state-provided instruction in the religious school buildings threatens to convey a message of state support for religion to students and to general public," the court said.

Bureaucratic beauty

It's all relative.
 At least housing may be "relative" if the Coralville City Council approves a new zoning ordinance that would make it illegal for unmarried couples and other unrelated roommates to live together.
 The ordinance allows just one family to live in a single-family area and just two families to live in duplexes in two-family zoned areas. A "family," according to the proposed law, is a group related by blood or marriage, or a single person.
 Although the proposed ordinance is clearly discriminatory, Coralville Mayor Michael Katchee denies such accusations saying: "The city would never prosecute unmarried people who live together if they live together peacefully."
 How convenient: A law to be enforced only if it will work to the city's advantage in tossing out tumultuous tenants. What more could a city council ask for? Next they can pass a law banning blondes, brunettes and redheads from traveling through the city. ... Then, if any of those individuals cause problems, the city can oust them on the basis of an ordinance they wouldn't otherwise dream of enforcing.

Truly ingenious. Truly appalling.
 Mayor Katchee, you are certainly a wiz to have come up with such a bureaucratically beautiful ordinance. Go ahead and pass your law.

Tenants, however, should pass up Coralville when looking for future housing. Today's promise that the law won't be enforced could be broken tomorrow.

Iowa City — which has updated its zoning ordinance to include any two people who live together — is flooded with empty apartments, duplexes and homes. The vacancy rate for apartments in Iowa City is about 5 percent according to a recent rental survey — a level experts say is "desirable in a healthy housing market."

The Coralville City Council can choose to do as they please, and tenants can choose to live as they please — in Iowa City.

Message in a bottle

Iowa gave up part of its lucrative 50-year-old monopoly on liquor sales Monday. Every private vendor who can raise the $500 license fee will be able to sell carry-out wine. For the first time since pre-Prohibition days Iowans will see sales on wine, post-10 p.m. purchases and Sunday bottles.

Concern has been expressed that good wine will disappear from the state. Before good old American competition, most larger state liquor stores could stock expensive high-quality wines without worrying about how long the bottles sat on the shelves. Because the state will now have to compete with private sales, pessimists complain only cheaper, sugary wines will be available.

But travelers to other liquor-control states where wine is privately sold, such as Washington, will notice that the larger grocery stores stock a fair selection of wines. Good wine is no less available than in Iowa, and at better prices too.

States that handle the retail sale of beer, wine or liquor are called "control states." Trying to control the alcohol consumption of a state's citizens is an archaic throw-back to the days of Prohibition. And it is high time Iowa let loose its control of distilled liquor.

Liquor in state stores is more expensive than in private stores. According to the 1984 State Policy Data Book, the highest state taxes on liquor are in control states. Eighteen states now exercise some control over liquor sales. In terms of the tax levied per gallon of alcohol, 14 of the 15 highest tax states control the retail sale of alcohol. Iowa ranks fourth.

None of the states contiguous to Iowa are control states. Revenue from liquor sales in those states is not much less than in Iowa. State monopolies of liquor sales do little to deter consumption. Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan, which are control states, rank among the top 10 in liquor consumption. The time is now for Iowa to leave the booze trade behind.

Petty squabbles

Recently, the Iowa City Council decided a cottonwood on the city's southwest side had to be cut down. The tree had been the subject of several weeks of discussion within the council chambers and had attracted neighborhood petitions, both for and against the 75-year-old tree.

Another set of neighbors have threatened civil action over a back porch light. One set of neighbors says the 60-watt bulb invades their privacy, the other set keeps the light on for safety reasons.

In yet another squabble last summer, the city council was asked to decide whether a neighbor's bug zapper violated the city's noise ordinance.

Neighborhood disputes are not new, but they are a convenient reminder of what happens when people use judicial or legislative means to resolve disputes for them, rather than rolling up their sleeves and talking about it over a picket fence and a glass of iced tea.

The frightening thing is the idea that the council chambers and the courtroom stand as present day battle grounds — substitutes for people working together to solve problems.

When neighbors can't resolve such things as cottonwood trees, lightbulbs or bug zappers on their own front porch, in what council chambers or courtrooms do we expect world neighbors to resolve their disputes?

Jackson proclaims credibility

AMES
CADENCES WAXED and waned. Voice grew hoarse and then suddenly elevated volume. Crowd froze — spellbound by rare oration. Twinges of excitement creep through the midnight auditorium. The occasion was Jesse Jackson, as Iowa State University's C.Y. Stevens Auditorium came to its feet at the spectacle provided by this master of style.

"My religion obligates me to get involved in politics," Jackson told the national convention of the United Church of Christ, a denomination which is no stranger to moral and political confrontations.

(Faith United Church of Christ in Iowa City has provided sanctuary for a Salvadoran family fleeing political terror in their homeland.)

Sharing the platform with Jackson was the Rev. Ben Chavis, leader of the Wilmington Ten — a group falsely convicted of burning a white-owned grocery store in North Carolina in 1971. Chavis had been a field representative for the church's Commission on Racial Justice and had been called to Wilmington to help quell racial unrest there. Jackson referred to Chavis as having "lived across experience ... spending five years in a cold and lonesome jail."

Chavis, now deputy director of the Commission on Racial Justice, epitomizes the credibility Jackson lacks.

THE PROBLEM IS Jesse Jackson has always been self-proclaimed. He proclaimed he was a preacher after finishing only two years at the Chicago Theological Seminary. He proclaimed he was beside Martin Luther King Jr. during the assassination. Others dispute the claim. He proclaimed he should be the Democratic nominee for president in 1984, and he claims an unfair selection process numbed his chances. He proclaimed himself a foreign policy negotiator — successfully appealing to Syrian President Hafez Assad for the release of U.S. Air Force pilot Lt. Robert Goodman and to Cuba's Fidel Castro for the release of Cuban-held prisoners.

Style surmounts credibility. And again last week Jackson was self-proclaiming, intervening in the Lebanese hostage crisis despite opposition from the White House. Thursday night in Ames he outlined plans for a contingent of clergy to see the hostages and spark the dialogue for their release — if no official action was taken soon.

Jackson insisted: "Our government must seize this moment to protect our interests in the (Mideast) region by re-evaluating that in our foreign policy which causes us to lose friends. ... One should not be speaking of retaliation, but cause and effect in this situation."

ONE MUST WONDER: from where does Jackson derive his authority? Most liberals grant Jackson's intentions the benefit of the doubt and give credence to his freelance negotiating efforts.

Avery Post, president of the United Church of Christ, extended Jackson much more than the benefit of the doubt, saying: "The justice line is one of the lifelines of this church. ... Jesse Jackson is present where ever the goal of justice has bid him to be."

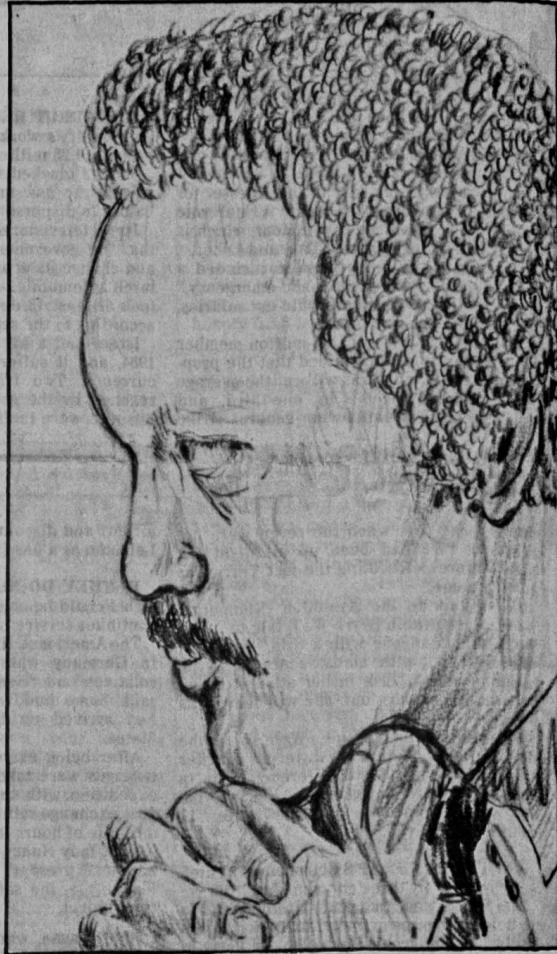

To Jackson, "reverse Robin Hood" Reaganomics has bid him to lead the outcry against this administration's anti-civil rights policies.

And Jackson's outcry was marvelous. He subscribed to Reagan "a malicious intent" to switch the line on affirmative action from "We shall overcome" to "We shall overturn."

To substantiate his argument Jackson pointed out that fewer and fewer minorities are enrolled in four-year colleges.

Black talent, Jackson said, is "allowed to reign supreme on Big Eight and Big Ten" basketball courts and football fields. "It is time we dedicated ourselves to sponsoring cognitive skills to as great a degree as those motor skills."

Some of Jackson's ironies were tailored for the Midwest setting. He pointed out that while the B-1 bomber program reached a $17 billion cost overrun, farm survival aid was cut totally from the Reagan budget.

JACKSON RECOUNTED AN agriculture crisis protest in Minnesota. Jackson, perched in an $80,000 tractor affixed with a Reagan/Bush campaign bumper sticker, lead a field of 4,000 farmers singing "We shall overcome."

"It was the first time those farmers ever sang 'We shall overcome,'" Jackson said. "Our religion does not let us rest until we find common ground."

Jackson belittled both the Republicans and the Democrats — charging them with "distancing themselves from the poor people." His bitterness toward the old-line Democratic ideology poured forth. "If in Egypt, the Pharaoh's style must not divert you from your mission; that is the difference between the liberals and the liberators. The latter cannot settle for being a little bit free."

Jackson proclaims himself a liberator. A liberator of the poor and the captive and the farmers and the blacks. And after hearing him plead the case, it's indeed difficult to doubt his claim. Maybe because we so desperately need liberators.

Be careful out there

To the Editor:

With the bicycle season in high gear, some facts and concerns should be mentioned regarding night bicycle riding.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission states that 197 nighttime bicyclist deaths accounted for 30 percent of the total number of bicyclists killed. And Ken Cross' study, Bicycle Safety Education, notes 17 percent of all accident trips were made during darkness. Cross found a greater proportion of fatal than nonfatal accidents occurred during darkness.

Most nighttime accidents between bicyclists and motor vehicles are lateral impact of bicycle through intersection, or impact during car overtaking bicycle. To avoid these the bicycle and rider need to be more conspicuous.

Bicycle Transportation Engineer John Forester notes: "Considering how few American cyclists use headlamps at night, the error of not using a headlamp that informs motorists of the cyclist's approach is probably the greatest single cause of car-bike collisions in the darkness."

At night, more than any other time, the bicyclist needs to be detected and recognized. In this two-step process, the motorist must first detect something on the roadway, then recognize or discern that it is a bicyclist.

Proper bicycle lighting allows for earlier detection and recognition times, which can help reduce nighttime accidents. (Even the best lighting systems can't improve poor riding technique or stop drunk drivers.) Reflectors are not enough; side reflectors enter motorists' headlight beams too late to avoid collision.

For early detection, strong white headlights (such as halogen lights), an amber or red taillight or flashing amber beacon; and rear amber or red reflector work best.

For early recognition, bicyclists should have clean pedal reflectors and/or a reflective jacket and hardshell bicycle helmet.

Bicyclists of Iowa City continue to encourage consistent enforcement pertaining to bicycle violations which result in serious injury or death. Citing riders in the pedestrian mall cannot be justified as a higher priority than citing those riding at night without lights, wrong-way riding or running stop lights or signs.

Gov. Terry Branstad recently signed Senate File 70, effective July 1, which more clearly delineates the rights and responsibilities of bicyclists as vehicle operators. Greater respect by bicyclists, motorists, government and law enforcement officials for the bicycle as a serious mode of transportation may result, along with more consistent enforcement of serious bicycle traffic violations.

The bicycle is part of the existing traffic system and deserves to be treated as such by all roadway users.

Tennis ladder helps find partners

The City of Iowa City Recreation Division and the Iowa City Tennis Association are co-sponsoring a tennis ladder for men and women of all levels.

The fee is $5 and play will begin the week of July 1. Register by stopping by the City of Iowa City Recreation Division office, 220 South Gilbert, 356-5100, or by mailing your registration with your name, phone number and ladder of play.

Ladder A, for both the men and women, includes intermediate and advanced and Ladder B includes beginner and advanced beginner for men and women.

First women inducted to Hall of Fame

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — The "Mother of Women's Basketball" and two others known for decades of successful coaching Monday became the first women to be inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame.

Senda Berenson Abbott, L. Margaret Wade and Bertha F. Teague were among seven people enshrined in the new Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, an $11.4 million structure which opened Sunday.

Others included former players Alfred N. Cervi and Nate Thurmond and former coaches W. Harold Anderson and Marv Harshman.

The inductees bring to 150 the number of people inducted into the Hall.

Abbott, an instructor at Smith College in Northampton, Mass., who died in 1954, is credited with organizing the first woman's basketball game in March 1893, two years after Dr. James Naismith invented the game in nearby Springfield.

Teague, who never played the game but a phenomenally successful coach, said she is not upset at being passed over in previous years by the Hall of Fame Honors Committee.

"I'm just happy women have finally made it. I've always felt women could coach as well as men," said Teague, who coached high school in Oklahoma for more than four decades, retiring in 1969. Her teams amassed a record of 1,152-115.

La Vie Claire wins Tour de France time trial

FOUGERES, France (UPI) — The team of La Vie Claire, led by American Greg Lemond and four-time winner Bernard Hinault, Monday won a 45.8 mile time trial in the 72nd Tour de France.

The 10-man team clocked in at 1 hour, 30 minutes and 9 seconds, a minute ahead of second-place Kwantum. Placing third, 1:09 off the pace, was the Raleigh team and Peugeot was another 12 seconds back in fourth.

Under a hot sun on the roads of western France, the 18 teams started off separately to complete the sprint between Vitre and Fougeres. Throngs of Bretons crowded the countryside to cheer Hinault.

Belgian Eric Vanderaerden of the Raleigh team retained his yellow jersey as the Tour's overall leader.

With a cumulative time of 14:40:32, Vanderaerden is 32 seconds ahead of Hinault. Considered one of the world's best sprinters, he is expected to fall behind when the race moves to the mountains.

Steve Bauer of Canada held third overall after the team trial, followed by Lemond and Kim Andersen of Denmark.

The race continues Tuesday with the 148.5 mile fourth stage between Fougeres and Pont-Audemer.

Howe to meet with Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Pitcher Steve Howe, whose failure to show up by game time for a second consecutive Sunday raised concern that his absence was related to past drug troubles, prepared Monday to meet with Los Angeles Dodgers officials.

Howe's agent said the left-hander returned to his home early Monday after missing Sunday's game. Howe was subsequently being removed from the Dodgers' active roster.

Agent Jim Hawkins notified the team Monday morning that the player was all right and had returned home. Both Hawkins and the pitcher's wife, Cindy Howe, said Sunday they did not know Howe's whereabouts.

Hawkins planned to accompany Howe to his meeting with Dodgers management.

HOWE, WHO WILL earn $325,000 this year after returning to the game following a one-year suspension for cocaine abuse, was placed on the National League restricted list for players at the request of the Dodgers.

Last Sunday, Howe was fined $300 after arriving two hours late for the game. He telephoned team officials 90 minutes before game time to tell them he would be late because his wife had left the house with his keys. He took a cab for the 35-mile ride to Dodger Stadium.

The latest disappearance was announced by the Dodgers about 20 minutes before the start of Sunday's game with the Atlanta Braves.

"What has happened to the guy? No one knows," said Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda. "It stuns me. I thought the young man was doing well. To see that happen is terrible."

Lasorda said he saw Howe after Saturday's game and expected to see him that night at a Boy Scout dinner, a tribute to scouts in East Los Angeles, which Howe was supposed to chair.

"When I arrived at the dinner, I found out he wasn't there and neither was his wife," Lasorda said. "When he didn't show up, I was very disappointed."

MAJOR LEAGUE rules allow a player to be placed on the restricted list in any instance where the league president certifies that "unusual circumstances" exist which would justify the action. A player can be reinstated immediately upon written request by the club.

Howe sat out last year after two suspensions for his widely publicized struggle with cocaine.

Nehemiah 'freed' to run track

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Renaldo Nehemiah, freed to run track after an epic decision by the IAAF, said Monday he would attempt to be the first athlete to become a force both on the track and on the gridiron.

An arbitration committee of the IAAF, the international ruling body of amateur track and field, last Tuesday voted to return amateur status to a number of professional football players who were also former track and field stars.

Among those affected by the decision were Nehemiah, who pressed the case; Chicago Bears wide receiver Willie Gault; Los Angeles Rams wide receiver Ron Brown; New Jersey Generals running back Herschel Walker; San Francisco 49ers nose guard Mike Carter; and Green Bay Packers wide receiver Phillip Epps.

"If anything," Nehemiah said, "it (pro football) hinders a track athlete. I have had injuries to my eye and shoulder and I also have had atrophic surgery on my right leg. That is my lead leg when I hurdle."

NEHEMIAH SET a world record in the 110-meter hurdles with a time of 12.93 seconds at Zurich, Switzerland, in 1981.

"It (the decision to leave track) was basically burnout," said the man known as Skeets. "I was at the stage where I was my only competition."

In April 1982, Nehemiah entered into a different athletic arena as he signed with the 49ers. Immediately, critics began to question whether or not the track star was tough enough for the NFL.

"I have not been a failure," said Nehemiah. "I feel I have proven that track and field athletes are not fragile."

He does admit there have been many hard times since his signing.

"It has been a tough three years for me," he said. "When I came in it was a humbling experience. I was the best hurdler in the world, but on the football field I was just like everyone else. For the most part, I have not played a great deal so I feel like I have three years of talent stored up inside. That is very frustrating."

NEHEMIAH SAID he called both Gault and Brown when he heard about the IAAF decision.

"Ron Brown seemed like he wanted to cry," he said. "He wanted so badly to run in the Olympics and win a gold medal."

Nehemiah, who is in the last year of his 49ers' contract, will report to training camp July 24 with no fears about his future with the club, despite the presence of No. 1 draft choice wide receiver Jerry Rice.

"For the record, Bill Walsh called me when the 49ers were about to draft Jerry Rice and said the choice was not a reflection on my skills or abilities," he said. "I don't have any control over what management does but if it (making the team) comes down to a matter of talent, I haven't got any worries."

However, Nehemiah admitted that he had not talked to the team officials about his future plans.

in his 14th Wimbledon, defeated Noah, 4-6, 7-6, 6-3, 7-6, and Pascale Paradis of France overcame Turnbull, 2-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Second seed Ivan Lendl, yet to find his form on the grass, struggled past Shlomo Glickstein, 7-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, No. 5 Anders Jarryd beat Vince Van Paten, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1, and No. 14 Stefan Edberg defeated Chip Hooper, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Two qualifiers, Robert Seguso and Ricardo Acuna, were among the unseeded men to win third-round matches. The others were Sam Giammalva, Henri Leconte, Heinz Guenthardt and Danie Visser. Guenthardt won a 7-5 fifth set from Vitas Gerulaitis and Visser won a 10-8 fifth set from Greg Holmes.

Seeded women to advance to the round of 16 along with Evert Lloyd were No. 4 Manuela Maleeva, No. 5 Pam Shriver, No. 11 Steffi Graf and No. 16 Kathy Rinaldi.

Keenan, race director for Grandmas, said the June 15 event brought in $5 million for the surrounding community.

The schedule of pre-race events includes an informal reception at the Holiday Inn Friday night, a seminar featuring Rodgers and Irvine Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. at Carver-Hawkeye Arena, and a lasagna dinner at the Holiday Inn following the seminar.

The races start at 8 a.m. Sunday and the 5 K is the last scheduled event of the Century Companies of America Grand Prix.

Rodgers will present the awards to the winners of the Grand Prix. The 37-year-old runner, four-time winner of the Boston and New York Marathons, said in a phone interview Sunday from his home in Sherborn, Mass. he plans to run under 29 minutes for the race. His personal best is 28:15 in road racing.

ALSO A MEMBER of the U.S. Olympic Marathon team in 1976, Rodgers had run 10 K in the Boston area that morning in 29:45. He said he is beginning to train seriously for the fall season, adding, "I hope to be in my best shape by that time."

Rodgers said his peak racing years were from 1975 to 1981 but he said there is a trend in athletics to train for a lifetime, and not to retire after passing the peak years.

He plans to be competitive as a master's runner when he turns 40.

"With your career, it's impossible to be always determined and dedicated as when you were at your very best," he said.

Irvine, of the Dominican Sisters of San Rafael, Cal. gained renown when she competed in the Olympic Trials at age 54. Her time was 2:52:02. She suffered a knee injury after the trials and has not competed since. She is undecided about which event she will enter.

SHE STARTED her running career at age 48, and after one year of running, completed her first marathon in 3:02:01 in 1979.

Doak finished her career at the UI this spring with the NCAA title at Austin, Texas. She competed in the 5 K race last year in Iowa City and won in a time of 16:10.

The hospice concept which this race benefits is a national movement that helps the terminally ill and their families by supporting patients in their effort to spend their last days at home.

New turf awaits Cyclones, Hawks

By Brad Zimanek
Staff Writer

When the Iowa football team faces the Iowa State Cyclones September 28 at Cyclone Stadium—Jack Trice Field, they will be playing with something new underfoot — Polyloom.

Monday afternoon the AstroTurf surface of Jack Trice Field received a face-lift with the application of 99,000 square feet of Polyloom.

THE IOWA PLAYERS and fans are already familiar with the Polyloom surface as Kinnick Stadium presently has the Polyloom surface and the new indoor practice facility will have it installed in August.

In addition to Iowa State and Iowa, the U.S. Naval Academy, Kentucky, Syracuse, West Virginia and North Dakota State will also be installing the synthetic surface at their football stadiums this summer.

THE SURFACE MAY be attractive to consumers because of its 10-year warranty, which other synthetic surface manufacturers cannot match. Yet, there is still a question of developing a synthetic surface that can reduce injuries.

"There are no statistics on injuries anywhere that say more or less players are injured on any one surface or the other," David Walley, Multimedia spokesman said.

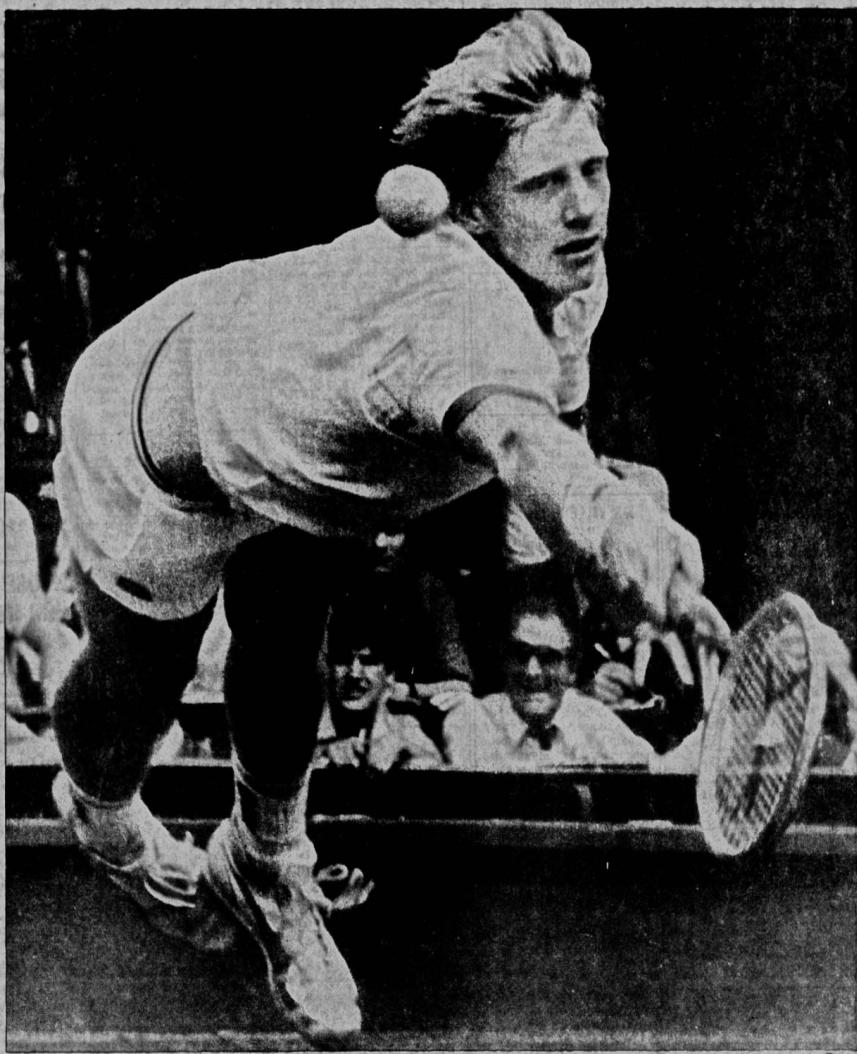

"In fact there is basically no difference," Walley said. "If you fall it's how you fall, how many people fall on top of you, how you were pushed or whatever. There are no more injuries for synthetic turf than there are for dirt, for example."

THE TURF IS known to have better traction than other synthetic materials because water can seep through — unlike a nylon surface, which is very slippery.

"The advantages for synthetic turf are that an athlete has truer traction and is less likely to slip and fall. He can turn and twist faster and quicker," Walley said. "The way polypropylene fields are constructed, they either drain right through the field or off to the side, but the fibers are dry."

THE FIELDS AT both Iowa State and Iowa will be Polyloom's 9000 dernier yarn, which is tufted to a pile height of one-half inch.

"The turf itself is non-directional, which is an advantage," Iowa State Assistant Athletic Director Tom Lichtenberg said. "We didn't feel there was a great deal of difference between this surface and the others in the running. It will do what we ask it to do and we're excited about it."

West Germany's 17-year-old Boris Becker leaps off the ground for a backhand return of a shot by Sweden's Joakim Nystrom in their third round match at Wimbledon Monday. Becker outlasted and upset the seventh seeded Nystrom 3-6, 7-6, 6-1, 4-6, 9-7 in a match which lasted 3 hours, 20 minutes.

Evert Lloyd, McEnroe defy upsets

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Top seeds John McEnroe and Chris Evert Lloyd continued to defy the string of upsets spicing Wimbledon, while the big blow of the day Monday was struck by Boris (Boom Boom) Becker.

Four more seeds were wiped away on a warm, sunny afternoon, including Hana Mandlikova, bringing the total number of casualties to nine men and eight women through three rounds.

Both McEnroe and Evert Lloyd advanced to the round of 16 by beating qualifiers. McEnroe, banished to Court No. 2, known as "the Graveyard of Champions," and wearing a bandage on his right knee, which he said "hasn't been feeling that great," responded with a 6-3, 7-5, 6-4 victory over Chris Steyn. Evert Lloyd had an even easier time in dispensing of 18-year-old Jenny Byrne, 6-2, 6-1.

NEITHER OF THE two Americans has dropped a set in three matches, and Evert Lloyd, fresh from her victory in the French Open, has conceded a mere seven games.

McEnroe, the two-time defending champion, had requested his match be shifted, contending, "That's part of being the defending champion; you should have to be beaten on one of the two show courts," but this was denied.

McEnroe draws another qualifier in Andreas Maurer Tuesday for a berth in the quarterfinals and Evert Lloyd next meets Anne Smith, a 6-2, 6-4 winner over Isabella Demongeot.

Becker, the big, 17-year-old West German with one of the most explosive serves in the game, outlasted seventh seed Joakim Nystrom, 3-6, 7-6, 6-1, 4-6, 9-7, in a match which lasted 3 hours and 20 minutes.

Nystrom twice served for the match in the final set, at 5-4 and 6-5, but it was Becker who made the decisive break in the 16th game, raising his arm in triumph at the end.

Mandlikova, the losing finalist here in 1981 and a semi-finalist last year, was unable to escape with another lackluster performance and was upset by Australian Elizabeth Smylie, 6-1, 7-6. She said later she wasn't eager enough or hungry enough, but refused to explain why.

DISMISSED ALONG with Nystrom and Mandlikova were Yannick Noah, the men's 11th seed, and Wendy Turnbull, the 14th seeded woman.

Tourney takes toll on Czech

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — If there is one word to sum up Hana Mandlikova's career, it has to be "erratic."

On an outside court at Wimbledon Monday, the Czechoslovak was at her erratic best, or worst. The No. 3 seed bowed out in straight sets to Australian Elizabeth Smylie, 6-1, 7-8 (7-5).

For years, Mandlikova has been pegged as the heir to Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert Lloyd. Her precocious performances as a teenager included a runner-up finish in the U.S. Open at age 18 and a victory in the French Open at 19.

HOWEVER, HER PLAY in the first set Monday was listless and full of unforced errors. A bystander who didn't follow tennis might have thought she was ranked 30th instead of No. 3.

After the two-service break in the first set, during which Smylie's performance was as sterling as Mandlikova's was abysmal, the 23-year-old Czechoslovak improved. But in the end it was not enough to save the third-round match.

Following a sixth-game break that looked as if it would turn the tide of the match, her opponent passed Mandlikova three straight times to break back. Then with Mandlikova serving to even the tiebreak at 5-6, Smylie put a winner into the corner for the finishing touch.

"IN ORDER to win you have to be eager and hungry," Mandlikova said. "Today, I was not eager and hungry."

Asked why that was, Mandlikova, who exited this tournament in the second round three years ago, said: "I am not going to tell the English press ... no comment."

Hospice organizers hope to elevate race to major status

By Steve Sands
Freelance Writer

Coordinators for the Iowa City Striders Hospice Road Races to be held Oct. 13 said they are hoping to elevate the event to a major regional status comparable to the Bix 7 mile road race in Davenport.

The ninth running will feature world-class marathoner Bill Rodgers; former Iowa runner Nan Doak, NCAA 10,000-meter champion; and 55-year-old Sister Marion Irvine, who competed in the 1984 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials.

Bix, run in late July, attracted 6,000 participants last year and is rated highly by the magazine Runner's World.

Peg McElroy, race director for the fund-raising event which benefits the Iowa City Hospice and 35 other agencies of the Johnson County United Way, said she expects 3,000 runners to participate in the 5 K, 10 K, half-marathon, and marathon races.

McELROY DESCRIBED the event, which has 35 coordinators and 500 volunteers for race day, as "well-administered."

"Obviously, the talent in Iowa City abounds," she said. "What we're looking for now is major sponsorship."

She said the event may attract 6,000 runners in another year. "I think we could see a time that people could plan their whole vacation for coming in here," she said.

McElroy said the event reached a low point two years ago when attendance dropped from 1,800 in 1982 to 1,100 in 1983. So major changes, including the sponsorship and the recipient of the funds raised, were implemented. The race course, which was predominantly run in the country south of Iowa City, was also switched to the southeast side of town.

Last year, more than 1500 participants raised $20,000 for the United Way and McElroy said she is looking to raise $44,000 this year.

BUT THE IOWA CITY community can also expect to benefit from the expanded event. McElroy said she projects the Iowa City community will take in $1.5 to $2 million over the race weekend. She based her figures on the Grandma's Marathon in Duluth, Minn. Scott
