Delegates to debate strategy at U.N. women's conference

By Jim Fitch

A handful of learned professional women and labor hands with a smiling Father Patrick Murphy Friday morning at a press conference in the United Nations headquarters, the Father suggested that a five-day conference in New York City might be too short to accomplish its goals.

"War is not an education," the Father said.

A conference leader for the delegates from the United Nations, the Father was speaking to reporters in the United Nations press room.

"War is not an education," the Father said.

"But the conference is an opportunity," he said.

"The conference is an opportunity," he said.

"We have an opportunity," he said.

"And we must use that opportunity," he said.

City's last urban renewal project is dead in the water and not expected to be developed any time soon, City Manager Bill Clark said. The city council approved the last phase of a $1.4 million downtown Holiday Inn and parking lot project in 1981, but city officials had been unable to find a developer for the site in many months. The project is now on hold pending a decision by the Iowa City council on how to develop the site.

The council has been looking for a site for a new downtown Holiday Inn and parking lot for the last three years. The project was first approved in 1981, when city officials hoped to attract a developer for the site. The project was never completed, however, and the council has been unable to find a developer for the site in many months.

Bolivian election expected to empower conservative hopefuls

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — More than 1 million Bolivians voted Sunday for a representative and Congress in elections that were expected to sweep conservative candidates into the halls of power and set the stage for the next five-year period.

Early results showed that conservative candidates had won the majority of seats in the legislature and were likely to form a new government.

With the exception of Bolivia's election since 1960, which was won by a leftist candidate, Bolivia has had no government since 1960 that has been able to implement a new constitution.

The election was seen as a key test of the country's commitment to democracy and economic reform.

NEW YORK (UPI) - Senior governmental sources believe a key top-level Filipino official who has been reported to have died (25) years of service in a "gold mine" of spies for decades that enabled them to decode messages from satellites and launch from the American spy ship "Kitty Hawk" captured by North Vietnam with Russian help.

An intelligence source told the newspaper the potential "gold mine" in Vietnam was learned by people who probe insights into all aspects of the Navy. From this source, Russian intelligence reports on the performance of American airplanes and the military exercises.

Still, official beliefs in the intelligence Walker and his associates gave the Russians would not be used. But sensitive data is currently used by the Navy because it enables some to crack the Enigma machines and the key kept for each of its facilities and the day changed every day.

The Examiner said when the top-level Filipino official who has been reported to have died in the Philippines, Philippine military officials took over their radar scopes and the government also was told "no answer" of their radar scopes.

The newspaper said the incident was very important because of the radar scopes and the ability of the military to crack the Enigma machines.

The London Observer reported Sunday that doctors advised Reagon Thursday to put off running this year to check for intestinal cancer, but he postponed surgery for political reasons as he prepared to return to the White House.

"I have been advised by my doctors to take a rest now," Reagon said as he prepared to return to the White House.

"We are looking into the possibility of doing a biopsy, but we are not sure at this stage," Reagon said. "We will have to continue to monitor the situation and take further steps as necessary."

Chozas makes his bid for Tour de France win

AUVERS (France) (AP) – Spaniard Eduardo Chozas jumped into contention in the Tour de France on Saturday with an impressive 18th-place finish in the 35th stage of the world's biggest race, narrowing the gap to the overall leader by 12 minutes. Chozas moved into fifth place overall, just 29 seconds behind the leader, Frenchman Philippe Van der Beke in fifth. Promising a better performance than the Frenchman and a possible change in the overall standings, he said: "I'm not done yet." With the lead, Chozas made a dramatic jump from fifth to seventh place in the overall standings in the last 300 meters of the stage. The race winds through the picturesque countryside of the Loire Valley, with riders facing several uphill climbs and technical descents.

A 6-1 record is winning the gold medal.

The USA team posted a 10-0 record for their entire stay but was able to come through in the final game. "The trip was an excellent experience," Becker, the coach, said. "It was a growing experience. I learned that I have a lot of things to work and improve on if I'm going to want in this international competition in the future." The USA team won the 16-team tournament which included Finland, Sweden, Tanzania, West Germany and Canada. The USA's only loss was 60-58 to the hands of Denmark, 60-58.

The victory between that stands out to Becker's mind was the roof-from-behind win in the rematch against Sweden. "The game against Sweden stands out in particular because the only time I could ever have contributed the most," Becker said. "I scored 14 points in helping us come from behind." Becker was happy with how the players performed during the tournament but it was a little disappointing that the team was unable to play this season.

"I'M VERY PLEASED with the way I played," Becker said. "I didn't think I needed as much playing time as I would have thought. But when you're playing on this kind of team, you're going to have your runs. Some games I would hardly get to play two or three minutes, where in others I would get 13 or 14." Becker said he has high hopes for the players as they move on to the new season.

Ueberroth believes strike is possible

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Baseball commissioner Peter Ueberroth, maintaining a neutral stance in baseball's labor dispute, said Sunday he believed there was a "50-50 chance" the players would strike this season.

"As far as the players, they have not threatened strike, but I believe they will be a strike if 'it's in their best interests," Ueberroth said. "They'll be ready to go Monday in Chicago and are ready to go if the owners and players negotiate. I believe they threatened earlier this season to boycott the Star game, but they said they'll set a strike date if they get no strike date at all.""

"THEY'LL PLAYERS decide whether this season happens or not. They've got a legal right to strike, and they've got a right to get it behind us."

"I've talked to both the owners and players and had good conversations in the middle of the contract talks. The players have been without a contract since January 20, and I think they're ready to get this thing on the table."

Ueberroth said Don Fehr, acting executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, and Larry Papel, president of the American League Players Association, are setting up their union's negotiating stance. "I've talked to the union and the players and I've got a sense of what they're thinking, and I've got a sense of what they're feeling," he said. "It's a sensitive time."
