Supervisors approve funds for SEATS vans

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors approved funding Thursday morning for a new contract with SEATS, a handicap and handicapped Transportation system. SEATS, which provides service for able and handicapped people in all 50 states, will begin operation in the spring. The new contract will cost about $10,000 per vehicle.

The board granted the addition in their budget for a new contract to provide expanded service for the 1,200 riders already using the service. The new contract will increase the number of riders to about 1,400 per day.

The new contract will be financed by the county, and the cost will be about $10,000 per vehicle.

During fiscal year 1985, SEATS carried 1,400 riders, including residents and non-residents, who used the service on a daily basis. The new contract will increase the number of riders to about 1,400 per day.

Child saved by experimental drug after accidental overdose of pills

By Kathy Himson

An experimental drug rescued a 2-year-old child from death when she ingested an overdose of pills.

Lina Hernandez's heart "started beating without control," according to William Martini, UI pediatric cardiologist. "This went on for a certain period of time before the initial drug was identified," Martini said.

When Lina Hernandez arrived at UI Hospitals about 9 p.m., a temporary pacemaker was inserted as a cardioversion device to stop her heart, Martini said. While doctors at UI Hospitals worked to stabilize her heart rate, a helicopter flew the experimental Freedom of an Antihypertensive drug from the University of Chicago, one of the two currently testing the drug.

When the drug arrived hours after midnight, doctors "gave her a very small dose to see if she would develop an allergic reaction," Martini said. A full dose of the drug was then given and Lina Hernandez's heart reverted to a normal rate and rhythm.

THE EXPERIMENTAL drug is an antihypertensive to diphenyl, Wagner said. The drug is expected to be approved by the Food and Drug Administration for general use later this year.

Lina Hernandez was moved from the pediatric intensive care unit to UI Hospitals to the general pediatrics care unit Tuesday and is scheduled to leave the hospital Friday.

T HE U.S. Senate has been converted into a political organization whose purpose is to approve legislation, pass on nominations, and conduct other business. The Senate is no longer a Senate. It has become a rubber stamp for the Reagan plan. The budget is increased military spending quite as much as he wished. Now Reagan says if Congress will just completely give up the initiative of all legislation then he will spend the money as he wants.

Women were elected the president. Women did elect the president. Women cast the deciding ballots in the 1984 presidential election. Since then women have recognized the propriety in the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution from 1977 to 1982, passing the ERA. Women have learned that it is not an issue of letting hands out of the gun but of hands needing weapons. Women have learned that there is no distinction between the types of firearms, since all are used for the same crime. Women have learned that the NRA is satisfied until they own a handgun, and that they will control handguns in the home. And we are fed up, we are fed up.

In Japan, where handguns are a part of the national sport, 24 people were killed. In Switzerland, where handguns are an unchallenged handgun brings a $25 fine. In Australia, where handguns are illegal, 8 people were killed. In Switzerland, where handguns are legal, 26 people were killed. As we can see, the more guns we have, the more crime.

Smeal, the gun lobby leader, was报价in making veiled threats to his constituents. The question is, when will we know more about his threats? When will we know more about his presence in the gun lobby? When will we know more about his influence in the Senate?

A SUPREME COURT decision was made that gun owners could not be sued. It went to press. It went to the press. It was made to print. It was written into law. It was put into practice. It was put into action. It was made to be followed. It was made to be obeyed. It was made to be respected. It was made to be upheld.

We have learned that the NRA is satisfied until they own a handgun. And we are fed up, we are fed up.

The NRA has a membership of 24 million members who write a lot of letters and don't want to have any guns. The NRA is satisfied until they own a handgun. And we are fed up, we are fed up.

The NRA is satisfied until they own a handgun. And we are fed up, we are fed up.

Elected attorney general and three governors - including Iowa's - now have that power.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Senate refused Tuesday for a second time to kill a filibuster blocking action on a new veto powers for the executive branch, despite the pleading of President Reagan and Sen. Edward Kennedy.

At the end of an all-night session, the Senate voted 57-41, three short of the 60 needed to choke off the weakening filibuster against the initiative of the Senate majority leader, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Va.

Sen. Chuck Grassley, R-Iowa, voted to end the filibuster and Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, voted against it.

A Senate Republican leader Robert Dole expressed confidence Tuesday morning that legislation to grant the president new veto powers would pass today, but added: "I really don't know what the outcome will be. I think it is highly certain we will not reach 60 votes.

"It will be a close vote," Dole, chief sponsor of the bill, saidague was being "tormented by uncertainty" about the outcome.

Reagan, who was out of town returning to Washington for Tuesday's session, is expected to veto any legislation that would allow Congress to override a veto by a two-thirds majority rather than a simple majority as under current law.

Congress would retain the power to override any veto by a two-thirds vote of the Senate and House.

The bill would provide Reagan the line item veto power for an experimental two-year period, until his presidency runs out and for four three governors - including Iowa's - have that power.

The Senate adjourned for the day without reaching consideration of the line item veto legislation. It is scheduled to return Thursday.

Kerik, speaking at a conference of Democratic colleagues, urged an end to the filibuster and passage of the line item veto "as an idea whose time has come."

A second attempt to kill the filibuster failed by a vote of 53-47.

KEGAN, who wrote a letter urging passage of the bill prior to the Senate's 43-57 defeat last week, said that Bush would be fall short of the Senate and House.

"The legislation, which has strong support among both Democrats and Republicans, would allow Congress to override the president's veto of any parts of appropriation bills."

But still I thought Brown's success was undoubtedly a good thing. Then came the Massacb was now "On Fire." Now Massacb had been a rock sensation for years. Another factor was the fact that in the Wash version I had put the song in the middle of the gig and I felt I had dissipated. The feelin was enormous has been generalized, marketed, and I felt rather superficial to have gotten so worked up by the song in the first place.

Golden results for crew team

By Jeff Drumm

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK: Brad Zimanek

Brad Zimanek's 8-meter-4-lengths victory over Sweden in the recent Scandinavian meet was a pretty intense race which he and his crew won.

"It was quite a feat. The whole crew worked hard all summer and we were able to stretch and worry about the race on race day, but not before race time, start right foot because the atmosphere was quite tense all over downtown," Zimanek said.

"We are a pretty good team and we are looking to the future. We have some nice opportunities to win the US Nationals later on."

Toon is a likely no-show as Jet’s camp begins

Hempstead, N.Y. (UP) — Joe Walton opens his third training camp as New York Jets coach Wednesday, sporting a different defensive philosophy. Walton, who took over for Bill Parcells, is more willing to let his players make mistakes if it means learning something, and that knowledge that this year will probably mean a fourth win.

To make matters more difficult, the 1-0 Jets are likely to be a no-show when Walton opens camp at Hinkle Stadium this week. "I don’t know if they’ll show, but you never know," Walton said on Tuesday.

"They have been good so far," Walton said of the Jets, who are expected to have a better record this year. "I really hope they show up."

Arnold fighting back from adversity

By Fred Zemack

It is not always easy to overcome the challenges that face basketball players. Just ask Iowa's Kenny Arnold, who is facing serious problems after undergoing surgery for injuries last month.

"I feel great," Arnold said Tuesday afternoon. "I feel great. My test is today and I have to work in the morning." Arnold will undergo a test today to see if he is ready to return to practice. If the test is successful, he will be able to return to the team.

Arnold suffered two surgeries last month, one to repair a rotator cuff tear in his left shoulder and another to repair a labrum tear in his hip. He said he expects to be able to return to full strength by the end of the season.

The owners have avoided playing a role in the negotiations, leaving the players and management to hash out the details. However, both sides have expressed a desire to reach an agreement.

"I think it's inevitable, yes, that we'll get an agreement," said Lee MacPhail, the executive vice president of baseball operations for the Major League Baseball Players Association. "I think it's inevitable that we'll get an agreement."
