Supervisors approve funds for SEATS vans

By James Hintzen
Staff Writer

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors approved funding for three new Ford vans Tuesday, to be used by Special Elderly and Handicapped Transportation Systems.

SEATS, which provides rides for elderly and handicapped people with no other means of transportation, will receive the three new vans sometime next month, at a cost of nearly $14,600 each.

The board granted the addition to the fleet after SEATS signed a contract to provide expanded service beginning this fall for Systems Unlimited Inc., a non-profit corporation providing residential services for mentally and physically handicapped children and adults.

Supervisor Harold Donnelly said the new contract with SUI made it necessary to purchase new vans for SEATS. The transportation system would otherwise be provided with used, replacement vehicles.

DURING FISCAL year 1984, SEATS provided 58,835 rides to local residents, and this year the number increased to 69,444 rides. Larry Olson, director of SEATS, estimated that the new SUI contract could add another 10,000 rides annually to the SEATS schedule.

The new buses are 1985 Ford 15-passenger vans, "and two of those are eventually going to be equipped with wheelchair lifts and hightops," Olson said. The hightops are raised roofs that will be installed on the vans to make more room for the handicapped people and to allow the bus drivers to stand while assisting passengers on the bus.

"One of the vehicles is an expansion vehicle, because we're going to be picking up more of the business for Systems Unlimited," Olson said. He said the new SEATS bus will be used for trips from the SUI's homes to the Nelson Adult Center, 1020 William St., a day care activity center for adults.

The new expansion vehicle, which should arrive in November, would be similar to the Bionic Bus used by UI Cambus service.

Benny Leonard, executive director of SUI, said his firm has already contracted with SEATS to provide transportation. "We've been buying transportation services from Seats for about a year," he said.

THE NEW CONTRACT will expand the services SEATS already provides.

Leonard said there are currently 65 adults in the Nelson Adult Center and SEATS will eventually serve all those people during the daytime. SUI has four wheelchair vans, two passenger vans and three cars of their own to serve their nighttime transportation. SEATS service ends at about 4 p.m.

The expanded SUI service prompted SEATS to request new

Scattered violence inflames S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Police killed two black men Tuesday and raided the headquarters of South Africa's largest anti-apartheid organization. Bishop Desmond Tutu led 25,000 blacks in chants of "We shall be free!"

A police report said, "A mob of 150 blacks threw stones at police members and their vehicles. Birdshot was used. Two black men were killed and two sustained minor injuries."

In a separate incident, police fired shotguns when about 25 blacks tried to set fire to a house. "Injuries are unknown," police said.

Police released few details about the shootings and said they would no longer announce where such incidents occur.

U.S., China agree on arms limit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ronald Reagan, who authorized a U.S.-Sino nuclear agreement Tuesday to coincide with the visit of Chinese President Li Xiannian, saluted Li as an "old friend" at a state dinner in his honor.

Reagan, still hoarse and pale from cancer surgery, welcomed Li at his first full-dress appearance since leaving Bethesda Naval Hospital Saturday. As the president and Mrs. Reagan greeted Li and his wife, Lin Jiamei, on the steps of the White House before the dinner, Reagan said he felt "fine, just fine."

Reagan welcomed Li, making the first U.S. visit by a Chinese head of state, with abbreviated but colorful military honors and gave his approval to the long-stalled agreement on nuclear cooperation.

"I hope this question (of Taiwan) can be resolved ... so that, untrammelled by this question, our two countries may concentrate their efforts on opening a new dimension of Sino-U.S. friendly cooperation," says Chinese President Li Xiannian.

The agreement, which faces a 90-day congressional review, would only permit the sale of nuclear reactors and related technology for peaceful purposes.

A SENIOR administration official said the Chinese had offered assurances they would respect restrictions on the use and handling of American-supplied technology and would not help other nations develop nuclear arms.

In his light-hearted toast at the glittering gathering in the State Dining Room, Reagan said: "Today, when President Li and I renewed our friendship, he expressed his wishes for my full recovery. In fact, he told me that once I was totally back on my feet, a young man like myself could expect to have a long and distinguished career ahead of me."

In his toast, Reagan also announced the Chinese government had invited Vice President George Bush to visit China in October.

Li took a sharp tone in his toast, saying that differences on the question of Taiwan could become an obstacle in the development of friendly relations.

"AS FOR ANY major difference, if it is not handled well in accordance with the principles" the two nations have discussed, "it will become an obstacle to the development of Sino-U.S. friendly relations," he added.

"What I mean is the question of Taiwan," he said. "I hope this question can be resolved ... so that, untrammelled by this question, our two countries may concentrate their efforts on opening a new dimension of Sino-U.S. friendly cooperation."

Earlier as Li left for a State Department luncheon, approximately 1,500 people, most of them Chinese, rallied near the White House, chanting and waving red, white and blue Taiwanese and American flags to protest his

THE WHITE-MINORITY government said police have arrested 441 blacks since a "state of emergency" was declared Sunday giving police and the army powers of martial law. Despite worldwide criticism, the government gave no indication they intend to stop the mass arrests.

In London, Britain urged South Africa to end the state of emergency and take steps to eliminate racial strife, saying apartheid is "unacceptable, unworkable and indefensible."

With Tuesday's two deaths, at least 10 black people have been killed in riots since the decree was issued.

In Kwa-Thema, 25 miles east of Johannesburg, some 25,000 blacks attended funeral services in the city's sports stadium for 15 victims of anti-apartheid riots. Heavily armed security forces surrounded the stadium, but no arrests were reported.

Tutu, who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1984 for his opposition to his government's policy of racial separation, known as apartheid, told the crowd, "We dedicate ourselves to the freedom struggle for all of us, black and white in South Africa."

Pomerantz picked to head endowment drive

Marvin Pomerantz

By Rob Hogg
Staff Writer

UI President James O. Freedman and UI Foundation Chairman Richard Levitt announced the national chairman for the university's $100 million endowment fund drive Friday.

Heading the national effort to raise $100 million by the year 2000 will be Marvin Pomerantz of Des Moines. He will serve as chairman of the national campaign and steering committees.

Pomerantz, who finished a three-year term as chairman of the Foundation's board of directors last fall, served as co-chairman of that group's fund-raising efforts for Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

Freedman and Levitt also announced

This story was compiled from reports by United Press International and Staff Writer Rob Hogg.

campaign — designed to raise funds for a three-part program for maintaining the university's "human resources." The program, which will fund endowments for distinguished faculty chairs and doctoral students, and creation of a center for advanced study, will be called "Iowa Endowment 2000: A Covenant with Quality."

MEMBERS ON the steering committee with Pomerantz, Freedman, and Levitt include NBC-TV news broadcaster Tom Brokaw, playwright Nicholas Meyer, and former Iowa Gov. Robert Ray.

The foundation will continue to line up volunteer leadership for the campaign, according to a foundation spokeswoman. The next step is naming members of the national campaign committee.

However, fund-raising for the campaign — announced in a faculty address by Freedman September 13, 1984 — has been underway since last fall.

The campaign is currently at the "leadership gift stage" of the campaign, according to Foundation President Darrel Wyrick. This stage of the campaign, which Wyrick expects will take two years, involves recruiting "major gifts" from approximately 50 donors which will provide 75 percent of the campaign's goal.

"DARREL WYRICK and I are talking to some of the university's oldest and dearest friends," Freedman said.

Much of the fund-raising effort has been conducted out of state. "I've been on the road a great deal talking to potential donors," Freedman said, mentioning Florida, Texas, Arizona, and New York as places he's visited during initial stages of the campaign.

However, the campaign will need in-state support to succeed, Wyrick said. "We know it's going to be more difficult than if the state were in good economic shape." He added he's "confident" the economic situation will improve.

The campaign has been a success so far, Wyrick said. "The enthusiasm for the concept of a major endowment fund drive is excellent."

FREEDMAN SAID there has been "a clear conviction" that such money is needed to continue quality education at the UI.

Although the UI has already received "some substantial gifts," Freedman said it will take most potential contributors a "considerable amount of time" before deciding how much to give.

Freedman said the UI fund-raising drive should not take away from traditional methods of funding, such as state money — a fear expressed by state representatives Rich Varn, D-Solon and Minnette Doderer, D-Iowa City, in September 1983. "That's not been the experience of other universities" with fund drives, Freedman noted.

NEW DELHI, India — Soviet aircraft have bombed the Panjshir valley in northern Afghanistan and dropped commandos to counter a rebel offensive, Western diplomats said Tuesday.

The report came a day after Moslem guerrillas claimed 131 captured Afghan army officers had been mistakenly killed by their Soviet colleagues in an attack on the Panjshir July 3.

Gandhi, Sikh leader confer

NEW DELHI, India — For the first time since Sikhs assassinated his mother, Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi met Tuesday with a Sikh political leader in a move toward ending the bloody separatist campaign in the state of Punjab.

Gandhi met for 30 minutes with Harchand Singh Longowal, president of the Sikh political party, the Akali Dal, a government spokesman said.

Israel to free 100 prisoners

JERUSALEM — Israel will release today 100 more of the 435 mostly Shiite Moslem prisoners whose freedom was demanded by hijackers of a TWA jetliner last month, the military said Tuesday.

Israel freed 300 prisoners held at Atlit military prison near the northern port of Haifa July 3, three days after the Moslem gunmen who hijacked the TWA jetliner released their captives.

U.S. allies hail Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — At least five major U.S. allies — including France and West Germany — sent messages of congratulations to Nicaragua on the sixth anniversary of the Sandinista revolution, newspaper accounts showed Tuesday.

The United States did not send a message. But other U.S. allies such as Mexico, Ecuador and Egypt did send congratulations.

Soviets 'apologize' to U.S.

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon has received what it considers an apology from the Soviet Union over the ramming of a U.S. Land Rover, observing military maneuvers, by a Soviet military truck, administration officials said Tuesday.

The officials said the Soviet military command in East Germany made it clear that the driver of their truck exceeded his instructions and was not acting with their authority.

Army misplaces $31 million

WASHINGTON — More than $31 million in military gear vanished after recent Army maneuvers and because of poor accounting records no one knows where it is, a House member charged Tuesday.

A staff investigator for the House Defense Appropriations Committee said the missing equipment was among $89 million used for a test of the Army's ability to move support equipment about.

R. Hudson may have AIDS

HOLLYWOOD — Actor Rock Hudson, last of the traditional square-jawed, romantic leading men known recently for his TV roles in "McMillan & Wife" and "Dynasty," is incurably ill from liver cancer possibly linked to AIDS, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Dale Olson, a spokesman for the 59-year-old actor, said there have been conflicting diagnoses from various doctors that the longtime movie star was suffering from acquired immune deficiency syndrome, cancer, or both.

Mayberry enters not guilty plea

By Greg Miller
 Staff Writer

James L. Mayberry, who is accused of stabbing and sexually abusing an Iowa City woman, pleaded not guilty to the charge of first-degree murder at his arraignment Tuesday in Johnson County District Court.

The court also set the total cost at $1,000 for the hiring of private investigator Bill Kidwell to help prepare a case for Mayberry's defense, according to court records. Mayberry, 24, had previously been granted a $350 limit to hire the private investigator, but had requested the court to spend up to $2,500. Kidwell's customary fee is $35 per hour.

Defense attorney Emmet George said Kidwell was hired because the defense was "severely handicapped" in preparing its case after the state used about nine police officers and other part-time help in their investigation.

MAYBERRY IS accused of murdering 20-year-old Julia Wise in her Hilltop Trailer Court apartment July 2. He was held under $1 million bond since his arrest July 10 until the bond was reduced to $250,000 last week.

Associate District Court Judge Thomas Koehler scheduled Mayberry's trial for October 7 and set his pre-trial conference date for September 19. A hearing to consider motions filed by the defense to view and examine the scene of the crime and for "discovery and production" were scheduled for Aug. 1.

George argued it is "vital" in adequately preparing the defense case that they be allowed to view the scene of the crime. The state has sealed Wise's apartment after discovering the body and has "exercised control over the premises" since that time, he argued.

Approval of the motion for discovery and production would allow the defense to inspect information the prosecution intends to introduce at the trial.

Reynolds' preliminary hearing is slated for Aug. 7 and he was released on his own recognizance.

Larry Ray Nielson, 47, of 322 Ellis Ave., made an initial appearance Tuesday in Johnson County District Court on the charge of second and subsequent conviction for public intoxication.

UI Campus Security recorded that Nielson has been convicted of public intoxication at least twice before.

ing against a fence near the Iowa Avenue bridge.

The third and all subsequent convictions of public intoxication are considered an aggravated misdemeanor, as defined in the Iowa Code.

Vinton lawyer named to district court bench

Vinton attorney Van Zimmer will become the state's newest district court judge, Gov. Terry Branstad announced Tuesday.

Zimmer, 37, will replace Judge Robert Ford who resigned earlier this summer in Judicial District 6. The district includes Tama, Benton, Linn, Jones, Iowa and Johnson Counties in east-central Iowa.

Zimmer has been a partner in the Vinton law firm of Mossman, Mossman and Zimmer for the past six years. He earlier served as an assistant U.S. Attorney for northern Iowa.

Zimmer, a 1972 graduate of the University of Iowa College of Law, will serve an initial term on the bench ending in December of 1986. He will receive an annual salary of $54,000.

Unions file lawsuit after Cedar Rapids sewage fire

Six unions have filed a lawsuit seeking to recover damages, including payment of lost wages, resulting from a July 16 sewage treatment plant fire that kept more than 3,000 union members home from work.

Named as defendants in the suit filed Monday in Linn County District Court are the city of Cedar Rapids, United Wrecking Co. and Dale Turner, the United Wrecking Co. employee whose torch ignited the fire last week.

The fire at the abandoned sewage treatment plant produced clouds of toxic smoke that forced officials to evacuate 10,000 people from their homes and to request that the city's major manufacturers remain closed until the blaze was controlled.

The suit, which is the second class action to be filed as a result of the fire, does not list a specific amount of damages. A number of residents filed suit against the wrecking company and the city last week.

The plaintiffs in the latest lawsuit are United Food and Commercial Workers local P3; International Union of Bricklayers and Allied Craftsmen, Local 1, and International Association of Sheet Metal Workers, Local 263; United Union of Roofers, Waterproofers; Allied Workers of America, Local 182; International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, Local 89; Five River Carpenter District for the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

Grand Avenue to undergo weekend construction

The eastbound lane of Grand Avenue will be closed for five days, from 8 a.m. Thursday to Monday morning, so UI Physical Plant workers can repair a storm sewer manhole.

Engineer Glen Boutelle said the westbound lane of Grand Avenue will remain open. Eastbound traffic will be diverted to Melrose Avenue, then to South Byington Road, then to Grand Avenue.

Grand Avenue is located between the UI Field House and North Riverside Drive.

Child saved by experimental drug after accidental overdose of pills

By Kathy Hinson
Staff Writer

An experimental drug flown to Iowa City from Chicago late Saturday night helped doctors at UI Hospitals stabilize the heartbeat of a 2-year-old Fort Madison girl who had taken an overdose of her mother's heart medication.

According to Jeff Wagener, director of the pediatric intensive care unit at UI Hospitals, Lisa Hemm overdosed on 15 to 20 digoxin pills sometime Saturday morning. Barbara Hemm, the girl's mother, at first thought her daughter had the flu, but took her daughter to the Fort Madison Community Hospital after she realized some of her digoxin pills were missing.

Doctors at the Fort Madison contacted the UI Hospitals Poison Control Center when a test revealed Lisa Hemm's blood level of digoxin was "significantly elevated, about 10 times the toxic level," Wagener said. After receiving a medicine to reduce the effects of the digoxin, she was transported to UI Hospitals by Air Care helicopter.

DURING THE FLIGHT to Iowa City,

Lisa Hemm's heart "started beating without control," according to William Marvin, UI pediatric cardiologist. "She went into ventricular fibrillation, in which all the heart muscles contract independently of each other, and she had to be resuscitated" by the helicopter crew, Marvin said.

When Lisa Hemm arrived at UI Hospitals about 9 p.m., a temporary pacemaker was inserted as a "safety valve" in case her heart rate fell too low, Wagener said. While doctors at UI Hospitals worked to stabilize her heart rate, a helicopter flew the experimental Fraction of an Antibody drug from the University of Chicago hospitals, one of the sites currently testing the drug.

When the drug arrived here about midnight, doctors "gave her a very small dose to see if she would develop an allergic reaction," Wagener said. A full dose of the drug was then given and Lisa Hemm's heart reverted to a normal rate and rhythm. "Within 10 minutes she was out of danger," Wagener noted.

THE EXPERIMENTAL drug is an antibody to digoxin, Wagener said. The antibodies are produced in sheep and then broken into pieces and only the necessary fragment is administered, reducing the chances of an allergic reaction. The fragments "pull the digoxin away from the active sites in the heart fairly quickly," noted Kevin Moores, supervisor of the UI Hospitals Poison Control Center. Moores said the drug, currently being tested in several hospitals around the country, is expected to be approved by the Food and Drug Administration for general use later this year.

Lisa Hemm was moved from the pediatric intensive care unit at UI Hospitals to the general pediatric care unit Tuesday and is scheduled to go home to Fort Madison today, Wagener said. In reference to the effort to save Lisa Hemm, which involved doctors and nurses from three hospitals in two states, Wagener said, "It really was medical care by committee, but in this case the committee came up with the right idea."

Pharmaceutics business declares bankruptcy after one and a half years

By James Hintzen
Staff Writer

An Iowa City firm previously hailed as Iowa's economic cure-all collapsed in bankruptcy last week at just one-and-a-half years of age.

Pharmaceutical Development Systems, Inc., received $300,000 from the Iowa Product Development Corporation and also a $1.3 million loan backed by the U.S. Small Business Administration to start its operation.

The company, located at 1027 Hollywood Blvd., has 120 days to reorganize its operations after filing for bankruptcy in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Des Moines. The assets for the firm, which has remained idle for the past two months, were listed at $900,000 with liabilities topping $1 million.

Four months ago, the firm completed the construction and opening ceremony of a $1.7 million plant in Iowa City.

THE MAJOR PRODUCT manufactured by the firm was a kidney dialysis solution used in blood filtering treatments, but it did not prove to be profitable.

If the firm fails, the rights to the product will be turned over to the state.

Although company officials remained optimistic about the solution's usefulness and eventual economic viability, a major hope was dashed when the company failed to reach a contract with Gambro, an international pharmaceutical firm that had expressed interest in the solution.

Gambro had earlier purchased three truckloads of the solution.

Dialysis Products Inc., of Blountville, Tenn., has expressed interest in purchasing the firm and retaining its employees, but bankruptcy proceedings will make that more difficult, according to DPI's President, Gary Brown. DPI attempted to purchase the company two weeks ago, but no agreement was reached.

THE FIRM is owned by Jerry Fangman and Gilbert Alliman, both of Iowa City; Charles Newhouse, who recently resigned and moved from Iowa City to Tampa, Fla.; and Royal Blanford, who operates a hospital supply firm in Ames. Alliman currently runs the company.

Stand tall or sit quiet

Freshmen senators can often be seen silently observing their elders, learning the politics of the Senate. But Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin is bucking that tradition.

Instead of learning from experienced senators, the fledgling senator has verbally attacked them, perhaps alienating himself from contacts and supporters he might later find useful when lobbying for bills.

His first outbreak came when Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., criticized Harkin on the Senate floor. Harkin responded by dismissing the senator as "senile." Though Harkin's remark may have been justified, he later apologized.

Then Harkin accused Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole of having "Potomac fever" for being more interested in national politics than in supporting farm legislation that would help Dole's constituents.

Last Friday he opened his mouth yet wider, addressing Dole as "Mr. Real Chairman" of the Senate Agricultural Committee. The remark itself may not be bad: It is the first time a senator has publicly raised the question of whether Dole is pulling the strings of the committee, officially headed by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

But Harkin's comment came when Helms was absent from the room, which irked the senior senator upon his return. Helms scolded Harkin to "watch his tongue."

Harkin apologetically thanked Helms for the courtesy he had shown him during the farm bill debate, and told Helms the comment was made "in a sense of humor." Helms was not amused.

If congressional observers are correct in saying that Harkin's comment will greatly hurt any bargaining position he previously had with Helms, it is unlikely that Iowa farmers and Harkin's constituents will be amused either. Instead of apologizing for his tongue-in-cheek remarks, Harkin should keep his comments to himself.

A woman's place

Sugar and spice and everything nice. That's what little girls are made of.

But no more. The ill-fated presidential campaign of Democrats Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro claimed yet another victim last weekend — 46-year-old Judy Goldsmith.

Goldsmith was soundly defeated in her bid to continue as president of the National Organization for Women. Her loss was no doubt closely connected to brokering the clout of NOW behind the first major party ticket containing a woman.

Goldsmith's predecessor and successor, Eleanor Smeal, pledges to move NOW from the political arena back to the streets. Smeal obviously grew impatient during the last 2½ years, watching the foremost women's organization act like a bunch of "good girls" while the Reagan administration has taken the most anti-women, anti-family stance in history.

Smeal, however, has little room to criticize Goldsmith's ineffective presidency. While heading the national organization from 1977 to 1982, Smeal centered her efforts on passing the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution — a still distant dream.

Smeal's new militant tack is unfortunately necessary. During her previous term Smeal predicted women would cast the deciding ballots in the 1984 presidential election. Ferraro notwithstanding, women did elect the president. Unbelievably their choice was Ronald Reagan.

So it's time now for NOW to make a commotion. It's time to stir up some trouble. It's time to let the women and men notice that all is not equal, and under Reagan & Co. all is getting less and less equal.

Just as Smeal said, "It's time to go back on the streets, go on the campuses and show we're the majority."

No more Ms. Nice Guy.

Veto the item veto

In five years, President Reagan has never submitted to Congress a budget that did not have a deficit at least twice — and usually three times — as large as President Carter's largest budget deficit.

That's because Reagan has demanded and received a tax cut that benefits the wealthy and huge increases in military spending. During his tenure the annual budget for the military doubled. The budget is not more in the red because he demanded and got big cuts in programs for college aid, to feed children and pregnant women and to protect the environment.

Congress, under public pressure, gave Reagan most of what he wanted. The final budgets were virtually identical to Reagan's in total dollar outlay, but did not cut social or increase military spending quite as much as he wished. Now Reagan says if Congress will just completely give up its constitutional right to determine the budget and budget priorities, he can cut spending and balance it.

He wants an item veto. That means he could veto specific spending proposals instead of having to veto or accept the entire budget. As a result, Reagan could veto virtually all spending for social and environmental programs and demand that more money be spent on the military. The item veto provision would effectively strip Congress of its power and turn it into a rubber stamp for the Reagan plan to comfort the wealthy and the Pentagon while afflicting the poor, the student, and the environment.

NRA puts a gun to the Senate

Bill to protect gun owners is frightening

THE U.S. SENATE has again succumbed to the political power of the National Rifle Association, passing legislation that, if approved by the U.S. House of Representatives, would weaken significant portions of the 1968 Gun Control Act. Once again, the NRA's committed membership and insatiable goals have further moved us away from establishing a safer society.

The Senate measure, which sponsor James McClure, R-Idaho, euphemistically named the Federal Firearms Owners' Protection Act, would lift the ban on the interstate sale of all guns — from target and antique rifles to concealable Saturday Night Specials.

CRIME IS ONE of those issues that, like vote buying and wasteful government spending, any politician can claim to oppose. But handgun control is an issue where true anti-crime supporters emerge from the mass of congress members who have become the puppets of the pro-gun constituency. The question is, when will society demand that its law-making representatives enact laws that effectively fight crime?

In 1980, 11,522 people in the United States were killed by handguns. In countries with stricter handgun control laws the numbers of handgun victims were invariably fewer.

In Japan, where handguns are banned except for sporting purposes, 77 people were killed. In Israel, where mere possession of an unlicensed handgun brings a 10-year jail sentence, 23 people were killed. In Switzerland, where citizens must secure a permit to purchase and a license to own a handgun, 24 people were killed by them. And in Great Britain, where even the police do not carry handguns, only 8 people were killed.

Policemen in this country do carry weapons. And law enforcement groups are demanding tougher handgun laws to keep the types of weapons used in crimes off the streets. Fraternal Order of Police President Richard Boyd of Oklahoma City said that with "the resurgence of extremist groups across the United States," it "seems very inappropriate to us" to liberalize gun sales laws.

SYMPATHETIC TO THE concerns of law enforcement officials, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said: "For those who are literally on the firing line, this is

'Expert' orienters can be deadly

THIS SUMMER incoming students have been getting oriented. Orientation is only one form of a widespread process by which relative novices become informed by listening to the more experienced. Using expert advice is a risky business; it requires an expertise of its own.

My father's career in the U.S. Air Force provided the family with orientation experiences in several new locales, including a three year stint in Hawaii during the early '60s. Living on the island of Oahu meant becoming oriented to no snow, going to school barefoot, fresh pineapple, orchids growing in the back yard, fresh squid in the local supermarket, hula girls and a mere three block walk from the house to the beach. The family adjusted mostly through a process of trial and error.

BUT WE BECAME oriented to tidal waves with the help of an expert. Our next door neighbor was a caucasian but certainly not a haole, the mildly disdainful name given to newcomers from the American mainland.

Actually, so-called tidal waves have nothing to do with the tides. Since they are caused by earthquakes, the more scientifically accurate term is "seismic sea waves." In the summer of 1960, when we had been in Hawaii for less than a year, Chile was not an issue of restricting hunters or legitimate handgun owners in our society. Rather, it is an issue of keeping handguns out of the wrong hands."

Even public opinion is on the side of a safer existence. Poll after poll concludes that Americans want stricter handgun legislation. But the NRA, fearing that tighter control of handguns will lead to tighter control of firearms with "legitimate" purposes, opposes any and all efforts to regulate gun sales.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, criticized the NRA's lobbying efforts, saying the group "has successfully confused the issue" by labeling the bill a gun owners bill of rights. "I don't believe the NRA is satisfied until they get their way totally," he said.

Clearly, there is a need to distinguish between the types of firearms used for sport and those used for crime. Handguns are involved in more than 50 percent of the violent crimes committed in this country. Rifles, long guns and shotguns are used in only about 5 percent of such crimes. So handgun control advocates have recognized the propriety in loosening controls on some types of guns while maintaining or even strengthening controls on handguns.

A WASHINGTON-BASED, non-profit organization, Handgun Control, Inc., opposed the provision permitting the interstate sale of handguns. The group favors a national policy of handgun registration. Said Barbara Lautman, director of communicarocked by a series of devastating earthquakes.

These earthquakes created a series of tidal waves, misnamed or not. The progress of these waves was monitored with intermittent success at sea, where they moved along with a crest of about three feet and presented shipping with only nuisance value. It was uncertain whether any of these waves was going to strike any of the Hawaiian Islands. During the day after the Chile quakes, television and radio stations repeatedly admonished their listeners to stay tuned for a possible warning to evacuate for higher ground, but nothing was definite.

MY YOUNGER SISTER and I were in bed asleep when warnings to move to higher ground were broadcast. Suitcases were already packed; in a matter of moments, parents and children were headed out the door for the car.

Our neighbor the island veteran was puttering around his front yard in shorts and an Aloha shirt. He was broadly amused at our unseemly haste and stopped us tions at Handgun Control, Inc.: "We understand the fear that motivates someone to keep a handgun in the home. And we are not about to legislate the handgun out of the bedside drawer."

In floor debate of amendments to the bill passed July 9, Kennedy said: "We are prepared — at least this senator is prepared — to see that we remove some of the kinds of restrictions that exist in current law that hinder or cause some inconvenience to hunters if we are able to keep existing law on handguns, snubbies, and Saturday Night Specials."

So Kennedy proposed an amendment to continue the prohibition on interstate sales of handguns. Kennedy urged the Senate adopt the amendment "that merely continues existing law — nothing more, nothing less." But the Senate did not hear the pleas of the third Kennedy in American politics, whose brothers were shot by assassins. The Senate voted 69-26 to defeat the amendment.

The Senate also rejected an amendment to implement a 14-day waiting period for prospective handgun purchases. The measure, which was urged by five national police organizations, was even among the recommendations of the 1981 Attorney General's Task Force on Violent Crime.

ALL IN ALL, the NRA is "very much pleased" with the Senate bill, according to NRA spokesman John Adkins. "The bill is a right step in the right direction at the right time."

But for everything that pleases the NRA, Americans advocating a safer society should be fearful. The NRA has amassed a membership of 3 million members who write a lot of letters and donate millions of dollars to the anti-gun control effort. In 1984, the NRA's PAC spent more than $1.3 million in U.S. congressional races.

But the NRA does not represent the opinions of the American public. In fact, with 3 million members it can hardly claim to even represent the nation's 80 million gun owners. Yet efforts to counter the NRA's political might have been blindsided. Handgun Control, Inc. had only $97,000 to spend in the 1984 congressional elections.

More than a tenth of Handgun Control, Inc.'s money, $10,000, went to the campaign of Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin. Lautman said the group contributed more to Harkin's campaign than usual because his contest against incumbent senator Roger Jepsen was "particularly close." The contribution to Harkin's campaign apparently went unmentioned because Harkin joined a handful of presumably faithful Democrats in voting for the Federal Firearms Owners' Protection Act.

THE BUREAU OF Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms estimates Americans own some 60 million handguns, and an additional 2 million are being added to the civilian arsenal every year. A handful of committed lawmakers have worked hard to meet the needs of Americans who use guns for hunting, sporting and collecting while, at the same time, working to make society safer by stopping the proliferation of handguns. But their efforts have been gunned down even by supposedly liberal lawmakers who too easily succumb to the lure of the powerful NRA.

on academic probation after the first semester, little better than half of us would make it through to graduation. He strongly advised taking a very minimal course load the first semester.

At the conclusion of his speech, we were handed personalized computer printouts that predicted our chances of making a 2.0 average or better during the first year of college. The adviser implied this prediction was based on a wide battery of information fed to some ultra-sophisticated computer. My computer analyzed chance of a C average was 40 percent; I was terrified.

Only after I was well into the first semester did I learn that the prediction's only basis was high school GPA, with no mention made whether the institution was a 60 student rural school or the best private school in the country. By then I was locked into a minimal number of courses and had only just discovered what my adviser didn't mention: That I would have to pay for my first semester's ease with an oversized load second semester of lose my student deferment. Losing a deferment then meant being drafted and shipped to Vietnam.

Experts can be helpful. But they can also be deadly if you assume they know more than you do.

Israeli gunboats shell Sidon, merchant ship

SIDON, Lebanon (UPI)—Israeli gunboats shelled the southern Lebanese port city of Sidon Tuesday, setting ablaze a ship believed carrying weapons for Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas, witnesses said. Eight people were wounded.

The three gunboats chased the merchant freighter Rula—sailing under a Greek flag—into the port of Sidon, 24 miles south of Beirut, and sprayed the shore with machine gun fire in an apparent attempt to seize the vessel, the witnesses and Sidon police said.

Moslem gunmen in Sidon and in the hills east of the city traded artillery and rocket fire with the gunboats, forcing them to withdraw from the port, police said.

BUT THE ISRAELI vessels returned two hours later and shelled the Rula, setting it on fire as its crew members swam to shore, the witnesses said.

Swimmers scurried out of the water and Sidon residents ran for cover as the artillery exchanges continued. Gunboat fire struck the city and the eastern hills, but there were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

The cargo ship was struck by 24 cannon shells, police said. Eight people, including two crewmen, two Moslem militiamen and an Israeli sailor, were wounded in the exchanges. Other ships in the port escaped damage in the clash.

Israeli military officials in Jerusalem said Navy boats on "routine patrol" off the coast of Sidon exchanged fire with a merchant ship engaged in "suspicious activity." The officials did not say what the freighter was doing.

THE STATEMENT SAID the ship was damaged and an Israeli crewman was wounded.

"When the Israeli Navy vessels neared the merchant ship, fire was directed at them from the merchant ship and the shore," the military said. "The Israeli Navy vessels returned fire at the merchant ship."

Sources in Sidon said the Rula was carrying mortars and AK-47 rifles for Palestinian guerrillas loyal to PLO chairman Yasser Arafat. Last week, Sidon parliament member Nazih Bizri accused Palestinians of hoarding weapons in two refugee camps.

The official Syrian media charged Arafat is attempting to stir up trouble in Sidon to block Syrian peace efforts in Lebanon.

Israeli gunboats routinely appear off the coast of Lebanon but the clash Tuesday was the third battle between Israeli military units and Lebanese fighters in three days. On Sunday, Israeli troops staged raids in two villages in southern Lebanon in search for suspected guerrillas.

Filibuster blocks vote on line item veto

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate refused Tuesday for a second time to kill a filibuster blocking action on broad, new veto powers for the executive branch, despite the prodding of President Reagan and Sen. Edward Kennedy.

The Senate voted 57-41, three short of the 60 needed to choke off the weeklong filibuster against the motion to begin considering the bill. The first attempt failed last Thursday 57-42.

Sen. Chuck Grassley, R-Iowa, voted to end the filibuster and Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa voted against ending it.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole scheduled a third vote today but conceded, "I think I know what the outcome will be. I think it is fairly certain we'll never quite reach 60 votes."

Sen. Mack Mattingly, R-Ga., chief sponsor of the bill, said passage was being "hindered by mentality that is more tunnel vision than visionary" with those opposing the legislation determined to thwart any change.

MATTINGLY SAID if the filibuster blocks action on the bill, he will offer it as an amendment to other legislation later in the session.

The legislation, which has strong support from the White House and from Republicans, would give President Reagan authority to veto sections of any appropriations bills, allowing him to pick and choose specific items he does not want passed. At present, he can only veto entire appropriations bills.

Congress would retain the power to override any veto by a two-thirds vote of the Senate and House.

The bill would provide Reagan the line item veto for an experimental two-year period, until his presidency nears an end. Forty-three governors—including Iowa's—now have that power.

REAGAN, who wrote a letter urging passage of the bill prior to last week's vote when he was still at Bethesda Naval Hospital recuperating from cancer surgery, stepped up his efforts this week with several telephone calls to senators.

Kennedy, D-Mass., breaking with liberal Democratic colleagues, urged an end to the filibuster and passage of the line item veto "as an idea whose time has come."

130 arrested in Chicago drug ring bust

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Federal authorities Tuesday arrested 130 people in a large drug trafficking ring that imported heroin, cocaine and marijuana from Mexico into the Chicago area and throughout the Midwest, Attorney General Edwin Meese said.

In announcing the indictments and arrests, Meese said a two-year undercover investigation turned up evidence of "six drug distribution networks in the Chicago area alone."

The Justice Department seized 47 businesses and properties—including apartment buildings, homes, five bars, two restaurants and two gas stations—allegedly involved in drug trafficking in the Chicago area, he said.

Forfeiture complaints filed by the government said one trafficking group known as the Herrera Organization, headed by Jesus Herrera-Diaz of Chicago, carried out the drug importations.

EIGHT INDICTMENTS returned in federal district court in Chicago charged a total of 98 people in Illinois, Indiana, Texas, Colorado, California, Florida, Puerto Rico, and Mexico.

Federal authorities allege that members of the drug ring imported the heroin, cocaine and marijuana into the United States from Mexico and that the drugs were bought by members of the ring who traveled there from Chicago and El Paso, Texas.

At least 50 people had been arrested in the Chicago area as of 10:30 a.m. and more than 10 pounds of heroin and $20,000 in cash had been seized, authorities said.

At a Gary, Ind., residence police said they seized numerous weapons and heroin and cocaine worth at least $8 million in street sales.

OFFICERS FOUND sophisticated radio equipment in a Dyer, Ind., residence that could be used to monitor police radio frequencies throughout the Chicago area and northwest Indiana.

All defendants arrested during the simultaneous raids were being taken into federal custody in Chicago, police said.

Law may shrink school power

By Jerry Duncan
Staff Writer

A new law that allows Iowa parents to bypass local school officials and take their complaints about school districts directly to the Department of Public Instruction may cause serious conflict between state and local educators.

The law, which went into effect this month, gives parents the power to appeal to the state board of public instruction if they argue their children have been "denied an appropriate instructional program or required to enter an inappropriate instructional program."

Some educators said the new law could undermine the power of Iowa school boards.

"We have always objected to this provision in the law," said Phil Dunshee, a lobbyist for the Iowa Association of School Boards.

"IN OUR JUDGMENT it established a contradictory system," Dunshee said. While the DPI approves educational programs in Iowa, parents may now appeal to the state to force the district to comply.

"I think that all school districts should be concerned," Dunshee said. "If the DPI takes the position that they can rule on specific educational programs for individual students... they most certainly will be making decisions that are usually made by local school boards."

But local officials do not expect the Iowa City School District to have problems dealing with the new directive.

"I would expect the action to be from other school districts," said Iowa City school board member Craig Gjerde, because the Iowa City schools are in "pretty good shape."

A "DIRECT PIPELINE" to the DPI would also be a less effective way for concerned parents to enact change in their school districts, said James Ferguson, director of secondary curriculum for the Iowa City school district.

Time limitations for DPI staff members and the "resultant expense to taxpayers" does not merit encouraging parents to go to the DPI first with grievances against the district, Ferguson said.

Instead, it would be more effective and get "faster results" to "go up through the chain" with complaints, Ferguson said, moving from local teachers and principals to the administration and school board.

But supporters of the law said it is not appropriate to have children "locked into school districts" where there is a lack of educational opportunities.

"A NUMBER OF parents are deeply concerned with the quality of education in their school districts," said Sen. Joy Corning R-Cedar Falls, member of the Senate committee on education. "There are instances where parents feel that minimum standards are not meeting their child's needs."

But many state officials have raised objections that school districts, whose curriculums must meet the DPI's regulations on minimum standards, should not be subject to the law.

Although the board of public instruction is empowered to force a school district to provide appropriate instruction to its students, Corning said the board has a lot of leeway in determining how the law is interpreted.

COMPLAINTS to change a district's instructional program must be for "strong, bona fide educational reasons," Corning said, not for video games in the cafeteria or "more training in basketball" for their children.

The Iowa PTA is taking a moderate stance on the new law's provisions according to Marguerite Boss, president of the state organization.

"We would hope parents would go through local channels first but we do support the rights of parents to take complaints to the DPI if they feel they're not getting satisfactory answers or cooperation through local officials," Boss said.

THE CROWD CHEERED and, with Tutu leading them on, chanted: "We shall be free! We shall be free!"

Tutu said he opposed all violence and urged the crowd not to harm other blacks whom they suspect of being government informers.

Noting a young black woman was killed Saturday by fellow blacks who suspected her of being an informer, Tutu told the crowd: "Our friends will say, 'If people can do this, they may not be ready for freedom yet.'"

During the funeral service, sources said, Johannesburg police raided the main offices of the United Democratic Front, the largest and most powerful black anti-apartheid organization in South Africa.

Sources at Khotso House, a downtown building housing offices of the UDF, the South African Council of Churches and other opposition organizations, said police arrested UDF official Patrick Leponya and seized a cardboard box full of documents.

Police have accused the UDF — an alliance of some 600 black groups with a total membership of 1.5 million — of being responsible for the black violence in the country. In the past two days, they have arrested several of its leaders.

PRESIDENT PIETER BOTHA imposed the state of emergency in 36 districts of South Africa, mostly around Johannesburg and the southern city of Port Elizabeth, to curb racial unrest in black ghettos that has claimed 480 lives in the past 10 months.

The outlawed African National Congress, a militant black South African group now based in Nairobi, called on all Western nations to break diplomatic relations with South Africa.

Most of the 441 people arrested under emergency rule were black lawyers, civic workers, union organizers and student leaders who are connected to the UDF, sources said. Police, in keeping with the news blackout imposed for the state of emergency, refused to give details.

One person arrested Tuesday, though not under emergency rules, was Molly Blackburn, a respected campaigner for black rights in the Eastern Cape, an hour before a scheduled meeting with three former U.S. Cabinet members, including former Secretary of State Cyrus Vance. She was charged with attending an illegal gathering July 14 and was set free on $50 bail. A hearing was set for Aug. 13.

A police spokesman said 17 men and a woman were arrested for public violence in the Eastern Transvaal Tuesday. At Kagiso, three people were injured and arrested when police opened fire with rubber bullets, tear gas and birdshot to scatter a crowd of blacks stoning a school and police vehicles.

visit. At noon, the demonstrators from Boston, Philadelphia, New York, Washington and Buffalo gathered at sun-drenched Lafayette Park across from the White House.

THEY CARRIED signs in English and Chinese, bearing such slogans as "Li Xiannian, go home," "Modernize China with Taiwan as Model," and "Communism is Poverty."

China considers Taiwan a renegade province because it was forcibly occupied by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his allies in 1949 when the communists took over.

As loudspeakers blared Taiwanese anthems and Chinese folk melodies, Albert Wang, head of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association of Greater Washington, and other community leaders addressed the crowd in Mandarin, Cantonese and English.

Reagan's role at the dinner was curtailed and he cut short his appearance from the nightlong festivities to accommodate his convalescence.

THROUGHOUT THE DAY, Reagan still showed some effects of major surgery and an eight-day hospital stay. He and Li stood through the playing of their national anthems but departed from custom and sat for brief statements. Recalling how he proposed in Peking last year that the two nations build an even stronger bond around the Chinese principle of "hu jing, hu hui — mutual respect, mutual benefit," Reagan urged Li, "Let us proceed in that spirit."

Relations with the Soviet Union, modernization of the Chinese economy and the burgeoning — if hardly troublefree — U.S.-Sino trade relationship were among the issues at the top of the American agenda for the Reagan-Li talks.

In public, the two leaders steered clear of U.S. objections to China's use of abortion for population control, a running dispute over textile quotas and other problems.

LONG-AWAITED APPROVAL of the nuclear agreement, which would permit China to purchase nuclear reactors from U.S. manufacturers, could bring more than two years of often difficult negotiations to an end.

Initiated during Reagan's visit to Peking April 1984, the pact was stalled over U.S. proliferation concerns. Recent assurances from Peking that China will not help other countries develop nuclear explosives broke the logjam.

vars instead of following its usual procedure.

"There's a regular transit plan that is written by the East Central Iowa Council of Governments, and in that plan there is a regular schedule for replacement of vehicles," Olson said.

Olson said SEATS "vans are programmed to be replaced at 100,000 miles, but they will probably have to run about 125,000 since federal funding is tight."

CURRENTLY SEATS has eight vans and one station wagon in use.

"There's a couple that need to be replaced," said Jo Southard, a SEATS driver, but "most of them are in good shape."

"Their ridership is increasing dramatically each year, so we're very glad to assist them in their transportation problems," Donnelly said.

SEATS transportations do not have mandatory fees, but request a donation of one dollar for each one-way trip. The requested donation for congregate meals transportation is lowered to 25 cents each way, however, since SEATS receives a subsidy from the Congregate Meals program.

Sailing Club meeting set

The Iowa Sailing Club will meet tonight at 7 p.m. in the Minnesota room of the Union. Persons interested in joining the Sailing Club are invited to attend.

Becker set for clay court meet

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Boris Becker was ready to put his new won prestige on the line Tuesday night at the U.S. Open Clay Court Tennis Championship in his first match since the stunning victory at Wimbledon.

The 17-year-old West German was slated to meet Sweden's Michael Pernfors at 7 p.m. Iowa time.

Becker won his first tournament at Queens Club in London just before Wimbledon began. He was unseeded when he defeated Kevin Curren in the Wimbledon finals to become the youngest man ever to win the most impressive title in tennis.

Becker said an injured left ankle that has kept him from competition since Wimbledon "feels pretty good right now."

Becker, who jumped from 29th to eighth in world computer standings after the Wimbledon triumph, is seeded third at the Clay Courts. Czechoslovakia's Ivan Lendl, ranked second in the world behind John McEnroe, is the top seed. Defending champion Andres Gomez of Ecuador is seeded second.

Cardinals' top choice is a holdout

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals reportedly are reducing their contract offer to Freddie Joe Nunn, the team's top draft choice, by $5,000 a day for every day he fails to attend training camp.

Rookies and free agents were to report to the camp at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston by Monday.

"The Cardinals say they've made their last offer," Frank Bauer, Nunn's agent, told the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. "And Bill Bidwill (the team's owner) has relayed the message that the team will begin to deduct $5,000 per day from their final offer until Freddie Joe arrives in camp."

Boston College coach mulls offer

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston College basketball Coach Gary Williams spent Tuesday mulling a reported offer to assume the head coaching reins at Wake Forest University in North Carolina.

A Boston College spokesman said Williams could make his decision by late Tuesday, although athletic director, William Flynn could not confirm Wake Forest's offer.

"I don't know if an offer has been made," Flynn said. "I gave (Wake Forest AD) Gene Hooks permission to speak to (Williams). I have nothing else to say. That's between him and Wake."

Wake Forest officials also declined comment.

IRS files liens against Dorsett

DALLAS (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service said Tuesday it has filed liens totaling more than $400,000 against Dallas Cowboys star running back Tony Dorsett.

Marlene Gaysek, an IRS spokesman in Dallas, said the liens covered the years 1979, 1980 and 1983. She would not give the total amount, but she said in Collin County, just north of Dallas, liens totaling more than $414,000 have been filed.

"We do have tax liens against liabilities owed for '79, '80 and '83," she said. "We cannot say anything beyond that this delinquency does exist."

Gaysek said "about 10 liens" have been filed against Dorsett in Dallas and Collin counties.

Dorsett, 31, who is in the fourth year of a six-year contract with the Cowboys, was thought to be in Southern California with his agent today, said Cowboys spokesman Greg Aiello.

Spinks seeks edge against Holmes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Michael Spinks will be at a distinct physical disadvantage for his Sept. 21 fight against heavyweight champion Larry Holmes, so he tried to gain a psychological edge Tuesday at the first joint press conference for the two boxers.

If Holmes defends his International Boxing Federation title against Spinks in Las Vegas, he'll match Marciano's 49-0 unbeaten record. Marciano's 49th fight was a ninth-round TKO over Archie Moore Sept. 21, 1955.

Like Spinks, Moore was the light heavyweight champ at the time.

"On the day of Sept. 21, 30 years ago, Marciano defended his title for the last time," Spinks said. "On this day, I'm fighting for the Rock."

Golden results for crew team

By Jeff Stratton
Assistant Sports Editor

Sports clubs

Last weekend's Sixth Annual Chicago Sprints proved to be pure gold for the Iowa Crew Club as the Iowa team surprised itself by bringing home two gold medals.

The club's mixed eights team (comprised of four women and four men) earned the gold in eights by whipping a team from Mendota in the preliminary round, and then defeated The University of Chicago in the final race.

Coach Ed McCormick said the mixed eights' win was particularly impressive. "The officials said following the race that it was one of the toughest races of the day they had seen," he said. "It was a pretty intense race they won."

McCormick added that the mixed eights victory over Mendota in the preliminary race, a club he said is "real strong in the Midwest," was quite a feat. The Mendota crew team is coached by Rodney Pratt, who is also coaching the Junior National team.

ERIN BREEN, a member of the victorious mixed eights team, was surprised with the victory. "We had never been in one before," she said. "We had never raced with the guys. It was our first time together. The guys had just been racing three weeks."

"It was pretty much pure guts that we made it to the finish," Breen said. "We were able to keep it going and pull together. My father was watching and he said that in the last 250 meters we pulled out and were going to win no matter what."

The team members of the mixed eights squad were: Breen, Rose Biraki, Jenny Benhke, Ann Geraghty, Phil Burian, Doug Robertson, Steve Pollman, Ken Kriz and Coxswain Bill Stulke.

Burian, who will be a senior at Iowa City Regina in the fall, was surprised with the victory in the mixed eights. "We kind of threw the team together the night before the race," he said. "We were losing for almost the whole race...we had one rower that lost her slide, but we kept it together. I've never rowed so hard in my whole life."

BURIAN SAID he became interested in the sport after McCormick spoke to a Regina gym class and "sparked my interest," and now he can't believe the progress he has made in crew.

"Three weeks ago I would never have thought of racing in Chicago," Burian said. "Now I am on a team that is striving for goals. It is incredible how fast we are moving along."

The mixed eights' triumph was accomplished with a boat borrowed from the Chicago club. The Iowa Crew Club has no eights boat and is forced to borrow the eights boat in competition.

The women's novice fours team also turned in a gold medal-winning performance after their competition in the preliminary race failed to appear. They won their medal against the second-string team from Iowa.

The Iowa junior men's team didn't fare as well at Chicago, but still gave a good account of itself, according to McCormick. They lost to a tough Loyola Academy team in the preliminary round.

"They were up against some strong men's teams," McCormick said, "but they held their own." "We rowed against college and open teams," Burian said. "That was pretty tough competition."

Prepare properly for Bix race

Your opportunity is here.

You worked hard all summer and now you want to run the Bix race next Saturday in Davenport to the best of your ability. If you are a first-time runner of Bix I will have some tips for you that will help you accomplish your goal.

If you will be coming into Davenport the morning of the race plan to get there as early as possible. If you feel you will not get enough sleep just go to bed early the night before. If you are like many people, you will have problems sleeping the night before a race anyway.

It is essential to get off on the right foot because the atmosphere can get pretty hectic in downtown Davenport a half hour before race time.

Try to arrive as much as an hour before the race and try to park down by the Mississippi River, but as far away from the starting line as possible.

Brad Zimanek

AFTER YOU have picked up your race packet, if you were unable to do so on Friday, go back to your car and warm up away from the crowds that start to fill the area. If you are a sightseer and start to look at all the people arriving, you will find out that race time will come more quickly than you expected and you will not be ready once the gun goes off.

While you are stretching and before you go out for a short run, drink some water to keep plenty of fluids in your body. You will find that during the race you will not look at every water station as an oasis.

After warming up 15 to 20 minutes before race time, start walking or jogging to the starting line. Fifteen to 20 minutes is a good time allotment because it will give you time to weave through the crowd to find a good starting spot. But, you should still be warmed up enough to be loose when the race starts.

DON'T BE too anxious to get in the starting line. You will just end up standing there getting tight and worrying about the race you have trained so hard for.

If you are shooting for any time under 50 minutes, start way ahead of where they tell you to start. For example, if you plan to run seven-minute miles line up with the six-minute miler. This way, you will avoid the frustration of ending up with an 11:00 first mile just because you had to weave your way through thousands of other runners. On the other hand if you are not shooting for any particular time and you just want to have fun, start farther back and give others a chance to race.

Get up Brady Street hill fast, plain and simple. If you have problems doing that, then you really haven't trained as hard as you thought.

Keep in mind that the hills are not what many people crack them up to be. Don't be intimidated by them and you will be amazed at how easy they actually are.

If you start to have problems during the race don't become depressed. Remember, you can still run for the fun of it. Good luck and I'll see you at the finish line.

Toon is a likely no-show as Jet's camp begins

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — Joe Walton opens his third training camp as New York Jets' coach Wednesday, sporting a different defensive philosophy, a multitude of new assistants and the knowledge that failure this year will probably mean no fourth try.

To make matters more difficult, No. 1 pick Al Toon is likely to be a no-show when Walton opens camp at Hofstra University for about 75 rookies, free agents and some veterans.

The 6-foot-4 wide receiver from Wisconsin is one of five Jets draft picks without a contract as of Tuesday morning.

"There have been no negotiations since the first offer was received May 13," Toon's agent, Ralph Cindrich, said by telephone from his Pittsburgh office Tuesday. "We have touched base with the Jets and talks have been amicable and our relationship is on a high plane."

"However, the Jets are taking a wait and see attitude. They are looking at what the other top draft picks are making."

Cindrich said Toon, the 10th selection of the first round, is prepared to go to camp as soon as a deal is reached. The Jets, who also have three veterans unsigned, will not comment on negotiations.

Toon's presence would help the team at wide receiver.

Arnold fighting back from adversity

By Brad Zimanez
Staff Writer

It is not always easy to come back from adversity but former Iowa basketball player Kenny Arnold is making definite strides forward after undergoing brain surgery only four months ago.

"I'm done with radiation treatments and the chemotherapy treatments are going pretty good," Arnold said. "I go in for two, two and a half hours and they have me on IV. It's a little painful and it makes me throw up, but after that it's O.K."

Arnold is best remembered for playing a key role on the Iowa team that was defeated in the 1980 Final Four by eventual NCAA Champion Louisville.

Arnold's tumor was diagnosed after suffering from seizures that led to a medical examination.

"I started having seizures and that's how they determined something was wrong. Then after being checked up that's when the tumor was discovered," Arnold said.

ARNOLD HAS ideas about what he would like to do after recovering completely from surgery, but now he is happy just to take one day at a time.

"I would like to work," Arnold said, "but right now I'm just kind of taking one day at a time. I'm doing well. I'm doing real good and I think a lot of people would be surprised at how well I'm actually doing. I want everybody to know that I am doing good."

A benefit game between former Iowa basketball players was held May 11 at Carver Hawkeye Arena to help defray the medical costs. But even after the benefit basketball contest, it is still uncertain how much money was actually raised and how Arnold's financial situation stands.

"To this day I'm still not sure as to how much was raised from that game," Arnold said. "I have been working on trying to get that straightened out."

Arnold would like to coach high school or college basketball after recovering from the brain surgery. He would need to return to school to obtain a coaching certificate.

Hawkeyes to compete at Festival

By Steve Sands
Staff Writer

Sophomore Al Lorenzen and Iowa freshmen recruits Ed Horton and Roy Marble will play in the basketball competition of the National Sports Festival in Baton Rouge, La., July 24-Aug. 4.

The three will join players, age 20 and under, from across the country, who were invited to play for four divisional teams.

Other members of the 12-man North squad include Iowa State sophomore Jeff Grayner and Glenn Rice, Michigan's Mr. Basketball, who will play for Michigan this fall.

The North team will face the East squad Saturday at 2 p.m., the West team Sunday at 7 p.m., and the South team Monday at 2 p.m.

After the round-robin competition, the four teams will enter a medal round, similar to Olympic play.

THE SPORTS FESTIVAL provides national competition in Olympic events in the year following the games.

Lorenzen, who is coming off surgery to his elbow in late May, said playing in the sports festival should provide a good test of recovery.

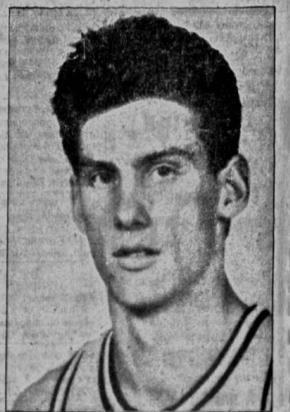

He said the operation went very well, adding he feels no pain when shooting.

Lorenzen's elbow started causing him problems during the Indiana road game Jan. 31. A bone spur in the elbow fractured and wedged into the flesh when he landed on it.

Beside testing his elbow, Lorenzen said he is looking forward to the quality of competition in the festival.

"I look at this as one of the biggest challenges of my career," he said, "to perform well."

MARBLE, a 6-foot 5-inch guard-forward from Flint, Mich., said the festival will also provide a good test for him — whether he is ready for Big Ten basketball.

"I kind of feel that if I can do pretty well down there, I can play anywhere," Marble said.

He said the style of play at the festival will be different from the physical type of game in the Big Ten.

He said he expects an "up-and-down-the-floor tempo type of game."

Horton, a 6-8 forward from Springfield, Ill., could not be reached for comment.

Iowa Basketball Coach George Raveling said he would like to see the three Iowa players perform to their ability during the competition.

BUT WHEN he was asked if the selection of Horton and Marble to the festival signaled a quality recruiting class for Iowa, Raveling said that was unknown.

"I think their selection was based on the accomplishments in high school," he said. "That remains to be seen what kind of contributions they will make at the University of Iowa."

In the swing

Lloyd Cooper grits his teeth as he prepares to make contact with a pitch while playing baseball with some friends in City Park Tuesday afternoon.

Cooper and his friends were taking advantage of the pleasant afternoon weather to get in some hitting.

Minor progress made in talks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two weeks away from the major league baseball players' strike deadline, negotiators for the players and club owners Tuesday discussed several non-economic details but did not come to grips with the major money issues.

In a 3½-hour bargaining session at the Major League Baseball Players Association offices, the parties talked about some 25 smaller, non-critical issues — such as scheduling, allowances, waiver procedures and spring training — trying to clear them out of the way.

"We have, hopefully, put some of those issues to rest, and we have narrowed the differences on the other ones," said Donald Fehr, acting executive director of the Players Association.

FEHR SAID THAT once these non-critical issues have been cleared, the two sides can begin negotiating economic differences for the first time since early March. It was then that both sides became locked in a protracted debate over just how much money the major league clubs were losing.

"Hopefully, we're going to complete that process by tomorrow morning and get back into some of the more significant issues such as ... minimum salaries, some licensing matters, as a prelude to the major issues we have to get back to."

The next negotiating session was set for Wednesday at the American and National Leagues' offices.

The major issues — the players' demand that the owners increase their contribution to the players' benefit plan to $60 million a year and the owners' proposal that a salary cap be imposed on teams to slow down salary increases — will likely carry the talks to the players' Aug. 6 strike deadline.

"I think it's inevitable, yes, that the talks will go down to the last couple of days. Hopefully by that time, we'll have been able between us to work out some solutions," said Lee MacPhail, chief negotiator for the owners. "Certainly, neither side wants a strike."

The owners have avoided discussing the pension plan at the bargaining table, maintaining that it must be considered in conjunction with their salary cap proposal presented last May.

For their part, the players' negotiators view the salary cap as an unacceptable assault on free agency, the players' ability to offer their services to the highest bidder.
