Burden lifted from acquitted murder suspect

Mallone's attorney Jeff Heyn said he wondered if she "ever thought about the thought of being responsible for all the things that have happened to her in the last few months."

Heyn said the four-week trial was the longest he had handled in the more than a decade he has been practicing law in the city. He said he was reassured by the acquittal.

"In the first week, or about the time of the sentencing, the jurors were very divided," he said.

"By the end of the trial, the only question was a hung jury, and then we were able to get that hung jury dismissed."

Church criticizes Nicaragua policy

WASHINGTON — The Roman Catholic Church yesterday criticized the Reagan administration's military policy in Central America.

The statement was signed by the Cardenal Augusto Miceli, Bishop of the Church's Conference and released by Cardinal Miguel Hincapie of Colombia, an outspoken government critic.

The church accused the administration of "subjecting the people of Nicaragua to sustained attacks by the military and the CIA and of failing to take any steps for a political solution.

The lack of political dialogue and the absence of any steps towards a cease fire are in contradiction with the democratic principle and the respect for the lives of the citizens of Nicaragua," the statement said.

Wise's neighbor testifies at trial

By Karl James

Staff Writer

Wise's neighbor of the victim's residence, Maysville's Labor Day parade, and the traffic on the road were all attacked by the police. He said the victim's daughter was carried over her body, and then shot in the head. No one was injured.

Sagepelt was also one of the detectives who witnessed Maysville's Labor Day parade. After his arrest, he was found dead in his car.

"That's when they told me they were searching for blood under my trailer and that someone was being picked up," said Sagepelt, who is also the defendant's brother.

A state police plane spotted the bodies of the victims on July 10, when the bodies were found under Wise's trailer. The bodies were found with the trailer in a close position to the road.

Sagepelt said he did not recall whether there was a motor present in Wise's body when officers found her body, because Wise's father intended to "be there to tell the truth.

EPA checks asbestos removal

By Marcella Chell

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and a Waterloo firm engaged in the removal of asbestos from buildings have "agreed to cooperate" in an effort to remove asbestos from buildings on Waterloo Street in Iowa City.

"We've completed the project in accordance with state and federal laws," said Kurtis during an interview last week. "We have a weekly meeting with [the EPA], and we're looking forward to working with them.

"We've got some more work to do on the EPA side, but we're working with them to make sure the asbestos is handled properly.

"We've been working with them for about a year now, and we're looking forward to finishing up the project.

"We're glad to have the EPA involved, and we're looking forward to working with them in the future."

Readers respond to charges of racism in Buckley's comments

To the Editor:

This is in response to Joe Buck­ley's letter " Racists right?" 80, Oct. 4. Joe Buckley Jr. suggests that Buckley is a racist, which is based on a ter­rible "stunt" upon America's past and reference to slavery, nor do I think a racist would have written his statement. Buckley seriously mis­construed the problem, but upon deeper investiga­tion I find there may be more to it, sub­stantial uncontroversial black families. Buckley is clearly no racist.

I feel his distortions of what Buckley said, for that's what he called rightist?" His analysis is open to question, but he is certainly not racist.

What is most ridiculous is that Buckley is confronted with Joe Jackson. If any prominent political figure is a racist, surely Jackson is his ultimate toward the Jews being wallabies. Furthermore, it takes a neurotic to compare/contrast Fidel Castro and Vassar Arafat. As for Buckley's fee, I have a hunch that if the total amount spent on conser­vatve figures were compared to that spent on communist and social­ist speakers, the former would come out far ahead.

If the writer claims himself among the "right wing" of whom he speaks, surely he has read Buckley's letter and knows that Buckley is neither vicious nor racist, in which case one wonders about his business for making such charges.

Farrakhan: is he good or evil?

All should listen to what he has to say

by Matthew C. Sealy

Farrakhan is the name, the legend, the man. His words have resonated across the globe, capturing the attention of millions. Whether viewed as a hero or a villain, his message has sparked discussion and debate.

In an interview with the Society of Newspaper Editors, Farrakhan was asked what he believed to be the most important message he had delivered to the world. His response was, "I believe the most important message I have delivered is the need for self-determination and the importance of black unity." He went on to explain, "We must work together to build a strong, independent community that is free of the social and economic dependencies that have held us back for so long."

Despite his impassioned rhetoric, Farrakhan's views have been met with both support and criticism. Some view him as a leader who speaks for the voiceless, while others see him as a divisive figure who promotes violence and hatred.

In the end, the question of whether Farrakhan is good or evil remains a matter of perspective. While some may see him as a hero, others may view him as a dangerous extremist. Whatever one's opinion, there is no denying the impact that Farrakhan has had on the world and the discussions he has sparked.

Guest Opinion

Finally, it is difficult for me to take seriously the denunciation of the Johnnie Cochran/Al Sharpton relationship by the United States Attorney. It seems to me that they have used a legal and personal modus operandi to gloss over their own. I have a feeling that they have made a conscious decision to do this. And the only thing that I can see is that, by doing this, they are trying to shift the blame onto others.

I think, however, that it is not only a question of bias, but also of personal vengiveness. It seems to me that the United States Attorney is trying to make charges against the National Organization for Women to deflect attention from his own failings.

I have to say, though, that I do not share in his view of the National Organization for Women. In my eyes, it is not only a question of bias, but also of personal vengiveness. It seems to me that the United States Attorney is trying to make charges against the National Organization for Women to deflect attention from his own failings.

Revolution-loan plan rejected

By Terry Tyler

A recent proposal to save the state government millions of dollars by merging the Accounting firm into the community. The proposal has received a mixed reaction, with some arguing that it is necessary because Iowa is $300,000 in debt, and others that it would be more efficient for the state to manage its own affairs.

The proposal, however, did not receive unanimous support. The Committee on Community Needs rejected it for fear that the proposal would not be consistent with the federal stipulation that the revolving-loan business be used to benefit low and moderate income people. The committee was also hesitant because no guidelines had been established for the loan, and there was no assurance that businesses would be offered the loan, what types of businesses would be offered it, and how the loan would be used.

In order to recommend a request for $200,000, the Accounting firm must show how the revolving-loan business would be used. The proposal, however, did not specify what the revolving-loan business would be used for, and there was no assurance that the businesses would be offered the loan.

The committee was hesitant because no guidelines had been established for the loan, and there was no assurance that businesses would be offered the loan, what types of businesses would be offered it, and how the loan would be used.

Edwards snaps drought with victory

Steve Edwards snaps a two-year, 12-tournament losing streak as Iowa's 12-10 thriller over Purdue, 12-11, in the last regular-season game of the tour, was won by Edwards as the Hawkeyes gained a berth in the NCAA men's basketball championship.

The 17th hole Sunday, breaking a three-way tie and winning the match, Edwards finished with a 67 and a four-round total of 130. Edwards, a native of Maine, won the match 1 up after halving the first hole. He made a birdie at the second hole, and a par at the third, and birdied the par-4 fourth hole. Edwards then birdied the par-5 fifth hole, making a 40-yard shot from the rough on the fairway, and birdied the par-3 sixth hole from 50 yards to maintain his 1-up lead.

The most successful tour will be the team's third of the season. The Hawkeyes' second time this season, Iowa beat Purdue 13-7 in the opening-round game at the Las Vegas Invitational. Iowa also beat Purdue, 13-7, in the opening-round game of the Las Vegas Invitational.

Bijou plans Von Stroheim tribute

By Richard Poulek

With its handsome, erie performance, Erich Von Stroheim provided the independent cinema with one of its most dazzling, larger-than-life characters. His career, however, was marred by personal infirmities and the autocratic, cantankerous, and often ridiculous behavior that earned him the reputation of the ultimate man of genius. Von Stroheim's films are legendary, and his contribution to the silent film genre is unparalleled.

Von Stroheim's career, by Richard Poulek

- His film, "The Merry Widow," is considered a masterpiece.
- His films, "Greed" and "The Last Command," are not only historically important but also artistically impressive.
- His most famous film, "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," is often cited as the first true horror film.
- His films are known for their innovative use of camera angles, editing, and storytelling techniques.
- Von Stroheim is renowned for his extraordinary use of lighting and sets, creating a unique atmosphere.

Von Stroheim's influence on the film industry cannot be overstated. His films set standards for overindulgence and excess, influencing generations of filmmakers who followed in his footsteps. His films remain relevant today, and his legacy continues to inspire new generations of filmmakers.

dooms ." This fate as Richard and surprise, met their individual diseases and given, at best, six months. The novel focuses on the quiet death of a man and his family. As Richard and his family grow older, they begin to realize the importance of the past.

The novel is a reflection of the author's life, and it also serves as a commentary on the nature of time and mortality. The author's use of language is carefully crafted, and he uses a language that seems to be a fresh perspective on human nature.

Although Harriet Doerr's first novel, "The House of Dawn," was a success, it was not without controversy. The novel was compared to other novels by women, and it was noted that the author had not been able to find a publisher for her novel.

Yet, Doerr's writing has neither the sterility of style, nor the self-satisfaction that seems to be the norm in some novels. Here is a novel that is both exceptional and unique in its own way.

"The House of Dawn" is a novel about the power of the past to shape the present. It is a novel that explores the relationship between past and present, and it is a novel that is both beautiful and profound.

Doerr is a writer who can pull me into a novel, and I can see the love and care that she has put into her work. The novel is a triumph of the novelist, and it is a triumph of the writer.
