Liberian loyalists end rebel coup

MONROVIA, Liberia (UPI) - A former military commander attempted to topple President Samuel Doe in a coup Tuesday but Doe said he crushed the revolt 13 hours after it began in this west African nation.

Doe called on rebel holdouts to lay down their arms and proclaimed a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

"I take this opportunity to inform the nation that the coup has failed," Doe said in a radio broadcast.

Diplomats in Monrovia had reported fierce fighting between loyal forces and rebel troops led by former military commander Gen. Thomas Quiwonkpa that left at least 16 people dead but it was not known if the fighting had

"It is not yet clear what forces are in control," the State Department in Washington said late DOE SAID in his broadcast he was in firm control of the country and he called on the army, police and "all Liberians" to stand firmly behind him.

"Do not permit these rebels, these dissident forces to intimidate you or influence you," he said. "I also call upon those rebel soldiers and their supporters to lay down their arms immediately because we are in complete control of the situa-

Quiwonkpa, earlier in the day, had claimed he seized power in the pre-dawn coup attempt. But Doe countered that loyal forces crushed the revolt and killed 15 rebels. Doe said one loyal soldier was killed in the fighting.

A western diplomat in the capitol said heavy fighting raged into the evening near Doe's Executive Mansion.

Doe, supported by his personal mansion guard and the 1st Army Battalion, remained at the Executive Mansion throughout the fighting.

THE SOUND of gunfire echoed through Monrovia as rebel soldiers seized areas of the capital and arrested officials of Doe's government.

But Doe, speaking to reporters at the Executive Mansion, said rebels backing Quiwonkpa "were badly defeated by government troops" after they crossed into Liberia from neighboring Ivory Coast.

In a Liberian radio broadcast monitored in the Ivory Coast, a rebel claiming to represent Quiwonkpa called on the army's 1st Battalion and members of the Executive Mansion guard to surrender or "face invasion."

Rebels said arrested members of Doe's government included the defense minister, the chief of staff, the director of joint security, the information minister and Vice President-elect Harry Moniba.

QUIWONKPA, commander of the Liberian military since April 1980, was named secretarygeneral of the ruling People's Redemption Council in October 1983. He refused the post and was stripped of authority in the armed forces.

The rebel leader, who participated in the 1980 coup that put Doe in power, is also thought to have led a thwarted attempt to topple the president in November 1983. Diplomatic sources said Quiwonkpa fled to the United States after the failed coup.

Doe was an army master sergeant on April 12, 1980, when he and a group of fellow sergeants killed President William Tolbert and seized power. He suspended the constitution and banned political activity.

Wiesel discusses literature, peace

By Melissa Rapoport Sports Editor

Elie Wiesel, a Holocaust survivor and author of 25 literary works, addressed about 600 people in the Union Tuesday night on the world's disparity and how it has affected literature and world peace.

"I hope with all my heart Geneva will be successful,' Wiesel said in reference of the summit meetings between the world powers which begins Tuesday.

Wiesel believes, however, the meetings would be more successful if they were not held in such a "beautiful" country. "They should move to Hiroshima," he suggested. "It would catch the imagination of the world, especially of the young children. Still, I hope something will come out; it's our future.

As a survivor of the Nazi Holocaust of World War II, Wiesel knows and understands the consequences of war - of it's death, oppression and torture. "I know how fragile a human life is,"

He sympathizes with victims from biblical times through the present.

"There is so much we should deal with," Wiesel said. "Since 1945, 22 million people have died in war not in accidents, in war. In Iraq and Iran alone, 1 million people were killed.

"What about torture?" he asked. "Torture has become an institution. It is being studied and taught ... scientists study torture.

U.S. charges harassment

WASHINGTON - The Reagan administration accused the Nicaraguan government Tuesday of harassing Nicaraguan employees of the U.S. Embassy in Managua with "midnight summonses" and "psychological and verbal abuse" in lengthy interrogation sessions.

The State Department said that between Nov. 2 and Nov. 7, 14 Nicara-guan employees of the American embassy were rousted late at night to appear the next day at state security headquarters. There, they were subjected to lengthy interrogations and told they were working for the CIA and were "prisoners." No one from the Nicaraguan Embassy was immediately available for comment.

Five killed in Pennsylvania

DERRY, Pa. - A twin-engine charter plane apparently flying off course in a foggy rain clipped a path through the treetops and crashed on a hillside near an airport, killing all five men aboard, officials said Tuesday.

The Cessna crashed about 5 p.m. Iowa time Monday about 40 miles east of Pittsburgh, three hours after it took off from the Greater Rockford Airport in Rockford, Ill. Skip Rusciewcz, deputy coroner of Westmorland County, said he found the bodies, still strapped to their seats, among wreckage about 40 feet from the fuselage of the plane.

Envoy to negotiate in Beirut

LONDON - The Archbishop of Canterbury's special envoy will go to Lebanon today in a bid to secure the release of six American hostages who had appealed for new efforts to win their freedom, the Church of England said Tuesday.

Terry Waite, Archbishop Robert Runcie's secretary for Anglican Communion Affairs, decided to make the trip to Beirut "after having had further contact during the past three days with the group holding the hostages," a church statement said. Waite helped secure the release in September of the Rev. Benjamin Weir, 61, a U.S. clergyman who spent 16 months in captivity in

Verdict reached in Aquino trial

MANILA, Philippines - A court said Tuesday it had reached a verdict in the trial of armed forces chief Gen. Fabian Ver and 25 other defendants accused in the 1983 assassination of opposition leader Benigno Aquino.

Presiding Justice Manuel Pamaran ordered Ver and the other defendants to appear Nov. 20 for an announcement of the verdict in the seven-month trial that ended Sept. 26. The announcement was made one day after a group of 29 prominent Filipinos petitioned the Supreme Court to declare a mistrial and stop the three-judge trial court, the Sandiganbayan, from handing down a

Cholesterol danger cited

WASHINGTON — The largest study of its kind shows that even moderate levels of cholesterol in the blood increase the risk of heart disease, contradicting those who say only high amounts are dangerous, researchers said Tuesday.

"It is not a threshhold relationship, meaning the claim is incorrect that excess risk does not start until the cholesterol reaches a markedly elevated level," Dr. Jeremiah Stamler said at the annual meeting of the American Heart Association. Cholesterol and other fatty substances can build up on the inner walls of the arteries leading to the heart, cutting the flow of blood to the heart. This sets the stage for heart attacks, which are expected to kill 550,000 Americans this year.

Men released on reduced bond

By Bart Jansen Staff Writer

The bond for each of three Iowa City men charged this week with second-degree sexual abuse was reduced Tuesday and they were released to the Iowa Department of Bond had been set at $25,000 each for Lance F. Alvarez, 20, of 840 Maggard St., Apt. 4; Augustin Alexander Clarke, 22, of 1000 W. Benton St., Apt. 112E; and James E. Lee Jr., 18, of 516 E. Fairchild St., after their initial appearances Monday in Johnson County District Court.

Each of the three men was charged with sexually abusing a woman in Mayflower residence hall Nov. 9 with force, while being aided by others, court records state.

The application for bond reduction was filed Monday by Alvarez's attorney, stating the defendant's

The application stated Alvarez is indigent and will be applying for a court-appointed attorney. He has been a student at the UI since 1982, court records state.

Lee is also a UI student, according to UI Campus Security officers.

Sixth District Court Judge Larry J. Conmey reduced the bond Tuesday. Conmey's order also stated the defendants can have no "indirect or direct contact with the alleged victim," court records state.

Preliminary hearings are scheduled for Nov. 21 for each of the defendants.

Robert D. Kraemer, 22, Ely, Iowa, made an initial appearance Sunday in Johnson County District Court on the charges of assault, interference with official acts, fourth-degree criminal mischief and public intoxication. Kraemer was involved in a scuffle with Iowa City police Saturday when they were summoned to escort him from The Fieldhouse Bar, 111 E. College St., according to court records. Officials had been called because Kraemer had refused to leave the bar, police said.

One officer received a broken nose during the incident and another was bitten on the arm, court records state. Criminal mischief was charged because the defendant allegedly bit the watch off one of the officer's wrists, according to court records. Kraemer's preliminary hearing is scheduled for Nov. 27.

The council has also been asked to place a traffic signal at the intersection.

Helling said, however, that even if approved by the council, a traffic signal would not be installed until next summer.

Councilor Ernest Zuber said he is fairly certain the council "will move as rapidly as possible" on the matter and is optimistic the signal will be approved.

James Brachtel, city traffic engineer, said there is sufficient traffic to require a signal at the intersection, based on a recent traffic pattern study of the two streets. The light would "provide an opportunity for the side street to have a guaranteed right-of-way," he said.

New UI phone system to utilize updated technology

By Marianne Cherni Staff Writer

UI students living in residence halls may be able to choose which long distance telephone company they want to use by December 1986 — among them, Northwestern Bell, Teleconnect or the UI.

This choice comes with implementation of the UI's own $15-million telephone system. The new telephone system will be part of the Office of Telecommunications, which will be located in the current Chemistry-

AS PART OF THE system changeover, 16,000 phones serving the UI campus will receive new push-button dialing mechanisms. Currently most of the phones on campus use a rotary dialing mechanism.

Botany building parking lot.

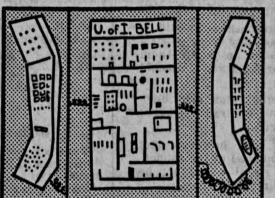

Among the advantages of the new system are that it will enable students anywhere in Iowa City to have telephone access to UI computers, as well as allowing administrators to make conference calls and enjoy greater data accessibility.

Dorsey Ellis, UI vice president for finance, said the new system is part of a technological expansion the UI is undertaking to keep up with rapid advancements in the computer world

FOR EXAMPLE, in the future students will be able to call the UI Main Library from their homes, plug into a computerized card catalogue and find information from volumes without ever leaving their rooms, Ellis

"Even though we're moving from an antiquated system to a gee-whiz system, it will still save us $7 million after capital costs," Ellis said.

The UI presently pays about $3 million annually for its telephone service.

Graphic by Gregory McCallum

In addition, costs for UI residence hall phone services, which are now included in the overall room charge, will also be defrayed with the UI's new system, Ellis added

CONSTRUCTION OF the Office of Telecommunications, which will house the electronic backbone of the new telephone system, will start "very soon," said Richard Gibson, UI director of facilities and planning.

Gibson said the Chem-Bot building was chosen as the site for the new office because it is the only location on campus that could house it without using an uneconomical piece of land or constructing a new building. Gibson added the "loss of 18 or so" parking spaces would not be a problem.

"They were mostly Chem-Bot department parking spaces, and while the Chem-Bot department liked the spaces there, they could not justify a reason for not relocating them," Gibson said.

In addition, the UI has appointed William Cleveland of Des Moines, as manager of the Office of Telecommunications.

Supervisors may not offer pay hikes despite requests

Jim Sprague Staff Writer

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors started pay negotiations Tuesday by offering no pay increases for Johnson County groups seeking pay hikes.

The Employees Collective Organization, representing the Johnson County Care Facility's 45 employees, had asked for a 12.5 percent pay increase.

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees had asked the board to approve a 7 percent pay raise for the nine employees of the Johnson County Department of Human Services and the Johnson County Ambulance Department's 25 employees.

employees.

But the board is trying to freeze the budget for next year, and asked in October for zero budget growth from all county departments.

ALVIN LOGAN defended the request for pay increases by telling the board, "You can cut back on the physical side of the budget but not the human side." Logan supports the 12.5 percent wage increase for care facility employees.

Nine members of the Iowa Property Taxpayers voiced opposition to any pay increase for county employees, and have asked the board to cut the county budget by 9 percent. The local taxpayer group has been attending board meetings to lobby for lower property taxes in the county.

Iowa Property Tax Payer member Bill Zenishek said farmers are already cutting back on "the human side" and are unable to afford pay raises for other people.

J.S., U.S.S.R. continue pre-summit posturing

WASI GTON (UPI) — Presi-ent Roll d Reagan won a biparisan wish of good luck for his efforts at next week's summit Tuesday as he kicked off a final bid for public opinion at home and abroad.

The administration, citing sharp differences in the proposals offered by the two sides, further discounted the chance of a breakthrough on arms control s Reagan laid out his summit strategy to the congressional eadership at a White House

After the meeting, Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas said he and his coleagues - Democrats as well as Republicans — had given Reagan "a strong indication of support" for the positions he carries to the Nov. 19-20 summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachèv.

Reagan stepped up his presummit "public diplomacy" drive in an interview with five European television reporters.

THE INTERVIEW, beamed live to parts of Europe, was the latest in a series intended to promote U.S. policies in advance of the summit. The White House announced Reagan will address the American people on the summit in a televised address Thursday night from the Oval Office. In another summit-related development, Reagan received a long-awaited Pentagon report that concludes the Soviets have systematically violated arms control agreements in a bid for military advantage.

Officials said the document was not as explosive as expected and does not contain suggested U.S. responses to Soviet viola-

White House spokesman Edward Djerejian said Reagan told the congressional leaders he approached the summit "in a very constructive spirit and hoped to do what could be done to establish an agenda for the future" of U.S.-Soviet relations.

sion also described Reagan as "realistic" about the dim prospects for progress in arms con-

The obstacles standing in the way of an arms agreement were also underscored by the Soviet Union Tuesday, as an editorial in the military newspaper Red Star attacked U.S. policies from human rights to Star Wars.

"Facts show that Washington's hegemony plans have not changed," the editorial charged. Red Star said the Strategic Defense Initiative, a U.S. program to devise a space-based anti-missile shield, is an attempt by "U.S. imperialists to gain world supremacy by achieving military superiority over the Soviet Union."

Moscow has consistently pushed to make arms control especially Star Wars - the centerpiece of the summit. But the United States wants to discuss human rights and regional conflicts in which the two countries back opposing armed factions, such as Afghanistan and Nicar-

IN ANOTHER attack on the United States, the Communist Party newspaper Pravda dismissed U.S. concern with regional conflicts and accused right armed intervention in pursuit of its goals.'

Washington experts in psychological warfare obviously miscalculated when, trying to distract world public attention from the pressing problems of struggle against the arms race, they decided to give priority to the problem of regional conflicts," the Pravda said.

The newspaper said the issue would "boomerang" because of the Vietnam War, U.S. involvement in Lebanon and "the atrocities perpetrated by gangs hired with dollars in Nicaragua, Angola and other countries.'

Spy pleads guilty, receives sentence

victed spy Arthur Walker was entenced to three life terms lus 40 years in prison Tuesday for helping his brother run a Soviet espionage ring.

U.S. District Judge J. Calvitt Clarke Jr. also fined Walker $250,000 but told him the three ife terms and the additional 40 years would run concurrently nus allowing his parole by 1995. Walker's attorneys said they ould appeal.

"No one could be sorrier than I am for what I've done. I have dishonored myself and devastated my family," said Walker, a retired Navy lieutenant commander from Virginia Beach.

Walker, convicted Aug. 9, confessed he slipped confidential military documents to his brother, convicted spymaster John Walker, 48, a former Nor-folk private detective and retired Navy chief warrant officer.

John Walker was arrested May 20, ending a 17-year involvement with the Soviets. Arrested shortly afterwards were his son Michael Walker, a Navy sailor, along with his brother Arthur Walker and Jerry Whitworth of Dayis, Calif.

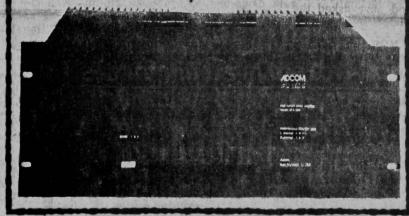

John Walker and his son pleaded guilty last month to espionage charges in federal

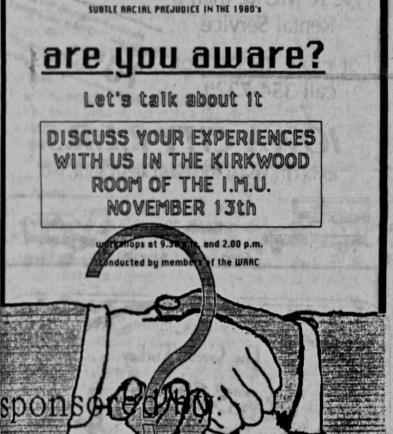

Under terms of a plea agreement, the son is to receive a 25-year sentence and John Walker is to be sentenced to two life terms to run concurrently.

PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 99th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSIO WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1985

Senate

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1985

(Legislative day of Monday, October 21, 1985)

COMMEMORATING UNIVERSITY OF IOWA'S CENTER FOR THE ARTS 50TH ANNIVERSARY PROGRAM "TO IOWA WITH LOVE"

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, on November 15 and 16 the University of Iowa Dance Co. will celebrate the land, people, and spirit of Iowa in a program entitled "To Iowa With Love"-part of the commemoration of the 50th anniversity of the UI's Iowa Center for the Arts.

As we in the Senate begin the debate on the farm bill, we have been over-whelmed with facts and figures illustrating the depth and breadth of the farm crisis in Iowa and throughout the Midwest. What the numbers do not tell us, however; is of the pride and strength of the people of Iowa-of their determination and resolve to fight to save their lands and perserve their way of life.

I want to commend the University of Iowa-in particular, Lan-lan King, acting director of the UI Dance Program; Alicia Brown, director, UI Dance Co.; and Winston Barclay of the UI Arts Center Public Relations Officefor choosing the celebration of Iowa life as a timely and deeply significant theme for the anniversary program. Their efforts and commitment in putting together this expression of pride and hope are deeply appreciated.

Come see the UI Dance Company's "To Iowa with Love" and find out what everyone in Iowa City (and Washington, D.C.) is talking about. Call the Hancher Box Office today at 353-6255!

GPU nets $1,000 from senate

By Robert Mann Staff Writer

The UI Student Senate considered several controversial funding requests from student organizations Tuesday and voted to overturn two of its Budgeting and Auditing Committee's recommen-

The discussion on this allocation concerned whether the senate should provide $300 to the Gay People's Union for printed information that will be distritional workshops.

The BAC voted to fund them for only $60 of this request, but Sen. Craig Perrin motioned to increase the amount because he said Joel Gray, moderator of the Gay People's Union, has "already spent $600 out of his own tered around a request for additional funding for two speakers from New Wave that the BAC opposed.

Senate Treasurer Mike Ketchmark, who is chairman of the BAC, said New Wave received $500 earlier this year from the senate for these speakers, but asked for another $500 last week.

Ketchmark said the BAC decided since the two speakers are graduate students at the University of Chicago, an honorar-ium of $500 would be sufficient. ON A TIE vote the senate eventually defeated a suggestion by Perrin to fund New Wave's latest request. The senate also agreed with a delegation's cost.

Yet as a prisoner of the Auschwitz and Buchenwald concentration camps, it wasn't the death surrounding him that Wiesel found most appalling. "What shook (me) up," he said, "was not the death, but the system — the system worked."

WIESEL SAID literature must try to make the world understand such incomprehensible castrophies. Yet, as Wiesel learned from Franz Kafka, sometimes silence is better than words.

"In 1914 he wrote about such trivial things," he explained. "(Then came) the first massacre (of World War I). It was a butchery. He would go to the hospitals and see the soldiers coming in from the front. He had to see it.

"Yet, Great Kafka, the humanist, who I considered the greatest author of the 20th century, (wrote) not one word," Wiesel continued.

The drivers were more concerned about future traffic problems, caused by former bus riders driving vehicles instead.

"It would create more havoc downtown," Peterson said. "More congestion would result in buses being late."

Leonard said driving in Iowa City is already "a real trip" and wishes the bus system could serve "every crook and cranny of the city" instead of decreasing the current level of service.

Many bus riders said they prefer the current routes, schedules and fares but could work around the changes.

"I'd probably have to reschedule my time periods" of travel, said DePue, who rides the bus eight to 10 times a week. "This is not a town that lives on a tight schedule. Unfortunately, it happens to be a town on a tight budget."

· Maintain the current system but increase the transit levy from 36 cents to 54 cents by a local tax subsidy. Currently, users provide 39 percent of the transit revenue, state and federal subsidies cover 18 percent, and local revenue such as property taxes and Federal Revenue Sharing funds account for 43 percent of transit financing.

 Reduce evening and Saturday service, and change intervals on Saturday routes from 30 minutes to one hour.

• Eliminate Wardway, North Dubuque and Seventh Avenue routes and all Saturday and evening routes.

• Eliminate the same three routes, Saturday and evening service and also reduce regular service from 30-minute to 60-minute intervals between 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Fares would increase to 60 cents and bus passes to $18.50.

When the council makes a decision on the transit proposals, a public hearing will be scheduled. Mayor John McDonald said earlier this week that a decision may not be made until January.

The buck stops

"Contributory negligence" is a concept whose time has

More than 16.6 million private civil suits were tried in the United States last year. The paperwork alone for these suits cost taxpayers more than $360 million. For every $1,000 put up by defendants and their insurers, only $370 trickles down to the successful plaintiff. Lawsuits have become a national pastime, yet the real winners in this massive litigation are lawyers.

Too many people act as though our court system is a giant roulette wheel - simply give it a spin and hope for a jackpot. In a flight from personal responsibility that has become endemic in our society, people seek the easy way out and blame scapegoats for their problems.

Children sue their parents for poor upbringings, women blame men for every inequality in their lives, bankrupt farmers denounce bankers for their plight, drunks point to bar owners to bear the consequences of their drinking, patients claim malpractice at the first odd pain. To such plaintiffs, it's everyone's fault but their Affixing responsibility on an outside entity makes it too easy to maintain undesirable behavior, too easy to hate, too easy to avoid personal responsibility.

Many Americans refuse to change until the consequences become economic ones. If someone does not want to wear a seat belt or motorcycle helmet, fine. But if this person is in an accident, any insurance payments should be significantly reduced.

Overweight or a smoker? OK, but if hospitalized for conditions caused by these factors, the patient should pay for the charges out of her or his own pocket. A heavy drinker? Fine, but factor that into health insurance premiums or disability payments.

People should be allowed to lead their lives as they want, but only if they are willing to accept full responsibility for their actions. The rest of us should not have to pay for their mistakes.

Rediscovering Iowa

 Who was the first Iowa governor to have his office in Old Capitol?

· Who was the 29th governor of Iowa? · What famous cowboy was born near Le Claire, Iowa,

· Who surveyed the state of Iowa?

For most Iowans, our state's history is simply a subject e studied in the fifth grade ... Ah, and how quickly we forget.

If you answered more than three of the above questions incorrectly, you are in need of a refresher course

Do some reading, travel to the Amana Colonies, visit the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library in West Branch or see the world's largest collection of Grant Wood's work at the Cedar Rapids Arts Center. Right here in Johnson County you can visit the Old Capitol, Gov. Robert Lucas' Plum Grove Home, the State

Breakfast at the State House

E'RE breakfasting with the governor Friday morning. Friday at 7:30 a.m., to be exact. That's a lot to ask of students especially those prone to Thursday night embellishments - but, hey, how many times do you get a chance to meet someone who's actually appeared on CNN?

Not many, at least in this state. So The Daily Iowan editors are going to trek to Des Moines by the dawn's early light in pursuit of this opportunity.

Oh, we know it's a blatant election-year's just-round-the-bend ploy. But how can you turn down an invitation, complete with an official state seal, that closes, "I look forward to seeing you on November 15th." He igned it (although I suspect it might be one of those rubber-stamp signatures): "Sincerely, Terry E. Branstad, Governor.'

"STUDENTS PLAY A key role in higher education today," the invitation from Branstad begins. "Awareness of their concerns is vital to continued educational excellence. I invite you to share your concerns with me at a breakfast for the staff of the Iowa Universities' student newspapers." Does he know what he's getting into? Not even a week after The Des Moines Sunday Register's blaring headline informed us that Branstad's newest and most improved spending plan "takes aim at education," does he really want to hear what we students have to

In the ensuing Register article, Branstad lauded UI administrators for picking and choosing which departments are considered exempt from the trickle-down effects of the latest cuts and which are considered strong enough to be further strengthened.

We want to increase our commitments to education and those centers of excellence, but that's going to have to be done at the

Hey, Terry, Ismight say (once we're a little better acquainted), did you read the New York Times editorial entitled "Farm Subsidies Grow Like Weeds" Nov. 4? Missed the vote

To the Editor:

Imagine my disappointment when, at 8:30 p.m. on Nov. 5, I arrived at my designated polling place to find the door locked and the attendants preparing to cover the ballot tallying machine with its proper storage cover. I knocked on the door and said open until 9, and the woman replied that they had closed at 8.

I have never missed voting in my albeit short voting career until now. The column "Use your privilege: vote today" in the Nov. 5 DI included the hours during which the polls were supposed to be open. The least the newspaper could do while admonishing people to exercise their democratic privilege is to publish accurate polling hours alongside, so that those of us who do care can vote.

You need not waste your effort fumbling to fashion a satire of the Campus Review. Many (and I suspect most) of your readers see the Review for what it is: unreasoning and unreasonable. We do not accept as credible the put-downs, the slurs, the bigotry or the disregard for intelligent readers who wish to be given adequate arguments from which to make their own judgments. We understand that the publication functions only to taunt, insult and ridicule. ... Do not sell short your readers, Humes. We understand that the Campus Review is undisciplined, unthinking and not to be believed, especially in an academic community where high standards of reasoning and proof are demanded for credibility. We do, however, take very seriously this publication. ... If you must address your talent to the Campus Review, Humes, why not do so in a manner that explores with your readers in a more serious vein the function of public bombast. To hurl insults at a publication that is incapable of producing anything beyond facile insult scarcely adds any insight to our understanding of such a publication....

To the Editor: The organization working to ban the CIA from recruiting on the UI campus has taken an unnecessary turn in its protesting. This group asked the UI officials to keep the CIA off the campus due to the controversies in some of its practices. That request was denied and the group continues to protest.

It was quite disappointing to see the results of the protest on the buildings around campus. As the students walked around campus, they were greeted with the words "CIA Off Campus" printed upon many buildings. This defacing of UI buildings was an uncalled-for part of the group's efforts to remove the CIA from the campus. The wishes of the group were expressed in such a way that they brought their action down to a level unnecessary at any college or university.

Many protests have been staged in different ways that the UI's property was not defaced. The CIA Off Campus group is welcome to express their views but they have gone too far when the entire student body pays for their actions. When UI buildings are subjected to blemishes somebody has to remove them and that somebody's salary is paid by the students through their tuition. ... This action is a concern of many.

Hawk sports— the season is here

Hawks will play in bowl game of their choice

ssistant Sports Editor

Hayden Fry had bowl games on his mind Tuesday at his press conference.

And for football coaches and fans there is not really anything else more important this time of year, is there?

The Iowa football coach has a few thoughts on where his squad may play, without getting into specifics, if the Hawkeyes do not qualify for the Rose Bowl by winning the Big Ten championship.

If the Big Ten Conference, along with Iowa

Athletic Director Bump Elliott, attempts to set up a lucrative package deal involving conference schools, Fry has some advice. "I'll say this," he said, "Bump and Wayne Duke better be ready to suit up and play.

"I've already told Mr. Elliott that I'm not interested in anything that the Big Ten put together from a package standpoint and I mean it. I guarandangtee ya.

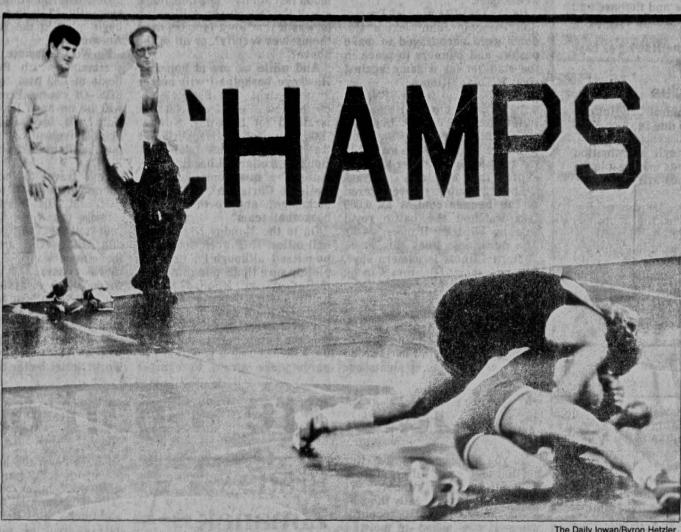

A BIG TEN Conference bowl package would seek to send as many schools to bowl games as possible, generating as much money as possible for the conference coffers.

Fry believes that the decision on where his Hawkeyes travel for a possible bowl trip should be left up to his players. "I feel like our players do the work and they earn it and have the right to make the decision and not a bunch of politicians or other people," Fry

Fry warns that the bowl games had better approach Iowa, not the Big Ten offices when it is time to parcel out postseason games.
"Are they gonna play the Big Ten office," Fry

"If I'm within the rules and the spirit of the game and I think it's ethical, I'm gonna do it," Fry said. "They better deal with the University of Iowa. If there are any offers to be made, don't be offering Wayne Duke or the other people. Wayne Duke doesn't have a

OF COURSE, if Fry has his way, Iowa will be playing in the Rose Bowl, and that is still his goal. "Playing in the Rose Bowl means See Football, Page 3B

Gable's incentive: Defend his turf

As if Dan Gable, one of the most successful coaches in the history of collegiate sports, hasn't been motivated enough through the last nine years and nine NCAA title chases, he has an extra incentive this season.

MOTIVATION AND hard work have made Gable's Iowa teams unbeatable in the Big Ten and nearly so in the NCAA's since his head coaching start in 1977.

Under Gable, Iowa is an incredible 60-0 in Big Ten duals and has grabbed nine league titles and eight national championships, including a convincing team win in Oklahoma City, Okla., last season.

And there is no letting up this year, according to Gable, who said the team has a new motto for the upcoming NCAA title defense; "ninth crown in our town".

Despite the fact Iowa returns seven all-Americans, Gable said the absence of a clearly overpowering wrestler on this season's team has led some sportswriters and opposing coaches to indicate a possible dethronement of the Hawkeyes this season.

Raveling ready to turn lowa loose on Czechs

By Melissa Rapoport Sports Editor

It's more than a scrimmage, but considerably less than a regular-season game. Essentially, the Iowa basketball team's contest against the Czechoslovakian National Team tonight at 7:35 in Carver-Hawkeye Arena is a gauge of preseason progress.

"I use these types of games as a barometer as to how far along we've come and how much further we have to go," Iowa basket-ball Coach George Raveling said. "I've always felt, 'Hey, if you win, it doesn't mean you're going to have a great year, and if you lose, it doesn't mean you're going to have a poor season.'

At this point, Raveling believes his Hawk-eye squad has come a long way but is far from polished. In fact, in order to further the progress of the team, the Iowa coach did not interrupt practice flow to prepare for this

"We have done very little (in preparation for the game)," Raveling said. "We don't even have the zone offense in. If we play a zone we're just going to have to improvise.

"I DON'T WANT to have to change our practice continuity just to get ready to beat them when it doesn't really mean anything," he continued. "We're going to try like heck to beat them, but on the other hand, I don't think we want to gear everything toward beating the Czechs.

It's intentional that the Hawkeyes have not et started working on the zone offense. 'We've gone a little slower with this team than we have with a lot of the other ones, but they've really started to pick things up ... They're like little sponges because they pick up everything I say," Raveling said. Even though Raveling is weaning this year's team unusually slowly, he has found attributes in his players that outweigh last year's performers. "Top to bottom we have better mobility and better quickness," the Iowa coach said.

THE TEAM'S overall quickness should lead to a faster-paced game. "We're definitely going to push it up tomorrow." Ravel-See Basketball, Page 3B the total points Wheeler said the team could have scored in the meet had all the athletes been healthy.

The lone bright spot for Iowa in the Big Ten meet, and for the season, was Danny Waters who finished 13th in the conference and qualified for NCAA District competition.

The senior also grabbed first place in Iowa's opening three meets at home and placed fourth at the Central Collegiates.

Waters will run this Saturday in District action at Bloomington, Ind., in an effort to qualify for the NCAA Cross Country Champion-

While Waters continues work on his cross country running, the rest of the squad is tuning up for the indoor track season, and Wheeler said he does not expect the late season outdoor collapse to hurt the team indoors.

Hawks injured, but not critically

The football injuries from Saturday's game with Illinois aren't as bad as they appeared, according to Coach Hayden

Pre-Holiday basketball entries due

It's not too late to register for the Intramural Pre-Holiday Basketball Tournament, but all enteries are due in room E216 of the Field House by 4 p.m. today.

There will be three divisions in the single elemination tournament, men's, women's and coed. Games may be played Nov. 18 though Nov. 21. The later round games will begin Dec.

The men's division will be limited to 128 teams but according to Andy Piro, of Campus Programs, the quota has not been reached.

The tournament is a good way for players to prepare for the regular intramural basketball season will begins and winter break.

This gives people a chance to get geared up for the season," Piro said. "Its a good way to get acquainted with the program and playing each other.

On The Line

Dear On the Line Readers: Even though the deadline for ballots is noon on Thursday you are more than welcome, and even encouraged to drop them by the Communications Center before 11:50 a.m. the day they're due.

Get together with friends on a Tuesday night and make a party out of it! Pick your winners, then designate one lucky person to deliver them on Wednesday.

This would not only relieve you from rushing frantically to the ballot box before deadline, it would relieve us of wading through the huge pile on Thursday.

So, let's begin right now. Go to the drawer and get out the sissors and a pen. Now, neatly cut out the ballot and choose your prospects. Circle your choices and Don't forget to circle the tie breaker.

We're warning you, an incircled tiebreaker means that your ballot is neatly deposited in the trash can.

Next, fill out your name and phone number and remember, only five ballots per person.

Look, your ballot is competed Wednesday morning, you can run, walk or bus to the Communications Center and deposit it in the ballot box.

Those friendly folks at The Tycoon IC, at 223 E. Washington have graciously donated a keg of beer for the winner. Get out and trip the light fantastic at The Tycoon IC, Okay?

Some of us will be glad when football season is over and On The Line can be forgotten until next season. A few of us prefer wrestling and we all know that Dan and his grapplers are and will remain No.

First stop, Eastern Illinois, an J. B. NCAA Division I-AA school in Charleston, Ill. To combat the major network's concentration on "big time" football, "Make Believe We Are On National Television Day" was held a few weeks back.

Under the direction of Promotion Director John Seketa students were encouraged to make posters and banners to place in the stadium for a game against rival Western Illinois.

To add to the fun, ESPN, the network that now brings you roller derby, donated banners, and announcers Jim Simpson and Paul Maguire were available via telephone after the game to express their opinions.

About 26 banners were entered in the banner contest as 6,000 fans watched the battle royal won by Western Illinois, 34-20. The questions: Does this mean Eastern Illinois is camera shy?, and how many fans tuned in on television?

Rituals are a part of running

Do you have any running rituals that seem to be different from that of the ordinary runner?

I do. But I never really thought much about it until recently when I was asked to be the subject of a photo essay.

As the series began the photojournalism student took pictures of me in my dorm room as I was getting ready for a late night run. Suddenly I noticed that some of the things that I ordinarily do, did not seem ordinary to this running photographer.

One of the rituals included drinking a cup of tea. Almost every single time I run at night I drink a cup of tea, either blackberry, lemon or one of my favorites, orange and spice.

As I began my run I thought about this some more. I figured there were a few other things I do that don't exactly seem ordin-

IF YOU LOOK in my room you could swear that I have bought stock in Vaseline and Ben-Gay.

I did and it definitely saved me a lot of discomfort and problems as I completed my first marathon.

When I first started running I probably needed Vaseline a lot more than I do now because when I started to run I wanted to lose weight. A lot of the extra weight happened to be on my thighs thus rubbing between my legs definitely existed.

But ever since then I still use Vaseline between my legs but now it is out of habit instead of any actual need.

BY MY USE of Ben-Gay you would believe I was an 84-year old cripple instead of 20-year old

Another little ritual that I have acquired is the inability to throw away my old running shoes.

culation is rising to a fever pitch. At the moment, speculation is all we have. But as soon as there's a break in the logjam caused by the five top-rated Jan. 1 bowls, the lineups for the other 13 post-season college football games will start falling into

Even a couple of those Jan. 1 games are on hold at the moment, waiting for the outcome of the Oklahoma-Nebraska and Michigan-Ohio State games on Nov. 23, also the first date bowl bids become "official." The Oklahoma-Nebraska winner gets the Big Eight's Orange Bowl berth. If Ohio State beats Michigan, the 3rd-ranked Buckeyes are Rose Bowl bound, but Wolverines would 5th-ranked Iowa to Pasadena.

THE ORANGE BOWL has three candidates to face the Big Eight champion. The folks at Miami would like Penn State if the Nittany Lions are still No. 1 two weeks from now, in hopes of matching top-rated Penn State against No. 2 Nebraksa. However, the Cornhuskers must get past No. 6 Oklahoma before going to the Orange Bowl. The guess here is that the Orange Bowl pairing will be either Oklahoma-Iowa or Nebraska-Miami. If the first holds true, Miami likely would head for the Cotton Bowl, probably to play Arkansas, or the an upset by the 8th-ranked Gator Bowl, and Iowa would accept a Sugar Bowl bid. Here's a projection of this

"I THINK IT (the drug rumors) has been unfair," he said. "The team just has not done well. We are not making the big plays."

The current drug rumors are not the first to cloud the team.

In 1982, the 49ers were also defending Super Bowl champions but finished with a 3-6 record in the strike-shortened season. After the season, a number of players said drug use had been one of the problems that haunted the team and helped lead to the club's decline.

Penn State at No. 1, Hawks fifth

NEW YORK (UPI) - Early in October, Penn State was an undefeated but shaky team searching for recognition, and Notre Dame was a thrice-beaten club searching to rediscover its past glory and secure its coach's shaky future.

The two schools square off Saturday with little change in the scenario of six weeks ago. Penn State remains a shaky, undefeated team trying to prove it is college football's No. 1.

Depite Notre Dame's four-game winning streak, putting the team at 5-3, Coach Gerry Faust continues to feel the rumblings around him that may signal the end of his five-year reign.

The Nittany Lions Tuesday claimed the No. 1 spot for the second straight week in voting by the UPI Board of Coaches. They are 9-0, but seven of those victories have come by seven or fewer points.

A LOSS TO Notre Dame would open the way to the top ranking for Nebraska and undefeated Air Force, who finished No. 2 and No. 4, respectively, for the second consecutive Nebraska, unbeaten since a season-opening loss to Florida State, will reach the Orange Bowl and a probable date with either Penn State or Air Force if the Cornhuskers beat Kansas and No. 6 Oklahoma to close their regular schedule.

The Falcons play their most important game Saturday when they face perennial Western Athletic Conference power Brigham Young. The 15th-ranked Cougars have won the league title every year since 1974. Victories over BYU and Hawaii would give Air Force its first-ever WAC title and its first trip to a major bowl since 1971.

THE NITTANY Lions, who improved to 9-0 with a 31-10 triumph over Cincinnati, garnered 34 of the coaches' 42 first-place votes and 614 points to retain the top ranking.

After Nebraska (four first-place votes), third-ranked Ohio State (one), No. 4 Air Force (three), fifth-ranked Iowa, No. 6 Oklahoma and seventhranked Miami (Fla.) all remained among the top seven. Iowa and Oklahoma, however, flip-flopped their positions from last week.

No. 8 Michigan, ninth-ranked Arkansas, No. 10 Oklahoma State and 11th-ranked UCLA each inched up one spot. Baylor, No. 8 last week, was beaten by Arkansas and plunged to

Wrestling "I DON'T THINK anybody from the outside sees a Banach or two Banachs (Ed and Lou) or two Zalesky's (Lenny and Jim) or a Davis

(Barry)," Gable said. "(A Pennsylvania newspaper) says that basically (Penn State) is the only team in the nation this year that can go man to man with us and beat us," Gable said. "The Oklahoma paper said the same thing (about Oklahoma) except they included Penn

State, Iowa State and Oklahoma

State. "You can tell from (other coaches') comments they're pretty optimistic, and rightfully so. They're optimistic every year, but at the end of the year it's always been the Iowa Hawkeyes as NCAA champions.'

Leading Iowa in the quest for a ninth consecutive national title will be co-captains Marty Kistler and Duane Goldman.

Kistler is Gable's 167-pounder this year after claiming the NCAA title at 158 a year ago. At that weight he lost only one match last season, and said Tuesday that he wants, "to go undefeated this year."

BEING A CAPTAIN changes the treatment Kistler gets from the coaches - he said they are easier on him — but he pointed out that it is hard for him to actually be a leader on a Gable-coached team.

"A leadership role on this team is tough to play because Dan is there and everybody does what Dan says,' Kistler said. "I'll be working hard (this year) and I just hope (the working hard."

Goldman, who will wrestle at 190 pounds, finished second at that weight in the NCAA's last year. It was his third consecutive runner-up FOLLOWING THAT loss, to Oklahoma's Dan Chaid, Goldman tossed a garbage can through a window which he described Tuesday as, "pretty big." Goldman had to pay for the damages, and said although he has forgotten the exact amount of the bill, the memory of the loss remains.

"The first two years when I lost nationals the guys who beat me were good wrestlers," Goldman said. "But last year I really thought that I was the better wrestler. When I ended up losing it was just frustration, it all came to a head. It took me a good part of the summer before I wanted to compete again. I just kind of had a sour taste."

Goldman and Gable both hope the senior can erase the memory of those previous losses with a career ending win this season.

"From my point of view," Gable said, "Goldman is the No, 1 motivating factor for me this year. He's the one guy I would most like to see leave here with a national champ-

Although Gable is somewhat concerned about the team's depth, he said the only realistic goal for "every athlete on my squad (is) to be a national champion this year."

AT 118 POUNDS redshirt freshman John Regan or junior Steve Knight will be the No. 1 man, since senior all-American Matt Egeland, last weight, has moved up to 126. Egeland replaces three-time NCAA champion Davis who was also the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler.

All-American junior Greg Randall, who was fifth last season at NCAA's and second in 1984, may not return at 134 pounds if he can beat out senior Kevin Dresser, also an all-American in 1985 (fourth), at 142. One of those two men will be forced to drop to 134, Gable said.

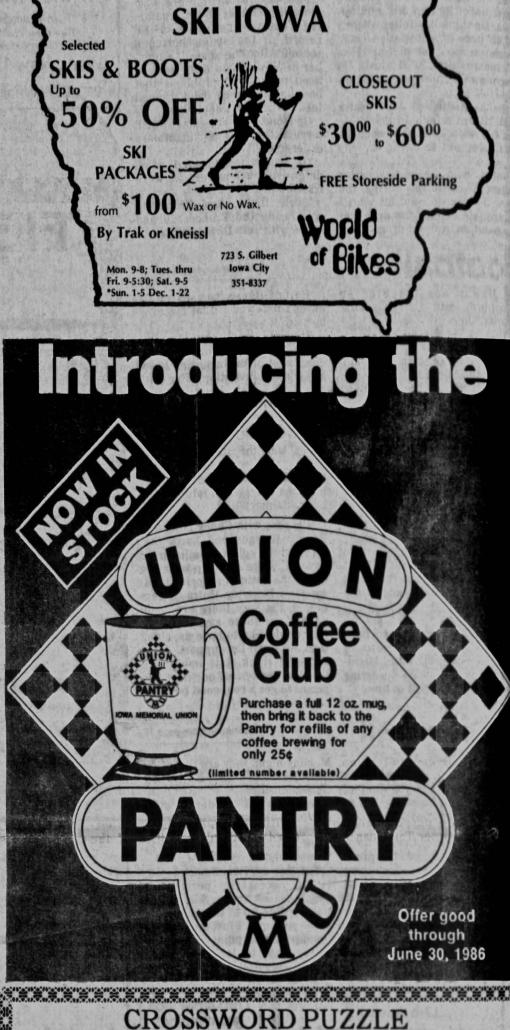

Junior all-American Jim Heffernan is the likely man at 150, after posting a second place finish last year in Oklahoma City, while junior Steve Randall will challenge. Sophomore Royce Alger or freshman John Heffernan will get the call at 158.

After Kistler at 167, Rico Chiapparelli, yet another returning all-American (fifth), will be at 177. Chiapparelli is presently working out with Goldman at 190 and will wrestle there for a short time but will eventually move down, Gable said.

At heavyweight, football center Mark Sindlinger is a top candidate but he will have to contend with freshman Andy Haman who will have the job at least until Sindlinger finishes out the football season.

Gable said at this point he is still somewhat confused by the overall personality of this year's team, and thinks it is a somewhat different group than in past seasons.

"This particular team has probably confused me as much as any team I've had," Gable said. "A lot of the kids on my team need a lot of personal attention from a coaching standpoint. In past years if the coach work. This group, I'm not too sure about. They might still be there if I came back in two hours, or a week."

Dance Gala '85 inspires poets, senators, children to participate

By Jenny Wren

O IOWA WITH LOVE", the theme of the UI Dance Company's Dance Gala '85, has been mentioned in the U.S. Senate and portrayed in poetry by elementary children around the state. Why has a university dance concert received so much attention? Because it coordinates the concerns of many who feel it's time to celebrate a love of what Iowa stands for.

The Dance Gala, one of the major events marking the 50th Anniversary of the UI Center for the Arts, will be presented Friday and Saturday at 8 o.m. in Hancher Auditorium. "To lowa With Love" will celebrate the land, people and spirit of Iowa, while paying tribute to the determination of farmers to preserve their way of life in the face of economic Awards for the best entries will be presented by Paul Engle during the Gala's school matinee performance at 10 a.m. Monday

According to the Congressional Record of Oct. 25, Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin told senate members: "On Nov. 15 and 16, the University of Iowa Dance Company will celebrate the land, people and spirit of Iowa in a program entitled 'To Iowa With Love' ... As we in the Senate begin the debate on the farm bill, we have been overwhelmed with facts and figures illustrating the depth and breadth of the farm crisis throughout the Midwest. What the numbers do not tell us, however, is of the strength of the people of Iowa - of their determination and resolve to fight to save their lands and preserve their way of life." Sen. Harkin commends the UI "for choosing the celebration of Iowa life as a timely and deeply significant theme for the anniversary program.

Latest film version ignores melodrama of Hinton book

Staff Writer

RANCIS FORD Coppola's Rumble Fish, the best film version of an S.E. Hinton novel to date, worked because it understood the melodrama behind Hinton's tales of troubled teens. Rumble Fish never even bothered with the pretense that its characters were true-to-life; it presented them as black-andwhite archetypes, mythic products to the

That Was Then ... This Is Now, the latest Hinton adaptation, written by and starring Emilio Estevez, fails because it refuses to recognize this fact. Director Christopher Cain instead infuses most of the film with a standard, TV-movie look. While this does highlight the humor of some of the film's more everyday situations, it makes the narrative and dialogue seem terribly heavyhanded.

THE NARRATIVE of the film centers on teenagers Bryon (Craig Sheffer) and Mark (Estevez), best friends who have lived together with Bryon's mother since Mark's father shot and killed his mom. Bryon, however, is growing up and getting tired of the pranks and fighting that dominated the boys' adolescence. He gets "an honest job" bagging groceries and finds a new companion in Cathy (Kim Delaney). It is she, not Mark, he turns to after the boys' fatherfigure, a local bar owner, is killed protecting them from a couple of cowboys they hustled

Mark, who longs for the return of his boyhood and tries to preserve it through all sorts of mindless actions, takes Bryon's turning to Cathy as nothing less than betrayal. Things he does with Bryon begin to have a strained atmosphere; mostly they do things apart. After Cathy's younger brother disappears under mysterious circumstances, things transpire that lead to Mark and Bryon's final dissolution and the film's inappropriately upbeat conclusion.

Within this story, there are some honestto-goodness moments of humor, but their subjects - ordering at a fast-food restaurant, eating breakfast cereal, singing along with a rap song while driving - have little to do with the plot. During scenes which are important, the viewer must instead suffer through choppy, enigmatic dialogue, mannered method acting and loud, ponderous music. This worked in Rumble Fish because Coppola went whole-hog with the stylization; there, the mannerism was the message. In That Was Then ... This Is Now, these things stick out as unrealistic against the background of the rest of the film.

OF COURSE, it probably would have helped if for once somebody had used real teenagers to play high school students.

Film

That Was Then . . . This Is Now

Mark Jennings	Emilio Estevez
Bryon Douglas	Craig Sheffer
Cathy Carlson	Kim Delaney
Charlie	Morgan Freeman
	THE STREET STREET
Sh	owing at the Englert 2.

Estevez, with his short, spiked hair and steely green eyes, probably will help draw in the TigerBeat crowd still hot from his appearances in The Breakfast Club and St. Elmo's Fire. But after playing a would-be law student in that latter film, he just doesn't cut it as a down-on-his-luck school boy.

Sheffer, with his anglicized, Steve Carfino looks, is bound to become a TigerBeat fave himself, but he, too, looks about four years too old for the part. And if high school girls really looked like Delaney (who played Jenny on "All My Children"), there would be no problem at all convincing qualified young males to go into teaching.

Ironically, however, because of the presence of Estevez and the obtrusive rock soundtrack that occasionally pops up, That Was Then ... This Is Now may turn out to be the most successful Hinton adaptation yet. On the other hand, given the tough-luck come out on top may be the most appropriate thing about this film.

On the networks: ABC is putting on the hype to push their new soap, "Dynasty II, The Colbys." Tonight they prepare to spin the show off "Dynasty" (at 8 p.m.) with a two-hour psuedo-extravaganza in which old Carrington plot lines will be transplanted into Colby soil. Meanwhile, a more frighteningly real drama unfolds with The Times of Harvey Milk (IPT-12 at 8 p.m.), the award-winning documentary about the gay San Fran-

LSAT PREP...

& LOVE IT

No matter what your age, if you plan on going to law school, a score over 40 can put spring in your step!

You see, candidates who score between 40 and 48 on the new Law School Admission Test enjoy the best chance of being accepted to the law school of their choice and going on to practice with top firms or corporations.

At the Stanley H. Kaplan Educational Center, LSAT preparation is a fine art. So much so that Kaplan has more "over 40s" grads than any other test prepfirm in the nation.

Isn't that just the test edge your law career deserves?

Moscone, was murdered in 1978 by colleague Dan White, (who committed suicide in October after serving a short prison term for the crimes). The injustice of White's short sentence, the violent aftermath of the decision, and most of all, the humanity of Milk are the focus of the film.

The lowa Reed Trio, featuring faculty members James Lakin on oboe, Maurita Murphy Mead on clarinet and Ronald Tyree on bassoon, will perform in concert at 8 p.m. in Clapp Recital Hall.

A Bach cantata, led by UI choral conducting student Patricia Cahalan, will be performed at 12:30 p.m. in Harper Hall as part of the Wednesday in Harper series. The concert is part of the School of Music Baroque Fest, celebrating the works of Bach, Handel, Scarlatti and Schutz. The concert is free and open to the public.

Finney utilizes English training to direct Shaw's 'Major Barbara'

By Hoyt Olsen Staff Writer

HAW TALKS A LOT,"
Director James Finney tells me. In fact, "when he gets on his preaching soapbox, he carries on forever." This verbosity sometimes creates difficulties for "the typical American actor" who is accumstomed to "more physical drama," not to "handling all those words."

The celebrated George Bernard Shaw, British playwright and social critic (and topic of our conversation), would not have taken offense at this description. His plays were designed to convey ideas in the guise of entertainment; if his didactic designs required an occasional diatribe rather than a dialogue of one liners, so be it. Shaw knowingly subtitled his own play Major Barbara "A Discussion in Three Acts."

Such tactics have caused some critics to accuse Shaw of creating "characters who are opinions rather than people." With equal accuracy, others maintain that the witty and entertaining quality of Shaw's plays cause an audience to completely overlook his ideas in the sheer pleasure of the moment.

Those who attend University Theatres' production of Major Barbara will have their own opportunity to debate the question. On the idea level, the play supports pragmatism over idealism as a philosophy for curing the world's ills; on the entertainment level, the comedy offers a delightful battle of wills between Barbara, a major in the Salvation Army, and her father Andrew Undershaft, whose munitions factory represents hell-on-earth to his daughter.

IF SHAW'S style creates special difficulties for "the typical American actor," the atypical background of Director James Finney makes him well-suited to oversee the production. Finney was raised on a sheep farm in Ohio, and began his college education at the nearby College of Wooster (in Wooster, Ohio), but left after his sophomore year to work and study in Europe.

In France, Finney worked digging phone lines to a high school in a remote mountain locale; subsequently he taught English and theater at the school, an association he has continued during several summers. After returning for a year to Wooster to finish his degree, Finney entered London's Rose Bruford College of Speech and Drama, working variously in theater or pubs to support himself.

An English education in theater is "far more intensive than what we expect ... in this country," Finney explains. Areas covered range from "mime to martial arts to voice to fencing to acting, every possible and imaginable tangent of theater. The actor comes out much better informed" about his craft.

Finney's approach to theater is highly eclectic. His favorite areas of drama are Elizabethan, French absurdist, and 1960s American. His performance experiences include acting in a touring production of Planet of the Apes; touring Europe in his own one-man show "America by Americans," which featured selections taken from American poets' writings about America; twice emceeing the International Festival of Spoken Poetry in Paris; being one of two voices dubbing the American Army in Force Ten from Navarone. In addition, Finney has dabbled successfully in writing poetry and plays and worked for a while as a radio disc jockey after returning to the United States.

FINNEY FINALLY reached the UI after five years in Chicago, where he was pursuing a doctorate in the theater department at Northwestern and was associated with the Goodman School as an actor, director and teacher. Finney is teaching "acting/movement" at the UI, with an emphasis on "alternative approaches to acting." He describes his approach to acting as both similar to and distinct from "Method Acting".

"Instead of being yourself in the character, you become yourself. This involves the use of perhaps very traumatic exercises that search the soul of the actor."

One exercise involves the use of self-induced trance to help the actor achieve "a higher realization of self." Finney compares this state of mind to that of an athlete on a hot streak for whom time seems to slow down; for instance, a quarterback in such a groove that he can "see" every detail of a pass pattern unfolding with perfect clarity. "It's like having a whole nightful of dreams, but you come away with a memory of every single one of them... the images are extremely brilliant; the creative mind springs open."

Then Finney leans back, laughs wryly and adds, "That sounds so bloody esoteric it's ridiculous."

With a background that reads like a lifetime although he is only 32, Finney considers another question: Does he plan to stay at the UI? This is an unfair question for any 32-year-old who has led a nomad's life in a routinely nomadic profession, more especially one with an actress-wife who tours abroad regularly with her Chicago-based company. Still, Finney professes to be impressed both with the UI drama department and the area.

"It's permanent for as long as it's the place for me to be," he answers a little cryptically. It seems a reasonable enough response.
