It's roses in January for Fry's Hawkeyes

By Jeff Stratton
Assistant Sports Editor

The final chapter remains to be written on the 1985 Iowa football team's storybook year, but whatever the outcome of the Jan. 1 Rose Bowl game, this season will long be remembered. The Hawkeyes' 31-9 victory over Minnesota Saturday at Kinnick Stadium capped a 10-1 season, gave Iowa the Big Ten Conference title outright and sends the squad to Pasadena, Calif., to play UCLA in the Rose Bowl.

ROSE BOWL

Moments after the final gun sounded Saturday Hawkeye fans swarmed the field to celebrate Iowa's second trip to the Rose Bowl game in five years. Meanwhile, Coach Hayden Fry was receiving congratulations from UI President James O. Freedman.

"COACH, I JUST want to tell you how proud the university is of everything that you and all the players have done this year," Freedman said. "You've been a great honor and credit to the university, and we are all going to be in Pasadena rooting for you."

The Iowa coach thanked Freedman for the Hawkeyes' indoor practice facility. "May I publicly thank you for the indoor facility. (Without it) we couldn't have gone," Fry said.

Fry also received a congratulatory bouquet of roses from Vice President of the Tournament of Roses Fred Soldwedel. "Coach Fry, I remember you out there (in Pasadena) in '82 and as you left you said you were going to return and darn if you're not going to return."

A JUBILANT FRY said Iowa's victory over Minnesota was his biggest win. "As of this point — and we still have one game remaining — this has got to be No. 1," he said. "It's the greatest ever."

"This is a great day for the state of Iowa and all the people. I've received thousands of letters this year from people complimenting the Hawks, not only because we're winning, but because of the way we are winning. I'm extremely proud the state of Iowa is happy."

Iowa quarterback Chuck Long, who was a member of the team that was defeated by Washington 28-0 in the 1982 Rose Bowl, promised a better performance by the Hawkeyes this time.

"It's great to be going back to Pasadena," Long said. "I was only a freshman when we went last time. It's going to be better this time."

LONG, WHOSE decision to shun a rich NFL contract and return to Iowa for a fifth season may have been the key to Iowa's success, expressed relief that the season was over.

"Last week was a long week," he said. "Usually the weeks fly by, but this week the pressure just kept building and building."

It has been a long year, but a fun year. I'm relieved it's over."

Long said the recognition the football team brought to the state contributed to his sense of accomplishment. "It was fun being No. 1 in the nation," he said. "Before I got here, I never knew where the University of Iowa was. I had never heard about it."

Fry said Long has been the key to the revival of Iowa's football fortunes. "The way Chuck has handled himself from a personal standpoint, whether being in a classroom, downtown or behind the center waiting for the snap has always been first class," he said.

"AS WE TRIED to become top citizens, we became better and better at football. Obviously, it all starts with your quarterback," Fry noted.

With the Rose Bowl berth clinched, the stampede west for Iowa fans has begun and several local travel agencies reported a steady stream of business Sunday.

"We've had tons and tons of calls asking for information (on Rose Bowl package trips)," Lois Doty, travel consultant for Meacham Travel Service, said. "Bookings have been good."

Doty said, however, it may be difficult to match the response Iowa fans exhibited in 1981, a year when the Hawkeyes ended years of frustration and traveled to the Rose Bowl for the first time since 1958.

"They were banging our doors down" in 1981, Doty said.

Fifty die as commandos seize plane

VALLETTA, Malta (UPI) — Egyptian commandos stormed a hijacked EgyptAir jetliner in a burst of gunfire Sunday and battled grenade-throwing Arab terrorists in a 10-minute firefight that left up to 50 people dead, Maltese officials said.

The Boeing 737 erupted into flames after the grenades were detonated, filling the cabin with smoke that billowed from the aircraft in one of the bloodiest conclusions to a hijacking in history.

The dead included at least one of the three Americans aboard — a 20-year-old woman who the pilot said was "executed" Saturday. Her name was not immediately released.

AT 8:15 P.M. (1:15 p.m. Iowa time), the commandos crept up to the airliner after the lights were extinguished at the Luqa airport on the southern end of Malta, said government information director Paul Mifsud. They blew in the cargo door and stormed into the plane firing automatic weapons, he said.

Realizing an assault was under way, the terrorists, who hijacked the plane 24 hours earlier en route from Athens to Cairo, pulled the pins on grenades and hurled them at their captives, Mifsud said.

"The hijackers threw three hand grenades at the passengers and the grenades started a fire that filled the plane with flames and smoke. They (the commandos) fired with automatic weapons as they went in," he said.

ONE OF THE hijackers tried to kill the pilot, Captain Hani Galal, during the assault and fired a shot that grazed his head, but Galal picked up an ax and struck the hijacker with it.

The commandos and terrorists battled for 10 minutes before the gunfire stopped, Mifsud said.

Mifsud told a news conference "about 50" people were killed in the assault. All of the hijackers, believed to number four or five, were believed to have died, he said.

Mifsud and the State Department said no Americans were believed to have been aboard the plane during the commando assault. It was not immediately clear how many passengers had died at the hands of the hijackers before the raid. Reports ranged from one dead to as many as eight.

THE PILOT said a 20-year-old American woman was "executed" by the hijackers Saturday night and said the hijackers shot five other people during two gun battles with Egyptian sky marshals aboard the plane — one shortly after the hijacking began and another while the surrounded plane was in Malta.

"I can't describe to you how I felt seeing my passengers being killed in cold blood," Galal said.

"If I had to describe the hijackers I would say first-class killers. They were desperate. They would not hesitate to explode the whole plane. I did not think I would survive. I hated every minute of it."

Shortly after the plane landed on Malta at 10:20 p.m. Saturday, another American, a 30-year-old woman, was dumped from the plane onto the tarmac by the hijackers and left for dead. She was taken to a hospital, where she was in critical condition but conscious.

President Ronald Reagan was kept informed of the hijack but the raid was entirely "an Egyptian action," said a White House spokesman. He said the United States had offered to assist but was not asked.

Facts needed as AIDS cases rise

By Earl Johnston III
Staff Writer

Coinciding with nationwide trends, the number of AIDS cases reported in Iowa has doubled in the past ten months, UI Hygienic Laboratory Director William Hausler said during a public awareness workshop on the disease Saturday.

Charting the number of AIDS cases in Iowa, Hausler said the 19 cases reported in Iowa over the past four years clearly demonstrates "this duplicating factor."

While emphasizing the number of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome cases is increasing, Hausler and UI nurse epidemiologist Dorothy Rasley also tried to dispel some of the mysteries surrounding the fatal disease during the workshop in the Bowen Science Building.

WHILE THE AIDS virus has been found in the tears and saliva of some patients, the disease is primarily transmitted by having sex with an infected individual, Hausler said.

He also said the disease has about an 85 percent mortality rate and 90 percent of its victims have been between the ages of 20 and 49.

Citing Department of Health and Human Services recommendations, Hausler put forth several strategies to avoid possibly contracting the disease:

- Avoid sexual contact

Classes study 'ordinary stuff'

By Kent Schuelke
Staff Writer

Fast food, rock 'n' roll and sex roles — the sensations of the 1980s — spice up the curriculum of the UI American Studies program.

"You name it, if it takes place in America or if anyone ever thought of it taking place in America, we study it," UI American Studies Professor Wayne Franklin said.

"Our basic idea is to introduce students to the idea of studying culture, that it's important in their own lives and the life of the country," Franklin said. "There is a hell of a lot to study in the United States that no one ever studies, like the ordinary, everyday stuff."

THIS SEMESTER the department is offering 14 courses that deal with aspects of everyday life often ignored by traditional academia, he said.

UI American Studies Professor

"American studies is promoted by America's power in the world," says professor Wayne Franklin.

Richard Horwitz said a goal of the program is "to build a rebellious citizenry, to sow seeds of discontent so people will change the way America is for the better."

This semester there are 425 UI students enrolled in courses on American life, courses that deal with such things as the effects of children's books, architecture, and sex and family roles that are alternatives to marriage.

Horwitz said that the program keeps the classes small to promote discussion, and the faculty uses a wide variety of teaching methods.

"WE USE films, novels, poems, drama, furniture, architecture, people's back yards — it allows them to use their education to understand and criticize the normal ways of life," Horwitz said.

Franklin said he cannot understand why more students haven't put emphasis on studying contemporary America.

"It's like learning a foreign language and never learning English," he said.

UI English Department Chair John Raeburn, who teaches a class examining how American culture is reflected through photography, said it is important that people study the lives of ordinary Americans as well as the lives of the rich and famous.

"MOST OF US are not famous people, most of us are ordinary Americans, but we do things that are worthwhile," Raeburn said. "It's important that we examine the lives of people who do not necessarily leave monuments to themselves."

Raeburn cited a class Horwitz teaches on the Coralville strip as a prime example of how "everyday" America can be studied.

Raeburn said that students interview employees at businesses on the strip. "We're not interested in the entrepreneurs ... we're interested in the people who stand at the counter and serve customers."

Franklin said that Americans have been trying to create a unique culture ever since the colonists rebelled against King George, and that America's style is worth studying.

He also noted that the rest of the world is infatuated with America's culture.

"American studies is promoted by America's power in the world," Franklin said. "They're (other countries) fascinated with fast-food, the media, rock 'n' roll, the fate of rock 'n' roll, movies and the youth culture."

Envoy to meet U.S. officials

ATHENS, Greece — Anglican envoy Terry Waite left Beirut Sunday to hold talks with U.S. officials in New York about his face-to-face talks with the Moslem captors of four kidnapped Americans and the prospects for their release.

Waite, who said he met with the kidnappers at least three times, went to New York after being trapped in a Beirut hotel for four days by fierce Moslem militia battles that killed dozens of people. The secretary to Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie would not reveal what he will discuss with Reagan administration officials in New York. He has said, however, he will not pressure U.S. officials to reconsider their refusal to negotiate with terrorists.

Regan apologizes for gaffe

WASHINGTON — White House chief of staff Donald Regan, cornered in a network television interview, apologized Sunday for a remark about women not understanding the issues at last week's summit meeting in Geneva.

Regan, questioned about a comment published in The Washington Post last week in which he said most women were not interested in the topics of the summit because they do not understand substantial issues such as nuclear war, said that he "mispoke" in the interview. "When I got back to the United States," Regan said, "I was actually horrified to find that that remark had been so misinterpreted. It was not intended as a put-down of any woman. And if anyone feels offended by it, I apologize."

Honduran elections held

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — Voters turned out in heavy numbers Sunday to cast ballots for president in elections considered a key test for the major U.S. ally in Central America.

The election was only the second time the country has selected a president since the military turned over control of the government in 1982, following 20 years of intermittent rule. It was expected to come down to a close race between two conservative candidates. On the presidential ballot were four candidates from the ruling Liberal Party, three from the National Party and one each from the Christian Democrats and the Party of Innovation and Unity.

Barge to remain under water

NEW LONDON, Conn. — Officials Sunday decided to leave a barge carrying 20,000 barrels of oil submerged at the bottom of Long Island Sound because they fear it would break apart if raised, the Coast Guard said.

"The barge is upside down on the bottom, and it's going to stay there," Chief Petty Officer Doug Bandos, a Coast Guard spokesman in New London, said. The barge had been floating near the water's surface since it went down stern first during a storm Friday near the opening of Long Island Sound. It eventually sank more than 180 feet to the bottom early Sunday morning, Coast Guard officials said.

Atlantis to launch Tuesday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The space agency reversed itself Sunday and began the shuttle Atlantis's countdown to blastoff Tuesday night after earlier announcing a 24-hour launch delay because of problems with a crucial hydraulic valve.

"Troubleshooting of a hydraulic system problem on the space shuttle orbiter Atlantis has proceeded exceedingly smoothly and a decision has been reached to pick up the countdown," a NASA statement said. Officials then began the computer-controlled countdown at 1 p.m. Iowa time. Atlantis, making its second flight, is scheduled to take off at 6:29 p.m. Iowa time Tuesday for a planned weeklong mission.

Two UI students were arrested on the football field at Kinnick Stadium Saturday while UI Campus Security officials attempted to remove fans from the field after the south goal post was torn down.

UI senior David Desing, 22, of 308 S. Gilbert St., was charged with trespassing and disorderly conduct, and UI sophomore Christopher Gibbs, 20, of 830 Davenport St., was arrested with trespassing, disorderly conduct and public intoxication.

Officials said the two were arrested while security officers attempted to clear the field. No arrests were made in connection with the destruction of the goal post. Campus Security Sgt. Michael Barcus said Saturday's game yielded "less problems than some of the other games," probably due to colder weather.

Report: Two local residents told Iowa City police Saturday their mailboxes were vandalized overnight Friday.

Carla Marcus, 712 Wheaton Road, told police her mailbox was blown up overnight. A neighbor reported hearing "a car with a loud muffler driving by several times," followed by an explosion. The box was valued at $10.

Police are investigating a similar incident reported by Loren Ellarson, 3153 Washington St. Ellarson told police his mailbox was "totally destroyed" overnight. Reports indicate the cause of damage is unknown and that the property was valued at $45.

Theft report: Kevan Cortright, of Waterloo, reported to Iowa City police $900 worth of his property was stolen late Saturday afternoon at The Airliner, 22 S. Clinton St.

Cortright told police an Eddie Bower brand coat "with a large coyote fur-trimmed hood" was stolen, along with a number of items in its pockets, including a pair of gloves, a Sony FM radio, earphones and a new sweatshirt.

Burglary report: Larry Lund, Davis, Ill., told Iowa City police his van was broken into while parked at Triangle Place Saturday afternoon.

Lund told police items and cash totaling $620 were taken after the van was entered, possibly through an unlocked door.

Report: A resident of Bittersweet Court reported an attempted burglary to Iowa City police early Saturday. Police were unable to locate a suspect.

Courts

Joan M. Stockman was sentenced Friday in Johnson County District Court to two years probation for assault with intent to commit serious injury.

Stockman was charged in June with child stealing and assault with injury for allegedly taking two children from their mother and for allegedly spraying the mother with mace. Stockman pleaded guilty Oct. 9 to an amended charge of assault with intent to commit serious injury.

Stockman pleaded guilty to accompanying Norman Fowler and Larry Longwell from Missouri with the intent for the three to take Linda Longwell's two children: one aged four and the other 17 months.

Stockman sprayed Linda Longwell with chemical mace and began a physical altercation with the mother the evening of June 19 at Hy-Vee Food Store, 501 Hollywood Blvd., according to the charge to which Stockman pleaded guilty.

Chemical mace, a police-style club and a long-barrelled pellet gun were brought from Missouri for use in the incident, the charge states.

"Larry Longwell discharged the gun and hit Linda Longwell on the head with the club, causing a scalp laceration," the charge states.

Larry Longwell was acquitted Oct. 16 by a Johnson County jury for the two charges of assault he faced in the incident.

Thami Vitalus Madinane, 26, of 670 1/2 S. Governor St., was sentenced Friday in Johnson County District Court to one year probation for breaking a front window of a jewelry store and ordered to make restitution to the business.

Madinane was charged with second-degree burglary for breaking into Cook's Jewelry, 217 E. Washington St., early Aug. 11, according to court records. Iowa City police reported Madinane jumped through the broken front window of the store when they approached and then tried to run away, court records state.

When the officers told Madinane to stop or they would shoot, he said, "Shoot me," according to court records. Madinane was apprehended at the corner of College and Linn streets, court records state.

The Daily Iowan/Bryan Kelsen
Mayor John McDonald officially opened the Christmas season by lighting Iowa City's yule time tree Sunday night at the Holiday Inn.

Downtown festivities kickoff the holidays

By Teresa Aylor
Staff Writer

Mayor John McDonald officially started the Iowa City Christmas season by lighting the first city Christmas tree Sunday on the Holiday Inn balcony.

The shopping season usually does not start until the day after Thanksgiving, but Iowa City merchants say they have already noticed increased sales.

November's sales are up 20 percent over last year at this time at Hands Jewelers, 109 E. Washington St., said Barbara Waters, the store manager.

Early Christmas sales are the product of a later-than-usual Thanksgiving holiday and Hawkeye fans anticipating a trip to the Rose Bowl, said Cheryl Craft, manager of JC Penney Co. Inc., Old Capitol Center.

THANKSGIVING Day falls later than usual this year and shoppers are anxious to start Christmas shopping, Craft said, and people planning to attend the Rose Bowl want to get their Christmas shopping done early.

Although profits were down four years ago when Hawkeye fans re-allocated their Christmas budgets to travel to the Rose Bowl, high November sales paint an optimistic picture of 1985 holiday profits, said Dwane Noser, manager of Ewers Men's Store, 28 S. Clinton St.

Coinciding with the early turnout of Christmas shoppers, the Iowa City Downtown Association hosted the first annual Holiday Season Kickoff this weekend — almost one week before the season traditionally begins.

It was too cold for most residents attending the event to admire the official Iowa City Christmas tree for very long, but McDonald said he hopes the city continues the tradition because it "adds to the whole atmosphere" of Christmas.

Waters, the association's president-elect, said there probably was never a Christmas tree before because it was not safe from vandalism, but added the new Holiday Inn balcony provides "such a great place" for the display. Christmas music is also being piped into the pedestrian walk area from the Holiday Inn from now until Christmas.

THE HOLIDAY festivities allowed residents to come downtown and have fun, Waters said. Activities included brunch and carriage rides with Santa, a free movie and babysitting for children and free parking for shoppers.

The event not only helped promote Christmas shopping among Iowa City businesses, but gave parents and children an opportunity to participate in a community Christmas kickoff, McDonald said.

Different Christmas activities had been planned in previous years by stores and organizations, but the city "realized that if we all put our resources together and come up and sponsor a special event to kickoff Christmas, it can be a benefit to everyone," McDonald said.

Although it is early in the holiday season, he said, "It's very cold" outside and people are realizing "it's just about that time of year."

Non-registrant conveys religious message

By Mary Boone
Assistant News Editor

Three years after being indicted for not registering for the draft, Idaho clergyman Enton Eller holds fast the belief that "war is sin and registration for the draft is registration for war."

Eller was the first person tried and the second to be indicted for non-registration since President Jimmy Carter reinstated registration in 1980. He was in Iowa City last weekend sharing his thoughts about peace with area church members and school children.

His decision not to register for the draft was based on deep religious convictions. Eller said this, his first speaking tour since his 1982 indictment, is also religiously motivated.

"I DIDN'T REGISTER because I felt God had led me not to register," Eller, a member of the Church of the Brethren, said. "Our church maintains all war is sin. I feel registering for the draft puts us one step closer to war. Registration, to me, is sin."

Eller never attempted to keep his non-registration secret. In fact, he wrote a letter to government officials explaining his situation.

"I felt it was my duty as a Christian to take responsibility for my actions. I wasn't about to hide my convictions, or lie to the government about what I had done," he said.

Eller's original sentence included three years of probation, 250 hours of community service work and gave him 90 days to register for the draft. He told the judge he would not register, and 90 days later he was back in court facing violation of his probation.

DURING THE second sentencing Eller was given the choice of serving six months in a minimum security prison or two years of alternative service. He chose alternative service.

Eller began his alternative service sentence — 40 hours of work per week without pay — at a Virginia food bank and was later transferred to the Chicago area where he worked at two hospitals.

"The whole time I was on probation I was under a gag rule which meant I couldn't talk about my non-registration to anyone," Eller said. "At one of the hospitals I worked at the volunteer desk and had to wear a volunteer smock. Can you imagine what people thought about me? Here was this white guy who 'volunteered' in a predominantly black hospital, 40 hours every week."

ELLER'S SENTENCE ended in January, but this is the first time he has publicly discussed his experiences.

"It's taken a long time for me to feel comfortable with this," Eller said. "There are quite a few non-registrants who want to protest and make banners and say the government is wrong. I'm not into that."

"I've lost a lot of respect for the government during this whole ordeal, but I won't ever feel comfortable screaming my discontent from the hilltops," he said. "I'm not happy with the people who sentenced me, but they're still children of God and I'd love them even if they put me in prison."

Eller, who still hasn't registered for the draft, doesn't encourage others to follow his lead.

"Non-registration isn't something everyone should go through with, but it's something everyone should contemplate," he said. "As long as people are wrestling with the idea, that's all that matters."

Political theorist Skillen argues universities should stay neutral

By Earl Johnston III
Staff Writer

Whether the issue is South Africa or Star Wars, a university must preserve its truth-seeking role rather than assume a political identity, a political theorist said during a panel discussion at the Union Friday afternoon.

"The university is not ... a political institution organizing citizens as a lobby group or interest group to change or influence government," said James Skillen, executive director of the Association for Public Justice.

The Washington-based organization advocates governmental policies aimed at achieving a just society founded on Christian principles.

"It (the university community) should be politically neutral, or better, non-political — refusing to have its identity and qualifying purpose defined as governmental or political," Skillen said.

ALTHOUGH SKILLEN'S comments drew general agreement from UI Law Professors Burns Weston and Randall Bezanson, the two professors said Skillen's broad address fell short of answering many particulars and placed university decision-makers in a difficult position.

Bezanson, former UI vice president for finance, said a university, by its very nature, is "non-neutral."

"I believe strongly the university should take strong political and moral positions, but should do so only on issues that relate to its institutional identity," Bezanson said.

While he questioned what role individual administrators should play in projecting the university's moral and political positions, Bezanson stressed this stance must protect its "mission."

"THERE SHOULD be a presumption ... against the university reaching beyond that mission to address public and political issues that are not central to its mission as an institution," Bezanson said.

While emphasizing university administrators should not "play everyday politics," Weston recognized that certain issues, such as apartheid in South Africa, cannot be left unconsidered.

"The university ought not to lend itself, under any circumstance ... to play into the hands of those who would advocate racial discrimination in any way, shape or form," Weston said.

WESTON ALSO said the university should refuse to "support" nuclear weapons policy development.

"I don't think the university should be in that kind of a business," said Weston. "That ought to be the business of the government, the paid people and other private institutions."

But Skillen replied by questioning who, if anyone, should make political decisions for the university community at large.

"I agree that the university simply can't be neutral in general, as judged from the outside. It will be judged," said Skillen. "But in a large university, like the University of Iowa, it will probably be impossible for there to be a consensus reached" on any given issue.

"Because these questions are left open, a university has to be one of the key places where these issues are debated with nothing excluded from the discussion," Skillen said.

Indian relocation bill decried as 'genocide'

By Marianne Cherni
Staff Writer

United States citizens should band together and demand Congress repeal a law that will force 15,000 Indians in Arizona to relocate by next year, Big Mountain support group member Tom Bedonie said during a speech in Iowa City Friday.

The federal law, the Navaho-Hopi Land Settlement Act, splits 1.8 million acres of reservation land in northeastern Arizona between the two tribes. Federal officials say the division is necessary to settle a century-old land dispute between the Navahos and Hopis.

But Bedonie said the dispute on "Big Mountain," as the Indians call it, has been settled and the government is relocating the Indians in order to reap the natural resources from the land.

If completed, the forced relocation will be the largest in the history of the United States, Bedonie said.

THE RELOCATION, to be completed July 1986, has been almost impossible for the Indians to accept because of their education and beliefs, he said.

"Two-thirds of the Indians on Big Mountain do not speak English," he said. "They do not recognize white men's laws."

"They don't understand," why they have to relocate, Bedonie said. "They believe 'This is my home, my grandfather (and) my father have given this to me, this is my land, why are you here?'"

Bedonie explained the Indians can not move just anywhere, because their culture is so different from that of contemporary Americans. The land the United States government is forcing them to give up, he said, is causing "cultural genocide."

"They take us to boarding schools, and tell us 'your parents are no good, your culture is no good, we are your new moms, your new dads,'" he said.

"It's the same issue as South Africa," Bedonie added. "The traditional people (Indians) lived on the land before the Americans. They've been trying to do away with us, do away with traditional ways and culture."

'Shocked' Israel denies link with accused U.S. Navy spy

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel expressed "shock and consternation" Sunday at the arrest of a U.S. Navy civilian employee on charges of selling American defense secrets to Israel and said it was against government policy to spy on allies.

The FBI last Thursday arrested a U.S. naval counter-terrorism specialist, identified as Jonathan Jay Pollard, on charges of spying on the United States for Israel and Pakistan. His wife, Anne Henderson-Pollard, was also taken into custody on charges of unauthorized possession of classified documents.

Israel television reported Sunday that neither Prime Minister Shimon Peres nor the head of Mossad, the Israeli spy agency, had been aware of or had been asked to authorize Pollard's activity. The report said Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir and Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin had also been kept in the dark.

THE GOVERNMENT-RUN network said it appeared Pollard had been spying on the United States "for many years" since a visit to Israel 11 years ago.

The Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying "a thorough examination" was under way to determine if there had been any deviation from Israel's policy to refrain from spying on the United States.

"Israel's political leadership received with shock and consternation the reports from Washington, according to which an employee of the U.S. Navy was accused of espionage for Israel," the statement said. "Actions of this kind in the United States stand in total contradiction to the policy of the Israeli government."

"It is Israel's policy to refrain from any intelligence activity related to the United States, in view of the close and special relations of friendship prevailing between the two countries.

"A THOROUGH examination is being undertaken to determine whether there has been a deviation of any kind from this policy. Should such a deviation be found to have occurred, the necessary conclusions will be drawn," the statement said.

Cabinet spokesman Michael Nir said the incident was not discussed at the weekly Cabinet meeting, which was attended by army Chief of Staff Moshe Levy. The spokesman said the full Cabinet had not been briefed by intelligence officials on the affair.

Israel radio quoted intelligence sources as saying there was no reason for Israel to spy on the U.S. Army, since both nations share intelligence information.

"You don't spy on a friend like the United States," former Mossad director Issar Harel told the radio. "That would be a breach of trust."

MA'ARIV NEWSPAPER said Pollard's father was an internationally known cancer researcher at Notre Dame University in the United States and had maintained close ties with Israel's Weizman Institute of Science.

The Jerusalem Post quoted officials as saying the affair "doesn't make sense" because the 1981 Strategic Cooperation Agreement between Israel and the United States provides for sharing of intelligence.

The arrest of Pollard coincides with a crackdown by U.S. intelligence and defense agencies on espionage activities. Last month, John and Michael Walker were convicted of operating a family spy ring that sold Navy secrets to the Soviets for 20 years.

Also, last week Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger announced a comprehensive security inspection for the entire Defense Department that is intended to eliminate the transfer of sensitive information to adversaries or the media.

University of Iowa SPRING SEMESTER 1986 COURSE CHANGES

Early registration is now in progress. Students will register through the Registration Center, Room 17, Calvin Hall. Lists of new courses and lists of closed courses will be posted in this space each day of early registration. The closed list will be in numerical order and will indicate department, course, and section numbers followed by a code (CD) indicating why the course is closed.

Code 1 - the course or section is full
Code 2 - the course or section has been cancelled
Code 3 - the course or section is not available for Early Registration
Code 4 - the course or section status is pending (undetermined)

These lists should be reviewed and adjustments made prior to entering the Registration Center. Registration information is printed in the Schedule of Courses. The general information number for the Registrar's Office is 353-5199

Educators debate certification

By Jerry Duncan
Staff Writer

Iowa teachers can expect to renew their certificates more often to continue teaching if a recent proposal by the Iowa Department of Public Instruction is approved by a legislative rules review committee.

The proposal for a new teacher certification structure, which would become effective in 1987, includes the issuance of a two-year provisional certificate by the DPI to new education graduates, and reducing from 10 years to five years the length of time teachers may practice before their certificates must be renewed.

The provisional certificate — which would slash eight years off the current 10-year renewal period — would "give young teachers an opportunity to teach and be evaluated," said James Mitchell, DPI deputy commissioner.

It would also "build hooks for career ladders" — or professional growth — and allow beginning teachers to "work with colleges and universities for more training," he added.

A CERTIFICATION official for the Iowa State Education Association has endorsed the proposal but offered suggestions to change portions of it.

In general, the ISEA views the new rules as a "mechanism of constructive, incremental change... more likely to improve the quality of education than precipitous change," wrote Jim Sutton, certification director for the ISEA.

A component of the plan that drew criticism from the ISEA and other education officials, however, was a proposal to have a "team of local educators" evaluate teachers wishing to qualify for the advanced 5-year certificate. The team would look for "evidence of successful teaching."

The DPI has not yet developed guidelines for the evaluation procedure.

A local evaluation team might not be as objective as a state team in judging the performance of a teacher, said Jan Reinicky, a lobbyist for the ISEA.

THE ISEA HAS informally supported legislation requiring teacher testing prior to certification, Reinicky said, but added that "testing is a very expensive proposition."

"I'd really like to see a state team" do the evaluations, said Nancy Porter, president of the Iowa City Education Association, but "we're looking at bucks there."

"In my judgment, across the country, there is a growing belief in some kind of updating or refreshing" for certified teachers, said Jerry Kuhn, certification officer for the UI College of Education.

"There is going to be a revision" of the current certification guidelines and "many of those (proposed changes) will be included," Kuhn predicted, but added the DPI proposal is a rough draft that will be subjected to a series of public meetings and a review by a legislative rules committee.

THE TIME PERIODS for certificate renewals — especially for the provisional certificate — may be an issue during the public forums, he said.

In accordance with employment practices in many school systems, a district could hire a teacher on a one-year contract, then decline to offer a contract the next year, Kuhn said.

In this situation, the new proposal would match the certification period to the employment period, he said.

A possible drawback to provisional certification, however, could be realized if predictions about massive shortages of teachers in the next decade are fulfilled, Kuhn said.

"I would hate to see a situation where just anybody could be put into a classroom without any preparation," Kuhn said, adding he would rather see a shortage of quality educators than "to go out on the street and get people to teach."

TEACHING STANDARDS in Iowa are not high, according to Sen. Joe Brown, D-Montezuma. "There are so many loopholes in the certification rules now."

Physical education teachers and coaches are qualified to teach a wide variety of courses in many Iowa communities, Brown said, a fact that has "absolutely destroyed government and history (instruction) in Iowa."

"It's clear there is a wide variation in the quality of the teaching of teachers," said Tom Urban, chairman of the Excellence in Education committee and contributor to the First in the Nation in Education report.

The DPI followed many of the 164 F.I.N.E. recommendations in the drafting of the new guidelines.

The provisional period would allow new teachers to ease into the school system instead of being inundated by the workload that often faces a "permanent" teacher, Urban said, adding that a 10-year certificate often results in teachers becoming "burned out in a year or two."

URBAN CALLED tests for all teaching graduates "baloney" but labeled as "silly" the present permanent professional certificate which is valid throughout the lifetime of the holder. Doctors, lawyers and other professionals must periodically update their skills and the teaching profession should be no different, Urban said.

The permanent professional certificate would be scrapped Oct. 1, 1986, under the revised guidelines.

The first of five public hearings on the proposed rules will be Nov. 26 at 6:30 p.m. in the Atlantic High School Auditorium, 1100 Linn St., Atlantic, Iowa, and the Washington Elementary School, D St. and Madison, Fairfield, Iowa.

with someone suspected of having the disease.

- Limit sexual activity to one partner.

- Avoid the use of intravenous drugs, and if such use is necessary do not share needles.

- Avoid sex with people who abuse intravenous drugs.

THE GENERAL public also needs to make an effort to understand and support patients who have contracted the disease, according to James Dilley, a psychiatrist who works with AIDS patients at San Francisco General Hospital.

Pointing out that San Francisco General handles about 1,200 out-patient AIDS visits per month — nearly 1,000 more than three years ago — Dilley warned Iowa and other states must become sensitized to the issues surrounding the disease.

"AIDS is a disease that strikes primarily already socially ostracized groups. Gay and bisexual men, intravenous drug users are groups that historically have been stigmatized," Dilley said in his lecture.

HE SAID that while patients can receive individual psychotherapy, hypnosis and medication in their fight against the disease, they also need social support.

"People with AIDS generate a tremendous amount of fear in the public at large. People are simply afraid of those things they don't understand," Dilley said.

While stressing the disease cannot be contracted through casual contact, Rasley said UI Hospitals has a number of in-house educational services aimed at protecting workers who care for AIDS patients.

"People, because of their lack of knowledge, do tend to over-react," Rasley said. "It's important, as supporters in health care, that we provide adequate education to people who are taking care of these patients."

UI HOSPITALS' nurses are instructed in the proper handling of waste and body fluids of patients with infectious diseases, she said.

"It's automatically assumed that you provide that type of protection for yourself when you are dealing with high risk groups," she added.

This contradicts, however, allegations made by several hospital volunteers earlier this fall that UI Hospitals officials do not make such educational efforts.

Joel Gray, an official from the newly-formed UI Gay and Lesbian Association that organized Saturday's workshop, said the event was aimed at raising public consciousness about AIDS.

"There's been a lot of problem with AIDS, not only at the UI Hospitals, but in the community at large," Gray said.

"THE MAJORITY of people who have AIDS are homosexual," he added. "But that may not be the majority forever."

Neither Rasley nor Haulser would comment on the number of AIDS patients diagnosed at the UI Hospital.

"We must maintain the confidentiality of the individual," Rasley said. "We know how the disease is transmitted. That's what we need to know."

"We don't need to know who has the disease. If we know how to protect ourselves, that's all we need to know," she said.

The old shell game

Perhaps when you were younger you owned a miniature pet turtle, or at least had a friend who did. Small turtles could be kept easily enough in a fishbowl or aquarium, but seemed a little more versatile and interesting a pet than the standard goldfish or guppy. So why haven't you seen any of the cute little critters lately? Because as children's pets they are somewhat more dangerous than the standard pit bulldog or boa constrictor.

The turtles that used to be sold by every neighborhood pet store a decade ago — hey, even Rocky Balboa owned a couple in the original Rocky — are carriers of salmonella bacteria. The diseases caused by the bacteria are lumped together under the general heading of salmonellosis, with symptoms including abdominal pain, nausea, diarrhea and vomiting. Children are particularly susceptible to the illness. For approximately one out of every 1,000 victims, salmonellosis is fatal.

Ten years ago sales of the turtles were banned in this country. However, restrictions were not imposed on the export of the infectious little beasts, and U.S. distributors have continued doing big volume business abroad, where they ship some 4 million pet turtles annually.

According to a Journal of the American Medical Association study, in Puerto Rico 12 to 17 percent of all salmonella infections in infants can be linked to the turtles, and every turtle tested there has been identified as a carrier. The Journal estimates that 400,000 salmonellosis cases annually may be attributable to the turtles exported by U.S. entrepreneurs.

If the Journal's statistics are reliable, one may deduce that 400 deaths a year are one by-product of the continuing "success" abroad of the U.S. turtle industry. This is only one symptom of a larger illness: our government's willingness to place the health of U.S. business above the health of foreign citizens. For years American businessmen routinely have been allowed to dump products declared unsafe for domestic consumption on foreign markets — humanitarianism be damned.

A Journal editorial called for "export constraints" on all our products identified as consumer-threats, and mentioned specifically not only pet turtles but also "pesticides, obsolete pharmaceuticals and toxic wastes." We wholeheartedly concur. Making foreign citizens the victims of products from which we protect ourselves is arrogant, racist and contemptible.

SDI: snare and delusion

It is reassuring that President Ronald Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev had frank discussions at the summit last week. It is reassuring that they agreed that nuclear weapons should be drastically reduced. But it is not reassuring that Reagan is apparently as devoted as ever to the Strategic Defense Initiative (a.k.a. SDI, a.k.a. "Star Wars," a.k.a. the "Peace Shield").

The concept is seductive: safety, an end to nuclear terror. But the promise is a lie. The "Peace Shield" is Santa Claus, the Tooth Fairy and the Easter Bunny for adults. If a version of it is ever implemented, it will become the next generation's Frankenstein.

Even its most ardent supporters know that at its best SDI cannot be more than about 90 percent effective. The counter strategy is simpler, faster and cheaper: Build enough weapons so that the 10 percent that get through can turn the United States into radioactive slag. The Soviets do not trust us any more than we trust them. They will counter SDI.

Furthermore, it is possible that SDI may not work at all. Such a defense system would have to be run by computers, and many experts contend the program would be impossible to write. If it could be written, it could not be tested — except in small pieces — and programs in which the parts work do not always work as a whole.

Computer malfunction, a common occurrence, would be a real and constant danger. Such a malfunction could lead the computers to imagine a Soviet attack, which has already happened numerous times in our present warning systems. Since the response time would be so short, the computers could well respond before humans could double-check and halt a retaliatory strike, leading to the very war SDI is supposed to prevent.

The effort to develop SDI is likely to add new and equally dangerous weapons to our armaments (the Soviet fear) and bankrupt America (undoubtedly a Soviet hope). The United States is already acting, economically, more like a Third World colony than a superpower. America exports raw materials and imports finished products. The U.S. balance of trade deficit is so large and terrifying that protectionism is making a comeback.

And finally, the drain of scientists and money to military research will intensify the decline of the United States as an economic power. It is no coincidence that Japan, our major economic rival, is racing ahead of the United States economically and devotes only a tiny portion of its budget to military spending.

Belief in SDI is a snare and a delusion: a delusion that will make us less safe and a snare that will trap us into military spending that will bankrupt us.

WHAT CHARMING AND CHARISMATIC PEACEMAKER WAS (MUCH TO HIS DISAPPOINTMENT) FRUSTRATED IN HIS EARNEST AND SINCERE DEALINGS WITH THE EVIL EMPIRE BY THE INADVERTENT RELEASE OF "THE WEINBERGER LETTER"?

Investors: mind your morals

By Mary Tabor
Editor

RECENTLY THE UI sold its remaining stocks invested in companies doing business in South Africa. According to UI financial experts, the move was motivated in the interest of profit, and not necessarily for moral reasons. The UI, after all, is not an institution of morality; it operates under a strict fiduciary responsibility.

It's funny that UI officials claimed last spring that these last UI holdings — in pharmaceutical and communications firms — represented a humanitarian investment, helping the downtrodden black majority. And now they merely pass from the UI portfolio for lack of profitability.

Well, even if the UI doesn't buy and sell stock on moral grounds, more and more investors are considering social criteria in selecting where to place their money. In the fall issue of Building Economic Alternatives — the quarterly publication of Co-op America — strategies of socially responsible investing are clearly outlined.

THE COMPANIES to steer your capital away from include those which "pollute, use unfair labor practices, conduct business in South Africa or other repressive regimes, produce nuclear weapons or nuclear power, or otherwise compromise your principles," the Co-op states.

Occasionally individuals championing a cause will invest in a firm with questionable dealings in order to wield influence during stockholders' meetings. An example of this means of socially conscious investing is local members of Citizens for Media Responsibility Without Law, specifically Melissa Farley, who bought a few shares of Meredith Corp. and intend to show other stockholders the evils of publishing Penthouse magazine. While many see this as a viable way to push a point, it's hard to escape the charge of hypocrisy at the initial investment in a company that conducts activities repulsive to the investor.

AND WHILE YOUR ink is flowing, you might want to dash off a note to your representatives in Washington, D.C., urging them to favor the Nutritional Information Labeling Act of 1985.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, would amend the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act to require that food labels state "the specific, common or usual name and the amount of fat or oil contained in the food, the amount of saturated, polyunsaturated and monounsaturated fats contained in the food, the amount of cholesterol contained in the food, and the amount of sodium and potassium contained in the food."

The current labeling law doesn't demand specific enough details on food content. The bill was introduced this fall and has been the focus of hearings in the Committee on Labor and Human Resources.

A nice place to visit

To the Editor:

Going to Iowa?

After five years of living in Berkeley, Calif., I needed to check in with reality. Though most of my friends would aspire to vacation in Maui, New York or Paris, to be radical I chose Iowa City. After five years of California living it was time to get back in touch with the heartland of America.

My choice of Iowa wasn't all that arbitrary as my best friend from early childhood is a student here and I was interested in exploring the world renowned Writers' Workshop. This was all facilitated by $300 soon-to-expire credit I had on American Airlines.

Preparing for the elements, I packed my cold weather gear and, assuming that I would have a lot of free time on my hands, I packed a half-dozen books. For the occasion I even went out and bought a copy of Mark Twain's Life on the Mississippi.

My first afternoon loose on the town I befriended an eclectic group of African students and found myself in Vito's engaged in an animated dialogue over the problems of agricultural development in Ghana. I quickly realized I had entered into a vital creative center swarming with writers, artists and photographers, complemented with an international flavor. Of course, it was also soon brought to my attention that Iowa was the home of the No. 1 football team.

During my stay I have sampled Paglia's pizza (sorry, no beer), and caroused the aisles of Prairie Lights mesmerized by the gathering of literary works. I have strolled along the Iowa River enjoying the autumn sun and the antics of mallard ducks as they kibitzed over their plans for dinner.

At the Hamburg Inn for breakfast, I discovered an authentic American diner — in California this is a rare breed where instead one finds self-conscious trendy replicas.

Since my arrival in Iowa City I have met so many interesting characters of diverse backgrounds and talents that I haven't even had the time to crack the cover of Mark Twain's almanac of the Mississippi. I have found the people here to be open, friendly and willing to stop and visit without the impatient urban edge which makes people hesitant to give you much more than the time of day.

On my return to the San Francisco area I will carry high the banner of Iowa as I combat the arrogance and ignorance of California skeptics who believe all culture, intellect and life vanish outside of the city limits.

Uniform fee ceiling would hurt day care

By David Schor

IAM PLEASED that officers in the UI Student Senate are taking an interest in daycare issues. Issues of quality, convenience and cost of day care should be of concern to those representing student interests. Unfortunately, it appears that only a concern for cost is being expressed by the senate president and treasurer. Furthermore, the senators may have inadequate information concerning the costs of day care.

One of the five daycare centers receiving funding as a student activity gets about $375 per month from the student senate allocation. This makes up less than 10 percent of the center's budget and is less than $1 per child per day. This appropriation allows the center to charge children of UI students $25 per month less than the standard fee and permits the center to be located on UI property on a Campus line.

THIS DAYCARE center has active board members who, as parents and students, have worked with the center director to recruit and retain individuals having the skills or potential abilities which facilitate preschool children's emotional and cognitive development. With nearly every member paying fees, the board also spends considerable time on constructing budgets and reviewing balance sheets.

The Daily Iowan welcomes guest opinions on current issues written by readers. Interested readers are encouraged to discuss their guest opinion ideas with the editor prior to submitting manuscripts. Guest opinions must be typed and signed, and include the writer's address and telephone number which will not be published. A brief biography should accompany guest opinions, which are subject to editing for clarity and space.

Guest Opinion

Undoubtedly the cost, staffing and type of programming varies among the several daycare centers, permitting students some choices. I am concerned with any proposal mandating a uniform and sharply lower ceiling on fees, as this would force a uniformity in such variables as staffing ratios, age segregation and the like, and substitute a more distant senate judgment of cost/benefit considerations for those of parents directly involved in a center's functioning.

PERHAPS THE senate's efforts could more profitably be turned toward insuring that student parents have an influence on the operations of their chosen daycare center. Providing information to them about how to choose a program could also be useful.

Finally, it would seem appropriate for senators themselves to visit some of these programs and talk with parents whose children are in attendance. This will assist them, I believe, in better understanding the potentials and realities of providing day care in the university setting.

Roses, the perfect end to Long era

Long dream now reality in Rosy way

By Brad Zimanek
Staff Writer

Last February Chuck Long decided to pass up pro football for a chance at the Rose Bowl. Saturday his dream came true.

31-9 victory over Minnesota. "It's a dream come true. It really hasn't hit me yet but I know in the next couple of weeks it will. It's just been a great year and I'm proud to be on a 10-1 team."

Long was not happy with the Hawkeyes' 8-4-1 record last year and did not want to leave Iowa on such a disappointing note. It was especially hard after the Hawkeyes appeared to be headed for the Rose Bowl when they were 6-2 and leading the conference.

"LAST YEAR, I really didn't like the way we went out. We ended the regular season 6-4-1 and it just wasn't a good way to go out," Long said.

"We won in the Freedom Bowl but we wanted it a lot. I wanted it a lot more — it was a good year to come back."

Iowa running back Kevin Harmon is upended by Minnesota's Matt Martinez during the Hawkeyes' 31-9 win Saturday. The victory gave the Hawkeyes the Big Ten title and a Jan. 1 trip to the Rose Bowl.

Fry looking for redemption on Pasadena trip

By Jeff Stratton
Assistant Sports Editor

Because of a 31-9 victory over Minnesota Saturday at Kinnick Stadium, Hayden Fry will take his Iowa football team back to the Rose Bowl with a chance of redemption for his Hawkeyes and the Big Ten Conference.

Iowa, which will meet UCLA in Pasadena Jan. 1 in the Rose Bowl, will try to make amends for a 28-0 thrashing at the hands of Washington in 1982.

The Hawkeyes will also try to bring home a victory for the Big Ten, which has been embarrassed at the Rose Bowl in recent seasons. The Big Ten has not won the contest since Michigan's 23-6 victory over Washington in 1981, and has won only two Rose Bowls since 1970.

"I GUARANTEE YOU we will do a better job this time," Fry said following Saturday's Big Ten title-clinching victory.

"We are extremely proud to represent the Big Ten and it will be a tough job, but we are a tough team," the Iowa coach said.

The key to Iowa's return trip to the Rose Bowl may have been determined in February when Chuck Long decided to return to Iowa for a fifth season.

"It all started last year when Chuck Long decided to pass up a few dollars from the NFL because he loves college football and he wanted to go to the Rose Bowl," Fry said. "I can't say how much I love Chuck Long as a person. He's done so much for our team."

Rose Bowl

"Words can't explain how I feel," Long said.

IOWA IMPROVED ITS record to 10-1, 7-1 in the conference, with the victory. The victory marked the first time an Iowa team has won 10 games in a season and was its first outright Big Ten Championship since 1958.

Minnesota dropped to 6-5 with the loss. The Golden Gophers, however, received a bid to play in the Independence Bowl against Clemson.

Long, in his final game before the Hawkeye fans in Kinnick Stadium, broke the Big Ten record for career passing yards. Long has 10,142 yards, breaking Mark Herrmann's mark of 9,946 set at Purdue from 1977-80.

"That's a great feeling," Long said. "I never dreamed five years ago I'd come close to Mark Herrmann's record. It is something

Hawks grab Windy City title

By Brad Zimanek
Staff Writer

If history follows suit, the Iowa men's gymnastics team will be the NCAA Champions when the 1985-86 season is finished in April.

The Hawkeyes came back from last week's poor performance in grand style at the Big Eight Invitational, capturing the Windy City Invitational Saturday in Chicago.

"I think in the history of the meet the team that has won has gone on to win the NCAA's four out of the last five years," Iowa Coach Tom Dunn said. "While everyone else is going to get better we are going to get better too, so hopefully we can keep some of that distance."

Saturday Iowa definitely put some distance between itself and the rest of the 11-team field. The Hawkeyes scored 274.45 points, nearly eight points better than runner-up Oklahoma.

ROUNDING OUT the field were Southern Illinois (265.75), Iowa State (264.35), Nebraska (263.8), Ohio State (263.3), Minnesota (261.9), Illinois-Chicago (250.65), Indiana State (248.2) and Michigan (242.05).

Dunn wasn't surprised Iowa won the meet, but was surprised that nobody stayed closer to the Hawkeyes.

"I was very pleased. We did a much better job than we did last week. We hit about 75 percent of our routines, while we hit only about 50 percent last week, which is very good this early in the season," Dunn said.

"We really outdistanced the field and that was a little bit surprising. I thought we could win but I didn't think we would win so big," he added.

Leading the Hawkeyes were Dan Bachman, Ron Nasti and Joe Thome. Combined, they took three of the top four all-around positions in the meet.

"It was a matter of a few tenths here and there and the meet would've gone to the final relay," Kennedy said.

"Michigan State had a great recruiting year and it showed," the Iowa coach said. "The meet showed some of our weaknesses that we need to be aware of and it showed us some of our strengths."

The Hawkeyes extended their season record to 5-0, overwhelming Bradley, 80-33, Saturday and Northwestern, 59-27, Sunday.

Williams, a double winner in the 50- and 100-yard freestyles, broke his own Big Ten record of 19.87 seconds in the 50 with a 19.86 mark, qualifying him for NAAs in early April. His time of 44.66 in the 100 freestyle was also a new meet record.

"I felt good coming in today," Williams said. "I didn't think about breaking any records, but it was a good night to do it. I know in the future I'll be able to swim faster than that."

"Our goal tonight was for Tom to set a new Big Ten record," Iowa Coach Glenn Patton said, "and with a crowd of that size, and having our team shave and taper, we knew he had a definite Iowa Coach Vivian Stringer took her team over the first hump of the season Saturday night as the Hawkeyes defeated Memphis State, 77-56, to win the first Amana-Hawkeye Classic.

"There's this hump we had to get over," Stringer said. "We had to win this game and we had to win the game knowing how to play."

Hornacek leads Cyclone rout

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — Jeff Hornacek scored 24 points, Jeff Grayer added 16 and Lafester Rhodes came off the bench to score 11 points to lead Iowa State to an 83-39 romp over South Dakota State in the Cyclones' season-opener during the weekend.

Iowa State was never threatened after opening up an 8-2 lead three minutes into the Saturday contest. The Cyclones broke it open during a five-minute stretch in the first half when they outscored the Jackrabbits 19-4 for a 35-12 lead with 5:13 left.

Hornacek hit 12 points in each half. Grayer scored 12 of his 16 points in the first half when the Cyclones opened up a 40-20 lead. Rhodes did all his scoring in the second half.

South Dakota State, which didn't score in the first four minutes of the second half and scored just nine points over a 12-minute stretch of the second half, was led by Jimmie Benson with 16 points. Mark Schultz added 11 points for the Jackrabbits who were also making their 1985-86 debut.

Iowa State shocks No. 7 Oklahoma State

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — It didn't snow like Iowa State Coach Jim Criner wanted, but a biting wind and below-freezing temperatures provided enough of an obstacle for warm-climate Cowboys to give the Cyclones a 15-10 upset during the weekend over Oklahoma State.

The win against a seventh-ranked and bowl-bound Oklahoma State team salvaged a bit of respectability in what has been a disappointing season for the Cyclones.

Junior placekicker Rick Frank keyed the victory with three field goals. Alex Espinoza threw 13 yards to Hughes Suffren for Iowa State's lone TD.

The Cyclones, 5-6 overall and 3-4 in the Big Eight, held OSU running back Thurman Thomas to just 54 yards in 21 attempts. Iowa State received 93 yards from tailback Andrew Jackson.

"I can't say enough about our football players and not just because we won the game," said Criner. "Our players came out and played this game for our seniors. We wanted them to go out winners."

Banks leads Hawks to highscoring win

HONOLULU (UPI) — Andre Banks scored 19 points and grabbed four rebounds to lead 14th-ranked Iowa to an 85-68 win over Hawaii Pacific College early Sunday for the Hawkeyes' second-consecutive victory over a Hawaii team.

Gerry Wright had 15 points and Jeff Moe added 14 for Iowa. Reno Cook, Willie Preston and Raul Montolfo each had 10 points for Hawaii Pacific.

Iowa led at the half, 38-34. In Hilo Friday night, Iowa defeated Hawaii-Hilo, 80-69, in the Hawkeyes' official season opener.

Iowa, tied at 14 in the rankings with North Carolina State, took a 41-33 halftime lead behind sophomore guard Clarence Jones' 10 first-half points. The Hawkeyes gradually built a comfortable 13-point lead midway through the second half.

THE CLOSEST the Vulcans got was within nine points with less than a minute left in the game.

Jones led the Hawkeyes with 18 points followed by senior Banks with 14 points and sophomore Moe with 11 points. Hilo was led by junior Mike Bozner with 22 points followed by junior Mike Thrower with 16 points and senior Gene Arceneaux with 15.

"It was a typical first game for two young teams and I have been saying all along we are not yet a top 20 team," Iowa Coach George Raveling said. "Hilo played well and showed a lot of poise and confidence."

Hilo Coach Bob Wilson said, "We gave a good effort, played hard and competed. We played much better tonight than we did the two previous games."

BACHMAN WON the title with a score of 55.55 points and was followed by Oklahoma's Mike Rice, Nasti and Thome. Bachman finished first on the floor exercise and tied for first on the parallel bars.

Iowa improved on five of the six events from its third-place finish at the Big Eight Invitational Nov. 16. But the biggest improvement for the Hawkeyes was on the horizontal bar where they jumped more than five points, from a score of 41.0 to 46.3.

"Parallel bars was improved, pommel horse was much improved and obviously the most improved event was horizontal bar," Dunn said. "Joe Thome had our high score there with a 9.5 and Nasti and Bachman went from scores in the sevens to the middle nines, which is what they're capable of."

Iowa will be off until after Thanksgiving but will return to action Dec. 5 when they host Iowa State. The Hawkeyes have already beaten the Cyclones twice this season but Dunn has learned not to underestimate Coach Dave Mickelson's squad.

"Last year I thought we would beat them easily and, in fact, we won the first meet by just a little bit and lost the second one," Dunn said.

THE IOWA QUARTERBACK finished the game with 21 completions in 31 attempts for 268 yards and one touchdown — the 73rd of his career.

Long also set Iowa school records for yards passing in a season (2,978), pass attempts in a season (351), pass completions in a season (231) and total offense in a season (2,887 yards).

Saturday was also a record-setting day for Iowa kicker Rob Houghtlin. The junior set Iowa records for scoring in a season (97 points), breaking Dennis Mosley's record of 96 set in 1979, field goals in a season (17), extra points in a season (46) and extra point attempts in a season (49).

The Hawkeyes scored on their second drive of the game when Ronnie Harmon burst into the end zone from five yards out with nine minutes, 48 seconds to play in the first quarter. Houghtlin hit the extra point to make the score 7-0 in favor of Iowa.

MINNESOTA RESPONDED with a 14-play drive that culminated in a 35-yard field goal by Chip Lohmiller at 1:54 of the first quarter.

Iowa scored 10 second-quarter points to take a 17-3 advantage into the locker room at halftime on a 26-yard field goal by Houghtlin and a four-yard touchdown pass from Long to tight end Mike Flagg.

Iowa locked up the contest with an 11-yard touchdown run by Kevin Harmon in the third quarter and a four-yard touchdown run by Rick Bayless in the fourth quarter to make the score 31-9.

Minnesota's final points came on a 16-yard touchdown pass from Alan Holt to Rocky Gailford with 2:01 to play in the game. The Golden Gophers' failed on their two-point conversion attempt.

Kevin Harmon, substituting for his brother, Ronnie, who left the game with a shoulder injury, totalled 73 yards on 13 carries and scored one touchdown.

"(Kevin) is just like his big brother," Fry said. "He's not as fast, but he's got that extra heart-beat. He has great determination."

MINNESOTA Coach Lou Holtz had praise for the Hawkeyes. "I'd like to take this opportunity to congratulate the University of Iowa team on its championship and trip to the Rose Bowl," he said. "It is a great team, a great state, and has super fans."

Holtz also apologized following the game for remarks attributed to defensive end Joe Christoperson during the week preceding Saturday's game. "It's important to point out at this time, in reference to those comments attributed to Joe Christoperson, no one feels worse about it than he does," Holtz said. "We want to apologize at this time for that. I've already talked with Coach Fry about it."

"I was extremely impressed with Coach Holtz and number 39 (Christoperson)," Fry said. "They were very apologetic about the comments that were made. They handled themselves in a first-class way. I was impressed with (Christoperson's) honesty and integrity."

On The Line

It's over. All those weeks of dry senseless humor and free kegs have finally come to an end. And what better way to end it than to see the home team, Iowa Hawkeyes, go to the Rose Bowl in their quest for a national championship.

UCLA, who looked to have blown all chances of a Rose Bowl berth by losing to rival Southern California, 17-13, got a reprieve when Arizona State (who could have made the trip to Pasadena had it won its last game) fell to its arch rival Arizona, 16-13, paving the back door route to the roses for the Bruins.

Our guest picker Scott Alberts, from the Daily Bruin, surely never would have guessed that his home school would make it to the Rose Bowl the way they did, but neither did most of the people who entered the contest.

As a matter of fact, only two people were able to achieve a perfect ballot, and the one who got closest to the final score was Lisa Blaesing. Blaesing came the closest to the Bruin-Trojan match-up while achieving perfection with all other games as well. Congratulations Lisa! Come and pick up your winning ballot at the DI newsroom and take it to Friday's, (located at 121 E. College St.), who graciously donated this week's prize, at any day of the week for your free keg of brew.

Meanwhile, our staff contest has come to an end as well (thank God) and our winner of absolutely nothing at all is Staff Writer J.B. Glass who defeated Sports Editor Melissa Rapoport and Assistant Sports Editor Jeff Stratton hands down.

Glass finished the year with an 80-30 predicting mark while Rapoport and Stratton ended up in a tie at 75-35.

Thank you to everyone out there who made this season's contest a success, and for those of you who didn't, better polish up your predicting skills, because you never know when the next contest will pop up.

Gable gets first look at squad

By Dan Alilea
Staff Writer

Iowa Coach Dan Gable said he got a good look at his 1985-86 wrestling team in Friday night's intrasquad meet in Council Bluffs, but expects to know a great deal more about his individual athletes after next weekend's Northern Open meet at Madison, Wis.

The Iowa team performed in front of a full house at Lewis Central High School Friday, and Gable said the meet atmosphere provided by those fans helped him see how the wrestlers will react in an actual match.

BUT GABLE added that he needs to see each of his athletes wrestle three or four times in a single day to find out where they are in terms of progress. He'll get that chance next Saturday at the Northern Open.

"It's a big tournament," Gable said of the Madison meet. "Most of the Big Ten teams will be there, (but) I don't think any of the major powers, Iowa State or Oklahoma, will be there."

Gable hopes to come a bit closer Saturday to determining what will be his eventual starting lineup, and he said at this point

"It's a big tournament," says Dan Gable of the Northern Open. "Most of the Big Ten teams will be there, (but) I don't think any of the major powers, Iowa State or Oklahoma, will be there."

only five of the 10 weights are reasonably decided.

150 pounder Jim Heffernan, who won with a fall over Steve Randall Friday, is "solid" at his weight, Gable said, as are Royce Alger at 158 and Marty Kistler at 167. Alger decisioned John Heffernan in Council Bluffs, 10-3 and Kistler dumped Mitch Kelly in an exhibition match, 12-4.

Duane Goldman and Andy Haman, neither of whom wrestled Saturday, are nearly definite starters at 190 and heavyweight respectively, Gable said.

"I'd say those five weights are probably the most solid," Gable said, "and the tightest weights are 18 and 26."

At 118 pounds John Regan decisioned Steve Knight 4-3 Friday, and at 126 Matt Egeland and Paul Glenn fought to a draw, 5-5.

In an important match involving a pair of returning all-Americans at 142 pounds, Kevin Dresser decisioned Greg Randall 4-1. Randall finished fifth last season at NCAA's at 134 pounds and Dresser was fourth at 142. One of those men will be dropping back to 134 later in the year.

At 177 pounds Rico Chiapparelli decisioned Dave Martin 7-3 in the night's last match.

Kennedy

won the 1,000 freestyle and 200 freestyle back-to-back against Michigan. "Jane had some great swims," Kennedy said.

Stevens won three individual events on the road trip and swam a leg on each of Iowa's winning relay teams against Michigan.

Stevens set a pool record in the 100 freestyle against Michigan with a time of 52.32 seconds.

"That's the fastest she's ever swam untapered (without rest)," Kennedy said. "Kim had some excellent swims."

In the Michigan meet, Lloyd won two individual events, the 100 and 200 butterfly events, and swam a leg on each of Iowa's victorious relay teams.

Lloyd is recovering from shoulder problems that plagued her last season. "Her shoulder appears to be getting better," Kennedy said. "We are trying to build her up slowly."

OTHER WINNERS for Iowa against Michigan State were: Chris Dieterle in the 200 breaststroke with a time of 2:27.85, Kelly Johnson in one-meter diving and Diane Goldworthy in three-meter diving.

The Hawkeyes swam against Michigan Coach Jim Richardson for the first time since he left his assistant coaching position at Iowa last summer to take the Wolverine job.

"The Michigan meet was a fun meet," Kennedy said. "We knew it would be tough, but the kids did what they had to do."

Iowa's next competition will be at the Wisconsin Invitational Dec. 6-8.

Patton

shot at it."

For Iowa, it was the first time it had defeated the Salukis since Feb. 2, 1980, and it was done before one of the largest crowds (estimated at 2,000) ever witnessed by the swim team.

"THIS IS THE FIRST time our seniors have ever shaved and tapered in our own pool," Patton said. "We were hoping something like this would happen, we just caught them completely off guard."

"We felt the meet would be close, but I was really surprised to see they had shaved for the meet," Southern Illinois Coach Doug Ingram said. "Our swimmers had good times and they still got beat, and that's just a credit to the Iowa squad."

The tone for the meet was set with the first race of the night. Mike Curley, Todd Slaybaugh, Davey and Ed Lower surprised the Salukis by winning the 400 medley relay to jump out to an early 7-0 lead.

"That was a key to the entire meet," Patton said. "We knew if we could win right away, we would be tough to beat the remainder of the way."

"I thought we were going to win the medley," Ingram said, "but they (Iowa) really did a good job."

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS tied things up at 8-8, going one-two in the 1,000 freestyle, but the Hawkeyes won every event from there on, sending the Salukis to their first loss of the season.

"We knew we would get beat in the 1,000," Patton said, "but Davey came through in the 500 freestyle, and our divers and sprinters did a fantastic job."

Ira Stein led the Hawkeye divers, winning both the one-meter and three-meter events. Scott Smith took second in the one-meter event, to add to the Hawkeyes' total domination of the meet.

"I was very pleased with our performance tonight," Iowa diving Coach Bob Rydz said. "We still have a long way to go, but Ira and Scott both had good performances and Glen (Galemmo) is really coming along well, after being out much of the early part of the year (with an appendix flare-up)."

"THAT'S THE BEST I've ever done in a dual meet," Stein said. "We've been getting beat by these guys for so long that when the rest of the team decided to get up for this meet, it really rubbed off on us."

Meanwhile, several other meet records and one Big Ten record were set during Friday's meet.

Davey had a time good enough for the NCAA's, establishing a new meet record of 4:23.6 in the 500 freestyle, to upset Gary Brinkman, the Salukis top distance swimmer.

"Davey's win was a major upset," Patton said. "To beat Brinkman in the 500, and to do it after upsetting Anders Grillhammar in the 200, is a real accomplishment for him."

Davey also set a new meet record in the 200 freestyle in becoming an Iowa double winner.

Although Stori didn't set any meet records, he was a double winner in the 200 backstroke (1:52.1) and the 200 individual medley (1:52.7).

OTHER MEET RECORDS on the evening were Slaybaugh in the 200 breaststroke with a time of 2:06, and Curley in the 200 butterfly at 1:49.7. The members of the 400 medley relay also recorded a new meet record with a time of 3:21.6, and Lower, John Linxwiler, Martin Svensson and Williams recorded a new meet record of 2:59.7 in the 400 freestyle relay.

"The crowd was definitely a factor for us tonight," co-captain Svensson said. "That's the biggest crowd I've seen since we beat Indiana two years ago."

"We really looked good for this early in the season, and I'm very confident we can take the Big Tens."

If the Big Ten meet were to be held tomorrow, there's no question that Iowa would win, Ingram said. "After the meet we told the Iowa team that they had a lot of class and that they really deserved to win. This kind of thing will make those teams down South realize that they aren't the only swimming powers in the nation, and come NCAA time, we northern schools will be in contention all the way."

Basketball

Trice also pulled down a whopping 18 rebounds in the game. Forwards Angela Daye and Teresa Rouse scored 13 and 10 points respectively.

Vera Webb, who was the high scorer in the championship game with 17 points, scored the first basket to give the Lady Tigers their only lead, 2-0.

From then on the game belonged to Iowa, which ran the ball up and down the court in fast-break fashion which is new for the Iowa team.

"LAST YEAR we attempted to run and we pulled it back," Stringer said. "But they've been doing it in a manner that I'm comfortable with (this season)."

The Iowa coach may be comfortable with her team's running game, but the players are just ecstatic.

"I love the running system," said guard Michelle Edwards, who was voted the most valuable player of the tournament. "There's more freedom; we get to wear our opponents down a lot quicker."

Tracy Washington said she's excited about the new offense Stringer has instituted. "There's more ball movement, and we get to run a lot more."

AND RUN the Hawkeyes did against Memphis State. Iowa out-shot the Lady Tigers, 14-2, during one spurt to put the game out of reach. Edwards broke loose at the 15 minute, 50 second mark, to give Iowa the lead 10-8 and start the Hawkeyes running.

The drive ended at 12:52 when Washington stole the ball and scored to put Iowa ahead, 22-10. During the run, Edwards and Lynn Kennedy each ran the ball down court to tally quick baskets.

Iowa continued to fast break in the first half, shooting 54.5 percent from the field, to take a 38-28 lead into the locker room.

IN THE SECOND half, Iowa extended its lead to 21 at the 10:00 mark when center Marva Fuller made two from the charity stripe. The Hawkeyes ran their lead up to 22 points at 3:55 on a shot by Edwards.

Center Lisa Becker had 14 points in the game. Kennedy tallied 12 and Long and Blair each added 10 points. Phillis Vaughn and Wanda Dillard had 12 points each for Memphis State.

Offensively, the Hawkeyes shot only 42.9 percent from the field, making 30 of 70 shots.

KENNEDY led Iowa's scoring with 15 points, and Edwards added 12. Forward Michelle Braud, the only Bradley player in double figures, had 13 points.

Iowa dominated the all-tournament team. Long and Kennedy were each named to the team, along with Trice from North Carolina State, Webb from Memphis State and Braud from Bradley.

The Hawkeyes will try to extend their record to 3-0 tonight when they host Creighton. Starting time for the game is 7:30 p.m. at Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

Long

made Long's decision to stay with Iowa more difficult. But, in the end he wanted to earn his degree and get another chance at the Rose Bowl before he ventured into the world of pro football.

"A thought like that would cross anybody's mind," Long said in reference to turning pro, "and it certainly did cross mine. I was leaning toward turning pro off and on, but I think deep down inside I just realized I enjoy playing college football and I enjoy college itself. I wanted to graduate and get everything taken care of before I moved on."

ALONG WITH clinching a spot in the Rose Bowl in his last contest in Kinnick Stadium, Long added more marks to the Iowa and Big Ten record book.

Long became the Big Ten career passing leader with his performance of 21 completions in 31 attempts for 268 yards and one touchdown. Long ended his Big Ten career with 10,142 yards passing, which broke the mark of 9,946 yards set by Mark Herrmann of Purdue from 1977-80.

Long, who holds virtually all of Iowa's career passing records, broke four of his own Iowa season records with his performance against the Gophers.

LONG BROKE marks for yards passing in a season, pass attempts, pass completions and total offense. For the 1985 season Long has compiled 231 completions on 351 attempts for 2,978 yards and 26 touchdowns.

Despite the impressive statistics, a Rose Bowl bid and a chance at a national championship, Long would not comment on his chance of winning college football's most prestigious award — the Heisman Trophy.

Long said he hasn't thought much about his chances for winning the award. In the next three weeks, however, before the Dec. 7 presentation date in New York's Downtown Athletic Club, he will definitely reflect on his season.

"RIGHT NOW I'm just going to go out and have a good time. I'll probably sit down tomorrow and the next week or so during Thanksgiving and just kind of reflect on everything," Long said.

"I really don't know; I can't answer that (whether or not he deserves to win the Heisman Trophy). Bo Jackson is a great ball player. I really haven't seen him play all year. He's got a lot of yards rushing and he's a class guy and he's a team player. I'm not going to take anything away from Bo Jackson. If he wins it that's great. I'll be the first to congratulate him."

Long continued, "As far as me making a prediction about winning it myself, I won't make it because it's all up to the voters. I just have to give a lot of credit to my teammates. Without them I wouldn't be in the position I am to go out to New York for the Heisman Trophy presentation."

NOW THAT Iowa has made it back to the Rose Bowl, Long believes the team will perform better than they did in 1982 when the Hawkeyes were defeated 28-0 by Washington.

"I know we have one more game and we are going to have a tough opponent (UCLA) obviously," Long said. "We're not going to take anybody lightly. We're not going to go there and see all the sights all over the place. We're going out there for one reason and one reason only — play that Rose Bowl and play to win."

Sports

Lions and Sooners may decide national champ on January 1st

— The college football season will come to a fitting climax New Year's Night with the national championship probably at stake when Penn State meets Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

Penn State, ranked No. 1, is the only power to complete the regular season with a perfect record, winding up at 11-0 following a 31-0 rout Saturday night over Pittsburgh. This is the fifth time since 1968 the Nittany Lions have compiled a perfect record.

Oklahoma, which has worked its way back to No. 3 after an early-season loss to Miami (Fla.), should move up another notch this week thanks to its surprisingly easy 27-7 victory over No. 2 Nebraska.

The Sooners, 8-1, still have regular-season games against Oklahoma State next Saturday and Southern Methodist, and a pair of victories most likely would result in the nation's top two teams tangling in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

FOR THE MOST part, the New Year's games lack the usual coming together of the very best teams, and there should be little heated debate this season over who is No. 1.

Of the four other Jan. 1 bowls, only two will match teams currently ranked in the top 10, and one of those is tainted. Nebraska, with a 9-2 record, plays No. 6 Michigan (9-1-1) in the Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz., and No. 4 Iowa (10-1) takes on No. 8 UCLA (8-2-1) in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.

However, UCLA may fall out of the elite group inasmuch as it suffered a 17-13 setback to Southern California last Saturday. The Bruins claimed their berth in the Rose Bowl only when No. 20 Arizona State fell to

College Roundup

Arizona 16-13.

The lineups for the other two New Year's Day games show No. 5 Miami (9-1) vs. No. 15 Tennessee (7-1-2) in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans and No. 9 Auburn vs. the winner of the Thanksgiving Day game between No. 18 Texas A&M and No. 19 Texas.

AS FOR THE other bowl games, this is the way the pairings shape up: California Bowl at Fresno, Calif., Dec. 14, Fresno State vs. Bowling Green.

Cherry Bowl at Pontiac, Mich., Dec. 21, Maryland vs. Syracuse.

Independence Bowl at Shreveport, La., Dec. 21, Minnesota vs. Clemson. Holiday Bowl at San Diego, Calif., Dec. 22, No. 16 Arkansas vs. Arizona State.

Liberty Bowl at Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 27, No. 14 Baylor vs. No. 17 Louisiana State.

Citrus Bowl at Orlando, Fla., Dec. 28, No. 11 Ohio State vs. No. 13 Brigham Young.

Sun Bowl at El Paso, Texas, Dec. 28, Georgia vs. Arizona.

Aloha Bowl at Honolulu, Dec. 28, Alabama vs. West Virginia.

Freedom Bowl at Anaheim, Calif., Dec. 30, Washington vs. Colorado.

GATOR BOWL at Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 30, No. 7 Oklahoma State vs. No. 12 Florida State.

Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Dec. 31, No. 10 Air Force vs. Texas-Texas A&M loser.

All American Bowl at Birmingham,

Ala., Dec. 31, Georgia Tech vs. Michigan State.

Peach Bowl at Atlanta, Dec. 31, Army vs. Illinois.

In addition to Nebraska and UCLA, another member of the top 10 was beaten last Saturday as Oklahoma State dropped a 15-10 decision to Iowa State.

Otherwise, Iowa crushed Minnesota 31-9, Miami defeated Colorado State 24-3, Michigan beat Ohio State 27-17 and Air Force topped Hawaii 27-20. Auburn was idle.

While Oklahoma still has to deal with two more opponents, Penn State has all of five weeks in which to prepare for the Sooners.

"I'm pleased with the way we're playing," Penn State Coach Joe Paterno said. "This is what we wanted to do, this is where we wanted to be. We're going to take some time off and enjoy this, but we have another tough game after this."

"An 11-0 record is not easy to do, but they (the players) did it. If you think you're going to win them all, you're in another world."

Penn State is unbeaten in three Orange Bowl appearances, while Oklahoma has compiled a 9-4 mark. The Lions clinched their first national crown with a Sugar Bowl victory after the 1982 season.

In the finale at Pittsburgh, backup fullback Tim Manoa set up one touchdown and scored two others for Penn State. The victory avenged a loss to Pittsburgh last year.

At Norman, Okla., tight end Keith Jackson raced 88 yards for one touchdown and quarterback Jamelle Holieway dashed 43 yards for another, both in the first quarter, to send Oklahoma over Nebraska.

Cowboys trip Philadelphia, 34-17

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — Coming off their most embarrassing performance in more than a decade, the Dallas Cowboys stood at the crossroads Sunday.

And through the fog and occasional drizzle they appeared to have made the correct turn.

With Danny White throwing three touchdown passes, two of them to tight end Doug Cosbie, and Tony Dorsett scoring twice and passing a few more milestones, the Cowboys knocked off Philadelphia, 34-17.

Dallas remained in a first-place tie in the NFC East with the New York Giants at 8-4 while the Eagles slipped to 6-6 and had their playoff chances severely jolted.

DALLAS RAN UP its highest score since its opening night win over Washington, and it came seven days after the Cowboys had been shut out for the first time since 1970.

"It was tough to overcome what happened last week (a 44-0 loss to Chicago)," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said. "But teams that are capable of going to the playoffs can overcome that sort of thing."

"When we play bad we will probably lose. But when we play hard we can play with anybody."

Along the way Sunday Dorsett became the Cowboys career touchdown record holder and also surpassed the 1,000-yard mark for the eighth time in nine pro seasons.

Big Ten looks for revenge as bowl games draw near

(UPI) — The Big Ten, seeking to reverse last year's embarrassment in post-season play, will send league champion Iowa and five other teams to bowl games next month.

The Hawkeyes sewed up their first outright league championship since 1958 when they bombed Minnesota 31-9 Saturday. The win gave Iowa, the only Big Ten team to win a bowl contest one year ago, a 10-1 overall mark and an 8-1 league title mark.

Michigan finished second with a 6-1-1 record in the league after defeating Ohio State 27-17. Illinois captured third at 5-2-1 following its 45-20 trouncing of Northwestern. Michigan State, finishing strong in the second half of the season, walloped Wisconsin 41-7. In the only game without bowl implications, Purdue captured the Old Oaken Bucket with a 34-21 victory over intrastate rival Indiana.

Here is the lineup for Big Ten teams in the bowls:

Rose bowl—Iowa vs. UCLA.

Fiesta Bowl—Michigan vs. Nebraska.

Peach Bowl—Illinois vs. Army.

All-American Bowl—Michigan State vs. Georgia Tech.

Independence Bowl—Minnesota vs. Clemson.

Citrus Bowl—Ohio State vs. BYU.

The Big Ten sent six teams to bowl games last year — a record — but only Iowa's defeat of Texas in the Freedom Bowl prevented the league from being swept in all contests.

Iowa showed it may be ready to reverse the trend of losses in the Rose bowl.

The Hawkeyes captured Floyd of Rose-dale, a symbolic bronze pig, with its one-sided triumph over the Golden Gophers. Minnesota still finished above .500 at 6-5.

Michigan, which lost only to Iowa this season, again used its awesome defense to ride past traditional rival Ohio State. The Buckeyes ended the regular season with back-to-back losses after being in control of the Big Ten race two weeks ago.

Here's a brief review of the Big Ten by team:

Iowa—A favorite to contend, the Hawkeyes rode the passing of Chuck Long, the running of Ronnie Harmon and a strong defense to a 10-1 mark. The only blemish: a rain-soaked loss to Ohio State on the road.

Michigan—One of the strongest defenses Bo Schembechler has ever had at Ann Arbor, the Wolverines also got a strong performance from quarterback Jim Harbaugh. The Wolverines were tied by Illinois and lost a 12-10 decision at the gun to Iowa.

Illinois—Coming off probation at the end of the season, Illinois had a roller coaster season. It looked sharp in upsetting Ohio State and tying Michigan while looking dismal in getting blown out 59-0 at Iowa and losing to Purdue. Jack Trudeau had a solid campaign.

Big Ten Roundup

Ohio State—Despite the loss of Keith Byars for virtually the entire season, the Buckeyes held first place and a trip to the Rose bowl in their hands with two weeks to go. But a 12-7 shocking loss at home to Wisconsin doomed their Rose Bowl chances.

Michigan State—Led by conference and likely national rushing champion Lorenzo White, Spartans finished strong at 7-4. The Spartans overcame the loss of quarterback Dave Yarema to go to a bowl for the second straight year.

Minnesota—Suprise team of the league, tone set for season when Gophers nearly upset Oklahoma. Minnesota finished above .500 with option quarterback Rickey Foggie at the helm.

Purdue—Jim Everett had an outstanding year at quarterback for the Boilermakers, and Purdue nearly upset Iowa and beat Illinois. But the defense was susceptible, and Purdue finished at 5-6.

Wisconsin—The Badgers had their first losing season in five years, although they still wound up 5-6. Injuries and inexperience plagued Wisconsin, but the Badgers still rose up and continued domination of Ohio State to stop the Bucks from winning the Big Ten title.

Indiana—The Hoosiers finally snapped their long losing streak and won four games behind the strong start of Steve Bradley. Defensive problems forced the Hoosiers to settle for a three-way tie for last.

Northwestern—The Wildcats were 2-1 after upsetting Missouri and beating Northern Illinois. But quarterback Mike Greenfield had a mid-season slump, and the Wildcats' pass defense could not survive in the quarterback-oriented conference.

Thompson Twins disappointing

By Allen Hogg
Staff Writer

THE THOMPSON Twins is a case of a band that's gotten too big for its britches. I mean, the group members have had no more than half a dozen hits, yet they think they can play arenas. And not only that, they think they can play arenas with one of the most high-tech shows ever seen in these parts.

Well, if the sparsity of Saturday night's crowd at the Cedar Rapids Five Seasons Center didn't put the Thompson Twins back in its place, the lukewarm reaction the flashy show received undoubtedly did. Despite frontman Tom Bailey's assertion that "the best looking people make the most noise," the crowd was remarkably subdued.

To be sure, the people on the floor stayed packed up against the stage throughout the 90-minute show, and the rest of the crowd got up and danced to the British trio's hits, but after the set ended, it seemed more people were heading for the door than actually applauding and asking for more. Still, the band came back out, told the crowd how great it was, and served up two of the least demanded encores heard to date.

IF SATURDAY night's crowd was typical of what the Thompson Twins have been drawing, one has to wonder how much the group is losing on its state-of-the-art concerts. With huge white balloons above the stage, an over-abundance of smoke and lights, nifty headset microphones and five back-up musicians — including a keyboard-playing robot — the group undoubtedly needs all the corporate help it gets for putting two gigantic Swatch watches on either side of the stage.

Unfortunately, all the polish and gloss is for naught, as the songs end up sounding too good, too much like the records. Many of the sounds heard were undoubtedly pre-recorded, and at times one wondered if the whole thing wasn't just "American Bandstand" style lip-synching.

And nothing can disguise the fact that Alannah Currie and Joe Leeway just don't do that much musically. Sure, they ran around and played various instruments, but rarely was what they were doing audible. In the end, they really are just two more decorations to prevent Tom Bailey from becoming another Howard Jones. IT WAS ACTUALLY the opening act, Orchestral Manoeuvres in the Dark, that impressed the spectator the most. True, there were some annoying things about the performance — neither guitarist Andy McCluskey nor keyboardist Paul Humphreys really has much of a voice, the trumpet player was amplified far too loudly and McCluskey worried a little too much about those sitting down in the balcony — but at least the veteran British technopoppers understood the nature of the crowd.

"It's too damn cold to be artistic," McCluskey announced early on, "so we're just going to play lots of things to dance around and look stupid to." And throughout the 40-minute set he did dance around, and he did look stupid. But the music was worth dancing to, and he seemed to be having a good time.

Local artist selected for Washington, D.C. exhibition

By Jill Lauritzen
Staff Writer

EIGHT HUNDRED artists applied for a spot in a new exhibition in Washington, D.C.; only 33 were chosen. Of those 33 one was local artist Roxanne Sexauer.

Sexauer, a 1979 graduate of the UI School of Art and Art History, applied to the Gallerie Triangle earlier this year to enter "Printmakers 33: New Talent."

The exhibition was created especially for the Christmas season by Director Charles Jacobs, his wife and Assistant Director Averille E. Costley-Jacobs. The exhibition will run until Dec. 24.

SEXAUER sent 10 slides of her work to the gallery and three pieces were chosen for display: "Artifact 1: Africa," "Railway to a Winter Landscape," and "Privacy."

"All the artists sent in slides and we chose the 33 artists based on them," Costley-Jacobs said. "What we were looking for was quality of material and works that fit a price range."

The price range was set between $75 and $500 to fit the expectations of their customers. "About 80 percent of our customers are young professional people, like government employees and other business people. The other 20 percent are mostly elderly or retired people," Costley-Jacobs said.

"We looked at Roxanne's prints and felt her work fit perfectly into the two categories. We felt her work would appeal to our clientele."

Displayed in the exhibition are a variety of prints including etchings, engravings and, Sexauer's specialty, wood cuts.

Sexauer, who started creating wood cuts in high school, likes the "element of surprise" that comes along with making these types of prints. "You don't know what the design will be until you pull the paper from the press," she said.

"I love working with wood because it's sensitive," Sexauer said. "You don't work against it; you work with it."

THOUGH SHE works most often with wood cuts, Sexauer also does some painting, charcoal drawings and is experimenting with colored pencils.

Sexauer's art shows her avid interest in "everything." She takes all kinds of information (traveling all over the world to get it), mixes it with her feelings and creates her wood cuts.

"Everything interests me. Well, everything except mathematics interests me," she said. "I try to go to places all over and have been to most places in this country. Next I'd like to go to Mexico."

Sexauer's most recent interest is in ethnic clothing, displayed in "Artifact 1: Africa" (a colorful African robe), which is one of the pieces shown in Washington.

"I'M REALLY intrigued with this clothing series I've started. Years ago the only way women artists could display their talent was through clothing they made. So I wanted to do a series on clothing from different ethnic groups," Sexauer said.

Work by local artist Roxanne Sexauer was recently chosen for inclusion in a Washington, D.C. printmakers exhibition. Here Sexauer works on a wood cut.

She has already finished the second piece for the series, "Artifact 2: Asia," a dark gray kimono. Eight more prints are planned for the series.

In addition to the print exhibit in Washington, Sexauer's art work is also in the "1985-Stockton National 3rd Print and Drawing Exhibition," the "9th University of Dallas National Invitational Traveling Exhibition," the "Iowa Printmakers - Invitational Traveling Exhibition" and the "1985 S.P.A.R. National Art Exhibition" in Shreveport, La.

"I try to keep entering about ten shows at a time," Sexauer said. "I'm always entering shows."

SHE SAID she first goes through a list of exhibitions she's heard of and chooses those she wants to enter. If there is a judge who has rejected her material in a previous show, she doesn't enter it.

"I have a 'Just Judges' list and a 'Bad Judges' list that I keep on file to help me decide which show to apply to," Sexauer said. "I don't want to apply to a show where a particular judge didn't like my stuff."

One exhibition, Rome Prize Fellowship, to which she has just applied, offers one person residency in Rome, a studio, food, $600 for art supplies, $400 spending money per month and anything else the artist needs to live. She'll know by January if she was one of the finalists for this honorable prize.

Sexauer said she loves being an artist, even though there are trying times with rejections. "I want to make my own art," she said. "That's all I want to do."

Des Moines Ballet to bring 'The Nutcracker' to Hancher

The Des Moines Ballet will bring its full-length production of Tchaikovsky's family Christmas favorite, The Nutcracker, to Hancher Auditorium at 3 p.m. on Dec. 1. The performance, part of Hancher's Sunday at 3 series, will be the Des Moines Ballet's first appearance on the Hancher stage.

The production, subtitled "A Children's Fantasy," features original choreography by Stephan Laurent, artistic director of the Des Moines Ballet. "The spirit of the story has been closely adhered to," Laurent said, "with a few minor changes to make it more dancey."

Joan Bunke of the Des Moines Register wrote of the production's 1982 premiere: "Laurent's new version of the 90-year-old ballet, to the melodic, memorable Tchaikovsky score, glowed and flowed. Full of freshness and vitality, Laurent's ballet is pretty without being precious, sparkling without being gaudy."

LAURENT, a native of Lausanne, Switzerland, became artistic director of the Des Moines Ballet in 1982, after dancing and choreographing with several professional companies in Europe, the United States and Mexico.

Almost immediately, the Des Moines Ballet began to attract attention. In June 1983, Camille Hardy wrote in Dancemagazine, "The kind of high-powered creative energy and vigor found most often in young modern dance troupes are the chief characteristics of the current Des Moines Ballet. In less than a year, Laurent has set admirable standards for the Des Moines Ballet and has imprinted the group with a lively personality."

THE NUTCRACKER tells the story of a young girl, Clara, and the nutcracker she is given by a family friend on Christmas Eve. When Clara slips out of bed at night to retrieve her nutcracker from under the Christmas tree, a fantasy world comes to life.

As the clock strikes midnight, the Rat King and his troop appear, and the nutcracker and toy soldiers come to life to battle the giant rodents. At the critical point in the conflict, Clara joins the fray, striking the Rat King a fatal blow with her shoe. Through her display of courage, the nutcracker is transformed into a handsome prince who sweeps Clara off to his Kingdom of Sweets where she is crowned Sugar Plum Fairy.

In the finale of her magical dream, Clara and the prince are entertained by a festival of dances from exotic countries before the fantasy fades and Clara finds herself back in her bed.

UI museum displays furniture

By Karma Lisa Edwards
Staff Writer

EIGHTEENTH century American furniture is on display at the UI Museum of Art until Jan. 12. More than 40 pieces, gathered from private Midwest owners, represent furniture from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut, Maryland and Rhode Island.

Studying furniture of the early American colonies uncovers a chain of design mutations. These occurred each time a translation of popular European styles was made by American craftsmen and citizens.

There is a well known game that illustrates this phenomenon. With a number of people playing, one person whispers a word or sentence into another's ear and that person, in turn, passes it on. When the passing is completed "I went to the store" might become "I want two whistles" or any other nonsensical translation. This broken form of communication, widely used in the 18th century (or any other century for that matter), is known as "word of mouth." The results of such a transference of information can be comical or fascinating. The history of furniture in this country happens to be very interesting.

BEGINNING WITH the Pilgrims, who made their first furniture from cargo casks, people found life in the New World involved an initial survival period. No matter what kind of background a family may have come from in the Old Country, here they faced a different set of rules and conditions. Settlers struggled to keep themselves alive; they had little time to make furniture of any kind, let alone works of fine design or craftsmanship. Only after towns and cities were established were settlers able to put time into aesthetic concerns.

Carpenters and craftsmen of this period were greatly interested in and influenced by British fashion. The prime source of patterns from which to work were illustrated books or actual pieces of furniture brought across the ocean. But without these templates, there was much room for divergence.

SOMEONE NEEDING a cupboard, for example, would describe a piece they had seen, maybe years earlier, to a craftsman. Consequently, change in design and the development of regional styles were the rule, and the migration of journeymen insured the ever-increasing Americanization of techniques. However, attention to European style continued to dominate the scene, despite the American Revolution and official break with England.

These designs were interpreted individually according to skill, supplies and the amount of money a person could spend. The type of wood used was also determined by the availability of native woods or proximity of the woodworkers to shipping areas. Craftsmen employed the traditional European mode of using wood sparingly, even though they were surrounded by forests. This frugality slowly disappeared as lumber yards and other local suppliers of wood became adequately stocked.

THIS PARTICULAR exhibit features furniture of the rococo and Queen Anne styles, which were worked and reworked until books by William Salmon and Thomas Chippendale (as well as interpretations of design by Robert Adams, Thomas Sheraton, George Hepplewhite, Hugh and John Finlay and the Goddard Townsend Group) brought new perspectives to furniture making.

In addition to excellence achieved by American craftsmen, more and more European immigrants, with state-of-the-art abilities, were arriving. One imported art was upholstery, which contributed to the increasing trend of comfort: The "easie" chair was born.

First advertised for the elderly, it soon caught on as the chair for everyone, and upholsterers almost replaced cabinet-makers in public prominence.

There are many portraits of Early Americans sitting proudly in "easie" chairs, silently boasting of the good life, in which fine furniture played an important part.

Tunnel art: more than just graffiti

By Beth Lucht
Special to The Daily Iowan

Art

ART IS NOT just in galleries; it can be found everywhere. Many people walk by art every day and never notice it. One open-air display area is the tunnel under the railroad bridge between the Union and the English-Philosophy Building. There, among graffiti reading, "U.S. out of North America," and "Black Watch Soccer Team, Tampa, Florida," the creations of local artists are on display.

The current installation, created by UI students Jay Niemann and Jay Krieger, is an amalgamation of advertisements, baby pictures, stickers with slogans on them like "Kiss me Kate" or "NFL," and scribbles made with oil pastels. In the past, the tunnel art has combined these techniques with silkscreening and painting.

WHAT WAS the inspiration for this creative, if confusing, explosion of expression? Niemann described it as "made up of very simple consumer messages like ketchup packages." He explained it is a play on typical consumer-oriented messages using traditional propaganda methods. "That's the way they do propaganda in Russia or China — there are walls covered with lines of posters and small messages all the way from 'The Party is good' to 'Eat more vegetables.'" He also ties the work to advertising in large cities, describing the way walls in New York are covered with hundreds of posters, five or six in a row often the same poster.

To Krieger, the work is more tied into visual messages than to thought-out, pre-planned meanings. "I like to use old ads mixed with new. We do a lot of writing. We just sort through things, pick out images that work well together and go down and start putting them up. You can't plan it out too well."

HE DOESN'T see the space as too different from any other display area. "It's just a place to put your art — your stuff. I don't like that word (art) anymore. It's been misused." He compared the tunnel to the Checkered Space in the art building, which is open for student displays. (Krieger's work was displayed there the week of Nov. 18.)

However, there are some undeniable differences between a traditional gallery space and the tunnel. Obviously, the space is temporary — nothing put up is permanent; eventually the UI repaints the walls of the tunnel. But Krieger doesn't see this as necessarily negative.

He said, "That way you can keep adding to what you've done and can start over. Art is never really permanent anyway." Also, the space is addressed more directly to viewers. Niemann said, "It's a very confrontational kind of art... There's no way you can walk through the tunnel and not notice that stuff."

Krieger agreed. "People are forced to deal with it in there."

BUT DO pedestrians deal with the art or do they just ignore it? The answer is probably mixed — some ignore it, but some notice and appreciate it. A UI graduate student passing by commented, "I think it's wonderful and I guess that the university didn't say, 'Here's a good place for graffiti,' but the tolerance that they show is really neat... I like to think about the people who do this, who come down here with their pots of glue and their pictures and put it all up."

Entertainment Today

At the Bijou

Curse of the Cat People (1941). Don't be fooled by the title, this is not a horror thriller, but a moody drama about a little girl who recedes into a fantasy world following the death of a parent. Produced by Val Lewton for RKO. At 7 p.m.

Paths of Glory (1957). This is Stanley Kubrick's famed indictment of war set against the military politics of World War I. With Kirk Douglas, Ralph Meeker and Adolphe Menjou. At 8:30 p.m.

Television

On the networks: Film biographies of Mussolini seem to be a trend this year, so while waiting for Dom DeLuise's musical version of his life, "Mussolini: The Untold Story" (part two, NBC at 8 p.m.) might be worth a look. George C. Scott plays Il Duce; costarring Lee Grant as his wife. Meanwhile, Allie meets her ex-husband's new wife during Thanksgiving Day turmoil on "Kate & Allie" (CBS at 8 p.m.) and Mary Beth must deal with her son's delinquency problems on "Cagney & Lacey" (CBS at 9 p.m.).

On cable: Jules Feiffer wrote the script and Alan Arkin directed 1971's Little Murders (WGN-10 at 11:30 p.m.), a very black comedy about paranoia and urban violence that will either make one laugh or depressed. Elliott Gould and Marcia Rodd star with weird cameo appearances by Arkin and Donald Sutherland. Elizabeth Montgomery plays a blind woman adjusting to her new guide dog and new independence in "Second Sight: A Love Story" (TBS-15 at 9:05 p.m.), a moving 1984 TV movie. And Rita Hayworth set Buenos Aires aflame with her rendition of "Put the Blame on Me" in Gilda (TBS-15 at 12:05 p.m.), a classic variation on the love triangle with Glenn Ford and George Macready.

Music

John Suess of the Case Western Reserve University will lecture on "Florentine Humanism and Ficino's Platonic Foundation for Renaissance Music" at 11:30 a.m. in Room 1020 of the Music Building and discuss "Fifteenth-century Italian Humanism and Neoplatonism, and the Renaissance in Music" at 3:30 p.m. in Room 1028 of the Music Building.

Lectures

The International Writing Program will hold its final panel presentation for the season, entitled "The Writer and Mixed Media," featuring works by Branko Dimitrijevic of Yugoslavia and Liliane Altan of France, from 1:30 to 3:15 p.m. in Room 304 of EPB.

Nightlife

Toxic Reasons performs at Amelia's tonight. The local group Soviet Dissonance serves as opener.

Happyness brightens up the Red Stal-in all this week.
