Students seek sun before beach's fun

By Melissa Tibbets

Surfing in areas ten miles south of St. Petersburg is not the only way to seek sun on the beaches of Pinellas County. Although there are many who head for the south to surf, there are also those who choose to stay near home to catch some rays.

"I had a bad experience last spring break," said Tom Tompkins, a student at Pinellas Community College. He said that he had a terrible experience staying in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., because he was not prepared for the weather.

PREPARING FOR THE Saun

But before she responded the third floor was already being prepared for the students to enjoy a day in the sun.

"We need to be ready for the beach," said Larry Allen.

Allen said she had been working at a beauty salon and had been preparing for the beach.

"I have worked at a beauty salon for more than a year and I know that the weather can be unpredictable," she said. "I have learned to be prepared for any type of weather."

Illegal IDs common among UI students

By Jan Carbo

Iowa City, Iowa

Iowa's drinking age is 21. Many students find they can circumvent the current law with fake IDs. But according to Captain Don Vreeland of the Iowa City Police Department, "Most times the wearer or officer doesn't know if it's a fake ID until the person being checked blurts it out. They get nervous, and then they trip themselves up.

But have a known policy on action taken against someone using fake IDs. "The better the fake, the better the opportunity. A person present is usually going to make a reasonable effort to identify fake IDs," Vreeland said. "We won't take the ID until after the person gets really aroused.

If the police catch someone apparently using a driver's license from a state different from the one he or she is in at a bar, they don't immediately confiscate the ID. "If the person has a reasonable story about the ID, we do nothing," Vreeland explained.

"The person being checked blurts it out. Other persons usually make a reasonable effort to identify fake IDs. We do an ID check everywhere and it's not always easy."

Nicaraguan bishop opposes foreign aid

MANagua, Nicaragua (UPI) - Bishop Julian Barni said here Tuesday he opposed the Contra aid plan and wouldn't do anything to try to suppress its existence in the areas of foreign policy and defense.

Barni, an Italian who has served as the Bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of the capital city of Managua, said it was for this reason he had decided to resign as bishop of Managua.

He also expressed his support for the government of President Daniel Ortega, saying that it was "the only option left" for the people of Nicaragua to achieve peace.

"I have decided to resign as bishop of Managua," Barni said in a statement released by the government. "I do not have any intention of returning to Nicaragua or the church, but I will continue to support the government of President Ortega in its efforts to achieve peace and democracy in Nicaragua.

Barni said he had met with President Ortega to discuss their differences, and that he would continue to support the government in its efforts to achieve peace.

"I have decided to resign as bishop of Managua," Barni said in a statement released by the government. "I do not have any intention of returning to Nicaragua or the church, but I will continue to support the government of President Ortega in its efforts to achieve peace and democracy in Nicaragua.

The United States has been providing military aid to the Contras, a group of anti-government guerrillas, in an effort to overthrow the government of Ortega. However, Barni said he was opposed to this aid and that it was "the only option left" for the people of Nicaragua to achieve peace.

Sen. Frank Lausche's victory in the primary for the Ohio governorship, although not the most significant of the day, was a significant victory for the gubernatorial candidates. Lausche's win over Cary B.öckel, the Chief Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, is a testament to the political power of the Senate. It is important to note that the Senate election had the highest voter turnout in recent history, with slightly more than 16 percent of the voting age population casting their ballots. This is an increase of 5 percent over the 1985 student election, a result that just above the national average of 11 percent—may be due to several factors.

First, the long-term prosperity and economic stability of the state have been a factor in the Senate election. The Thurman Arnold and Associates board, instead of meetings with legislative leaders passed a resolution giving students a chance to express their views on the issues and parties. "Some things in life are not black or white," said Ketchmark, "but if there is a need for intervention, the Board said that students around campus expressed different views. "All the same communication issues the Board has been doing this for three years, and I know that."'

On another topic, Bob Richardson, in his bi-weekly 'Ketchmark column, was an article discussing the health care crisis, the Board said that students around campus expressed different views. "All the same communication issues the Board has been doing this for three years, and I know that."'

Four more years

Sometimes in the past few months the 23rd Amendment to the United States Constitution was considered.

While this momentous event wasn’t reported in The Daily Illinois, it has not escaped the notice of many UI students.

The amendment was added to the highest law of the land in 1961 to limit the term of a president to four years or less.

Until someone changes it, the Constitution requires that the president be elected to the office of the United States every four years or less.

This all seems a bit more enticing.

In the past few months the UI of Illinois students have been looking at the proposed ordinance which states that the proposed ordinance would be in effect.

The daily Illinois, has it not escaped the notice of many UI students.

This all seems a bit more enticing.

We also took a poll among our students, partially illustrated a bit more enticing.

Recently, we discovered a profound secret of the UI of Illinois students, not only do we have the amendment was added to the highest law of the land in 1961 to limit the term of a president to four years or less.

MARCOS’ FILES SHOW ‘INCREDIBLE GREED’

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The United States turned over 2,300 pages of documents to Philippine officials Tuesday that Marcos’ administration and exiled ex-feudal lord Ferdinand Marcos, who profit from the former’s regime.

Another set of the same documents - copies of papersgned by Philippine officials and most of the documents on the so-called Marcos “asset tags” - were turned over to the Manila International Deportation Center. The documents were prepared by Philippine investigators looking into billions of pesos of wealth accumulated by Marcos in 20 years in power.

Some of the documents outlined Marcos and his family’s holdings, including gifts reportedly worth more than $2 billion and a list of millions of pesos in government subsidies.

'I HAVE BEEN waiting for this day since the last 20 years', Marcos said Tuesday in a press conference at the Manila International Deportation Center. "I am happy to see that the government is doing the right thing in bringing the Marcos to justice.

Vikings will be '86 Cinderella'

Alaska will enter the NCAA playoffs as a host for the first time. There was no better seed for Alaska than the jeanclad North Carolina State Wolfpack, who were expected to win the entire tournament. The Wolfpack were the 12th seed.

Mike Cleff

After defeating Syracuse and Joanne Granger last week, the Wolfpack will have a second chance to win the NCAA title. The Wolfpack have already won the national championship.

Brad Zimann

Iowa State's fake run does not sit well with me. Iowa State has had some problems with the Wolfpack in the past, and I think this will be a very competitive game.

Powerliftin'

Also, rather than have only one top, Iowa State has several options that can be used. I think this will be a very competitive game.

Craig hopes for changes in Giants’ loser status

Scuffle was the term used by Giants' defensive coordinator Bill Musgrave in describing his team's recent struggles. The Giants have lost two straight games, adding pressure on coach Joe Gibbs.

The team's defensive performance has been particularly concerning, with the Giants allowing an average of 31 points per game over their last three contests.

THE CLUBS PHILOSOPHY

“The Giants are a club that always plays with a lot of heart,” said Musgrave. “But we need to find a way to get more production on both sides of the ball.”

The Giants will look to bounce back in their next game, hoping to get back on track and stay competitive in the tough NFC East division.
