By Lena Wayne Greene

Faculty salaries will jump up, but most other education expenses will remain constant under the University of Iowa's $192.7 million 1987-88 budget. The regents approved the budget Tuesday, June 17.

President Julius Sebring said the UI president's recommendations were made in response to the 1987-88 budget. The regents rejected some of the recommendations, and some of the recommendations were rejected by the regents.

UI missing radioactive discs

Eight patients do not containing radioactive material were missing from the UI Department of Physical Medicine and Radiology this summer, but just last week, according to the University of Iowa Laboratory of Radiological Health, the radiation levels of some of the patients dropped to a point where the material could not be traced.

U.S. Attorney and Rep. Gary Condit (D-Wash.) have been named by some newspapers as possible targets in the White House leak investigation. Condit is a member of the House of Representatives and a co-sponsor of the JOBS Act, which would create a new division of occupational safety and health at the Department of Labor.

Reagan urges aid to Contras

WASHINGTON (UPI)-President Reagan is expected to announce Monday that the United States will provide military and economic aid to the anti-Sandinista forces in Nicaragua.

Reagan made the announcement to reporters Monday as he prepared to issue a new economic aid package to the Central American nation.

"I expect the upcoming vote on aid for the Contras will signal a new level of commitment and an end to the pejorative and defeatist rhetoric of the last decade," Reagan said 200 reporters assembled in the East Room of the White House.

Reagan drew attention to a building full of reporters.

Alternating between existent and extra-territorial appeals for bipartisanship and tough strikes on the Contras,

Reagan declared, "We are committed to assisting the Nicaraguan people in their fight for freedom. The Contras are fighting for the survival of their country."

Reagan said he will meet next month with the Contra leaders to discuss the aid package.

"We will not let you down," Reagan said at a written statement following the Oval Office meeting with his top military and national security aides.

Reagan praised the resistance fighters for their "unflinching support."

But the resistance leaders, at a news conference Monday, said Reagan had "lost his nerve."
Cranberries of rural Iowa native oratorio were successfully used to sign the birth of a new album, as the singer has added one of his own, "Gifts." The album, released in 1986, was a major success for the artist, and it was recorded in the studio of a local music store.

"The gifts of music," the artist said, "are a source of pride for our state. We are fortunate to have such a rich musical heritage, and this album is a testament to that."

Rich NBA draft crop deepest in ten years

The selection of the first round was the biggest news of the 17th NBA Draft this week, but for many in the crowd of 3,000 at the Sports Arena, the excitement was tempered by the realization that the NBA is in a financial crisis.

The draft, which was held in New York City, featured 50 players, and the selection of the first round was made by the Los Angeles Lakers. The Lakers selected forward Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, a center for the University of California, Los Angeles, with the first pick of the draft.

Basketball

THE CLIPPERS flashed last season at 20 and 20, but would have qualified for the draft lottery on the strength of the Philadelphia 76ers, who selected them in the second round of the NBA draft.

Philadelphia had the worst record in the league last season, finishing with a 4-43 record, and the 76ers were expected to select a player with a high upside.

The Timberwolves drafted former University of Minnesota forward Larry Seiler with the 20th pick of the draft.

NFL spots still sought by 8 Hawks

By Bill Milton

Senior Sports Editor

Of the 36 newcomers added to the Hawks roster, eight are still fighting for spots on respective rosters.

Some of these players have been given up to, one of the most successful seasons in Iowa State history, which ended in a 1-11 record and Big Ten Championship. The Hawkeyes have been a model of consistency and have been managed to sign as many players with previous experience.

Free-agent oversight Skip Marshall, however, has yet to see any of the new signings. The Hawks have signed six free agents and will hold minicamp this week to give them a chance to compete.

The Hawks are looking for depth and experience, saying they will not make any major moves with the roster until training camp.

The selection at No. 23 will be the pick of the draft.

The Hawks have a history of trading their picks, and it is possible they could make another move before the draft.
