It's official: Dollar buys less at UI

By Lewis Wayne Greene
University Editor

UI students are paying more and getting less for their higher education dollar, figures released by the state Board of Regents Monday indicate.

A report on the 1984-85 cost of instruction at the three state universities shows — after adjustments for inflation — the amount of money invested in each student's education from state appropriations, tuition and other funds has slipped almost 7.4 percent since 1978-79.

UI Vice President for Academic Affairs Richard Remington said the change has resulted in crowded classrooms, restricted course availability and limited faculty salary increases.

"I THINK students still get a first-class education here," Remington said, but he added that the trend has had a negative effect on faculty and student morale.

UI Vice President for Finance Dorsey Ellis said while the amount spent on each student's education has decreased, the amount each student pays has increased.

In 1979-80, 75 percent of the UI general budget was supported by state appropriations, while 21 percent was paid for by tuition, he said.

Ellis estimates that 66 percent of the 1985-86 budget came from appropriations and 27 percent from tuition.

Board office figures indicate an average expenditure from all revenue sources are $3,693 a year per undergraduate. In 1978-79 the amount was $2,520 but because of inflation the real dollar value of the investment per student has decreased.

The $3,693 figure is slightly less than the amount out-of-state students pay in tuition, meaning the UI makes a small profit off non-resident U-bills, Ellis said.

"TO A MODEST extent, out-of-state students are subsidizing in-state students," Ellis said. "Most people think state taxpayers are subsidizing out-of-state students."

The cost figures accompanied the release of the final form of the UI's proposed budget for next year, which shows the effect of further reductions in state support for higher education.

UI administrators have made

some alterations in the budget in the month since it was originally presented to the board. Ellis said there is little change from the first budget, which called for cuts in several areas.

While the Iowa Legislature left the UI's tuition replacement fund $1.3 million short this year, Ellis said the money may be made up by refinancing high-interest bonds at lower rates of interest.

"IF WE'RE successful in doing that we could wipe out the entire $1.3 million" shortfall, he said.

The board will consider authorizing the first bond refinancing at its meeting. The proposal allows for the sale of up to $25 million in bonds to repay outstanding bonds, Ellis said.

But the budget makes permanent a 3.85 percent budget cut mandated last fall by Gov. Terry Branstad, which has required large cuts in the budgets for supplies, equipment, library books and building repairs.

While savings from the bond refinancing will allow the UI to increase the budgets for those areas slightly, Ellis said they will still be below the budgets for the fiscal year that ended June 30.

Remington said the budget allows for average faculty salary increases of 5 percent to 6 percent.

But UI President James O. Freedman has indicated a 5.5 percent salary increase would not be enough to save the UI from academic peril and continued placement at the bottom of the Big Ten salary rankings.

Apartheid impact increases

Blacks strike over detention of labor heads

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Black workers in Port Elizabeth Monday heeded a strike call to protest the detention of labor leaders under state-of-emergency rule, virtually shutting down the city's industry, but the protest was largely ignored in other parts of the country.

The one-day strike, called by the Congress of South African Trade Unions, shut down factories in the south coast city of Port Elizabeth and left its streets virtually deserted, officials said.

But in other areas of the nation, labor and industry officials reported that most black workers went to work in what appeared to be a defeat for the federation, known as Cosatu. The strike was illegal under South Africa's labor laws.

IN ANOTHER apparent protest over emergency rule, thousands of black students boycotted the reopening of school after a mid-term recess following President Pieter Botha's imposition of strict rules to control campus political activity.

Botha declared state-of-emergency rule June 12, granting authorities sweeping powers of arrest and detention and placing severe restrictions on the domestic and foreign press in a bid to quell intensifying racial unrest.

More than 2,000 people, the overwhelming majority of them black, have been killed since violent demonstrations against the white-minority government's policies of racial separation, known as apartheid, erupted in September 1984.

An estimated 4,500 people — including hundreds of labor leaders — reportedly have been arrested during the emergency.

Labor and industry officials said the strike, billed as a "day of action" against the emergency, fell short of walk-outs on May Day and on the anniversary of the June 16, 1976, Soweto uprising.

LABOR LEADERS learned Monday that Elijah Barayi, head of the federation that called the strike, was released from police detention. He was barred from attending meetings and his movements were restricted, said Marcel Golding, spokesman for the National Union of Mineworkers.

The mine workers union, the largest trade union in the 650,000-member federation, said protest strikes affected at least four coal mines feeding power stations in Transvaal province.

The independent Labour Monitoring Group said about 20 percent of workers did not report at Cosatu-organized factories in Transvaal province.

South African enrollment at UI increases

By Michael O'Connor
Staff Writer

The increasing enrollment of black South Africans at the UI is due to the inferior quality of education blacks are offered in their home nation, UI foreign student advisor Theresa Ganglhassemouei said Monday.

The UI, aided by support agencies, has been able to aid some black South Africans by offering full-tuition scholarships, she said.

But blacks who hope to receive a degree from a South African university face transportation and housing restrictions, she said.

ONE BLACK South African UI graduate student who spoke with The Daily Iowan on the condition that he not be identified said colleges designated for blacks in South Africa are inferior to the colleges designated for whites.

"At these colleges, white professors do not intend to give blacks a quality education," he said. "If they did, it would make blacks able to compete for jobs with white South Africans."

Even though he is far from South Africa, he said it would be dangerous for him and his family if his name were associated with negative remarks about the Pretoria regime.

"It would be difficult because black South African students in the U.S. are kept an eye on," he said.

"Students who have plans to return back to South Africa must be very careful about what they do in the U.S.," he said. "If you are not careful, family members could suddenly be imprisoned."

Ganglhassemouei agreed. "THOSE STUDENTS who are going to return have to watch their actions while they are in the United States," she said. "Their actions can have repercussions."

But Eli Bitzer, first secretary of South Africa's Washington D.C. embassy, credits the increase in black South African enrollment in U.S. universities to the scholarships blacks are offered, not discontent with his country's government.

The need for black South Africans to attend school in the United States should begin to decrease, Bitzer said. "The possibilities for blacks are increasing day by day in South Africa," he said.

But because blacks have faced years of segregation in South African higher education, the change towards equal education for all South Africans will not occur instantly, he said.

"Obviously there is a tremendous backlog in the educational process," he said. "We will not take care of it overnight."

Klan, neo-Nazi conference greeted by opposing rallies

HAYDEN LAKE, Idaho (UPI) — Ku Klux Klan, neo-Nazi and other hate-group leaders promoted their goal of forming a whites-only nation in the Northwest during a weekend conference but ran into opposition from area residents.

The estimated 250 to 300 white supremacists attending the meeting at the Aryan Nations Church were outnumbered about 4-to-1 by opponents who gathered 15 miles away in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

Aryan Nations Church founder Richard Butler predicted an eventual victory for his followers and pointed to the dozen children at his gathering as the white-supremacist movement's future leaders.

"No matter how hard you try to suppress it, the youth suck it up like a sponge," Butler said of his belief that white Christians are a superior race and should have their own homeland in what are now the states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming.

SPEECH AFTER SPEECH at the Coeur d'Alene rally, however, promoted human rights.

In an unprecedented region-wide statement denouncing neo-Nazis, nearly 180 Northwest city councils and county commissions representing 3.9 million people sent resolutions to the human-rights rally, attended by more than 1,000 people.

In addition, the governors of Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Montana sent proclamations to the human-rights rally, where signs were posted saying, "The Northwest is for everyone."

But at the Aryan Nations compound, the racists criticized the human-rights rally organizers, accusing them of bringing minorities to the Northwest against the wishes of the region's residents. For the past six months the Aryan Nations Church has promoted the goal of a whites-only nation in the Northwest.

"If the government can't keep the Mexicans out, we can," said Bill Albers of Modesto, Calif. Albers said he was the Klan's imperial wizard of California and several other states.

"I've got 200 Klansmen down there in Modesto who, if they gave us the authority, they'd have to rename the Rio Grande the 'Rio Bloody,'" said Albers, a truck driver who wore a black Klan robe and hat.

Ku Klux Klan members stand in front of a burning cross as white supremacist groups meet for a weekend conference at the Aryan Nations compound at Hayden Lake, Idaho.

Convicted spy faces two life sentences

LOS ANGELES — Richard Miller, the only FBI agent ever convicted of espionage, was sentenced Monday to two life prison terms plus another 50 years and fined $80,000 for spying for the Soviet Union in exchange for sex and the promise of cash and gold.

The former counterintelligence agent was punished for turning over a classified spying manual to his lover, convicted Soviet spy Svetlana Ogorodnikova.

Miller, 49, told U.S. District Judge David Kenyon, "I did not commit these crimes. I never intended to injure my country or benefit the Soviet Union."

Thatcher agrees to meet Gorbachev

LONDON — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher received a message from Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev on arms control Monday and accepted an invitation to visit Moscow.

Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze delivered the message and extended the invitation during a meeting with Thatcher at 10 Downing St.

A spokesman said the contents of Gorbachev's message concerned arms control and that Thatcher would respond to it in "due course." The contents of the message were not disclosed.

The spokesman said Thatcher "warmly received" the invitation to visit Moscow and that she accepted it in principle while both sides work out acceptable dates.

New rioting erupts in Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Gangs of masked men wielding axes and cudgels smashed Catholic homes, gunmen shot two people and Protestants attacked police Monday during rioting in Northern Ireland.

Police said 187 people — 128 of them police officers — were injured and 81 homes, most of them owned by Catholics, were attacked or threatened during the past weekend.

Militant Catholics in Northern Ireland have been waging a bloody campaign to end British rule in the province and reunite it with predominately Catholic Ireland. Radical Protestants, who outnumber Catholics in Northern Ireland, are fighting to retain British rule.

Israel shuns inquiry into Arab deaths

JERUSALEM — A divided Israeli Cabinet rejected a recommendation Monday for a government inquiry into the 1984 killings of two captured Arab hijackers, opting instead for a secret police probe.

The Cabinet voted 14-11 against Attorney General Yosef Harish's recommendation of a government inquiry.

The vote came one day before the government was to explain to the Supreme Court why it had not ordered an investigation in the case. Cabinet Secretary Yossi Beilin said Harish would tell the court Tuesday he is ordering a secret police probe into the case involving the Shin Bet security service, the Israeli equivalent of the FBI.

Vietnam appoints new party leader

BANGKOK, Thailand — President Truong Chinh Monday won a "unanimous" election as Vietnamese Communist Party leader, replacing the late Le Duan in the most powerful position in the country, official Radio Hanoi reported.

The election of the 79-year-old head of state combined the presidency and party leadership for the first time since the death of Ho Chi Minh in 1969 and appeared to indicate a desire for continuity among Vietnamese officials.

Prime Minister Pham Van Dong, 80, remains as head of the government. The Communist Party leader has traditionally been the most powerful position in Vietnam.

American artists receive recognition

WASHINGTON — Marian Anderson, who overcame racial barriers to become one of the world's greatest contraltos, was honored with 11 other artists and patrons of American culture Monday as recipients of the National Medal of Arts.

President Ronald Reagan praised Anderson and the other award winners for "crowning our nation's greatness with grace" during a White House luncheon missed by six of the elderly recipients.

Other recipients included film director Frank Capra, 89; composer Aaron Copland, 85; abstract expressionist Willem de Kooning, 82; and the Exxon corporation for its support of public television.

Professor's death deemed 'a tragedy'

By Julie Eisele
City Editor

The carbon monoxide poisoning death of a UI associate professor has been ruled a suicide, according to Johnson County Medical Examiner T.T. Bozek.

Howard W. Dedmon, 48, associate professor in the UI College of Dentistry, was discovered dead in a van in his family's garage Saturday afternoon.

"It's a personal loss and a professional tragedy for the department," said Dan Hall, head of the Family Dentistry division, where Dedmon was involved in direct patient care.

"He was one of our most competent persons in planning and diagnostic treatment. It will be very difficult shoes to fill," Hall said.

Hall and James McLeran, dean of the College of Dentistry, will deliver a eulogy at services for Dedmon today. Services will be held at 10 a.m. at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church.

Officials said a letter written by Dedmon that indicated he planned to take his life was discovered in the family's kitchen.

DEDMON RECEIVED a number of awards and recognitions at the UI, including Teacher of the Year award from the senior dental class in 1985, Humanitarian Instructor award in 1983 and Instructor of the Year Award in 1982. He was awarded a fellowship in the Academy of General Dentistry in 1983 and was inducted into the Omicron Kappa Upsilon dental honorary fraternity in 1986.

During his career at the UI, Dedmon contributed numerous articles to abstracts and professional journals both in Iowa and across the nation.

Dedmon moved to Iowa City in 1974 from Davenport, where he was in private dental practice for 10 years. He received his bachelor's degree from Texas Christian University in 1960, his doctorate in dentistry from the UI in 1964, and his master's degree in removable prosthodontics from the UI in 1977.

He is survived by his wife, Mary; three daughters; his mother; a brother, stepdaughter and a stepson.

The death remains under routine investigation by the Iowa City Police Department.

Five residents reported to Iowa City police during the weekend that their car stereos were stolen from their cars. Four of the thefts took place outside the residents' homes.

Kirby Tenhulzen, 920 S. Dodge St., told officers a stereo system worth $400 was stolen from his car sometime Sunday night; Jeff Gilles, 324 N. Lucas St., reported a radio and cassette player, valued at $150 was lifted from his vehicle over the weekend; Andrew Brosing, 1106 Hotz Ave., reported a stereo booster worth $100 was stolen from his car overnight Sunday; and Thais Dorland, 1134 Hotz Ave., told officers a $250 stereo system was stolen sometime Sunday night.

Also, Steve Steine, 218 1/2 N.

Lucas St., told officers a $400 stereo system was taken from his car while the vehicle was parked in his garage Saturday.

The report: Patrick Murphy, 303 N. Riverside Drive, told UI Campus Security officers his 10-speed bicycle, worth $215, was stolen while it was parked outside Daum Residence Hall Thursday.

Thomas Bernard Hartman, no address listed, made an initial appearance in Johnson County District Court Monday on charges of second-degree burglary and possession of burglary tools.

Hartman was arrested by Coralville police Monday after he was seen inside a pickup truck and allegedly altered the truck's wiring system "in an attempt to start the truck without a key," court documents state.

The incident occurred outside Bryant's Truck Service Center, 120 E. Ninth St., Coralville. Documents state the truck's owner apprehended Hartman near the scene. Hartman was also charged with possession of burglary tools after police discovered a scissors and flashlight in his possession.

Hartman was being held in the Johnson County Jail in lieu of $10,000. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for July 22.

A man accused of assaulting a woman in her UI dormitory room pleaded guilty to simple assault in Johnson County District Court Monday.

Leonard T. Keelan, 23, of Evanston, Ill., formerly of Iowa City, was sentenced to seven days in the Johnson County Jail. Keelan was given credit for seven days already served.

The charge was made on Jan. 18, 1985, when Keelan allegedly struck a woman in her Quad Residence Hall dormitory room. The woman was treated for facial cuts.

Keelan failed to appear in court for the charge in March, 1985, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. He was arrested July 29 on a separate charge of third-degree sexual abuse.

Student fee budget goes to regents

By Dana Cohen
Staff Writer

UI officials will present the mandatory student fee budget proposal to the state Board of Regents later this week, after more than a month of dispute with student government leaders.

The recommendation proposes mandatory student fees — which are divided into three categories — including student activities, student services and building fees — undergo a 7 percent increase from last year.

The increase, raising the fee from $53.10 to $55.27 per student per semester, will be allocated into only the first two categories of the fee budget. Building fees, which support the Union renovation, the Arena/Recreation project, and the UI Recreation Building, will remain the same.

UI VICE PRESIDENT for Finance Dorsey Ellis said while the budget increase will force cuts in other areas, he is pleased a compromise has finally been reached.

"I am very glad we were finally able to reach a resolution over what the university could recommend to the student leaders," Ellis said.

"I know they are not satisfied, but I feel we have gone the extra mile," he said.

While Ellis said increasing the fee budget will not require a large amount of money to be sacrificed from other areas, "If you take money out and use it for one purpose you can't use it for other purposes."

"We're counting our pennies now," he said. "They're coming out of the instructional budget."

Money for items such as supplies, classroom equipment and building repairs may be reduced because money will not be available, he added.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT leaders also were forced to make shifts in their budgets to make up for a $4.40 per student allocation given to UI Student Health Services in past years, which was instead distributed among other organizations in a preliminary budget proposed to the UI administration last spring.

The clinic was left out of the fee budget because an additional fee of about $25 per student was expected to be passed by the regents.

But the fee was deferred, leaving Student Health underfunded and student government with the responsibility of forming a new budget to include funding for the clinic.

UI Collegiate Associations Council President Mike Reck said a $1.44 per student per semester fee to form a Student Commission on Programming and Entertainment reserve fund was eliminated in the new budget.

The fund was created last spring to eliminate the cost of hiring concert promoters to cover SCOPE's debts, transferring that responsibility to student senate.

WHILE EARLIER this summer Reck said the budget could not be changed without the consent of the Joint Committee on Mandatory Student Fees, which voted on the preliminary budget, he said student government had no choice but to make the budgetary changes.

"It was an emergency decision," Reck said. "It was forced upon us."

The money from the fund will be allocated to student senate as an increase in its budget from last year, Reck said.

Allocations from the 7 percent increase in the budget will go to The Daily Iowan, the Lecture Committee, Recreation Services, KRUI and CAC.

Reck said while SCOPE will not be included in the mandatory student fee budget, the senate can still decide to allocate money to the organization next fall.

Supervisors study self-insurance plan

By Carol Monaghan
Staff Writer

The high costs of liability insurance have forced the Johnson County Board of Supervisors to consider "self-insurance" after the county's insurance company issued a cancellation on police protection coverage.

Supervisors were advised to "go bare" last week after their previous coverage plan was discontinued by Imperial Casualty Insurance of Omaha, Neb., because of rising costs.

Estimates for similar coverage, if even available to the county, have skyrocketed to a premium of nearly $35,000 a year.

Johnson County Attorney J. Patrick White said the inaccessibility of insurance may be an opportunity for the county to consider funding its own protection.

"I am not particularly concerned about the lack of this insurance," White said. "This may be an ideal time to talk about self-insurance."

White recommended the county establish a reserve to cover the costs of cases filed in the future. That amount — $35,000 — is equal to the sum the county would be forced to pay to receive future coverage.

THE COUNTY paid only $11,000 in premiums last year for police protection insurance, said Robert Alderman, an independent insurance agent who also works as a consultant for the county. He also told supervisors last week that only a few companies in the country would offer the county police protection insurance.

Police protection insurance covers the costs of lawsuits filed against the county in connection with arrests and detentions of citizens made by the Johnson County Sheriff's Department and the Johnson County Jail.

Many counties are being denied coverage, Alderman said. Six cancellations were issued for other Iowa counties earlier this month and seven last month, all within a two-week period, he said.

OFFICIALS SAID the county has been named in very few police protection lawsuits in the past.

"I have never had more than four cases per year," White said.

Three police protection cases against the county are currently under litigation, he said. The most recent payment made in connection with one such suit was in 1984 when the county settled a false arrest case for $1,000.

"Hopefully the benefits would off-set the risks" if the county does decide to "go bare," said board member Betty Ockenfels.

The county may also expand its self-coverage into other areas of liability to save on premium costs.

"I think it's a very attractive idea," White said. "It may be wise to look into self-insurance in a number of other areas that could save the county money."

BUT ALDERMAN said there are sometimes problems with self-insurance that the board needs to consider before it reaches a decision.

"Self-insurance may present huge problems in the future," he said. Alderman said it is difficult to generalize about the types of potential problems and that difficulties vary from case to case.

Self-insurance does not necessarily mean the county must bear the full brunt of a six-figure lawsuit. Several local and state governments, including the state of Iowa, have self-retention coverage. Individual governments bear the costs to an extent but are covered by "umbrella insurance" in case of catastrophe.

"Johnson County has been particularly fortunate and very lucky," Alderman said. "This is the first time they have been on the negative side of a decision. Many other cities are in much worse shape."

Tree stands or falls on zoning decision

By Robyn R. Wright
Staff Writer

Members of a local fraternity have asked the Iowa City Council to amend a city zoning ordinance that requires 24 parking spaces be available for fraternity members.

The measure would spare the removal of an 85-year-old tree in order to create the four needed parking spaces. Both council and fraternity members hoped to reach an agreement that would allow the tree to stand.

Steve Grubbs, assistant house manager for the Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity, 711 S. Burlington St., told councilors at Monday's informal meeting that one solution to the situation is to build parking spaces on an adjacent lot.

"According to my measurements, we could just put the parking spaces on the next lot, which we also own. But there seems to be some question by the council about my measurements," Grubbs said. According to another city regulation, the city owns about three feet of ground on either side of the sidewalk, which Grubbs did not account for.

THE PROPOSED amendment would eliminate the phrase "physical limitation" from the ordinance because it is ambiguous. The amendment also states that as many additional parking spaces must be provided as the lot will accommodate. But city regulations also specify that no tree having a minimum diameter of 10 inches measured at 4 feet above ground be required to be removed.

"There really is a problem with parking in that neighborhood, and the parking spaces are needed," Councilor Larry Baker said. "We'd like to try and work on this thing with them."

But Grubbs said other city regulations further complicate the fraternity's situation. If the tree is removed, fraternity members must plant new trees in places specified by the city.

The council will give consideration to the ordinance tonight during its formal session.

Some local stores react to tampering

By Susan Stoga
Staff Writer

After a week of tampering scares across the nation involving Jell-O gelatin, Slice soft drinks and Aquafresh toothpaste, some area merchants have removed the items while others continue to sell the merchandise.

The past week has revealed product tampering scares in many parts of the nation — including sugar-free Jell-O in Chicago and Atlanta, Slice soda in New York and Aquafresh toothpaste in Washington D.C.

Officials from the Johnson County Health Department said they have not received word of local product tampering and will not alert merchants until mandated by the Iowa State Health Department.

BUT SOME LOCAL merchants routinely remove the items from stock whenever tampering incidents are reported in other regions.

"We have been instructed by Osco itself to hold onto tampered products like Jell-O just in case," Dave Carlson, assistant manager for Osco Drug in the Old Capitol Mall, said.

Carlson said the company is in the process of removing all Jell-O products from the store, although the reported scare involves only sugar-free gelatin and was reported in the Chicago area.

"We decided to take that precaution just in case," he said.

But John Combs, manager of HyVee Food Store, 1201 N. Dodge St., said the store does not usually remove suspected items unless notified by the manufacturer. Since contamination scares first began in 1982, Combs said his store has only removed products manufactured by the Bristol Myers corporation and capsules made by several major companies.

"WE HAVEN'T PAID much attention to the rumors unless a manufacturer notifies us," Combs said. He added that local reports on contaminated lot numbers are often incorrect and the "only sure way" is to check with the distributor.

"Merchants usually notify us by telegram to make sure we have all the information straight," said Doug Wrenn, a pharmacist at Drugtown, 521 Hollywood Blvd. "We have not heard anything from the manufacturer concerning Aquafresh, Jell-O or Slice."

Combs said he would rather wait for a manufacturer's notification than prematurely remove the products because consumers may be reassured by the act.

"We have a few customers that question about the safety of a product (after reported tamperings), but who can blame them," Combs said. "It's a never-ending battle and the innocent are the ones who suffer."

Area merchants say they take the extra precautions of checking incoming shipments whenever tampering incidents have been reported.

Merchants advise consumers to be aware of products when shopping. Items with damaged packaging or containers should be avoided. Consumers should also be alert for unusual odors or discoloration of products. If an item appears tainted, individuals should return the merchandise to the store where it was purchased.

UI dorms may soon get cable

By Dan McClain
Staff Writer

Students living in UI Residence Halls may be able to purchase cable television service as early as next spring under a $419,700 plan to be submitted to the state Board of Regents this week.

UI Director of Broadcasting Services George Klingler said the basic system that will provide cable TV service to every residence hall and married student housing unit could be in place by next spring. Students living in married student housing may be able to receive cable service as early as October, he said.

"It's really hard to tell at this point," Klingler said. "But we hope to have this thing up and running as soon as possible."

Klingler warned that a number of factors, including the weather and the availability of cable equipment, could delay the system's installation.

THE REGENTS are expected to approve the UI plan, which calls for the installation of a cable system capable of carrying both educational programming originating on campus and entertainment programming bought from Heritage Cablevision, the local cable television franchise.

Under the proposal, the UI would purchase entertainment programming from Heritage Cablevision and then resell the service to student subscribers. Subscription to the service would be optional.

Klingler said the UI has received a preliminary proposal from Heritage Cablevision and that service could possibly be sold to students at or below the subscription rate paid by private users in Iowa City. The final rate paid by students will ultimately depend on the number of students who subscribe to the service, he said.

"We believe from what we hear that there is an interest among students for cable service," Klingler said.

A UI DOCUMENT provided to the regents reported that 48 percent of the rooms in Mayflower Residence Hall took cable services last year. Mayflower was equipped with a cable system at the time the building was purchased by the UI, but will have to have the new system installed as well to enable rooms to receive on-campus programming.

The proposal provides for the extension of the system's backbone coaxial cable to residence halls and married student housing, installation of necessary wiring to provide transmissions to individual rooms, and modification of the building master antenna system to cable TV standards.

Spanish bombing leaves eight dead

MADRID (UPI) — A bomb planted in a van by suspected Basque separatists exploded early Monday, killing eight Civil Guard cadets on a passing bus and wounding at least 61 other people.

Authorities believed the attack — the worst by suspected Basque terrorists since 1974 — was in retaliation for France's expulsion of the Basque's reputed commander.

The explosives in the delivery van blew up as the paramilitary Civil Guard bus carrying some 50 cadets wound through early-morning traffic near a square in an elegant Madrid residential district.

The cadets, students at the Civil Guard Traffic School, were on their way to a highway patrol training course when the blast occurred at 7:48 a.m. Four of the cadets were killed in the explosion, two were reported dead on arrival at a hospital and two more died within an hour of the attack.

HOSPITAL SOURCES said at least 61 people, including several cadets riding in a second bus, were injured in the explosion. Thirty-nine people, five of them in very serious condition, remained hospitalized, the sources said.

"I saw a body blown out of a green bus," said a housewife who was struck by flying shrapnel. "It looked like a jacket flapping but it was a person."

The blast destroyed 10 storefronts, including a coffee shop, a bank and a car showroom, as well as the entrance to a subway station. Five cars were gutted by fire.

Authorities said the bomb, containing about 100 pounds of plastic explosives, was planted in the van by suspected Basque separatists from the group ETA, the Basque-language acronym for Basque Homeland and Liberty, and was triggered by remote control.

AUTHORITIES SAID they believed the attack was the work of ETA's Madrid-based "Spain commando," which killed five civil guardsmen April 25 a few hours after France announced the arrest of the group's alleged military leader, Domingo "Txomin" Iturbe Abasolo.

Monday's attack may have been in retaliation for Iturbe's expulsion Saturday from France to Gabon, a former French colony in west Africa, authorities said. Iturbe was suspected of masterminding the ETA's terrorist campaign while in exile in France.

ETA terrorism has killed more than 500 people, most of them security and military forces, since the start of its armed campaign for the independence of Spain's three northern Basque provinces 17 years ago.

Palestinian targets attacked by Israel

AITAT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli warplanes attacked Palestinian military targets in Lebanon Monday for the second time in four days, killing at least four people and wounding 11, authorities said.

The raids apparently were in retaliation for increased guerrilla attacks inside Israel.

Security sources said four Kfeir and four U.S.-made F-16 jets attacked the Palestinian positions in the villages of Baysour, Aitat, Ainab and Schemlan in the Druze-held Shouf mountains, 12 miles southeast of Beirut.

Police said the Israeli strike killed two Palestinians, two militiamen from the pro-Syrian Druze Progressive Socialist Party and wounded 11 people, six of them Palestinian.

The jets pounded bases from the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, led by George Habash; the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, led by Nayef Hawatmeh; and two bases of the Palestinian National Salvation Front, a Syrian-backed alliance.

In Tel Aviv, a spokesman for the Israeli Defense Forces said, "Israeli air force planes struck at terrorist bases this morning. All our planes returned safely to base and the pilots reported accurate hits on their targets."

The Israeli spokesman said several of the buildings damaged during the attack "contained targets of pro-Syrian terrorist organizations."

THE RAIDS CAME amid increased guerrilla activity in Druze militiamen inspect a bombed-out car after an Israeli air raid.

Israel and in the "security zone" set up by Israel in southern Lebanon following the withdrawal of the bulk of its forces from Lebanon in 1985.

Israel invaded Lebanon in June 1982 in a bid to drive the Palestine Liberation Organization from Lebanon. Palestinian guerrillas are returning to southern Lebanon in large numbers, creating unease in Israel.

Six of the jets provided cover for the strike Monday while the other two fired rockets at the base for 15 minutes. Windows shattered for 200 yards and fires erupted in the densely wooded area.

"A four-story building was totally destroyed," said a resident of Ainab. "All we saw was a huge fire and a lot of dust and glass shattered all around us."

Deficit may exceed $10 billion in 1987

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Budget director James Miller forecast Monday the 1987 deficit will be at least $10 billion over the Gramm-Rudman Balanced Budget Act limit and House Speaker Thomas O'Neill predicted Congress will cut spending to comply.

Miller, in a briefing for reporters, said the August projection of the fiscal 1987 deficit will be at least $10 billion — and perhaps as much as $20 billion — higher than the Gramm-Rudman requirement of $144 billion, enough to trigger a new round of cuts.

Such cuts were supposed to be automatic this fall under Gramm-Rudman, but the Supreme Court last week threw out the mechanism, requiring Congress to make the cuts.

"The deficit looks worse, not better," Miller said at a briefing for reporters, saying economic growth in fiscal 1986 will not meet the 4 percent rate the administration expected, though he expects it to pick up in fiscal 1987.

THE SUPREME COURT also invalidated $11.7 billion in 1986 spending, forcing Congress to ratify those cuts as well. O'Neill predicted Congress would ratify the 1986 cuts and set to work on a procedure.

"We ought to go along with the earlier cuts made in the '86 budget," O'Neill said. "It's been completed and I don't think we ought to go back and undo it."

Senate GOP leader Robert Dole of Kansas said the Senate would "wait for the House" before moving on the March cuts.

Ratification of the fiscal 1986 spending cuts is almost a given, but any additional cuts for fiscal 1987 are far less certain. The extra cuts, if they are necessary, would have to be made just before the November elections and President Ronald Reagan also would have to approve them.

THE SUPREME COURT ruled the Gramm-Rudman method under which the $11.7 billion cuts were made, was invalid because it relied on the comptroller general, a legislative officer, to make the reductions instead of an executive branch official. The court said Congress must vote for the cuts instead.

James Miller

Gramm-Rudman requires that the deficit be kept under strict decreasing limits for five years until the budget is balanced by 1991. The fiscal 1987 budget approved by Congress last month was drawn to meet the $144 billion fiscal 1987 deficit target, but weak economic growth and shaky budget assumptions could require further painful budget reductions this fall.

"Rather than being $10 billion optimistic, I'm $10 billion, or more, pessimistic," Miller said. He said the numbers were preliminary, but based on the best information he has now. "I think it will be at least $10 billion higher for fiscal 1987."

O'NEILL SAID the additional cuts required to bring the deficit down to $144 billion "have a better chance of passing the House than the Senate," although he said the additional cuts could pass the Senate too.

"I think the president would sign anything of that nature that reaches his desk," he said.

There have been wide concerns that not only would Congress fail to further cut the budget, but that Reagan also would be opposed to anything that would lower military spending.

Miller outlined a loophole that could allow both the Congress and the president to save face. Congress could pass a resolution with extra cuts and Reagan could sign it, but before it was implemented, Congress might find savings in other areas or pass delayed bills.

Accordianist performs with local band

By Eric Morlock
Staff Writer

THE DAZZLING accordion interpretations of Gayle Holland highlighted Sunday afternoon's Iowa City Community Band performance at College Green Park.

Holland graduated from Mt. Mercy College in 1982 with degrees in both nursing and accordion performance. Speaking from her home in Cedar Rapids, Holland elaborated on her rather unique educational background.

"At first I looked at the accordion as a relief from my nursing studies," Holland said. "Eventually I realized that I had enough background in accordion to pursue both interests. Then I was told I could never complete the double major in four year's time. You might say I wanted to prove them wrong." Holland is one of only three Iowa students to have earned a degree in accordion.

Her musical skills have taken Holland all over the world, including a tour of Europe in 1979. "I visited Germany, Italy and Austria," she said, recalling the latter country with particular fondness.

Music

"IN AUSTRIA I was able to tour the factory where they make Titano accordions." Holland, who now owns a Titano, said the instrument is considered to be one of the world's finest, with a current value roughly equivalent to that of a good-sized car.

A master of her instrument, Holland is understandably impatient with the stereotypes commonly attached to the accordion.

"Most people don't realize that the accordion can play other things besides polka music," she said. "In fact, the accordion can be adapted for most anything the piano can play — Bach, Haydn, Beethoven — all the major classical composers."

In the contemporary accordion literature, Holland listed composers Palmer and Hughes as her favorites. Among the virtuoso performers, Myron Florin was singled out. "You can't deny his influence — especially technically," Holland said.

Anyone hearing Holland's recent performance may have felt that Myron Florin already has a successor.

HOLLAND PLAYED all eight variations of J.P. Arban's classic "Carnival of Venice" Sunday. While written originally for trumpet, this composition has been successfully transcribed for a variety of solo instruments. To achieve the desired effects, Holland employed an extraordinary "triple-shaking" technique, in which the accordion box is shaken in rapid successions of triplets. This is considered one of the most difficult feats in accordion playing.

Besides the "Carnival of Venice," the Community Band played a number of other interesting pieces, including the "American Overture" by Joseph Jenkins, Alfred Reed's symphonic prelude on "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair," and two lively "regional" numbers — "The Southerner," by Russell Alexander and "Suite of Old American Dances," by R.R. Bennett.

The band was conducted by Alan Stang, who is a registered representative with the Iowa City division of financial services.

Hollywood discovers Chaplin outtakes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two film producers stepped into a vault and accidentally stumbled upon one of the most amazing caches in the history of cinema — forgotten outtakes, abandoned films and even home movies by Charlie Chaplin.

David Gill and Kevin Brownlow, film historians from London, were in the process of making the critically acclaimed television series, "Hollywood: The Silent Years," when they made the discovery.

The footage, which offers an unprecedented look into the workings of the screen's foremost clown, was shaped into a three-part American Masters presentation, "Unknown Chaplin." It makes its U.S. broadcast premiere in (parts two and three will air July 21 and 28 on PBS).

MUCH OF CHAPLIN'S work was believed destroyed because he jealously guarded his ideas and was concerned that people were out to steal his genius.

But Gill and Brownlow got an indication the films still existed when they wrote Chaplin while he was still living to see if they could use some of his works. "We didn't get any response for six months and then we got a call from his business manager," said Gill. "She said, 'I'm in London at our vault. If you care to come over we'll look.'"

Gill jumped at the chance and went to meet the business manager.

"It was a normal commercial vault just outside London. There were these rows of shiny film cans with all these titles you'd expect to see — The Kid, City Lights, The Gold Rush," said Gill.

"Then we noticed on the floor just inside were other piles of cans not quite so shiny with labels like The Professor and How to Make Movies," Gill continued. "None of these titles made any sense."

"WE ASKED HER about them and she said, 'Oh, that's nothing. They are things he did for amusement or things he put aside because he thought they were nothing of value,'" Gill said. "We picked up some of them and trumped off to the viewing theater with seven or eight cans. The very first roll of film that came up was the opening scene from City Lights yet it wasn't the opening scene. It was an out-take. "We sat in this darkness absolutely stunned."

After Chaplin's death, Gill and Brownlow wrote Chaplin's wife, Lady Oona O'Neill Chaplin, and pleaded for permission to use the material.

"We persuaded her that the material was bigger than all of us, like finding notes of da Vinci or fragments of a new symphony by Beethoven," Gill said. "She gave us permission. Chaplin was dead. He never would have allowed it." Narrated by the late James Mason, "Unknown Chaplin" is divided into three one-hour segments. Part one, "My Happiest Years," covers the period Chaplin spent with the Mutual Film Company.

The program shows how Chaplin worked with no script, and had only a vague concept of what the movie was to be about. He developed his story with the cameras rolling.

CHAPLIN EMERGES as an improviser and perfectionist in part two, "The Great Dictator," covering the period after Mutual in which he built his own studio and concentrated on quality, not quantity.

For City Limits, Chaplin spent 83 days to shoot a simple sequence, the meeting of the "little tramp" and the blind flower girl. Chaplin spent 62 of the days thinking over the scene while the company waited, on salary.

Part three, "Hidden Treasures," features home movies, films Chaplin shot for his own pleasure, abandoned projects and sequences cut from famous films.

"The discovery, for both of us, was the highpoint of our lives," Gill said.

Trudeau faces dismissal by Colts

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Jack Trudeau, the University of Illinois quarterback selected by Indianapolis in the NFL draft, must sign a contract by the start of training camp Friday or he probably will not be signed, Colts owner Bob Irsay said.

"Friday at 4:30, if Trudeau hasn't signed a contract, his chances of coming on this team this year are about 10 percent," Irsay told the Indianapolis News.

Trudeau's agent, Cleveland-based Greg Lustig, has said Trudeau will either sign by Friday or sit out a year and wait for another NFL draft. Signing with a USFL team is also a possibility, Lustig said.

"Let him go back in the draft next year. He'll be in the 12th round," Irsay said.

Irsay said if Trudeau is not signed, he will seek another quarterback for the team, which already has veteran Gary Hogeboom, Matt Kofler and Blair Kiel.

Irsay said Trudeau wants a $3 million contract package, while Lustig says the figure offered by Irsay is not even half of that figure.

Esposito comes home to 'run' Rangers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Phil Esposito, one of the great goal scorers in NHL history, was appointed Vice President and General Manager of the New York Rangers Monday, ending his long wait for a chance to run his former team.

The 44-year-old Hall of Fame center, who retired from the Rangers in 1981 after 18 years in the NHL, will replace Craig Patrick, whose grandfather, Lester, was the Rangers' first coach and general manager.

Patrick, who had managed the team for six years, learned he was being replaced by reading the story in a local newspaper Wednesday morning. The official announcement was made by team president Jack Krumpal at an afternoon press conference in Madison Square Garden.

Esposito, whose 717 goals (873 assists) place him second among career goal scorers, made hard work his trademark as a player. He vowed to bring the same trait to his new job.

"I'm not going to be behind the bench or on the ice but I'm going to be there; the fans will know I'm trying, I'm gonna be trying my tail off," Esposito said.

"They'll say he's doing a pretty good job the first year — 'a pretty good job' — then I want to do a great job the second year, then a fantastic job the third year, a tremendous, colossal job the fourth year... I hope there's a progression. I want to bring Stanley Cup winners to New York."

Polynice kicked off Virginia squad

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — The University of Virginia has rescinded the athletic scholarship of basketball center Olden Polynice, who was convicted last week of shoplifting, athletic director Dick Schultz said today.

Schultz said the decision to cancel the scholarship was directly related to Polynice's conviction last Thursday in Charlottesville General District Court.

Polynice, the leading scorer and rebounder for the Cavaliers the last two seasons, received a 30-day suspended sentence for stealing a $16.97 set of stereo headphones from a department store.

"He can appeal that decision to the financial aid office," said Schultz.

Schultz said Polynice was receiving about $6,500 a year. If the 6-foot-11 senior returns to the university as he said he would, he could apply for financial aid based on need.

School officials said he would qualify for an amount equal to his athletic scholarship.

U.S. keeps hopes of the gold alive

OVIEDO, Spain (UPI) — The United States displayed a strong defense and Yugoslavia demonstrated an overpowering offense as each scored semifinal victories Monday night at the 10th World Basketball Championships.

The two top-rated teams at Oviedo will meet Tuesday night when the semifinals round will be completed.

Yugoslavia, 7-0, defeated Italy 102-76, shooting 65 percent from the floor and assured itself a spot among the four teams to play for the gold medal in Madrid.

Brazil and the Soviet Union, victorious Monday night in semifinal games at Barcelona, Spain, clinched two other spots.

The United States, 6-1, kept its gold-medal hopes alive by beating Canada 77-65, forcing its northern neighbor to shoot just 34 percent and commit 16 turnovers.

If the United States beats Yugoslavia it will make the semifinals. A loss combined with an Argentina victory over Italy will allow the South Americans to advance. If both teams win, the United States advances by virtue of a better record.

The Americans won Monday night despite center David Robinson being called for five fouls in just 11:42 of playing time. He finished with 3 points.

Charles Smith led the United States with 18 points and Derrick McKey and Steve Kerr added 15 each, Kerr hitting 4 three-pointers.

Geddes claims women's Open playoff

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — Jane Geddes won the 41st Women's U.S. Open Championship Monday, shooting a 1-under par 71 on the NCR Country Club course to claim her first professional title by two shots over Sally Little in an 18-hole playoff.

Geddes, trailing by three strokes after eight holes, became the 11th player in history to make a U.S. Open the site of her first professional tournament triumph. Kathy Baker also made the U.S. Open her first title a year ago.

Geddes took control on the 323-yard par-4 15th when she broke a tie with a 5-foot birdie putt. She then went up by two shots when the veteran Little, seeking her first win since 1982, bogeyed the par-3 15th.

GEDDES, 26, who didn't take up golf until she was 17, gave half of her 2-shot lead back when she bogeyed the 16th hole with a drive into the rough, but Little returned the favor when she bogeyed 17. Both players bogeyed the final hole. Geddes a native of Huntington, N.Y., and a Florida State University graduate, earned $50,000 for the playoff win, which came after the two players finished 72 holes of regulation play Sunday at 1-under par 287.

Little, a 14-time winner on the LPGA Tour, received $25,000 for her second place finish.

Geddes made the turn in 1-under par 35, while Little, who led by three shots going to the eighth hole, had an even par 36.

Little, her short iron game working brilliantly, birdied three consecutive holes on the front side after Geddes had taken the early lead with a 15-foot birdie putt on the par-3 second hole.

AFTER GEDDES 3-putted the third hole for a bogey to even the match, Little rolled in 3-foot birdie putts on both the fourth and fifth holes and a 4-footer on No. 6. That put her at 3-under par and three shots in front of Geddes.

Geddes got back to within one shot of Little when she birdied the par-3 eighth with a 10-foot putt and Little suffered her first bogey of the day when her drive caught a sand trap at the front of the green.

Geddes then moved in front on the 361-yard, par-4 ninth with a par, as Little ran into more problems with the sand, finding two more traps, and suffered a double bogey 6.

Little pulled even on the 10th hole with a 4-foot birdie putt. The two players both parred the 11th and birdied No. 12, Geddes missing a 10-foot putt for an eagle.

Geddes had to make a 20-foot putt for par on the par-3 15th after missing the green before making the tie-breaking birdie putt on 15.

NCAA uncovers violations at Bradley

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — The NCAA Monday barred the Bradley men's basketball program from post season tournaments next year for recruiting violations that included free transportation and the offer of a job for a player's father.

Bradley, which finished 32-3 last year and won an NCAA tournament game, will not be allowed to participate in post season tournaments for the 1986-87 campaign and will be restricted to on-campus recruiting for a year. The school also was placed on probation for two years.

Although the NCAA Committee on Infractions concluded that Coach Dick Versace misled NCAA investigators during the probe of the Bradley program, the university Monday

"When the available evidence clearly established that the violation had occurred, (Versace) changed his answers from, 'No,' to, 'I do not recall,' as to certain violations and persisted in his denials regarding additional violations that were found by the committee to have been committed," the NCAA Violations Committee reported.

signed the controversial coach to a one-year contract.

University President Martin Abegg said Versace signed the contract just before he left for a two-week trip to Italy. Versace will not be rehired after the end of the season, Abegg

The committee found Bradley violated rules in the recruitment of Anthony Webster of Cairo, Ill. Webster played three years at Bradley before transferring in 1984 to Southern Illinois-Edwardsville.

The committee reported that Versace "changed his story" when he appeared at an infractions committee hearing.

"When the available evidence clearly established that the violation had occurred, (Versace) changed his answers from, 'No,' to, 'I do not recall,' as to certain violations and persisted in his denials regarding additional violations that were found by the committee to have been committed," the committee reported.

USSR dominates Goodwill Gym

MOSCOW (UPI) — Gymnast Yuri Korolyov led a Soviet medal sweep in the men's individual all-around competition Monday and the Soviets captured first place in seven of 10 wrestling weight classes.

Korolyov, 23, won the all-around tournament with a total score of 117.150 points, ahead of countryman Valentin Mogilyov (116.550) and Vladimir Artyomov (116.450).

Mogilyov, 20, took second, despite a fall from the horse that caused the mostly Soviet audience to gasp. The judges gave him a 9.9 score out of a possible 10 for his performance on the parallel bars.

Korolyov held the lead throughout. The small, dark gymnast comes from Vladimir, about 125 miles east of Moscow. Teammate Artemov, 22, is also a Vladimiriite.

CHARLES LAKES, 21, was the United States' best gymnastics performer. He earned two 9.7s, one in the floor exercise and one on the parallel bars. Lakes, a student at the University of Illinois, dropped to seventh place in the final round with a total of 114.100 points. Phil Cahoy of Omaha, Neb., finished 13th with 113.300 points.

In other Goodwill events, the U.S. women's handball team suffered a 23-22 loss to Denmark. The U.S. men's team defeated Iceland 22-19.

The Soviets lead the women's team handball tournament with four points. In the men's matches, the Soviet Union and United States are tied with four points each.

In Tallinn, the capital of the Estonian Republic, the American crew of The John Kosteki took third place in the third yachting race. The Georgy Shaiduko of the Soviet Union caught the wind first, to lead the race.

But the U.S. crew still leads the competition with the Shaiduko trailing by three points.

NBC president denies USFL's court charges

NEW YORK (UPI) — Like his counterparts at ABC and CBS, NBC Sports president Arthur Watson Monday testified the NFL did not try to exert pressure on the network in its decision on whether to televise USFL games.

The NFL also called one of its executives, Green Bay Packers president Robert Parins, who contradicted USFL testimony that the NFL owners had an "understanding" that no third team would be allowed to relocate into the New York City area after the Giants and Jets moved to New Jersey.

Watson and Parins were the NFL's eighth and ninth witnesses, respectively, in its defense of antitrust claims brought by the USFL. The trial Monday moved into its 10th week in U.S. District Court in Manhattan.

THE USFL HAS contended the NFL interfered with the USFL's attempts to land a television contract after the spring league decided to move to a fall schedule by exerting pressure on the networks. The NFL has contracts in the range of $650 million with each of the three national networks.

Watson said he negotiated in 1982 with the USFL's agent for rights to broadcast USFL games before its first season while at the same time negotiating with the NFL to renew the network's contract with that league.

NBC offered a two-year contract for $16 million, but ABC won the USFL's rights with a two-year contract for $18 million and two option years.

HE SAID WHEN the USFL came back in 1984 looking for a contract to televise its games in the fall, NBC turned down the league because of the "tremendous explosion" of televised college football, the USFL's move of several of its teams out of major television markets including Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit, and "operational problems" that prevented fitting the USFL around NBC's other baseball, racing, golf and college basketball programming in the fall.

Jury sought in athletes' case

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Twenty-four hands shot into the air Tuesday in a Dane County courtroom when the prosecutor in the sexual assault case of three former University of Minnesota basketball players asked two dozen prospective jurors if they had heard or read about the case.

Because of their prior knowledge of the matter, each of the 24 people was to be questioned individually out of the presence of other potential jurors, to determine if they had formed an opinion in the matter.

Mitchell Lee and Kevin Smith, both 21, and George Williams Jr., 20, are charged with a total of 12 counts of first degree sexual assault.

A woman, who is now 19 years old, claimed the three men repeatedly raped her Jan. 24 in a Madison hotel room after a Wisconsin-Minnesota basketball game.

THEY WERE MEMBERS of the Minnesota basketball team at the time of the rape but were thrown off the team after charges were filed. Gopher Coach Jim Dutcher resigned in the wake of the incident.

The process of individually questioning the pool of potential jurors began late Monday and will continue Tuesday morning.

Fourteen jurors eventually will be chosen, including two alternates.

The bulk of the jury selection dealt with questioning of all the 24 prospective jurors at one time by the prosecutor, Dane County Assistant District Attorney Judith Hawley, and three defense attorneys.

Race was a significant element in questions posed by Minneapolis attorney Phillip Resnick, one of two attorneys representing Lee. The three defendants are black and the alleged victim is white.

RESNICK GRILLED the people about their experiences with blacks. He asked them whether they worked, lived near or socialized with blacks.

Most indicated they either had no prior contact with blacks or had no bad experiences with them.

One man was disqualified early in the proceedings because he said his feelings about race or inter-racial dating would affect his evaluation of the case.

Another woman who is still a part of the pool of potential jurors said she opposed inter-racial marriages.

Ex-Hawk receives Big Ten award

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) — Iowa quarterback Chuck Long, a runnerup for the Heisman Trophy and the 1985 most valuable player in Big Ten football, Saturday was named the Big Ten-Jesse Owens Male Athlete of the Year.

Long, the first football player to win the award, was the first-round draft pick of the Football

Detroit Lions and the 12th pick overall in the recent NFL draft and is reportedly involved in salary negotiations with the Lions and the Baltimore Stars of the United States Football League. Long's agent has said his client is open to offers from either league.

The Wheaton, Ill., native led Iowa to a school record 10-2 finish last season, the 1985 Big Ten championship and the 1986 Rose Bowl. Long completed 260 of 388 passes for 3,297 yards and 27 touchdowns.

IN THE CLOSEST balloting in Heisman Trophy history, Long finished second to Auburn running back Bo Jackson. Long won the Maxwell Trophy, which goes to college football's best player in the eyes of the Maxwell Football Club of Philadelphia.

In NCAA history, Long ranks third in career passing efficiency and sixth in passing yards. He holds the NCAA record with 22 straight completions in a game against Indiana in 1984.

In receiving the Jesse Owens trophy, Long becomes the third Iowa Hawkeye to win the award in its five-year history. Iowa wrestler Barry Davis won the award last year and another Hawkeye wrestler, Ed Banach, was selected in 1983.

Depending on their availability, Long and Wisconsin track standout Stephanie Herbst, the 1985-86 women's athlete of the year, will be presented to the media at a breakfast session at the annual Big Ten Football Luncheon Aug. 1 in Chicago.

Shalynn Carr practices the long jump Monday afternoon at the Iowa Track Complex. Carr, of Laverne, Calif., was returning with her family from the The Athletic Congress National Track and Field Championships in Chicago, and was headed for a meet in Eugene, Ore.

Fireballers face off in Astrodome

HOUSTON (UPI) — National League right-hander Dwight Gooden played the party pooper at baseball's halfway bash, refusing to say he will duel fastball-to-fastball against Roger Clemens in Tuesday night's All Star Game at the Astrodome.

At a news conference confirming the dream matchup of two of baseball's hardest throwers, Gooden instead tipped his cap to Clemens.

"Every chance I get, I watch him on TV," said Gooden.

A strikeout pitcher in his first two seasons, Gooden this year has aimed at more economical outs.

When asked which style he would use in the 57th All-Star Game, Gooden said only, "I'll get them out however I can. The main thing is I just want to pick Whitey (NL manager Herzog) up and get him a victory."

IF GOODEN DECIDES to match Clemens with hard stuff — and his competitive instincts will probably lead him to do just that — then Texans will have a matchup they could brag about for years.

Not only can both pitchers throw in the 90s, but Clemens is a hometown boy.

"Here, I can say 'ya'll' without people getting on me," he said.

The game is scheduled to start at 8:35 p.m. EDT, with the Astrodome expecting a sellout crowd of 45,000, including Vice President George Bush and his wife.

The AL squad includes the first rookie ever selected to the starting lineup, California first baseman Wally Joyner. The NL offers the top vote-getter in Mets' outfielder Darryl Strawberry.

THE GLAMOUR nevertheless comes from the Clemens-Gooden showdown, which began with a decision by Herzog. Brushing aside suggestions that Gooden had slipped from his 1985 Cy Young Award form, Herzog declared Gooden would be the NL starter.

That left it to AL manager Dick Howser, who surrendered to the appeal and named Clemens. Howser's decision proved all the more gratifying because two years ago in San Francisco, All-Star officials missed a chance at pitting the youngest player — Gooden — against the oldest — Phil Niekro, then with the Yankees.

Instead, the opponents were Charlie Lea and Dave Stieb, competent but hardly glamorous.

After going 41-13 in his first two seasons, Gooden carries the apparently respectable record of 10-4.

STILL, HE IS not even the most effective pitcher on the Mets' staff. That did not change Herzog's opinion.

"I know you're going to ask me, so I'll tell you I picked Dwight Gooden because I think he's the best pitcher in baseball," Herzog said.

In 18 starts, Gooden has a 2.77 ERA with 101 strikeouts in 136 innings. Clemens, the winner of his first 14 decisions, has a 2.48 ERA and 146 strikeouts, including a nine-inning record 20 against Seattle.

The only change in the lineup voted by fans involves Royals third baseman George Brett, sidelined by a sprained right shoulder. Wade Boggs of the Red Sox will start in Brett's place and Cleveland's Brook Jacoby has been added to the roster.

The National League holds a 36-19-1 edge in All-Star Games, and won last year's game in Minneapolis 6-1.

Herzog has said he wants to win because it marks the last game for outgoing NL president Chub Feeney. Herzog is the only NL manager to lose a game in the last 14 years.

This year marks the first time the All-Star Game has gone indoors for a second straight year. Next season, it is scheduled for Oakland.

Former Iowa golfer leads amateur qualifiers

By Dan Millea
Assistant Sports Editor

Ex-Iowa golfer Rob Higgins took advantage of his familiarity with the Finkbine Golf Course Monday, shooting a three-under par 69 to finish atop a field of 91 men in an 18-hole qualifying meet for the Iowa Amateur Tournament.

Higgins, who used his last year of eligibility with the Hawkeye golf team last spring, led a group of 50 qualifiers for the Iowa Amateur, a 54-hole tournament scheduled for July 25-27 at the Ottumwa Country Club in Ottumwa.

"Knowing the course (so well) helped me a lot," Higgins said. "It's in the best condition I've seen it in a year."

Higgins shot a three-under 33 over the first nine holes, then played even par 36 over the final nine holes of the par 72 course.

HIS 69 LEFT HIM just one shot ahead of Kevin Villhauer of Iowa City and two shots ahead of four other men, Dennis Wentz (Iowa City), John Barrett (Davenport), Nick Pulliam (Muscatine) and Paul Niedermeyer (Clinton), who tied for third with 71s.

Guy Boros, a teammate of Higgins who also completed his eligibility last spring, finished alone in seventh with an even par 72.

Higgins said "just practicing more" allowed him to win the meet. "I've been working on my putting a lot lately. I'm putting much better now than I was earlier this spring.

"I really did think (I could win the meet) because this past weekend I played in the Iowa Masters and finished in a tie for fourth at Veenkner Golf Course in Ames. That was a good field, about 210 or 220 people."

IRONICALLY, HIGGINS will enjoy another home-course advantage of sorts at the Iowa Amateur. Before coming to Iowa he played for two seasons on the Indian Hills Community College team in Ottumwa, which uses the Ottumwa Country Club course.

Iowa men's golf Coach Chuck Zwiener said Higgins, a native of Fairfield, has a very good shot at winning the Iowa Amateur as do a pair of other ex-Iowa golfers, Wentz and Boros.

"He's a good player," Zwiener said of Higgins. "He'll be a favorite (at Ottumwa). Anybody that can shoot like that will be. Dennis Wentz will be there too and he's playing real well. Of course Guy Boros has also been playing real well."

For a few minutes Monday it appeared there would be a playoff to determine the final two spots in the field of 50.

Three golfers, Brent Johnson, Mike Hanrahan and Tom Seary, tied for 49th place with seven-over 79s, but only Hanrahan and Johnson reported to the 10th tee for the playoff.

Zwiener said Johnson and Hanrahan automatically qualified because of Seary's absence. Seary, who apparently left the Finkbine area unaware that he would be part of a playoff, will be the first alternate.

In 10 other similar qualifying events across the state this week 101 more golfers will earn a spot in the Iowa Amateur. Another 25 golfers, made up of past champions, top ten ranked golfers from last year and entrants from the host club will complete the field, according to Joe Chapman, Executive Director of the Iowa Golf Association.
