Regent doubts adequacy of insurance plan

By Lewis Wayne Greene
University Editor

A member of the state Board of Regents Wednesday questioned a plan to insure the board's automobile fleet internally.

The board unanimously approved a plan to self-insure its fleet of cars, setting up a fund to pay claims of up to $250,000. The board lost its liability policy with U.S. Fidelity and Guaranty on July 1.

But Regent Charles Duchon

questioned the wisdom of failing to purchase insurance from a private firm. While the plan may appear to work for several years, it may not provide adequate protection for the board in case of a "dramatic happening," he said.

"It may look all right for a couple of years and then 'Bingo!'" Duchon said.

Regents Business and Finance Director Doug True said Duchon's concerns were reasonable. The self-insurance plan is experimental and if it doesn't appear to be providing adequate protection another plan could be developed, he said.

IF PRIVATE insurance rates become more reasonable in the future, the board may opt to drop the program, he added.

Under the plan, any claims against the regents for more than $250,000 will be paid by the state Appeal Board, True said.

While claims against the board's liability insurance have been less than $100,000 annually, True said the premium for the policy was approaching $400,000 a year.

"There's a lot of room there, a lot of savings," he said, adding that a conservative estimate of the cost savings of the self-insurance plan would be $100,000 a year.

The regents approved the plan, but Duchon did not seem completely satisfied.

"I don't think it is satisfactory just to put up 'X' amount of money and then look at it again in six months," he said.

An unusually high number of claims against the regents could mean financial disaster for the board and the state, he said.

TRUE PROMISED the board a report on the success of the plan in about six months.

Regent John Tyler said the board's insurance problems points out the need for the Iowa Legislature to set a liability limit for state agencies.

Gov. Terry Branstad proposed such a limit to the legislature earlier this year, but the question was delayed for investigation and no further action was taken.

"This ought to be a real indication to members of the legislature that we do in fact have a problem and we do not need another study," Tyler said.

Tyler said later that the liability limit was needed to protect the state, not to deny legitimate claims to injured parties.

"It's not to prevent people from recovering real damages, but to avoid some of the exorbitant awards by courts and juries," he said.

Kremlin, U.S. may talk on testing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration and the Soviet Union each announced Wednesday that the other is finally ready to get serious about talks on nuclear testing.

White House spokesman Edward Djerejian said the Kremlin had agreed to expert-level talks on "issues related to nuclear testing" and that President Ronald Reagan acceded to separate discussions on his decision to no longer abide by the SALT II treaty.

Djerejian said a key step in that process — a formal U.S. response to the latest Soviet arms proposals — will come by the end of the month in a letter from Reagan to Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

In London, Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze said the United States has agreed to return to the bargaining table in Geneva to resume nuclear test ban treaty talks after a six-year break.

SHEVARDNAZDE ALSO said the Kremlin is making "very substantial preparations" for a second summit between Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and President Reagan, but warned prospects for the superpower talks sometime later this year hinged on Washington's response to Moscow's recent arms proposals.

Speaking at a news conference in the Soviet Embassy at the end of his three-day visit to Britain, Shevardnadze said the test ban talks would reconvene in Geneva but provided no date or further details.

At the State Department, spokesman Bernard Kalb welcomed the opening, but faulted the Soviets for not responding to U.S. proposals for a summit planning meeting between Shevardnadze and Secretary of State George Shultz. That issue is expected to arise Thursday when British Foreign Secretary Geoffrey Howe reports to Shultz on his own talks this week with Shevardnadze.

THE AGREEMENT to meet on nuclear testing — date and place yet to be determined — was announced by Shevardnadze several hours before any official word from the White House.

While the Soviets have pushed for such a meeting to advance their call for a comprehensive test ban, Djerejian reiterated U.S. opposition to a full test ban and said the talks would focus on verification questions related to a pair of existing, unratified treaties.

At issue are the Threshold Test Ban Treaty of 1974 and the Peaceful Nuclear Explosions Treaty of 1976, which limit underground nuclear explosions to 150 kilotons, the explosive equivalent of 150,000 tons of TNT.

Reagan, citing shortcomings in their verification provisions, has refused to submit the two pacts to the Senate for ratification.

Board of Regents welcomes new ISU president to Iowa

By Phil Thomas
Staff Writer

Facing a sluggish economy and stagnant state higher education appropriations, new Iowa State University President Gordon P. Eaton was welcomed to his first state Board of Regents meeting Wednesday.

Despite the challenges facing him, Eaton said he was looking forward to working with the regents and officials at the three state universities.

Eaton said he is especially eager to work with the UI administrators in the quest for higher faculty salaries at the three state universities.

"We have some common problems with salaries," Eaton said. "You have to tackle a problem like that together."

IT IS ESSENTIAL that faculty salaries be kept competitive with universities across the nation, Eaton said.

UI President James O. Freedman said he is looking forward to working with Eaton on common problems the two schools face.

"I'm delighted he's here," Freedman said. "He brings a multitude of strengths."

Before taking his new job July 1, Eaton served as provost and vice president for academic affairs at Texas A&M University.

Freedman agreed that working for higher salaries for faculty and administrators will continue to be a top priority.

"We need strong salaries across the board," Freedman said.

UI Vice President for Finance Dorsey Ellis said low faculty salaries make it hard for the UI to compete in attracting prospective top-notch professors, adding that UI faculty salaries are at the bottom of the Big Ten.

LOWER SALARIES mean lower quality in education, fewer students, and eventually a damaged state economy, Ellis said.

"It's the number one economic problem we have," Ellis said. "A university is only as good as its faculty."

ISU Vice President for Academic Affairs George Christensen said the major hurdle to higher faculty salaries is persuading the Iowa Legislature.

"We have to certainly convince the state legislature," Christensen said.

Eaton said some of his other goals at ISU will be changing degree programs at ISU so they will differ from those of the UI and working for Iowa Lottery profits appropriated to the regents. Research will also be a priority at ISU, he said.

Lottery money can be a big help to higher education if distributed properly, he said, adding, "Iowa is strapped financially as a state."

ISU will continue to seek funding for a new biotechnology research program at the university by working with state seed companies and Gov. Terry Branstad, he said.

"We made quite an issue out of it," Eaton said.

Lawmakers opposed to Guard trip

DES MOINES (UPI) — State lawmakers back from a fact-finding tour in Central America said Wednesday the war-torn region is "another Vietnam in the making" and should not receive support from Iowa's National Guard.

State Sen. Beverly Hannon, D-Anamosa, said the group fielded reports of American soldiers using Honduran children for sexual purposes near Comayagua — five miles from the military base where the Guard would be stationed.

Hannon, chair of the Senate Human Resources Committee, said Iowans have not been told the truth about what U.S. troops are doing in Central America.

She said the four lawmakers, all Democrats, plan to present their findings within the next two weeks to Republican Gov. Terry Branstad, who supports the Guard trip to Honduras.

STATE REP. BOB SKOW, D-Guthrie Center, one of the four legislators who made the trip, said plans to send an Iowa Guard medical unit to Honduras next month are opposed both by Hondurans and bordering Nicaraguans.

Branstad has said the training trip will be used to give the Iowa medical unit training in the jungle and provide aid to other guardsmen building roads near the Honduras-Nicaragua border.

But Hannon said Nicaraguans are convinced the United States is preparing to invade their country.

"It's another Vietnam in the making. It's more than Gov. Branstad. God, it's another war and the people aren't being told the truth," Hannon said in an interview Wednesday.

Initially, lawmakers opposed the Guard trip because of concerns of safety for the Iowa soldiers, but Hannon said it now is a matter of principle.

"I am vehemently opposed to the trip. Safety isn't the issue anymore," she said.

AIDES TO Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, also said Wednesday

Beverly Hannon

Gov. Terry Branstad is making a mistake by supporting the planned Guard trip and backing President Reagan's foreign policy in Central America.

Harkin plans to meet with the lawmakers sometime later this month, press aide Dale Leibach said in Washington.

"Sen. Harkin... feels strongly President Reagan is mistaken and Gov. Branstad is mistaken," Leibach said.

Aides to Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, said they had not heard of such reports. However, press aide Allan Finch said Grassley would welcome any information the lawmakers could offer.

Branstad aides said Wednesday the governor has not changed his mind about sending the Iowa City guard unit to Central America. Doug Gross said it is too soon to say whether Branstad would meet with lawmakers about the trip.

"I am not aware of the request," Gross said. "They haven't contacted us yet. I don't see any change in the governor's position."

State Rep. Deo Koenigs, D-McIntire, who went on the fact-finding trip, said military leaders are trying to mask the trip as a humanitarian effort in the form of medical aid. He said the true purpose is to support Nicaraguan Contras.

Legislator Hatch uncovers UI radiation leak document

By Dan McClain
Staff Writer

A state legislator said Wednesday he has documents showing construction workers at the UI Human Biology Research Facility may have been exposed to harmful radiation last February.

Rep. Jack Hatch, D-Des Moines, said workers digging the foundation on the Human Biology Research Facility accidentally removed a layer of protective soil and exposed the corner of an underground UI radiation vault. The vault contains a large amount of cesium, a radioactive material used by the UI College of Medicine.

The documents indicate UI officials originally did not think there would be radiation exposure problems if several feet of earth were maintained around the concrete walls of the vault, but later documents implied there could be exposure problems after the north-west corner of the vault was uncovered, he said.

HATCH SAID he has mailed a letter, addressed to UI Vice President for Finance Dorsey Ellis, asking that the Legislative Fiscal Bureau be used to determine the extent of potential radiation exposure, liability problems and whether the vault complied with Nuclear Regulatory Commission standards.

The documents show the UI told the federal commission at least 8 feet of earth would surround the vault when it applied for a license for the cesium, he said.

UI Health Protection Office Director William Twaler said he does not believe anyone was exposed to harmful radiation levels at the site although tests by his office showed the vault might not meet state radiation protection standards after the protective soil layer was removed.

THE RADIOACTIVE beam emitted by the cesium source has only been used on two occasions, he said, and the construction area was cleared for testing by his office on both occasions.

"The machine has probably been on a total of about 20 minutes since it was installed in January," he said.

Last week the UI College of Medicine installed additional lead shielding in the vault, which is fortified by 12-inch thick concrete walls, Twaler said. Officials from the state Department of Health will be testing the vault next Wednesday, he added.

Hatch emphasized that his announcement was not intended to harass the UI.

"The questions I raised were not to antagonize any university official," Hatch said. "They make the point that the legislature has not fulfilled its obligation to oversee construction projects financed by public bonds."

City officials question need for gas franchise agreement

By Robyn R. Wright
Staff Writer

The two-year absence of a franchise renewal agreement between Iowa City and Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co. has led some city officials to question whether such an agreement is necessary.

During the Iowa City Council's formal session Tuesday, Councilor Larry Baker noted that the city has functioned successfully without renewing the company's franchise, which has been a topic of debate between the city and the company for several years.

"What are the residents going to get out of this?" Baker asked the council.

"If Iowa City (residents) understood clearly, they wouldn't care whether Iowa-Illinois had a franchise or not," said Ron Vogel, acting director of the city's Resources Conservation Commission.

THE CITY COUNCIL and the company have nearly reached an agreement on a proposed franchise renewal, which has been a point of debate between the two parties since the company's 25-year franchise expired in August 1984.

"There's no compelling advantages to the general public," Councilor Darrel Courtney said. But a franchise will be advantageous to residents in an indirect manner, he said.

"Iowa City has been actively trying to attract new businesses, and one of the things larger corporations look for is the stability of a city's utilities," Courtney said. "They want to be able to depend on a good relationship between utility companies and government."

Another advantage involves bond rating, Courtney said. If a bond is issued to Iowa-Illinois for capital improvements, holding a franchise in the city would reduce the bond rating and save money for consumers in the long run. Bond ratings generally indicate a company's financial stability, with a low rating considered stable.

BUT BAKER and Vogel disagree.

"The instability factor is merely a matter of appearance," Baker said. "Iowa-Illinois is not going anywhere and neither is the city."

"The effect of the franchise is almost nonexistent," Vogel agreed.

However, a franchise with the company protects the city from liability, according to Terrence Timmins, city attorney. A franchise would leave the company responsible for accidents involving gas and electrical equipment.

A renewal would also enhance the company's incentive to provide service to the city, said Thomas Hoogerwerf, district manager for Iowa-Illinois.

"A franchise agreement assures the city it will have a good, reliable supply of gas and electricity for both residents and businesses," he said.

"I actually see it as more of an easement," he added, explaining that the city is granting the company use of right-of-ways, streets and alleys in exchange for the company's obligation to provide adequate supplies of gas and electricity.

Sanitation workers ordered to return

(UPI)—Striking Philadelphia sanitation employees were ordered back to work Wednesday to remove thousands of tons of garbage from city streets, while one-third of Detroit's city employees began what is feared to become a long walkout.

Scattered strike-related violence was reported in Detroit, where garbage collection and bus service was halted.

Two strikers picketing the city's bus garage were struck and slightly injured by a municipal car reportedly driven by a police officer. Tires were slashed on two supervisors' cars at a sanitation garage, and broken glass was strewn at the entrance to block other vehicles.

At a city water department plant, a caravan of four police cars had to escort three supervisors into the facility past a dozen angry picketers.

IN PHILADELPHIA, a Common Pleas Court judge ordered the city's sanitation workers to return to their jobs, effective 9 a.m. Thursday, at a hearing in which Mayor Wilson Goode testified that growing mounds of garbage presented a "potential for violence" in the nation's fifth-largest city.

The strike, in its 16th day, left residents irate about growing mounds of smelly, rat-infested Wilson Goode garbage accumulating at emergency dump sites and along city streets.

There was no immediate reaction from the blue-collar union representing 12,885 striking municipal employees, including sanitation workers. But Earl Stout, president of the union indicated Tuesday he would obey a back-to-work order, saying, "I have to do what the judge says to do."

The strike by Detroit's 7,000 bus service employees and trash collectors left residents of the nation's sixth largest city without transportation to work or schools and trash collection slammed to a halt.

Moslem's hostages appear unharmed

MARAWI, Philippines (UPI)—Negotiators shuttling across a lake for talks with Moslem gunmen holding an American pastor and 10 nuns in the southern Philippines reported Wednesday the hostages were unharmed and in good condition.

Military officials said they hoped for a breakthrough soon in the negotiations for the release of the hostages, kidnapped in separate attacks within a 24-hour period last weekend from the predominantly Moslem city of Marawi.

The two groups of kidnappers have claimed connection to independence movements for strife-torn Mindanao, home of the predominantly Roman Catholic nation's 5 million Moslems.

On Tuesday, President Corazon Aquino rejected all ransom demands for the captives and ordered the army to "act decisively" to resolve the crisis.

Aspartame targeted in ban effort

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A consumer group said Wednesday it will ask the Food and Drug Administration to ban the widely used artificial sweetener NutraSweet, citing new scientific concerns linking the product to epileptic seizures.

The petition, to be filed Thursday by the Community Nutrition Institute, was triggered by reports from a team of researchers at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology that more than 80 people suffered seizures after eating or drinking products containing NutraSweet, known chemically as aspartame.

Led by Richard Wurtman, the MIT team is conducting a clinical study of seizure victims to try to determine whether aspartame ingestion results in changes in brain chemistry associated with seizures.

THE CONSUMER petition says, "The existence of these 80 cases meets the FDA definition of an imminent hazard to the public health requiring the FDA commissioner to expeditiously remove a product from the market."

"The FDA no longer knows whether this product is safe," James Turner, a CNI lawyer who has waged a 15-year legal battle challenging the safety of the low-calorie sweetener, said.

FDA spokesman Jim Greene said while he cannot formally respond to the petition, the agency's view of NutraSweet remains the same as when it was approved for use in dry foods five years ago and in carbonated beverages in 1983: "It is a safe substance for the approved uses."

U.S. aids Bolivian coke factory raids

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI)—About 160 U.S. soldiers with six Black Hawk helicopters set up two camps Wednesday in Bolivia's semi-tropical lowlands to back police raids on cocaine factories, radio reports and police sources said.

Neither Bolivian nor U.S. officials in La Paz would say whether the raids on narcotics processing camps had begun. But shortly before noon the six helicopters left a temporary base in the city of Trinidad, said Juan Carlos Zambrana, news director at Trinidad's Radio Tropico.

The helicopters, each carrying artillery and seven U.S. soldiers in red berets, took off from Jorge Heinrich Airport and headed northwest, following a cream-colored turbo-prop plane registered to the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency, Zambrana said. Reporters were denied access to the base.

LATER, A HERCULES C-41 cargo plane landed at the makeshift base in Trinidad, where soldiers unloaded an unknown quantity of equipment and arms, and the plane took off 30 minutes later.

Interior Minister Fernando Barthelemy feigned ignorance about the reason for the unloading, but when pressed, said, "The government always had the intention of combating drug trafficking because it is a social ill."

Trinidad, 250 miles northeast of La Paz, is the capital of Bolivia's eastern Beni province.

S. Africa lifts some restrictions

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI)—The South African Supreme Court Wednesday rejected a union bid to overturn South Africa's state of emergency but loosened some restrictions. Seventeen people were reported killed in the bloodiest 24 hours since the June 12 crackdown.

A three-judge court panel rejected the trade union challenge to the emergency but granted lawyers previously denied access to the estimated 4,000 people detained without trial and severely limited the "unintelligible" definition of "subversive statements" that journalists were outlawed from reporting.

This report was written under the continuing month-old restrictions.

Some lawyers hailed the ruling as a partial victory against the emergency but others warned tight control would still be maintained on the media.

IN JOHANNESBURG'S sprawling Soweto township, black sources said five people were killed in a clash with authorities following a protest march by 2,000 women and children that was illegal under emergency rule.

In an earlier statement, the bureau said 12 people were killed in Tuesday night violence, 11 of them in the nominally self-governing tribal homeland of KwaNdebele north of Johannesburg and the 12th in a Durban ghetto.

Also Wednesday, Botha declared "we are not a nation of jellyfish" and unveiled the first completed model of a new fighter jet built partly on the airframe of a 25-year-old French warplane.

Brian Lawrence Officials said Wednesday the ransom demand for release of the nuns has been reduced from the equivalent of $97,500 to $4,878 but no ransom has been requested for the freeing of 30-year-old Protestant pastor Brian Lawrence of Madison, Wis.

Ex-acrobat Grant fell into film

By Kent Schuelke
Staff Writer
© 1986 Student Publications, Inc.

CARY GRANT, who starred in 72 films and received an honorary Academy Award for his lifetime contributions to cinema, did not plan to go into acting. "I had no ambition towards acting," Grant confessed during a telephone interview. "I had an ambition to travel," the 82-year-old actor continued. "I was born in a city (Bristol, England) from which there was a great deal of travel. In those days the ships came into the center of the city, so I was constantly interested in what was going on down there, and the fact that those ships took people all over the world."

TO ESCAPE his poverty, Grant joined a touring troupe of acrobats whose travels allowed him to see the world. This troupe brought the wide-eyed, 12-year-old Grant to New York City.

"When the troupe left and went back to England I remained here," Grant said. "I liked the country very much and I slowly got into musicals."

Grant starred in several Broadway musicals before he was called to Hollywood and movies. He said he never regretted his decision to give up stage acting.

"I think actors, like politicians, try to advance in their profession," Grant said. "I didn't regret it at all. I was delighted with each new step that seemed to be going upward."

Grant and his films are the featured stars of this summer's Bijou schedule. Arsenic and Old Lace, one of his most beloved performances, can be seen at the Bijou tonight.

North by Northwest

This is the second of a two-part exclusive interview with Cary Grant.

GRANT HAS starred in some of Hollywood's most acclaimed films — North By Northwest, The Philadelphia Story, Bringing Up Baby and Notorious. He also starred with some of Hollywood's most dazzling actresses — including Katharine Hepburn.

"Marvelous," said Grant of his work with the legendary star. "I worked with Katharine Hepburn about five times. And one doesn't do a thing more than once — unless you're an idiot — if you don't like it."

While Grant also played opposite the likes of Ingrid Bergman, Mae West and Marilyn Monroe, he saves his most gracious praise for the late Grace Kelly.

"In my opinion the best actress I ever worked with was Grace Kelly," Grant said. "Now Ingrid and Audrey (Hepburn) and Deborah Kerr, certainly they were splendid, splendid actresses, but Grace was utterly relaxed, the most extraordinary actress, I think. Her mind was razor keen, but she was relaxed while she was doing it. And I'm appreciative of that, since it's not an easy profession."

GRANT SAID the film community was disappointed that Kelly gave up her acting career to marry Prince Rainier III of Monaco.

"She was a lady, number one, which are rare in our business, we have manufactured ladies mostly," Grant said. "But Grace was really a remarkable woman in every way. And when she quit, she quit because she wanted to."

In the mid-1950s, while still one of Hollywood's biggest stars, Grant said goodbye to films.

"I was tired of making them at that point," Grant said.

BUT GRANT'S retirement was to be short-lived — in 1955 Alfred Hitchcock persuaded him to return and star opposite newcomer Grace Kelly in To Catch A Thief.

"It was a great joy to work with Hitch," Grant said. "He was an extraordinary man, and I deplore these idiotic books that have been written about him, when the man is dead and can't defend himself. And even if you defend yourself against that kind of literature, it gets you nowhere."

Grant did some of his most fruitful work with Hitchcock, including the famous scene from North By Northwest where he is stalked by a crop-dusting plane. Grant's sterling screen persona also forced Hitchcock to change the plot of Suspicion, where Grant was originally slated to portray a killer.

"The audience objected to the fact that I was a murderer," Grant said. "The exhibitors in turn picked up their sword and said no, we don't want Cary Grant to be a murderer."

The studio forced Hitchcock to soften the film's ending, "which Hitch certainly deplored, and so did I," Grant said.

HE WORKED with other Hollywood masters, including George Cukor, Frank Capra and Howard Hawks.

"Simply marvelous," Grant said of his relationship with Hawks. "He allowed you freedom... of rewriting the scene, ad-libbing the scene, doing whatever made you comfortable."

Grant's work with Hawks is well known for its treatment of the male experience.

"Howard had his definite ideas of what he considered masculinity, and what he considered an attractive woman — and he was great in both cases," Grant said.

Grant's work has become a focus of analysis in film departments at universities around the country. He said it feels strange to be part of the college curriculum.

"I'm delighted, of course, but I think that would also apply to many actors before me," Grant said. "Actors come, actors go, and if you pick any one of us to talk about, to study, we can't help but be flattered."

GRANT SAID scholars have gone slightly overboard in their analysis of films, most which were made without pretensions, solely to entertain.

"A film's a film," Grant said. "It's only a movie... now if you gentlemen want to dissect it and trisection it, and cut it up into little pieces, well, that's up to you. We made them. They're forgotten. We didn't know the intentions half the time, except to amuse and attract people to the box office."

Grant said he rarely views current films. For example, he isn't familiar with the career of Steven Spielberg. However, he did see Back To The Future on a recent flight from Europe.

"I couldn't have enjoyed it more," Grant said. "I laughed out loud. I had a great time."

The Pride and the Passion

GRANT WILL not be remembered as a character actor who completely immersed himself in a role. He seldom played anyone other than himself.

"Well, who else could I portray?" Grant said with a note of indignation. "I can't portray Bing Crosby — I'm Cary Grant. So I'm myself in that role."

"The most difficult thing to be is yourself," Grant said. "(Especially) when you know it's going to be seen by 300 million people immediately."

Grant said he ignores critics who charge that his acting ability is limited.

"I don't care what people say. I don't take into consideration anything that anyone says — including the critics," Grant said. "It's useless. You've made the film — it's done."

Even though Grant helped define film comedy, he doesn't put too much emphasis on his contributions.

"I didn't influence anybody," Grant said. "They have my interpretation of what it was about, and that's about all. But I didn't influence anybody, not to my knowledge anyway."

Catch a wave at beach bash

By Allen Hogg
Staff Writer

THE WORLD'S Biggest Beach Party will be held this Saturday and Sunday near Williamsburg, Iowa, at the intersection of Interstate 80 and U.S. Highway 149.

The party, which will be held at the specially constructed No-Wa-Wa Beach, will feature food from all over the country, a 1950s and 1960s automobile show, numerous contests and the music of such artists as Jan & Dean and The Ventures. And, according to the party's organizer, there will also be plenty of Iowa County hospitality.

"People who come are going to get the red-carpet treatment like they ain't never got it before," Steve Gander, the promoter and creator of "The World's Biggest Beach Party," said.

The 35-year-old Gander, who has lived in Williamsburg for 11 years, came up with the idea for the party two years ago, and work on the project began in earnest last August. A total of 300 people are being employed by the beach party, with salaries and portions of the profit going to charities of the workers' choice.

TO TURN the eastern Iowa countryside into a beach capable of holding up to 50,000 people, a thousand tons of sand are being brought in to the site. The sand will come from 10 different beaches in Jamaica, Florida, Virginia, Texas, California and Hawaii. Gov. Terry Branstad will be there to dedicate the beach at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Gander believed 30,000 people would attend the two-day event, with some people coming all the way from California and North Carolina. He was not worried that bad weather might keep people away. "It's not going to rain," he said. "You can quote me in the paper on that."

SOME OF THE food served in over 25 concession stands will also be specially imported for the beach party.

"I was told when you have a beach party in the Pacific Northwest, you have to have smoked salmon; so we're bringing in smoked salmon. And when you have a beach party in the southeast, you have to have Cajun shrimp; so we're bringing in Cajun shrimp," Gander said.

More traditional Iowa fare, including sweet corn and beef, will also be served, and Seagram's, one of the party's corporate sponsors, will introduce its new Golden Wine Cooler at the event. Gander added that the party would be well-equipped with 500 kegs of beer and 16 tons of ice.

HIGHLIGHTING the beach party's contests will be the Iowa Surfing Championship, which will be held on a mechanical surfboard recently developed by Canadian inventor Ted Boomer. Gander expects the mechanical surfboard will become as popular as mechanical bulls were a few years ago. "It's amazing the similarity it has to the motion of real surfing," he said.

Other contests will include an Itsy Bitsy Bikini Contest for children under 10, a Little Old Lady From Iowa competition and contests to determine who has the wildest beach outfit, the best suntan and the ugliest pair of legs.

The contests will take place between musical performances. Jan & Dean, the duo responsible for such classic surf music hits as "Deadman's Curve," "Surf City" and "Little Old Lady From Pasadena," will headline on both days at 5:45 p.m. The Ventures, an instrumental group that had hits with "Walk Don't Run" and the theme from "Hawaii Five-O," will perform on Saturday at 4:10 p.m. and on Sunday at 4:15 p.m.

Also performing on Saturday will be Hot Rod Chevy Key and the Flashback Band, country-pop artist Johnny Tilton and former teen idol Tommy Roe. On Sunday, Hot Rod Chevy Key and the Flashback Band will perform again, along with the band Hitz and Gary Lewis, creator of such mid-1960s hits as "This Diamond Ring."

Tickets for "The World's Biggest Beach Party" are available in Iowa City at the downtown That's Entertainment. They cost $10 per person for each day, with weekend passes available for $14. Discounts are available for children and groups of 25 or more.

Grant spices up 'Arsenic'

By Teresa Heger
Arts/entertainment Editor

AS CINEMA fans must have noticed, an unofficial Cary Grant festival has been going on this summer at the Bijou. Old Cary has appeared as every kind of character — from a wild, almost-divorced socialite in The Awful Truth to a heart-breaking loner in None But the Lonely Heart.

But in Arsenic and Old Lace, Grant plays what can perhaps be dubbed his most hilarious role. Funny and pseudo-spooky, this quaint horror movie spoof remains effective even in the heat of an Iowa July. The film is set on blustery and dark Halloween, a witch-infested holiday that also happens to be the wedding day of Grant and his much-maligned bride (Priscilla Lane).

Grant, when he returns home to announce his marriage, faces several dilemmas as a newlywed. Not only is he a visible bachelor socialite, he is also the author of books proclaiming the joys of singlehood (Mind Over Marriage, for example). Evading an anxious-to-deride press is no easy task. In addition, his new father-in-law, a staid judge, is less than approving.

YET THESE troubles are nothing. Nothing, that is, compared to the 11 (or is it 12, dear?) bodies that have been buried in the family cellar by Grant's sweet old aunts (Josephine Hull, Jean Adair). Grant stumbles upon this grisly family secret when he discovers body No. 12 in the window seat.

Hull and Adair steal the show with their old maid twittering and fluttering. The two sisters have been poisoning lonely old men with a deadly brew of elderberry wine. They consider it a charity; they are putting these old souls "out of their misery."

BUT POOR GRANT ain't seen nothin' yet. The proverbial plot thickens when Grant's long-lost brother (Peter Lorre) returns, along with his Boris Karloff look-alike sidekick (Raymond Massey). Lorre has continued the family tradition; he has at least 10 bodies to his credit, not counting the "hot stiff" in the rumble seat of his car parked outside.

Frank Capra (best known, perhaps, for his film It's A Wonderful Life) directed this slapstick thriller. Arsenic proves Capra's talents shine the brightest when he portrays everyday people. The clueless policemen, the patient taxi cab driver, the sweet (but more than slightly cracked) aunts all are funny, but more importantly, they are endearing.

Arsenic and Old Lace can be seen today at 8:45 p.m. at the Bijou.

Boyd suspended after second incident

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox Wednesday indefinitely suspended troubled pitcher Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, who allegedly threatened two policemen with claims he had a gun and was going to shoot them.

Police in suburban Chelsea, where Boyd lives, requested a court hearing for Boyd on charges of disorderly conduct and assault and battery on a police officer, following a "riotous situation" outside Boyd's home Tuesday night. No gun was actually produced, police said.

"He swung on several occasions," said Chelsea Det. Sgt. Jack Phillips. "He kept insisting he was going to blow our heads off. The last thing he said to me was, 'You're dead meat.'"

The right-handed pitcher was fined $6,450 and suspended for three games by the Red Sox following an obscenity-laced tirade last week. Boyd left Fenway Park before a game after learning he was not chosen to the American League All-Star team.

Bears' Vainisi signs 1985 holdout Harris

PLATTEVILLE, Wis. (UPI) — Chicago Bears' general manager Jerry Vainisi continued to wield his contract-signing pen Wednesday, inking 1985 holdout Al Harris to a three-year contract.

While Harris was undergoing a physical exam in Chicago and expected to report to training camp Thursday evening, Vainisi said talks were still under way with free agent Todd Bell, who also sat out last season in a contract dispute with Bear management. Talks were also continuing with veterans Gary Fencik and Matt Suhey.

Vainisi said he was pleased with the Harris agreement, "because I feel that it shows the players that we really did mean that we wanted them back. That was the biggest obstacle to overcome, even more so than dollars, convincing Al that there were no hard feelings over last year."

The Bears' general manager said he hoped Harris' signing would "have a spillover effect" in negotiations with Bell, and he said he believed Harris would make a strong bid at landing a starting job at linebacker or defensive end.

Psychological evidence allowed in trial

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — A judge ruled Wednesday he will allow testimony about the psychological history of a woman who says she was sexually assaulted by three former University of Minnesota basketball players.

Dane County Circuit Judge George Northrup refused prosecutor Judith Hawley's motion to exclude the testimony about the woman's emotional state and psychological history before this year.

Mitchell Lee, 21, Kevin Smith, 21, and George Williams Jr., 20, are charged with 12 counts of first-degree sexual assault.

The woman, who is now 19, claimed the men repeatedly raped her for several hours Jan. 24 in the Concourse Hotel in Madison after a Wisconsin-Minnesota basketball game.

Stephen Hurley, who represents Williams, said he may present evidence indicating the woman attempted suicide after Jan. 1 one or more times.

"It is relevant to show the alleged victim has a history of inflicting pain on herself," Hurley said.

Theismann's physical delayed by team

HERNDON, Va. (UPI) — Washington Redskins coach Joe Gibbs said Wednesday the club will delay for several days giving quarterback Joe Theismann his training camp physical, which will determine the 12-year veteran's future in football.

Gibbs, remaining evasive about Theismann's prospects of making the club this season, refused to comment on the quarterback's chances of passing a physical.

"Why guess about something when there might be an obvious answer coming," he told reporters at Redskin Park.

Theismann must pass the physical if he is to make the active roster this season.

The quarterback suffered a compound fracture of the lower right leg when he was sacked by two New York Giants players last Nov. 18, and the ensuing rehabilitation has left his physical condition uncertain. Theismann still walks with a noticeable limp, his right leg is about 1/4-inch shorter than his left leg and he has been unable to plant or pivot off the leg.

Lemond closes gap in Tour de France

SUPERBAGNERES, France (UPI) — Greg Lemond broke from the pack three miles from the finish line Wednesday to claim the 115.6-mile 13th stage of the Tour de France cycle race.

Lemond, who lives part of the year in Reno, Nev., tore through the mountains from Pau in 6 hours, 6 minutes, 37 seconds. Teammate and five-time Tour winner Bernard Hinault of France finished well back in the pack, but retained the overall lead.

Lemond, who was second overall Tuesday, at 5:26 behind Hinault, cut the Frenchman's lead to 40 seconds.

Robert Millar of Britain finished second Wednesday, at 1:11 behind, with Switzerland's Urs Zimmermann third at 1:14, Luis Herrera of Colombia fourth, at 1:50, and American Andy Hampsten fifth, at 2:20.

Ballesteros is Open favorite

TURNBERRY, Scotland (UPI) — Seve Ballesteros of Spain, the British Open winner in 1984, is the betting favorite to keep the title out of American hands for the third straight year.

When the $900,000 Open begins Thursday on the 6,957-yard, par-70 Ailsa course, Ballesteros will tee off as the 7-2 favorite for the $105,000 first prize.

Americans usually do well in the Open, but Ballesteros won two years ago and Sandy Lyle of Britain took the title in 1985. The last time an American failed to win the British Open three years in a row occurred from 1967-1969. Jack Nicklaus broke the drought with one of his three Open championships in 1970.

Ballesteros, who also won the British title in 1975, has the credentials to be the Open favorite. He has won his last four European tournaments, including the French Open earlier this month.

A TOP THREE finish for 29-year-old Ballesteros will make him the first player to reach the $1.5 million mark in European career winnings.

While Ballesteros is prepared to accept his role as one of the front-runners in the 153-player field, he thinks being the betting favorite is unrealistic.

"I would never pick one particular player — (there are) maybe 10 or 15 with more chance than the rest of the field," he said as he tuned up for the 115th edition of the world's oldest golf tournament.

Tom Watson has the best chance among the 41 U.S. challengers, according to the odds-makers, who named the 36-year-old the 9-1 second favorite, despite going two years without a win.

WATSON, convinced he has come out of his "low trough," likes the British links courses, having won the Open five times since 1975.

Another Watson victory at Turnberry, where he edged Nicklaus by one stroke when the tournament was held here nine years ago, would match Harry Vardon's record of six British Open titles.

Greg Norman the leading money-winner on the PGA Tour is another favorite. Unlike Ballesteros and Watson, Norman has never won a major championship, but the Australian's long-hitting game is ideally suited to handle the narrow fairways and punishing rough of the Ailsa course, especially if the wind gets up.

The "Great White Shark" has shown promise in major championships in the past, only to miss out. He lost a playoff against Fuzzy Zoeller in the U.S. Open two years ago and lost this year's Masters to Nicklaus on the last hole.

"I'm not going to get all uptight about it," Norman said of his past losses in major tournaments. "I just know that I'm enjoying myself right now. I'm playing well."

Norman said officials at Turnberry may have made the course a little too difficult by letting the rough grow out of control.

NORMAN, 12-1 in the betting, is one of the few players hoping for the wind to blow.

"I play pretty good in these conditions," Norman said Wednesday after shooting a 72 in his final practice round.

"I am glad we had some wind to get some idea how difficult the course can be. It is probably the toughest golf course for any major championship or any golf championship I have ever played.

"But I liked the course, the tougher the better, and I would like to see the wind blow for at least two or three days. In wind like this for four days, there are only 12 to 15 guys who can win — and I would hope to put myself among them."

West German Bernhard Langer, the 1985 U.S. Masters Champion, is also listed among the favorites.

LANGER, co-second favorite with Watson at 9-1, has an imposing British Open record, finishing second in 1981 and 1984 and tied for third last year.

While it is the younger players who are making news in Europe, it has been the year of the over 40s in the majors in America.

Just when everyone was writing him off, 46-year-old Jack Nicklaus rallied to win the Masters in April. Nicklaus, British Open champion in 1966, 1970 and 1978, is making his 25th consecutive appearance in the tournament and a victory at Turnberry would complete a fourth set of majors for the incomparable "Golden Bear."

Like Nicklaus, 43-year-old Ray Floyd was having problems until a victory in the U.S. Open. That triumph made him the 20-1 choice in the betting along with fellow-Americans Payne Stewart and Bob Tway and defending champion Lyle.

Pooley, Peete highlight 'Classic' field

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (UPI) — Calvin Peete, Don Pooley, Scott Hoch and defending champ Dan Forsman lead the field of contenders in this year's $400,000 Quad-Cities golf event, a tournament that PGA Commissioner Deane Beman said holds a "special place in my heart."

The tournament, which opens its 16th year Thursday, evokes fond memories for Beman because he was the 1971 winner when it was a "satellite" event and he captured it again in 1972, the first year the Quad-Cities Open was a PGA tour event. Since that time, the event has weathered some rocky financial times and has emerged as the Hardee's Golf Classic with new sponsorship, a $100,000 increase in purse and regional television coverage.

The 1986 VERSION is among the biggest and the best, according to tournament chairman Jon Nelson, with 132 golfers to compete on Oakwood Country Club's 6,514-yard track for the $72,000 first-place prize.

Peete, who was forced to withdraw from last week's PGA event due to a knee injury, is the biggest money winner on this year's tour among the field — his $312,959 ranks him eighth. Other top money winners include Pooley (21st).

Hoch (27th), Willie Wood (32nd), Forsman (33rd) and Tony Sills (36th).

Hoch, a two-time Quad-Cities Open winner, is the tour's latest $1 million winner and currently is the PGA's lowest scorer. Other $1 million winners in the field include Peete, George Archer, Andy North, Pooley, former champ Dave Stockton, Gil Morgan, J.C. Snead, Bob Gilder, Mark Hayes and Jack Renner.

FORSMAN, WHO fired a 13-under-par 267 to capture last year's event and is one of four winners of 1986 PGA events in this year's field, said last year's victory boosted his confidence and opened doors to other tournaments.

"It's been a stepping stone for me," said Forsman, 28, who also captured the Bay Hill tournament earlier this year. "It will always be very special and I'm thrilled to be back." Other defending champions in the field include Hoch, Stockton, Victor Regalado and Mike Morley.

Oakwood officials expect recent rainy and humid weather to make the course "play long" during the four rounds culminating Sunday. Other contenders in this year's event are Jim Dent, Tony Sills, Gil Morgan, Dan Halldorson, Mark Hayes and Ken Green.

camp," Payne said. "I don't know if Maurice Cheeks has signed a contract with Philadelphia or whether Isiah Thomas has resigned with Detroit.

"I know they didn't draft any guards with that reasonable of a chance to make it, although I hope Andre does. I just think there is going to be a trade somewhere."

BANKS SAID that he will "do what it takes" to make the NBA. This opens the possibility of Banks being a defensive specialist who would have the task of guarding an opposing team's top scoring guard.

"I would like to fit in anywhere I possibly can," Banks said. "Whatever Coach (Bill) Fitch wants me to do I think I can go out and get the job done."

Neither Banks nor Payne have signed a contract with Houston. Both may have the opportunity to sign with the Rockets after the first week of camp.

Both Banks and Payne said they would like the idea of playing together in a red and white uniform rather than the black and gold which they wore as teammates at Iowa for three years.

"It would be very interesting playing with Michael in the NBA," Banks said. "I wouldn't mind playing with him on the pro level at all."

U.S. claims net honors at Goodwill

MOSCOW (UPI) — Caroline Kuhlman defeated fellow American Beverly Bowes 6-4, 7-5 Wednesday in the women's tennis final at the Goodwill Games.

In the third-place match, Svetlana Parkhomenko of the Soviet Union outlasted countrywomen Larisa Savchenko 6-3, 3-6, 7-6. Parkhomenko and Savchenko earlier teamed to capture the doubles gold medal, beating the Czechoslovakian pair of Iva Budarova and Marcela Skuharska 6-3, 6-3. Kuhlman and Ronni Reis won the bronze by topping Leila Meskhi and Natalya Zvereva of the Soviet Union 7-5, 6-4.

In the men's singles final, Andrei Chesnokov of the Soviet Union defeated Marian Fajda of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-2, 6-4. American Brad Pirs earned the bronze with a 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 triumph over Alexander Zverev of the Soviet Union.

SERGEI LEONYUK, and Alexander Zverev of the Soviet Union advanced to the men's double final with a 4-6, 6-3, 6-2 decision over Americans Luke Jensen and Pirs. The Soviet team will face Vadja and Karel Novacek of Czechoslovakia, who reached the final by stopping the U.S. duo of Joe Berger and Kelly Johns 6-2, 5-7, 7-6.

Steven Cohen of the United States received a silver medal in the 215-pound and over class in the judo competition. The event was held in the Friendship Hall of Lenin Stadium. The gold went to Soviet Grigory Verichev, who defeated Cohen in 3 minutes, 3 seconds. Poland's Andrzej Bakil shared the bronze with Hvan Che Gil of North Korea. Cohen had outpointed Bakil 5-0 in the semifinals.

Senior Tour's money leader heads tourney

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — Dale Douglass, who heads the Senior Tour money list, will lead a field of 54 at the first Grand Rapid Open.

Douglass moved by Gary Player on the money list with a sixth place finish last week in the Greenbrier American Express Championship. Douglass has earned $204,566 thus far this year.

Also set to tee up in the opening round Friday at the 6,578-yard, par-71 Elks Country Club is Chi Chi Rodriguez, who last month captured his first major title by winning the Senior Tournament Players Championship. Rodriguez is third on the money list with $173,321.

Other top money winners entered in the 54-hole tournament include Lee Elder, Bruce Crampton, Charles Owens, Miller Barber and Harold Henning.

PETER THOMSON, the 1985 Senior Tour Player of the Year, and elder statesman Sam Snead, who has chalked up 84 victories in six decades of play, also are in the field.

Senior Tour Director Brian Henning said glowing reports from players who participated in an 18-hole event at the Elks last summer played a major role in the PGA's decision to sanction the tournament.

"Things couldn't be better," Henning said after touring the course before players began practice sessions Tuesday. "The course is in beautiful shape and the tournament organization has been excellent. I think Grand Rapids and the Senior Tour will have a long and rewarding relationship from what I've seen."

The tournament is one of five new events on the Senior Tour, which this year has a 31-tournament slate offering combined purses worth $7.5 million. Next year the schedule will be expanded to 37 tournaments, Henning said.

Shriver whips up start for in Virginia Slims

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Top-seeded Pam Shriver needed 40 minutes to defeat Tina Mochizuki 6-1, 6-1, Wednesday in the second round of the $150,000 Virginia Slims of Newport at the Newport Casino.

Shriver, of Lutherville, Md., ranked sixth in the world, did not allow a point in two service games. She allowed just one point in each five other games she served. Shriver also broke serve Mochizuki, of South Pasadena, Calif., five times.

"I thought she'd serve and volley more," Shriver said, "but her first serve percentage was the prime interest rate. She was in trouble from the start."

No. 5 seed Lori McNeil of Houston eliminated Caryn Copeland 6-7, (4-7), 6-2, 6-2.

MCNEIL, RANKED 57th, dominated the last two sets. She broke Copeland in the first and third games of the second set. In the deciding set, McNeil again started fast, breaking Copeland at love in the third game. She then assumed complete control with another break in the fifth game for a 4-1 lead.

Copeland won the next game, breaking serve, but McNeil broke back for a 5-2 lead. She closed out the match in the eighth game by hitting a forehand volley winner on the second match point.

Ex-Hawks vie for NBA spots

By Brad Zimanek
Sports Editor

Former Iowa basketball players Michael Payne and Andre Banks will have the opportunity to realize dreams of playing in the NBA, and the possibility of becoming teammates once again, when the Houston Rockets camp opens on Sunday.

Payne, who last year played in Italy, was a third round draft pick by Houston a year ago but decided not to give the NBA a try. Now he is back to attempt to make a team which a month ago finished second in the NBA behind the World Champion Boston Celtics.

"I think my chances are pretty good. The general manager talked optimistically," Payne said. "Seattle and Golden State were interested in me and I tried to get released and if the general manager thought that I had no chance of making the team he would have released me."

"HE SAID, 'No, we're not going to release you.'"

The 6-foot-9 Payne, though, will have to make a team which presently has Ralph Sampson, Akeem Olajuwon, Rodney McCray and Jim Petersen in the frontcourt. Payne, a four year starter at Iowa, believes his chances lie with beating out Granville Waiters or any other of the Rockets big men who did not see much playing time last season.

"They have a player named Granville Waiters, who played on Ohio State and they have another player named Hank McDowell, who played with Memphis State," Payne said in explaining his possibilities of acquiring a spot on the roster.

"Both of those players, Granville especially, are kind of limited with their offensive skills and their mobility and versatility, meaning that they can only guard guys their size."

"IN MY CASE, like Petersen who did a job on Kareem (Abdul Jabaar, in the playoffs), I can go out and guard a guy the size of Larry Bird. I'm not saying I can guard Larry Bird, but I'm someone more mobile, but yet I have the size to rebound and still be able to hit the outside shot."

"I know they didn't draft any guards with that reasonable of a chance to make it, although I hope Andre does," Former Iowa player Michael Payne, who will also try out for the Houston Rockets says.

Payne believes that even if he makes the roster for next season it won't make a big difference on the success of the Rockets, but he would like to be a part of the NBA team which has the possibility of breaking up the dominance in recent years of the Los Angeles Lakers, Boston Celtics and Philadelphia 76ers.

"If I make the team I don't know how much playing time I will get," Payne said. "I'm not going to be beefy about how much playing time I get or anything like that."

PAYNE ADDED, "I think basically they are a young team, they are a proven team. I think they need a point guard very badly and I think it seriously is a team of the future and I would be one of the happiest persons in the world if I could make that team."

Banks, a fifth round draft pick who was a point guard for the Hawkeyes the last two seasons, is in much the same position Payne is except for the fact that the Rockets need a player who can make things happen.

Banks may fill that role but Steve Harris, the former Tulsa player who was the Rockets top pick in 1985, and Oklahoma's Anthony Bowie, who was Houston's first guard selection this year, will definitely be fighting for that same opportunity.

"Hopefully I can go down there and play as hard as I possibly can and make it," Banks said. "I guess I have just as good a chance as anyone else."

"I REMEMBER watching the draft on television and Coach John Thompson, of Georgetown, said it is just a matter if a kid gets drafted to the right team and they need you at that position you so happen to play."

Payne wishes Banks luck but believes his chances of making the Rockets will not be at point guard because of a trade in Houston's near future.

"I'm feeling they are going to make a trade somewhere down the line shortly after this

Television presidents back NFL

NEW YORK (UPI) — Witnesses from ABC and ESPN Wednesday became the latest television executives to testify that the NFL did not attempt to exert pressure on them with respect to the U.S. Football League.

William Grimes, president of the cable sports network, and Fred Pierce, former president of ABC Inc. and still a consultant with the network, testified as NFL witnesses in the league's defense of the USFL's antitrust claims.

The 10-week-old trial in U.S. District Court in Manhattan is winding down, with the NFL expected Thursday to present its final witness, Commissioner Pete Rozelle. The six-person jury tentatively is scheduled to get the case for deliberation next Thursday.

THE USFL contends its inability to get network coverage for the upcoming fall season — its first in direct competition with the NFL — has been a result of NFL pressure on the networks.

NBC Sports President Arthur Watson's testimony Monday echoed the earlier statements by Roone Arledge, ABC group president of news and sports, and Neal Pilson, executive vice president for CBS Broadcast Group. Both said the NFL had not tried to exert pressure on the networks on whether to televise USFL games.

However, USFL Commissioner Harry Usher and former ABC commentator Howard Cosell testified Arledge alluded to NFL pressure on different occasions.

Grimes testified that ESPN initially contracted to televise USFL games for two years, starting in 1983, for $11 million. The league gave ESPN, which had a heavy schedule of college sports, its first opportunity to televise professional sports, he said.

ESPN negotiated a three-year contract extension in 1984 for $70 million after the USFL received an offer from Turner Broadcasting for $62 million for three years, he explained.

Chicago begins camp in deadly midwest heat

PLATTEVILLE, Wis. (UPI) — The reigning NFL champion Chicago Bears got less than royal treatment Wednesday, huffing in 93-degree heat and humidity while getting acquainted with blocking sleds, wind sprints and sweat-drenched uniforms in their first day of practice.

"The first day you have to remember how to put your pads on," said defensive safety Dave Duerson. "It's customary when you put that helmet on and that mouthpiece in for the first time you just want to gag," but once the reality of training camp sinks in "it isn't too bad."

"It's almost like we just picked things up from last January," added Duerson, who signed a new contract with the Bears on the eve of the start of summer drills.

THE BEARS coaching staff and the Wisconsin weather guaranteed that no one left the field with a dry uniform, but defensive leader Mike Singletary insisted "there wasn't any heat" as he wrapped up his first workout.

"It's one of those deals, you come out here and see everybody and get excited about it. I'm ready to go back into the next (practice)," the Pro Bowl linebacker said. "I'd rather be here than at home working out."

Several hundred onlookers and autograph-seekers lined the shaded perimeters of the University of Wisconsin-Platteville practice fields for a five-ring circus punctuated by the familiar sounds of Bear quarterback Jim McMahon barking signals during the two, two-hour workouts.

"WHAT A GREAT day! What a great day! Let's go," shouted Coach Mike Ditka as the nearly 90 players lined up for their first calisthenics of the 1986 season that they hope will be a carbon copy of last year's 18-1 march to the Super Bowl XX victory in New Orleans.

After a series of warm-ups that included kangaroo hops and stretch exercises, the interior linemen concentrated on knocking the blocking sleds around the field and most players initiated their uniforms with grass stains during a 30-minute limited scrimmage.
