Coroner's deputies carry the remains of a victim past the wreckage of an automobile and a destroyed home. Authorities estimate 72 people are dead as a result of a mid-air crash of an Aeromexico DC-9 and a single engine plane in Cerritos, Calif., Sunday.

72 die in jetliner collision

CERRITOS, Calif. (UPI) — Federal investigators asked Monday that drug tests be given to Los Angeles air traffic controllers who were on duty when a single-engine plane sliced the tail off an Aeromexico jetliner, sending both planes hurtling to the ground.

The death count remained at 72 Monday evening. This included 64 passengers of Aeromexico flight 498 and all three passengers of the four-seat Piper that struck the jetliner. Authorities say at least five residents were killed and seven injured when the airliner struck the suburban Los Angeles neighborhood.

Many residents are still missing. Investigators continued to scour the rubble Monday.

"They are finding quite a number of body parts, so the number of dead will undoubtedly go up," Fire Capt. Garry Oversby said.

"THERE IS NO official count whatsoever on ground casualties," Red Cross spokesman Ralph Wright said. "Part of the problem is we're on a holiday weekend and we don't know who was home and who wasn't. People are only now coming back after a day at the beach."

At a news conference several miles from the crash site, National Transportation Safety Board investigator John Lauber said authorities have been asked to administer drug tests to controllers who were on duty at Los Angeles International Airport just before noon, when the tragedy occurred.

Asked if that was normal procedure, he replied, "It's getting to be."

Lauber said the light plane should have been operating its transponder, an instrument that ensures the small craft will appear on air traffic control radar.

LAUBER SAID THE transponder was found near the wreckage of the Piper with the "on button" activated. But he said investigators have not yet determined whether the instrument was working properly.

"If it was working they should have been able to see it on the screen," Lauber said. He did not indicate whether or not the plane was visible on radar screens.

Lauber said "the best information we have" indicates the Piper's pilot was not in voice contact with air traffic controllers.

The Aeromexico jetliner's "black box" flight recorder, containing a recording of the flight deck conversation, was flown to Washington Monday and will be reviewed by experts there today.

MOST OF THE bodies were removed from the wreckage by daybreak Monday, but coroner's spokesman Bill Gold said rescue workers were taking care in picking up the remains of the passengers in hopes of expediting identification.

"You might have a wallet near a man's body and a handbag near a woman's body. We're being careful about moving things until we've had a chance to examine the connections," Gold said.

An autopsy late Monday on the man believed to have been flying the Piper indicated he died of multiple injuries and that a heart attack was a "contributing factor."

Gold said it was impossible to tell if the heart attack occurred before, during or after the collision.

Workers were draining two backyard swimming pools after parts of bodies were found there. Only the chimneys of several of the three- and four-bedroom homes remained standing.

About 20 families spent the night in a shelter set up at Cerritos High School. Most of them cannot return to their homes because the FAA has the area cordoned off.

Soviet ship sinks liner in collision

MOSCOW (UPI) — The 17,000-ton Soviet passenger liner Admiral Nakimov collided with a cargo ship off the heavily traveled Black Sea coast and sank with "loss of life" Sunday night, the official Tass news agency said Monday.

Tass did not indicate how many people were aboard the ship or how many died in the collision Sunday about 800 miles south of Moscow inside Soviet territorial waters. The ship can carry up to 870 passengers.

"Rescue measures have been taken. The necessary assistance is rendered to those affected. There has been loss of life," the brief Tass report said.

It said the liner sank off the Black Sea port of Novorossiysk. The Soviet cargo vessel was not named and apparently was not seriously damaged.

A SPOKESMAN FOR the Soviet weather bureau said conditions were clear with apparently calm seas. "There was no fog, no rain and only moderate winds," he said.

A diplomat whose embassy asked about the accident said he was told the passenger liner sank in about 30 minutes after being rammed by the cargo vessel.

He said the Admiral Nakimov apparently had full running lights on when the accident took place.

The diplomat said there did not appear to be any foreigners on board. He said several ships were involved in a rescue mission, but Soviet government officials did not say how many people may have been killed or were aboard the ship.

The accident was the second major sinking of a Soviet cruise ship in six months. The luxury liner Mikhail Lermontov struck rocks off New Zealand in February and went down, killing one sailor.

THE ADMIRAL Nakimov, whose home port is Odessa, is owned by the Soviet government's Black Sea shipping line. The ship was built in Germany in 1925 and was one of the oldest still in use by the line.

Tass said a board of inquiry headed by Politburo member Geidar Aliyev was established to investigate the accident. A spokesman for the Soviet Merchant Marine Ministry in Moscow confirmed the ship sank and some people died but refused to give any further details. Soviet television also announced the sinking, but gave no other details.

The port of Novorossiysk is equipped with a Hungarian-built electronic navigation and reference aid system. It was not immediately known if the navigational system was in use at the time of the collision.

Heart transplant program founder leaves UI

By Phil Thomas
Staff Writer

One of the co-founders of the renowned cardiovascular research and heart transplant program at the UI Hospitals said Monday he is leaving for a job in Cincinnati.

UI Associate Surgery Professor Loren Hiratzka said he will probably leave Iowa City in October to take a job with a private group associated with the University of Cincinnati Medical School.

He will also have teaching duties at the school, he said.

Hiratzka's salary at the UI was not a factor in his decision to leave, he said.

UI Surgery Professor Robert

Corry said Hiratzka will be missed greatly by his colleagues.

"We'll all miss him. He's done an outstanding job here," Corry said. "We had hoped that he would stay."

CORRY SAID Hiratzka will make substantially more money with the private practice in Cincinnati, but added that he also felt that money didn't influence Hiratzka's decision.

"It's not a controversial thing," Corry said.

Hiratzka also said there was no controversy involved in his decision to leave the UI after about 10 years of involvement with UI Hospitals.

A student in the UI College of Medicine from 1967 to 1970, Hiratzka returned to the UI in 1977 as a research fellow and became a faculty member in 1980.

"Whenever people leave, there's always a little push and there's always a little pull," he said.

UI medical faculty salaries are about in the middle of the national range, Corry said.

"We're probably right in the middle of what a medical faculty is paid," he said.

ALTHOUGH THE UI faculty pay scale remains in the depths of the Big Ten university ratings, Corry said the UI Hospitals continue to get highly qualified doctors and surgeons on staff.

Corry said he was already interviewing a top surgeon from the University of Michigan for a position on the UI Hospitals staff.

"We anticipate having replacements on the scene very soon," he said. "We're constantly recruiting."

Corry said doctors and surgeons in medical schools are often moving about and checking on different career options.

"There are a lot of people coming and leaving," he said.

Hiratzka's work with the UI heart transplant program began in 1983. The first transplant at the UI Hospitals was in June 1985.

SINCE THAT time there have been five heart transplants at UI Hospitals, including one performed Wednesday on former UI engineer Kaye Henry.

Henry, who was operated on by Ronald Meng and Anthony Rogers of the hospital staff, was listed in serious condition Monday.

UI Hospitals Public Affairs Director Dean Borg said Henry's condition was showing slow, progressive improvement.

Hiratzka said the UI Hospitals has been a good experience for him.

"I think the hospital is excellent," he said.

Iowans among holiday traffic deaths

At least five people died on state roads during the Labor Day weekend including a 6-year-old Atlantic, Iowa, boy who was run over while riding his bicycle.

Authorities say Tommy Gustin was riding the bicycle from an alley Sunday evening when he was struck by a car driven by Betty Kimball, 62, from Atlantic. The boy was dead at the scene. No charges were filed against Kimball.

Only one Johnson County resident was reported killed on state highways this weekend. Kimberly Jo Miller, 20, North Liberty, Iowa, died Friday.

Miller sustained fatal injuries on a rural road north of Interstate 80 about 7 p.m.

This story was compiled from reports by Daily Iowan staff members and United Press International.

One fatality occurred in Johnson County. A Traer, Iowa, woman was killed Sunday after the car she was riding in collided with another car at the intersection of state Highway 965 and a county road east of Swisher, Iowa.

Thelma Benter, 74, of Traer, Iowa, was dead on arrival Sunday at a Cedar Rapids hospital. Agnes Dreessen, 78, the driver of the car, was listed in serious condition. Dreessen failed to stop at the intersection, according to Iowa Highway Patrol officers.

DAVID GRUHN, 48, Sabula, Iowa, was killed Saturday when the motorcycle he was riding crossed a center line and crashed into a pickup on state Highway 52 in Jackson County.

The driver of the pickup, Leslie Grahms, 67, Webster City, Iowa, and his wife, Helen, received minor injuries. No charges were filed in connection with the accident.

At least one other Iowan died in an accident during the holiday weekend.

State Highway Patrol Sgt. Dan Jahnke, Cedar Rapids, said Monday night that traffic holiday traffic was heavier than normal this year.

Jahnke said pleasant weekend weather probably encouraged more state drivers to take to roads, increasing the volume of weekend traffic.

"We've had an extremely large amount of traffic," he said.

TO MEET THE demands of the heavier traffic, the patrol increased its manpower on state roads by about 40 percent during the weekend, he said.

Reports from patrol officers show a high percentage of Iowa travellers are obeying the new state law requiring the front-seat occupants of vehicles to wear seat belts.

"We're getting a very good response to that," he said.

The Labor Day weekend is traditionally one of the heaviest traffic periods across the nation, Jahnke said.

But he said if drivers will use common sense and follow the law, the number of injuries on state highways can be reduced.

Last Labor Day was one of the bloodiest holiday weekends in history, with the highest fatality rate in at least ten years.

More than 11 people were killed on state highways and more than 360 died nationwide last Labor Day.

More than half of last year's Labor Day traffic fatalities were alcohol-related.

Iowa Guard Unit finds Honduras harmless

By Bruce Japsen
Staff Writer

Local members of the Iowa National Guard Unit who returned from their two-week training exercise in Honduras this weekend said the mission was a "success" despite criticism from area protesters.

The 38 members of the 209th Medical Company from Iowa City returned Saturday, answering many questions about their controversial trip that began this month triggered a protest leading to one arrest.

"It was more than just doing dentistry and practicing medicine," said Richard Young, a resident oral surgeon at UI Hospitals and Clinics.

"The purpose of the trip was for training in an area that we don't encounter at home, and in that respect the trip was a tremendous success," Young said.

CRITICS SAID the trip was too dangerous and would not provide satisfactory training for the unit. Opponents were assured the group would be kept a safe distance from the neighboring, civil-war-torn Nicaragua.

Blaine Kelly, a 21-year-old computer science major at the UI, said critics of the trip were wrong. Kelly's brother, Brett, 23, a UI pharmacy major, also made the trip.

"It was a really peaceful mission. If I saw any of the protesters now, I'd have to say, 'I told you so.'"

"It wasn't as bad as I thought it was going to be," Kelly said. "I saw no war injuries and there were no hostilities."

About 50 people voiced opposition to U.S. involvement in Central America at the Iowa National Guard Armory, 925 S. Dubuque St., in August when the 38-member group prepared to leave for Honduras. During the incident, Bev Mabee of Iowa City was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and interference with official acts.

BOB HEARST, a member of the Central American Solidarity Committee and one of several organizers of the armory protest, said the medical unit's trip may be a stepping stone for greater U.S. involvement in Central America.

"The U.S. is just using Honduras as a military base. They were pawns used in the Reagan administration's policy in Central America."

"If they say they were going down there to get training that they could not get anywhere else, then that's what scares me," Hearst said. "The government must think they will be needed in a real military situation in the future."

Members trained in Honduran villages where natives were in need of medical assistance. They also performed various field training exercises.

"When we went on missions into some of the villages there was no sign of any problem," Young said. "At no time during the trip did I feel a concern for my safety or the safety of the other members."

Holiday spurs criticism of U.S. labor policies

By Dan McClain
Staff Writer

Local labor leaders met Labor Day, the national holiday created to recognize the value of America's workers, with mixed emotions and open criticism of President Ronald Reagan's labor policies.

Barry Kucera, a representative for the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America Local 1260, said he expects the position of American organized labor to improve in the near future, although he is worried about the harm the Reagan administration may be doing to organized labor.

Kucera's union has been on strike against the Spencer Construction Co. at the site of the new Coralville Public Library since July. No agreement appears likely in the near future, he said.

"Everything is slanted to the right now, toward management," Kucera said. "But I think people are ready to go the other way, to make a change."

KUCERA SAID he is particularly concerned about Reagan's two recent U.S. Supreme Court nominees and decisions by the National Labor Relations Board, because those actions will affect the labor movement long after the president leaves office.

The attitude of the National Labor Relations Board under the Reagan administration is an example of the president's position on labor issues, Kucera said. The board has overturned a substantial number of long-standing pro-union court decisions since Reagan first took office, he said.

Frank DePirro, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 183, said he is also displeased with the stance state and federal Republican leaders have taken on labor issues.

"If not being actually anti-union ... (Reagan's) labor department has not been a strong one as far as supporting labor," he said.

DEPIRRO ALSO had harsh words for Gov. Terry Branstad and criticized "strong anti-union" state laws, including one barring public employees from striking. Such laws, he said, actively hinder efforts to organize workers effectively.

Despite such obstacles, DePirro said the position of local unions has remained relatively stable.

"I wouldn't say that things are stagnant, but I don't think things are looking really good either," he said.

Don Winter, union representative for the UI Employees Union, AFSMCE Local 12, said cuts in the federal education budget have been hard on the UI as a whole, including its 520-member employees union.

"THE POOR economic climate, Ronald Reagan and Branstad have all been hard on labor unions here in the state," he said.

DePirro and Winter expressed hope people would take time on Labor Day to remember the struggle of the American worker and to focus on the contributions of the labor movement.

People should concentrate on the positive elements of what the union movement has done in the United States, including the establishment of a minimum wage and the eight-hour day, DePirro said.

Winter encouraged people to think about the history of the union movement.

"People must remember that it was the blood, sweat and tears of those who walked the path before us that put us where we are today," Winter said.

Senate may cut funding for controversial student group

By Joseph Levy
Special to The Daily Iowan

Controversy concerning the activities of the Central America Solidarity Committee could spice up an otherwise uneventful Student Senate meeting tonight.

According to senate Budgeting and Auditing Committee member Mike Gainer, the Central America Solidarity Committee could be in for trouble.

"There's a possibility that they could be coming up for removal of their status," Gainer said.

An advertisement published in the Aug. 27 issue of The Daily Iowan by the Central America Solidarity Committee may have violated guidelines set for senate-funded organizations, Gainer said.

"The ad is questionably political," he said.

According to the senate's Budget Protocol Act, no funds can be allocated by the senate to a "political or politically affiliated group."

A CLAUSE IN the same document defines a political group as one that "publicly works toward the election or defeat of particular candidates."

The ad in question referred to Iowa Republican Sen. Chuck Grassley as a supporter of "Contra terrorism."

Grassley is facing a re-election battle against Des Moines Democrat John Roehrick.

Bruce Nestor, a member of the Central America Solidarity Committee, said Monday the ad was paid for by private contributions, not by the committee.

"The Central America Committee got money from every person listed in the ad to run that ad," he said. "It was paid for with non-university funds."

CENTRAL AMERICA Soli-

arity Committee member Stephen Vlastos also believes the ad was not a violation of senate policy.

"I can't imagine how it could be," he said. "That seems like either a serious misunderstanding or else something that was done maliciously."

Vlastos explained the Central America Solidarity Committee organized the collection of private funds that paid for the ad, but made no financial contribution itself.

The Budgeting and Auditing Committee will discuss the fate of the Central America Solidarity Committee before the regular Student Senate meeting tonight, Gainer said.

Senate Vice President Staci Rhine said because the meeting is the first of the year, the agenda should include few items.

"It will be a general organizational meeting to get the committees moving," she said.

Local groups expand efforts to raise funds for Jerry's kids

By Darin E. Baker
Special to the Daily Iowan

A number of local residents and groups volunteered their efforts this weekend in support of the annual Labor Day Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, hoping to top last year's Iowa City area total of more than $6,000.

Totals for this year's efforts were not available late Monday, but area coordinators hoped to reach their goal of $7,000, using a new publicity approach.

Philip Zerwas, coordinator for the telethon in Iowa City, said the Muscular Dystrophy Association is improving on publicity this year in less populated areas.

"We are trying to promote it more this year in local and rural areas," Zerwas said. Fundraising in highly populated areas, such as Cedar Rapids, is easier than in rural areas, he said.

"The people of Eastern Iowa are really putting their muscle behind MDA," Dave Drewe-low, Eastern Iowa Telethon Coordinator, said. In 1985, the Cedar Rapids area telethon raised $238,124. Totals in Iowa City showed $6,251 in donations to MDA.

MANY IOWA CITY residents were greeted at their front

doors this weekend by MDA volunteers taking donations, while others donated money to volunteers posted outside local grocery stores and shopping malls.

Members of Alpha Phi Omega National Co-ed Service Fraternity, a UI service organization, volunteered their time by answering telephones during the telethon. The group also organizes the MDA Super Dance, held annually at the Union during the spring semester. Last year, the dance brought in more than $1,800 in pledges and donations.

Funds raised through the telethon support research at more than 240 clinics nationwide. Research includes diagnosis, physical therapy and counseling for patients with anyone of 40 neuromuscular diseases that are part of MDA studies. Iowa research facilities are located at UI Hospitals.

Last year, the Labor Day telethon raised $33,181,652, nationally for use in the research of neuromuscular diseases. More than $34 million was raised for muscular dystrophy during the past weekend.

Fund-raising chili cookoff spices up Regina Festival

By B. Gordon
Special to The Daily Iowan

Sometimes it's not far from Iowa City to Texas. Sometimes it's just a jalapeño away. "Here's your spoons — hope they don't dissolve by the time you get to the end," said a robust young man wearing a cowboy hat and T-shirt boasting, "I Survived the First Annual Chili Cookoff, Regina High School Fall Fun Festival."

The fund-raising event, held in addition to a garage sale Saturday at Regina, was no smalltime Midwestern chili cookoff. This one was done by the rules. Most of the judges were members of the Festival organizing committee, but at their head was an official member of the Chili Appreciation Society International, Phil Hamilton.

Hamilton, dressed in Western garb complete with gun holster packing a pair of Michelob and sampler bottles of Jack Daniels, came equipped with CASI rules and a rough-hewn set of taste buds.

THE CASI regulations are a study in simplicity: All chili must be cooked on site on a Coleman stove or equivalent; no vegetable or pasta fillers may be used; and no short cuts such as using mixes or hamburger meat may be used, although the beef may be cubed in advance.

An essential part of any honest-to-goodness chili cookoff is showmanship. At the Iowa City cookoff, visitors were given a guided tour of "the condo" by Sandy Christensen, member of the Rapid Flow Chili Bunch of Cedar Rapids.

"We call it Rapid Flow because once it goes down, it flows out very rapidly," she began.

"We're trying to show everybody what showmanship is about, make it loud and obnoxious," she said as she took her visitors to a wooden shack behind the cooking tables, clearly a portable outhouse.

THE CONDO has been in our family for generations. We've preserved the original smell," Christensen said.

The facility is family-sized, equipped with two large seats side by side and a smaller one near the door for baby.

Between the two adult seats is a napkin holder packed with corncobs — some red and some white.

"You use the red ones first, and then the white ones are to see if you need to use the red ones again," she said, winking. "If you see what I mean."

Showmanship aside, everyone was really there for the chili, as CASI representative Hamilton told his judges.

"You can talk, but not about chili," he said. "Like fine wine, chili is judged first for aroma, then color, consistency, taste and aftertaste."

After much deliberation, the winners were chosen. Among the nine contesting cooks, Christensen made the trophy-winning chili of the day.

School board plans search for Hiratzka's replacement

By James Cahoy
Staff Writer

In their search to replace board member Kathy Hiratzka, members of the Iowa City School Board said Sunday they are looking for candidates who are "concerned about the issues."

Hiratzka, who is leaving the board after one year to move to Cincinnati with her family, "will be missed," according to Superintendent of schools David Cronin. Her resignation will take effect Sept. 8.

"We were kind of saddened that she would have to leave the board," Cronin said.

"I was really sorry to hear she was leaving," board member Lynne Cannon said. "She was just getting into the swing of things."

THE BOARD must appoint somebody within 10 days of the date of the resignation said Jerry Palmer, executive director of Administrative Services for Iowa City Schools. The appointment would be effective until the 1987 school board election, when the seat will be declared vacant, Palmer said.

"It's been past practice to fill it with somebody who has been knowledgeable of how the school board works and the issues it deals with, such as a past school board member, but the board can choose anybody," Palmer said. If the board fails to make an appointment, a special election can be called to fill the vacancy.

But that situation is unlikely, said board President Ellen Widiss. "Under the current circumstances, with only two candidates running in the general election, it would be ridiculous to call a special election which would cost the district money unless we had no other choice."

Widiss and Orville Townsend, a rehabilitation counselor for the Iowa City Area Rehabilitation Office of the Iowa Department of Public Instruction, are running unopposed in the Sept. 9 race.

18 South Africans injured in bombing

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — A bomb planted by suspected black guerrillas ripped through a crowded supermarket in Durban Monday, wounding 18 people in the 17th rebel bombing since the white-led government imposed emergency rule June 12, authorities said.

The bomb exploded at 1:05 p.m. in Pick 'n' Pay supermarket in the Durban neighborhood of Montclair. It shattered windows, destroyed counters and sent shoppers fleeing into the parking lot choking from smoke.

A government Bureau for Information said in Pretoria that a 20-year-old white woman was seriously wounded in the explosion. A 3-year-old girl was also injured.

Another 16 people, 10 of them blacks, were slightly hurt in the explosion at the crowded supermarket in Montclair, 10 miles south of the Durban city center on South Africa's eastern coast. No group or individual immediately claimed responsibility for the bombing.

Army probes Iowan's accidental death

EL PASO, Texas — Army officials have released few details surrounding the shooting death of a private from Ankeny, Iowa, other than that he was shot accidentally during a training exercise.

Pvt. Robert Ryan, 18, was shot during basic training at Fort Bliss, Texas, Friday. His parents, Eugene and Marcia Ryan, were informed of his death Saturday by an Army representative.

The Army told the Ryans their son, who entered the Army July 22, was shot accidentally on the McGregor Range at Fort Bliss. He died shortly thereafter at the Beaumont Medical Center.

Fort Bliss spokesman Lt. Col. Dave Steward said the incident is under investigation. He said a company of new enlistees was practicing with M-16 rifles when the accident occurred. Steward said authorities know from whose gun the fatal shot was fired.

Hormel workers unhappy with proposal

AUSTIN, Minn. — Angry strikers have denounced the proposed contract to settle the year-long labor dispute at the Geo. A. Hormel & Co. plant in Austin, claiming few would get their jobs back.

More than 600 workers, who have refused to cross picket lines since the strike started Aug. 17, 1985, jammed the National Guard Armory Sunday for a meeting called by the newly formed North American Meatpackers Union, which is trying to become the new bargaining agent.

The proposed settlement, announced last week, was called a "backroom deal" and many strikers complained bitterly that it failed to provide for the recall of 900 workers replaced at Austin and the 575 workers fired at Ottumwa, Iowa, for honoring a roving picket line set up by Austin strikers.

A hearing officer has ordered Hormel to rehire the Ottumwa workers but it was claimed that only about 200 employees will return to work because the work force has been reduced.

Former Harkin aide now helps Grassley

DES MOINES (INA) — Iowa Republican Sen. Chuck Grassley has announced that Dick Thomas, a former aide to Iowa Sens. Harold Hughes and Tom Harkin, will be chairman of Democrats for Grassley.

For three years Thomas directed Harold Hughes' Senate offices in the state of Iowa and for four years he served as district representative for Harkin, who was a congressman at the time.

Iowa City's Kitty Buckwalter, an associate professor at the UI School of Nursing, has been named co-chair of Democrats for Grassley.

Nagasaki veteran fasting for legal rights

CAPITOLA, Calif. (UPI) — A 71-year-old "crusty former Marine" began a hunger strike Monday on behalf of veterans like himself who were exposed to atomic radiation but are prohibited from taking their case to court.

Victor Tolley, a retired postal worker who was exposed to radiation in the aftermath of the U.S. bombing of Nagasaki, Japan, in World War II, said he will drink only juice and water and take no solid food during the fast.

He said the strike will last until Congress agrees to permit "atomic" veterans to sue defense contractors for damages they suffered.

Tolley held a news conference in Sacramento, Calif., Monday then returned to his home in Capitola, near Santa Cruz and began his fast at midnight.

KGB sets deadline to charge Daniloff

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet authorities told U.S. News & World Report correspondent Nicholas Daniloff, held for alleged espionage since Saturday, that he will be charged or released in 10 days, his wife said Monday.

"What I learned from my meeting with Nick was that in 10 days he would either be charged or released," Ruth Daniloff said after visiting her husband at the KGB interrogation center at Lefortovo prison. She said her husband was informed of the 10-day deadline by his KGB interrogator.

"If he's charged, presumably there will be a trial," she said.

Daniloff, 52, was taken into custody after KGB agents surrounded him as a Soviet source handed him a package containing allegedly top-secret maps. The Soviet media said he was caught red-handed in a spying action.

Mortimer Zuckerman, owner and editor of the magazine, arrived in Moscow to press Soviet officials to release Daniloff, charging the journalist was the victim of "a phony arrest based on contrived circumstances."

ZUCKERMAN SAID he will meet today with Soviet officials, but refused to name them.

"I will express to them that what has happened here is really inconsistent with the spirit of Geneva," Zuckerman said on arrival from Washington via London.

"And if the Russians think that they can have a spy arrested in the United States for alleged espionage and to retaliate by arresting an innocent journalist who is also working here — I think that's just an outrage."

Zuckerman referred to Soviet U.N. employee Gennadi Zakharov, 39, being held without bond in New York after the FBI arrested him Aug. 23 while paying an informant $1,000 for classified U.S. documents.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes charged Monday that Daniloff had been "detained on an illegal charge — one that we think he was framed on."

"THE SOVIETS are trying to make Daniloff a hostage to contrived charges," Speakes said, "and that will not work. I will not speculate on our course of action."

The New York Times reported the administration is prepared for a long confrontation over the matter and that the United States will make no deals for

Mortimer Zuckerman

Daniloff's release.

Administration officials said the United States will reserve such options as retaliation and indicated the incident will not, for the moment, disrupt movement toward a super-power summit.

"We just don't know what's going to happen," one White House official said. "If this thing drags on and on, we don't know what might be necessary to get him out."

Former CIA Director Stansfield Turner suggested on the "CBS Morning News" that Reagan might cancel a summit planning session later this month between Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze if Daniloff is not released soon. The Soviets canceled a similar meeting scheduled for May in response to the U.S. attack on Libya.

DANILOFF IS believed to be the first U.S. journalist held overnight in a Soviet jail since 1949, when American author and journalist Anna Louise Strong was arrested and held in the Lubianka prison for five days before she was released on the Polish border.

Daniloff served 5 and one half years in the Soviet capital for the magazine and three years for United Press International in the early 1960s.

The KGB reportedly tried once before to frame Daniloff, who was to take a leave of absence next month to write a book.

Two years ago, the KGB approached David Goldfarb, 68, a retired Soviet genetics professor who first applied to emigrate to join his son in Israel in 1979, and asked him to pass secret papers to Daniloff, Ruth Daniloff and Goldfarb's son in New York said.

Goldfarb refused to set up his friend, she said.

Gadhafi says he'll flee Libya to deter attack

LONDON (UPI) — Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi, calling President Ronald Reagan a "coward" and "a second-rate actor," said in a fiery speech this weekend that he is prepared to go into exile to fight the United States.

Gadhafi told a rally late Sunday night that he was ready to leave his country to save it from the "vengeance" of Reagan. And he vowed that in exile he would form an "international army" of tens of thousands of fighters to strike at Americans throughout the world.

U.S. officials warned last week that Libya is preparing new terrorist attacks on Americans and another air strike might be carried out to prevent them.

"America should be certain that we will fight it . . . and it will never win," Gadhafi said in a speech broadcast by state-run Libyan radio and monitored by the British Broadcasting Corp. in London.

GADHAFI SAID Libyans would fight the United States "house to house and trench to trench." He portrayed President Reagan as "a second-rate actor" and said "Reagan does not read history, he reads cheap Hollywood scenarios."

"I am not a coward like him, coming from beyond the sea and striking at a peaceful people with long-range missiles," Gadhafi told the crowd in Tripoli's Al-Khadra Square, referring to the U.S. air attack on Libya April 15.

Gadhafi, clad in fatigues, made a second public appearance Monday morning, viewing a two-hour military parade through the streets of Tripoli, the Libyan capital.

The appearances marked the anniversary of the 1969 bloodless coup led by Gadhafi that toppled Libya's King Idris, whom Gadhafi despised as corrupt and subservient to the United States and Britain.

TWELVE DAYS after the coup on Sept. 1, Gadhafi, then a 31-year-old army colonel, became president of the Revolutionary Command Council and de facto chief of state.

The anniversary was also commemorated by the arrival of a Soviet delegation headed by First Vice President Pyotr Demichev, who met with Gadhafi Sunday.

"The Soviet official reaffirmed his country's firm condemnation of the imperialist aggression against the Libyan Arab people," Libyan radio said. "He praised the courageous confrontation of the aggression which aimed to undermine the free choice of the Libyan people."

In his anniversary speech, Gadhafi said the United States was determined to gain control of the Libyan coast because of the U.S. policy of confrontation with the Soviet Union worldwide.

"IF AMERICA triumphed over Libya and triumphed over Syria and Algeria, the Soviet Union's situation will be in danger" and the Mediterranean would become an American lake, Gadhafi said.

"This is one of the reasons for a joint struggle between us and the Soviet Union, because the fall of Libya will lead to the siege of the USSR and to the defeat of the Soviet Union's enemy, which is America," he said.

News stars eyed for pay cut

FRIENDLY SUGGESTION: Former CBS News President Fred Friendly has a friendly suggestion for Tom Brokaw, Dan Rather and Peter Jennings: How about a nice fat pay cut?

Friendly says news stars such as Rather, who makes upwards of $2.5 million, hurt their fellow workers by taking such whopping salaries. He says if the super news jocks would take a pay cut, the others might not get fired.

"Brokaw, Rather, Jennings, Walters, Wallace and the others are not quarterbacks or pitchers or centers with fragile knees and eight-year career risks," Friendly told the Radio and Television News Directors Association. "They have virtual lifetime tenure ... and each in my judgment ought to volunteer a cut in pay." Any takers?

Rather Hope Asner Penn

apartment where he lives with wife Madonna.

Penn spat at one of several photographers awaiting the Penns as they approached their home, the New York Post said. When the man returned the gesture Penn hit Galella in the face with a shopping bag and caused him to stumble into the building's courtyard. "That's it, now you're on private property. You're dead," Penn said. He spat again and punched Galella, the newspaper said.

Meanwhile, Madonna screamed: "How could you do this to us, you have no business being here."

DELOREAN'S DILEMMA: It almost seems as if John Z. DeLoorean lives in the courtroom. He's on trial again, this time in Detroit, charged with racketeering and fraud from international transactions concerning his defunct dream-car company. The trial was to start Sept. 8, but a federal judge delayed it until Oct. 6 because European witnesses are still being interviewed.

But there's more on the docket. DeLoorean still has to settle $100 million in bankruptcy claims, and one of his lawyers says an out-of-court settlement may be just around the bend.

SON OF A BEACH BLANKET: Annette Funicello and Frankie Avalon have agreed to host a spring break rock 'n' roll reunion on Fort Lauderdale Beach, Fla., next June. The folks at the Broward County Tourist Development Council came up with the flashy title "Spring Break Reunion" for the four-weekend bash. Promoter Grant Gravitt says The Beach Boys, Jan and Dean, the Everly Brothers, Chuck Berry and Blood, Sweat and Tears are willing to participate.

STILL SUPER AFTER ALL THESE SEQUELS: Margot Kidder is going to suit up again as Lois Lane, and Christopher Reeve will do his Clark Kent thing in Superman IV. Menahem Golan of Cannon Group Inc. says production on the fourth Superman movie will begin Sept. 15 at Cannon's Elstree Studios in London.

JOHNSON IMMORTALIZED: Don Johnson has been on just about every magazine cover in the Western world, and now he has even been featured on page 63 of the Frederick's of Hollywood catalogue. An artist in the Frederick's advertising department apparently had some fun drawing the "Miami Vice" star's face on one of the models in the masquerade costumes section of the 40th anniversary catalogue. Frederick's publicist Ellen Appel said she knew nothing about the picture, but guessed the resemblance "was an accident."

JUST A TEST: Abbie Hoffman wants to test freedom of speech limits in his new syndicated radio show, "Radio Free U.S.A.," and says he plans to announce "several national security decisions" on each broadcast.

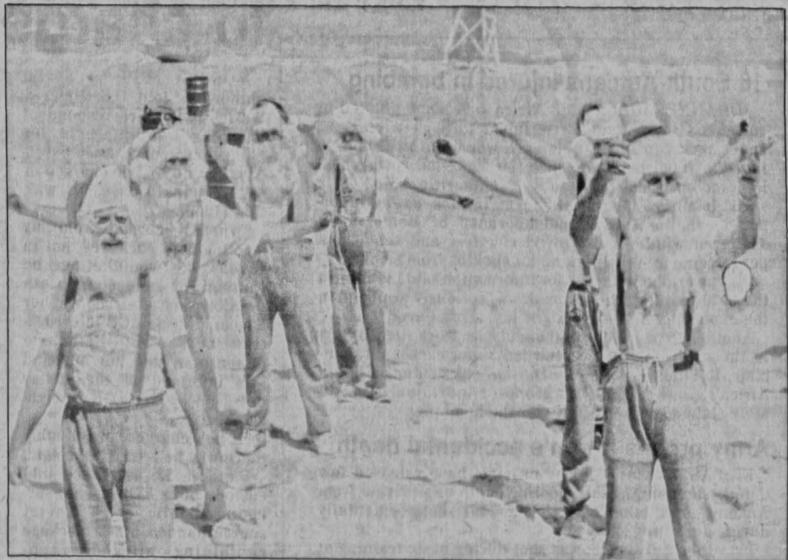

The former Yippee and underground fugitive wants to protest "totalitarianism and thought control," and one target will be the Reagan administration's proclivity for urinalysis. In the first show he plans to collect urine samples from the audience and ship them to the White House. The debut show also will feature Paul Simon reviewing his new record.

HOPING FOR AN OSCAR: Bob Hope has had a long, fabled career, but there's one thing he still wants: an Oscar. "I have two honorary Oscars and a plaque from the Academy (of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences) and a gold medallion," he said. "They've sure treated me nice, but I still haven't won one for acting."

Hope says he is studying several movie scripts in his campaign to get in the running for an Oscar. He said his age, 83, isn't slowing him down. "I just don't think about my age," he said. "You know, that's just a number. It's how you feel and how you move. I dance and do tap dancing and all that stuff."

GOOD GUYS: The National Women's Political Caucus will honor its "good guys" at a Sept. 11 banquet in Washington, D.C. Among the honorees are actors Bill Cosby and Ed Asner, Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., New Jersey Gov. Thomas Kean and former Vice President Walter Mondale.

PENN STRIKES: Sean Penn and the paparazzi are at it again. Anthony Galella, nephew of primo paparazzo Ron Galella, was Penn's main opponent in a scuffle outside the Manhattan

Cancer victim faces jail term

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — A woman dying of cancer was sentenced to three months in jail for writing bad checks she since has made good, and her supporters are concerned she might not live through her term.

"I don't belong here," said Deborah Nethery Harvey, 31. "I hurried over."

Harvey, terminally ill with ovarian, lymph and colon cancer, received the sentence Friday after pleading guilty to writing numerous bad checks on her account with Citizens Fidelity Bank & Trust Co. in 1984 and fleeing Louisville last year to avoid a two-month jail term. She has since repaid the bank.

"I felt like I had paid for my crime," she said in the Jefferson County Jail, where she spent the Labor Day holiday weekend. "I made restitution. I turned myself in."

Jefferson Circuit Judge Donald Eckerle cited judicial ethics in declining to discuss his handling of the case but has recommended that Harvey be considered for "shock probation" after a minimum one-month jail term.

HARVEY SAID she thought her admission of guilt and surrender would result in a probated sentence that would allow her to live her final days in freedom.

But Eckerle revoked her probation and ordered her to serve her jail sentence.

13 arrested after beach riot

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Police beefed up Labor Day weekend patrols in the wake of a riot sparked by rowdies snatching at women's bathing suits.

The incident resulted in 13 arrests, several injuries and about $150,000 in damages. At least two police cars and a communications van were burned and a lifeguard headquarters building was vandalized.

Drawn by warm August weather and a weekend surfing tournament, the several hundred troublemakers threw bottles and cans filled with sand at more than 150 law enforcement officials, police Sgt. Bill Van Cleve said.

Witnesses said the fighting started after police attempted to stop a group of teenagers who were running along the beach grabbing at women's bathing suits.

It took officers, with the help of a helicopter, about three hours to clear the crowded section of Orange County beach.

NEARLY 100,000 people had flocked to the Huntington

Beach Sunday, about twice the normal crowd of an average summer day, lifeguards said.

Lifeguard Lt. Bill Richardson, who fired a warning shot to frighten off a group of looters from the lifeguard headquarters building, said the mob indiscriminately destroyed equipment.

"The looks on faces of the crowd — they were distorted, egotistical and looks of stupidity — I don't think I've ever seen that look before," Richardson said.

Former labor secretary goes to trial for fraud

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former labor secretary Raymond Donovan, indicted two years ago for fraud amid allegations of mob ties, is set to go on trial Tuesday with nine others in a case delayed by disputes over admissibility of evidence.

In 1984, Donovan, the top executive of a major New Jersey construction company, a New York state senator and a reputed member of the Genovese crime family were indicted on charges they defrauded the New York City Transit Authority of $7.4 million.

Donovan, who resigned his cabinet post in 1985 to fight the indictment, was executive vice president of the Schiavone Construction Co., which allegedly set up a bogus minority enterprise in the Bronx in 1979 to qualify for a $186 million city subway contract.

The minority business, headed by black state Sen. Joseph Galiber and alleged mobster William "Billy the Butcher" Masselli, received a $12 million subcontract from Schiavone and then funneled $7.4 million back to the New Jersey company in what authorities called a fake equipment-leasing deal.

THE ALLEGED fraud was uncovered during an investigation of the murder of one of Masselli's gangland rivals.

Donovan has been implicated through statements to investigators and grand juries about deals with the minority firm and by his signatures on checks to the company.

Earlier, a special prosecutor found Donovan did not have any connection with organized crime figures and cleared the labor secretary of charges he lied to a Senate committee about his business activities.

But information gained by the special prosecutor, Leon Silverman, became the focus of another dispute in the Bronx trial.

Defense attorneys went all the way to the Supreme Court in an attempt to block prosecutors from using what have been dubbed the "Silverman notes." Last week, however, Chief Justice Warren Burger ruled that prosecutors could use the minutes from the 1982 federal probe.

Activists heckle participants in Labor Day pigeon shoot

HEGINS, Pa. (UPI) — More than 300 chanting animal rights activists Monday screamed and heckled participants in the rural village's 53rd annual Labor Day pigeon shoot.

The event, billed as the largest one-day live pigeon shoot in the world, started at 8 a.m. with about 300 men and women competing for trophies by blasting pigeons out of the air with shotguns.

The state Supreme Court allowed the shoot to continue when it refused Sunday to issue an injunction sought by the animal rights protesters, who left Hegins midway through the shoot.

"Killing for fun to me is real sick. Nothing dies for my pleasure," said Walt Rave, who said he represented Vietnam Veterans for Animal Rights and traveled from Washington, D.C., to protest the shoot.

THE EVENT is held annually to benefit Hegins Park, a 40-acre community recreation area. Over the years the event has raised $155,000 for the park and organizers predicted this year's shoot would raise $10,000.

The event drew the ire of animal rights activists from as far away as Florida and Texas who stood in the park where the shoot took place yelling at participants over the din of shotgun fire.

Protesters carried signs saying "Higgins Park Menu: Beef, Beer, Barbarism" and "Killing: The Sport of Cowards" and yelled with bullhorns as each participant took aim.

Many arguments broke out throughout the day as locals cheered when a participant made a hit and the protesters cheered when a pigeon, at least temporarily, escaped death.

Women over 35 face harder husband hunt

NEW YORK (UPI) — A team of feminist researchers said Monday that women over 35 are less attractive marriage partners despite personal accomplishments and professional successes.

But society, which congratulates men for marrying younger women, no matter how old the man is, can be changed by both men and women, said Ann Swidler, 41, a professor from Stanford University in California.

"As women age, they become less attractive to men" despite their professional accomplishments and emotional maturity, said Swidler. "You are less valued because you become older."

The comments came during an annual meeting of the American Sociological Association. Swidler was a member of a think-tank of professional women who met periodically for the past two years to study marriage.

SWIDLER SAID the feminists' study substantiated findings of a recent Harvard study that found women at 30 have a 20 percent chance of marrying, while at 35 they have just a 5 percent chance of being wed, and at 40, have only a 2.6 percent chance of getting married.

Both younger and older men who divorce and want to remarry are choosing younger women as a measure of status rather than for their value as mates, she said.

"Women offered a decorative

"That was a very interesting woman you were with last night," is one bit of encouragement researcher Ann Swidler suggests offering to men who date older women.

symbol of the status the man had achieved," Swidler said. "What men get out of marriage is partly the status symbol of this woman who is younger and attractive."

Swidler said the best solution would be for marriages to be "age-equal."

Although men will not change willingly, they will bow to subtle pressure, she said.

Swidler suggested women praise men who choose older women and re-fashion their own thinking about such match-ups.

For example, after a party a man has attended with an older woman, other women might say, "That was a very interesting woman you were with last night," and think "He must be quite a guy to have gotten her," instead of thinking "There must be something wrong with him for him to choose her."

Terrorism may hit the 'tube'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What began in April with a high-tech protest by "Captain Midnight" could easily become a form of terrorism threatening national security, a magazine account says.

On April 27, the protest — directed at Home Box Office's plan to scramble signals and then charge a $12.95 monthly fee for descramblers — said simply: "Good evening, HBO, from Captain Midnight. $12.95 a month? No way!"

Three months later, an employee of a satellite broadcasting facility, John MacDougall, turned himself in. He was fined $5,000.

An article in the October issue of Mother Jones magazine reports the equipment and expertise to duplicate the feat is easily available. Commercial satellite programs and military communications will be jeopardized until more secure satellite transmission systems are devised, the story says.

"If he were feeling particularly venturesome, Captain Midnight might have aimed at a spot at 100 degrees west longitude, above the Galapagos Islands," Donald Goldberg wrote. The transmission would have "jammed a channel on the U.S. Navy satellite Fleetsatcom 1..."

3 Colombian politicians shot

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Three politicians from the communist Patriotic Union party, including its only senator, were killed Monday only 48 hours after a congressman from the party was shot to death.

President Virgilio Barco blamed a plot against the "democratic process of change and reconciliation" for what the government called a "wave of killings" of members of the Communist Patriotic Union.

"There is no doubt that these damnable assassinations have been produced by those interested in affecting the democratic process of change and reconciliation which this country yearns for," Barco said in a statement.

A spokesman for the guerrilla group Colombian Revolutionary Armed Forces said it would call a national strike to protest the killings of 17 of its members in the last five months, including the four politicians.

THE GUERRILLA group, which founded the Patriotic Union one year ago after signing a cease-fire with the government in 1984, said it would not break the truce over the killings.

The group represents 80 percent of armed guerrillas in Colombia, according to authorities.

Senator Pedro Nel Jimenez Obando was assassinated Monday by two gunmen in the city of Villavicencio, some 50 miles southeast of Bogota, shortly after he met with the governor of Meta to report threats against his party, sources reported.

Two other Patriotic Union members, both municipal councilmen in the violence-torn area of Cauca about 300 miles southwest of Bogota, were shot and killed in separate incidents Monday.

The councilmen were Cristian Quimbaya Montejo, of the town of Rosas, and Cornelio Uscue, of El Tambo, according to press reports. Both were killed by unknown assailants.

THE ASSASSINATIONS came as party members in Bogota prepared to bury alternate Congressman Leonardo Posada Pedroza, gunned down Saturday in the city of Barrancabermeja in the Eastern Colombian area of Santander. His attackers got away on motorcycle.

"Paramilitary groups have declared war on us. But the Patriotic Union will not be killed off," said party president Jaime Pardo Leal.

Patriotic Union leaders were in a meeting in Bogota with the Interior Minister, demanding "personal guarantees for the right to practice politics in Colombia," when they received word of the killing of Jimenez Obando.

They went immediately to the presidential palace to meet with Barco.

"This is pure horror. How long will members of the Patriotic Union continue to be victims of right-wing groups?" Pardo Leal asked as he headed to the meeting with the president, Radio Caracol reported.

After the meeting, Barco issued a communique condemning the killings and promising the Patriotic Union "all the guarantees possible to permit the free development of legitimate political action and full incorporation into normal civil life in an atmosphere of security and democracy."

Portuguese resorts bombed

FARO, Portugal (UPI) — Four terrorist bombs shattered the facades of buildings at three posh seaside tourist complexes before dawn Monday in apparently coordinated attacks, police said. No injuries were reported.

The explosions — one near the vacation home of President Mario Soares — occurred between 1:30 and 1:50 a.m. at white stucco bungalow complexes along a 38-mile stretch of the southern Algarve coast between Faro and Portimao, a haven for U.S. and northern European tourists.

Hours later, two groups claimed responsibility for the bombings — the ultra-left "Armed Revolutionary Organization" and a previously unknown group, the "Armed Commandos for Liberation."

In statements dumped in Lisbon garbage cans, the Armed Revolutionary Organization said the bombings were an "anti-imperialist action" protesting the flood of tourists that forces locals "to request a (coffee) in English."

THE "COMMANDOS" made a telephoned claim but gave no motive for the attacks.

A police spokesman in Faro, the Algarve provincial capital, 180 miles south of Lisbon, said the four "medium-power" bombs caused "considerable damage, shattering doors and windows" at the reception offices of luxury coastal complexes of Aldeia do Golfe, Vale de Lobo and Praia do Vau.

"There likely were no casualties" in the apparently coordinated attacks, he said,

"because the offices were closed and guests had gone to bed."

Algarve Gov. Cabrita Neto said the bombings were the first in the region and posed "no motive for alarm" among tourists, the country's second-largest source of foreign currency.

The explosions raised to 12 the number of bombings this year in Portugal — mostly claimed by the far-left April 25 Peoples Forces, or FP-25, urban guerrilla group.

Nicaraguan confesses spying for U.S.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — A Nicaraguan businessman admitted Monday he spied for the United States for the excitement rather than money, and officials said he passed secrets on strategic oil storage to three U.S. diplomats.

The accused spy, Guillermo Quant, vice president of the Nicaraguan Chamber of Commerce, was presented to reporters at a crowded news conference. He was arrested Aug. 19 after a traffic violation outside the U.S. Embassy.

Capt. Oscar Loza, state security operations chief, said that since 1983 Quant has given classified information to the CIA on the location of army oil tanks and the arrival and transport of shipments of military equipment.

Loza said security agents warned Quant last November he should stop the activities, but he ignored the warning.

Quant said he began spying "for the attraction, the curiosity, the mystery; you know, like when one reads a novel."

LOOKING NERVOUS as he spoke, Quant, 54, described being recruited by American diplomats and taught to code and send secret messages using carbon paper and soft lead pencils.

But he said the information he gave out was only what he learned from the transport company he manages and "what one hears on the street."

In a rambling presentation, Quant said he had no access to state secrets but that his transport company does work with oil firms.

He said he passed a final bit of information last March but reached an agreement with his contacts to stop because he felt uncomfortable.

He said the only money he received was reimbursement for trips to Costa Rica and Miami, where he was given lie detector tests.

Quant faces trial for espionage. The maximum penalty for any crime in Nicaragua is 30 years in prison.

Solid backfield duo could key Hawk attack

By Laura Palmer
Staff Writer

Football

An eager running back complemented by a powerful fullback could very well be the key to a successful Iowa offense.

David Hudson, according to Coach Hayden Fry, is the "best fullback in the country" and Kevin Harmon, after years of being overshadowed by brother Ronnie, (now with the Buffalo Bills) is ready to show people that he can play.

"I like to be compared to my brother but I want to be separated. I want everybody to say, 'Kevin did this,' 'Kevin was known for this,' 'Ronnie was known for this,' 'Derrick (now

Mark Vlasic have spent four years on the practice field together.

"We've played on the scout team together, we've been around each other all my four years. It's going to help us," Kevin Harmon said.

VLASIC AGREED that the time practicing together will definitely pay off.

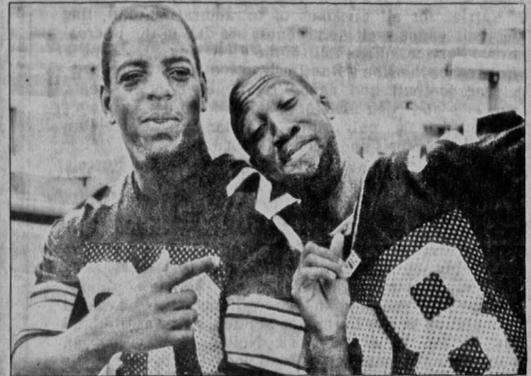

"I feel real confident with them — they feel real confident with me. That can hopefully only mean good things," Vlasic said. "Hopefully what we lack in game experience, we can make up for playing behind those guys and knowing each other as well as we do."

No. 2 running back senior Rick Bayless was the fourth leading runner with 123 yards on 28 carries last year, recording a 4.4 average per carry and two touchdowns.

Also vying for the spot at running back is Kevin Ringer who redshirted last year after transferring from Ellsworth (Iowa) Junior College.

Ringer said that sitting out last season helped to make the transition to Big Ten football a lot easier.

"Being redshirted is a situation where it's a learning experience, just trying to learn the things you don't know about playing Division I football. It most definitely

David Hudson, left, and Kevin Harmon will start in the backfield.

Tuggers clash in national finals

By Scott Reifert
Special to the Daily Iowan

A little sweat, a few loud grunts and a lot of muscle went into the Eighth Annual National Tug-of-War Championship at City Park Sunday afternoon.

Twenty-one teams from across the nation competed in seven different weight classes, four for the men and three for the women. Host team Percheron of Iowa City won both the men's 720 kilo (1,587 lbs.) weight class and the women's 520 kilo (1,232 lbs.) class.

But the international style of pulling used Sunday is different from the one most Americans have seen where six off-season pro football players sit in the Hawaiian sand and pull until someone gets tired.

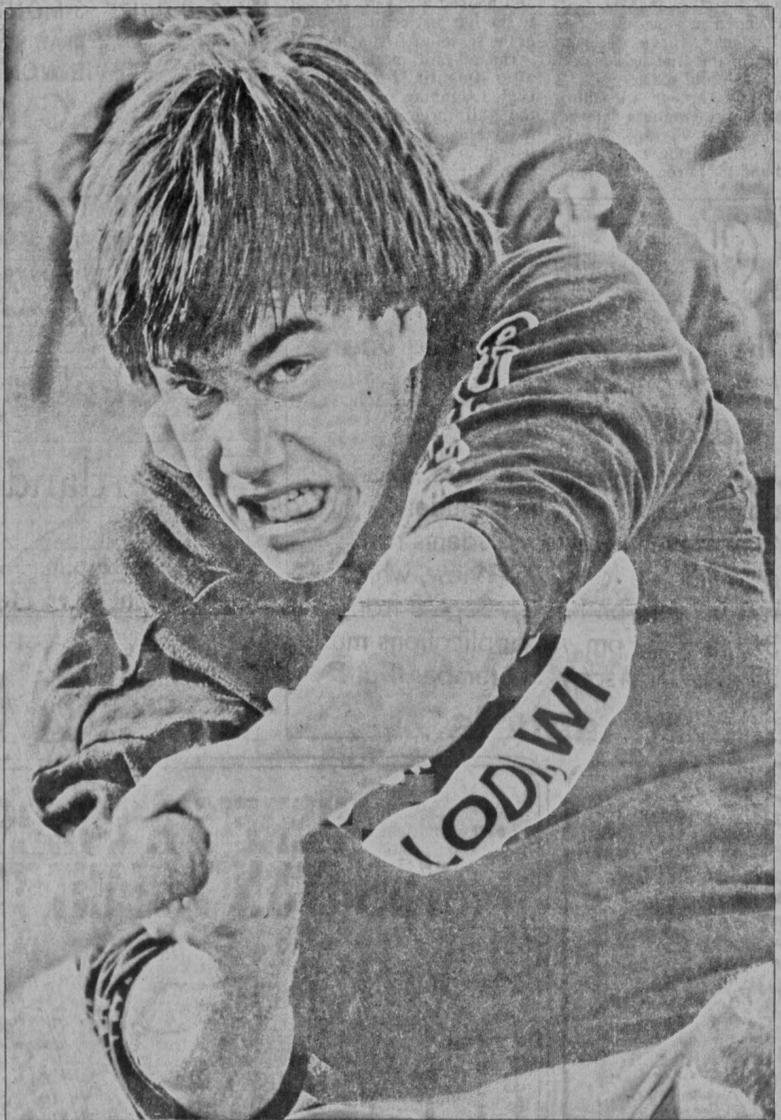

In international tug of war, neither team can wear gloves, sit on the ground or take their hands off the rope.

The result is that technique, rather than brute strength, makes for the best pull.

THE PERFECT technique, according to Mike Kolar of Percheron, is to create constant pull or pressure on the rope.

"We try to create as much constant pressure as possible by building it together like a wench," Kolar said.

In order to build the greatest amount of pressure, each member of the eight-man

Ray Wipperfurth pulls for the Lodi Warriors, from Eighth Annual National Tug-of-War Championship Lodi, Wis., during the men's 720 Kilo division of the which was held at City Park Sunday afternoon.

Evert Lloyd 'nets' mark in U.S. Open

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chris Evert Lloyd, insisting when she's good she is better than ever, reached the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open for a record 16th successive year Monday with a three-set victory over Catarina Lindqvist.

Top seeds Ivan Lendl and Martina Navratilova also succeeded on another sunny afternoon, both winning fourth-round contests in straight sets.

Evert Lloyd, a six-time Open champion, was extended for the first time in this tournament before subduing Lindqvist, the 14th seed from Sweden, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2.

"I feel like when I'm playing well, I'm playing better than ever," Evert Lloyd, the No. 2 seed said. "I have more bad days, but I've been known for my consistency so if I have one day in a week where I'm not playing up to par, that's a lot for me."

Lendl shook off a sluggish start to overwhelm Brad Gilbert 7-5, 6-1, 6-2. And Navratilova, although broken twice, still had relatively little trouble in disposing of 16-year-old Gabriela Sabatini 6-4, 6-2.

NO. 3 STEFFI Graf, after conceding only three games in three previous matches, also was extended to three sets before beating Raffaella Reggi of Italy 6-1, 3-6, 6-0.

Following Sunday's program of surprises that included the dismissals of Jimmy Connors and Anders Jarryd by little-known players, the Labor Day program was far more organized.

Stefan Edberg, following two successive five-set matches, enjoyed a comfortable 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 victory over wildcard entry Dan Goldie and next meets Tim Wilkison. Wilkison, who upset Yannick Noah, won his fourth-round match from Andrei Chesnokov 6-0, 6-2, 6-3, ending matters on his sixth match point.

Advancing to the quarterfinals in the women's draw along with Evert Lloyd, Navratilova and Graf were No. 7 Helena Sukova, No. 8 Bonnie Gadusek and No. 9 Manuela Maleeva.

Sukova shook off No. 12 Zina Garrison 6-4, 2-6, 6-4. Gadusek edged No. 13 Stephanie Rehe 7-6 (8-6), 4-6, 6-2 and Maleeva beat No. 6 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch 6-2, 2-6, 7-6 (7-1).

AFTER TAKING the first set, Evert Lloyd was up a break in the second, only to drop service three times in a row.

Lindqvist, though, was guilty of four consecutive errors, allowing Evert Lloyd to open the final set with a break, and the American raced to a 4-0 lead. For the match, Lindqvist made only 42 percent of her first serves to 72 percent for Evert Lloyd.

"I think in the second set I let up for a couple of games," Evert Lloyd said. "I let up and her shots were really making it."

Buckeyes, Badgers prepare for Big 10 battles

Bruce hopes to continue OSU success

By Brad Zimaneck
Sports Editor

CHICAGO — For the past seven years Ohio State football Coach Earle Bruce has had reason to smile. In 1986 Bruce can continue spreading cheer throughout the Big Ten. Bruce as coach of the Buckeyes has recorded six straight 9-3 seasons since recording an 11-1 mark in his first year at his alma mater in 1979.

No Big Ten team has even come close to Bruce's 65-19 record during that span and with 16 starters returning from a year ago he can only look forward to the game on Nov. 22 that "will" decide the 1986 Big Ten title.

"I think Michigan is the dominant football team in the country and is certainly a great challenge for all of us in this league to get to," Bruce said, but added with confidence in his voice, "But obviously win the Big Ten I think it will come down to a Michigan-Ohio State battle at Ohio State this year."

Before Bruce can play that game, however, he must get through 10 other contests. On Aug. 27 Ohio State started out the season 0-1 by losing to Alabama 16-10 in the Kickoff Classic.

THE BUCKEYES on offense will be led by one of the best returning backfields in the country.

Jim Karsatos is set for his second season as the Ohio State starting quarterback. Karsatos in 1985, the year of the quarterback throughout the Big Ten, definitely held his own by completing 177 of 289 passes for 2,311 yards and 19 touchdowns. In passing efficiency Karsatos was ranked fourth in the nation which was higher than NFL first round pick Jim Everett of Purdue and Jack Trudeau of Illinois.

Backing up Karsatos are a pair of running backs that were overshadowed by an injured Keith Byars in 1985. Tailback John Woodridge and fullback George Cooper combined for more than 1,400 yards rushing last year and should give the Buckeyes a potent rushing attack.

Karsatos also has preseason all-American candidate Cris Carter to throw to. Last season Carter from his flanker position pulled down 58 catches, an Ohio State single season record, for 950 yards and eight touchdowns.

IN OHIO STATE'S 10-7 victory over Brigham Young in the Citrus Bowl, Carter made a catch that still leaves Karsatos amazed.

"That catch in the Citrus Bowl was just incredible," Karsatos said. "If you really looked at it on film, I was being chased and I just threw it up and out and I just thought it was out of bounds and let's get the next play going."

Karsatos added, "I got up and I looked at Jason Buck of Brigham Young and said, 'Did

Players cope with death of McClain

By Julie Deardorff
Staff Writer

CHICAGO — First year coaches normally have a lot on their minds, but Wisconsin's Jim Hilles is faced with the additional problem of instituting a smooth transition after the death of long time Coach Dave McClain last spring.

The death left the team stunned and unorganized, Hilles, who worked as the team's assistant coach and defensive coordinator was suddenly thrown into the head coaching position last May, and has been working hard to regroup the players.

Now, he believes, they are ready to move on.

"It was a devastating thing in the beginning, but I think our staff and team have recovered," Hilles said. "We made overt attempts to involve the squad at the field in daily meetings and brought them back to the scene purposefully so we could confront any problems up front.

"They realize (the death) occurred, but someone is running the program and we must move on."

DESPITE LOSING 37 lettermen and finishing eighth in the Big Ten last season with a 2-6 record (5-6 overall), Hilles believes that this year's squad is in the position to be a contender.

Sixteen of 22 starters return, seven on offense and nine on defense.

"Most of the losses on offense seem to have come on the offensive line, but that does not have to be a factor that lends itself to a weak line," Hilles said. "Coming out of our spring drills we realized we had some young, fine, big offensive linemen."

A strong offensive line and stable running backs should give the Badgers an effective running game. Tailback Larry Emery will be the key as he finished last year second in the Big Ten with 1,113 yards.

TWO OTHER STRONG runners also return, fullback Joe Armentrout, who Hilles believes is one of the top two or three athletes on the team.

"We expect quite a bit out of Joe this year as well as a young man who surfaced last year as a freshman, Marvin Artly," Hilles said.

The quarterback situation was unsettled for most of last year with Mike Howard suffering a shoulder injury and Bud Keyes spraining his ankle. Both return this year, however, with Howard appearing to have an edge on the starting position.

Touch the Earth offers rafting trip

The UI Division of Recreational Services' Touch the Earth Outdoor Adventure Program is hosting a white water rafting trip to the Wolf River in northeastern Wisconsin Sept. 5-7.

Cost of the trip is $65, which includes raft rentals, transportation, camping equipment and fees and most meals.

For more information, or to register for the trip, contact Recreational Services in E216 of the Field House or by phone at 353-3494 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Entry deadlines near for fall intramurals

Entries for all divisions of intramural softball, flag football, canoe racing and tennis are due in the Recreational Services office, E216 of the Field House, by Sept. 4. Entries for the Home Run Derby are due Sept. 18.

Flag football and canoe racing each offer men's, women's and coed divisions. Softball features women's and coed teams only while tennis and the Home Run Derby offer men's and women's divisions.

Additional information can be obtained at the Recreational Services office or by calling 353-3494.

Cowboys stick with veteran Septien

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys Monday ended an exhibition-season kicking battle by cutting rookie Max Zendejas, leaving the job to incumbent Rafael Septien.

Zendejas was drafted in the fourth round this year amid speculation he was to replace Septien, who was troubled last season by a bad back. Neither kicker had an outstanding preseason, but Zendejas failed to display the consistency Cowboys coaches had expected.

The Cowboys reduced their squad to the league limit of 45 by also cutting linebacker Garth Jax and defensive linemen Bob Otto and Kurt Ploeger. Linebacker Chris Duliban was placed on the injured-reserve list with a damaged shoulder.

Those moves left Dallas with only four healthy defensive linemen on the active roster going into Monday night's season opener against the New York Giants.

Longshot Giants fullback dies of cancer

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — John Tuggle, who beat long odds when he made the New York Giants after being selected as the last pick in the 1983 NFL draft, has died of cancer at age 25.

Tuggle, a former University of California star, died Saturday at the American Biologic Hospital in Tijuana, Mexico, where he underwent laetrile-like cancer treatments not yet approved in the United States.

Tuggle's mother, Anita Faye of San Jose, Calif., said Tuggle entered the hospital 13 days earlier for treatment of an angiosarcoma that had spread to both lungs.

Tuggle, 6-foot-1 and 210 pounds, was a fullback at Cal and led the Bears in rushing three consecutive seasons beginning in 1980. He made the Giants as a backup fullback and special teams player.

Kick lifts Terrapins over Panthers, 10-7

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Dan Plocki kicked a 29-yard field goal with 2:06 left Monday night to give 20th-ranked Maryland a 10-7 season-opening victory over Pittsburgh, spoiling the debut of Panthers Coach Mike Gottfried.

The sophomore's kick capped a nine-play, 52-yard drive, coming 4:06 after Pitt tied the score 7-7 on John Congemi's 32-yard touchdown pass to Reggie Williams.

Maryland took a 7-0 lead on a 1-yard plunge by Tommy Neal late in the third quarter.

The Panthers tied the score with 5:12 to go on Congemi's pass to Williams. Mark Brasco added the extra point after the five-play, 58-yard drive.

PLOCKI KICKED the game-winning field goal on the next series.

Pittsburgh mounted a drive that fizzled on the Maryland 38-yard line with seconds remaining.

Although Pittsburgh had possession for 21:42 of the first half, piling up 184 yards total offense and 10 first downs to only 48 yards and four for first downs for Maryland, the tie half ended in a scoreless tie. Pittsburgh's three deepest drives of the first half ended in missed field goals.

Midway through the third quarter, the Panthers defense stopped the Terrapins' first deep drive of the game. On a 2nd-and-15, Lorenzo Freeman and Ezekial Gadson dropped quarterback Dan Henning for a 6-yard loss, and Henning fumbled away the ball to Freeman.

THREE PLAYS LATER, the Maryland defense countered with a similar big play that turned the game in the Terrapins' favor.

Maryland safety J.B. Brown tackled Charles Gladman after the tailback made a running catch of a 32-yard Congemi pass. Gladman dropped the ball, and O'Brien Alston recovered.

After a lengthy conference, officials ruled a reception and no fumble, but after a protest by Maryland Coach Bobby Ross, they ruled the fumble recovery was made before the play was whistled dead, and Maryland took over on its own 47.

The big play of the drive was Henning's 24-yard pass to Vernon Joiner on the Pittsburgh 1. The Panthers held twice before Neal plunged over for the touchdown with 2:15 left in the third.

Junior Brasco was wide right on kicks from 41 and 29 yards and hooked a 53-yard attempt to the left just before the end of the scoreless first half.

The 29-yard attempt came after Quentin Jones intercepted Henning and returned the ball three yards to the Maryland 41. Pittsburgh moved to the 12 in six plays, then faltered.

Hockey Club sports new look in quest for conference title

By Marc Bona
Special to The Daily Iowan

The UI Hockey Club will be competing in a two-year-old conference, the Midwest Collegiate Hockey Association, and according to team member Billy Vigdor the club will be sporting a new look this season.

"Instead of the traditional 'A' and 'B' squads, this year's club will be divided into the Black and the Gold. The Black squad will consist of the top 15 players and one or two goalies, while the rest of the club will make up the Gold squad.

In addition to the two squads, a type of tutoring will be established. Each Black squad player will take one Gold squad member aside to work on various skills.

"Also, the club will have more money to work with this year. We got an increase in sports clubs allocation," Vigdor said. "We took the knife to the student activities fee." The 'knife' Vigdor referred to has carved an additional $10,000 for recreational services from the student mandatory fee. Vigdor said last year recognized sports clubs received $15,000, which brings this year's total to $25,000.

A $9,200 budget will be set this year, with $3,900 going to transportation, ice time and referees. The sum of $500 has been proportioned as a league fee and $900 has been left for jerseys.

Competition for the club will include conference members Ripon, Loras, Grinnell, Palmer and Cornell, as well as clubs from Iowa City and Galesburg, Ill.

Tentatively, Vigdor said the club will play a 14-game schedule with the top four teams going to the playoffs.

MCHA President Dan Seliger is optimistic. "It's going to be better than last year, and last year was just tremendous."

However, problems with gaining a rink facility remain.

Sportsclubs

"The last estimate (in 1981) was three and a half million for a multipurpose facility," Vigdor said.

THE ESTIMATE included a rink, concessions, offices and seating capacity for 2,800 persons. Had it gone through, the facility would have been located southeast of Cedar Rapids.

But Vigdor's latest figures have outdated the 1981 estimate, halting any immediate plans for a rink. This means the club will have to travel to Waterloo for most of its home games.

The club's record last year was 3-8-1. "We want to have a good season and improve to move up in the standings," goalie Brian Gandy said. "Last year we weren't so hot. We want to make a run for the playoffs."

The team will hold a meeting Sept. 10. "This is the start of our season. If you can or can't skate it doesn't matter," Vigdor said. "C'mon down." Interested persons should contact Vigdor afternoons and nights at 353-4689.

The UI Soccer Club will be holding practices this week at Union Memorial Field, Tuesday and Thursday at 6:00 p.m. Club member Mike Bartelme said time will be taken out of practice for a meeting.

A SCHEDULE has been tentatively set and includes five clubs from Iowa: Cornell, Loras, Iowa State, UNI and Clarke. Also scheduled are two Big Ten schools, Minnesota and Illinois. Minnesota is the only school with 'team' status on the schedule.

When final, the schedule will include at least twelve games plus one or two tournaments. Anyone needing more information should contact Andre Bourgeois at 351-5496 or Bar-telme at 1-857-4724. The UI Crew Club will be holding an informational meeting Wednesday evening at 7:00 p.m. in Macbride Hall, according to freshmen Coach Ken Kriz.

KRIZ SAID the first regatta will be Sept. 20 in Madison, Wis. Anyone interested should contact Kriz at 338-3672 or Acting President Laura Kochevar at 338-7063.

Another water sport, sailing, offers an opportunity for those interested in racing as well as sailing, according to Commodore (President) Eric Quayle.

Membership meetings for the Sailing Club will be held Sept. 3 and 10 in Van Allen Hall Lecture Hall I at 7:00 p.m.

Upcoming regattas, tentatively scheduled, will be in Madison, Wis., and South Bend, Ind., according to Quayle. Those interested should contact Quayle at 354-1978 or Rear Commodore (Vice President) Bill Vickers at 351-3416.

For those persons who want a leisurely activity there is the Bridge Club. "New members are always welcome. Play is free Sunday nights to any student. We provide partners if they don't have one. We help them if we can," Club Director Lee Price said.

THE CLUB, which usually occupies five tables (20 people) a meeting, will convene weekly in the Main Library Room 3092 Sunday evenings at 5:30 p.m. Those interested should contact Price at 338-2740.

The Women's Rugby Club will be practicing Tuesday and Thursday west of the Field House at 5:30 p.m. No meetings are planned this week, but Coach Trudy Grout welcomes any interested persons to contact her at 351-1271.

The DI Sportsclubs column appears every Tuesday. Groups interested in having club information printed in this column should contact Marc Bona at the DI, at 353-6210.

Tug-of-War

squad must keep the rope as flat as possible and have a perfect cadence with their feet as they pull backward, he explained.

Anchorman Don Browlee of the Truro, Iowa Prowlers said, "It's kinda like a machine, like a V-8 engine. If one cylinder goes, the engine won't run. Each man has to pull his weight."

"Most people think this is a sport for huge guys," Tom Grosse of DeForest, Wis., said. "Really all you do is hang with your arms; all the pulling is done with your legs."

Most tuggers, Brownlee said, are either farmers or construction workers. Out of the 21 teams at the National Championship Sunday, only two were from outside the Midwest.

IN EACH WEIGHT division a team will pull a best-of-three "ends" against every other team. Three points are given for a two-end sweep, two points for a 2-1 split, and one point is given for a 1-2 record. The team with the most points then wins the class.

The Farmers of Grainville, Ill., won the men's 560-kilo class for the fourth straight year. Perennial champion Rudy's Boys won the 640-kilo division, Percheron took the 720-kilo weight class, and the Lodi Warriors won the unlimited weight class.

In the women's weights, Percheron won the 520 kilo, Rudy's Girls took the 560-kilo crown, and the Oregon Ladies from Wisconsin won the unlimited catch-weight title.

Weber Construction of Dubuque was a surprise entry in the unlimited class and finished one point behind Lodi. Weber, a group of farmers from the Dubuque area, first pulled at the state fair earlier this month. They entered the novice division Sunday, won it, and then decided to enter the unlimited class.

ONLY A LOSS to Lodi kept Weber's from winning the National title. "We just used pure muscle," a tired Kevin Knief said.

Tug-of-war used to be an Olympic sport before being dropped from the games in the 1920s. It is still very popular in Europe where it is a club sport common in Ireland and England.

The winners in each weight class on Sunday have the right to advance to the World Championships to be held in Slagharen, Netherlands on Sept. 11-14. Percheron of Iowa City will send both its teams to the World Championships.

he catch that?" and Jason had a few choice words. I looked at it on film and he went up with one hand and was three yards out of bounds and still got two feet in. I loved it. I have it on tape and I keep watching it all the time. He does some things that just amaze people."

Other than Carter, Karsatos also has tight end Ed Taggart to look for. Last season Taggart caught 31 passes for 327 yards.

One of the question marks for the Buckeyes is the offensive line which has been a traditional strength for Ohio State squads.

One of the questions deals with whether preseason all-American pick Bob Maggs can return from the back injury he suffered near the end of the 1985 season.

"THE GREAT question mark at Ohio State is their offensive line. That's been, really, the thing that has created a nice winning record at Ohio State — great offensive lines,"

1986 Ohio State schedule

Bruce said. "Right now Bob Maggs is a question mark because of the surgery he had on his back and he missed spring ball. The lack of having Larry Kotterman, who was a starting right tackle... Most of our offensive line was wiped out in spring practice," he said.

The only returning starting offensive linemen, other than Maggs and Kotterman, is left guard Jeff Uhlenhake.

On defense Ohio State will not have many question marks. "Defensively I think we'll be as strong as we have ever been at Ohio State since I have been there," Bruce said.

"We have three holes to fill on defense. I look at the names that were in those three holes and I have faith in all those guys. So I think our defense is going to be very, very strong," Karsatos said.

The Buckeyes return eight starters on defense including all four members of the secondary who will be playing together for their third consecutive year.

In charge of the secondary will be safety and 1985 second team all-Big Ten pick, Terry White. Sonny Gordon will be at rover or free safety, William White will be at one cornerback and Greg Rogan will hold down the other cornerback position.

DEFENSIVE END Eric Kumerow will lead the defensive line. Kumerow will be backed up by returning starting tackles, Fred Ridder and Darryl Lee. Last season Kumerow had 54 tackles including a team leading 10 sacks.

Honorable mention all-American pick Chris Spielman will once again lead the Buckeyes from his inside linebacker position.

Spielman, who was a finalist last year for the "Dick Butkus Award" which honors the nations top collegiate linebacker, had 140 tackles in 1985 which ranked him second in the Big Ten.

Two-year first team All-Big Ten pick Tom Tupa will be the Buckeyes starting punter. Tupa, who is also Karsatos' back-up at quarterback, averaged 42.5 yards per punt last season.

Ohio State does lose its starting place kicker. Rich Spangler, who had handled the job for the last four years, scored 77 points last year for the Buckeyes and is fourth on the all-time Ohio State scoring list. Transfer Mike Morton or Jeff Compton will take Spangler's place.

juniors James Ross and Fred Bobo. Bobo caught 13 passes for 273 yards and had a 21-yard average per catch in 1985. Ross had nine receptions for 109 yards and Tompkins caught eight for 90 yards.

DEFENSIVELY, Wisconsin's linebackers and secondary should be extremely strong.

"At both inside and outside linebackers we have the ability to start three five-year players," said Hilles. "Last year we didn't have a back that started a football game. This year all four are back and have experience under their belts. I think our defense can carry us through the rough spots."

who are nicknamed "Thunder and Lightning", return at the outside linebacker positions, while Craig Raddatz and Charlie Fawley will play inside.

Jordan was a second team all-Big Ten selection last year while Graf had 152 career tackles including 13 for losses.

Raddatz was named to the all-Big Ten second team and defensive player of the year for 1985. He led the team in tackles with 116 and has nine career interceptions. Fawley earned honorable mention all-Big Ten honors and had three interceptions.

NOSEGUARD MICHAEL Boykins (6-foot, 248-pounds) is a veteran starter and tackles Jim Kmet and Dick Teets also have starting experience. Defensive back Nate Odomes returns and is the conference's top punt returner with an 11.4 average.

The kicking game is in good shape with Todd Gregoire returning. Gregoire is already 11th on the all-time conference field goal list with 36 after only two seasons. He scored 67 points last year, the most on the team.

The other half of the kicking team, punter Scott Cepicky, was honorable mention all-Big Ten last fall and averaged 40.8 yards per punt.

The top newcomers for the Badgers include wide receivers David Burks and Steve Wallace, tailback Leon Hunt, linebackers Scott Johnson and Tim Knoeck.

Hilles' main concern about the team is depth. "Defensively speaking we've got some great upper classmen, but if they get banged up early it won't put us in a very good light," he said.

helped. I had the opportunity to look a lot and learn," Ringer said.

FRY SAID although Ronnie Harmon's ability can't be replaced in one year's time, that hopefully, Kevin Harmon, Bayless and Ringer can "become very good so we'll have a balanced attack."

"They do have one great advantage, they have the advantage of lining up with, in our opinion, the best fullback in the country in David Hudson," Fry said.

Hudson, who is 6 foot 2 inches tall and 230 pounds, will provide stability at the fullback position. Last year Hudson started in six games after being moved from the tailback position.

Hudson ended last season with 362 yards rushing on 77 carries and seven touchdowns.

"He's going to take a lot of pressure off the running back position as the running back position develops," Fry said.

"He's got a tremendous motor that goes full speed every play. He's already the best blocking fullback we've had since I've been here. We've worked very hard to help develop his catching ability. He's made a lot of progress.

"He's not only a power runner, he's an open field runner. He's elusive. He can run over you, he can run around you and he can outrun you after he gets by you and he loves contact," Fry said.

ALTHOUGH IOWA is laced with much inexperience this season, Kevin Harmon said that all the players can do is play to the best of their ability.

"We have a very positive attitude and we're not going to try to duplicate last year's season, but in time we're just going to try to do our best," Kevin Harmon said, "and if we do, we'll be satisfied, if we don't we won't be mad at ourselves."

Ringer said the inexperience could be used to the Hawks' advantage.

"In my personal opinion I'd rather play for a team that's hungry than a team that's full," Ringer said. "That's just simply saying when you have a lot of stars or name players, a lot of times you have the tendency to lay back sometimes and let them do the work as opposed to when you have guys that are no names working hard because they want to accomplish the things the people that have the names have."

Nicklaus cites PGA 'juniors' as biggest asset to pro tour

HAWTHORN WOODS, ILL. (UPI) — There are so many good young golfers on the professional tour these days that it is difficult for any golfer to stand out above the crowd, Jack Nicklaus said.

Nicklaus appeared Monday at the Grand Slam of Golf, a charity event to benefit the PGA Junior Golf Foundation. Nicklaus is the honorary chairman of the foundation but was also invited to the event because of his victory at the 1986 Masters.

Also invited were the winners of the other major events — British Open champion Greg Norman, PGA winner Bob Tway and U.S. Open champion Raymond Floyd. Floyd failed to attend and was replaced in the group by Fuzzy Zoeller, former champion of the U.S. Open and the Masters.

Nicklaus pointed to the development of the Junior Golf Foundation for providing so many good young players to the tour, that no golfer has been able to dominate the tour.

"The problem we had was that we had so many good young players — nobody was separating themselves," said Nicklaus. "You just don't win one tournament and move to the top. Before he won the British Open, Greg probably won 40 tournaments around the world. That's hardly a weak record, but he hadn't won a major championship."

"ONCE HE won a major championship, it sort of filled out his card," he said.

Norman agreed with Nicklaus' assessment, saying it could help to explain why four-stroke leads aren't safe on Sundays any longer.

"I think it is very indicative of

"Arnold (Palmer) ... sort of captured the imagination of the public," Jack Nicklaus says. "Because nobody had dominated for seven or eight years."

the caliber of players today," he said. "There is a new wave of golfer."

Zoeller, who provided several laughs during the pre-exhibition news conference, said the new young players like Tway aren't backing off for the established stars.

"I don't think you guys are in awe of golfers like Jack anymore," said Zoeller.

Tway disagreed. "It's not that we're not in awe. I think we just know we have to go out and play golf and that's what we do," said Tway.

NICKLAUS SAID Tway and Norman have now established themselves as stars on the PGA tour.

"They have gone from one status to another status," said Nicklaus. "Arnold (Palmer) came along in the late 50s and sort of captured the imagination of the public. Why? Because nobody had dominated for seven or eight years."

"That was great for golf and great for Arnold and these guys are going to do the same."

The Grand Slam of Golf was held at Kemper Lakes, the site of the 1989 PGA championship. Each of the pros was teamed with a foursome of amateurs who paid $5,000 each to play with the stars.

Since the golfers contributed their time and were not paid to appear, the event was expected to raise $50,000 for the Junior Golf Foundation.

Tway said he went back to Inverness two weeks ago to try and repeat the bunker shot he made on the 18th hole for a birdie that beat Norman for the PGA championship. Tway made the trip at the paid request of Golf Digest.

HE FAILED TO make the shot in about 20 attempts.

"The first one was about six inches away," he said. "The rest were random amounts (in distance)."

To the delight of the reporters and amateur golfers in attendance, Tway admitted "It was a very difficult shot."

Zoeller then asked Norman if he received a thank you note from Tway for allowing him to catch up in the final round of the PGA. Norman replied, "I never got a thank you note from you" referring to the similar turn of events in the final round of the 1984 U.S. Open, which Zoeller won.

King steals Rail Classic title

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (UPI) — Betsy King tied the tournament record with a final round of 63 to tie Alice Ritzman and Cathy Kratzert for the lead, then birdied the fourth playoff hole Monday to repeat as champion of the $200,000 LPGA Rail Charity Classic.

King, the tour's third leading money winner in 1986, added the $30,000 winner's check to her season total, giving her $258,897 in winnings this year.

On the final hole, King hit a booming drive down the center of the fairway and reached the par-5 13th with an iron to set up a two-putt birdie. Kratzert and Ritzman each came up short of the green, left their chip shots eight and 12 feet short of the hole, respectively, and missed their birdie putts.

A hole earlier, King missed a chance to win when she pushed a straight five-foot birdie putt to the right.

THE TOURNAMENT was Ritzman's to win on the final hole of regulation play. However, guarding a one-shot lead, she carried her approach shot into long rough behind the pin. Her pitch rolled eight feet past the hole, and she missed the putt for par.

The playoff contestants finished regulation at 205, 11 under par at the 6,253-yard Rail Golf Club, where King captured a two-shot victory last year.

Judy Dickinson shot a final-round 67 to finish at 206. Kathy Postlewait and second-round co-leader Lauri Peterson tied for fifth place at 207.

King, who represents the Rail Golf Club on the LPGA tour, started the day at 2-under. She birdied four of the first five holes, and rolled in an eagle putt on the short par 5 6th hole to put her in a tie with Ritzman and within two shots of Kratzert.

Kratzert had shot a career-low round of 65 to become the first-round leader, and her 70 Sunday kept her tied at the top. Ritzman, who had only two bogeys in three rounds before bogeying the final hole, steadily played her way into the lead on the back nine Monday.

She tied Kratzert with a birdie on No. 11 and went to 12-under with a five-foot birdie putt on the par-4 16th.

Records fall despite weather

STUTTGART, West Germany (UPI) — Three world records fell and another was equaled at the European Track and Field Championships despite a week of foul weather.

Yuri Sedykh of the Soviet Union became a three-time European champion in the hammer, bettering his world mark with two throws. Sedykh increased the record by more than 3 inches to 284-feet-7.

Sedykh's teammate, Maria Stepanova, took 23-hundredths of a second off the world record to win the women's 400-meter hurdles in 53.32.

Britain's Fatima Whitbread attained the third record, qualifying for the women's javelin with a toss of 254-1 — more than 6½ feet better than the previous mark. Whitbread took the final at 250-5.

East Germany's Heike Drechsler equaled the women's 200 meters world record of 21.71 seconds — a mark originally set by teammate Marita Koch and first equaled by Drechsler two months ago.

DRECHSLER ALSO won the women's long jump while the other double gold medalists — Koch, Marlies Goehr (100 meters) and Britain's Roger Black (400 meters) — won their individual and relay events.

Goehr and Koch joined West German Harald Schmid (men's 400 meters hurdles) and Sedykh as three-time European champions in their events.

Sebastian Coe, possibly the greatest middle-distance runner ever, finally won his first 800 meters title in the first of two races against fellow-Briton Steve Cram.

Cram came back in the 1,500 meters to beat Coe and become one of seven athletes to retain European titles.

Black was part of a remarkable effort by the British men's team, which won all but one of the flat races up to 5,000 meters, and added the 4 x 400 meters relay gold.

LINFORD CHRISTIE took the 100 meters, Black the 400, Coe the 800, Cram the 1,500 and Jack Buckner the 5,000 meters. Only Vladimir Krilov of the Soviet Union, 200 meters gold medalist, and Stefano Mei of Italy, winner of the 10,000 meters, broke the British streak of success in the flat races. Mei led a British sweep in the 10,000 meters and Coe did the same in the 800.

Stephane Caristan demolished the oldest European record by winning the men's 110-meter hurdles in 13.20. He knocked 8-hundredths of a second off the record set in 1975 by fellow-Frenchman Guy Druit.

Fernandez, Mets blaze by Giants

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sid Fernandez blinded the Giants for seven innings with his blazing fastball. The Giants regained their vision when Roger McDowell relieved Fernandez, but all they saw an unhittable sinker.

Fernandez struck out 14 batters in seven innings and McDowell allowed one hit over the final two innings to lead the New York Mets to a 5-2 victory over San Francisco.

The Mets broke a 2-2 tie with three runs in the eighth to make a winner of McDowell, 13-7. McDowell, a sinkerball specialist, has as many victories as Dwight Gooden and two less than Fernandez and Bob Ojeda. While happy with the victory, McDowell thought Fernandez was cheated.

"I feel bad for Fernandez not getting the victory," McDowell said. "He was so dominant."

FERNANDEZ SAID McDowell shouldn't worry too much about him.

"I am not disappointed at not getting the win," Fernandez said. "Sometimes you get a win when you don't deserve it."

If Fernandez can develop into a nine-inning pitcher, he should be able to approach Roger Clemens' strikeout record of 20 set this season. Giants Manager Roger Craig says he throws hard enough.

The New York Mets' Wally Backman slides past San Francisco Giants' catcher Bob Brenly into home to score the winning run in the eighth inning, Monday afternoon. The Mets defeated the Giants 5-2.

"Fernandez was over 90 (mph) in every inning," Craig said. "It looked to me like he was throwing 100."

Wally Backman opened the New York eighth inning with a walk against loser Mark Davis, 4-5, and moved to second on a groundout by Keith Hernandez.

Houston 6, Chicago 4
The Astros won't make people forget the 1927 Murderers' Row lineup the Yankees assembled, but Manager Hal Lanier is happy with Houston's run production.

"We've found ways to get runs in and have been doing that all season," Lanier said Monday after the National League West leading Astros defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-4.

Denny Walling had a two-run double and Jose Cruz homered to highlight a four-run sixth inning for Houston. Kevin Bass added two RBIs with a sacrifice fly and double.

The Cubs loaded the bases with none out in the ninth, but could score only one run, on a passed ball.

Danny Darwin, 1-1, pitched six innings for his first National League victory. Charlie Kerfeld pitched two innings and Dave Smith recorded the final three outs for his 28th save. Ed Lynch, 4-4, took the loss.

Cincinnati 6, Pittsburgh 5

Ted Power pitched a one-hitter over six innings and Nick Esasky hit his 10th homer Monday night to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Power, 5-6, had a perfect game for 5 1/2 innings, before pinch hitter Benny Distefano hit his first homer of the season.

The Reds took a 2-0 lead in the fifth. Power singled with two out and scored on Kal Daniels' triple. Buddy Bell then singled to score Daniels.

Baltimore bats dump Angels

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Eddie Murray, John Shelby and Fred Lynn hit home runs Monday to power the Baltimore Orioles to an 9-3 triumph over the California Angels.

Losing pitcher Mike Witt and the Angels both had seven-game winning streaks snapped. The Orioles had lost eight of nine games since being the last team to beat California, Aug. 23.

Scott McGregor, 9-11, scattered 11 hits to improve his lifetime mark to 19-7 against the Angels and 12-4 at Anaheim Stadium.

WITT, 16-8, lost his first decision since July 12 when Boston's Roger Clemens beat him. In the month of August, Witt went 5-0 and allowed only one earned run in 43 innings.

Murray's three-run blast capped a five-run third, Lynn made it 6-0 in the fifth inning with his 22nd homer of the season and Shelby homered in the ninth.

Juan Beniquez opened the third with a walk. Two outs later Shelby doubled to score Beniquez. After Lynn walked, Cal Ripken's single scored Shelby. Murray followed with his 14th of the season and only his third since June 27. Last season, Murray belted three homers and drove in nine runs in Anaheim on Aug. 26.

McGregor shut out the Angels for five innings until Dick Schofield's first of two triples in the game scored Bobby Grich to make it 6-1.

Shelby doubled in Baltimore's seventh run to chase Witt in the seventh. Floyd Roford singled in Ripken, aboard on a double off Terry Forster, to make it 8-1 in the ninth.

The Angels scored two runs in the eighth. George Hendrick led off with his 11th homer and Bob Boone's groundout scored Schofield, who had tripled.

Detroit 6, Seattle 5

Alan Trammell drove in three runs with two homers and a double to offset a three-homer effort by Jim Presley Monday, helping the Detroit Tigers snap a four-game losing streak with a 6-5 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

Presley, who has 24 homers this season, homered to right at the Kingdome with one out in the eighth to close the gap to 6-5. The Seattle third baseman also hit a two-run homer to right in the second, and a solo shot to center in the fourth. All three homers came off Jack Morris, 16-8. Presley hit three homers in a game for the first time in his career and became the third Mariner to ever accomplish the feat.

Morris, who won for the first time since Aug. 16, allowed seven hits and four walks and tied a season high with 12 strikeouts. The right-hander notched his 11th complete game of the season.

Trammell's first homer of the game cut the deficit to 2-1 in the third.

The Mariners made it 4-1 in the fourth. Presley led off with a homer. Danny Tartabull doubled and scored on Scott Bradley's single.

In the fifth, Trammell led off with his 17th homer of the season. One out later, Johnny Grubb hit his 13th homer to close the gap to 4-3.

With two out in the sixth, Seattle starter Mike Morgan, 9-15, walked Dwight Lowry, Detroit's No. 9 hitter. Lou Whitaker followed with his 18th homer to give Detroit a 5-4 lead.

The Tigers made it 6-4 in the eighth. With one out, Matt Young hit Pat Sheridan. Young then threw the ball into the right field bullpen on a pickoff attempt, allowing Sheridan to take third. Young hit Lowry, and with two out, Trammell doubled home Sheridan.

Toronto 5, Cleveland 4

At Toronto, Lloyd Moseby's ninth-inning single with the bases loaded lifted the Toronto Blue Jays to their ninth straight victory. Reliever Ernie Camacho, 2-3, took the loss. Tom Henke, 9-3, worked 2 1/2 innings for the victory and struck out five of the seven batters he faced.

Minnesota 9, Milwaukee 3

At Minneapolis, Gary Gaetti drove home five runs with a pair of home runs and Tim Laudner added a solo homer to lead the Twins. Neal Heaton, 6-12, pitched six innings for the victory and George Frazier got his fourth save. Juan Nieves, 10-8, lost his fourth straight start.

Candy comedy funny despite flaws

Kevin C. Kretschmer
Special to The Daily Iowan

SOMETIMES a filmgoer enters a theater with high expectations for a particular film after reading great reviews and noting the wild enthusiasm of friends. It's hard to say any film to live up to those kinds of expectations and the result is often disappointment. Other times a filmgoer expects the worst and comes out pleasantly surprised. Happily, the comedy Armed and Dangerous, starring John Candy and Eugene Levy, produced the latter reaction in me.

I've long been a fan of Second City TV alumni Candy and Levy, but another movie with the theme of bumbling bypassing the rank structure to defeat the bad guys (a la Stripes, Police Academy, -II, -III, Spies Like Us, etc., ad nauseam) isn't exactly a fresh idea. However, thanks to the stars' performances, the fast-paced direction of Mark L. Lester and the often silly, though occasionally hilarious, script by Harold Ramis and Peter Torokvei, Armed and Dangerous manages to rise above the general mediocrity of its type to be one of this summer's better comedies.

POLICE OFFICER Frank Dooley (Candy) is a hardworking, likeable, albeit luckless, sort. When he happens upon copruption in his department he literally ends up holding the goods. An investigation into the incident results in his dismissal from the force.

Levy's character, Norman Kane, is a learned but fearful lawyer whose clients are capable of causing him to lose his courtroom demeanor. Caught between a Charles Manson clone, whom he is defending, and the no-nonsense judge who is trying the case, he is effectively frightened out of his profession.

Kane and Dooley attempt to keep a hand in law and law enforcement by enrolling in a course at Guard Dog Security. (The school's motto is "We Don't Just Bark... We Bite.") After a brief lecture and visit to the firing range they graduate, "The Class of Thursday — at 3:30."

KANE AND Dooley become partners and are immediately assigned to guard a warehouse. Their instructions: Don't fall asleep where anyone will see you and make sure your name is on your lunch. As fate would have it, they stumble on a robbery. They nearly get killed in their failed attempt to avert the crime and are demoted. When their shady union leaders refuse to hear their grievances on the matter they become suspicious. With the help of Sgt. Maggie Cavanagh (Meg Ryan), the daughter of Guard Dog Security's founder and head, the partners set off to answer some questions.

Is the union somehow involved in the series of robberies at the warehouse? Is Guard Dog Security involved in the robberies? Is the corruption in the police department tied to either the union or the security company? Will Kane and Cavanagh fall in love? Does the movie ever completely answer any of these questions? Does it really matter one way or the other? I doubt it.

WHAT THE plot succeeds in providing is a framework in which Candy and Levy are able to clown in a variety of situations. Broad comedy is the forte of both actors. Scenes involving the two with attack dogs at a health spa and in an adult bookstore are a few of the film's funnier moments. Subtler aspects of the two actors' talents also provide some of the biggest laughs. The great comic timing of Candy and the quirky facial expressions of Levy add an extra edge to their performances.

However, dumb blondes are not naturally funny, they're just naturally dumb. And perhaps someone could show me where it is written that a chase sequence has to include a truck crashing through crates of fruits and vegetables, or that a comedy must have numerous, gratuitous explosions. Are we expected to laugh at certain devices on the basis of some inherent merit and not question their relevance to the plot? Occasionally, the script incorporates a few cliches that would have been better left out.

THAT GRIPE aside, the film does offer a number of good sight gags and doesn't insult one's intelligence too much. It also has a fine supporting cast, including Robert Loggia as the union chieftain, Kenneth McMillan as the head of Guard Dog Security, Don Stroud as the corrupt police official and Steve Railsback as "The Cowboy."

Armed and Dangerous is not without its flaws and it will never be considered a classic, but in a summer short on good screen comedy it is one of the better bets to tickle your funny bone.

Nallen shows talent in recorder recital

By B. Gordon
Special to The Daily Iowan

Music

RENAISSANCE music, otherwise known as Ancient or Early music, is in some ways closer to rock 'n' roll than Beethoven. Syncopated rhythms with a good backbeat, along with the assumption on the composer's part that the performer is going to embellish the melody with improvisation, are characteristic of this kind of music.

Evelyn Nallen, a recorder virtuoso from England, was strong on improvisation Thursday night at Harper Hall, but either she or her accompanist, harpsichordist Sven Hansell of the UI Music Department, didn't have their toes tapping.

Nallen began her recital with two pieces by an anonymous 15th century composer for solo recorder, a Lament and Saltarello (a kind of dance). The Lament, as well as all the meditative pieces on the program, was clear and sensitive. Because of the piping tone that is natural to the recorder, it is often difficult to project feeling. This Nallen did admirably.

But the Saltarello, as well as dance works by Handel and Telemann, was a bit studied.

HOWEVER, Nallen has had numerous contemporary composers write virtuosic showpieces for her, and these, along with a few 18th century songs written for the instruction of mynah birds and nightingales, were the special treats Thursday night. The consideration she gives to every phrase shone through "Music for a Bird" by Hans-Martin Linde.

Linde's work was strenuous, and Nallen effortlessly created effects unimagined by most of the other composers on her program: bizarre trills and slides, and almost percussively struck intervals.

The majority of her program, however, was Renaissance and Baroque. Nallen provided the audience with anecdotes about the composers' lives and worlds, a pleasant necessity when dealing with these periods. Between the attempts to find royal patronage and escape the Black Plague, the lives of early composers invite commentary.

Anyone unconvinced of Nallen's virtuosity by the end of the program could not have remained steadfast after the encore. She played a fanfare by American composer Bob Margolis, starting with a soprano recorder and then picking up an alto recorder to play harmony at the same time. The flashy finish had her singing into the instruments as well.

WHERE THERE'S A NEED, THERE'S A WAY.

THE SLICE

A Piece A Pizza Aplenty

When you need to appease a pizza appetite, how many pieces a pizza are appropriate?

It depends on the portion proportions of the pizza.

If it's Rocky Rococo Pan Style Pizza—thick, crunchy, chewy, cheesy, saucy Pan Style Pizza—a piece a person, in other words, a piece a piece is probably appropriate.

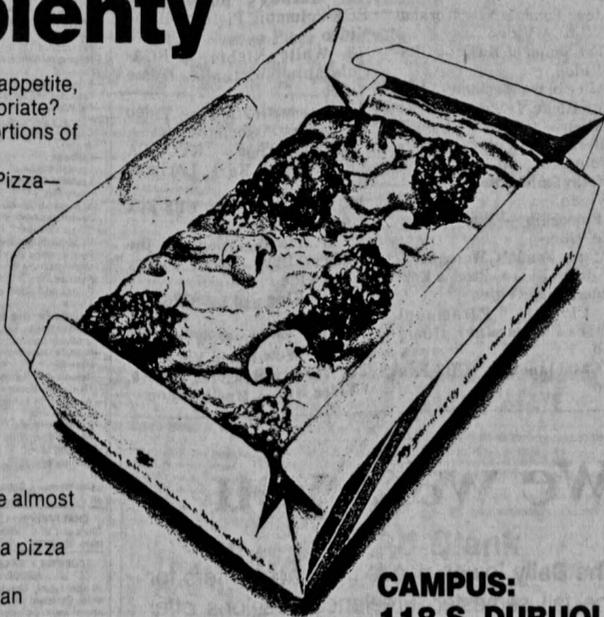

That's why Rocky Rococo Pan Style Pizza is available by the slice: That satisfying sizeable (1/2 lb.) single serving size.

Whether you come call at our counter or drive through our Drive-Thru, The Slice is unfailingly fresh, fast and filling; a luscious lightninglike lunch; always available almost instantly.

So, when you need to appease a pizza appetite, appease it appropriately.

With a Slice of Rocky Rococo Pan Style Pizza.

A piece a pizza appealingly and appropriately proportioned so that a piece a pizza a piece is pizza aplenty.

Oh no! Here comes Mr. Bill's show

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mr. Bill, the trusting Play-Doh doll with the squeaky voice who was sliced, diced, smashed and mauled by Mr. Sluggo and the evil Mr. Hands on "Saturday Night Live," is coming back to television.

But this time around, Mr. Bill will be a real person, played by Peter Scolar, whose track record includes the yuppy talk show producer on "Newhart" and a man who dresses up as a woman on "Bosom Buddies."

The half-hour live action special, with Shelley Duvall as executive producer, airs on the "Showtime" Comedy Spotlight series Sept. 11 and will be repeated four more times in September.

Of all the stars whose careers were launched by "Saturday Night Live," Mr. Bill was the most unlikely.

Walter Williams, an accounting-school dropout in New Orleans, created Mr. Bill with a Super 8 film camera and some colored clay in 1974. He submitted the home movies to "Saturday Night Live," and its producers put one on the air.

BY THE SHOW'S fourth season, Mr. Bill had developed such a cult following that "Saturday Night Live" honcho Lorne Michaels put Williams under a full-time contract.

For those who have never seen Mr. Bill's films, they are, in essence, a blending of a crude cartoon and a slash movie.

Mr. Bill was innocent and trusting. Mr. Sluggo, a somewhat larger clay character, was mean. Mr. Hands, played by a pair of hands, was a traitor, always tricking Mr. Bill. Maybe he'd make a milkshake and at the last minute throw Mr. Bill in the blender and turn it into a Mr. Bills-hake.

All the while, Mr. Bill would squeak, "Ohhhhh, noooooo." During the fifth season of "Saturday Night Live," Williams got a call from an old friend, Vance de Generes, who had been the original Mr. Hands in the home movies.

He wanted his name on the copyright and half the profits. A lawsuit was filed in federal court in New Orleans and a two-day hearing followed. In the end, Williams was awarded most of the profits. De Generes did get a small piece of the pie.

AT THE HEARING, even the federal judge couldn't resist abusing Mr. Bill. He pinned a name tag on his robe that read "Judge Sluggo," took out a pair of scissors and snipped off Mr. Bill's head. He threw the head to de Generes and the body to Williams.

True to tradition, the new Mr. Bill will take some lumps in the "Showtime" special. He will be tossed into a garbage dumpster, lost in the woods, sliced in half by a ceiling fan and mired in quicksand.

The special features Mr. Bill, his son, Billy Bill (Christopher Burton), and the Sluggo family as next-door neighbors.

"Mr. Bill is everybody's favorite victim," says Gary Keeper of "Showtime." "Our show brings the character to life, optimistically enduring the same cruel injustices that we've come to expect."

Madonna, Penn star in 'Surprise' flop

By Hoyt Olsen
Staff Writer

A CHARACTER in Shanghai Surprise declares, "All you need to know is that I'm a person who can cause you immense pain." That speech also summarizes all you need to know about this movie.

The only surprise connected with Shanghai Surprise is that any film starring Sean Penn and Madonna can be so completely lackluster, lifeless and dull.

How bad is this movie? So bad that by the midway point audience members were beginning to make highly audible comments. Normally Miss Manners and I frown on this sort of behavior; however, in this instance it seemed pretty forgivable. And pretty accurate: "This is soooo stupid," one viewer said. "Can you believe this?" added another, as a character named China Doll began lashing Sean Penn's face with her ponytail during a moment of alleged eroticism.

Film

THE FILM'S most interesting moments actually occur during the earliest moments, before either of the stars appears on screen. It is 1937; as the Japanese are shelling the Chinese city of Shanghai, a crime kingpin named Walter Farraday is attempting to escape with a fortune in opium. In the process, Farraday is apparently double-crossed by his own men and then ambushed by Chinese troops.

Anyone who can follow the mystery of what happens to the opium thereafter should appear immediately for the directorship of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. When confused details about missing jewels are added to the already complicated business about the opium, it's enough to befuddle whole legions of Sam Spades and Philip Marlowes.

Certainly director Jim Goddard doesn't seem to have had many clues about what was going on as he put Shanghai Surprise together. Goddard directs with neither a spark of originality nor the least degree of technical virtuosity. The camera work is mundane at best; the editing borders on the awful. Nor does Goddard ever establish any consistency in the kind of film he is trying to deliver, fluctuating from straight adventure to camp spoof without providing any suspense for the former or wit for the latter.

GODDARD'S MOST notable accomplishment is getting Sean Penn to give a bad performance, something no previous director had managed. As adventurer Glen Wasey, Penn is as unconvincing as his own dialogue, which includes such memorably bad lines as "Why does everyone get their peckers in a vise whenever anyone mentions Wu Chang Chee?" and "A missionary lying is like pissing over God's uniform."

Penn's wife Madonna naturally enough provides the romantic interest. What isn't natural is that Madonna plays missionary Gloria Tuttle, or that she and her superior choose Glen from the docks — where he is screaming obscenities in Chinese because a tattoo artist has left the nipples off the naked woman on his arm — as an appropriate translator for her.

Despite the complete implausibility of the character she is playing, Madonna actually comes off fairly well. She is still developing skills as an actress, but possesses that indefinable "It" attributed to screen goddesses from Clara Bow to the present. This doesn't mean her performance is worth seeing, just that her film career will survive this bomb.

Madonna doesn't sing in Shanghai Surprise; George Harrison wrote the music and performs most. It is the sort of pleasant but unexceptional Eastern-tinged soft rock Harrison has churned out for more than a decade now. In this movie, "pleasant but unexceptional" is a real highlight. Be warned.

Renowned English sculptor Henry Moore dies at age 88

LONDON (UPI) — Henry Moore, an English miner's son who became one of the great abstract sculptors of the 20th century, died Sunday at 88, his lawyers said.

He died peacefully at his home at Much Hadham, 30 miles north of London, where he had lived for more than 40 years. His health had been frail for about three years with arthritis and diabetes taking an increasing toll in his old age, a friend said.

The hallmarks of his sculpture were abstracted representations of the human form. His favorite design was that of a female figure reclining, leaning on one arm with the legs outstretched. He intended almost all of his sculptures to be seen as part of a landscape, relating to the space around them.

MOORE ONCE explained the holes that often appeared in his sculptured forms:

"The first hole made through a piece of stone is a revelation. The hole connects one side to the other, making it immediately three-dimensional. A hole can itself have as much meaning as a solid mass."

He went on to say that holes conveyed "the mysterious fas-ination of caves in hillsides or cliffs."

"Being a sculptor is probably the healthiest occupation any human being could have," he said. "I am a sculptor and not a painter because to me shape is more important than color."

Moore was born July 30, 1898, in Castleford, an industrial town in northern England. He was the seventh of eight children in a poor family. His father was a miner and his mother worked as a cleaner.

HENRY WAS HIS mother's favorite. She suffered from rheumatism and taught her son to massage her back. He was embarrassed at first, he later said, but he learned every contour of the human back.

"That's why I'm very good at (sculpting) backs," he said. "I can do a back in my sleep, nearly."

His talent first showed itself in boyhood when he made clay heating pots for his school friends to carry around as warmers in winter.

After serving in World War I, Moore enrolled at the Leeds School of Art as its first sculpture student. He later won a scholarship to the Royal College of Art in London and later taught there.

His first exhibition in the United States was in 1943 and America was always highly appreciative of his sculpture.

HE FIRST CAME to public attention in Britain as a government artist during World War II. His powerful drawings of Londoners sleeping in subway stations during the German bombings earned him the acclaim that was yet to come from his sculpture.

But recognition, when it came after the war, came with a rush.

His sculpture is on display in more than 90 cities and in many countries — the United States, Israel, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, Italy, Denmark, Japan and Australia among them.

Late in life Moore gave the Tate Gallery in London 36 of his early works, a gift worth millions of dollars. To the Henry Moore Gallery in Leeds he gave a collection estimated at more than $6 million.

In 1929, he married a fellow art student, Irene Radetsky, and they had one daughter.

Reflecting on his long life, Moore once said, "Success is too easy now. I think the artist should struggle a bit."
