West High boy wants to play girls' volleyball

By Bruce Japsen

The Iowa City School Board will meet Tuesday to decide whether a 17-year-old boy should be allowed to play on the girls' volleyball team at Iowa City West High School, school officials said Wednesday.

Trevor Adamson will be allowed to continue practicing with the team but will not be permitted to play in a game until the Iowa City School Board and other school boards in the Mississippi Valley Conference vote on the measure, said Julie Ostrander, West High athletic director.

"The district is taking a 'wait and see' attitude toward the issue," Ostrander said. "Right now there is nothing in the state rules that prevent him from playing up until state tournament competition at the sectional, regional and state levels. Individual schools must decide in our conference if he should be allowed to play in conference games."

ADAMSON, WHO said he has support from his family, peers and teammates, expressed hope that the board will support him. His decision to join the team was partly based on a similar situation at West High three years ago that led to the creation of a girls' soccer team, he said.

"If the district supports me, then I'm going to go all the way with it," Adamson said. "If they do, and another team refuses to play us, then the school district can litigate."

Superintendent of schools David Cronin would not comment on the situation late Wednesday.

Adamson, who was described by teammate Marsha Fearing as one who "likes controversy," said he just "likes to do things that are a little different" and that he gets along well with his teammates.

"I'M GOOD FRIENDS with most of the team and have been for a while. I guess I'm just one of the girls on the team."

"I'm just as proud as any other person that's on the West High volleyball team; nothing more or nothing less," he said.

Fearing said teammates "were positive" about having Adamson on the team. "Part of it is because it's Trevor. He's great," she said.

West High is scheduled to play Cedar Rapids Washington High School on Tuesday, the first match the boy would participate in if both school

Daniloff's return hinges on spy 'deal'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is proposing a deal with the Soviets to free an accused Russian spy while he awaits trial in return for the release from a Soviet jail of U.S. correspondent Nicholas Daniloff, officials said Wednesday.

Under the arrangement, accused spy Gennadi Zakharov — now in a New York prison without bail on a charge of espionage — would be freed and while awaiting trial would be put in the custody of Soviet Ambassador Yuri Dubinin.

An administration official said the proposal has been put together and he was "reasonably certain" the State Department had offered the deal to the Soviets.

Dubinin would guarantee that Zakharov would not try to leave the country and would appear for his trial. In return, under the proposal, Daniloff, a correspondent for the news magazine U.S. News & World Report who was arrested last Saturday, would be released from a Soviet prison and would be permitted to leave the Soviet Union with his family.

A State Department spokesman said the Soviet ambassador asked that Zakharov be released to his custody soon after Zakharov's arrest, but the magistrate in the U.S. District Court in New York refused permission.

Officials said there is a precedent for the release of Zakharov, who is an employee of the United Nations Secretariat and does not have diplomatic immunity, to the custody of the Soviet ambassador.

IN A SIMILAR situation in 1978, two Soviet U.N. employees were released from jail into the custody of Anatoly

Dobrynin, tried and convicted of espionage and later released from prison as part of a larger exchange between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The State Department appeared to rule out a straight Daniloff-for-Zakharov swap on Tuesday, saying the cases are "totally different" and Daniloff had been jailed on "trumped-up" charges.

In Moscow, Soviet officials have threatened to bring jewelry smuggling charges against Daniloff, Daniloff's wife said.

She also said Mortimer Zuckerman, owner and editor-in-chief of the U.S. News & World Report magazine, left Moscow for London "satisfied" with negotiations with Soviet officials for the veteran correspondent's release.

RUTH DANILOFF said the jewelry in question consisted of family pieces the couple had not declared upon entering the country more than five years ago.

"They say they are beginning a case against us for trying to smuggle out jewelry they claim is Soviet," Ruth Daniloff said.

"It's the kind of stuff you never use, you know my mother's locket and a gold pocketwatch that Nick's father gave me," she said. "It never occurred to me to declare it and now they claim it's Soviet."

One day before he was arrested by the KGB, Daniloff told United Press International that customs officials had confiscated some jewelry during an exceptionally thorough check of belongings they were shipping back to the United States.

Customs officials placed the value of the jewelry at $2,250.

Officials to study gun control issue

By Bruce Japsen
Staff Writer

An ordinance outlawing handguns in a Chicago suburb is one model Iowa City officials may study prior to discussing the issue, city officials said.

Iowa City Manager Steve Atkins said he has been researching gun control ordinances of three Chicago suburbs — Evanston, Morton Grove and Oak Park. The council may discuss the measure this fall.

The issue arose in August when an Iowa City attorney addressed a letter to Mayor William Ambrisco and the City Council, proposing that the council adopt an ordinance banning the possession of handguns within the city.

The proposal was made by Jay Honohan following the shooting of 23-year-old John Slager. A .22-caliber handgun was used in the shooting, in which Slager sustained a gunshot wound to the head on a downtown street Aug. 3. He remains in fair condition at UI Hospitals.

MORTON GROVE officials say the city's crime rate has not been greatly affected since the ordinance took hold, but also noted the last crime-related death occurred in 1979.

The Daily Iowan/Gregory McCallum

When the ordinance went into effect in February 1983, residents of Morton Grove had the options of storing their handguns out of town, selling their handguns, turning them over to the police or storing them in a licensed gun club.

"They can own a handgun but they cannot possess it in the village," Davis said.

"We would arrest someone if officers were called to a domestic dispute and we saw a handgun laying around, or something like that," he said. "We're not going door to door looking to arrest people with handguns, though."

THOSE IN violation of the ordinance must post $1,000 bond, make a court appearance and face a fine up to $500, if convicted.

The Morton Grove Village Board of Trustees voted 4-2 to accept the controversial ordinance June 8, 1982, in direct response to local pleas by residents who objected when the opening of a gun store was proposed. The trustees passed the ordinance despite threats against their political futures.

The measure survived constitutional-ity tests through several court levels, including the U.S. Supreme Court, which refused to hear the case.

But former trustee Joan Dechert, who opposed the ordinance from the start, called it "meaningless legislation."

"If the people of Iowa City look closely at the Morton Grove ordinance, they will see it isn't going to prevent people from owning handguns," she said. "They just can't have them in the city. The only way it can be enforced is by a house-to-house search."

DECHERT suggested that licensing handguns would be more effective.

"It would be sort of like a driver's license," she said. "If you wish to own a handgun, you can train for your license and be issued a certificate to use the handgun for self-protection, hunting or target shooting. You must keep your certificate with you at all times, just like a driver's license."

Ambrisco has asked Atkins, Iowa City Attorney Terrence Timmons and Police Chief Harvey Miller to research the issue.

"It may be 30 to 60 days before I can give the council something to discuss," Atkins said last month. "It's a very complex law. We don't know if we will be able to write such a law yet."

If the Iowa City Council decides to adopt such an ordinance, it would be the first of its kind in the state.

Additional tuition hike negotiated

By Lewis Wayne Greene
University Editor

Students will pay more tuition at the UI next year, but they may not know the size of the fee increase until late December, a top education official said Wednesday.

State Board of Regents Executive Secretary R. Wayne Richey said he is certain the board will raise tuition at the three state universities again next year, but budget problems are delaying the setting of tuition policy.

The regents usually discuss tuition at their September and October meetings. Last year, the board increased student fees by 6.5 percent despite pleas for a tuition freeze by some UI student leaders.

UI Collegiate Associations Council President Mike Reck charged the delay is designed to prevent a tuition hike from harming Gov. Terry Branstad's chances for re-election.

"R. Wayne Richey is hired by Governor Branstad and I think that's bound to have some effect," he said. "It allows the debate to be pushed till after the governor's race so that it allows Terry Branstad essentially to avoid responsibility for a tuition increase."

BUT RICHEY said budget scheduling, not politics, delayed the vote.

Before the board can consider tuition policy, other budget questions, including a faculty salary policy and the future collective bargaining agreements with unionized regents employees, have to be decided.

"I'm not ready to present anything on it to the board at this meeting; I may not be able to next meeting either," he said.

"I want to concentrate as much as possible on the issues of programs and budget and faculty salary needs and that sort of thing and then figure out the financing."

Tuition will probably be a student political issue regardless of when the regents schedule its discussion, he added.

The deadline for setting tuition policy would be the December board meeting, so the governor can present it to the Iowa Legislature when it convenes in January, he said.

Richey promised students will have an opportunity to speak to the board on the issue.

THE NOVEMBER regents meetings will probably be moved from its planned site in Council Bluffs so students won't have to drive across the state to speak out on tuition policy, he said.

"There's no way the board will have the tuition discussion in Council Bluffs," he said. In 1983 the regents raised tuition at a Council Bluffs meeting, angering many students.

Richey said the 6.5 percent tuition increase this year doesn't appear to be affecting the number of students attending regents universities.

"Apparently everyone is either meeting or exceeding enrollment estimates," Richey said. "There'll always be an isolated instance where somebody couldn't come up with an extra $100 or $200 ... so you can't say it had absolutely no effect, but apparently it didn't have any discernible effect."

After the board approved the 6.5 percent increase last October, it considered the unusual step of again raising student fees when state appropriations for higher education

Student activities fair slated for Sept. 11

The UI Student Association Board will holding its annual Student Activity Fair on Union Field Thursday, Sept. 11 from 2 to 8 p.m.

Student Activities Board Director Shawn Pittman said Wednesday the event is designed to help boost membership in the UI student organizations.

"SAB invites organizations to display what and who they are. It's a chance to recruit members and be seen," she said. "There's a lot more at the university than meets the eye and the fair is here to show it."

This year's fair will be held in conjunction with Derby Days, an annual event sponsored by Sigma Chi fraternity.

This was done because past fairs have had low attendance due to competition with activities such as Derby Days.

By joining forces, Sigma Chi and SAB will benefit, Pittman said.

Along with the fair and Derby Days activities, there will be food and refreshments on hand, a dunk tank and a pizza-eating contest. The rock band Pulse also will be playing during the day.

Pittman said the Student Activities Board is taking applications through Tuesday from UI groups that wish to be in the fair.

Iowa City Transit alters bus schedule

In an effort to improve Saturday bus service, Iowa City Transit made three schedule changes in late August.

The Saturday Seventh Avenue route now departs from the downtown area 15 minutes after the hour instead of the previous 45 minutes after the hour. The change will permit riders the option of using either the Seventh Avenue route or the eastbound Court Hill route at 45 minutes after each hour.

The 30-minute Saturday layover at Mark IV Apartments has been eliminated. The bus will now depart from Mark IV at 52 minutes after the hour.

Saturday service to the Hawkeye Apartments area has been increased. The Hawkeye Apartment route now arrives at either 28 or 58 minutes after the hour.

In addition to the schedule changes, Iowa City Transit's Mall route will be detoured due to the closure of the Dodge Street bridge. The mall route will now travel south on Gilbert Street to Kirkwood Avenue.

The detour will be in effect until construction on the bridge is completed in mid-October.

UI staff member takes council position

A Coralville woman was selected Tuesday from a group of six applicants to fill a vacancy on the Coralville City Council.

Diana Lundell, 30, a UI Hospitals information services employee, was nominated by secret ballot and appointed by majority vote by the four council members present, according to Coralville Mayor Michael Katthee.

Lundell will fill the position vacated by David Holcomb, who is moving to Oregon. The council has taken applications since Holcomb's resignation took effect Aug. 1.

Katthee said Lundell was selected because she "was the most obviously involved in terms of visibility." Lundell worked as chairwoman of the Coralville Recreation Commission and chairwoman of the fund-raising committee for the Coralville Public Library.

"She had substantial exposure in the public sector," Katthee said. "She's able to step right into it and get to work."

Speech focuses on comic books, Africa

Davinder Lamba, executive director of the Mazingira Institute, Nairobi, Kenya, will speak at the UI Monday, Sept. 8, in Jessup Hall Room 248.

Lamba's speech, "Development Support Communication: Comic Books and Health Education for Kids in East Africa," will begin at 3:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

The speech is sponsored by the UI Program for International Development and the UI Center for International and Comparative Studies.

City bikers schedule long-distance treks

Bicyclists of Iowa City will sponsor two long-distance bike rides this weekend.

Members will be leaving College Green Park Saturday at 8 a.m. for a 68-mile ride to Wilton, Iowa.

Sunday the group will be taking a bike excursion to the Czech Festival in Cedar Rapids. The Sunday ride also leaves from College Green Park at 8 a.m.

The club has six other bicycle outings planned for September, including rides to Ainsworth, Tiffin and Hills, Iowa.

In a story called "Poor sewer system worries residents" (DI, Sept. 3), tests on water supplies at the Regency Mobile Home Park that showed the water safe to drink were incorrectly referred to as "positive." Actually, "negative" describes the results showing the water was safe.

The DI regrets the error.

Local companies offer help with neighborhood watch

By Pat Lammer

An Iowa City cable television firm has joined at least one other local company in efforts to assist area law enforcement agencies by acting as "eyes and ears" for residents in need of assistance.

Beginning Sept. 1, Heritage Cablevision of Iowa City has participated in the nationwide community program, Neighborhood Radio Watch. Service vehicles owned by the company will provide radio assistance to the general public in times of need.

"What we are trying to do is create community awareness," said William Blough, general manager of Heritage. "All we are doing is adding another dozen eyes and ears."

Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Company is another firm in Iowa City that participates in a similar program. According to Thomas Hoogerwerf, district manager of Iowa-Illinois, they are involved in a program called Eye Watch.

"Eye Watch is a program where people can feel comfortable seeking help from one of our vehicles and get assistance," Hoogerwerf said.

IOWA CITY Police Chief Harvey Miller said the Heritage program will be helpful to police and that Eye Watch has been beneficial in the past.

"It's another eye on the street. Every eye out there helps," Miller said.

"There has been a great deal of publicity about missing children," Miller added, although 97 percent of the initial reports are later unfounded.

"It's another eye on the street. Every eye out there helps," says Iowa City Police Chief Harvey Miller of local firms' participation in neighborhood watch programs.

Kevin Satterly, chief technician at Heritage, said the program is designed to "let people know that we have two-way communication radios in all of our trucks, so that if we see an accident or if someone is in trouble, we can call it into police from our trucks."

Heritage will have 12 radio dispatched vehicles equipped with the Neighborhood Watch logo, a yellow and black sticker, as a symbol of their participation in the program.

SATTERLY SAID the bright logo is to let school children and adults know that they can request help if they need assistance.

"We cover around 12,000 miles a month. We are just in places that the police can't be," Blough said.

Blough stressed, however, that his workers are just observers and that they would avoid dangerous situations.

"We just want to be there in case of public need," he said.

"It's not that we are trying to be police officers," Satterly added. "We are just trying to alert people if there is a robbery or accident."

Blough said that Neighborhood Radio Watch will be a continuous program. He said the largest cost of the program came from disseminating information to the public and buying stickers for the vehicles.

Heritage sent more than 15,000 releases about the Neighborhood Radio Watch, including notices to customers through their billing system. Heritage also mailed out letters informing newspapers, radio stations and school principals in the area.

Courts/Police

An Iowa City couple filed suit Wednesday against the lessors of a local apartment complex for injuries the woman allegedly sustained on an exterior stairway at the apartment.

Patricia and Daniel Shallau, 725 Emerald St., Apt. D-24, filed the petition in Johnson County District Court against Edwin K. and Ethel D. Barker, lessors of Emerald Court Apartments and Town and Campus Apartments, Inc., for negligence, breach of lease, breach of implied warranty of habitability and strict liability.

According to court records, Patricia Shallau suffered injuries to her right leg and circulatory system on an outside stairwell, resulting in medical and rehabilitation expenses.

In addition, the suit states Patricia Shallau has endured physical and mental pain and will continue to have such pains in the future.

The suit did not specify how the incident occurred.

Daniel Shallau is also suing for rehabilitation and medical expenses, as well as loss of services and companionship as a result of his wife's injury.

The Shallaus requested an unspecified amount to pay for damages.

UI Campus Security officers received a report that two rooms in Seashore Hall were burglarized Tuesday.

Janet Koopman, 1713 Grantwood Drive, told officers that two clocks worth a total of $35 were taken from Room C108, and vandals did $15 worth of damage to Room C106B, although nothing was stolen. The burglary is under investigation.

Assault: Dirk E. Lindecker, 18, 609A Mayflower Residence Hall, was charged with assault Tuesday by UI Campus Security officials. The arrest stems from an investigation into an incident that occurred last week.

Friday Events

The UI Department of Psychology's Distinguished Graduate Series will feature Norman Garnezy, University of Minnesota psychology professor, speaking on "From Adult Schizophrenia to Stress-Resistant Children: A 35-year Research Odyssey" at 4 p.m. in Van Allen Hall Lecture Room II.

The UI International Folk Dance Club will meet at 6 p.m. in Field House Room 481.

The Chinese Student Association will present two films in Shambaugh Auditorium. At 7 p.m. New Frontiers for an Ancient Heritage will be screened; at 7:30 The Merry Couple will be shown.

International Bible Study will be sponsored by the Geneva Community at 7:30 p.m. in the Wesley House

Music Room.

Tomorrow Policy

Announcements for the Tomorrow column must be submitted to The Daily Iowan by 3 p.m. two days prior to publication. For example: Notices for Friday events must be submitted by 3 p.m. Wednesday. All notices will appear in the DI one day prior to the events they announce. Notices may be sent through the mail, but be sure to mail early. All submissions must be clearly printed on a Tomorrow column blank (which appear on the classified ads page) or typewritten and triple-spaced on a full sheet of paper. Each announcement must be on a separate sheet of paper.

Announcements will not be accepted over the telephone. All submissions must include the name and phone number, which will not be published, of a contact person in case there are any questions.

Events not eligible

Notice of events where admission is charged will not be accepted. Notice of political events, except meeting announcements of recognized student groups, will not be accepted. Notices that are commercial advertisements will not be accepted. Questions regarding the Tomorrow column should be directed to the managing editor.

Faculty will review UI library funding

By Phil Thomas
Staff Writer

UI President James O. Freedman told the College of Liberal Arts Faculty Assembly Wednesday he can only hope money will become available this year to bail out the under-budgeted UI Libraries.

But UI Faculty Senate President Michael Brody said the library should be the last place to suffer budget cuts.

Brody has called a special UI Faculty Senate meeting to discuss the problem on Sept. 15.

Freedman said the administration had no choice in its decision to cut the library's budget this year.

"I don't defend it and I can't defend it," Freedman told the faculty members.

About $350,000 was cut from the library budget this year because of a $1.4 million budget shortfall in state appropriations for the 1986-87 academic year, he said.

Brody said many faculty members are upset about the library cuts.

"PEOPLE ARE VERY concerned and very frustrated," he said. "Many faculty members have said the last thing you do at a university is cut the library fund."

Freedman said the UI was forced to make the cuts, adding that it was a difficult move.

"It was obviously a very painful decision," he said. "Nobody is happy with it."

The state Board of Regents may allocate additional funds for the library when it meets this month, Freedman said.

The proposed federal tax overhaul being considered by the U.S. Senate may also garner additional funds for the UI, he said.

If the UI receives any more funding, it will go to the library, he said.

The UI has been forced to make cuts in building maintenance and repairs, as well as research programs.

"That really hurts the scientific side of the U of I," he said.

Despite the budget woes Freedman said he is anticipating a good year because of the high quality of new faculty members and academic programs at the UI.

Center inaugurates intensive Japanese

By Tom Hunter
Special to The Daily Iowan

Survival Japanese can be taught to willing Americans in two weeks, if the students are ready to spend six days a week, morning and night in intense study, according to UI Asian Languages and Literature Chairman Tom Rohlich.

"Japanese is difficult, but it is possible," Rohlich said. In the two-week course Rohlich teaches, students learn enough Japanese to survive and make their basic wishes known in Japanese, he said.

The course, designed for Americans who do business in Japan, is the first offering of the newly formed UI Center for Asian and Pacific Studies.

Rohlich said students will be far from fluent after completing the course, but will be able to survive in Japan.

"They'll know the drift — know what's going on," he said.

In addition to learning the language, students also get a taste of Japanese culture in the class.

"IT'S A fascinating country, with its mix of traditional culture and modern society," Rohlich said. Japanese children begin studying English in junior high while most Americans are entirely ignorant of Japanese, Rohlich said.

Fumiko Willis, a teaching assistant in the program and a native of Japan, said she was surprised by her student's ability to absorb the language in the short span of time.

"I was really amazed how they could catch up," Willis said. "They were studying what other students spent a year studying."

Mami Day, also a native Japanese speaker working as a teaching assistant in the program, said learning Japanese numbers was one of the easiest tasks for the students.

In Japan, junior high students learn English grammar by reading and writing but there is little opportunity to speak English, Day said.

"ENGLISH pronunciation is the hardest," Day said. In contrast, American students seemed to have little trouble with Japanese pronunciation, she said.

While businessmen and professionals may find the course meets their needs, they won't find it does so at bargain-basement prices.

At $2,150, it is not for the penny-pinching student, but that price includes tuition, meals, room, instruction materials and cultural events.

According to UI press releases, other intensive language courses will follow. The inaugural classes end Sept. 12.

Cease the cutbacks

We are all aware of the cutbacks taking place at the UI. Students become especially aware of such cuts when they enter the registration center and sections of the course they need for graduation are closed. It seems the UI never has enough money to adequately staff the various departments so that more classes and class sections will be open to students.

One program that will certainly take a loss this year is the African-American World Studies Program. It is faced with the problem of either hiring a faculty member and dismissing its secretary or not filling the faculty opening and keeping its secretary. Of course, for educational purposes, the program must hire a faculty member and lose its secretary.

Chairman of the African-American World Studies Program Darwin T. Turner is very unhappy about the cutbacks. Despite the important role the secretary played in the smooth operation of the program, the African-American World Studies Program will now have to share a secretary with the Women's Studies and the American Studies Programs. Obviously, this will put tremendous pressure on one secretary and decrease the efficiency of all the programs.

Due to other cutbacks of teaching funds, the African-American World Studies Program has already had to cancel two courses this semester and there is a strong possibility that one African-American History course will be cancelled next semester.

Cutbacks in all departments and programs at the UI are affecting the education of the students by not allowing them to take the classes they want and need. In addition, graduation of some students is being delayed since they will not be able to enroll in required courses. Hopefully, the severe cutbacks the UI has been experiencing will decrease or cease in the near future and the university will be a better place for students and staff.

Take a gamble

Forget the stories about slumping ticket sales and declining interest, Iowan's have taken to the state lottery and parimutuel dog racing.

Attendance at Greyhound Park in Dubuque and the Bluffs Run greyhound track in Council Bluffs is booming. More importantly, these tracks are keeping Iowan's money in Iowa instead of taking it to the Quad City Downs in Moline, Ill. or Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha, Neb. Officials from those tracks have noticed a decline in their handlings and attribute the decline to Iowa's tracks.

Legalized gambling means instant revenue for the state because the state government gets a percentage of every dollar spent on gambling. Revenues are being used for the improvement of state education, the creation of new jobs, and the payment of Iowa's debts. The list goes on and on.

Recently, there has been talk of involving Iowa in a multi-state lottery as well as talk of proposed river boat gambling on the Mississippi and Missouri rivers. It may be just talk now, but if the ideas are implemented, the result would be even more revenue for the state.

Of course, legalized gambling alone is not the solution to Iowa's economic woes. But, the success of the lottery and parimutuel dog racing has shown that there is an interest in gambling in the state. That success has been responsible for millions of dollars in additional state income . . . income that Iowa desperately needs.

So why not more gambling?

Good intentions

The cliché used to be that "the road to hell was paved with good intentions." Now, if the Reagan administration has its way, the road to hell will be paved with no intentions at all. The Justice Department has decided that election plans which discriminate against blacks or other minorities can be allowed as long as there is no proof that the intent was to discriminate.

That opens up new and interesting vistas in law enforcement. Does the driver who runs down a child get to plead innocent to charges of negligence because he didn't intend to hit any people that day. It was just an unintended consequence of the fact that he decided to look for a cassette which had rolled under the seat. Does the thief get to say he didn't intend to steal the car, he was just borrowing it for a couple of weeks.

Actually, with intent — not result — the sole determinant in legal proceedings, the system could be streamlined marvelously. People charged with a violation could sign an affidavit affirming whether or not they intended to commit the offense with which they were charged. If they said "no", all charges could be dropped. The need for police, judges and jails would decline dramatically and the potential cost savings would be astronomical.

The Reagan administration, which has long promised to get government off the backs of the people, may just have found the way to do it — if they have the guts to really follow through on this new and progressive legal theory.

Sandinistas have a history of abuse

By M. W. Chapin

HUMAN RIGHTS abuses committed by the Contras have been duly noted, but those committed by the Sandinistas have been conspicuously absent from the pages of The Daily Iowan. None of the following material comes from Reagan administration sources. Most of it comes from liberal journals, in particular The Nation and Commonweal.

OPPRESSION OF Minorities — the Miskito Indians live in the Atlantic coastal area of Nicaragua. Most do not speak Spanish. Instead they speak Miskito and Creole English, and many have English names, a reflection of long-time British influence in the area.

Most of the Hispanic Nicaraguans live on the Pacific side of the country. They consider the Miskitos to be backwards and uncivilized. Both sides historically distrust the other.

The Miskitos have been primarily interested in establishing their cultural and land rights, and originally tended to view the Sandinista-Contra conflict as an internal quarrel among the "Spaniards," as they call the Pacific coast

Guest Opinion

Nicaraguans.

Beset by fears that the Miskitos would side with Contras, the Sandinistas created a self-fulfilling prophecy. They failed to understand that the Miskitos held ethnic goals, not ideological ones, and allowed their distrust of the Indians to escalate into armed conflict.

In a move reminiscent of the U.S. treatment of Japanese-Americans during World War II, the Sandinistas confiscated Miskito lands, killed livestock, burned crops and villages, and forced large numbers of Indians into internment camps. Not surprisingly, this drove the Miskitos to the Contra side. Many fled to Honduras as refugees, and others remained to fight a guerilla war. Here they consistently outmaneuvered Sandinista troops, who were unfamiliar with the terrain and received no logistic support from local villages.

In order to reduce their opposition, the Sandinistas negotiated a truce with the Miskitos last year and allowed them to return to their homeland. Will this truce last if the Contra forces are defeated? Hopefully so. The only certainty is that armed rebellion was necessary for the Miskitos to defend their basic rights.

TORTURE OF POLITICAL Prisoners — the Independent Permanent Commission for Human Rights in Managua estimates there are at least 5,500 political prisoners in Nicaragua. Many of them are kept in tiny, dark cells, in filthy conditions, deprived of food and sleep for days at a time, and often beaten or more horribly abused. These charges are supported by the International League for Human Rights.

SUPPRESSION OF CIVIL Liberties — in October 1985, under the pretext of being necessitated by the threat from the United States, the Sandinistas suspended nearly all civil liberties. The real reason was to suppress their domestic opponents: the Catholic Church, independent unions and opposition political parties. As a Sandinista source was quoted in Time magazine: "Things were coming to a head. This is a warning shot to the internal opposition. We are not going to be a self-destructive revolution."

The main target seems to be the Catholic Church, led by Miguel Cardinal Obando y Bravo, Archbishop of Managua. Among the more recent harassments of the Church have been the detention, imprisonment, and interrogation of more than 150 Catholic officials and priests; the drafting of seminarians from two dioceses into military service; the seizure by armed state security forces of the Social Pastoral Office of the archdiocese of Managua; the permanent closure of Iglesia, the Church newspaper, and of Radio Catolica; and the prohibition against Cardinal Obando conducting processions or celebrating open-air masses. Is anyone really glib enough to believe that these measures were necessitated by the hostility of the Reagan administration?

The tragedy is that Nicaragua has merely exchanged one brutal, repressive regime for another.

Distrust leads to inefficient government

By Andrew Hamilton and John Maxwell Hamilton

PRESIDENT Reagan's Commission on Defense Management, created in the wake of the spare-parts scandals last year, recently finished its study with a series of tough proposals to improve the way the Defense Department is run. But, surprisingly, the commission found that things are not nearly as bad as they seem to the public. This finding reveals a problem as worrisome as the cost-overnrun scandal itself.

Americans have a predisposition to believe the worst of government bureaucracies. We relish horror stories about the Pentagon's overpriced toilet seats and $7,400 coffee pots, or Imelda Marcos' overflowing shoe closets. This bias keeps us from concentrating on the larger issues of how government institutions can best serve us. And it leads us to hobble public servants with red tape that virtually guarantees inefficiency.

THE COMMISSION, headed by the industrialist David Packard, found that the public perception of the Defense Department is distorted. A poll done for the commission showed that Americans think nearly half of the $300 billion military budget is lost in equal parts to waste and fraud.

The commission spent a year studying, among other topics, the extent of waste, fraud and mismanagement in defense. It concluded that "the truly costly problems are those of overcomplicated organization and rigid procedure, not avarice or connivance." Nowhere did it find evidence to support the view that $150 billion a year is wantonly dissipated.

The commission's final report noted that, as of May 1985, 131 separate investigations were pending against 45 of the nation's top 100 military contractors, involving such issues as pricing, product substitution, kickbacks and false claims. This is an appalling record by any standard, and the commission called on industry to clean house. But it involves only a fraction of military spending.

The commission found that the problems "were seldom the result of fraud or dishonesty," but rather "were symptomatic of other underlying problems that affect the entire acquisition system." Ironically, the commission noted, laws and regulations intended to prevent mismanagement have had the unintended effect of "making acquisition procedures even more inflexible" and of "removing whatever motivation exists for the exercise of individual judgment."

ON FOREIGN AID, the pattern of public misperception is the same. But the reality is quite different. As in defense, the proportion of waste and fraud is small, and most scandals are brought to light by the government's own investigations. On the whole, foreign aid programs have had a remarkable performance.

An internal study of 500 World Bank projects, for example, found that in 1983, 92 percent achieved their goals. In addition, their average rate of return was 16 percent, well above the 10 percent return the bank requires for its loans.

Our ingrained distrust of public institutions prevents us from seeing these achievements clearly. The danger in this government-can-do-no-right attitude, as the commission pointed out, is that it produces bad government. When our legislators pin bureaucrats under mountains of regulations, they do not necessarily create greater accountability; rather, these procedures slow the work of government and, worse, let officials duck responsibility for the programs they oversee.

In an earlier age, when our government was small and our interests rarely stretched in any meaningful way overseas, such an approach might have been tolerable. In today's world, Americans should wonder if the trials they put their institutions through produce the most useful debate or much economy.

Andrew Hamilton, a former member of the National Security Council staff, was a member of the professional staff of the Packard Commission. John Maxwell Hamilton has worked for the World Bank. Copyright 1986 The New York Times.

Liberal Arts could stiffen admissions

By Phil Thomas
Staff Writer

The UI College of Liberal Arts Faculty Assembly considered a proposal Wednesday to tighten its enrollment by imposing stiffer admissions policies on incoming students.

The proposal, drafted by the UI College of Liberal Arts Admissions Committee, received mixed reviews from the faculty members, but the meeting adjourned before a final vote was taken. The assembly will reconvene next week.

UI College of Liberal Arts Associate Dean James Lindberg said the policy will enable students to get more out of their education by easing overcrowding.

"Students experience the crowding problem in much more personal ways," Lindberg said.

But UI Associate History Professor Jeffrey Cox said the revenue generated by student tuition should be considered before overcrowded classrooms.

"THE DISEASE is overcrowding, but we have a more serious problem with a lack of money," he said.

The proposal would classify prospective students into two priorities.

First priority students will be admitted upon application based on their high school standing and their ACT scores, he said.

Qualified minority and transfer students will also be admitted into the first priority classification.

All other applicants will be placed in the second priority, Lindberg said.

The college will determine the total number of applicants to be accepted before they begin to admit students in the second priority category, he said.

UI VICE PRESIDENT for Finance Dorsey Ellis said the new policy would solve a number of problems students now face on campus.

Course availability would increase, classrooms would become less crowded and there would be less strain on resources in the UI Libraries, Ellis said.

Lindberg said the policy would not greatly reduce enrollment if passed, but said it would eliminate some problems.

"We're a public university with an obligation to educate students from the state," Lindberg said.

But out-of-state students will face some limits in admissions, though these limits shouldn't be severe, Lindberg said.

Iowa State University is also considering a proposal to limit admissions, Lindberg told the faculty meeting.

In July, University of Northern Iowa President Constantine Curris petitioned the state Board of Regents to act quickly on a proposal to reduce the number of students admitted to UNI.

UI pipers preserve Scottish heritage

By Joseph Levy
Special to The Daily Iowan

While their type of music may not be everybody's bag, the pipers, drummers and dancers of the Scottish Highlanders are making their presence known around the UI.

The group's main purpose, according to manager Linda Thayer, is to preserve Scottish music and dance folklore. It can often be heard practicing in the Pentacrest area and on Union Field.

"They are really well known around the Midwest," adviser Tom Fesenmeyer said. According to Fesenmeyer, the 30-year-old group has performed in St. Patrick's Day parades in Cedar Rapids, Kansas City, Mo., and Chicago.

In addition, the Highlanders were invited to take part in President Ronald Reagan's 1985 inauguration parade.

"Everywhere we go we represent the University of Iowa," Thayer said. The tartan-clad pipers and drummers try to get around Iowa as much as possible, she added.

ACCORDING TO Thayer, elementary school students especially enjoy seeing the bagpipers in the 35-member group.

Bagpiper Tom McGuire, who has been with the Highlanders four years, has seen many of those elementary schools. He explained that playing the bagpipes can be more than breathtaking.

"They take a lot of air," he sighed, after taking four good puffs to get the pipe's bag filled. "It takes a long time to build up your lip strength."

Being with the Highlanders has broadened Thayer's musical tastes. "I've learned to appreciate other kinds of music besides rock," she said.

The group is looking for new members. An informational meeting for prospective members will be held at Halsey Gymnasium Sept. 14 at 3:30 p.m.

Soviets dance despite tear gas threat

NEW YORK — A militant Jewish leader denied Wednesday his organization rolled a tear-gas bomb down the aisle at the premiere performance of a Soviet dance troupe in the Metropolitan Opera House Tuesday night but said, "We applaud the results."

Meanwhile, the head of the famed Moiseyev dance troupe, making its first visit to the United States in 12 years, vowed the show would go on.

Chaim Ben Josef, 29, chairman of the militant Jewish Defense League, said it was possible some members of the JDL "acting on their own" might have taken part in the attack against the dance company in which 26 people were injured Tuesday night.

FAA: American Airlines hijack thwarted

MIAMI — A man who apparently planned to hijack an American Airlines flight to Cuba was arrested Wednesday after airport officials discovered two plastic bottles of gasoline in his luggage, officials said.

William Diaz, 26, was arrested at Miami International Airport for trying to smuggle the bottles aboard American Flight 975 to San Juan, Puerto Rico, Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Fred Farrar said in Washington.

Diaz, who is being held by the FBI, told authorities he was "unhappy with conditions in the United States and wanted to go to Cuba," Farrar said.

Authorities could not ascertain his occupation or hometown and it was not known if he was a Cuban refugee, Farrar said.

NASA may lay off 1,800 shuttle workers

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — NASA this week is expected to announce the lay-off of 800 to 1,000 workers at the Kennedy Space Center because of the Challenger disaster and the delay in shuttle launches, sources said Wednesday.

In addition, another 700 to 800 workers at a Louisiana plant where shuttle fuel tanks are built will receive pink slips by Oct. 3, according to Martin Marietta, the firm in charge of fuel tank construction.

Some 1,150 workers were laid off in February because of the Challenger accident and the completion of several spaceport projects, including modifications to launch pad 39B, where Challenger began its last voyage.

Source of Legionnaires' disease found

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. — A factory cooling tower was the primary source of bacteria responsible for a fatal outbreak of Legionnaires' disease in the state, officials said Wednesday.

The cooling tower of the Muth Wood stock Co., where the bacteria Legionella pneumophila was found, has been cleaned, officials said. The factory, which makes auto parts and accessories, is located near the homes of almost all of the victims.

Twenty-nine people, six of whom are still hospitalized, apparently were infected, rather than the earlier report of 31 cases. One person has died and 16 others had the disease. Twelve others had symptoms but tests have not confirmed they actually were infected.

AMC to offer no-interest car financing

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. — American Motors Corp. topped its Big Three competitors in the buyer-incentive game Wednesday by offering two-year financing without interest on most 1986 car and Jeep models.

The latest frenzied round of cut-rate financing began last week when General Motors Corp. stunned its competitors by offering 2.9 percent financing on three-year loans.

Ford later matched GM's offer and by the end of the week, Chrysler chimed in with what was until today a record low 2.4 percent annual percentage rate on two-year loans.

Jews: CBN contract unconstitutional

WASHINGTON — The American Jewish Congress said Wednesday a White House panel gave Pat Robertson's Christian Broadcasting Network an unconstitutional exclusive contract by proposing a role for the network in the administration's new anti-drug effort.

An Aug. 18 memorandum of the White House's Private Sector Task force, reportedly says that federal officials should start an "education-information program through the churches with particular emphasis on the Christian Broadcast Network and its constituency."

Phil Baum, associate executive director of the congress, said the panel's report, by singling out Robertson's religious organization, would hurt the plan to involve all churches equally in the anti-drug program and violates the constitutional prohibition against governmental establishment of religion.

L.A. air disaster sparks damage suits

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A noted personal injury attorney Wednesday announced the first damage suits in the collision between an Aeromexico DC-9 and a small private plane that killed all 67 people on both planes and at least three on the ground.

"We have four of them (suits) and we'll probably have a lot more," attorney Melvin Belli said.

"We're suing Aeromexico, the people on the small plane, the United States, the state (of California), the owners of the plane or planes involved and various individuals," he said.

Belli said the suits would be filed Friday in U.S. District Court.

Federal court suits do not specify monetary damages, but Belli expected them to be "substantial."

He said the federal government will be a target of the suit because of the role the control tower played in the collision.

THE OFFICIAL death toll from the disaster remained at 70 — 64 on the DC-9, three in the Piper Archer 28 and three on the ground. The number of victims on the ground was expected to rise as the coroner released his list.

John Lauber, a member of the National Transportation Safety Board, said Tuesday night there were at least three small planes and the jetliner on an air traffic controller's screen just before the Sunday crash.

Among the three was a single-engine Grumman American Yankee, dubbed a "pop-up aircraft" because it unexpectedly surfaced in the airspace usually restricted for commercial planes and contacted the tower.

Another was the "mystery" plane that prompted the tower's traffic advisory to the DC-9. The third was the Piper that clipped the jetliner's tail, sending it upside down into the ground.

THE CONTROLLER did not warn Aeromexico Flight 498 about the Piper, possibly because he was distracted by one of the other planes, officials said.

Lauber said the plane entered the restricted area about two minutes before the crash, and if it had been seen by the jetliner, "two minutes would have been plenty of time" to avoid a collision.

Thirteen of the 15 eyewitnesses interviewed said neither plane appeared to be taking evasive action at the time of the collision, Lauber said.

Recordings made of cockpit conversations aboard the DC-9 were being analyzed in Washington.

"THE WORD that I have is that there is usable information on the cockpit voice recorder tape," he said.

Red Cross spokesman Stan Schwartz said Wednesday 15 people still had not been accounted for.

Residents, meanwhile, were allowed to return to their homes as the on-site investigation was concluded and the wreckage hauled away.

An autopsy showed William Kramer, 53, suffered a heart attack before he was ejected when his plane sheared off the tail of the DC-9. But federal investigators discounted the importance of the report.

If Kramer had a heart attack, they said, the massive blockage of his coronary arteries did not prove he suffered a "sudden, incapacitating event."

Tuition

did not meet regent requests.

The UI asked the board to consider implementing a student health fee to support UI Student Health Services, but the board repeatedly deferred the question.

UI VICE President for Finance Dorsey Ellis said he won't know if the UI will push for a student health fee again this fall until Richey releases his tuition policy proposal.

Ellis agreed there is very little chance the board won't increase tuition again this year.

But Reck said student government leaders will fight any proposed increase. "We'll do everything we can to oppose it," he said.

Student leaders may call for a tuition reduction, Reck said.

"I would be disappointed if they pushed for a tuition freeze. Last year we called for a freeze and they raised tuition 6.5 percent," Reck said.

"If we say 'tuition freeze' again this year we're essentially condoning the 6.5 percent increase that took place last year.

"To be honest, I'm just disgusted with the whole tuition issue," he said.

boards approve.

Duane Kramer, athletic director at Washington High School, said a 1979 U.S. Supreme Court case known as Pety vs. the Illinois High School Athletic Association "clearly says that boys are not to be on girls' volleyball teams."

THE CEDAR RAPIDS school board will also vote Tuesday.

Three Cedar Rapids schools are in the conference. The Dubuque school board, with three schools in the conference, has yet to schedule a vote on the issue.

Kramer said there is a difference in the height of the net between boys' and girls' volleyball. "If there was a coed team we would not know whether to use boys' rules or girls' rules," he said.

"I know that the guys' net is higher. I believe that there is a coed net also," said Adamson, who is 5 feet 6 inches tall.

Three years ago, Amy Chu played on the boys' soccer team at West High. The Iowa City School Board allowed her to participate, but Cedar Rapids schools refused to play West High.

In that case, Cedar Rapids schools filed an injunction against the Iowa City coed team. Iowa City later started its own coed soccer league.

Two candidates campaign in 'no thrills' school board race

By James Cahoy
Staff Writer

Turnout in next Tuesday's Iowa City School Board election — in which two candidates are running unopposed for seats — is expected to be sparse, but one county auditor's official warned against taking the election for granted.

"You never know what will happen in a school board election," Johnson County Deputy Auditor Jeff McCullough said. "There is a chance for write-ins or any number of things."

The candidates, Orville Townsend and Ellen Widiss, were greeted by only a handful of listeners during a forum held Wednesday at the Federal Building, 400 S. Clinton St.

In their remarks, Townsend and Widiss, who is seeking re-election, expressed the goals they hope to achieve if elect to the board. Townsend, who lost by a narrow margin in last year's election, said he favors "open communication" with the board, continuing the policy of open campus, a continued emphasis on college preparatory courses and cost analysis within the district.

"WE MUST GET our money's worth out of every dollar, and the money should be shifted to the student level. We must focus on students first."

Townsend also said he thinks the district has a morale problem.

"There are some problems we need to address in our relations with our staff. We must do this as a family."

Widiss, the current school board president, said her goals for the upcoming term include encouraging initiative on behalf of teachers, continuing smooth lines of communications between the board and the district, expanding opportunities for the participation of volunteers and a greater commitment to fiscal responsibility.

As her final goal, Widiss hopes to "ensure that we provide the educational opportunities that allow our children to reach their potential."

McCullough said turnout is likely to be low because the candidates are running unopposed, but said turnout will be comparable to previous years.

"I don't think it will be much lower, since most people who vote in school board elections are pretty consistent voters."

But McCullough speculated turnout will not be much lower than last year, when a little more than 10 percent of the electors voted.

Both Widiss and Townsend have children enrolled in Iowa City schools.

ARH to kick off semester at Hancher

By Diana Morton
Special to The Daily Iowan

Saturday, come rain or shine, Associated Residence Halls will kick off the fall semester with their annual Fall Kick-Off on the Hancher Auditorium Green from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Coordinators Anne Craig and Michelle Higgins estimate 150 to 200 hours were spent in preparation for the 8-hour chain of events, but the two UI sophomores said all the time and hard work was worth it, because this year's Kick-Off will be about eight times bigger than last year's.

"It's going to be an all-out bash," Chuck Gitle, a UI junior and Kick-Off program director, said. "We're having a pep rally and bringing out the cheerleaders, pompons and Herky the Hawk to try and get everybody real enthused, since this is the last weekend before football season starts," he said.

ARH, the student organization representing all the students living in the ten campus residence halls, is sponsoring the fun event to promote the organization.

"THIS IS the first year ARH is doing the Kick-Off on our own," Gitle said. "It's entirely under our budget and our jurisdiction."

During its first four years, the Kick-Off has been held in conjunction with the Delta Chi Fraternity and last year with the Student Activities Board.

"Essentially what we had was two events at one time, and this year we didn't want that," Gitle said. "We wanted to do something solely for people to have a good time and to get our name out."

While a large part of last year's Kick-Off was informational booths, Saturday's Kick-Off will feature events and activity booths, Craig said. "It's much bigger this year and there are more activities to do. We think it's going to be a lot more fun," she said.

SOME OF the major attractions will be magician Lee Iben, hypnotist Thomas Fitz-

K101 plans live broadcast from residence hall bash

Radio station K101 will be broadcasting live on location from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at the annual Association Residence Halls Fall Kick-Off on the Hancher Auditorium Green. The whole K101 crew will be in attendance, including J.D. Stewart, the station's new program director, and radio personalities Dr. Maimes, Mike Kelly, Smokin' Joe Nugent and Clair Carver.

K101 even hinted at a possible appearance by the station's official "tailgator" and party animal at large, mascot Al E. Gator. K101 has 101 Coca-Cola T-shirts and other prizes to give away throughout the day.

Open volleyball games begin at 10 a.m. and last all day. From 10 a.m. until noon, anyone wanting to show their Hawkeye spirit can have their face painted at a booth in preparation for the 11 a.m. pep rally.

THE RALLY should last about an hour and features the Hawkeye cheerleaders, pompon girls and a special appearance by Herky the Hawk.

Hypnotist Thomas Fitzgerald will perform on stage from 1 to 2 p.m., followed by an organized game of Simon Says until 2:30 p.m.

ARH's version of "The Dat-gerald, parachutists and live music from the Iowa City band The Pulse.

"Some of the other activities are going to be put on by the individual hall associations," Gitle said. "They're going to be doing booths to promote their own individual associations under our guise."

The Burge Association, B.A.S.H., will host a "pop slam" contest where competitors chug shaken-up soda instead of beer. Other events include a dunk tank by the R.A.Q.U.E. Association (Rei-ing Game" promises laughs on stage from 2:30 to 3 p.m.

Between 2 and 3 p.m. a group of skydivers from Cedar Rapids are scheduled to jump and land on the Green.

Iowa City magician Lee Iben will perform from 3:30 until 4 p.m., when The Pulse takes the stage. The Iowa City band will perform from 4 to 6 p.m.

Horse-drawn carriage rides will be provided for $1 from 2 to 4 p.m. and tethered hot air balloon rides will be available from 4 to 6 p.m.

ARH WILL have several raffle drawings of ticket stubs throughout the day, giving away prizes donated by local merchants. Those prizes include two pairs of Hawkeye football tickets, one pair to the Northern Illinois game and one pair to the Texas-El Paso game.

Other booths and events include a ring toss contest, a darts tournament, a soda pop slam, a Twister game and a tarot card tent.

Tickets are $2 for residence halls association cardholders and $2.50 for other adults. Children under 12 will be admitted for $1. Tickets are available at the ARH office in Burge Residence Hall, through any residence hall association office or through the University Box Office.

now and Quadrangle) and a giant Twister game put on by D.A., the Daum Association.

ADMISSION is $2 for Hall Association members, $2.50 for all others and $1 for children ages 12 and under. Tickets are available at the ARH office located in the basement of Burge, the Union Box Office, Hall Association offices and can be purchased at the event.

Since the ticket outlets are scattered, the coordinators said they have no idea how many tickets have been sold, but they are shooting for a thousand.

"We're counting on ticket sales to help balance our budget out and some of the other events we're having will cost a small fee," Craig said.

ARH's budget comes from student fees, according to Pam Boersig, assistant director of the Clinton Street residence halls.

"The Department of Residence Services has a mandatory student fee which comes from room and board rates," Boersig said. "They get four dollars per year from each student's room and board rate and that's the budget they have to work with."

OF THE total ARH budget, Higgins and Craig were allotted $3,000 for the Kick-Off.

Craig said she and Higgins "had a lot of little things pop up at the end that we didn't know would happen."

"Electricity was a big problem because of where we're having it. Hancher Field has no real electricity, so we had to get somebody to put it there for the band and stage area," Higgins said, adding that providing electricity alone ate up a third of the total Kick-Off budget.

Security for the event was another obstacle that had to be overcome.

"At first we were only going to have one officer and then we found out we had to have four," Higgins said. "We worked that out with the Union Board. Now they're going to pay for two and we're going to pay for two."

THE KICK-OFF coordinating committee is struggling with last minute problems, but is still basically on schedule.

"All the big things are finished. All of our contracts are signed," Craig said. "Now we're just making sure the payments are made on time and doing little things like picking out trash bags for the trash cans."

Both Higgins and Craig agreed that the Kick-Off required more than they expected in terms of responsibility, time and effort, but neither of them regret the experience.

Junkins vows to aid cattlemen

DES MOINES (UPI) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Lowell Junkins Wednesday unveiled a $5 million bonding plan he says will revive the state's cattle industry, create jobs and pump millions of dollars back into the state.

He also criticized Republican Gov. Terry Branstad for giving away grants to the state's meat packing plants, which he called a dying industry.

Joined by Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, at a Des Moines news conference, Junkins proposed a one-time, six-year program to provide low-interest loans to cattle feeders.

With the help of financial institutions, the proposal would put 3,000 cattle feeders back in operation over a six-year period and increase feed sales $135 million, Junkins said.

"WE NOW HAVE an opportunity to bring back to Iowa the cattle industry we once lost. We can invest in our strengths here at home rather than continue to run about this nation or around the world hoping to find some solution to this economic problem," he said.

Junkins' plan would limit loans to farmers to $50 a head and each farmer could receive a maximum of $10,000. The farmers would be required to put up $25 per head and the remaining investment would come from other lenders. The state's investment would be paid back when the cattle are marketed.

Junkins said Branstad's loans to the packing industry have produced no growth.

"Terry Branstad just gave away $1.2 million in grants to the packing industry and that industry today continues to die," Junkins said.

Harkin called the Junkins proposal a "bold, innovative program that would provide a breath of fresh air to the cattle industry."

Antibodies may be key to malaria vaccine

BOSTON (UPI) — Scientists Wednesday reported new evidence that researchers are on the right track in their efforts to develop a vaccine for malaria, still a major killer in many parts of the world.

Researchers at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research in Washington, D.C., found people living in a malaria-prone area had important antibodies in their blood that increase as they grow older, possibly to protect them from the disease.

The antibodies are the same as those that are being tested for a possible long-sought vaccine to the mosquito-borne disease, which claims more than one million lives a year in Africa alone.

"This does not prove anything but is further evidence that supports the idea there are protective effects," said Col. Wayne T. Hockmeyer, chief of the Department of Immunology at the hospital and a co-author of the study published in The New England Journal of Medicine.

RESEARCHERS have recently completed the first preliminary human tests with the new vaccine, but the results are not yet available. He said it would be at least two years before the vaccine could be ready for widespread use if all went well.

The new vaccine is based on the presumption that antibodies to a protein known as circumsporozoite, on the surface of a stage of the malaria parasite called a sporozoite, can protect the body by alerting the immune system to attack the sporozoites when they enter the body. The sporozoite is injected by an infected mosquito into the blood stream of a human.

While stressing that success in developing an effective vaccine remains uncertain, Hockmeyer said the new study provides encouragement that the work is going in the right direction.

"BASICALLY it provides some evidence that the cir-umsporozoite protein antibody provides some protection to the malaria infection," Hockmeyer said.

For the new study, researchers analyzed blood samples from the inhabitants of a village in Indonesia and found that the percentage of antibodies increased significantly with age.

Infants between the ages of 12 and 23 months had an average of 25 percent of antibodies in their blood, and the amount of antibodies climbed to 86 percent by age 19. At the same time, the incidence of malaria was 20 percent between ages 12 and 23 months but dropped to 4 percent after age 19.

The antibodies apparently accumulate after repeated bitings by infected mosquitoes and possible infections with the disease.

Increasing numbers of drug-resistant parasites and insecticide-resistant mosquitoes have spurred a worldwide resurgence of malaria. The World Health Organization reported 150 million new cases in 1981.

Smoking bans help workers kick the habit

BOSTON (UPI) — Banning smoking in the workplace helps employees kick the habit without prompting them to quit their jobs, researchers said Wednesday.

"Workplace smoking bans do encourage people to quit or smoke less and if (bans) ever become the norm, it will have a profound impact on this country's cigarette consumption," said Michael J. Martin, a clinical epidemiologist at the University of California in San Francisco.

In a letter to The New England Journal of Medicine, Martin reviewed the experience of Pacific Northwest Bell, which banned smoking for all 15,000 employees in all company facilities in July 1985.

"Although the company initially received some complaints, not a single employee has left because of it," Martin said.

When the ban was announced, the company also unveiled a program for reimbursing employees for participating in programs to help them quit smoking. In the first six months 1,044 employees — 25 percent of all company smokers — had signed up.

"THE ACTUAL number of smokers who tried to quit is probably much larger because many smokers prefer to quit on their own rather than by going to cessation programs," Martin said.

By comparison, in the 26 months before the smoking ban, employees had the opportunity to participate in free smoking-cessation programs during working hours. Only 331 employees signed up.

In addition, even employees who continued to smoke consumed fewer cigarettes. A company survey found that those who reduced their smoking cut back from an average of 29 cigarettes a day to 21, said Martin.

"There's a clear association between the health consequences of smoking and the amount they smoke. Cutting back by that much would have a clear benefit," Martin said.

MARTIN ATTRIBUTED the success of the ban to the way it was implemented.

"Much of the ban's success is because it was applied uniformly to all employees. Employees sometimes have objected to smoking bans that allow those with private offices to smoke while those in large open work areas cannot. This smoking policy applied equally to everyone," Martin said.

Martin said many companies are considering smoking bans, primarily to save money. Studies have shown an employee who smokes can cost an extra $4,700 a year, primarily from higher health care costs and absenteeism.

Martin said non-smokers also benefit because they are not exposed to their co-workers' smoke.

"The risks are clearly there and it is time to start protecting the rights of non-smokers," he said.

Martin called for other businesses to adopt similar bans, and said hospitals should take the lead.

"Smoking is the greatest cause of premature death and disability in the United States, and it would be ironic if health care institutions let the general business community take the lead," he said.

Damage to radiation shield could cause cancer epidemic

NEW YORK (UPI) — The continuing release of Freon-type gases could damage enough of the ozone radiation shield in the upper atmosphere to cause 1.4 million cases of skin cancer over the next 40 years, the Environmental Defense Fund said Wednesday.

The group also predicted 3 percent of the world's cotton crop could be destroyed by ultraviolet radiation from the sun over the same period and millions of dollars worth of plastics could be damaged annually.

The fragile layer of ozone 10 to 30 miles high is threatened by an upswing in the world production of the gases known technically as chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs), despite legislation in the United States banning their use in aerosol sprays, said Daniel J. Dudek, author of the Environmental Defense Fund report.

"THE PRODUCTION of some types of CFCs hit a peak in 1974, then dropped," he said. "Now we are seeing a resurgence since about 1980 or 1982."

Almost all refrigerators and air conditioning systems use chlorofluorocarbons and the gases are used in the manufacture of certain foams and for other industrial purposes.

"The better the economy, the more of this there is," Dudek said. "We have to realize that banning aerosol sprays in just the United States was not enough, or we'll have to face some tough consequences."

An industry spokesman said, however, the increase in CFC production is not large enough to prompt more regulations on production and use of the chemicals within the United States.

"Although production has increased since 1978, it has leveled off in the past few years," said Kevin J. Fay, director of the Alliance for Responsible CFC Policy in Washington, which represents CFC manufacturers and users in the United States.

"IN OUR view there is adequate time to reach an international accord on this issue," he said.

Ozone, a molecular cousin of ordinary oxygen, filters out most of the harmful ultraviolet radiation from the sun. Scientists believe a complex chain reaction triggered by the gases rising into the upper atmosphere destroys ozone molecules.

"Industry has been saying the ozone is not a problem, that we took care of all that years ago," Dudek said. "We wanted to show we do need to take another look at this, that there will be consequences and this is what they are."

If production of CFCs worldwide continues at the present rate, a corresponding increase in ultraviolet radiation on Earth will cause approximately 1.4 million new cases of skin cancer over the next 40 years, according to the report.

It also estimates the radiation will destroy 3 percent of the world's cotton and soy crops over the same period and approximately 1 percent of the world's corn and wheat crops.

The study also estimates that ultraviolet radiation damage to plastics will cost that industry between $2.2 million and $27 million a year.

"This has implications for humans, the environment and industry," Dudek said.

Study shows private doctors do unnecessary Caesareans

BOSTON (UPI) — Private physicians, possibly fearing malpractice suits, are more likely to perform unnecessary Caesarean sections than doctors in hospital clinics, researchers said Wednesday.

A Caesarean section, a surgical procedure in which the abdomen is cut open for childbirth, increases the risk of complications for the mother. It also extends her recovery time in the hospital.

Caesarean sections are usually performed when the doctor suspects the baby may be in danger for a variety of reasons.

The new study, involving 65,647 deliveries at four Brooklyn, N.Y., hospitals, found that private doctors were more likely to perform the procedure in all types of cases.

"Private physicians clearly do more Caesarean sections than clinic doctors without remarkably improving outcomes," said physician Roberta Haynes de Regt, director of obstetrics at the City Hospital Center at Elmhurst in Queens, N.Y.

ANOTHER STUDY, meanwhile, found the use of electronic fetal monitoring for all pregnant women appears to have no significant positive impact on the baby's outcome but does tend to increase the use of Caesarean sections.

Kenneth J. Leveno, the physician who headed the study involving 34,995 women at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, said electronic fetal monitoring should only be used for women at high risk for complications.

A variety of factors may contribute to the increase in Caesarean sections by private doctors, de Regt said, including fear of malpractice lawsuits and an unfamiliarity with new procedures that could be used to avoid them.

Families who file malpractice lawsuits in connection with a delivery in a hospital clinic usually sue the hospital and not the doctor. Private physicians, however, are named in the suits. Also, clinic doctors usually are insured by the hospital while private doctors pay their own insurance.

"IN A CLINIC, the individual provider isn't the one who is going to get sued, so they are not as frightened of getting sued," de Regt said in a telephone interview. "For private physicians, there's a feeling that the Caesarean section will get you out of trouble and a lawsuit isn't going to result from that."

In addition, doctors working in clinics are often residents in training and younger doctors who might be more familiar with the most up-to-date methods of avoiding Caesarean sections, she said.

"Some of the private practitioners won't use some of the more modern techniques," de Regt said.

De Regt, noting the number of Caesarean sections has jumped to more than 20 percent, said she hoped the study would show private doctors that a baby can be delivered safely without the need for the procedure.

OVERALL, the study found private physicians were about 1.3 times more likely to perform a Caesarean section than their counterparts in clinics. About 17 percent of the clinic patients underwent the procedure compared to 21.4 percent of the private patients.

Based on the number of deaths, injuries at birth and a standard measurement of newborn health known as an Apgar score, there was no significant difference between the two groups even though clinic patients are often in worse health.

Jackson calls visa inflexible

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The South African Embassy said Wednesday it is willing to let the Rev. Jesse Jackson attend Desmond Tutu's inauguration Sunday as Ang. Archbishop of South Africa, but Jackson complained about severe visa restrictions.

Jackson said unless he is given more flexibility, such as a visit "would not be a good use of time."

Jackson, who returned Saturday from a tour of eight black African states, told a news conference he had received an invitation from Tutu to attend the ceremony in Cape Town. But he said he has been advised by the State Department the white minority government is willing to give him only a "restricted-restricted visa" that would limit him to attending the ceremony.

Jackson said he has scheduled a meeting Thursday with South African Ambassador Herbert Beukes "to see what flexibility" can be worked out and would then make a decision on whether to make the trip.

JACKSON SAID he has been offered a visa that would allow him to fly in Saturday, attend Tutu's inauguration and depart Monday morning. He said he would not be allowed to visit churches, speak out publicly, attend anti-government demonstrations or visit black activist Winnie Mandela.

Jackson is one of more than 1,000 invited guests who include diplomats, politicians, civil rights leaders such as Coretta Scott King and well-known black American entertainers such as Stevie Wonder, Bill Cosby and Harry Belafonte.

Tutu, the Nobel Peace Prize winner who has been Anglican bishop of Johannesburg since 1984, is taking over as archbishop of Cape Town, thus becoming the first black titular head of the 2.6 million-member Anglican Church in South Africa, Namibia, Lesotho, Mozambique and Swaziland.

Jury indicts Guam governor

AGANA, Guam (UPI) — A federal grand jury Wednesday indicted the governor of Guam, an island territory administered by the United States, on charges of extortion, bribery, wire fraud and witness tampering in an alleged kickback scandal.

Gov. Ricardo J. Bordallo, 58, faces 12 counts in the indictment, issued three days before he faces a tough Democratic primary fight against House Speaker T.C. Gutierrez in a bid for a third four-year term.

Prosecutors contend Bordallo, who is scheduled to appear in court Sept. 12, solicited as much as $200,000 in kickbacks to fund his campaign war chest in exchange for his approval on contracts.

Before his indictment, Bar-dallo said he was the victim of a "political lynching party" supported by Republicans and government officials in Washington.

BORDALLO WAS indicted on four counts of bribery, two of extortion and one each of conspiracy to commit bribery, conspiracy to commit extortion, attempted extortion, fraud by wire, conspiracy to obstruct justice in trying to coerce witnesses into lying and engaging in witness tampering to influence testimony.

The governor appeared before the grand jury Wednesday following a written invitation from U.S. Attorney K. William O'Connor, who has held that post for three months on the island, which is 1,500 miles southeast of the Philippines.

Bordallo told a news conference last week that he would appear and answer questions.

But when he appeared, he read a prepared statement. He then bowed to the jurors, said, "Have a good day," and left the room before O'Connor or the jury members could ask questions.

"This political prosecution through federal prosecution is led by the new U.S. attorney himself, Mr. O'Connor. I believe with all my heart and soul that this entire investigation reeks of colonialism."

Previously, the governor had charged that the national Republican Party and unnamed government officials in Washington instigated the investigation. Local Republicans denied the accusations.

S. African police ban media

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Police reimposed restrictions on the news media Wednesday during the second anniversary of the latest wave of political and social upheaval in South Africa.

The restrictions are to be effective immediately, the official Government Gazette reported.

The ban prohibits the reporting of any violence or statements the government considers subversive without government permission, and prohibits reporters from being at or "within sight" of any riot or police action.

The new orders re-establish state-of-emergency press curbs that were revoked Aug. 11 when lawyers conceded a technical mistake in initially announcing the restrictions when a state of emergency was declared June 12 by President Pieter W. Botha.

IN OTHER developments Wednesday, workers in the Sharpeville area, about 30 miles south of Johannesburg, stayed home to mark the start of the country's third year of militant opposition to white rule that has cost more than 2,300 lives.

In the black township of Soweto, families waited all day to see police and appeal for the lifting of a ban on a mass funeral for at least 24 demonstrators killed last week by police during rent protests.

Late Tuesday area police chief Gideon Loubser issued orders banning a mass burial that community leaders planned for today.

Opposition lawmaker Rupert Lorimer said he urged Loubser to lift the curbs but was doubtful of success.

"Restricting the funerals does not help to reduce the tension," he said. "The mood of the people in Soweto is such that restrictions of this nature ... could lead to an escalation of violence."

Heavy fighting erupts in Sri Lanka

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI)—Heavy fighting erupted Wednesday between troops and Tamil separatist guerrillas on a northwestern island after the rebels blew up a bridge to the mainland, military sources and residents said.

Naval vessels surrounded Mannar Island while helicopter gunships pounded guerrilla positions and troops moved on the ground, local residents said.

Telephone links with the island were later cut off and casualty reports were unavailable.

The fighting was the first major battle between government troops and Tamil rebels since peace talks between the government and the Tamil

United Liberation Front ended last Friday without a peace pact. Other Tamil rebel groups have refused to negotiate with the government.

SRI LANKA—formerly called Ceylon, an island off the southeast coast of India — has a long history of ethnic tensions between the country's Hindu Tamils and the mainly Buddhist Sinhalese majority. The Tamils have long claimed discrimination by the Sinhalese. Militant Tamils are fighting for a separate state in the northern and eastern parts of the island.

Military sources in the capital of Colombo said the rebels were concentrated in and around the town of Mannar and were firing rockets and mortars at government troop positions.

The fighting erupted after Tamil separatist guerrillas blasted a bridge Tuesday on the two-mile-long causeway linking the island to the mainland, residents said.

The residents said a large number of guerrillas arrived Tuesday night in boats and asked villagers to leave the area.

Some families took shelter in the government hospital, while others moved to open areas, they said.

Military sources said they had evidence the guerrillas were poised to step up attacks on the northwestern and northeastern flanks of the island.

H & R Block Income Tax Course Begins Sept. 15

Thousands of people with spare time are earning money as tax preparers in the growing field of Income Tax Service.

H & R BLOCK is offering a Basic Income Tax Course starting September 15th. Classes will be held at the H & R BLOCK offices in Iowa City.

For 13 weeks students will study all areas of tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns. Experienced Block personnel will teach current laws, theory and application as practiced in their offices coast to coast. There is a classroom lecture on each subject and practice problems at every level. The course is programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students find this course interesting and challenging.

Anyone may enroll. There are no restrictions or qualifications of any kind. The course is ideally suited for housewives, retired persons, teachers or anyone wanting to increase his tax knowledge.

While qualified students of the course may be offered job interviews they are under no obligation to accept employment with H & R BLOCK. There are franchises available to residents of small cities as well as job opportunities locally.

The modest fee charged for this course includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for completion of the school. Certificates are awarded to all graduates.

Registration forms and brochures for the Income Tax Course may be obtained by contacting the H & R BLOCK office at 109 E. Burlington, Iowa City. Phone 354-1750.

Iowa women's basketball coach Diane Thomas is facing an uphill battle this fall, trying to lead an inexperienced team to a winning season. Thomas lost to the top team in the Big Ten, including Lynn University's Julie Edgar, from last spring. Edgar finished third in the Big Ten last spring, and she is a senior on the team this fall.

"I think it will be a rebuilding year," Thomas said. "We don't have the experience of last season. We have to replace over half the team with people who have not played in your league before."

Iowa does have some talent. Lisa Tauke and sophomore Amy Butzer and junior Heatherly.

IN ADDITION to the freshmen on the team, five-woman player Kelley Brook and Heatherly.

"I feel like there is a lot of potential," Butzer said. "We're very excited about playing together."

"We have to be patient with the freshmen," Thomas said. "Brooke is a player, and she will have to play a role. We're very excited to have her recruit."

Butzer said she and her teammates will be about the season practice began. "I gained confidence playing together."

"When we first started, we were really nervous because we had people from last year."

CHICAGO — The Hoosiers' improvement and season are the result of Indiana Coach Tom Allen, who is entering his ninth season in the program.

"When you look at the team, you feel potentially a better football team than what we're striving for," Mallory said.

Mallory said she had a goal.

The Hoosiers, who finished the season 4-7, returned to the lineup. Although Indiana has two key football players, Mallory said the offense is the "strength" of the team. Mallory had to be a quarterback and most valuable player.

Hawk wrestler Penrith in public predicament

By Dan Millea
Assistant Sports Editor

Iowa wrestler Brad Penrith, who won a national championship at 126 pounds last spring, has gotten himself into a public predicament far worse than any he has found himself in on a wrestling mat.

Penrith was sentenced to one year's probation in Iowa City last week on a drunken driving charge, was ordered to pay $338 in restitution for destroying a parking ramp gate and will also be required to pay $500 or perform 115 hours of community service work.

In addition, Penrith was convicted two weeks ago by a Dallas County, Iowa, jury of a second drunken driving charge stemming from an incident in Waukee, Iowa, May 31. He will be sentenced in that case Sept. 26. The judge in the Dallas County case has ordered a pre-sentencing investigation into Penrith's past record of offenses.

OUTSIDE THE courtroom Penrith has another problem. He has been declared academically ineligible by the UI for the second straight fall semester. Last season Penrith rejoined the Iowa team in mid-January and went on to claim the national crown.

Penrith also has at least four unpaid Iowa City traffic fines, totaling approximately $100, dating back to January of this year. He is in danger of being found in contempt of court, according to Assistant Johnson County Attorney John Bulkeley.

"He could be held in contempt," Bulkeley said, "but the state would have to prove he willfully refused to pay. If he's got a lot of money, that would be proof."

The county may decide to actively pursue Penrith at any time, according to Bulkeley. "It varies from case to case. It's conceivable that it could happen next week," he said.

PENRITH WAS also charged with disorderly conduct and assault on Feb. 7, 1985, after allegedly striking Mike Donahue, then manager of the Fieldhouse bar, following a fight witnesses said Penrith was involved in inside the bar.

The assault charge was later dropped by Donahue.

Penrith has also been arrested in Johnson County for public intoxication, in 1983, and on a separate disorderly conduct charge in 1984.

The Johnson County drunk driving conviction stems from an incident April 25 of this year when Penrith drove through a gate in the Dubuque Street parking ramp around 1 a.m., according to court records.

"We definitely have plans for disciplinary action," Iowa wrestling Coach Dan Gable said in regard to Penrith. "But I don't have any standard system. Each kid is different, you can't treat every kid the same."

GABLE DECLINED to indicate what type of discipline Penrith faces, but said he will not be removed from the team.

"I know I have a better understanding of what each kid needs. In certain situations you'd want to kick a kid off the team. But a kid like Penrith, you kick him off the team and you'd better beware. He'd be on the loose. I'd rather keep him caged as much as possible."

Gable said as far as he knows, disciplining Iowa athletes is left to the individual head coach, and neither the athletic department itself nor Athletic Director Bump Elliott become involved.

"I've talked with (Elliott), and in certain instances he's talked to me," Gable said of Elliott's role in the reprimanding of athletes. "He doesn't try to tell me how to coach them, and he doesn't try to tell me how to discipline them."

Elliott failed to return calls from The Daily Iowan Wednesday afternoon.

ACCORDING TO Faculty Representative Sam Becker, athletes are not penalized by the UI unless they violate specified university rules.

Iowa must overcome inexperience in 1986

By Dan Millea
Assistant Sports Editor

Iowa women's golf Coach Diane Thomason could be facing an uphill struggle this fall, trying to mold a young and inexperienced team into a winning squad.

Thomason lost four seniors, including Lynn Tauke and Julie Edgar, from a team that finished third in the Big Ten last spring, and has no seniors on the roster this fall.

"I think it will take us some time," Thomason said of the rebuilding process. "We don't have the experience and the leadership we had last season. You don't replace overnight four people who have been instrumental in your program."

Iowa does return juniors Lisa Tauke and Mary McDermott, and sophomores Amy Butzer and Jeannine Gibson.

IN ADDITION, Thomason plans to include a pair of freshmen on the regular five-woman playing roster, Kelley Brooke and Kristi Heatherly.

"I feel like those two have a lot of potential," Thomason said of her recruits, "so we're very excited about seeing them play."

"We have two real good freshmen," Butzer said. "(Brooke) is a very good player, and she'll be here a while to play a leadership role. We're very lucky to have her recruited here."

Butzer said she and her teammates were worried about the season before fall practice began, but have gained confidence through playing together.

"When we first met as a team we were really doubtful because we lost so many people from last year," she said. "But once we began to practice together we felt better about our chances."

Last year's seniors "were great players, and I learned a lot from them," Butzer said, "but I do think we can do well this season despite losing them."

THOMASON SAID the team has lower expectations than a year ago because it is so young, but stressed that her golfers still need to strive toward reaching their full potential.

"We chatted as a team," Thomason said. "We said our expectations are not going to be as high (as last year) because obviously we're a younger, less experienced team."

"We're just going to try to play up to our potential. If you play well and finish second, that's alright, as long as you played up to your potential."

Thomason said one thing that won't slow her squad's progress this season is the NCAA report released this summer, which cited the golf program for one violation and penalized the team by removing one scholarship for the 1986-87 academic year.

"That's behind us," Thomason said. "It won't really affect this team in any way."

The Hawkeyes will get their first test this weekend, Sept. 6-8, at the Minnesota Invitational in Minneapolis.

Nebraska hit hard for rules violations

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—The NCAA's Eligibility Committee, citing violations of distributing football passes, Wednesday declared 53 University of Nebraska Cornhusker players ineligible to compete in one game and seven players ineligible for two games this season.

Coach Tom Osborne said the status of the No. 8 Huskers' nationally televised season opener at home Saturday night against No. 11 Florida State was in doubt, and university Chancellor Martin Massengale said an appeal would be filed with the NCAA's Council's Sub-Committee on Eligibility Appeals.

"I'm very angry about the whole thing," Osborne said. "It looks like cooperating hasn't resulted in any benefits to anybody that I can see."

Osborne said senior offensive guard Mike Hoefler, a two-time letterman, also was declared ineligible for infractions involving his staying at the home of a Lincoln couple under the university's Lincoln Parents Program, disbanded earlier this year.

OSBORNE SAID the NCAA had "graciously" offered to have Nebraska set out 10 ineligible players per game until the penalties were fulfilled. He said seven of the players involved would be ineligible for two games.

"We might be better off to take our medicine in one day than to bleed to death for six or seven weeks," Osborne said, adding to play Florida State with all the ineligible players out would be a "joke."

Osborne said each player last year had four passes restricted to fellow students and family members should they be given away for a game.

"We had players that went beyond that," Osborne said, adding the most common problem was listing family friends as aunts or uncles.

"Absolutely no money changed hands," Osborne said. "There was no evidence of scalping."

OSBORNE, NOTING Nebraska's NCAA record of season sellouts, cited the example of Kevin Parson's mother being driven to a Cornhusker football game by a next door neighbor, the only one available for the drive. Osborne said the neighbor was admitted through the pass gate as a Parson's relative. Osborne said the Eligibility Committee's action was based on information furnished by the university.

"The interesting thing is that the players were completely honest. Had they lied the NCAA wouldn't have known the difference," Osborne said. "We tried to be honest and above board on the matter."

Hoosiers look to jump from conference cellar

CHICAGO — Continued improvement and a winning season are the goals of Indiana Coach Bill Mallory who is jumping off a tie for ninth in the Big Ten.

"When you look at our team I feel potentially we should be a better football team and that's what we're striving to do," Mallory said. "That's our goal."

The Hoosiers, who finished the season 4-7, return 17 starters to the lineup.

Although Indiana is without two key football players this year, Mallory said that the offense is the "strong suit."

Mallory had to fill gaps left by quarterback Steve Bradley and most valuable player, tailback Bobby Howard. Every other position is filled by returnees.

Bradley was replaced by senior Dave Kramme, who backed up Bradley last season.

"KRAMME PLAYED quite a bit the last half of the season when Bradley had some injury problems, so he got a lot of good experience," Mallory said.

Although Kramme will start, two other quarterbacks are looking over his shoulder.

Brian Dewitz, who saw some action last season, was held from spring practice following knee surgery. According to Mallory, he should be "100% and ready to go" and may see some playing time this year.

The other quarterback vying for playing time is redshirt Dave Schnell. Both Schnell and Dewitz "are certainly contenders for the quarterback spot," Mallory said.

Tailback Damon Sweazy will replace Bobby Howard. Sweazy started at tailback last season before Howard beat him out of the spot.

"SWEAZY COULD be a pretty good one. He got a good year under his belt last year. He's a junior college transfer and we saw a lot better overall play from him in the spring," Mallory said.

Sweazy will be backed up by Spud Washington, also a junior college transfer.

"We'll certainly take a look at our young players coming in," Mallory said, referring to freshman tailback Anthony Thompson. "We'll certainly give him a good look come preseason."

The returning wide receivers are Stacy Dawsey and Ernie Jones. Jones tied for fourth on the team in receptions last season with 16 for 205 yards and three touchdowns.

"Our big question mark is our defense. Two years ago our defense kept us in a lot of games but last fall it fell off," Mallory said. "We have to pick up where we left off and continue to improve. We have better athletes and better depth, but we're still not as far along on defense as we are on offense."

TOM WEIDENBENNER, who moved from a defensive tackle to the outside linebacker position, should prove to be one of the Hoosiers' top players.

Leonard Bell returns to the secondary, giving it some stability. Bell a year ago was ranked second on the team in tackles with 74, tied for second with four passes broken up, led the team in interceptions with three while also leading the team in fumble recoveries with three.

According to Mallory, Bell is "one of the better defensive backs in the conference."

The kicking game is secure with Pete Stoyanovich and Dan Stryzinski, whom Mallory calls "as good a pair of kickers as there is in the league". Stoyanovich is also a forward for the nationally ranked Indiana soccer team.

Fry still undecided on starting unit

Iowa Football Coach Hayden Fry still isn't set on a starting lineup for the Hawkeye's season opener with Iowa State next Saturday.

"There are a lot of jobs that aren't certain yet," Fry said. "We've got a lot of good battles going on and we don't know what our lineup is going to be."

The squad will scrimmage today for the last time before the start of the season.

"I only hold pre-season scrimmages when I have an inexperienced team," Fry added. "We had a long hard practice today and maybe some jobs will be filled after tomorrow's scrimmage."

Ex-Cyclone coach takes Sooner position

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — Former Iowa State football coach Donnie Duncan, also a former Oklahoma assistant and current director of the Gator Bowl, has been named the new athletic director at Oklahoma by a 4-3 vote of the school's board of regents.

The vote came Tuesday at the end of a six-hour regents meeting after Duncan and Oklahoma assistant athletic director Leon Cross became the last two candidates to replace athletic director Wade Walker, who retired Monday.

Duncan, also the former executive director of the Sun Bowl, said he intended to take the job even though final contract details have not been worked out.

Oklahoma regents voted to pay Duncan a salary of $75,000 a year — tops in the Big Eight conference — and to give him $10,000 per annum in living expenses.

Boggs' double lifts Red Sox to 4-3 win

BOSTON (UPI) — Wade Boggs doubled home pinch runner LaSchelle Tarver in the ninth inning Wednesday night to lift the Boston Red Sox to a 4-3 victory over the Texas Rangers and complete a sweep of their three-game series.

The victory was the fifth in a row for the Red Sox and enabled them to retain their 4 1/2-game lead in the American League East over the Toronto Blue Jays, who won at Cleveland. The loss was the fourth in a row for the Rangers.

Buss may sell half of Kings to old friend

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jerry Buss is apparently on the verge of selling up to 49 percent of the Los Angeles Kings, it was reported Wednesday.

The Los Angeles Times said the prospective buyer, Bruce McNall, will attempt to complete the deal at a Friday meeting with Buss.

A spokesman for Buss said the two had a "gentleman's agreement" to make the deal.

Any ownership change involving more than 5 percent must be approved by the league. The NHL Board of Governors next meet Sept. 10-11 at Vancouver, British Columbia.

The Times reported that the deal calls for McNall, a longtime friend of Buss', to buy 25 percent of the Kings, with an option on another 24 percent. A source said Buss would receive about $10 million from the sale of 49 percent.

Buss also owns the Lakers of the NBA and the Forum.

Veteran Cousineau grabbed by 49'ers

United Press International

Less than twenty-four hours after being put on waivers, linebacker Tom Cousineau discovered a team willing to take him and his $500,000 contract.

Cousineau, waived by Cleveland Tuesday, was claimed by the San Francisco 49ers Wednesday.

The 49ers also announced they were close to signing nose tackle Pete Kugler, a U.S. Football League standout.

Cousineau, 29, was a starting inside linebacker for the Browns the last four years. He was acquired by Cleveland in a trade with Buffalo on April 19, 1982 after a three-year stay in the Canadian Football League. Cousineau was the NFL's No. 1 draft pick by Buffalo in 1979, but the Bills were unable to sign him and Cousineau jumped to Canada.

"We were the only team to claim Tom," San Francisco Coach Bill Walsh said. "I think a lot of teams were waiting until he opted for free agency. We talked to his agent before the 1 p.m. deadline and wanted to get an agreement worked out quickly. We didn't wait until he became a free agent because we did not want to get into a bidding war."

THE 49ERS, who were weakened at outside linebacker by the placing of Todd Shell on the injured-reserve list Wednesday, will have to pick up Cousineau's $500,000 base salary this year.

Kugler, a starter on San Francisco's 1981 Super Bowl team, has been vocal about his desire to rejoin the 49ers since the USFL announced the suspension of its 1986 season.

"He's been released from his contract with the Baltimore Stars," said 49ers General Manager John McVay. "He is now free and eligible to sign with the NFL. Hopefully, we'll have him signed later today."

Astros batter Cubs to complete sweep

CHICAGO (UPI) — Pinch hitter Dickie Thon belted a three-run homer and Denny Walling added a two-run shot to back the combined four-hit pitching of Mike Scott and Aurelio Lopez Wednesday, giving the Houston Astros an 8-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs and a sweep of their three-game series.

Earlier Wednesday, Billy Hatcher's solo homer with one out in the top of the 18th gave the Astros an 8-7 triumph in the completion of a suspended game from Tuesday.

The two losses extended the Cubs' losing streak to five games.

Scott, the National League's strikeout leader, struck out 12, including a record-tying four in one inning, to boost his season's total to 253.

Walling, who had three of the Astros' 14 hits, hit his 12th homer of the season, a shot in a three-run first off Scott Sanderson, 7-11. Thon hit his third homer of the season in the sixth.

THE ASTROS GAVE Scott all the runs he needed in the first when Craig Reynolds singled with one out and Walling homered into the right-field bleachers. One out later, Kevin Bass singled and scored on Jose Cruz' RBI double to center.

Davis, Stewart help A's dump sliding Yankees

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Mike Davis had two triples and two RBI, including the game-winner, to support Dave Stewart's nine-hit pitching and lead the Oakland A's to a come-from-behind 5-3 victory Wednesday over the New York Yankees.

Davis scored Oakland's first run after tripling off starter Ron Guidry in the fifth inning. He scored when Lenn Sakata reached base on shortstop Mike Fischlin's error.

In the sixth, Davis hit his third triple of the season, driving in Dusty Baker, who had doubled, and Bruce Bochte, who had walked, to put the A's ahead 4-3.

Stewart, 9-1, struck out eight and walked five in notching his third straight complete game victory.

Tim Stoddard, 3-1, pitched to one batter, Bochte, in the sixth inning and was tagged with the defeat.

AT PHILADELPHIA — The Eagles waived six-year veteran safety Ray Ellis and replaced him with safety Terry Hoage, who was cut last week by New Orleans.

At Pittsburgh, Steelers wide receiver Louis Lipps returned to practice after missing the last seven quarters of exhibition play with a hamstring injury. Lipps was listed as probable for the season opener against Seattle, but he will not return punts this week.

The Steelers also placed three players on waivers from injured-reserve: linebackers Fred Small, Darryl Knox and Jon Haslett.

At Cincinnati, the Bengals activated their top draft pick, linebacker Joe Kelly, who ended a five-week holdout Friday by signing a four-year, $1.5 million contract. To make room on the 45-man roster for Kelly, the Bengals cut Jerry Boyarsky, a fourth-year veteran who was a reserve nose guard.

The Bengals relinquished the rights to linebacker Jeff Schuh, who had started the past two seasons. Schuh had not signed a contract and was not part of the roster. He is now a free agent.

At Seattle, the Seahawks signed two players they released, guard Jon Borchardt and center Kani Kauahi. The moves were made to fill in for two injured linemen, guard Alvin Powell and center Stan Eisenhooth, who were both placed on injured-reserve.

Remarkable star Evert Lloyd extends streak at U.S. Open

NEW YORK (UPI)—Continuing one of the more remarkable streaks in sports, Chris Evert Lloyd earned a berth in the semifinals of the U.S. Open for a record 16th consecutive year Wednesday by routing Manuel Maleeva.

The 31-year-old American, who maintains she still can improve her play, swept the final four games in beating Maleeva for the 12th time in 13 meetings, 6-2, 6-2.

Ivan Lendl, the defending men's champion, cleared a determine Lendl's opponent in the semifinals.

While Evert Lloyd has gained the semifinals every year since her debut appearance in the Open in 1971, winning the crown six times, no other woman has made it to the semis more than four years in a row.

Evert Lloyd jumped off to a 3-0 lead against Maleeva, and although she had her serve broken in the fourth game, she came back with another break in the seventh game.

The second set started out tighter and was tied 2-2 when Evert Lloyd broke in the fifth game from deuce to begin her match-winning streak.

"I'm playing well, and I think I can play better," said Evert Lloyd, who won the last of her titles in 1982. "I don't think I'm playing the best I ever played this tournament. I think with each match I'm getting a little bit sharper.

"I CERTAINLY FEEL more relaxed. This is the most relaxed I've ever been in an Open. I don't know if that's good or if it's bad. Maybe it's because I've been through it so many times."

As easy as the score might indicate Lendl dismissed Leconte, both men suggested a single point in the opening set may have made all the difference.

After the opening set had gone with serve, Leconte reached triple set point in the 10th game. On the first of those points, Leconte put down a good drop volley and was in the process of raising his racket in triumph when Lendl raced in and lifted a running forehand pass down the line.

Lendl then won the next four points, took the tie-break and breezed to a 5-0 lead in the second set.

"I think that point won me two sets," the No. 1 seed said. "I believe that won me the first set because if I hadn't gotten to it, I would have lost the first set. And I think mentally it just broke him down losing that set because he thought he had it. Therefore, he didn't play very well in the second set."

LECONTE, WHO has been weakened this year by mononucleosis, gained his only two service breaks of the match in the third set, marking only the second set Lendl has dropped at the Open in two years. But Lendl broke to a 3-0 lead in the fourth set and virtually wrapped it up with another break in the sixth.

"I was feeling I had the point when I made the drop shot, and Ivan was very quick and made the point," the left-handed Frenchman said.

In the semis on Friday, Evert Lloyd will meet the winner of a late afternoon match between Helena Sukova and Wendy Turnbull and Martina Navratilova faces Steffi Graf.

players to be honest," Osborne said, adding numerous other schools probably would be guilty of the same pass infraction.

OSBORNE SAID Hoefler was cited for staying with his "Lincoln Parents" for two weeks during the summer of 1983 at which time he was working in Lincoln. Osborne said Hoefler's parents paid the Lincoln couple $100 for keeping their son, but Hoefler used the couple's van to drive to and from work.

Osborne said the NCAA committee ruled use of the van was a violation, despite the fact Hoefler only drove the van 10 days, put $30 to $40 worth of gas in it and washed and waxed it.

Osborne said the NCAA committee absolved Broderick Thomas and Doug DuBose of wrongdoing for being improperly reimbursed for travel expenses from the Fiesta Bowl.

He said the university business office mistakenly paid Thomas and DuBose the expenses, which the two players paid back.

DuBose, considered a preseason Heisman Trophy contender, is out for the season with an injured knee.

OSBORNE SAID still pending is the NCAA investigation into DuBose's leasing a sports car, specifically having someone connected to the university co-sign the lease. Osborne said the allegation was without foundation.

"Every dime that Doug got as far as we know came from his parents," Osborne said.

Penrith

Gable said the problem in Penrith's case now is the notoriety he gained by winning a national title, combined with the fact that Penrith apparently doesn't understand how noticeable his actions are.

"A year ago in April if he'd have had the same charges against him, he wouldn't have made the paper," Gable said. "That's what I try to make him understand. He's a different person now. He doesn't think he is, but he is. He has certain responsibilities as an NCAA champion. I'm not sure he understands that."

"A kid like Penrith, you kick him off the team and you'd better beware," Iowa wrestling Coach Dan Gable says. "I'd rather keep him caged as much as possible."

Fascinating spy film revisits history

Television

NEW YORK (UPI) — At the time, Yuri Ivanovich Nosenko was the biggest Russian fish the CIA had ever landed — a staff officer of the KGB in Moscow — and he came with top secret details of President Kennedy's assassination.

Nosenko first approached the CIA during the disarmament talks in Geneva in the 1960s. He wanted to defect.

"I am a staff officer of the second chief director of the KGB in Moscow headquarters," he said. "I am good catch for you. I give you plenty of stuff."

Nosenko also had information about a top spy who had infiltrated the CIA.

But instead of trading secrets with the Soviet spy and treating him to life in the wonderful West, the CIA put Nosenko in a specially built concrete bunker for three years and tried to break him.

THE LITTLE known and fascinating story of "Yuri Nosenko, KGB," an agent whose complex case shook the CIA to its core, will be presented on Home Box Office on Sept. 7.

Shot on location in Washington, D.C., and Geneva, the 90-minute original presentation stars Tommy Lee Jones as Steve Daley, a pseudonym for the CIA Soviet Bloc deputy chief who sought to prove Nosenko was an agent of "disinformation." Oleg Rudnik plays Nosenko.

Nosenko comes to the West bearing gifts of espionage: he tells the CIA that the KGB had no file on Kennedy assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, and that a high-ranking CIA official code-named "Sasha" was supplying secrets to the KGB.

The FBI, conducting an inquiry into Kennedy's slaying, believes Nosenko is genuine. Their own top-level KGB source, code-named "Fedora," confirms it.

BUT SOME in the CIA, especially Daley, believe Nosenko is lying. Another Soviet defector, Anatoli Golitsyn, has warned that the Soviets would send "false defectors" after him to discredit his own disclosures to the CIA.

Daley decides to take drastic action, and locks Nosenko into a one-man CIA prison in Virginia, where he is questioned for three years. But before Nosenko breaks, a new CIA regime enters and the case is reassigned.

Nosenko is approved as a bona fide defector and hired as a paid consultant to the agency, while Daley is reassigned to a low-profile post in Rome.

Jones, with his stony facial expressions, does the CIA

Oleg Rudnik, Tommy Lee Jones

agent justice, and Rudnik is good at playing two roles with the same face: he could be a spy, or he could be a fake.

IN ONE SCENE with the CIA agent, Nosenko welcomes the Western world with a warm embrace. He lusts after a nightclub singer and wants to drink the night away. The CIA even pays for a prostitute, and then questions her.

But in the CIA tomb-like jail, he comes off as hard as nails and cool under pressure — just the qualities necessary to pull off the KGB sting of the CIA.

The story raises all kinds of questions. Was the FBI relying on information from a double agent? Has the CIA been penetrated at its highest levels by Russian KGB agents? Was Nosenko a plant? Did the KGB know something about the Kennedy assassination?

"This is the story of a long and complicated espionage case," the CIA agent warns in the beginning of the story. "In real life, these things have no neat conclusions and no happy endings."

The story is complicated. But even without the neat conclusions and without the happy ending, "Yuri Nosenko, KGB" is a fascinating bit of history revisited.

MTV plans frantic award ceremony

NEW YORK (UPI) — The producers of the third annual MTV Awards, heeding the yawns produced by recent Oscar, Emmy and Grammy shows, are revamping Friday's ceremonies to eliminate long speeches and give the show "more action."

The three-hour program, which will be televised live on MTV and syndicated nationally at 9 p.m. EDT (Sept. 5), is still aimed at highlighting the best music videos of the year. This year, however, the plan is to distance Music Television from other awards events.

"The first and second show were traditional," Les Garland, senior vice president of music programming, said. "You're in a theater, everybody's wearing black tie, the winner staggers up the aisle, takes an award from a gorgeous blonde and thanks the world. This year we want it to be frantic, frenzied, more action," he said.

There will be two locations, the Palladium in New York and the Universal Amphitheatre in Los Angeles.

"THERE IS NO podium," Tom Freston, senior vice president and general manager of MTV, said. "There will be no long-winded thank you speeches. Instead, the presenters, who will act as hosts, will stand up anywhere within the confines of the Palladium or the Amphitheatre to give their designated awards."

"We'll open the show with Robert Palmer in Los Angeles, then go directly to New York where the Hooters will get it off. So we'll make a statement in the first 7 minutes that this is a music show as well as an awards show. We're going to try to get 19 songs into the show," Garland said.

The idea to open the show up may also have been inspired in part by Eddie Murphy's antics last year. Acting as host, Murphy unexpectedly left the stage and rambled through the audience at Radio City Music Hall, finally ending up in the ladies' bathroom.

Accordingly, the show is set up to promote improvisation. "Less than 15 percent of the program is scripted," Garland said. "We're flying by the seat of our pants. It's live TV, it's rock 'n' roll."

NBC loses one to CBS

NEW YORK (UPI)—For only the second time during the summer rerun season, CBS ousted NBC from the top spot in the prime-time television ratings race, figures showed Wednesday.

CBS won the week ending Aug. 31 with a 12.0 rating and 22 share. NBC was second with an 11.7 rating and 22 share and ABC was third with a 10.9 rating and 20 share, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co.

CBS won the first week of the summer and tied NBC the week of July 7, but the latest win is a timely boost just before this month's dawning of the fall season.

"We won the week," said David Poltrack, vice president of research at CBS. "I think what really made the week for us was that we didn't have any weak days."

Monday proved to be the brightest day for CBS. Every CBS show on that night finished in the top 20. They were "Scarecrow & Mrs. King," "Kate & Allie," "Newhart" and "Cagney & Lacey."

Even though CBS won the week, NBC's Thursday night shows still occupied the first four slots on the Nielsen list. They were "The Cosby Show," "Family Ties," "Cheers" and "Night Court."

But CBS did finish first in the news ratings. "CBS Evening News" with Dan Rather had an 11.1 rating and 23 share. "ABC World News Tonight" with Peter Jennings finished second with a 10.3 rating and 21 share and "NBC Nightly News" with Tom Brokaw finished last with a 10.0 rating and 21 share.

Each ratings point represents about 859,000 households and a share is the percentage of sets tuned to a particular show.

Winner of the week: CBS. Rocked by layoffs, the No. 2 network could use the morale boost provided by a No. 1 finish, even if it's only for one week.

Loser of the week: Bill Cosby. Even though he finished No. 1, the Coz was with the losing team.

The top 10 prime-time shows for the week ending Aug. 31, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., were:

1. "The Cosby Show" (NBC)
2. "Family Ties" (NBC)
3. "Cheers" (NBC)
4. "Night Court" (NBC)
5. "Moonlighting" (ABC)
6. "Newhart" (CBS)
7. "Kate & Allie" (CBS)
8. "Growing Pains" (ABC)
9. "Who's the Boss" (ABC)
10. "Golden Girls" (NBC)
