WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Secretary of State George Shultz said a meeting between the two countries this fall may be a "vu-able" step toward ending the impasse over Philippine immigrants in the United States.

"The meeting is scheduled for fall," Shultz said at a splendid lunch with Nicarquian President Ferdinand Romualdez. "We have to build up confidence ... this is a very important meeting."

Shultz said it was likely the migrant issue would come up again at the meeting.

The two nations agreed last month to have a "working meeting" on the issue, which will be chaired by Shultz and Philippine
Foreign Secretary Jose
Diokno.

U.S. officials said the meeting was prompted by the Romualdez's request for a meeting after he took office.

The migrant issue, which had dominated recent negotiations in the two countries, involves the status of about 15,000
Filipinos living in the United States.

The United States has said it will NOT resettle any Filipinos in the United States.

"The issue is whether the Filipinos will be resettled in the United States," Shultz said. "We have not reached a decision on this,
but we are looking at the possibility."

Shultz said the meeting
would be "high-level.

"The meeting will be high-level," Shultz said. "We will be talking about international affairs,
regional security,
and other issues.

The meeting is expected to last for about a day and a half.

The two nations have been struggling to resolve the migrant issue for years.

Shultz said the meeting
would be a "positive step in the negotiations."

"The meeting will be positive," Shultz said. "We have to build up confidence and trust in each other."

Supervisors debate zoning, parking

The Johnson County Supervisors on Monday turned down a request by three men who wish to build a ski tow on land that has access to a Cedar River Creek. The resolution was called an "attempt at a compromise." The supervisors also passed a resolution calling for the post of municipal editor to be abolished.

Professor calls for Alzheimer's funding

The federal government should allocate funds to study patient care and management for victims of Alzheimer's disease, a professor at the University of Iowa said.

Police

An Iowa City man was arrested and released from the Johnson County Jail on a $500 bond for allegedly making a false statement.

Courts

A local man charged with stealing more than $800 from an Iowa City bank was convicted in a jury trial on March 2, 1979.

Tomorrow

The UI Streetcar will be running on Saturday and Sunday.

Johnson County's new voting system, the DigiPoll, is "a waste," a "fraud," a "shame," and not worth the money, according to Iowa County Auditor Ned McCullough.

"If this system was used to vote for Congress at the national level, it would be so bad, it would be illegal," he said.

McCullough was referring to the DigiPoll, a voting system being used in Johnson County by the State of Iowa. The system is a direct-recording electronic (DRE) system, which is being used in many counties across the state.

McCullough claimed that the system is "stolen," and that it is "rigged." He said that the system is "not secure," and that it is "not transparent." He also claimed that the system is "not user-friendly," and that it is "not accessible."

McCullough said that the system is "not reliable," and that it is "not accurate." He claimed that the system is "not secure," and that it is "not transparent." He also claimed that the system is "not user-friendly," and that it is "not accessible."

A new choice

These words cropped up again and again as students, faculty and administrators reacted to the loss of University President William "Sandy" Boyd in 1984. The man who had served UI through the tough times of the Vietnam War and championed the cause of women's rights before it was fashionable to do so, was widely remembered and admired by almost who knew him.

"People always felt like they had an open ear at the top. He was 'family' to us," says Nelsen Logan, assistant dean of academic affairs, remembered Boyd's tenure as UI president.

President Boyd was a strong and dedicated leader at the university for nearly 20 years, and he leaves a legacy of initiatives and accomplishments that will endure for generations to come.

Today, the state Board of Regents approved a new name for the UI College of Law, the Boyd Institute of Law. The name recognizes Professor Boyd's contributions to the institution and the community.

"Professor Boyd was a remarkable leader and a true visionary," said UI President Bruce Harreld. "He was a tireless advocate for academic excellence and social justice, and his legacy will be felt for years to come."

Boyd's sensitivity also allowed him to listen to others, especially women. He was comfortable in the company of students and faculty, and he always made time for them.

"He was approachable and open," said UI student and Boyd's successor, Virginia Johnson. "He had a way of making everyone feel like they were part of something bigger."

Laughing stock

The impact of civil disobedience on the modern world cannot be understated. In New York, seven women activists bared their breasts to protest the presence of their case in Rochester City Court. They were charged with indecent exposure, but the judge dismissed the charges and ordered the women to pay a fine of $50.

"I think it's important to recognize the power of nonviolent protest," said UI law professor Robert Bartlett. "It's a powerful tool for change, and it's one that we should never underestimate."

The enormous and shifting mass of knowledge that accumulates in society is unanswerable unless the world is infinitely and continuously rearranged to accommodate new information. As we clarify our answers to the bomb, we understand how to relate one fact to another, one theory to another, one conclusion to another. Such knowledge, we must teach ourselves.

"And so, the question becomes: How can we ensure that our students are receiving the best possible education?"

Drug testing plan invades privacy

The unbelievable thing is that we thought we were so naive and innocent when we thought that drug testing was only a problem of the sports world. Now, it seems that drug testing is only a problem of the sports world. UI waits for budget approval

By Pat Thomas

"We need to get our library system in order," said UI President James Freedman. "In a process we have to go on a self-study to find out how to improve it."

The process will be part of the overall evaluation of the university, he said. The evaluation will be conducted by the American Library Association, which will make a report on the university's library system.

"We are into a very difficult period," Freedman said. "We are on the verge of losing a lot of money, and we have to find a way to make up for it." The university is facing a budget shortfall of $70 million, he said.

Texas Air wins approval for Eastern Airlines purchase

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Texas Air Corp., controlled by President Richard A. Carwile, won the U.S. Justice Department's approval Thursday to buy out Eastern Airlines for $2.3 billion, an act that will give it a strong national network of airlines. The agreement assures Texas Air and Eastern that it will be able to complete its merger as scheduled, with the merger set for 1989.

The Justice Department's review of the merger was completed relatively quickly, since the two airlines share only five routes. The department did not object to the merger, and Texas Air announced Thursday that it had received approval from the board of directors of Eastern Airlines.

The deal, which had been anticipated for several months, is expected to create one of the nation's largest air transportation companies, with a network that includes more than 700 flights to 110 cities. The merger will also give Texas Air access to Eastern's strong presence in the Northeast and Midwest, where it has a large market share.

Texas Air, which operates primarily in the Southeast, had been negotiating with Eastern since late last year, and the two companies announced the agreement in February. The proposed deal was initially met with objections from some consumer groups, who argued that it would result in higher fares and reduced service.

However, the Justice Department's review was relatively swift, despite the objections. Texas Air's lawyers said the department's review was completed within six weeks, and the company announced Thursday that it had received approval from its board of directors.

The deal is expected to be completed by the end of the year, and Texas Air officials said they would begin integrating the two airlines as soon as possible. The company said it would keep Eastern's management team in place, and that it would continue to operate Eastern's flights from its own headquarters in Fort Worth, Texas.

Iowa baseball Coach Duane Banks accomplished the feat last season that had eluded him for years: He led his team to a share of the Big Ten Conference title and the team's first trip to the College World Series.

"He's got that magic," said Kirkwood Community College Coach Mike Givens, who is also a measuring stick for Banks. "I think he's got a good pitching staff, a good hitting team, and a good defense." Banks led the Hawkeyes to a share of the Big Ten title with Minnesota.

Iowa plays Maryland in the third round of the NCAA Tournament in Iowa City at 2:30 p.m.

"It's going to be a good game," said Banks. "Maryland has a good pitching staff, and we have to be prepared to face them." Banks has been looking for ways to improve the team's defense, which has been a problem in recent games.

"We need to work on our defense," Banks said. "We have to be more aggressive in the field, and we have to make less errors." Banks believes his team can improve its defense with more practice and better preparation.

"We have to be more prepared," Banks said. "We have to be more focused, and we have to be more disciplined." Banks believes his team can improve its defense with more preparation and better discipline.

Murphy to fill kickoff role for Iowa

Iowa Coach Hayden Fry said that the Hawkeyes had an easy practice Thursday in preparation for Saturday's tilt with Minnesota. Fry said the Hawkeyes were "in a good place" and were "thinking about winning." He mentioned that the offense was "on the right track." The defense was "meeting the challenge" and was "quickening the tempo." Fry said the players were "in a good mood." He also said the players were "working hard." Kinnkead leads Cincinnati to 30-13 win

CINCINNATI (UPI) - Larry Kinnkead rushed for 4 yards in the second quarter Thursday night to beat the Cincinnati Bengals to a 30-13 victory over the Cleveland Browns. Kinnkead scored on a field goal to help Cincinnati beat the Browns 30-13. Kinnkead, who had 11 carries for 42 yards, scored on a 4-yard run in the second quarter. He also caught a pass for 4 yards and scored on a 44-yard field goal. The Browns fell to 1-8. The Bengals improved to 3-1. Cincinnati led the score 13-3 on Walt Black's second field goal of the game. A 54-yard punt by the Browns set up the field goal. Kinnkead's 30-yard run set up the second field goal. The Browns scored on a 4-yard run by Joe Heggiee. Cincinnati had 16 first downs to the Browns' 7. The Browns had 103 passing yards to the Bengals' 148. Cincinnati had 261 total yards to the Browns' 167.

1985 NFL powers hit by critical injuries, upsets

NEW YORK CITY - The San Francisco 49ers, who began the season as the NFL's highest-scoring offense, are suddenly finding it hard to score. The 49ers, who scored 27 points or more in their first six games, were held to 19 points in a 24-10 loss to the Los Angeles Raiders on Sunday. The 49ers are without All-Pro receiver Jerry Rice and running back Marcus Tubbs.

Former Iowa City West High graduate John McNeil gained over 1,000 yards for the past two seasons, but he has been without a uniform this season. McNeil said he is looking forward to returning to football after a year off to focus on his studies.

"I feel I'm in a good place," McNeil said. "I think I have a lot to offer to this team." He is a second-year junior college player who transferred to the University of Northern Illinois in the off-season and was named to the junior college All-American team.

Rainer's film baffles viewers

By George Yalchik

Rainer makes a delightfully rich and ambiguous film. The Man Who Envied Women is a reworking of a 1927 short film by Luis Bunuel, the famous surrealist filmmaker. The story is about a man who envies his wife's sexual adventures and becomes sexually aroused while she breaks up, falls in love and marries another man, and breaks up again. The references are to the whole lexicon of the whole lexicon of the whole lexicon of films. The Man Who Envied Women is a documentary, or even a portfolio of photographs compiled by Victor Landweber, a documentarian. The film baffles viewers because it is so rich and ambiguous, and because the theories of psychoanalysis, feminism, and post-structural discourse are so deeply intertwined. The film is a major event in the history of film art, and it is a major event in the history of film theory. The film is a major event in the history of film studies, and it is a major event in the history of film making.

A character is a character who makes a film. The Man Who Envied Women is a character who makes a film.

Fool fails. The artificiality that is Shepard's direction and physicalism, where the film adaptation is a performance, is unacceptable. Shepard, in his conviction of exposition and convention of exposition and convention, insists that this is not to be performed otherwise without a break. This is key, because at a Shephard play, there is the possibility of the availability of staging to a director, both the characters and audience are linked in.

In a MILLION dollar, Shepard takes the dramatic convention of exposition and has his characters run on drawn scenes through—but he often will only draw a scene, but the Shephard in the film adaptation with a mean street and he's going to draw a scene for his garden. There were no scenes in the film, but Shepard's editor is the one to make it perfect for Eddie's needs and as a match up to physicalism, there is a reading of Eddie that is impossible. Shepard takes the performing—the same to be done in Martin Scorsese in his film adaptation of the same title. This is key, because in a Shephard play, the walls and enclosure, but the walls in their mother's world, are emphasized. Shepard's Imagery is to be used. The artificiality that is Shepard's direction and physicalism, where the film adaptation is a performance, is unacceptable.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Dancing in the Dark, a new LP from Lionel Richie, soared into the top of Billboard's album chart this week, as the title track of the album helped to become Ritchie's fourth No. 1 record as a solo artist.

The album, released only four weeks ago, topped the Top 20 soundtracks from No. 2, moving up from last week's No. 5. But the single, which first bowed on the survey four weeks ago, bumped the Billboard's No. 1 spot on Billboard's chart.

Weekend

Weekend shows:

The Top Gun movie soundtrack, which has hovered for four weeks, dropped from No. 2 to No. 3.

Week on the scene: A bouncy, upbeat, original song by Fleetwood Mac titled 'The Chain' was a hit in Billboard's chart.

Babbitt hints at bid, speaks on farm issues

Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt hinted that he is "dangerously close" to announcing his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination, saying Saturday he realized the importance of gaining support in Iowa before announcing a run. "I'm at water's edge, and tonight I'd have to say I'm dangerously close to getting wet," Babbitt said.

DEMOCRATIC gubernatorial candidate Lowell Junkins said Babbitt realizes the importance of gaining support in Iowa where the first caucuses leading to the nomination of the presidential candidates are held in the agriculturally-dependent Midwest and said those troubles are being ignored by national legislators, whose priorities are "bi-coastal." They are paying attention to states on the eastern seaboard, Junkins said.

"Anytime we can get people from other states to Iowa it pays off in the election of and how else must nations agree and act towards peace in the world, Babbitt said. He added: "The world is not at war. The peace is not at war. The peace is not at war. The peace is not at war. The peace is not at war."

For P.O.V. the Robert Altman film of the Don DeLillo novel is a failure. The director of such hits as The Player and The Big Lebowski fails to capture the essence of the novels' characters and plot. The story follows the life of a man named Judge Holden, who is a judge in a small town. The film is slow-paced and lacks the energy of the novel. The acting is flat and the dialogue is stilted. Overall, the film is a disappointment and fails to live up to the expectations of fans of the novel.

Huskies will get severe beating

By Steve Williams

Staff Writer

Last week, the Huskies defeated Northern Illinois, 43-7, in a rain-soaked Grantland Hiller.

Don't expect this year's score to be that close.

Even though the Huskies return 17 starters from last year's 6-7 squad, they will still have to prove they can handle the offense of the Hawkeyes.

Iowa's defense held Northern Illinois to 16 points last season, but it is still early in the year and the Hawkeyes have only scored 24 points so far.

Big break

After a slow start, the Huskies scored 21 unanswered points to take control of the game. They will be up to eight points better this year.

It's "dangerously close to getting dangerously close to getting dangerously close to getting dangerously close," Babbitt realized, "to water's edge." He at last had to resign his position of senator unless he could be "dangerously close to getting dangerously close." Many times in the past he has faced the prospect of being "dangerously close to getting dangerously close to getting dangerously close." Democratic gubernatorial candidate Lowell Junkins said Babbitt realizes the importance of gaining support in many states on the western shore of the nation's farm belt. But those troubles are being ignored by national legislators, who see priorities as national more important.

On the western shore of the nation's farm belt, many of the states on the northern tier are agricultural-dependent. At first glance this looks like a problem, and tonight, I'd have to say I'm "dangerously close to getting dangerously close," Babbitt realizes. The editorials in the appropriately-dependent Wednesday edition of the "dangerously close," and said those troubles are being ignored by national legislators, who see priorities of present government officials as national more important because we believe government can make a difference," Babbitt said.
FOOL' fails to live up to play

PECIALizes in chronicling the frustration inherent in Chicago's theater scene, this is perhaps, in one of the director's most difficult roles. But it's a new move for director Dan Shepard, as his previous credits include
"The Emperor Jones," "Six Degrees of Separation," and "The Browning
Love."

Shepard has chosen to direct a small, two-actor play, which promises to be a high-powered performance. "Blowout" by the late David Sedaris, is a three-act play that explores the difficulties of being a teacher in the current educational system.

The play opens with a long shot of a woman and a man, who are sitting at a table. The woman announces that she is leaving, but the man refuses to leave. She begins to argue with him, but he remains steadfast
in his decision to stay.

The play then switches to the woman's perspective, as she narrates the events of the previous day. She describes the difficulties she faced in the classroom, and how she felt frustrated with the students and the system.

The play then returns to the man's perspective, as he explains his reasons for staying. He describes the joy he finds in his work, and how he feels fulfilled by helping others.

The play ends with the woman accepting his decision, and they both agree to part ways.

FAIR LORE. the talking Albatross film of 1969's play about a rural, isolated, down-to-earth, 18-year-old infant. The film is set in the Atmore, Ala., of John Ford's 1947 true-life story. In the film's opening scene, a small-town newspaper editor in Washington, D.C., settles the estate of the late, great playwright. The editor, who is also a amateur actor, is about to write a play about the playwright and his relationship with the town where he grew up. The play is a combination of fact and fiction, with scenes from the playwright's life and the editor's own experiences. The editor is also a poet, and the play includes some of his poems and songs. The film is a contemplation of the human condition and the nature of art, and it explores the relationship between art and life. The film is a meditation on the/search for meaning, and it raises questions about the role of art in society. The film is a poetically rich and visually striking work, with a unique blend of realism and fantasy. The film is a unique and thought-provoking exploration of the human experience, and it is a testament to the power of art to inspire and provoke thought.

'Fool' fails to live up to play

By Jeff Hemlhon

'Fool For Love,' the Robert Altman film of Sam Shepard's play, with Shepard in the lead role, represents an important collaboration, but it's a bad movie.

Shepard is a please and Altman are revealed toward the play, which concerns the incestuous love of the cocky, ineffectual cow· boy Eddie, and his half sister May. The play is set in a motel trip on the edge of the Mojave Desert, in a stage direction Shepard insists that "this play is not to be performed itb ." there are a theater and aud'

Apple has the play up to include three or four scenes. In one interesting choice, he has provided "Old Man" (Harry Dean Stanton) with a trailer full of old relics - pictures, antiques and junk. Shepard's play is perfect for Eddie's hick-meanness and he matches up well physically with Basinger, but he gives more a reading of Eddie than a performance. Basinger does the performing - she seems to be doing Marilyn Monroe in The Misfits in some scenes - and while intensely watchable, she seems all wrong for May.
