Excess rain pours trouble on farmers

By Bruce Jensen

Excess rain has poured down on Iowa farmers as heavy rains have flooded fields and caused damage to crops. Many farmers are struggling to deal with the high water levels and are worried about the potential impact on their harvest.

Agricultural experts say that the heavy rains are a result of the El Niño weather pattern, which has been causing unusual weather patterns across the globe in recent months.

"This year's rainfall is significantly higher than normal," said Dr. John Johnson, a meteorologist at the University of Iowa. "The El Niño pattern is causing increased rainfall in the region, which is affecting farmers' crops and their ability to harvest them.

Farmers are encouraged to stay informed and be prepared for potential weather-related issues. Weather patterns can change rapidly, and it's important to stay updated on the latest forecasts and advisories.

CBS anchor rather assaulted by 2 men

NEW YORK — CBS anchor Rather was rather assaulted by 2 men on Monday night in New York City. According to sources, Rather was walking on a city street when he was suddenly grabbed from behind by 2 men who demanded his wallet and cell phone.

Rather managed to escape and alert authorities, who are currently investigating the incident. Sources say that Rather was unharmed and that the attackers were quickly apprehended.

The incident is being treated as a serious assault, and law enforcement officials are urging the public to remain vigilant and report any suspicious activity.

Disadvantaged may benefit from this year's block grants

By Carla M. Traven
Special To The Daily Iowan

The Iowa City Council will begin deliberation on a request Monday to extend the deadline for a grant application it plans to make to the federal government in order to receive a block grant for the disadvantaged.

The council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the City Council Chambers. The meeting is open to the public.

The council plans to extend the deadline for the grant application to March 15, 1992, from the current deadline of Dec. 15.

The application is for the first $4.2 million round of funding available in the fiscal year 1992.
Professor cites study of theophylline use

A UI assistant pharmacy professor has studied the use of theophylline, a drug used to treat asthma, in a study published in the Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Dr. Barry Carter, an assistant professor of medicine at the University of Iowa College of Medicine, and Dr. Kaye Arvanitis, a professor of pharmaceutical sciences, conducted the study.

They found that theophylline use during pregnancy can cause abnormally high blood levels of the drug and associated symptoms such as insomnia, nausea and vomiting.

"We are aware of the findings," said Carter. "The results of our study suggest that theophylline may be beneficial in the management of asthma during pregnancy, but more research is needed to confirm these findings."

Reading up

Dissemination of news is key to a society plagued by hunger, turmoil, and often, the failing health of its people and a rising incidence of international terrorism. Knowledge is a weapon in this battle, and access to reliable, up-to-date news is essential.

Unfortunately, fewer Americans are relying on newspapers as a source of news. More are turning to television and radio, and a growing number are getting their news from the Internet. This trend has raised concerns about the potential loss of traditional news sources and the impact on the quality of journalism.

However, the need for accurate and timely news remains critical. The latest developments must be shared with readers around the world, and the voices of those who are often unheard must be amplified.

UI greeks ride teeter-totter nonstop for March of Dimes

By Steve Mentzer

Oval and rain weather played havoc with the more than 300 teeter-totter riders participating in "Walk for the World!" Saturday. The event, sponsored by the Iowa City chapter of the March of Dimes, was designed to raise money for food, medical training and supplies for families across the globe.

"I think anyone that did go out, including the thousands of families who couldn't come due to the weather," said Maggie Pasternak, coordinator of the event, "knows the people that did care." Project fundraising expected between $200 and 500 volunteers to participate, but Mother Nature failed to cooperate. This surpassed the actual number of participants in the 26 kilometer Old Nail run last weekend.

"I think we would have had more people if it wasn't for the weather," said Tom Ziskovsky, an Alpha fraternity member who participated in the walk. In spite of Ziskovsky's effort, and similar efforts by others, the event failed to reach its goal. About 40 more riders than expected turned out, but the same project raised $12,000 last spring when the 200 volunteers participated.

Laid-off employee reveals Israeli nuclear weapon plant

LOS ANGELES — A 35-year-old Israeli technician who was laid off from his job at a nuclear weapons facility five years ago has revealed that he helped clear away the security at the site so that Israeli agents could secretly take photographs of the facilities.

The technician, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said he was one of several thousand workers who were laid off from the facility in recent years.

He said he was approached by an Israeli government official who offered him $5,000 to take pictures of the facility.

"I was shocked," the technician said. "I didn't know what to do, but I agreed." He said he was later paid $10,000 for the photographs.

According to the technician, the photographs showed "clear weapons, with yields big enough to make a new operating at 150,000 weapons," and were taken "to show the government that the site is currently being used for military purposes." He said he was told by his Israeli handlers that "the facility is currently being used to manufacture nuclear weapons."

Reagan denies plan to exploit Gadhafi

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A State Department memo used to develop a plan to exploit Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi’s military strategy could lead to a coup or assassination of the Libyan leader, it was reported Tuesday.

The Washington Post, which published the report, said the memo approved by President Ronald Reagan in August was available to exploit Gadhafi’s military strategy.

The Post, quoting a White House statement issued in response to its story, said, “The document is an internal working paper with no conclusions or recommendations.”

Reagan’s national security advisor, the Post said, “This week’s release of the document does not change our strategy, which remains to encourage Libyan leaders to stop supporting terrorism.”

The official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the planes were delivered to New York City, and was available to exploit Gadhafi’s military strategy.

“THERE IS NO EVIDENCE that any Libyan leader has ever had such a policy,” the Post quoted a State Department memo.

Worst rains over, officials say

United Press International

Floodwaters from a burst dam Sunday overflowed a Missouri town, and water continued to recede elsewhere. Forecasters note the worst is definitely over." in Stanford.

Mostly cloudy continued over the water's evacuation Sunday and water continued to recede to flooded areas of Illinois and Missouri.

Meanwhile, heavy showers and thunderstorms poured parts of southwestern Texas. More than 10 inches of rain fell at McKinney, Texas, since Saturday morning, officials at the National Weather Service said. Four inches of rain near Lamesa, Texas, Sunday morning and flood warnings were issued for the region.

The worst is definitely over," said Bill Baker of the National Weather Service. "The pattern is changing to allow direct runoff. With that, we enter a dry period, with minor showers, light rain, but nothing that is going to cause any further flooding problems.

COOL TEMPERATURES with the rains that have preceded and will continue to rain through the day Monday and Tuesday. Temperatures were estimated around 100 degrees in the north, with readings in the 40s downtown.

In their first start, Poholsky keys Big Ten win

EAST LANSING, Mich. — The first time Iowa and Michigan State have met in the Big Ten this season, the Hawkeyes beat the Spartans 24-21. The Hawkeyes moved to 5-0 in Big Ten play, and 6-2 overall, while the Spartans dropped to 3-4 in the Big Ten, 7-3 overall.

The Hawkeyes' defense held Michigan State to just 21 points, the fewest they've scored in a Big Ten game this season. The Hawkeyes' offense also came through, putting up 24 points, including a 14-point fourth quarter to seal the victory.

Iowa's defense was led by quarterback Brandon Smith, who picked off three Michigan State passes and returned one for a touchdown. The defense also held Michigan State to just 373 total yards, including just 157 passing yards.

Michigan State quarterback Payton Thorne had a strong game, passing for 256 yards and two touchdowns. However, he also threw three interceptions, which the Hawkeyes capitalized on.

On offense, Iowa's running back Tyler Goodson had a strong game, rushing for 100 yards and a touchdown. Wide receiver Nick Easley also had a big game, catching seven passes for 101 yards and a touchdown.

The Hawkeyes will now prepare for their next game, which is against the University of Illinois on Saturday, November 5th.

Iowa's defense held Michigan State to just 21 points, the fewest they've scored in a Big Ten game this season.

Iowa goes to 12-2 after weekend wins

By Marc Rose

Iowa's volleyball team swept both matches this weekend, beating Wisconsin and Northwestern to up its record to 12-2 overall and 3-0 in the Big Ten.

The Hawkeyes have only practiced two road matches this weekend, according to Iowa head coach Joe Vredevoogd.

This is the first year Vredevoogd has been able to practice and play football in the fall, but the Big Ten networks are allowing football to play in the fall after a one-month hiatus.

Big Ten Roundup

Instead there was a game that was going to be difficult for Iowa to win against a Michigan team that was playing well. It was a game that was going to be a test for Michigan's defense, a team that had allowed only 24 points in its first three games.

Iowa Coach Hayden Fry said, "The big thing about this game is that we have to make sure we don't give up any big plays to Michigan. They're a team that can score more points than we can score, so we have to be careful in the red zone." Fry added, "We've got to have a good game plan and execute it well." Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler agreed, saying, "We know they're a good team, but we think we can beat them if we play well. We just have to make sure we don't make mistakes."
Poholsky and his team worked hard to establish their offense, but the defense held strong. Despite the effort, the final score was one goal in favor of the visiting team. Poholsky praised the team's performance, saying, "We're not a good team yet, but we're learning."

Spartans struggled to maintain possession of the ball, leading to a loss. The coach, however, remained optimistic, saying, "We need to work on our teamwork and communication to improve our performance."

Friday night performances at Harborside, 304 West Fourth Street, are the best way to catch the opening of an annual exhibit that celebrates the career of President Ulysses S. Grant. The exhibit, titled "The Longevity of a President," runs through Oct. 9 at the museum. It features a comprehensive collection of artifacts and documents from Grant's time in office, including his personal letters and speeches. The museum also offers guided tours of the exhibit, which is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
