Sadat gives up teaching post at USC

John Sadat, aide to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, will not be teaching a course at the University of Southern California this fall.

Sadat said he has resigned because of pressures resulting from the various disturbances that have occurred since Sadat's Nov. 6 speech. He said he was asked to resign because of his position as an advisor to the Egyptian president.

"It was recently decided that the course and extending seminars should not be conducted in the same manner as in the past," Sadat said in a statement. "The decision was made that the course should be conducted in a more serious manner." Sadat said he was asked to resign because of the disturbances that have occurred since he spoke in Nov. 6 speech.

The university had previously denied rumors that Sadat was being forced to resign. Sadat said he was told by university officials that he was being forced to resign because of the disturbances that have occurred since he spoke in the Nov. 6 speech.

Sadat has been on leave from the university since the disturbances began in Nov. 6 speech. He was asked to return to the university on a leave of absence in Nov. 6 speech.

We all remember the scene from MACH-2. The centaur is shot behind his neck disrupting through a window. Klingon in drug, it is standing before the bank with not another letter from his mother/father/patient/brother/university documenting yet another reason, another crisis, which will require that his returns to his family. Flash forward, and we see Klinger begging for mercy to go back to the hospital and he will have it done here. He believes himself to be the truth, but this time the truth, the centaur. The complex structure of DNA has been the subject of many disputes and misunderstandings. The structure of DNA was first proposed by Erwin Chargaff, who noticed that the amount of adenine always equals the amount of thymine, and the amount of guanine always equals the amount of cytosine. This meant that the two strands of DNA were complementary. The structure of DNA was later confirmed by X-ray crystallography. The double helix was proposed by Watson and Crick. The discovery of the structure of DNA was a major breakthrough in the field of molecular biology.

Council calls for boycott of African-related businesses

By Donald M. Trevisan

Calling his action more than symbolic, city Councilor Darrel Courtney Monday night proposed a resolution to boycott African-related businesses.

Courtney's resolution is a part of his campaign to ask for a $60-per-month increase in his council salary. The resolution is also in response to recent negative comments about African-related businesses.

Courtney said he was motivated to propose the resolution because he believes that African-related businesses are not contributing to the city's economy.

Courtney's proposal was met with mixed reactions from the city council.

"I don't think it's appropriate," said Councilor Jim Baker. "I think it's worth doing and think it's worth doing in a more positive way."

Courtney also made the point that African-related businesses are not contributing to the city's economy.

"I think it's important to be aware of the negative impact of these businesses on our city," Courtney said. "I think it's important to be aware of the negative impact of these businesses on our city's economy.

Bomriging suspect arrested in Idaho

COEUR D'ALÈNE, Idaho — A suspected bank robber was taken into custody after a high-speed chase with Idaho State Police Tuesday in central Idaho.

Robert Elliot Pers, 11, of Maryland, surrendered Monday after two days of evading police. Pers is accused of being involved in the recent bombing at a Coeur D'Alène, Idaho, bank.

Police did not disclose other details about the bombing, which occurred Monday in downtown Coeur D'Alène, a city located at the base of an Idaho National Guard base.

Claiborne protests impeachment trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Gov.

Chairman Claude Claiborne told the Senate Tuesday at his impeachment hearing that he did not know of any efforts by the House to impeach him. He said he believed it was a "conspiracy of things" in his case.

Sharp eye needed to find sharpeners

By Jim McCann

Special to The Daily Iowan

This week the City Council is scheduled to consider the first reading of an ordinance that would require sharpeners to buy annual licenses. As part of that debate, the city's consultant, Bill Schaeffer, and Jack Neumann, who has been researching the issue for the city, will present their findings.

"We have always wondered why they called it a "Council Program,"" said one member of the council, "... and good for one hour of parking in a city ramp. As an improvement, we would like to see the city work on promoting Bus and purchases more than $5 worth of goods."

The city's program of providing sharpers with a free bus ride to shoppers is a big hit and has become quite popular. However, the program has been criticized by some for its limited scope and lack of involvement with local businesses.

"There's no reason why we shouldn't join in," said one council member, "... and just give the public a free bus ride to shoppers who agree to use the service.

"I think that's a reasonable compromise," said Jack Neumann. "The city has been handling the problem," he said. "But the public is concerned about the lack of involvement with local businesses."

"We can't have it both ways," said one council member. "... we have to make a decision.

The council has decided to consider an ordinance that would require sharpeners to buy annual licenses. This would help to ensure that sharpeners are following the rules and paying their fair share.

"We need to make sure that sharpeners are following the rules," said Schaeffer. "... this will help to ensure that sharpeners are paying their fair share.

Many sharpeners are opposed to this idea, saying that it will drive them out of business. However, the city's consultant, Bill Schaeffer, has assured them that the program will be fair and just.

"We will make sure that sharpeners are paying their fair share," said Schaeffer. "... this will help to ensure that sharpeners are following the rules.

The City Council's vote on the bus and sharpen plan is taking a back seat to the issue of the city's proposed parking ramp, according to some council members. The plan, which would provide free bus rides for shoppers to and from the city's parking ramp, is scheduled for a first reading this week.

"Our proposed parking plan is the one to watch," said one council member. "... it has the potential to bring in much-needed revenue for the city.

"I think that's a great idea," said another council member. "... it will help to improve the city's image and provide much-needed revenue for the city.

Stereotypes key to ignorance of alcohol

By Kirby Joseph
Special to The Daily Iowan

Social acceptance of drinking alone with the view that "some drinks after work" will lower the line between alcohol use and abuse are sterilizing stereotypes, according to a central city alcoholic's user and abuse, say alcoholism is a disease, not a "bad girl's behavior," she said.

Wright also explained that alcohol use is a big part of the problem.

"One idea is to believe that you have control over your drinking and you can stop anytime you want," she said. "At home, you can have a drinking problem. People think, 'How can I avoid that from work or school?"" she said.

"It's not just alcoholism, it's a disease. And you can be addicted to it," she said.

"Alcoholics are more at risk than other people," she said. "You need help. It's not a choice. It's not a drinking problem."

"And some people who are addicted to alcohol do not want help," she added.

"It's hard to admit that you have a problem," she said. "And it's hard to find someone to help you."

Disability stage demonstration to protest inaccessible transit

In Iowa City, Iowa, on Oct. 11, about 100 disabled people were paraded through campus grounds in protest of lack of accessible transportation. The demonstration was planned to coincide with national demonstrations chồnging executives heading to the University of Iowa.

Most Demonstrators were members of the National Center for Accessible Transportation, and they planned to participate in a nationwide demonstration that same day.

Police leaders noted that the demonstration was peaceful and that all participants were aware of their rights under the law.

The demonstration was held in Iowa City on Oct. 11, as part of a nationwide protest against lack of accessible transportation. The demonstration was organized by the National Federation of the Blind and was planned to coincide with similar protests held across the country.

Participants in the demonstration included people with physical disabilities, as well as those who used wheelchairs and other assistive devices.

The injury to the left leg in Saturday’s loss to Purdue may have ended the season for leading receiver Rob Houghtlin. Junior Bud Kyes was named to fill the spot.

Houghtlin, who was named Big Ten Player of the Week for his performance in the Minnesota game, announced at Tuesday’s practice that he would have surgery on his left leg.

Jim Ryie didn’t make the trip to Arizona State and is questionable for the game against Iowa next week.

Bob Houghtlin says he doesn’t think he’ll be able to kick at all this season.

‘Playing for Keeps’ advice: buy the album, not the ticket

By Kevin C. Kerstenemer

The best thing about the new movie ‘Playing for Keeps’ is watching the adventures of its main characters. The main proponent of this premise is a once-promising athlete who has been out of the league for a while but is given a chance to start over. Playing for Keeps was written around a storyline that is quite a departure from the usual, second-rate sports comedies that are being churned out these days. The story takes place in an inner-city town in New York City, where a group of basketball players are trying to make a name for themselves. The movie’s main character, a former professional athlete, is given a second chance to play basketball and he takes advantage of it. The movie is well shot and the performances are strong, especially by the main character. The story is entertaining and will keep the audience engaged throughout. The movie is recommended for all ages, especially for those who enjoy sports comedies. The movie’s tagline, ‘playing for keeps’, is fitting for the story and the main character. Love books tell women to take heart

In an age of keyboards, fast cars and two-minute relationships, many women are coming home to the culture of books. A sense of bookishness is in the air. Better late than never, say the publishers, who argue that women, who are cultivators and kindlers of wonderful men out there and give up the seminars all the time and say, "I read your books, a nationwide chain with more than five Or F:\'M 1.aoo-321·5911 TODAYI
