First witnesses appear in arms deal probe

Shultz claims ignorance of Reagan's role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz testified under oath Monday that he did not know President Reagan approved secret arms sales to Iran and said passing profits from the deals to Nicaraguan rebels was illegal.

Shultz, appearing before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, also revealed the U.S. ambassador to Lebanon, John Kelly, carried on extensive secret communications with top National Security Council officials Robert McFarlane, Vice Adm. John Poindexter and Lt. Col. Oliver North about using the weapons deals to win freedom for American captives.

The secretary said he has ordered Kelly to come to Washington to tell all to the FBI, and also confirmed the Southeast Asian oil sultanate of Brunei provided a legal but secret "contribution" to aid the Contras. The money was reportedly run through the same CIA-controlled Swiss bank account North used to transfer the arms sales profits.

THE KELLY communications, which Shultz said concerned "the hostage negotiations involving arms to Iran as an inducement," suggest a direct link between shipping arms to the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's government and release of American hostages in Lebanon. Reagan has insisted the releases were an indirect benefit of his policy, not the result of the payment of ransom.

Former National Security Adviser McFarlane, who visited Tehran in the summer with a planeload of arms as Reagan's envoy, said Nov. 20 that Shultz "was informed repeatedly and often on every item" of his missions, including the weapons shipments. Shultz said his updates were "sporadic and fragmentary."

"Throughout the entire period, I opposed arms to Iran," Shultz said.

"My role in (the Contra connection) was zero," he said. "I knew nothing about it until it came out."

McFarlane: Reagan OK'd arms transfer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former national security adviser Robert McFarlane testified Monday that President Reagan authorized an indirect shipment of arms to Iran in August 1985, hoping to strengthen Iranian factions opposed to terrorism.

The administration has said Reagan was not aware of that shipment until after it was made.

McFarlane, testifying under oath to the House Foreign Affairs Committee looking into the Iran arms-Nicaraguan Contra aid affair, also said that "roughly in November" of 1985, it was apparent the effort wasn't working and there was a "skewing of the emphasis" toward using the arms shipments to assist efforts to free American hostages in Lebanon.

BUT IN DECEMBER 1985, Reagan approved a policy "that we would not be a party" to shipments of arms in return for hostages, he said.

McFarlane resigned from his post soon after, he said in testimony distributed to the committee but not read, "assuming that the matter was closed." But he said his successor, Vice Adm. John Poindexter, called him this April to ask him to run a new arms mission aimed at freeing the hostages. That effort also failed.

McFarlane told the committee later he had learned last May of the diversion of funds to the Contras — six months before the link was exposed — but answered with a flat "no" when asked if he had ever discussed that issue with the president.

"I received no details" of the diversion of funds from Lt. Col. Oliver North, said to be the architect of the plan, he said.

ASKED REPEATEDLY if it was possible North could have acted alone in sending money to the Contras, as alleged by the administration, McFarlane said he was informed of the Contra fund transfers by North

Crisis group offers counsel

By Bruce Japsen

HILLS, Iowa — One year after a bloody nightmare shook this rural town a few miles south of Iowa City, there appears to be an increased interest by local farmers in support groups.

It was Dec. 9, 1985, when Lone Tree, Iowa, farmer Dale N. Burr, distraught by financial burdens, shot and killed his wife Emily, Hills Bank and Trust Co. President John Hughes and neighboring Hills farmer Richard Goody before turning the gun on himself.

Those who work with local farmer-support groups say the triple murder-suicide didn't have much of an effect on farmers seeking help, but that may change.

"The time is starting to become ripe for these self-help groups to flourish," said the Rev. David Hitch of St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Hills. "The farm crisis is not going to go away. How you manage the farm is not the problem. It comes from forces beyond our control."

HITCH SAID THE support groups bring farmers together to share each other's stories — something many have been too proud to do.

"They need to realize they are not alone," Hitch said. "The support groups give good information on what resources are available to help them feel less powerless rather than a feeling of being swallowed up."

About 40 area farmers attended a support group meeting last week at the Johnson County Fairgrounds to listen to a speech on legal issues affecting farm families, according to Verne Kelley of Iowa City. Kelley is chairman of the Johnson County Rural Survival Committee, which sponsored the event.

He said farmer-support groups will meet more frequently during the winter because farmers are less busy with field work.

ANOTHER SUPPORT group, Farmer to Farmer, has recently been active in nearby Riverside, Iowa, about 10 miles south of Hills.

Distressed farmers may need help more at this time during the year than any other, said Fran Phillips, program coordinator for the Des Moines-based Rural Concerns Hotline.

Phillips said many farmers called the regional hotline after the tragedy in Hills last Dec. 9.

"That was our busiest time," Phillips said. "From December of '85 through March of '86 we answered between 60 and 88 calls each day. We do get a lot of calls from your part of the state."

Phillips said the hotline, which has been in existence since Feb. 1, 1985, had received 20,309 calls as of Saturday, Nov. 29.

THE RURAL CONCERNS Hotline makes an effort to curtail disastrous actions distressed farmers may take.

Phillips said hotline operators record information about a particular farmer's situation before handing the case over to Iowa's state psychologist, who decides whether workers with the hotline should intervene.

But the effort to reach farmers is not going to be easy, said Johnson County Supervisor Betty Ockenfels of Hills.

"Farmers are proud people," Ockenfels said. "(Support groups) have helped a little, and I think there may be a few more farmers going to them, but there are still a lot of them out there who just don't want to open up."

Hills remembers December tragedy

By Bruce Japsen

and United Press International

HILLS, Iowa — Many in this rural town of about 500 have given up trying to figure out why Lone Tree, Iowa, farmer Dale N. Burr did what he did one year ago today.

Burr stunned the nation on Dec. 9, 1985, when he pulled his 12-gauge shotgun and killed John Hughes, president of Hills Bank & Trust Co. Burr then killed neighboring Hills farmer Richard Goody, with whom Burr had financial disagreements, and then himself.

Burr's wife Emily was later found dead at their farm home. The horror of the triple murder-suicide may never be forgotten, but residents are trying to put the tragedy behind them while keeping the crisis in perspective.

"We'd just like to think it's over and that it's a thing of the past," Hills Mayor Larry Culver said.

"THERE'S A FARM crisis going on in this country," said the Rev. David Hitch, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Hills. "People are just trying to cope from day to day with this farm crisis."

Hitch said townspeople continue to be tightlipped about the killings.

"They are very leery of reporters, and they have been awfully closed-mouthed," Hitch said. "They would like to forget it. They just don't want to be caught up in hearsay."

Goody's widow, Marilyn, and their two children still live in the farm house the four once shared. Hitch said the community is supportive of the Goody's, but the family has kept their thoughts about the tragedy to themselves.

Current Hills Bank & Trust President Dwight Seegmiller and other bank officials have also declined to discuss the incident, but issued a statement saying that the "tragedy of Dec. 9, 1985, continues to be profoundly felt in the Hills area."

"While we all look back upon the past year with great sadness, we face the future with the same spirit of confidence and optimism as was exemplified by John Hughes," Seegmiller said in his statement.

Hitch, too, joins townspeople in their disbelief and inability to understand what drove Burr to murder.

Some, including Johnson County Attorney J. Patrick White, say Burr was in no way typical of Iowa farmers facing financial crisis. In fact, Burr's net worth at the time of the shootings was around $500,000.

"There's no doubt in my mind that (the deaths of) Hughes, Goody and Emily Burr) were premeditated murders and there's no doubt in my mind that it was indeed an aberration," White said.

"I think there is a school of thought that remains sympathetic to Dale Burr," he said. "I obviously am not in that school of thought."

Hitch said families stricken by the shootings as well as the entire community are trying to push forward.

Bells at the town's Catholic church will toll at 11:30 a.m. today, a gesture Hitch calls "a community reminder and notice of the farm crisis."

Meese opts for special prosecutor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edwin Meese told a special court panel that an independent counsel should probe whether Lt. Col. Oliver North and "other U.S. government officials" broke federal law in the secret Iran-Contra arms dealings, court documents showed Monday.

Meese, who formally applied to the federal appeals court panel last Thursday, asked the special three-judge panel to appoint a Watergate-style prosecutor to take over the criminal investigation into the diversion of up to $30 million in Iran arms sales profits to Nicaraguan rebels.

Meese asked the court that "the independent counsel be granted jurisdiction to investigate whether violations of U.S. federal criminal law were committed by Lt. Col. Oliver North, other U.S. government officials, or other individuals acting in concert with Lt. Col. North or with other U.S. government officials," and whether or not they fall under the jurisdiction of the 1978 Ethics in Government Act.

NORTH WAS deputy to national security adviser John Poindexter until he was fired for allegedly masterminding the scheme to funnel the Iranian proceeds to the Contras in Nicaragua.

The court Monday formally approved Meese's request to release details of his application, the first official word on what he wanted the independent counsel to probe, but the panel did not name an independent counsel in the highly sensitive case.

"The questions that will need to be resolved by the independent counsel are of unusual sensitivity, complexity and importance to the nation," Meese told the court.

Edwin Meese

He also said the investigation will "in all likelihood require ... consideration of granting immunity to certain individuals," something he said he was not empowered to do during his preliminary investigations.

FURTHER, MEESE said, the probe will "require the obtaining of testimony and documents from foreign governments and individuals, as well as from a number of witnesses in various parts of the United States."

In his application, Meese disclosed no other possible participants in the diversion dealings.

The court has yet to rule on his recommendations.

The decisions are made by the Special Division of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, made up of senior circuit judges George E. MacKinnon of the district, Lewis R. Morgan of Atlanta and Walter R. Mansfield of New York City.

Cable television installation is stalled

UI officials said Monday that cable television may not be installed in the UI residence halls until next fall.

According to UI Director for Facilities and Planning Richard Gibson, equipment problems and finding the right time for installation have slowed work on the project, which was originally scheduled to be completed this fall.

"We may not institute the service until summer or fall," Gibson said, explaining that family housing will probably get installation as early as this spring.

Heritage Cablevision, 546 Southgate Ave., will be supplying the UI with the satellite signal, and General Manager Bill Blough said all of Heritage's programs will be offered to the UI.

Citizens asked to take part in dance

Alpha Phi Omega National Co-ed Service Fraternity will hold registration for the Super Dance Dec. 8-12.

Applicants must register at the Union or in residence hall dinner lines. "Dancing On The Ceiling," which will take place April 3 and 4, will be a 24-hour dance to raise funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The $5 entry fee will include a dance mug, prizes, food and entertainment.

Information can be obtained by calling 353-7121 or 354-7136.

Groups move disabled from care homes

A program granting financial assistance to Iowans with developmental disabilities is allowing them to remain at home instead of being institutionalized.

The Community Living Foundation for Iowans with Developmental Disabilities has been founded through the efforts of the Governor's Planning Council for Developmental Disabilities and the Iowa University Affiliated Facility in Iowa City.

"When families are forced to institutionalize a developmentally disabled family member because of lack of financial resources everybody loses: the family, the disabled person and the taxpayer," Foundation Executive Director Jaynee Day said.

"Our goal is to raise $200,000 during the first year to provide cash and in-kind grants to approximately 300 families for such items as respite care, orthopedic equipment and transportation," Day added.

The first non-profit organization of its kind in the nation, the foundation also received support from the Administration on Developmental Disabilities of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

For more information on the Foundation call 1-800-722-0169 or (515) 270-1874.

Former director of UI neurology dies

By Shawn Plank Staff Writer

UI Neurology Professor Emeritus Adolph L. Sah's, 80, former head of the UI Neurology Department, died Saturday at UI Hospitals following a brief illness.

Sahs, who authored or co-authored about 185 publications, including a major clinical textbook on neurology, was remembered by his colleagues Monday for his contributions to research and education.

UI Hospitals Director John W. Colloton said, "Dr. Sah's was one of the premier physician-educators we've had in this medical center during the past half century. He was not only a world-class academic neurologist, but also a splendid human being."

Sahs headed the UI Neurology Department from 1948 until his retirement in 1974. He joined the UI as an instructor in 1936.

UI NEUROSURGERY Division Chairman John C. Van Gilder said, "He was truly one of the giants in the field of neurology, both in contributions to the specialty of neurology as well as his contributions to education in the specialty."

UI Neurology Professor

Richard Fincham, who had been a member of Sah's staff since 1963, said his influence has been far-reaching.

"More than a half million people who have received neurological care have the care delivered by people trained under his direction," he said.

Sahs graduated from the UI College of Medicine in 1931 and completed his residency in neurology and psychology at the UI in 1935.

SAHS' MAJOR contributions as an instructor included research in cerebral vascular disease, Van Gilder said.

Sahs also served as the acting chief of neurological services at Veterans Administration Hospital in Iowa City from 1974 to 1976.

He served as president of both the American Academy of Neurology from 1961 to 1963 and the American Neurological Association from 1967 to 1968.

Sahs remained active in the department until he was admitted to UI Hospitals last week.

A memorial service will be held Friday at 4 p.m. at the Congregational United Church of Christ in Iowa City.

SHULTZ SAID HE had been involved in discussions about contacts with "moderate elements" in Iran with Reagan in December 1985 and January of this year. He testified he did not know until last month, when the controversy exploded, that the president signed an "intelligence finding" Jan. 17 approving arms shipments despite legal bans on such trade with Iran, legally defined as a "terrorist" state.

Vigorously defending the idea of reaching out to Iran to secure the oil-rich Persian Gulf, and the idea of aiding the "freedom fighters" battling the Marxist-led Nicaragua government, Shultz declared, "I stand with Ronald Reagan."

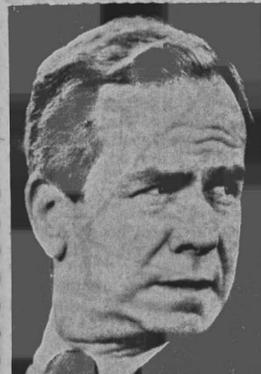

But he became the first administration official to describe the secret funds for the Contras as "illegal."

Shultz also made clear that U.S.-Iranian relations have been chilled since the clandestine project was exposed by leaks from Tehran officials to a magazine in Beirut.

"We want to make it clear to Iran that they cannot expect any fruitful relationship with us as long as they fail to exert the influence that they undoubtedly can to get our hostages released and to stop terrorism," he said.

in May and "I took it to have been a matter of ... established policy approved by higher authority."

But he said, "I have no information as to whether that was true or false. By higher authority I mean in accordance with normal process by which normal policy is made."

He said he could not explain how the funneling of funds could have occurred without other Cabinet members or President Reagan knowing.

McFarlane said he became aware of the "interest" of Iranian officials in getting the weapons on July 3, 1985.

"I CONVEYED the information to the president and appropriate Cabinet officers and it was considered at higher levels," McFarlane said.

McFarlane did not say where the arms for Iran came from, but sources said last week the former national security advisor, who was intimately involved in the deal, told another congressional committee in closed session Israel made the transfer.

Sources said last Friday McFarlane told the Senate Intelligence Committee privately Reagan authorized the Israeli arms transfer to Iran in August 1985.

On Friday, the White House said it had a "written record" contradicting the claim of Reagan's authorization.

proceedings, said the independent counsel must have "jurisdiction sufficiently broad to investigate and prosecute any and all violations of U.S. federal criminal law" the probe may reveal, as well as "any related matters over which the independent counsel may request or accept jurisdiction" under the ethics law.

HE SAID THE investigation should begin "in or around January 1985, the exact date being unknown, to the present," and should extend to anyone in "connection with the sale or shipment of military arms to Iran and the transfer or diversion of funds realized in connection with such sale or shipment."

But legal experts said if the scope of duties assigned the independent counsel was too narrow, it could hamstring the prosecutor's ability to make a case.

George Washington University Law Professor John Banzhaf, noting that none of the six known independent counsel probes have resulted in criminal prosecutions, said if the prosecutor's mandate is too narrow, it will restrict whom he can investigate and eventually whom he can get to testify on the secret dealings.

"In high-level white collar crime, generally to make a case you've got to get somebody to talk. You threaten them with prosecution and then plea bargain," he said.

Last week, Reps. Don Edwards, D-Calif., and John Conyers, D-Mich., called on Meese to include in his request that the prosecutor examine those involved in a clandestine arms network that ferried equipment to the Contra rebels during the years such aid was forbidden by Congress.

Johnson County farmers shun new bankruptcy law

By Ann Szemplenski Staff Writers

Johnson County farmers haven't jumped on the bankruptcy bandwagon since a new law, which eases loan problems for financially troubled farmers, went into effect two weeks ago, local bankers and lenders said.

Although farmers would appear to benefit from the new law known as Chapter 12, there have been no local filings, according to officials of three local banks and the Farmers Home Administration Office in Tipton, Iowa.

Randy Campbell, a FaHA supervisor, said farmers may be leery of Chapter 12 because it has only been in effect for a couple of weeks and they have not seen any results.

"I think that Chapter 12 is wandering around in a lot of people's minds," Campbell said. "But people don't know enough about it yet to actually make a decision."

CHAPTER 12 differs from previous bankruptcy laws because it allows a judge rather than the creditor to approve the borrower's reorganization plan.

The new law seems beneficial to the borrower rather than the lender because a judge is allowed to write down the value of the property, according to former Iowa Banking Superintendent Tom Huston of Columbus Junction, Iowa.

"It appears to me that Chapter 12 gives the borrower the advantage," Huston said. "The judge has the right to mark down the value of the property to a realistic level, often leaving a lot of money from the loan as an unsecured creditor."

Because the judge has this power, local lenders may be hesitant to push the law on their borrowers, Campbell said.

"I think there are a lot of lenders in the area that don't know exactly how it will affect them yet," Campbell said.

BUT HUSTON said the money lost from property markdowns would not have a dramatic effect on the lenders and banks if they had been dealing with the problem earlier.

"If they were doing what they were supposed to in the past by eating up the damages, there wouldn't be any problem now with marking down values to a realistic level," Huston said.

A lack of knowledge about Chapter 12 will cause problems for farmers, bankers and lawyers and may overload the bankruptcy court in the near future, Huston said.

"Chapter 12 probably fits agriculture better than the previous laws, but it brings about added delays in accomplishing what needs to be accomplished," Huston said. "It's going to take a while to get all of the aspects of the law worked through."

Seattle woman arrested for injecting substance into food

SEATTLE (UPI) — A woman caught by a store security guard using a syringe to inject an unknown substance into a carton of ice cream at a grocery store will be charged with tampering with food, the FBI said Monday.

Store owners in the Seattle suburb of Lynnwood were warned to remove all ice cream from their shelves following the arrest of the unidentified 30-year-old woman Sunday.

A suspicious security guard at Big Daddy's Foods who was following the woman saw her inject a container of ice cream with something and then attempt to do the same thing with another carton, police said. The guard grabbed the syringe from her, police said. She fled, but was caught by officers in the store's parking lot.

Police said the woman entered the Lynnwood store about 2:15 a.m. Sunday with a man, who stopped in the video section while the woman browsed.

The man escaped. Lynnwood Police Chief Larry Kalsbeek would not call the man a suspect, saying only that authorities were looking for him and "would like to talk to him."

Detective Gary Northrup said the woman had no known history of mental problems but, without elaborating, said she has an "extensive" criminal record, including one case in Lynnwood. Kalsbeek said police were seeking a warrant to search her home.

THE WOMAN HAD also tampered with a cork on a bottle of champagne before moving to the frozen food section, police said.

The woman was turned over to federal authorities for a late afternoon hearing Monday before a U.S. magistrate, where she would be charged with food tampering, FBI spokesman Joseph Smith in Seattle said.

The woman was transferred to federal custody from the Snohomish County Jail, where she had been booked Sunday on two counts of attempted second-degree assault.

UI services undergo student evaluations

By J. E. McCoy
Special to The Daily Iowan

Random surveys are being mailed this week to 500 UI students to help evaluate the effectiveness of the UI Registrar's Office.

Problems with U-bills, registration and graduation analysis are among the topics covered on the survey.

The surveys are part of a regular review process where all UI Student Services departments are examined every five years.

"We consider the review to be a part of the university's responsibility for accountability," UI Vice President for Student Services Philip Hubbard said. "This is just our way of assuring ourselves, or of finding out whether a unit is doing its job."

THE UI COUNSELING Service and the UI Women's Resource and Action Center are also under review this year.

Arthur Fleck, chairman of the UI registrar review committee said the review will determine the efficiency of the registrar's office in serving students.

"We are trying to assess the effectiveness with which the registrar's office meets its responsibilities and to gain insight to how the students perceive the effectiveness of the registrar's office," Fleck said.

Data will also be collected by input from all UI department heads, UI deans and interviews with the registrar's office staff.

"Presumably problems or difficulties we would find would be considered by (Hubbard and Dallam) and they would endeavor to correct those problems," Fleck said.

A report from the committee will be issued to Hubbard and UI Registrar Jerald Dallam sometime during the spring semester.

ONE UI STUDENT who received the survey said the review process was an "unnecessary bureaucratic expense" because it did not address the issues of limited class offerings.

"Instead of spending their time and money on surveys, they should focus their interests on a more worthwhile cause," UI senior Jeff Kindig said.

But Hubbard estimated expenses to be about $150.

Fleck said that it is beyond the responsibility of his committee to examine the problem of class offerings. "The registrar's office does not determine that. The registrar's office collects that information and manages it and presents it to the students," he said.

The reviews should be completed this spring, Hubbard said.

Food service managers find students convenient, reliable

By Monica Seigel
Staff Writer

UI Residence Halls Food Service Managers said Monday they like to employ students in food service because they are the best for the job.

"They're here and they're available," Currier Residence Hall Food Service Manager Linda Johnson said. "It's convenient both for the students and for us."

UI Food Service Director for Residence Services Steve Bowers said the residence halls with food service facilities — Burge, Currier, Hillcrest and Quadrangle — have always employed students. Approximately 650 students currently work for food service.

"IT'S A NATURAL match for students living in the buildings to work here," Bowers said. "They couldn't ask for a more convenient job and we couldn't ask for more convenient, and, for the most part, reliable employees."

Although food service jobs may not be the most glamorous, UI sophomore Joelle Miller, an employee for Hillcrest Food Service, said the job is right for her.

"It's really great to not even have to go outside to go to work," Miller said. "Despite what I hear people say, it's really a good job. I like it."

UI sophomore Molly Sillman said working for Burge Food Service was convenient when she lived in the residence hall, but after she moved into an apartment, the job lost some of its appeal.

"I don't think people realize how hard that kind of work can be. It's not very much fun to work with food all the time," Sillman said. "It was almost worth it when I lived in the dorms, but after I moved out it really took a lot of motivation for me to put on my hairnet and prepare myself to deal with hungry people for a couple hours."

BOWERS SAID each student works from about 15-20 hours each week, depending on their class schedule, but added food service jobs are in great demand.

"We don't really have a very high turnover rate," he said. "The students must enjoy working for food service because there is a return rate of about 60 percent."

Bowers said several factors determine who will get hired by food service.

"It varies, but some of the things we take into consideration are the students' class schedule and also whether or not they live in the residence halls," Bowers said. "Right now we've got a pretty lengthy waiting list of people who want food service jobs."

Student charge plan spurs textbook sales competition

By Holly Wilkins
Special to The Daily Iowan

With textbook return time just around the corner, the IMU Bookstore and Iowa Book and Supply store feel that without a doubt they remain neck-and-neck in the competitive race for student textbook and school supply dollars.

Charge privileges for UI students at both stores has been a major factor in the evenness of the competition.

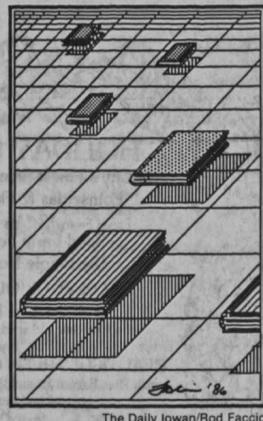

Iowa Book and Supply, 8 S. Clinton St., just re-adopted charge privileges for students in January 1986. Student charges were dropped a decade ago when Mastercard became easier for students to obtain.

"Out of popular demand we once again incorporated the charging system," Pat Brice, office manager of Iowa Book and Supply, said. "Basically, we just felt in strong competition with the Union. If this privilege was offered with us, it would increase traffic and a lot of students said that they would like to see us offer the same charge services as the Union."

THE IMU BOOKSTORE estimates student charges as 75 percent of their sales, while Iowa Book and Supply estimates that 50 percent of their sales are student charges.

Brice attributes the 25 percent difference in the use of the charge card to the newness of the system at Iowa Book and Supply.

"Our program is new. We can only generalize at this point, but we are happy with the success rate considering some of our problems in execution," she said. "Problems with the computer had to be ironed out, and we had difficulties standing through the UI Cashier's Office.

Iowa Book and Supply checks the identification manually against a master list that contains information on the student's record of payment status.

Brice said she feels the Union has an advantage in regard to their charge system.

"WE TOO WOULD like to have a system that would drive into the main frame of our computers, so that we could know what problems may exist on an account. We feel that the Union really has an advantage over us in that they can update their system so much faster. This is the ultimate goal for us," Brice said.

Both stores strictly enforce no charge privileges if a student has failed to make payment in full by the deadline date. When payment is made, however, the privileges are promptly reinstated, Brice said.

Although collection is a problem, Herbert praises students for being responsible.

"Generally speaking, most students are very honest and well-meaning," Herbert said. "Though they may not pay their bill right when it is due, they are usually good for it."

HERBERT SAID traditionally university-owned and operated bookstores such as the Union's have had an advantage in terms of location. In Iowa City, however, Herbert said this may not be the case.

"Iowa Book and Supply may even have a better location than we do. They are on the corner where a lot of students pass by, and they are simply surrounded with the school buildings and restaurants that our students frequent," Herbert said.

because students didn't realize that we weren't affiliated with the UI when it came to billing."

As far as billing goes, the two stores share the identical procedure. They bill on the first day of every month and expect payment in full by the 15th of that same month. Both Brice and George Herbert Jr., manager of the IMU Bookstore, agree that collection of bills is a big problem.

"COLLECTION is a real detriment," Herbert said. "Obviously, when you are dealing with a large charging population, certain segments will not pay their bill. We experience upwards of 2 percent of our sales as uncollected, which is normal."

While both stores require a UI student identification card and photo ID in order to charge, the charging systems are quite different. The IMU Bookstore runs the student ID card through a computer to verify a student's good credit

Filipino rebels talk of new social order

MANILA — Communist leaders talked Monday at a meeting of politicians and reporters about creating a new social order in the Philippines.

They also warned that a cease-fire scheduled to begin Wednesday could fail unless the government overrules the military's announced policy of arresting rebels who show up in populated areas carrying firearms during the truce.

The cease-fire — to begin at noon Wednesday — is intended to create an atmosphere of "mutual trust" between the government and communist rebels.

The rebels talked of dismantling U.S. air and naval bases and overturning the social and political system.

Israeli army investigates youth's death

RAMALLAH, Israeli-occupied West Bank — Israeli soldiers shot and wounded at least six Palestinians Monday and the army said it was investigating whether its troops killed a 12-year-old boy who was shot in the head.

The military first said the boy was killed and four people wounded by soldiers who opened fire to disperse a crowd of some 100 Palestinian protesters in the West Bank Balata refugee camp near Nablus.

But hours later, an army spokesman in Tel Aviv said, "There was a mix-up. We have found out the body of the boy was taken to hospital 20 minutes before the shooting. We think he was brought in dead."

"We are trying to find out if and why and how this boy got shot," he said.

If soldiers did kill the boy, it would be the first person killed by soldiers since soldiers fatally shot a 14-year-old Friday in Balata. Troops killed two students Thursday at Bir Zeit University north of Ramallah.

Court will review kickback scheme

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court said Monday it will review the convictions of two men who took part in a kickback scheme that began in 1974 and was arranged by former Kentucky Democratic Chairman Howard P. "Sonny" Hunt Jr.

Following a jury trial, James Gray and Charles McNally were found guilty of one count of mail fraud and one count of conspiracy.

The charges stemmed from kickbacks obtained on commissions paid by the state of Kentucky for workmen's compensation insurance.

Gray and McNally appealed their convictions on grounds that the indictment improperly classified Hunt as a public official.

The appeal was opposed, on the grounds that the indictment against the three was based not only on Hunt's status as party chairman, but also Gray's position as secretary of public protection and regulation.

Lennon fans mourn date of shooting

NEW YORK — Fans strummed guitars and sang songs of world peace in Central Park's Strawberry Fields Monday, the sixth anniversary of the shooting death of John Lennon.

The slain Beatle's wife, Yoko Ono, spent the day secluded with their 11-year-old son, Sean, in their apartment at the Dakota, where Lennon was killed on the sidewalk by a crazed gunman on the night of Dec. 8, 1980.

Across the street in the tear-shaped chunk of Central Park known as Strawberry Fields, about 30 fans huddled around a mosaic of the word "Imagine," dedicated to Lennon's musical vision of world harmony.

The mourners who gathered shortly after dawn Monday were rewarded for their efforts with coffee and T-shirts sent across the street by Ono.

Mark David Chapman, now 31, shot and killed Lennon in front of the Dakota. He was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment.

Child hospitalized after eating cocaine

PENSACOLA, Fla. — An 18-month-old boy who ate four chunks of crack cocaine after a party in his mother's home was in poor condition at a hospital Monday while the woman's boyfriend was arraigned on drug and child abuse charges.

When Michael Antone Rivers was brought to Sacred Heart Children's Hospital Sunday, he was screaming and hallucinating, a deputy said.

Deputies said his mother, Essie Palmer, and her boyfriend, Douglas Allen Dale, had a party Saturday night. Sunday morning, while the adults were still asleep, the child went into their bedroom, found the cocaine "rocks" and began chewing them.

Hondurans escape border area raids

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — Hundreds of peasants fled the hilly border region Monday while U.S. helicopters ferried in Honduran troops for a second day to repel a cross-border raid by 1,000 Nicaraguan soldiers, officials said.

Honduran warplanes attacked Nicaraguan troop positions along the rugged frontier Sunday, and in Managua the Defense Ministry reported Monday the air strike left seven soldiers dead and 14 people wounded, including two children.

U.S. officials denied the Nicaraguan version and there was no immediate casualty report from the Honduran Armed Forces.

More than 500 Honduran peasants fled the border hamlets of Las Miele, Pueblo Nuevo and La Redonda to escape the violence in the hilly region, scene of numerous Honduran-Nicaraguan army clashes in recent years, officials said.

"There has been a very big increase in the army's operations and presence along the border," said one fleeing farmer, Jose Rodriguez, who arrived in Danli, 18 miles inland.

"We were scared by the sound of the heavy artillery and left immediately," said his brother, Ramon.

U.S.-BACKED REBELS — popularly known as Contras — fighting the leftist Sandinista regime of Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega, operate freely in the region, and the cross-border attack by 1,000 Sandinista Popular Army troops is believed to have been aimed at striking the insurgents' supply camps.

During the weekend, Honduran President Jose Azcona asked President Reagan for U.S. military support, which was approved at a late Saturday meeting of senior White House advisers, State Department officials in Washington said.

It was not immediately known how many Honduran troops were ferried by U.S.-piloted helicopters to the fighting in the El Paraiso province, but U.S. Embassy spokesman Michael O'Brien said the airlift was to end before Tuesday.

"The work of moving in troops is coming to an end," he said, adding that Gen. John Galvin, commander in chief of the Panama-based U.S. Southern Command, was coordinating transportation to the area, 60 miles east of Tegucigalpa.

O'BRIEN SAID THAT for "military strategy" reasons he could not say how many U.S. helicopters were participating in the airlifts.

"There are not many," he said, adding the operation involves fewer than the 18 choppers used in a similar support mission last March.

The U.S. helicopters were unarmed and the pilots were ordered not to approach areas of conflict between Nicaraguan and Honduran forces, the State Department said.

The border fighting erupted after Nicaraguan soldiers overran a frontier post 3 miles inside Honduras Thursday, wounding three soldiers and capturing two, Honduran officials said.

A spokesman for the Contras told The Washington Post the rebels were not involved in the conflict, saying, "It's between the Hondurans and the Nicaraguans."

Striking Parisians support protesters

PARIS (UPI) — Prime Minister Jacques Chirac Monday withdrew a university reform bill that sparked three nights of riots, and thousands of workers showed support for student protesters by staging work stoppages that delayed air and rail traffic.

Student leaders welcomed the decision to withdraw the bill but continued their call for protests this Wednesday — including demonstrations by students in Paris and other large cities and a one-day strike by workers across the country.

Air traffic controllers at Orly and Charles De Gaulle airports halted air traffic for a half hour Monday to demonstrate support for the students.

Operators of the Paris subway system and the national train network walked off the job for an hour, halting most public transportation.

The communist-led General Workers Federation, with about 1 million members, said it still planned to strike Wednesday in support of the students, but leaders of the leftist French Democratic Workers Confederation said they did not plan to join it.

CHIRAC WENT on national television to announce withdrawal of the bill.

"The demonstrations that are taking place, with all the risks and dangers of violence that they carry, are proof enough for everyone," Chirac said. "That is why I have decided to withdraw the bill."

The government wants to make universities more autonomous, competitive and selective in their admissions. Students say the reforms would penalize poorer students and would allow employers to discriminate among degrees granted by different institutions.

The prime minister said he ordered the Education Ministry to begin consultations with students, teachers and education officials to examine changes he said are still needed in the French university system.

One student was killed, at least 247 people were injured and 177 arrested in three nights of street clashes between riot police and young people.

'Letter' rises above typical melodrama

By George Yatchisin
Staff Writer

LETTER from an Unknown Woman (1948) is what's known as a "woman's picture" or "tear-jerker." The film follows the life of Lisa Brendle (Joan Fontaine), a life spent hopelessly pining for the debonair pianist Stefan Brando (Louis Jourdan). After a night of romance bordering on complete fantasy, Lisa loses Stefan and then loses her life searching for a golden memory.

What elevates the film above the typical Hollywood melodrama is how her desperate searching for a past pinnacle parallels our search with movies themselves. It seems, particularly as 1986 draws to a close, that Hollywood has lost its magic, has succumbed to 19-inch diagonal dreams. Once Hollywood's hacks could do small wonders: a Michael Curtiz could luck into a Casablanca, a Leo McCarey could come into The Awful Truth.

TODAY, WE get to watch our great directors go sour, as Francis Coppola takes on a studio-approved "rom" ending to Peggy Sue Got Married or as Martin Scorsese makes The Color of Money, a homage to the shiny grill of an Eldorado, simply the reified ego of the film's star, Paul Newman.

Max Ophuls' Letter from an Unknown Woman makes a film viewer long for the old days of classy trash, just as Ophuls himself longed for the mythical fin de siècle Vienna, the setting of this film. Lisa's battles with love are touching and real because all of us long for a past we're not even sure existed, whether it be a night of passion, a film seen only once, or something as complex and spiritual as the idea of humanity before the Fall (fill in your own religious belief).

THE FILM is told in flashback, framed by Stefan reading the letter from Lisa. The letter's opening makes it clear she's dead, adding poignancy, making it clear time doesn't stop, even for love.

As with most Ophuls' films, the stars co-star with his waltzing camera that always seems in haste to keep up with the movement within the frame. Despite some virtuoso tracking shots along streets and crane shots up stairs, Ophuls isn't merely interested in frills. The moving camera itself is time, is life slipping past his characters.

That's why the repetitions in Letter make us uncomfortable. When Lisa wishes farewell to her illegitimate son (also named Stefan) at the train station, his last words are, "I'll see you in two weeks," the same words of the older Stefan when a train takes him out of Lisa's life.

OPHULS DOESN'T leave the viewer out of these repetitions, either. When Lisa finally goes into Stefan's apartment for the big night, the scene is shot from the landing above his flat: the same spot from which Lisa saw him enter with another woman years ago. This time there is no Lisa in the foreground of the shot, there is only the camera, watching, making a comment simply by its placement.

It's fitting Stefan's manservant, John, is mute because John is the viewer's stand-in. He and we cannot talk, but can see and hear all. We are both helpless to change anything, yet are necessary to the story. While it seems Letter's only dreamer is Lisa, the film is full of the hopeful. Stefan looks for the fulfillment of his youthful promise and for the mystery of a woman that will save him. Johann, the older officer who marries Lisa, longs for the love he knows she can never give him. Even Lisa's mother has hopes, hopes that are dashed by Lisa's refusal of a young colonel's marriage offer.

The title of the film makes Ophuls' position clear: Lisa is an unknown woman, in part every woman (and man). Obsession isn't something limited to film heroes and heroines, even the silent manservants must have unfulfilled desires. For John it's true, or why would he remain with Stefan, an employer so clearly bent on self-destruction? For us, we're left in the dark, always hoping a new movie can match the one running in our minds.

Letter from an Unknown Woman can be seen at the Bijou tonight at 9 and Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Choralaires carol at hospital for free Christmas concert

By Julia Kramer
Staff Writer

AREA NURSING homes and hospitals are visited this time of year, more than any other, by groups of carolers wishing them the season's best. But the Iowa City Choralaires make it a point to share their musical gift all year long.

The 26-voice community choir performs a series of concerts containing both popular and classical music, and brings it free to the area handicapped and elderly, as well as to the general public.

Conducted by Allen H. Simon, UI doctoral candidate in conducting on leave, the choir performs carols, spirituals, musicals and classics. The choir is made up of UI students, staff, teachers and local residents of all ages, and their reasons for being members of the Choralaires vary as much as the group's makeup.

SUE LANGBEHN, a first year UI medical student, believes it is important students have at least one extracurricular activity.

"I enjoy the variety of difficulty in the music we sing. A lot of church choirs just can't do the Haydn Te Deum," she said.

Langbehn also finds participating in the Choralaires fits into her schedule better than being in a university choir.

Karen Spalding, a graduate student in the College of Pharmacy, has been in the choir for five years. She says the Choralaires is a fun group.

"People are in it because they like to sing... and it's a kind of therapy for me," Spalding said.

George Stratton, appointment clerk at the UI College of Dentistry, recently joined the choir. "THE REASON I came was because I wanted to get my voice back in shape," he said.

Other members stated they not only enjoyed the music and singing for others, but also the sociability the choir offers.

The Choralaires will present this semester's final concert tonight at 7:30 in UI Hospitals John Colleton Pavilion Atrium.

Accompanied by pianist Colleen Ahmad, the choir will perform the Joseph Haydn Te Deum, a medley of songs from The Music Man, carols, spirituals, ending with an audience sing-along.

The concert is presented in memory of Ramani Ranachandran, a UI engineering student and member of the Choralaires, who died last summer.

The Choralaires will begin rehearsals for their spring concert series on Jan. 20. Interested singers should call for an audition at 354-9215 or 338-1252.

Day's hat trick sparks Ice Hawks, 7-4

By Marc Bona
Staff Writer

As two busloads of Iowa fans cheered, the Ice Hawks' Black squad defeated Loras 7-4 on the strength of Pete Day's hat trick in Waterloo's McElroy Auditorium Friday night.

Despite a hat trick from the DuHawks' Rich Garrett, the Ice Hawks dominated Loras throughout the game, recording more than twice as many shots on goal.

"It was tough," Iowa goalie Brian Gandy said of the game, which was marred by 44 minutes of penalties. "They were always on the net, always swarming."

Iowa opened the scoring 54 seconds into the first period when captain F.J. Frazier took a pass from Bob Stensby and put the puck between the legs of Loras goalie Mike Starshak.

THE ICE HAWKS kept the pressure on throughout the period, never letting Loras mount any kind of offensive threat. John Brandt's shot went wide as the Hawks tried to capitalize on a three-on-one break, but Day followed up and scored to give Iowa a 2-0 lead.

Tom Stewart's pass to Jim Sorley resulted in Brandt's goal 55 seconds into the second period, which opened up a six-goal outburst (three by each team) in the period.

But Loras came back when Greg Lincoln's shot sailed past Gandy's outstretched leg. Loras scored again 35 seconds later when Garrett followed up a missed backhand to make the score 3-2.

Ice Hawks' Mike Pugliese scored on an Adam Shell pass at 5:35. Andy Nilles set up the play when he passed to Shell. Loras came back less than a minute later when Garrett took a pass from Lincoln and sliced the puck by Gandy, making the score 4-3.

IOWA OPENED UP the lead for good when Andy Nilles scored the eventual game-winner at 9:51 of the period. The goal was set up by Pugliese and Shell.

Day scored the next two goals, both assisted by Stensby, giving the Ice Hawks a 7-3 lead. The goals came at 14:17 of the second and 5:14 of the third period.

Garrett scored the game's final goal when he zipped the puck by Gandy.

"I think we played really well in the first period," Frazier said. "But we were kind of sluggish in the third, and penalties started to build up."

"We had ample opportunity to score many times and missed. But it was the first time we skated in three weeks. We played pretty well on defense, too, especially (Dan) Levy."

THE ICE HAWKS outshot the DuHawks 43-20. Starshak recorded an .837 save average while Gandy registered an .800 average.

The Ice Hawks brought two busloads of people to the game, something that both the players and the fans seemed to enjoy. "It was a change of pace for us, to go to a game with loud fans behind you," Frazier said.

Ice Hawks' fan Joe Elceser, a UI junior from Davenport, enjoyed the game and the trip: "The Iowa ice hockey team is like Dunkin' Donuts. They're worth the trip."

Cindy Puck, a sophomore from Davenport, agreed. "It was great. I didn't know anyone who was going, and I had a good time."

"I even got a real hockey puck, and my last name's Puck," she said.

Kim Donald, a senior from Chicago, enjoyed the game but said, "I thought it was really one-sided."

With the win the Ice Hawks move to 4-1 in league play. Sunday's game against Loras was canceled due to lack of ice time.

The DI Sportsclubs column appears every Tuesday. Anyone wishing to have information printed in this column should contact Marc Bona at the Daily Iowan, 353-6210.

Kingdome air barrage shatters Raiders

SEATTLE (UPI)—Dave Krieg threw for 243 yards and two touchdowns while Curt Warner ran for 116 yards and two other scores Monday night to power the Seattle Seahawks to a 37-0 rout of the Los Angeles Raiders.

The Los Angeles loss enabled the Denver Broncos to clinch the AFC West title.

Denver, Los Angeles, Kansas City and Seattle all could finish the season with 10-6 records, but the Broncos would win the title under the tie-breaking formula.

The victory also kept alive the Seahawks' slim playoff hopes. A loss would have eliminated them from the postseason picture.

Warner, the AFC's top rusher with 1,196 yards, scored on a five-yard run in the first quarter and closed the scoring with a three-yard touchdown dash with 7:31 left in the game.

It was the sixth time this season Warner has rushed for 100 or more yards.

KRIEG COMPLETED 14 of 21 passes and was not intercepted as Seattle won its third straight and improved to 8-6. Norm Johnson kicked three field goals for the Seahawks.

Los Angeles, also 8-6, suffered its first shutout since Oct. 11, 1981 — a 27-0 loss to Kansas City — and its worst defeat of the season.

Seattle's defense had a team-record 11 sacks for 68 yards in losses. Raiders' starting quarterback Jim Plunkett was sacked six times for 48 yards, and back-up Marc Wilson was sacked four times for 14 yards. Rusty Hilger was sacked once for six yards.

Plunkett completed just four of 11 passes for 61 yards and was intercepted once. Wilson connected on five of 10 passes for 55 yards and also suffered an interception.

Price is playing big role for Iowa

By Mike Trilk
Staff Writer

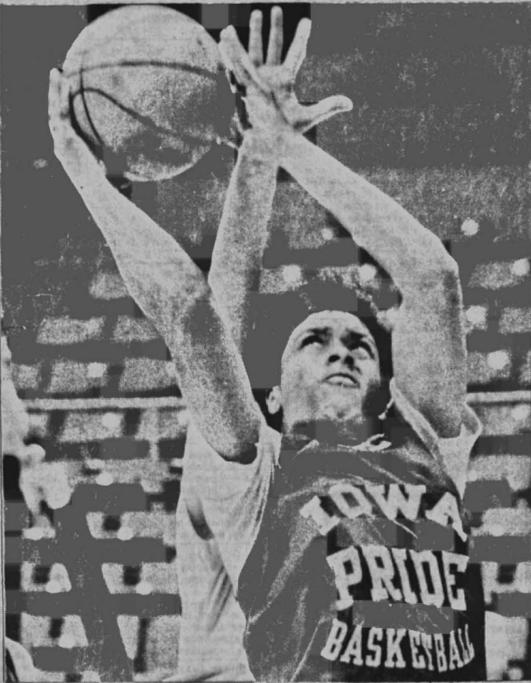

Franthea Price is doing something most freshmen athletes don't get a chance to do.

Price, a freshman on this year's women's basketball team, is not only making a healthy contribution to a team rated in the top 10 nationally, but she is also starting. That's an incredible task considering Coach Vivian Stringer has all five starters back from a team that posted its most successful season ever last year.

"Coach Stringer is a great coach, and Iowa has a great program. I wouldn't have come here if I didn't think it would help my game," Price said.

Price's game in high school didn't need much help. After being a four-year starter at Michigan's River Rouge High School, Price became one of the most sought-after athletes in the country. Price made Parade Magazine's, USA Today's and Street and Smith's first team all-American squads a year ago and was also named Michigan's Miss Basketball.

calm and has set surprisingly conservative goals for her first season with the Hawkeyes.

"I expect a great deal," Price said. "I would like to be a part of a team that wins the Big Ten and maybe be a top four team in the NCAA."

One reason Price's goals seem to be team-oriented is the fact that Stringer insists her squad's play team basketball. There is no room for selfish or individualistic attitudes on one of Stringer's teams.

"The way our game plan is set up no one person is going to score 20 points a game,"

Hawks leap into No. 3 spot in poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nevada-Las Vegas, coming off a big victory at Memphis State, Monday supplanted North Carolina as college basketball's No. 1 team in voting by the UPI Board of Coaches.

Nevada-Las Vegas collected 22 first-place votes and 583 points. The Tar Heels, 4-1, gathered nine of the 41 first-place votes cast and dropped to No. 5. One coach did not vote this week.

Cougars making third stop on stiff non-league schedule

By Mike Trilk
Staff Writer

Brigham Young basketball Coach Ladell Andersen is hoping the NCAA will take strength of schedule into consideration when it selects its field for the 1987 NCAA championships.

The Cougars, who play Iowa tonight at Carver-Hawkeye Arena, are currently holding a 1-2 record coming off losses to Notre Dame and Oklahoma. Besides the Irish, Sooners and the Hawkeyes, Brigham Young plays Arizona State, Pittsburgh and Michigan State in non-conference games.

Being a Mormon includes certain advantages and disadvantages for starting Brigham Young guard Brian Taylor. See story..... Page 8

"We're playing a major, major type of schedule," Andersen said. "I just hope that it means something in the end. We don't have St. Olaf scheduled six times and then call it a tough schedule. We hope it will help us be tougher when we get into the conference."

DESPITE THE STRENGTH of Brigham Young's schedule, Andersen thinks Iowa may be the toughest challenge the Cougars will face this season.

"Iowa is playing as well as any team in the nation right now," Andersen said. "They got out of the blocks well this year. They seem to be getting done

Iowa Hawkeyes vs. Brigham Young

C. Ed Horton (6-8)	Jeff Chatman (6-6)
G. B.J. Armstrong (6-2)	Bob Capener (6-4)

what (Iowa Coach Tom) Davis wants to get done."

Iowa's pressing defense and faster-paced tempo seems to be the one thing that concerns Andersen the most.

"We're slower than most teams, so we're going to have to execute at our best to stay close to Iowa," Andersen said. "Iowa is a pressing type of team. We can't get into their tempo or we'll be in trouble."

LOSING TO IOWA won't hurt the Cougars as much as it would hurt the third-rated Hawkeyes, and that's another reason Andersen has loaded his schedule with tough opponents.

"We have a lot of respect for Iowa. They're a Big Ten team.

So you know they will be good," Andersen added. "We aren't as concerned with who does what, but how these teams do what they do. That's why we like to play these teams."

The Cougars, despite losing two out of three, are capable of lighting up a scoreboard. Twice this season Brigham Young has eclipsed the 100-point mark, averaging 85 points per contest.

DAVIS, WHO IS 6-0 in his first year as Iowa's coach, agrees the Cougars are a team capable of running up some points against his Hawkeyes.

"It should be a high scoring game," Davis said. "I've played well in a win over a tough Utah State team, and they played well in a loss to Oklahoma. I know just enough about them to scare me. Ladell is one of the best running coaches in the nation. They're big, they're talented, they're deep and they're experienced."

Davis has never coached against the Cougars, but he expects a rather tough test from them.

"Brigham Young will be one of the most talented teams we have played this year," Davis said. "They are as talented as North Carolina State and Northeastern. They are a post-season team for sure. I don't see any way they won't make it."

Croston named All-American

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vinny Testaverde of Miami and Paul Palmer of Temple — the top two finishers in the Heisman Trophy voting — Monday highlighted United Press International's All-America college football team.

The two were joined in the backfield by Auburn's Brent Fullwood. Guard John Bregel of Southern California was the lone offensive player to repeat as a first-team All-American. Completing the line are tackles Randy Dixon of Pittsburgh and John Clay of Missouri, guard John Phillips of Clemson and center Ben Tamburello of Auburn.

Three juniors make up the receiving unit — tight end Keith Jackson of Oklahoma and wide receivers Cris Carter of Ohio State and Tim Brown of Notre Dame.

THE KICKER IS Washington's Jeff Jaeger, who this season set the NCAA career field goal record. Punter Barry Helton of Colorado was a repeat All-American.

Leading the defense is Oklahoma linebacker Brian Bosworth. He is joined at linebacker by Lombardi Award winner Cornelius Bennett of

Dave Croston

Alabama and Shane Conlan of Penn State.

Four seniors — Jerome Brown of Miami, Reggie Rogers of Washington, Danny Noonan of Nebraska and Tony Woods of Pittsburgh — make up the front four.

Tim McDonald of Southern California leads a secondary that includes Rod Woodson of Purdue, Brian Blades of Miami and Thomas Everrett of Baylor.

ON THE UPI SECOND team is Michigan quarterback Jim Harbaugh, who finished third in the Heisman balloting. He is joined by running backs D.J. Dozier of Penn State and Brad Muster of Stanford, receivers Wendell Davis of Louisiana State and Mike Irvin of Miami.
