Flames gut Coralville's Abbey Inn

The Daily Iowan/Todd Mizener

Firefighters from 10 towns responded to a blaze Sunday afternoon which destroyed the Abbey Inn, U.S. Highway 6 and U.S. Highway 218

West, in Coralville. Flames broke through the motel's roof less than an hour after the fire was reported in a basement bathroom.

Faulty wiring seen as possible cause of blaze

Faulty electrical wiring from a basement bathroom may have been the cause of a blaze that gutted a Coralville motel Sunday evening.

"I'd say it's a total loss," said one Hills firefighter of the Abbey Inn, located at the intersection of U.S. Highway 6 and U.S. Highway 218.

Damage to the motel was estimated at a two-thirds loss, according to Coralville Fire Chief Gary Kinsinger, who reported information to the Johnson County Sheriff's Office at 7:45 p.m. Sunday.

The blaze started at about 3 p.m. in a bathroom of the Olympic Gym, located in the basement of the Abbey, according to the gym's owner, Patrick Crone.

"It was reported to me that there was smoke coming out of a vent," Crone said.

Armed with a fire extinguisher, Crone said he attempted to put the fire out himself, but he escaped the building after an unsuccessful encounter with flames.

"The flames in the bathroom were out, but they were still in the ceiling," he said.

CORALVILLE firefighters were called to fight the fire, and at about 4:20 p.m. sawed through the roof of the Abbey's main entrance in an effort to control the fire. About five minutes later, black smoke and flames began pouring out of the building's roof. Additional fire engines arrived about 15 to 30 minutes later, witnesses said.

Fire departments from Iowa City, Coralville, and the surrounding Iowa towns of Hills, Lone Tree, Tiffin, Oxford, Solon, Swisher, North Liberty and West Branch helped to keep the blaze from spreading to nearby buildings.

At least four nearby businesses and restaurants had to be evacuated because firefighters were worried a gas leak at the motel could cause an explosion. The Greenbriar Restaurant & Bar, Pizza Hut, the Union 76 station and the Pizzeria Chicago were among the surrounding establishments evacuated.

Hundreds of spectators looked on as the fleet of firefighters surrounded the building, shooting water on the blaze from every direction. The firefighters were not able to contain the fire.

Coralville Fire Chief Gary Kinsinger praised the work of firefighters from 10 communities for their efforts battling a fire that devoured the Abbey Inn Sunday.

Firefighters from Coralville, Iowa City and surrounding Iowa towns of North Liberty, West Branch, Oxford, Swisher, Solon, Hills, Tiffin and Lone Tree struggled with the blaze until late Sunday night.

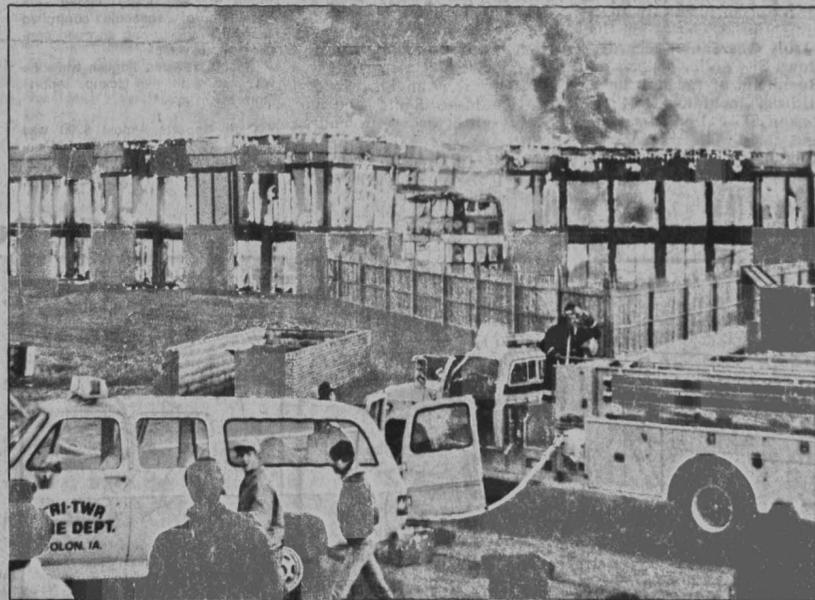

"It saved us," Kinsinger said. "It was excellent."

He said the fire was brought under control at about 8:20 p.m.

Coralville Mayor Michael Kattchee also lauded the help given by the other fire departments.

"This is mutual aid at work," Kattchee said. "You always hope you never need it."

KINSINGER SAID it was too early to tell how much damage

Flames engulfed the Abbey Inn, Coralville, Sunday afternoon, causing damage estimated at several million dollars. Firefighters and police barricaded the area to keep onlookers away from the danger.

the motel sustained. "At this time it's really hard to say," he said. "I'd be afraid to say."

Kattchee said the Abbey is worth "several" million dollars.

"This was a very nice property in everyone's opinion," Kattchee said. "It's a supreme property."

The motel is owned by Heritage Systems of Coralville, which also owns several other establishments in Coralville including The Abbey Retreat, The Greenbriar Restaurant & Bar and the Cantebury Inn.

Harry Russell, a maintenance man at the Rodeway Inn in Coralville, said the loss of the Abbey Inn will greatly affect the hotel-motel business in the area.

"THERE WILL BE a lot more business to divide up," Russell said. "We have the largest motel, with 163 rooms, and their's is second. I believe they have about 100 (rooms). It pulled in quite a bit of business."

Melvin Masbruch, a resident of Coralville since 1961, said the loss was not as great to the Coralville hotel-motel business as to the owners and employees of the Abbey Inn.

"It certainly is a disaster," he said.

Witnesses express reaction to inferno

Witnesses said they believe Sunday's fire that ravaged the Abbey Inn in Coralville could have been less damaging if more firefighters had been called to the scene earlier.

Several witnesses said two Coralville fire trucks arrived shortly after 3 p.m. when only smoke was visible, but other trucks didn't arrive until the fire was already out of control.

Larye Schevers, an employee at The Greenbriar Restaurant & Bar, adjacent to the Abbey, said she was concerned firefighters didn't do enough to stop the rapid spread of the blaze.

"I'm just sick about this," Schevers said.

But Bob McBurney, an employee at the Union 76 station located across Highway 6 from the motel, said nobody could have anticipated the fire would eventually destroy the entire building.

"IT DIDN'T LOOK that bad when it first started," he said. "It was just a lot worse than they ever could have thought it could be."

Firefighters from 9 nearby towns were called to assist the Coralville Fire Department. Additional fire engines began arriving at the scene about 15 to 30 minutes after the Coralville forces, witnesses said.

"They probably should have (employed more trucks)," Iowa City resident Pat Miller said. "More fire trucks earlier could have helped keep the fire from spreading the way it did. When I first got there, there was smoke pouring out of the middle part of the building."

The blaze was contained at approximately 8:20 p.m.

Jeff Swehla, a UI student employed as a bartender at the Abbey and The Greenbriar Restaurant & Bar, located in front of the motel, said he saw smoke coming from the building at 3 p.m. when he arrived for work.

"AS FAR AS I know everybody was evacuated and there were no injuries," Swehla said. "I heard that it was possibly an electrical fire from the bathroom in the basement."

A Coralville police officer confirmed no one was injured or trapped in the building.

Smoke could be seen from as far as 10 miles away while flames and debris shot up more than 100 feet above the motel.

"This is the worst fire I've seen since the old (UI) Chemistry building burned down in — I think it was 1953," said Bud Sueppel, owner Sueppel's Flowers Inc., 1705 1st Ave. Sueppel said he was unable to deliver a package because traffic was blocked off surrounding the motel.

American captured near Managua

Tony Hall

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — A man believed to be the brother of an American congressman was arrested for spying by Nicaraguan authorities Saturday. U.S. officials, however, are still waiting for confirmation of the man's identity and proof of the charges.

Following Managua's Saturday announcement of the arrest, reports surfaced that the man was the brother of U.S. Rep. Tony Hall, D-Ohio, whose spokesman said Sunday, "Based on the information we have and the news reports we've seen, it's likely it's his brother."

The man, identified as Sam Hall, was arrested by the army Friday in a restricted area of the Punta Huete air base about 12 miles north of Managua, Foreign Minister Miguel d'Escoto said Saturday night.

D'ESCOTO SAID HALL admitted he was working for a private U.S. espionage company that was "collecting information for the U.S. government."

A statement from the Interior Ministry in Managua restated d'Escoto's assertion. A passport confiscated from the suspect contained visas for travel to Israel, South Africa and El Salvador.

A U.S. government source in Washington said the information released by the Nicaraguan Embassy about Hall's passport "sounds very right. I know for a fact he's been in Israel and he said he's been in Angola."

A U.S. official said it was unlikely that Hall happened to wind up near the base, which is not near major roads or towns, by accident.

THE UNITED STATES has charged that runways at the base are being lengthened to accommodate Soviet-built military aircraft.

Hall, who won a silver medal for diving in the 1960 Olympics, was active in raising money and medical assistance for the Miskito Indians along the Honduras-Nicaragua border, a group the Sandinistas have forced out of Nicaragua.

In March 1985, Hall sent letters to friends seeking help for the Indians. The letter was signed by Hall, who listed himself as "Major Sam Hall, guerrilla commander, Miskito Indians of Central America."

Hall, in a November interview with radio station WPLP in St. Petersburg, Fla., commented on the need to cover up some U.S. activities in foreign countries and spoke of President Ronald Reagan's involvement in the Iran-Contra arms scandal.

"THE UNFORTUNATE thing is he got caught," Hall told the radio station. "The people out there with their heads in the sand have to realize these things go on all the time."

"If I was killed in a foreign

Coralville man charged with assault

A Coralville man arrested for throwing another man into a window and onto a concrete sidewalk in downtown Iowa City made his initial appearance Friday in Johnson County District Court.

Richard V. O'Leary, 25, was charged by Iowa City police early Thursday in the 100 block of South Clinton Street with assault, disorderly conduct, and public intoxication.

O'Leary allegedly attacked the man causing several injuries, including a cut to the forehead, abrasions and swelling in the mouth area, court records state.

O'Leary was released on his own recognizance. His preliminary hearing is scheduled for Dec. 30.

Hours slated for city recreation center

The Iowa City Parks and Recreation Department announced its temporary schedule of operation for the Robert A. Lee Community Recreation Center for Dec. 22 until Jan. 11.

The adjusted holiday schedule will affect hours the public swimming pool, lap pool, gymnasium and game rooms can be used, as well as the facility's office hours.

Beginning Dec. 22, the weekday hours for the swimming pool will be 1 to 4 p.m. and 7:15 to 8:30 p.m. Saturday hours will be 1 to 5 p.m. and 8 to 9 p.m.; Sunday hours will be 1 to 5 p.m.

The lap pool will be available Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 6:45 to 9 a.m. and 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. On Tuesdays and Thursdays, the lap pool will be open from 6:30 to 9:30 a.m.

On Saturdays, the lap pool will be available from 6:45 to 9 a.m., over the noon hour and 5 to 6 p.m. On Sundays, the lap pool will be open from 5 to 8 p.m.

Senior citizens' swim hour is from 9 to 10 a.m. Family swim hours are Saturdays from 6 to 9 p.m. and Sundays from 6 to 8 p.m.

The gym and game rooms will be open for adults from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 to 9 p.m. on weekdays. Those areas will be open for youths, first through eighth grades, from 1 to 5 p.m.

On weekends, anyone may use the gym and game rooms from noon to 10 p.m. on Saturday and 1 to 9 p.m. on Sunday.

All facilities will be closed at 5 p.m. on Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve, and will remain closed on Christmas and New Year's Day.

Police will begin night rounds at airport

Iowa City Police are expected to schedule night patrols at the Iowa City Municipal Airport due to late-night vandalism on the airport's runways, according to Airport Manager Fred Zehr.

Zehr told members of the Iowa City Airport Commission in November that runway lights, fixtures and markers have been stolen and broken during the night hours when airport staffers are not present.

Zehr is looking into the possibility of installing a security system, and the feasibility of a security gate, but until such precautions are put into place, police will step up patrol at the airport and taxi unauthorized vehicles off the grounds.

Iowa City posts new no parking signs

In order to facilitate movement for large city vehicles including sanitation trucks, buses and snow plows, city officials have posted "No Parking Anytime" signs at three new locations this month.

To add to the list of possible tow zones, parking on Roberts Road from the intersection of Westwinds Drive will be prohibited. Also, Southgate Avenue from Waterfront Drive to Keokuk Street, and Keokuk Street between Southgate and Sandusky Avenues will become tow-away zones.

An Iowa City police spokeswoman said parking in a no-parking area carries a $5 fine and the possibility of the auto being towed away if it blocks the path of a city vehicle.

Firefighters urge safety during holidays

The holidays are an especially important time for thinking about safety, according to Iowa City Fire Department officials.

"Christmas trees and candles do not mix," according to Iowa City firefighters, warning people from decorating trees with lighted candles.

"People are using space heaters, decorations are being put up for the holidays. There are more chances for fires to occur," the department warns.

Firefighters suggest people install smoke detectors as an inexpensive way to protect lives in the event of a fire.

According to the National Fire Protection Association, residential loss of life during fires could be decreased by 40 percent if homes were equipped with smoke detectors.

Public library receives challenge grant

By Bruce Japsen
City Editor

The Iowa City Public Library is one of only two public libraries in the nation to receive a challenge grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Iowa City Public Library Director Lolly Eggers said a $125,000 challenge grant was awarded last week by NEH to help the library purchase materials for humanities purposes, including book purchases.

"Most of the awards usually go to college libraries," said Pat Forsythe, Iowa City Public Library Foundation executive director.

"We spent six months gathering information on our proposal to (NEH) to justify the idea of a public library as a humanities organization," Forsythe said. "We proved that our library is beyond that of the traditional public library. The entire community has access to our library."

ONLY 41 INSTITUTIONS in 22 states received challenge grants this year from NEH. Eggers said NEH in each of the past two years has given one challenge grant to a public library to build collections and one for restoration of a building.

Forsythe said the public library in Providence, R.I., was the only other public library awarded an NEH grant.

"Their's was for renovation of a historic building," Forsythe said. "We're also in a much smaller city than they are, which makes our grant so unique. It's also very unusual because we got our grant after applying a first time."

The challenge grant must be matched with $375,000 in private funds raised by the Iowa City Public Library Foundation, Eggers said.

"THIS MONEY will be a big help to us in the long run," Eggers said. "We will not be able to use the money all at once because it is an endowment." She said the money will be used for humanities purchases and cannot be used to cure the library's other budget woes, which may necessitate a reduction in staff.

"The money will go into an endowment fund and we will earn $35,000 to $40,000 interest income from it," Eggers said. "We have to match $3 locally for every $1 they gave us."

The library is already working to raise the money through the $1 million Centennial Endowment Fund. Eggers said $200,000 of the match has been raised already and the library has until 1990 to raise the additional $175,000.

Insurance clash may stall pool project

By Carlos M. Trevino
Staff Writer

Although Iowa City councilors and Iowa City School Board members have edged closer to signing an agreement to build a $3.25 million indoor swimming facility, disagreement remains concerning funds for the pool's liability insurance.

That difference may split the council and cause a stumbling block for the project, according to Mayor William Ambrisco, who believes that despite the possible conflict "we can work things out."

The city and the school district are joining resources to build the Olympic-size indoor pool at Mercer Park. School board members finalized similar plans with the City of Coralville about two weeks ago.

BOARD MEMBERS HAVE agreed to pay $500,000 of the construction costs, plus a minimum of 30 percent of the cost for a pool supervisor, maintenance workers, property insurance and office supplies.

But Iowa City School Board

President Randall Jordison said the school district's insurance would cover students using the facility and further liability insurance would be unnecessary.

Some councilors believe the school board is attempting to negotiate as many shared costs as possible.

"They've been trying to weasel out of a lot of things," Councilor Ernest Zuber said. "If they don't want to live up to their end of it, then I don't even want to talk to the school board."

BUT AMBRISCO SAID councilors will be talking about the agreement during their informal meeting today.

"I'd like our (legal) staff to look it over," Ambrisco said. A special meeting will probably be held in late December or early next year to take a vote on the school board proposal.

Ambrisco did say he was surprised that Councilor Darrel

Courtney was not kept up to date on specifics of the board's proposal because, "he is our representative in this ... you would think they would want a meeting of the minds before making any decisions, wouldn't you?"

Courtney said he does not know exactly what the board's proposal involves.

"I know we're not going to vote on anything this week," Courtney said. "It came in too late to get anything through this week, but hopefully we can get through the major points this week."

Courtney said the two governing bodies "are getting closer than ever" to making an indoor city pool a reality.

"This has gone from a $2 million project to a $3.25 million project," Ambrisco said. "But the people of the community are going to benefit from this, and I don't see any major stumbling blocks."

Residents of the apartment building, located at 443 S. Johnson St., called in several noise complaints to the Iowa City Police Department and stated the would-be Santa was on top of their building in search of a chimney shoot.

Residents also told police they had seen "Santa" come from a party in their building and they suspected that he was intoxicated.

"Santa" was reportedly down from the building when officers arrived.

Officers were unable to locate the would-be Santa and no charges or arrests were made.

Bradley A. English, 25, of 1420 Ridge St., was also charged with possession of a schedule I controlled substance and having an open container in his vehicle.

Officers arrested English while he was sitting in his pickup, reports state.

Theft Report: Almost $200 was stolen last month from a local office, according to Iowa City police reports. Darrell Yearney, no address listed, reported Saturday that the office of the United Ministries for Higher Education, 707 Melrose Ave., was broken into Nov. 23 but no report was filed at that time.

Yearney told Iowa City police $182 was taken from two desks and a file cabinet. Reports stated Sunday there were no suspects or witnesses.

Theft Report: A $250 bicycle was stolen from an Iowa City residence Saturday, according to Iowa City police reports.

Maytag million aids writers

By Shawn Plank
Staff Writer

The UI Writers' Workshop received a $1 million gift Friday from the Maytag Corp. of Newton, Iowa, to support graduate fellowships in fiction and poetry writing.

UI President James O. Freedman said, "This gift will offer the nation's most talented young writers the opportunity to attend the Iowa Writers' Workshop and to fulfill their own responsibility in coming generations, as Hemingway and his contemporaries did in theirs, to write as truly as they can."

The grant, part of the UI Foundation's Iowa Endowment 2000 fund-raising campaign, is the first corporate gift presented by the new Maytag Corp., which was formed after a merger with Magic Chef Inc. of Cleveland, Tenn., in May 1986.

MAYTAG CORP. Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Daniel J. Krumm, who presented the gift, said the workshop finds itself battling against younger writing programs. The UI program, formed in 1936, was the first of its kind in the nation.

"The Iowa Writers' Workshop is now competing with its own children and often losing out to them because of limited ability to offer fellowships," Krumm said. "We hope to give Iowa the extra edge it needs to keep the Iowa Writers' Workshop the leader in the field of creative writing."

He added that it was a difficult decision to know which UI program would receive the money.

"The workshop is absolutely unique in the nation," he said. "It's important to keep that uniqueness here in Iowa."

A 1950 graduate from the UI College of Business Administration, Krumm joined the Maytag Co. in 1952. He assumed his present position following the merger in May.

Krumm also sits on the UI Foundation Board of Directors and is a member of the Iowa Endowment 2000 campaign steering committee.

THE GRANT WILL be used to endow 10 graduate fellowships, five in fiction writing and five in poetry writing, over a 10-year period beginning in either 1987 or 1988, UI Foundation President Darrell D. Wyrick said.

Maytag will pay the UI Foundation 10 yearly installments of $100,000 beginning in 1987. The money will be invested and the returns on the investments will be paid to recipients of the fellowships, UI Writers' Workshop Director Jack Leggett said.

The funds may total $7,500 a year, depending on the economy, and would help the student meet any necessary expenses, he said.

"The writer might be able to support a wife and buy a cat, or she might be able to support a husband and buy a dog," Leggett said.

LEGGETT ADDED the timing of the announcement seemed appropriate.

"This is a Christmas gift," he said. "I've been writing Santa Claus at the North Pole for the last 15 or 16 years asking him for a gift. This is gratifying to me for my 17 years here to be capped by this wonderful conclusion and this wonderful gift."

Leggett is retiring as director of the program in August and will be replaced by novelist and short story writer Frank Conroy.

The Maytag endowment is the fifth major gift in the Iowa Endowment 2000 fund-raising campaign, Wyrick said. Other gifts have supported the UI Center for Asian and Pacific Studies and have provided endowed professorships in the UI Writers' Workshop and the UI College of Liberal Arts.

Former UI Ironman Hawkins dies at 72

By Mary Boone
Editor

and United Press International

Max Hawkins, one of the UI's best-liked figures for nearly half a century, died at his home Friday following a heart attack. He was 72.

A native of Philadelphia, Miss., Hawkins first achieved public recognition as one of the Ironmen, a group of Hawkeye football team members who played nearly the full 60 minutes of each game of the historic 1939 season.

By the time he retired as UI director of state relations in 1981, Hawkins had for some years been recognized as the dean of Statehouse lobbyists, having served the state Board of Regents and its five institutions in that capacity for 30 years.

"Max Hawkins was as effective as any legislator the state legislature has ever seen," UI President James O. Freedman said. "The loss of Max Hawkins is a very great cause of sorrow."

DIRECTOR OF UI Hospitals John Colleton said Hawkins was one of the "premier contributors to a better University of Iowa over the past four decades. He was a splendid human being with implicit integrity."

UI Vice President for Student Services Philip Hubbard knew Hawkins since his days as a student at the UI. Hubbard's roommate, Jim Walker, played football with Hawkins.

"Max was a real gentleman—a gentle Ironman," Hubbard said. "He was a nice, friendly man who was well-known and well liked in Des Moines and throughout the state."

Before enrolling at the UI as a 23-year-old freshman in 1937, Hawkins served four years in the U.S. Navy following graduation from high school. He earned a bachelor's degree in geology in 1941, then returned to the Navy for World War II service, rising to the rank of lieutenant commander.

RETURNING TO Iowa City following his naval service, he was employed from 1946-48 as a real estate agent, during which time he also was elected to a two-year term on the Iowa City Council. In 1948 he became field secretary for the UI Alumni Association.

Hawkins retired from full-time efforts for the UI in 1981, but continued to assist his successors part-time for several years thereafter.

One of his long-standing efforts on behalf of UI capital projects was seeking a legislative appropriation to develop a new approach from U.S. highways 6 and 218 into the west side of the UI campus, where major athletic facilities are located.

"MAX HAD A MAGIC to his personality that made people want to listen to him. He was always beaming," Freedman said. "He also had a remarkable understanding of the legislative system. He will be sorely missed by all."

Colleton echoed Freedman's sentiments. "This is a great loss to the UI and the state of Iowa. Our heartfelt sympathies go out to Mrs. Hawkins and the entire Hawkins family."

There will be visitation at Donahue-Lensing Mortuary in Iowa City from 4 to 8 p.m. today and a memorial mass at St. Mary's Catholic Church at 11 a.m. Tuesday. Memorials should be made to the UI Foundation or the Regina Foundation.

Library laurels

When the Iowa City Public Library was awarded a $175,000 challenge grant by the National Endowment for the Humanities last week, local supporters of the library couldn't have been happier.

The NEH gave the money to the public library because it is a true humanities institution in Iowa City.

NEH grants traditionally are awarded to college libraries, but this case was different. The NEH realized the Iowa City Public Library's importance to both the community and to the UI.

Only 41 institutions in 22 states received challenge grants from the NEH this year. The library's NEH grant was the only one given in Iowa and one of only two given to a public library in the nation.

The challenge grant must be matched with $375,000 in private funds raised by the Iowa City Public Library Foundation. In turn, the funds will generate about $40,000 annually toward humanities purchases such as books and other necessary materials for a quality public library.

But the money raised by the NEH grant will not cure already existing library woes.

Beginning March 1, the library will be closed Thursday evenings and all day Friday because of staff shortages.

The library's Board of Trustees is seeking funds to hire two full-time and one half-time staff members to prevent the library from cutting back its hours open to the public.

Trustees say a tax levy is one alternative.

Maybe it is necessary, because it appears obvious that a national organization such as the NEH knows the value of a public library to the community. But the NEH grant cannot be used to help stop staff reductions and decreases in hours.

Iowa City's governmental and community leaders should not see the NEH grant as a cure for the library's problems.

They should instead take note of the library's importance to the community, and give it the financial support it deserves.

Community services

Every Sunday morning, television stations across eastern Iowa, indeed the nation, attempt to convince themselves, the public and the Federal Communications Commission that they are providing a service by televising religious programming. In fact, they are serving as accomplices to religious hucksters who take advantage of the old, the lonely and the shut-in.

Like those half-hour hair care, diet aid and making-money-in-real-estate commercials, the hucksters buy time from the stations and attempt to seduce the gullible into parting with money they can ill afford to lose. The Jimmy Swaggarts, D. James Kennedys, Jerry Falwells and Oral Roberts live comfortably on the contributions of the poor and vulnerable.

Television stations sell them the time to prey and then congratulate themselves on their public service. But if they really wished to perform a public service, they would instead contact a variety of local clergy — Roman Catholic, various mainstream Protestant and fundamentalist — and broadcast services from local churches.

After all, church provides two functions. It allows individuals to join together in community to worship, and it provides a community support and fellowship group. Those national programs are essentially money-raising ventures which provide no community support for the old and the shut-in.

The broadcast of local services would serve to connect those for whom travel is difficult to the community where they live. It would allow them to participate to some degree in the religious and social life of their community and it would let local individuals know who needs help. Also, it would keep contributions in the community where the proper use of such funds can be better ensured and the fruits of the giving can be enjoyed locally.

If television station owners and managers really care about their communities, they will cease putting money over the welfare of the people they supposedly serve, and provide a chance at real community closeness by broadcasting church services from local churches rather than the national hucksters.

Getting away from it all in Nicaragua

By Tom Fate

Digressions

canoes and lean, lost dogs. How could they have Christmas?

The funny thing was that I'd gone to Nicaragua not only to learn, but because I had the idea that I had something to give — to the Nicaraguan people, to North Americans when I returned, to somebody. But at that point I couldn't give a thing. I was too concerned with Christmas.

I had only been on the cooperative about half an hour and I was already beginning to wonder about my rationale for coming. All my friends had told me there were plenty of politics and poor people in the United States, too. Why did I need to go to Nicaragua? What was I trying to prove? Why didn't I save the money for the airfare and donate it to the poor? Right then, sitting there with the moon, eating my banana, those seemed like pretty good questions.

I HAD FINALLY decided to wade into the darkness and try to find my house when I saw a light approaching.

"Hola," I said, and walked toward the low voice. A few more steps and I could see it was a young man. He had a coughing baby in his right arm and a bottle light (a kerosene-soaked rag stuffed in a pop bottle) in his left hand. He was smiling and seemed excited. He explained that he was Eriberto and that I would be staying with him and his family for my week and a half on the cooperative.

We weaved down a path, through shoulder-high weeds, the baby coughing and choking all the way. I couldn't figure out what was wrong. A couple of times it choked for several seconds and Eriberto stopped walking to pat its back. But he never said a word.

After about 10 minutes we arrived at his home — a small, rusted metal and wooden shack. His wife, Santo, was waiting for me with a plate (palm leaf) full of fried plantain with rice and tomatoes. I ate quickly and collapsed in the hammock they had hung for me.

Eriberto and Santo said "Feliz Navidad" (Merry Christmas) and disappeared with their son behind the divider that separated the room. I later discovered that Eriberto, Santo and their five children were all sleeping on the other side of the divider in a space smaller than mine — about six feet by 12 feet.

I AWOKE IN a cloud of smoke. Santo was cooking, and I was hanging in the middle of the kitchen, only a few feet from the fire! Noticing my movement, she smiled, and then brought some hard sweet biscuits that she had made especially for Christmas, and a red plastic glass full of "cafe con leche" (hot milk with a little instant coffee and too much sugar stirred in).

I was thinking about what I'd be doing just then if I were back in the states. Wake up to the news on my digital alarm, get up and start my Mr. Coffee and the shower, shave with my Norelco, get the paper off the door, decide on a flavor of cereal and jam, etc., etc. But since it was Christmas day, I probably wouldn't eat breakfast, so I could really stuff myself at dinner.

Then I got to thinking about all the technological conveniences I had, about the independence this allowed. My world seemed so much more predictable and efficient. But, here on the cooperative, you had to depend on people, because there just wasn't anything else. No clocks or TVs or refrigerators or cars or washing machines, not even electricity or running water.

It kind of reminded me of camping. I had been backpacking before and gone without electricity and running water for several days, but this was different. We weren't trying to "get back to nature" or "get away from it all" because there was no "all" to leave or return to. There was no "all" to depend on. There were only people.

So, I'd tried to bring some of the "all" with me from the civilized world, to help these poor, backward campesinos. I'd brought this modern technology in the form of shovels, leather gloves, pencils and notebooks and aspirin. These limited, finite gifts were all I was capable of giving. They were very different from what Eriberto and his family had given me. Because it was the very absence of the "all" that helped me to better understand what giving could mean.

Digressions are comments from Daily Iowan staff members. Tom Fate is a DI editorial writer who spent Christmas 1985 on a farming cooperative in northern Nicaragua.

OTHER THAN a few dim lights off in the fields, and an occasional unsettled rooster, it was dark and still when Manuel and I finally found the Hilario San Chez Farming Cooperative. It was Christmas Eve, and Manuel wanted to get back to his family in Managua, about a 3 hour drive away.

So, he dropped me in front of the old school (a barn) and pointed me in the direction of the house where he thought I was supposed to stay. I thanked him, pulled out my backpack and watched the lights of his landrover bounce away over the rutted dirt road.

I sat down on a stump in front of the school. It didn't seem like Christmas Eve. It was only 9:45 p.m. — why was it so quiet? Where were the children? I was prepared for no snow or strings of colored lights or living rooms full of carefully wrapped presents and Better Homes and Garden hor d'ouevres; but didn't they celebrate at all? They must do something. They must have something they can give each other.

Later, I discovered they did have something to give; it just took me a long time to recognize their "gifts." They weren't wrapped carefully or colorfully enough. I didn't see the gift in the children's black hungry eyes, or in the parents' determined, hopeful sweat.

I HAD WANTED, that is, a direct equivalent to affluent American "same as cash," "never needs batteries," "beats as it sweeps" gifts. But there were none. There was nothing but cotton fields, vol-

Court ruling threatens public education

By Timothy Dyk

IN TENNESSEE recently a federal judge said parents have the right to opt their children out of parts of the public school curriculum that offend their beliefs. That decision, if sustained on appeal, will profoundly affect the future course of American public education.

In Mozert v. Hawkins County, fundamentalists sued local school officials, claiming the standard reading textbooks selected by the schools were contrary to the parents' religious beliefs and requiring their children to use these books violated their constitutional rights.

The press had reported, accurately, that the fundamentalists object to a wide variety of classic children's literature including The Wizard of Oz and The Diary of Anne Frank. The focus on these particular objections has obscured the far more important underlying issues.

The real point is that the fundamentalists object to the philosophy of public education that is embodied in these books and reflected in accepted methods of teaching reading, as well as other subjects.

Guest Opinion

THE PARENTS FIND unsatisfactory the treatment of a variety of controversial issues. These include disarmament, gun control, one world government, the role of women in society and criticism of the U.S. government, the free enterprise system, law enforcement officials and the military.

The plaintiffs sincerely believe these issues are religious and their religion dictates the answers to these questions. They object to their children being presented with views that are different from their own. They want only books and discussion that are consistent with their religious views.

The Supreme Court held in 1925 that parents who object to public schooling for their children have a right to send those children to an approved private or religious school. But school officials maintain that parents do not have the right to pick and choose those parts of the public school curriculum that they find acceptable.

They point to the impracticability of periodically excusing students from class when objectionable material is read or discussed. They urge that this disruption to the schools can only be avoided by offering lowest common denominator education — education that offends no one in the school system. The trial court rejected this view, finding that the plaintiffs have the constitutional right to opt out of selected portions of the school curriculum and to sit silently in the school library or cafeteria.

THE OPINION STATES that the specific decision is a narrow one applicable only to these parents. However, if these parents are successful, sincerely motivated parents anywhere in the nation would have the right to selectively participate in the public schools' curriculum.

The particular Protestant fundamentalists involved in this case are not alone in seeing religious implications in public school teaching. There are hundreds of other religious denominations in the country, many of which have religious views on a wide variety of issues that are dealt with in the public schools.

The system of public education in this country was founded on a desire to create a common educational experience for the wave of immigrants which came to this country in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Public education not only taught immigrant students to read and write the English language, it educated them about the political life of the United States, exposed them to individuals with different heritages and exposed the existing American population to the diverse viewpoints of its new arrivals.

Today public education is more concerned with of religious and cultural values than with diverse national origins. But the goals are still the same. The system still rests on a commitment to create politically aware, thoughtful and responsible citizens and to instill tolerance for diversity by exposing students to a wide variety of views. It is these objectives that will be undermined if the plaintiffs in this lawsuit are successful.

The fight in Tennessee is between those who wish to keep diversity in public education and those who object to it. The loss of the existing system would be a loss to all Americans.

You have to understand there cannot be political embarrassment." A Nicaraguan Foreign Ministry spokesman said Hall, who once served in the U.S. Army, was being detained in Managua — the second American captured in Nicaragua this year.

Former Marine Eugene Hasenfus, who admitted he was running guns and supplies to U.S.-backed Contra rebels, was captured Oct. 6 after his plane was shot down. He was sentenced to 30 years in jail.

A SPOKESMAN FOR the U.S.

Kinsinger said the blaze was under control by 8:20 p.m. and no serious injuries from the blaze were reported. "One guy got banged up falling on the ice," Kinsinger said, referring to a firefighter.

No dollar estimate of damage to the motel could be made by Kinsinger at press time.

"The state fire marshal has been called," said a spokesperson with the sheriff's office. "Something this large is always a problem."

Several women from Grace Fellowship Church in Coralville were in the Crown Room in the basement of the motel decorating for their church Christmas party when the fire began.

"It smelled like an electrical cord burning or something," said church member Jan Patterson of Kalona, Iowa.

"We told the motel desk of the smoke," said Twyla Humpleby of Coralville. "We got out of there, when the hallway filled up with smoke."

The women said the church sound system, valued at $15,000 and a room filled with Christmas decorations had to be left behind.

said the charred structure may cause problems for the city because it creates an unattractive entrance to Coralville on U.S. Highway 6.

Reconstruction should begin soon, Kattchee said, adding that the city will be assisting hotel managers and owners in the aftermath of the blaze.

"We'll do what we can to help them," he said.

Embassy said it was informed of the Friday detention but did not know anything about the man or his activities.

"We have asked for access to him, so far it has not been granted," said Al Laun, the public affairs officer at the U.S. Embassy. "We have no independent information on him."

Congressman Hall said Sunday he had received no official word that the man arrested was his brother.

But his spokesman, Michael Gessel, told United Press International that "Based on the information we have and the news reports we've seen it's likely it's his brother."

"Congressman Hall has known he has been in the region in the past. He was very surprised (at the news). He thought he was in the United States at the time."

THE CONGRESSMAN SAID: "I hope to discuss this soon with State Department officials before taking any action. I do not share the same views on U.S. policy in Central America as my brother but I love him and pray for his safety."

D'Escoto said maps and sketches of the airbase and "diverse objects of Nicaraguan military interest" were found on Hall. The passport Hall was carrying had entrance visa stamps from Israel, South Africa and El Salvador "among other countries," d'Escoto said.

UI tuba players provide fun, frolic

By Michelle Tibodeau
Staff Writer

The final day of classes meant one thing for Iowa City tuba players: Collegium Tubum.

For 12 years now, tuba players have gathered at the Pentacrest to perform Christmas carols and "fun" Christmas music on the fall semester's last day. Friday, about 14 tuba players entertained more than 50 people in front of the Old Capitol from 12:30 to 1 p.m.

"It's just kind of tuba fun and frolic for everyone," said Collegium Tubum conductor Robert Yeats. "It gets people thinking of tubas as something other than 'oompa' music."

BUT THE GROUP of tubas and euphoniums (small tubas) didn't just sit around playing Christmas tunes.

"I put tinsel all over my horn and a couple of Christmas ornaments and bows and ribbons," said Andy Mast, a tuba player in the UI School of Music.

Yeats wore a santa suit he bought last year and others dressed in elf hats and green scarfs.

Mark Fiagle, a former UI music major, began playing

Lisa Niemann, Steve Truckenbrod and Brent Johnson play on the steps of the Old Capitol Friday afternoon in the annual Collegium Tubum. Despite the cold weather, which caused valves on their instruments to stick, the musicians serenaded passersby with half an hour of Christmas carols.

with the group when he was a student. According to Fiagle, "(Participants) are generally music majors and any past students that are invited back."

"It's fun to see the reactions on people's faces when they see tubas and euphoniums playing melody," Fiagle said.

ALTHOUGH THE weather wasn't as cold as it was last year when players endured sub-zero temperatures, the group had to play in shifts toward the end of the performance. "Everybody's valves froze up at once. There was a lot of running back and forth trying to keep the troops fresh," Mast said. "I was in and out of the Old Capitol trying to keep my horn warm."

Mast said the music is essentially the same every year. This includes the usual Christmas carols like "Silent Night," as well as special songs.

The theme from the cartoon "Underdog" is one of the group's unusual tunes; it is its theme song. "When we started this group we felt like the underdogs of the music department," Yeats said.

The "Alvin and the Chipmunks" theme is another song the tuba players performed.

"Yeats introduced it as being one of our big standbys. They (the crowd) liked it. They thought it was funny," Mast said.

"They're both hokey little songs that we've made into arrangements for tubas. They sound weird but that's what tubas are all about," Mast said.

Helicopters boost hospital services

By Joseph Levy
Staff Writer

UI Hospitals' Emergency Services is literally seeking to go "above and beyond" other hospitals' level of patient transportation.

Two emergency ambulatory helicopters make UI Hospitals unique, Assistant Director of Emergency Medical Education and Transportation Doug York said.

An alternative to lengthy ambulance trips, the UI Air Mobile Critical Care Service is a shot in the arm to UI patient transportation, making quick ambulatory service for critical patients a reality.

York said the helicopters can fly anywhere within a 180-mile radius of Iowa City, but their range can be enhanced by transferring patients from an airplane to a helicopter.

"We've gone to places like Oklahoma City, Kansas and Chicago," he said. "We've been trying to keep them busy."

MOST CALLS for a helicopter come from other hospitals wishing to transfer a patient in critical condition to UI Hospitals, but York said about 15 percent of the calls originate from accident locations.

At least one of the five pilots in the program said these flights often present the most challenges.

"Your worst hazard is wires," pilot Mal Symons said, citing other objects such as tree stumps and poles as potential problems. "You take your time and you know what you're looking for. You're always on the lookout for those kinds of things."

But Symons said weather is the biggest factor in helicopter flights.

"It all depends on the time of the year," he said. "In the winter you hardly fly at all because of the weather."

Symons explained the decision about whether it's safe to fly is made by the pilots.

"IF THERE'S a chance that weather can be a factor, then we check it very closely," he said. "We do not like to push weather here, and the hospital backs us 100 percent."

Symons said wind is not as much of a factor as visibility and cloud ceilings, but added some wind actually helps a pilot.

"The wind is your best friend," he said, explaining that wind actually improves a helicopter's lift. But very high winds can present problems, he added. "After it reaches a certain limit, then it becomes dangerous."

High winds can make landing on the roof of UI Hospitals a little turbulent, but Symons said he has never really had any problems.

"It may be a less than smooth, perfect landing, but it never seemed to interfere in any of the flights I've ever had," he said.

Non-rally brings dissenting opinions

By Monica Seigel
Staff Writer

Some UI student senators said Sunday they disapprove of today's senate-sponsored "non-rally for no tuition increases."

The senate planned the Pentacrest non-rally to protest the state Board of Regents' scheduling their tuition meeting during final examination week.

Students First presidential candidate Sen. Jim Rieks said the senate should be trying to work with the regents rather than against them.

"In the past, we haven't been working with the regents," Rieks said. "If we worked with them, maybe they wouldn't hold their meeting during finals week."

RIEKS ALSO SAID the senate should have taken action earlier, when it could have better influenced the regents.

"The Parents Council should have been put to use at the very beginning of the year," he said. "They could have been a strong lobbying force."

Sen. Mike Gainer agreed, saying the Parents Council, an outreach council instituted as a lobbying vehicle by the senate last year, represents the "heart of the voting percentage" and should have been used.

"There is a lot the senate could have done before now to influence the regents," Gainer said. "The main reason things didn't get done is because of the lack of leadership on the senate."

Gainer added he doesn't think the non-rally will have much effect on the regent's tuition decision.

"FIRST OF ALL, it's really gimmicky," Gainer said. "Secondly, when students want to present a voice about something they should be credible. The non-rally is a non-credible response. It won't make a mature person think about his decision. It's like something you'd do in high school." Gainer said he is working with the Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic Association Council and Associated Residence Halls on a petition and a tape of speeches to be presented at the regents meeting.

"There is a big difference between sitting at the university and putting about tuition, and taking some action," Gainer said. "After the non-rally, the senate is just going to say, 'See, they didn't listen to us anyway.'"

SENATE PRESIDENT Joe Hansen defended the non-rally, saying its primary responsibility is to inform students that the regents are going to be deciding on the tuition increases during finals week.

"What we're trying to do is let the students know about what is going on," Hansen said. "We want to let them know what a shame it is that it's going on during finals week. We're not necessarily trying to influence the regents — though that's what we're hoping a long-term effect will be — but we're trying to get grassroots support."

"The non-rally is just one thing among many other things we've done to fight tuition increases," he added.

Hansen also said the Parents Council would not have been the right vehicle to use to influence the regents.

"THE PARENTS Council was formed as an instrument to influence elected officials. Regents are appointed, not elected, so they don't face re-election. They wouldn't be that influenced by the Parents Council," Hansen said. "They're the wrong vehicle to use. You're talking about using a bazooka to kill a hummingbird."

Hansen said he was especially angered by criticism about the non-rally from Rieks.

Hansen added that he remains confident that today's 12:30 p.m. non-rally will be successful.

MADD plan aims for safer holiday driving

By Stacy Rubin
Freelance Writer

Yes, 'tis the season to be jolly, but for many people "jolly" is more festive with alcoholic beverages.

To combat a holiday season full of alcoholic overindulgence and drunken driving — the leading cause of death for Americans between 16 and 24 years of age — Mothers Against Drunk Driving has developed a designated driver program.

The program, aimed at local bars, is an attempt to limit the number of drunken drivers on the road throughout the holiday season.

"We are asking the server to also take some responsibility and realize they are serving something that's altering the ability to make a sound judgment," says Dave Panther of MADD's designated driver program.

Participating establishments in the community will serve free non-alcoholic beverages to the "designated driver" of a group of at least three people.

COACHES CORNER Lounge in Coralville started a designated driver program last year to go along with its advertising against drinking and driving.

"Although we had to abandon some of our values to be competitive in the marketplace, we still advocate safe driving," Jim Burr, owner of Coaches Corner, said.

Burr also stressed that members of MADD aren't prohibitionists, they just want people to drive sensibly.

Dave Panther, president of the local MADD chapter, said he is trying to get other local establishments to create their own anti-drunken driving program that best fits their needs.

Panther said most bars are becoming more concerned about the condition patrons are leaving in because they're afraid of being sued.

"We're hoping that by displaying signs and making a city-wide campaign, we'll make more of an impact," he said.

set up programs to deal with those who might drink too much and then try to drive.

Todd Myers, manager of The Fieldhouse Bar, 111 E. College St., said the bar does not have a designated driver program but will stop selling alcohol to patrons who bartenders suspect may be drunk.

"My bartenders have all been here long enough to know when someone's had too much to drink. If someone gets out of hand, we'll ask them to leave and call a cab if they need one," Myers said.

CHUCK GOSS, owner of Old Capitol Cab Company, 336 S. Clinton St., said his drivers also take part in helping prevent drunken driving during the holiday season by providing free cab service for people who have had too much to drink on New Year's Eve.

Panther said some bar owners react by saying they are not forcing customers to drink.

"We are asking the server to also take some responsibility and realize they are serving something that's altering the ability to make a sound judgment," he said.

MADD is also asking people to tie a red ribbon to the left door handle of their car during the holiday season to remind others to not drink and drive.

Holiday spirit of giving lasts year-round for local resident

By Holly Wilkins
Freelance Writer

The spirit of Christmas isn't always found in the glitter, lights and festive parties.

An Iowa City man knows the spirit of giving, and he gives twice a week, year-round at the Iowa City Plasma Center, 318 E. Bloomington St.

Milton Corlett has given those needy of plasma about 46 gallons in the past five years, Billie Horton, a registered nurse and director of the Plasma Center, said.

In terms of lives, Horton estimates Corlett has saved more than 100.

"I can't do many things for other people," the 63-year-old Corlett said. "This is one thing that I am able to do for people and benefit from a little bit myself."

THE PLASMA CENTER pays $8 per donation, and donors may give plasma twice in a seven-day period. The second donation earns a bonus of $2.

"Plasma centers tend to get a bad reputation because we pay," Horton said, explaining that payment is in consideration of the time it takes to donate plasma, as opposed to donating blood.

"When you donate blood it takes less than one hour," Horton said. "All you have to do is pump out a bag and you are done. Our process takes much longer. If we didn't pay people to come in and give up their time, we would not be able to keep the supply up."

Horton said the donation process takes more time because it requires three steps. The donor goes through a physical screening before being allowed to donate. After the actual donation, the plasma is separated and retained by the center and the red, oxygen-carrying blood cells are replaced intravenously.

CORLETT SAID THE needles involved in plasma donation do not bother him in the least.

"I have had hundreds of them stuck in me and I don't care a bit," Corlett said. "Just so long as they continue to stick them in the right place I am happy. I wouldn't care to have them stuck in my head," he chuckled.

Corlett's wit and good nature make him popular among the Plasma Center's staff.

"He is hilarious," Doug Babcock, assistant director of the center, said. "I really enjoy his outlook on life, nothing seems to bother him."

The Daily Iowan/Carlos M. Trevino
Milton Corlett, 63, Iowa City, donates plasma at the Iowa City Plasma Center. For five years, Corlett has donated twice weekly and has given more than 46 gallons of plasma.

Horton said Corlett knows each and every employee by first name and is a very special part of the center.

"All the employees love him," Horton said. "He is just a delight and always has a smile for you."

EMPLOYEES HAVE endearingly nicknamed Corlett "Tiltin' Milton" because of the center's donating procedure.

When plasma is donated, the collection bag is on a weighted tip scale. When the bag is full, the donor yells "tilt" to alert one of the nurses that the scale has tipped.

The center's employees say they have heard Corlett holler "tilt" more than any other donor in the center's history.

The center has many devoted donors, but even with regular donations the supply is lacking, Horton said.

"Plasma donations are still not what we'd like them to be," Horton said. "We need to be having about 500 donations per week and right now we are only doing around 280."

Horton attributes the lack of donations to finals week and the end of the semester, since about 80 percent of the center's donors are students.

CORLETT SAID he enjoys the students and other interesting people he meets at the Plasma Center.

"Who knows, a Hollywood scout may even come discover me here," he grinned.

Corlett said he lets his mind wander during the two or more hours it takes to donate plasma.

"I think about the birds and the bees and whatever," he said. "Also, flirting with the pretty girls is a favorite way for me to pass the time."

Corlett, who Horton said is the most likely candidate for "Donor of the Year" at the center, said he really believes in what he is doing. He also expressed a wish that more people would join him in donating, especially this Christmas season.

"I don't know why more people don't give plasma," Corlett said. "People hesitate, thinking that they are giving a part of their life away, when really they are giving life to someone else."

NON-RALLY for NO TUITION INCREASE

DON'T SHOW UP!

A 12% increase for in-state and a 20% increase in out-of-state tuition has been proposed. This is happening simultaneously with devastating reductions in financial aid. Accessibility to higher education is being seriously thwarted.

The Board of Regents has decided to make this serious decision in the middle of finals week. You don't have time to protest this decision.

So show your disapproval by not showing up on the Pentacrest Monday the 15th at 12:30.

Arms witness dies in possible suicide

LOS ANGELES — A man identified as having a key role in the private network supplying arms to Nicaraguan rebels and sought as a witness in the scandal has died of a possible drug overdose, officials said Sunday.

Steven Carr collapsed outside a home in Van Nuys at 4 a.m. Saturday. His death was listed as a "possible drug overdose," police officer Rodney Manning said.

Carr died about 36 hours after he tried to reach an aide to Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., who several weeks ago began looking into the arms deal.

Carr's testimony would have focused on his participation in a supply mission on March 6, 1985, that began in Florida and involved unloading weapons at Iapongo Air Force Base in El Salvador.

German paper bares Soviet executions

BONN, West Germany — A dozen Soviet soldiers were executed for refusing to expose themselves to radioactivity by fighting fires at the Chernobyl reactor, a West German newspaper reported Sunday.

The newspaper Die Welt am Sonntag said the soldiers were shot because they refused to go to Chernobyl after the April 26 explosion and fire at the nuclear plant.

It attributed its report to unidentified Western intelligence agencies.

The newspaper said the Soviet army newspaper Red Star reported that volunteers had gone to help fight the fires. "Some of them refused to obey the order," the newspaper said. "Twelve were shot for disobeying orders."

The newspaper also said the helicopters that took part in fighting the fires are no longer in use, and added, "The crews have vanished without a trace."

30 presumed dead in boat collision

NEW DELHI, India — A motorboat carrying people to a picnic collided with an unmanned vessel and sank in the Arabian Sea off Bombay Sunday, leaving 30 missing and feared drowned, the Press Trust of India said.

Two passengers were rescued after a motorboat carrying picnickers to Elephanta Island, a popular tourist destination about 25 miles northwest of the western port city, hit an unmanned vessel and overturned, the news agency said.

The motorboat then sank some 50 feet away from shore in deep waters.

The domestic news agency said two people had been rescued by early afternoon and that both were unconscious. Police said they feared some 30 remaining passengers drowned in the incident, the agency said.

It said rescue operations were continuing but gave no further details.

ACLU considers suing nursing homes

CHICAGO — Illinois nursing homes that turn away AIDS patients could be in for a legal struggle, a spokesman for the American Civil Liberties Union said.

Harvey Grossman, who directs the legal division of the civil rights group's Illinois branch, said his group is considering suing the homes for discriminating against the handicapped.

Peter Peters, executive director of the Illinois Council on Long-Term Care said nursing homes would be violating another state law by accepting AIDS patients or others with communicable diseases. He said homes that care for AIDS patients need special isolation units and equipment — which most facilities do not have.

Grossman disputed that information, saying the only special equipment required for AIDS patients are plastic gloves and gowns — to protect nurses and doctors against infectious bodily fluids.

Voyager takes off in spite of damage

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — The experimental Voyager aircraft scraped its wings on takeoff Sunday, causing "major" damage, but its two pilots nonetheless soared out over the Pacific on their historic attempt to fly nonstop around the world without refueling.

Drooping from the weight of the fuel stored in the wings, the wingtips dragged along the ground as the experimental plane made it off the runway.

"We have some major scrape damage on the right winglet," project spokesman Peter Riva said over a loudspeaker moments after the takeoff. "We're recommending to go on."

Riva said Rutan wiggled the winglets off "because if they fell off on their own accord, they might fall inward and plane's surface would be peeled back like when a banana is unpeeled," possibly exposing a fuel tank.

Amnesia claims year of U.S. Army officer's life

FORT KNOX, Ky. (UPI) — A West Point-trained Army officer who disappeared from an Army base in Alabama more than a year ago has been diagnosed as an amnesia victim and may be spending Christmas with a family he doesn't remember.

"We're hopeful we'll have him home for Christmas," the man's father, Bobby Gene Stephenson, said Sunday.

"Nothing is proof positive at this point, but we're hopeful."

Stephenson's son, 2nd Lt. Ricky Gene Stephenson, 24, was last seen by his parents on Oct. 5, 1985, at his family's home in Alexander City, Ala.

He left to spend the weekend at Fort McClellan, about an hour away in Anniston, Ala. It was the last time the family was to hear from him for the next 13 months.

THE FOLLOWING WEEK, the family was contacted by the Army. The Stephensons were informed that their son had disappeared from the base, leaving a note behind.

His parents later were told by the Army that Stephenson had a drinking problem as well as problems with a commanding officer.

Stephenson's family learned that after leaving the base their son went to Mississippi and then to Florida, where he attacked a police officer and spent 10 months in jail — known only as John Doe. During three months of the sentence, he was placed under psychiatric evaluation at a mental hospital.

Psychiatrists diagnosed Stephenson as having amnesia, a partial or total loss of memory caused by brain injury or by shock or repression.

On July 8, he was judged competent to stand trial. On Aug. 1, 10 months after his arrest, he was found guilty, sentenced to time already served and set free.

Finally, in early November, the FBI traced his fingerprints and discovered his identity. Stephenson had apparently fallen and gotten a huge lump on his head after leaving Alabama.

The family said that when they first saw their son he referred to them as "you guys." But while visiting together at Thanksgiving, Ricky Stephenson called his father "Dad."

Manslaughter trial begins for O'Neal

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Griffin O'Neal, son of actor Ryan O'Neal, is scheduled to go on trial today on manslaughter charges stemming from a freak boating accident that killed the son of film director Francis Ford Coppola.

O'Neal, 21, was charged with manslaughter and five counts of reckless and negligent operation of a boat after an eight-week grand jury investigation in July.

Gian Carlo Coppola, 23, was killed when a 14-foot runabout, allegedly driven by O'Neal, cut between two other boats and became tangled in a tow line that knocked Coppola to the floor. Coppola suffered fatal head injuries.

"The grand jury thought there was probable cause to believe he (O'Neal) was operating the boat," said County Deputy State's Attorney Gerald Anders, "and operating it in a manner that caused Mr. Coppola's death."

IF CONVICTED, O'Neal could face five years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Coppola and O'Neal had taken a break from the filming of Gardens of Stone, which was being directed by the elder Coppola in the area on May 26, and rented a boat for use on the Chesapeake Bay.

Witnesses identified O'Neal as driving the boat, even though he told Maryland Department of Natural Resources police investigating the accident that Coppola was driving.

O'Neal also reportedly told police the boat was traveling only about 23 mph at the time of the accident. Witnesses testified it appeared to be traveling 40 mph.

An autopsy revealed Coppola had consumed about five beers in an hour or so before his death. O'Neal was not tested for alcohol consumption because he told authorities on the scene he was not operating the boat.

Convicted spy Pelton may face life sentence

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Ronald Pelton, a former National Security Agency employee who tried to sell vital U.S. military secrets to the Soviets for $35,000, faces life in prison when he is sentenced Tuesday.

Pelton's spying caused "extraordinary damage" to the nation, prosecutors said, warranting life in prison.

Pelton's defense lawyer, Fred Warren Bennett, recommended his client receive a 30-year sentence because he has cooperated with prosecutors since his June conviction and is repentant.

The 14-year former NSA communications specialist, who had top-secret clearance and access to special information relating to signals intelligence, is accused of releasing to the Soviets information on the "Ivy Bells" intelligence plan.

PUBLISHED REPORTS indicate "Ivy Bells" is part of a $1 billion submarine reconnaissance operation involving Soviet harbors and installations.

Pelton was convicted in June on four counts of espionage conducted during a five-year period.

Federal prosecutors are recommending that U.S. District Judge Herbert Murray sentence Pelton to life in prison even though a July 18 agreement indicated that if Pelton agreed to be debriefed by the government, prosecutors would recommend a lighter sentence.

Testimony during his trial last May indicated Pelton began spying for the Soviets to save himself from bankruptcy after several business ventures failed.

Since his conviction, Pelton has been interrogated for 210 hours and "appears to have been candid and cooperative as to most issues" in helping authorities come up with an assessment of damages, a sentencing memorandum said.

Arms cash linked to election

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Profits diverted from arms sales to Iran were routed to groups boosting congressional candidates who supported the Contras and White House officials, including Lt. Col. Oliver North, knew of the scheme, it was reported Sunday.

The Lowell (Mass.) Sun, quoting unidentified sources, said North and other members of the National Security Council were aware that $5 million in arms sales profits was diverted to conservative political action groups in the United States.

The money was used to help the congressional campaigns of candidates who supported President Ronald Reagan's agenda — specifically, backing Nicaragua's Contra rebels and researching a Star Wars missile defense, the newspaper reported. Some money also purchased time for negative political advertising against liberal Democrats.

AT THE SAME TIME, The

Miami Herald reported Sunday that North supervised the financing and production of a national media campaign to gain support for the Contras and undermine congressional foes of U.S. aid to the rebels.

The White House had no comment on the reports Sunday.

North was fired from his job on the National Security Council Nov. 25 when Attorney General Edwin Meese revealed that up to $30 million in profits from clandestine arms sales to Iran were diverted to the Contra rebels through Swiss bank accounts.

However, Contra leaders have said they did not receive that money and lawmakers probing the scandal also are looking into just where the money went.

In reporting that diverted profits may have come to the United States for political purposes, the Lowell Sun identified one beneficiary as the National Endowment for the Preservation of Liberty, a Washington organization that sponsored negative ads against incumbent House members this year.

AMONG THE candidates aided by the money, the Sun reported, were those of first-term Republican Sens. Paula Hawkins of Florida and Jeremiah Denton of Alabama — vehement supporters of the Contras. Both were defeated Nov. 4.

Democratic House members who were targets of the negative ads sponsored by the endowment were Michael Barnes of Maryland; Ed Jones, Jim Cooper and William Boner of Tennessee; Romano Mazzoli of Kentucky, Charles Whitley and William Hefner of North Carolina; and J.J. Pickle, Albert Bustamante and Kiki de la Garza of Texas.

The Miami Herald said North conferred in the White House with Carl Channell, a conservative Washington fundraiser and media consultant who orchestrated the public lobbying effort this year.

CHANNELL TOLD the newspaper he met with North only "five or 10 times."

White House communications director, Patrick Buchanan, reacting to the two newspaper reports on CBS's "Face the Nation" Sunday, said he knew nothing of a political end to the Iran arms sales profits "since I was unaware of arms sales to Iran, I certainly don't know what was done with the profits."

However, as part of his White House duties, "I was sort of in charge of the communications strategy for the 1985 campaign to win Contra aid (in Congress.) I sort of co-chaired a committee on that; Ollie North sat on that committee."

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of House Intelligence Committee and member of the Foreign Affairs committee, said on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley" that he has seen "no evidence" that Iran arms sales profits were diverted into campaign coffers.

Middle East billionaire profits from Iran deal

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Saudi billionaire Adnan M. Khashoggi made $250,000 in profits from U.S. arms shipments to Iran despite denials of financial gain, the independent newspaper Haaretz reported Sunday.

Military affairs analyst, Zeev Schiff, wrote in the article that "large sums" were missing from Iranian payments into Swiss bank accounts for U.S. arms supplied to Iran in 1985.

"Involved is the first sum, of $5 million, that arrived from the Iranians via Switzerland to the 'Otzar Hahayal' Bank," Schiff wrote, adding that the money was credited to the Israeli Ministry of Defense.

"The remainder of the amount was divided between Saudi billionaire Khashoggi, who underwrote the deal with a seven-day loan and reaped a profit of $250,000," and Israeli arms dealer Yacov Nimrodi for 1985 expenses for encouraging contacts with moderates in the arms deal, Schiff said. He did not reveal the source of his story.

KHASHOGGI AND Iranian middleman Manucher Ghorbanifar told ABC News on Wednesday and Thursday that they did not benefit financially from their involvement in arms dealing for the Reagan administration.

Nimrodi has also denied making any profit from the arms sales.

Schiff said the mystery of the $5 million has been only partially solved and that it was not clear if the money was transferred to the U.S. government.

Probable prosecutor named

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Investigations into the Iran-Contra scandal widened Sunday with reports that former federal Judge Lawrence Walsh will be the special prosecutor in the affair and Attorney General Edwin Meese could be subject to an internal review on his handling of the case.

In New York, The Daily News reported that the Justice Department, under pressure from Congress, will instigate an investigation into the way Meese handled the initial probes into the foreign policy scandal.

Meese, after an informal investigation, revealed Nov. 25 that up to $30 million in profits from arms sales to Iran were diverted through Swiss bank accounts to Nicaraguan rebels fighting to overthrow Managua's Sandinista government.

MICHAEL SHAHEEN, head of the department's Office of Professional Responsibility, is expected to look into Meese's role in running the general investigation of the Iran scandal.

Sunday, the White House said it had no comment on the report.

The chairmen of the House

Lawrence Walsh

and Senate judiciary committees, Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., and Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., have threatened to conduct their own investigations into Meese's role in the affair, which is engulfing the administration and threatening the final two years of President Ronald Reagan's term.

Tuesday, Senate leaders are expected to name the members of a Watergate-style select committee to investigate the scandal. Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, veteran of the Watergate panel, is expected to be named chairman.

A House select committee also is to be named. Neither panel can begin work in earnest until they are empowered by the 100th Congress, which convenes Jan. 6.

ALSO THIS WEEK, a special three-judge federal panel will open a new front in the burgeoning investigations with the anticipated appointment of a special prosecutor.

Late Saturday, National Public Radio reported that Walsh will get the job. Last week, legal sources told United Press International that Walsh, who coordinated the desegregation of public schools in Little Rock, Ark., in the 1950s, was a leading contender for the job.

Walsh, who spoke to UPI Sunday while walking his dog near his Oklahoma City home, declined to discuss the job specifically.

"It depends on what the court wants to do. It may come faster and it may come slower, but if I were interested, I would just be relaxed at this point," he said.

Hawkeyes escape fired up Bulldogs

No. 3 Hawks topple Drake, still unbeaten

By Scott Reifert
Staff Writer

DES MOINES — It's an old adage, but it proved true in Iowa's 69-62 win over Drake Saturday night in Veterans Auditorium. Basketball games are won or lost with rebounding and free throws.

The third-ranked Hawkeyes, now 8-0, outrebounded Drake 39-24, and Iowa went to the free throw line 20 times to the Bulldogs' eight.

And Coach Tom Davis' Hawkeyes made the free throws count, hitting 16.

"We shot very well from the free throw line tonight (Saturday)," Davis said. "We have not been a good free throw shooting ball club. Tonight we were there — we had to be — or else we would lose that ball game."

DRAKE COACH Gary Garner said Iowa's press and the Hawkeyes' domination of the boards were the two areas where he believed his team was outmatched.

But Drake, now 3-4, had the sellout crowd of 12,125 on their feet early in the game. The Bulldogs erupted for a 15-2 lead in the first eight and a half minutes.

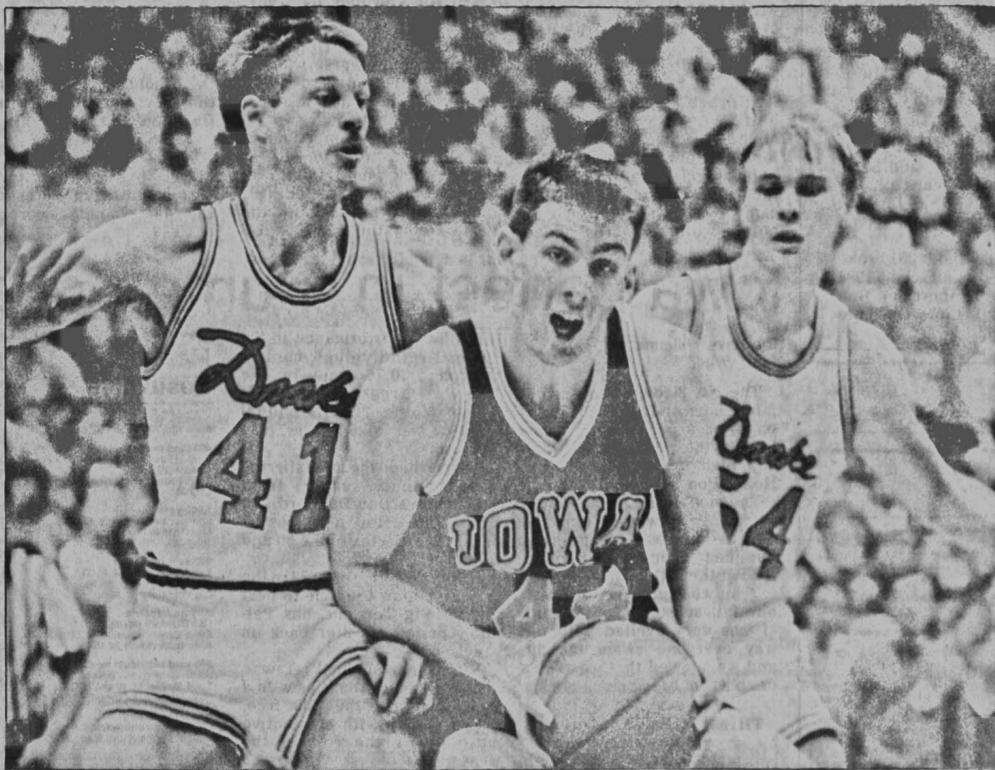

Drake's David Miller, a transfer from Wisconsin, hit two three-pointers during the stretch, and Michael Morgan added a dunk and a layup.

That 13-point Drake lead was the largest of the game, and the Hawkeyes immediately started cutting away at it.

"We got off to that big spurt," Garner said, "but we knew that wasn't going to last."

The Iowa press then began to give the Drake backcourt problems. The Bulldogs were scoreless for the next three minutes while Iowa scored 10 points to pull to within three at 15-12.

AFTER LAYUPS BY Ed Horton, Kevin Gamble and Al Lorenzen,

Iowa's Al Lorenzen looks off into space as he attempts to go up for a shot against Drake's David Dahlke (41) in the Hawkeyes' win over the Bulldogs Saturday at Veterans Auditorium in Des Moines. Iowa is now 8-0 this season.

Iowa finally tied the score 21-21 with almost three minutes left in the half.

Then point guard B.J. Armstrong took over. The sophomore hit a jumper and then made two free throws to give Iowa its first lead of the night. With 45 seconds left before half he hit on a short jumper, was fouled and converted the free throw to give Iowa a 30-25 lead, its biggest of the half.

"We weren't running much offense, and we turned the ball over a couple of times," Armstrong said. "Coach told me to go ahead and take control. So I did."

A layup by Drake's Morgan before the buzzer made the halftime score 30-27 — Iowa's lead.

IOWA STARTED OUT quickly in the second half. A Jeff Moe three-pointer gave the Hawkeyes an eight point lead three minutes into the second half. But the Bulldogs fought back by hitting five three-pointers in the second half.

Going into the game Drake had taken only 29 three-point shots in their first six games. In Saturday's game the Bulldogs attempted 16 and hit on 10.

The game's leading scorer, Miller, was six of 10 from three-point range alone and finished with 24 points.

Drake fought back to cut the Iowa lead down to 52-51 with only eight minutes left.

But Moe drove down the lane, hit a layup and was fouled by Morgan. Moe hit the free throw, and Iowa's lead was back to four.

DRAKE WENT INTO the bonus early in the second half but could never capitalize on it. On their next two trips down the floor, the Bulldogs were fouled. But on each opportunity the Bulldogs missed the DES MOINES — It took a little longer than usual, but five minutes into the second half of the Iowa-Drake basketball game, the familiar fist of Jeff Moe could be seen waving in the air, signaling two points.

"I guess I'm just an excitable guy," the junior guard said. "I've been (waving my fist) ever since high school."

After sparking Iowa to a victory over Brigham Young last Wednesday with a career high 28 points and nine consecutive free throws, Moe nailed one three-pointer and hit three critical field goals in Saturday's game against Drake. He extended his free throw streak to 10 and pulled down two rebounds, all with a fractured middle finger.

"I DIDN'T KNOW what to expect from Moe," Iowa Coach Tom Davis said. "He said yesterday, 'Hey, I'm playing.' I knew he wanted to play, but I didn't know if he could shoot the ball or pass it."

And after a quiet first half, Moe answered his coach by slicing the nets for a three-pointer, giving him his first points of the game and another chance to thrust his fist into the air. Later in the half, Drake pulled within a point 52-51, but Moe drove the lane for a layup and was fouled. He converted the three pointer to give Iowa a lead Drake could never make up.

"He didn't play that well his first two or three times in there, but he hadn't practiced since Tuesday. So it took him a while to get his game together," Davis said.

ONE OF MOE'S greatest attributes this year is his ability to motivate the team. And with his current role of coming in off the bench, he has been forced immediately to get into the flow of the game, a necessity for CEDAR FALLS — Despite the Hawkeyes' 31-11 victory over Northern Iowa Saturday night, Iowa Coach Dan Gable will return his troops to the wrestling room to smooth out some rough spots and relieve some concerns.

"It's one of those things you have to gauge, and I'm not letting up because we beat UNI by 21 (actually 20) points by no means," Gable said. "Our 134-pounder is definitely a concern to me right now. We have some good kids on the squad, but I'm going to have to bring the young ones along."

"I was a little disappointed in some of our guys in the way they wrestled and taking the back seat," Panther Coach Don Briggs said.

IOWA'S STEVE Martin recorded a technical fall at 118 pounds to begin Iowa's path to victory. Martin allowed Mark Pustelnik only to score on an escape and the other point was rewarded to Northern Iowa for stalling. After a 6-0 start, 126-pound John Regan added three on a 10-4 decision over Mike Schwab.

Bubba Strauss came up dry against Joe Gribbon losing, 8-4, at 134 pounds. Following the meet, Gable showed some concern for that weight class.

"When I have a kid like Bubba Strauss at 34 right now when I don't see progress made right away or even a little bit of progress, I get concerned," Gable said. "To win a national championship you have to have eight or nine kids in there that are very competitive, and right now I only have four or five kids."

THE KEY MATCH OF the evening came at 142 as Greg Randall sought revenge after losing to Kurt Shedenhelm at the Northern Open. Randall got off to a slow start, but after Gable yelled from the sideline for Randall to look at the clock, the 142-pounder took the upper hand and ran up the score for a superior decision, 13-1.

Mitch Kelly took the driver's seat early, and although he allowed Pat Hogan to get within distance of a victory, Kelly edged Hogan, 6-4, at 150 pounds.

Both Jim Heffernan and Royce Alger remain undefeated on the season. Jim Heffernan recorded a superior decision over opponent, Doug Downs, to set up Alger's pin of Kevin Kahl in 4 minutes, 24 seconds.

Alger has not wrestled since injuring his knee during the Cleveland State meet last week.

SINCE THE HAWKS were leading 28-3 and were in no danger of losing, Gable put 177-pound Erik Duus in place of injured Rico Chiapparelli.

Duus, who has not been very successful this year, put away Scott Leonard with a 7-2 decision. Iowa built up a 31-3 lead but were unable to score in the remaining two matches of the meet. Charlie Sherertz recorded three back points to start the second period scoring and kept in the running until the third period when Jeff Weatherman took full control and defeated Sherertz 11-7.

Northern Iowa's Joel Greenlee posted a superior decision over Brooks Simpson at heavyweight to end the meet.

"I don't care about winning or losing. It's how they lose. I've been really concerned about that, and tonight I'm concerned at how they lost at 90 and heavyweight," Gable said.

Ex-walk-on Bayless named Iowa's Most Valuable Player

By Mike Trilk
Staff Writer

Former walk-on Rick Bayless received the Roy J. Carver Most Valuable Player award for the Holiday Bowl-bound Iowa football team Friday at the annual football awards night at Hancher Auditorium.

Bayless, who has one year of eligibility left, became only the third Hawkeye running back to eclipse the 1,000-yard mark as he gained 1,040 yards in help. Iowa to an 8-3 record.

"This is a big surprise for me," Bayless said after receiving the award. "I thank the Lord for the ability to play. I thank my parents and my teammates. I just couldn't be prouder than I am now."

Ronnie Harmon and Dennis Mosley are the only other Hawkeyes to rush for over 1,000 yards in a season as Harmon gained 1,166 in 1985 and Mosley carried for 1,267 yards in 1979. All three players recorded their feats under current Hawkeye Coach Hayden Fry.

BAYLESS, LISTED last spring as the second string tailback, also led the Hawkeyes in receiving with 30 catches. It marks only the fourth time that a Hawkeye has led the team in rushing and receiving.

The 6-foot, 200-pound, running back from Hugo, Minn., was named to the Associated Press first team all-Big Ten unit and received honorable mention on the United Press International all-Big Ten team.

Other team awards went to Gary Kostrubala for the outstanding member of the specialty team. Mark Spranger and Rick Schmidt picked up the coaches appreciation awards.

The scout team award went to Melvin Foster on defense and Doug Wright on offense while Kyle Crowe won the Forest Evashevski Scholastic Award.

Unbeatens head Big Ten's impressive roundball start

United Press International

The Big Ten Conference still has four unbeaten teams after three weeks of the season with Illinois, Iowa, Ohio State and Purdue posting wins Saturday night.

The league's only loss on Saturday came at Northwestern where Rollins upset the Wildcats 66-62 in overtime.

The rest of the teams all posted wins, including the Illini, who won their eighth straight Illini Classic by whipping Princeton, 81-55. Indiana also kept its record perfect in the Hoosier Classic by disposing of East Carolina 96-68.

Purdue had no trouble with Detroit, defeating the Titans 89-65. Ohio State handled Howard 82-63 in Columbus, Ohio, to stay unbeaten while Iowa outlasted intrastate rival Drake 69-62.

ELSEWHERE, Minnesota edged Chapman 69-67, and Michigan State edged Iowa State 86-85.

Games today find Bowling Green at Michigan and Minnesota visiting Oklahoma State. For the season, the Big Ten has a 53-10 record against non-conference foes for an 81 percent winning mark.

Ken Norman scored 24 points for the Illini, who exploded in the second half after only leading 37-33 at halftime against Princeton. Illinois will get a stiffer test next Saturday when it meets North Carolina.

"North Carolina has been one of the elite teams for the last 20 years," Norman said. "I'm really looking forward to going there and competing."

Illinois shot 63 percent in the championship game in handing Princeton its second loss in five contests.

PURDUE IMPROVED its mark to 5-0 with a one-sided win over Detroit. Todd Mitchell and Melvin McCants combined for 44 points in the win.

Mets' Gooden arrested during brawl

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — New York Mets pitcher Dwight Gooden and four companions were arrested during a street brawl that sent a Tampa police officer to the hospital with a mild concussion, police said Sunday.

Gooden, 22, was charged with disorderly conduct, battery on a police officer and resisting arrest with violence after the Saturday night incident. He was released on his own recognizance shortly after 3 a.m. Sunday.

Police Lt. Tim Cotter said the incident began about 10:50 p.m. when Tampa officers saw Gooden's car and another car swerving toward each other on a street on the city's north side.

Two unidentified officers were treated at a hospital and released, including the one kicked in the head, who suffered a mild concussion, Cotter said.

Arrested with Gooden were his cousin, Gary Sheffield, a player in the Milwaukee Brewers' minor-league system; Vance Lovelace, 23; Philip Walker, 23; and a 17-year-old whose name was not released.

All four were charged with resisting arrest with violence and battery on a police officer.

Hallberg-Hoch team streaks to victory

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UPI) — Gary Hallberg and Scott Hoch, second-place finishers the last two years, played the final five holes in 5-under par Sunday to rally from a two-shot deficit and win the $600,000 Chrysler Team Championship at Boca West.

Hallberg and Hoch's four-day total of 37-under 251 broke the previous tournament record of 33-under, set in 1984 by Ron Streck and Phil Hancock. Mike Hulbert and Bob Tway, who led the tournament until the 17th hole Sunday, finished second at 36-under 252.

Hawkeyes outlast Redbirds

By Mike Trilk
Staff Writer

The Iowa women's basketball team used a strong second half to overcome a shaky start as the Hawkeyes downed Illinois State, 71-56, at Horton Fieldhouse in Normal, Ill., Saturday.

Even though Iowa ran its record to 4-2, including three wins in a row, it was the same old story as the 17th-rated Hawkeyes couldn't shake the home standing Redbirds until the second half.

After settling for a 28-28 tie at halftime, Lisa Becker and Michelle Edwards combined for 24 of Iowa's 43 second half points to pace the Hawkeyes to the win. Becker ended the game with a season high 19 points while Edwards added

"OUR PASSES TO the inside were slow and hoping instead of powerful and confident," Iowa Coach Vivian Stringer said of her team's dismal performance in the first half. "Making things worse was the fact that we missed 10-12 points on the little ones that we didn't put away."

The Hawkeyes jumped out to an 8-0 lead and looked as though they would sail to an easy win before the Redbirds clawed their way back into the game tying the game at 8-8 and eventually taking a four-point lead in the first half. However, Iowa rebounded and put Illinois State away in the second half.

Iowa hit 57 percent from the floor in the second half and combined that with some sticky defense that held Illinois State to a lowly 38 percent field goal average in the final half and forced the Redbirds into 11 turnovers.

"WE ADDRESSED the boards and defense better in the second half, and we made the short ones, those three to five-footers that break your back," Stringer added.

The Hawkeyes reached their biggest lead of the afternoon with about two minutes left in the game when the score stood at 65-49.

Pam Tanner and Susan Wellman led the Redbird attack with 15 points each as Illinois State slipped to 1-4. The loss was the third Redbird setback this season suffered to a Big Ten opponent.

"We're coming along," Stringer said about her team that was rated eighth in the Big Ten. "I think we're improving every game. I've seen everything work, just not at the same time."

The Hawkeyes return to action next Sunday when they play Western Kentucky at Carver-Hawkeye Arena. The Lady Toppers have been to the Final Four the past two seasons and will be the second final four team from a year ago to visit Carver-Hawkeye Arena this season.

Iowa perfect in triumph over Panthers

By Steve Williams
Staff Writer

The No. 8 Iowa men's swimming team ended its fall campaign on a perfect note, beating Northern Iowa 136-63 Friday night in the Iowa Field House Pool.

The meet was never in doubt as the 7-0 Hawkeyes took the first two places in every event but one to overwhelm an inferior Panther attack.

"This was a great way to finish our fall season," Patton said. "I was very excited with the way everyone swam tonight, and we showed that we are as deep as we ever have been."

THE HAWKEYES were led by junior John Davey who set two meet records Friday with his 1:50.41 performance in the 200-yard individual medley and a 4:30.76 time in the 500-yard freestyle. Davey's time in the 200 individual medley was also a new pool record.

But perhaps the most stirring performances came from sophomores Dan Dumford and John Linxwiler who posted meet record wins in the 50 and 100 free.

Dumford's time of 20.78 in the 50 free is now the time to beat in the Big Ten and has Patton's prized sprinter back on track.

Linxwiler also shook off some early season difficulties with a 45.83 time in the 100 free, leaving him with a positive attitude for the rest of the season.

Colts win again; Testaverde's future clouded

United Press International

The Vinny Testaverde sweepstakes are getting suspenseful.

With the star quarterback from Miami the prize in the National Football League draft, the Indianapolis Colts won and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers lost Sunday to tie for the worst record in the league with one week left.

At Indianapolis, Gary Hogeboom threw for 318 yards and two touchdowns to lead a second-half rally that lifted the Colts past the Buffalo Bills 24-14.

At Tampa Bay, Gerry Ellis and Paul Ott Carruth each ran for short second-half touchdowns and Green Bay sacked Steve Young seven times in beating Tampa Bay 21-7, handing the Buccaneers their sixth consecutive loss.

The Packers, 4-11, moved out of the chase for the No. 1 pick with a victory at Houston by beating Minnesota.

THE BUCCANEERS, moving closer to the No. 1 draft pick for the second consecutive season, chose Bo Jackson as the top draft choice last year but failed to sign the Heisman Trophy winner.

Tampa Bay and Indianapolis are 2-13. Ignoring ties in next week's regular-season finales, the only way the Buccaneers will not own the No. 1 pick in 1987 is if they beat St. Louis on the road and the Colts lose to the Raiders in Los Angeles. Tampa Bay has lost 25 of its last 26 road games.

"It's not a position I'm very happy about," Tampa Bay Coach Leeman Bennett said about the battle with the Colts. "I haven't really made any plans concerning the draft. We go to St. Louis with the idea that we're going to win the ball game."

Tampa Bay has owned the top pick in the draft for five of the last 11 years. Green Bay, 4-11, defeated Tampa Bay for the fifth straight time and shut out the Buccaneers until Steve DeBerg flipped a nine-yard pass to Calvin Magee midway through the final quarter. The Buccaneers have lost 51 of their last 63 games.

TAMPA BAY OWNER Hugh Culverhouse denied a television report that Alabama Coach Ray Perkins has been offered his team's coaching job in 1987.

"I have had one conversation with Coach Perkins," Culverhouse said. "He called me to recommend another coach should I be interested in making a coaching change. I thanked him for the recommendation and wished him well in the Sun Bowl. We did not discuss his coaching the Bucs."

Indianapolis Coach Ron Meyer has led the Colts to victories in both games since he took over from Rod Dowhower. That streak has pushed the Colts close to losing Testaverde, but Dowhower is impressed with Hogeboom.

"I liked No. 7 (Hogeboom) out there," Meyer said. "What else can a quarterback do? Vinny is great, but Hogeboom has the chance to do that and more."

ELSEWHERE, the Giants routed St. Louis 27-7, Cleveland clobbered Cincinnati 34-3, New Orleans edged Atlanta 14-9, Philadelphia surprised Dallas 23-21, San Francisco dropped New England 29-24, Kansas City shaded the Raiders 20-17, Miami eclipsed the Rams 37-31 in overtime, Houston dropped Minnesota 23-10 and Seattle downed San Diego 34-24.

At East Rutherford, N.J., Joe Morris rushed for 179 yards and three short touchdowns and the Giants sacked Neil Lomax nine times. The Giants, 13-2, will gain the home-field edge throughout the playoffs over Green Bay. St. Louis is 3-11-1.

At Cincinnati, Bernie Kosar fired a 47-yard touchdown pass and set up another touchdown with a 66-yard completion to carry Cleveland, 11-4, to its second straight AFC Central title. The Bengals, 9-6, must beat the Jets next Sunday to have a shot at a wild card.

Hawkeyes

front end of the one-and-one. Successful conversions would have tied the score.

Instead, Iowa came back with a Roy Marble layup, and Drake couldn't get any closer than five points for the rest of the game.

Marble led Iowa with 19 points. Armstrong was next in scoring with 14, and the 6-foot-2 guard also came away with seven rebounds. Gamble was the other Hawkeye in double figures with 13.

Horton had 10 rebounds to lead Iowa, and forward Brad Lohaus added eight.

Iowa had eight men in the scoring column, a fact that pleased Davis.

"WE'RE NOT A two-man ballclub or a five-man ballclub," the first-year coach said. "We're a 14-man ball club right now."

And the Hawkeyes used that depth in their full court press. Iowa's press kept the Bulldogs running all night. Drake had 14 turnovers (Iowa 13), but Iowa repeatedly was able to score after Drake mistakes.

"It was just a matter of our depth and how long they could keep up," Marble said. "Once we got our feet moving we started to force more turnovers."

Iowa had a seven-point lead with just over three minutes left in the game when Davis had the Hawkeyes go into their "wheel offense."

In addition to running down the clock, Iowa players were able to drive past Drake defenders for layups on three different occasions.

The Iowa lead went up to 10 points on a Gamble slam dunk with 16 seconds left, but Drake's Miller answered with a three-pointer to complete the scoring.

Moe

his position.

"You can see why he's very inspirational to this ball club," Davis said. "He fits around out there on the court. He yells and screams and talks to the ball, the opponents and the referees — everybody. He's inspiring, and he's been a terrific guy coming off the bench."

Last year Moe started in 12 of his 32 appearances but has contributed this year entirely as a reserve, a role that seems to be working for the undefeated Hawkeyes.

"It doesn't really bother me that I don't start. I know I'm going to get a chance to play because our team fast breaks so much," Moe said. "Someone is always going to need a break. I just hope I can contribute when I get in there."

"I CAN ALSO LEARN a lot from it," he added. "It gives me a chance to watch my man and see how he reacts to certain situations."

The team's fast break offense has opened Moe up on the wing and given him a chance to take his outside shots.

"I'm supposed to get down there and look for my shot. If it's there, I'm supposed to take it. I think every college basketball player likes the fast break. There aren't too many teams that can go down and pass the ball around 20 times."

"Offense is the fun part of the game. We tried to fast break last year, but we're a little more effective this year," Moe said.

Quick start carries Hawkeyes

By Scott Reifert
Staff Writer

The Iowa women's swimming team was quick to let the air out of Iowa State's sails as the Hawkeyes shot out to a 21-4 lead on their way to a 71-54 dual meet win Saturday in Ames.

Iowa won 11 of 16 events in the meet with Jane Keating, Allison Lloyd and Louise Keogh leading the way with two victories each.

"We just knocked the wind out of them early," Assistant Coach Barry Neville said. "After that the times were a bit slower than we usually swim against them (in past meets)."

The intrastate rivalry has always produced intense meets, Neville said, but this year Iowa's quick start destroyed any Cyclone thoughts of an upset and slowed the tempo of the meet.

IOWA BEGAN THE meet by winning the 400-yard medley relay, the 1,000-yard freestyle and the 200 free to open its commanding lead.

The 400 medley team of Katie Van Verst, Chris Dieterle, Allison Lloyd and Becky

Anderson won in four minutes, six and 16 hundredths of a second.

Bernie Brandenburg followed that with a win in the 1,000 free (10:42.73) and then Jane Keating won the 200 free in 1:54.62.

Keating was making her first appearance in the pool in several weeks. She has been bothered by the flu, so Iowa Coach Pete Kennedy decided to use the senior in a different role for this meet.

"WE COULD SCORE more points by moving her around to different events," Neville said. "Plus with finals coming up and Jane just coming back from the flu, we thought it would be easier on her if we held her out of the 1,000."

Freshman Keogh had her second consecutive good meet for the Hawkeyes. In addition to her relay leg in the 400 medley, Keogh won the 100-yard breaststroke (1:08.56) and the 200 breaststroke (2:27.94).

Mural raffle will aid Central Americans

By Therese Teasdale
Staff Writer

AN OAK-FRAMED ceramic tile mural currently on display at Bushnell's Turtle, 127 E. College St. will be given away in a drawing to be held Dec. 19. Proceeds from the $1 raffle tickets will be used to ship surplus Iowa grain to Nicaragua and to support the resistance movement in Honduras.

The Artists' Brigade Against Contra Aid and the Central America Solidarity Committee are co-sponsoring this fundraising event. Many Iowa City businesses and individuals have donated materials and services.

RICHARD AND TERESA Wright, the organizers of this project, have a very personal reason to be concerned about Central American political issues. Their daughter, Tiera Rosa, was born in Honduras. Honduran law requires that one adoptive parent must reside in the country before an adoption can be finalized. Last winter the Wrights went to Central America, where Teresa Wright spent four months living in a Honduran village.

Richard Wright and the couple's 14-year-old son, Jonah, also spent time in Honduras and Nicaragua, delivering medical supplies and other items donated by Iowa charities. The family's experiences in Central America deepened their commitment to their political beliefs.

The Wrights were particularly moved by a visit to a refugee camp. One woman told Teresa Wright the story of her family's escape from El Salvador. According to Wright, they had crossed a river by using a rope stretched between its banks, while border patrols shot at them from helicopters.

SEVERAL OF THE woman's children died on the trip, Wright said. Like most of the other women in the camp, her husband was also missing or killed. The woman had embroidered a tapestry depicting the story of their voyage. She asked Teresa Wright to take it back to the United States and share their story.

Although Wright said she hesitated to take something so precious and beautiful, she finally agreed, feeling she was "their only witness." A ceramic tile replica and the original tapestry were hung as part of an exhibit in the UI Museum of Art this past summer.

The Wrights found the problems of the Honduran people centered around basic survival needs more than politics. As Teresa Wright said, "if I was worried about where my food was coming from, I wouldn't care who my government was."

WRIGHT SAID SHE "wasn't afraid there... Honduras is not a dangerous area — there's just no food." Her husband said that although the country has fertile land which could produce enough food for its people, "80 percent of the valuable land is owned by U.S. fruit companies," whose produce is exported.

The Wrights observed that Honduras has no public health service. "Nicaragua is taking care of their people," Richard Wright said, although this is not true in Honduras or El Salvador. The nutrition center that arranged the Wrights' adoption of Tiera Rosa was run by Catholic nuns, and got no money from the government.

ALICE HAMPTON, one of the artists who worked on the tiles, explained that the Wrights' slides from Honduras gave her ideas for designing a tile. "I sort of took pieces from the slides."

She tried to represent the relationship between Central American people and their land. "I wanted something to tie it all together — they're so much a part of where they live. It reminded me of Iowa... they're so connected to the land."

Russell Karkowski, who made the frame for the piece, sees using art as a vehicle for political ideas as a way of "trying to humanize the situation... art is more approachable for large numbers of people."

Karkowski stressed the importance of "realizing that we're dealing with human lives on the same level as our own families." He thinks the mural effectively makes people concerned about the situation in Central America because "when you can receive a visual message about something, it has more impact."

Eastwood revises macho image in film

By Kevin C. Kretschmer
Staff Writer

CLINT EASTWOOD adds further height to his iconic stature with the release of Heartbreak Ridge, a film he stars in, produces and directs. Eastwood proves that he is more than America's premier tough guy; he is one of this country's most interesting filmmakers.

Heartbreak Ridge is the story of Tom Highway (Eastwood), a 24-year Marine Corps veteran, whose battlefield exploits have earned him numerous decorations and whose drinking exploits have often made him an embarrassment to the Corps.

Highway is trying to come to grips with life in the 1980s — how to combine the rough and tumble aspects of a "gung ho" Marine lifestyle with the sensitivity and thoughtfulness expected of him by the contemporary woman. Eastwood does this by playing with his macho image in ways which his predecessors — like the Duke — would never even have considered attempting.

THE FILM OPENS with black and white newsreel footage of Korean War battles, giving way to shots of casualties being attended to and transported. The film then shifts to July 1983 to a jail where Highway is telling old war stories.

Two things are particularly interesting about this scene. One is that we hear the coarse, gruff sound of Eastwood's voice long before the camera tracks in on him; he speaks more in this sequence than he has in entire movies. The other is that the film remains in black and white until the frame finds Eastwood, sitting in a cell, then slowly fades into color. Eastwood the director is already playing with our expectations through both sound and visual image.

After being bailed out, Highway receives a transfer he had previously requested. He returns home, after what appears to have been extended overseas service, to an unfamiliar America. Several times throughout the film he is seen reading various women's magazines (which he repeatedly denies are his) in an attempt to discover current feminist thought.

ONE OF THE film's funniest scenes occurs when he tries to apply his newfound awareness, asking his ex-wife Aggie (Marsha Mason) if they had had a nurturing relationship during their marriage.

Highway's new tour of duty is as gunnery sergeant in an infantry division's reconnaissance platoon. He arrives to find the platoon a disorganized, undisciplined conglomeration of misfits and showoffs that have no intention of becoming models of the American fighting man. This part of the film is the conventional side, the part where a larger-than-life Clint Eastwood single-handedly molds the "goofballs" into an alert, skilled and resourceful unit.

Highway is contrasted, and the military more generally, with Cpl. "Stitch" Jones (Mario Van Peebles), an outspoken black singer-songwriter and the self-proclaimed "Ayatollah of rock-and-rollah," who is a member of the platoon. Highway's transition to modern-thinking individual is counterpointed against the maturing process that Stitch goes through.

ANOTHER SUBPLOT concerns the hostility between Highway and the division's commander, Maj. Powers (Everett McGill). Powers refers to Highway as a "relic" and takes every opportunity to get him dismissed from duty.

Eastwood allows himself to look old, be brutal and speak with the harsh tone and vocabulary of a veteran Marine. On the other hand, he seems to be sincere when he tries to win back Aggie, who thinks he is just employing a new strategy. The result is a slightly less cynical, though still uncompromisingly tough, Clint Eastwood.

The James Carabatsos script captures the language of the military expertly (some people may find it too realistic), though many characters are drawn too sketchily. Perhaps that is not so great a problem in a movie like this, where every character's significance is greater than merely that of the individual.

Students of history may guess where the film is heading for with its climax, others may be a bit surprised. The film studies what the role of the soldier is in society today, but even more it comments on the role that has been played by society in relation to the soldier. Heartbreak Ridge is an action-packed war picture, but it is also a film that asks us to look a little deeper into the nature of society and the men it creates.

DES MOINES — Gov. Branstad Monday enthusiastically supported the plan to build a $25 million research facility at the University of Iowa, saying it would help spur the state's economy.

"The university is looking for an opportunity to help the economic development of the state," he said. "This facility is on the cutting edge of technology and will create thousands of jobs for the state."

Branstad's comment came after a two-hour hearing on the fiscal year 1987 budget of the three universities and two special schools supported by the Board of Regents. The hearing, in the governor's office,
