Students slam fee increase

UI Tuition Increases

President Nonresident

Current Proposed

Undergraduate $1,368 $1,968 $6,180 $6,690
Graduate $1,730 $2,314 $8,590 $9,020
Medical $7,970 $9,574 $77,504 $90,680
Dentistry $11,180 $13,082 $177,896 $254,896
Pharmacy $7,180 $9,014 $81,200 $86,000

Source: Board of Regents

By Phil Thomas

The Daily Iowan

January 21, 1987

Tuition increases are in effect for the first time in four years, as students who returned to the University of Iowa this fall have found that their fees have increased from the previous academic year.

UI President J. Bruce Bruceann said the increase was necessary to support the university's operations and maintain its excellence.

"The increase is designed to meet the needs of our students," Bruceann said. "It is a necessary step in ensuring that we can continue to provide a quality education for our students.

"The increase is also a reflection of the current economic climate," he added. "It is a difficult time for all of us, but we must remain committed to our mission of educating the citizens of Iowa.

"I urge our students and their families to take advantage of the many opportunities available to them at the University of Iowa," Bruceann said. "We have a strong commitment to providing a quality education for all of our students.

"I am confident that the increase will be well received by our students and their families," he concluded. "We are committed to providing a quality education for all of our students, and we will continue to work hard to meet that goal.

Looking homework

Soviet students not riot over Kremlin action

BY BRUCE JAPPE

The Daily Iowan

January 20, 1987

Soviet students did not riot over Kremlin action

BY BRUCE JAPPE

The Daily Iowan

January 20, 1987

An overheded motor found as cause of fire at Abbey Inn

BY BRUCE JAPPE

The Daily Iowan

January 20, 1987

An overheded motor found as cause of fire at Abbey Inn

BY BRUCE JAPPE

The Daily Iowan

January 20, 1987

Overheated motor found as cause of fire at Abbey Inn

BY BRUCE JAPPE

The Daily Iowan

January 20, 1987

Students slam fee increase
Metro Briefly

UI telephone numbers will change

UI students should remember that the new UI telecommunication system will be installed during the holidays and new telephone numbers for all campus phones will take effect Dec. 22. UI officials said the switch will be completed in record time.

The system will feature Touch-Tone phones with call forwarding capabilities.

UI Police will correct unfair or inaccurate stories or headlines if the correction is submitted within 30 days of the original publication.

UI Police will correct unfair or inaccurate stories or headlines if the correction is submitted within 30 days of the original publication.

Fate of fire sparked by Christmas lights

UI student Christopher G. Westfall, 20, of Waterloo, has been arrested and charged with first-degree murder in the death of his ex-girlfriend, 19-year-old Maxine Lalor. Westfall is accused of setting a fire in the Iowa City home of Lalor's parents last weekend.

Westfall is also facing charges of attempting to murder Lalor's mother, Judith Davidson, and Davidson's roommates, Maxine Lalor's sister, Kim and her friends, Jennifer Selk and Susan Janssen.

UI Police Chief Larry Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by Westfall.

Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by Westfall.

Correction

The Daily Iowan's story of Wednesday's fire in the Iowa City home of UI student Maxine Lalor's parents, Judith Davidson, Maxine Lalor, Kim Lalor, Jennifer Selk and Susan Janssen, contains inaccuracies.

UI Police Chief Larry Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

The Daily Iowan regrets the errors.

The Daily Iowan

Metro Briefly

UI Telephone Numbers

UI students should remember that the new UI telecommunication system will be installed during the holiday season. New telephone numbers for all campus phones will take effect Dec. 22. UI officials said the switch will be completed in record time.

The system will feature Touch-Tone phones with call forwarding capabilities.

UI Police will correct unfair or inaccurate stories or headlines if the correction is submitted within 30 days of the original publication.

Correction

The Daily Iowan's story of Wednesday's fire in the Iowa City home of UI student Maxine Lalor's parents, Judith Davidson, Maxine Lalor, Kim Lalor, Jennifer Selk and Susan Janssen, contains inaccuracies.

UI Police Chief Larry Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

The Daily Iowan regrets the errors.

The Daily Iowan

Metro Briefly

UI Telephone Numbers

UI students should remember that the new UI telecommunication system will be installed during the holiday season. New telephone numbers for all campus phones will take effect Dec. 22. UI officials said the switch will be completed in record time.

The system will feature Touch-Tone phones with call forwarding capabilities.

UI Police will correct unfair or inaccurate stories or headlines if the correction is submitted within 30 days of the original publication.

Correction

The Daily Iowan's story of Wednesday's fire in the Iowa City home of UI student Maxine Lalor's parents, Judith Davidson, Maxine Lalor, Kim Lalor, Jennifer Selk and Susan Janssen, contains inaccuracies.

UI Police Chief Larry Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

The Daily Iowan regrets the errors.

The Daily Iowan

Metro Briefly

UI Telephone Numbers

UI students should remember that the new UI telecommunication system will be installed during the holiday season. New telephone numbers for all campus phones will take effect Dec. 22. UI officials said the switch will be completed in record time.

The system will feature Touch-Tone phones with call forwarding capabilities.

UI Police will correct unfair or inaccurate stories or headlines if the correction is submitted within 30 days of the original publication.

Correction

The Daily Iowan's story of Wednesday's fire in the Iowa City home of UI student Maxine Lalor's parents, Judith Davidson, Maxine Lalor, Kim Lalor, Jennifer Selk and Susan Janssen, contains inaccuracies.

UI Police Chief Larry Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

The Daily Iowan regrets the errors.

The Daily Iowan

Metro Briefly

UI Telephone Numbers

UI students should remember that the new UI telecommunication system will be installed during the holiday season. New telephone numbers for all campus phones will take effect Dec. 22. UI officials said the switch will be completed in record time.

The system will feature Touch-Tone phones with call forwarding capabilities.

UI Police will correct unfair or inaccurate stories or headlines if the correction is submitted within 30 days of the original publication.

Correction

The Daily Iowan's story of Wednesday's fire in the Iowa City home of UI student Maxine Lalor's parents, Judith Davidson, Maxine Lalor, Kim Lalor, Jennifer Selk and Susan Janssen, contains inaccuracies.

UI Police Chief Larry Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

The Daily Iowan regrets the errors.

The Daily Iowan

Metro Briefly

UI Telephone Numbers

UI students should remember that the new UI telecommunication system will be installed during the holiday season. New telephone numbers for all campus phones will take effect Dec. 22. UI officials said the switch will be completed in record time.

The system will feature Touch-Tone phones with call forwarding capabilities.

UI Police will correct unfair or inaccurate stories or headlines if the correction is submitted within 30 days of the original publication.

Correction

The Daily Iowan's story of Wednesday's fire in the Iowa City home of UI student Maxine Lalor's parents, Judith Davidson, Maxine Lalor, Kim Lalor, Jennifer Selk and Susan Janssen, contains inaccuracies.

UI Police Chief Larry Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

Baker said that the fire was set deliberately and that it appears to be part of a larger pattern of behavior by UI student Christopher G. Westfall.

The Daily Iowan regrets the errors.
U.S. envoy to Soviet Union steps down

By Bruce Steinberg

After three years of leadership changes and five years at the helm, U.S. Ambassador to Moscow Arthur Hartman is leaving his post, the State Department announced Thursday.

White House and State Department officials said they expect John Matlock, chief Soviet expert on the National Security Council, to replace Hartman as head of the embassy. Hartman told friends and associates he was being removed because of "irreconcilable differences" that prevented him from being "truly effective as ambassador."

Hartman, 60, has been in the post for five years, the longest of any ambassador in the post since the end of the Cold War II.

Voyager plane moves toward record

The Voyager, the single-engine Beechcraft plane that has been on a round-the-world trek for over two years, is getting closer to setting a new long-range flight record.

The plane is scheduled to fly over the Pacific Ocean this week and is expected to break the current record of 13,000 miles, which was set by a U.S. Air Force plane in 1971.

Last week, Voyager's pilots added another 7,000 miles to their flight, bringing them closer to the new record.

But the plane's progress is not without challenges. It has encountered high winds and rough seas, and its fuel supply is running low.

One of the most difficult obstacles the Voyager team has faced is the lack of maintenance facilities along its route.

Despite these challenges, the team is determined to complete the journey as planned.

The meeting was adjourned until this morning when the Ministerial sources said 12 of OPEC's 13 members agreed to cut the cartel's production by 7.23 percent.

The participating countries decided to reduce their output by 1.74 million barrels per day, or 4.5 percent of the world's supply.

OPEC, composed of 13 major oil-producing nations, is the world's largest oil cartel.

These reductions are intended to stabilize oil prices and boost the economies of member countries.

Despite the increased burden on OPEC member countries, the move is expected to have a positive impact on the global economy.

The cuts will reduce the supply of crude oil available on the market, which could lead to higher prices for consumers.

However, the impact on the global economy will depend on the effectiveness of the production cut and the response of other oil producers.

The reduction of oil production will also help to stabilize the global financial markets, which have been volatile due to the uncertainty surrounding the oil supply.

In addition, the cuts will help to reduce the environmental impact of oil production, as less crude oil will be burned.

The OPEC decision is a positive step towards a more sustainable energy future, but it will require continued efforts from all parties involved to ensure its success.

In conclusion, the OPEC decision to cut production is a significant step towards stabilizing oil prices and boosting the global economy.

It is essential for all countries to work together to ensure the success of this initiative, as the world's energy security depends on it.
House Intelligence Committee emerging from the closed tee he had no knowledge of the arms sales were a mistake.

"I think what the American public is looking for is twike facts and they're looking for responsibility," he said. "So far as the facts are concerned,
the major issue of fact that is quarreled at this point is
how much money was donated during the time the Contras
and the Contras."

"I think the American public is looking for is two responsibility.

THE PANEL HAS finished its investigation of the administration's 18-month
' who said Khomeini convinced him its
a 'paradise' and that responsibility
is impossible to come to conclusion.

Khomeini convinced him its
a 'paradise' and that responsibility
is impossible to come to conclusion.

Congress only a general
the administration's 18-month
' who said Khomeini convinced him its
a 'paradise' and that responsibility
is impossible to come to conclusion.

Washington (UPI) - The Senate
Intelligence Committee
opened an inquiry dim-
week probe of the Iran arms

copies. It has been during the time the Contras
and the Contras."

Ronald Reagan."

"Then all the facts will be revealed," he said.

"I think what the American public is looking for is twi-
ke facts and they're looking for responsibility," he said. "So far as the facts are concerned,
the major issue of fact that is quarreled at this point is
how much money was donated during the time the Contras
and the Contras."

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Senate
Intelligence Committee
opened an inquiry dim-
week probe of the Iran arms

"The present and the future...
100 P.M. for our

All men's winterweight robes 25% off
All women's winterweight robes 25% off
All regularly priced athletic shoes and warm up suits 25% off
All IOWA apparel and accessories 25% off

ALL DAVINGS

30% off
Men's Sport slacks

40% off
All All-Sport Christmas merchandise

25% off
All children's sleepwear

$1 to $10 off
Ceramic rack and wall

5% off 40% off
All men's leather coats, suits and dress slacks

5% off 25% off
TV, stereo, and entertainment centers, men's, women's, Petites and

Fridays

DECa. 18th

MOBILE

FULL-LENGTH

FROM 4 P.M. TO 8 P.M.

CASH & CARRY

POINSETTIA

ALL SIZES

DEC. 19th

FRI DAY

STANLEY & KROEGER

SUITE HOURS

DEC. 18th

DECEDA. 19th

DEC. 20th

DECEMBER

DEC. 21st

DECEMBER

DEC. 22nd

DECEMBER

DEC. 23rd

DECEMBER

DEC. 24th

DECEMBER

DEC. 25th

DECEMBER

DEC. 26th

DECEMBER

DEC. 27th

DECEMBER

DEC. 28th

DECEMBER

DEC. 29th

DECEMBER

DEC. 30th

DECEMBER

DEC. 31st

DECEMBER

STANLEY & KROEGER

SUITE HOURS

DEC. 18th

DECEMBER

DEC. 19th

DECEMBER

DEC. 20th

DECEMBER

DEC. 21st

DECEMBER

DEC. 22nd

DECEMBER

DEC. 23rd

DECEMBER

DEC. 24th

DECEMBER

DEC. 25th

DECEMBER

DEC. 26th

DECEMBER

DEC. 27th

DECEMBER

DEC. 28th

DECEMBER

DEC. 29th

DECEMBER

DEC. 30th

DECEMBER

DEC. 31st
The year in review

1. Challenger explodes, the nation mourns
   The Space Shuttle Challenger exploded after 73 seconds of flight and America mourned would-be teacher-in-space Christa McAuliffe and six other astronauts as heroes. The January tragedy was the worst in the 25-year history of the American space program.

2. Russian nuclear accident alarms the world
   Chernobyl, a Russian nuclear power plant near Kiev, suffered a partial meltdown, spewing forth deadly levels of radiation, contaminating more than 100,000 and killing 31. The incident created an uproar as the international community condemned the Soviets for failing to promptly notify the rest of the world.

3. U.S. planes bomb Libyan terrorist camps
   Departing air bases in England April 14, 50 U.S. jets attacked Libyan terrorist camps, bombing the French Embassy and Col. Mouammar Gadhafi’s home, killing his infant daughter. At least 17 civilians died and more than 100 were wounded.

4. Iranian arms-Contra aid scandal discovered
   Controversy raged when a plan to sell U.S. weapons to Iran was uncovered and revealed profits from the sale were diverted to Contras.

5. Aquino replaces Marcos in Philippines
   Riding a crest of enthusiasm to the polls, Corazon Aquino, 53, defeated Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos in a hastily called February election. Marcos and his wife, Imelda, fled the island to Hawaii, ending his 20-year reign.

6. O’Neill leaves House post after 10 years

7. Reagan, Gorbachev meet in Iceland summit
   President Ronald Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev met at Reykjavik, Iceland, to lay the groundwork for a superpower summit in Washington, D.C. The talks, which nearly resulted in nuclear arms reductions for both countries, broke down after Reagan refused to restrict Star Wars testing to the laboratory.

8. AIDS issue captures national attention
   AIDS came to the forefront of the American health scene as the deadly disease claimed screen legend Rock Hudson. Entertainment stars united to raise public awareness and money to combat the mysterious virus.

9. American journalist jailed by Soviets
   U.S. News and World Report correspondent Nicholas Daniloff was detained and charged with spying by Soviet officials. Daniloff was returned to the United States at the same time accused Soviet spy Gennadi Zakharov returned to Russia. The coincidence sparked widespread speculations that a spy-for-spy deal had transpired.

10. Burger retires, Rehnquist takes charge
    Warren Burger announced his retirement from the U.S. Supreme Court on June 17, and President Ronald Reagan nominated Associate Justice William Rehnquist to succeed him.

11. Len Bias dies, drug testing increases
    In a nine-day span in June, University of Maryland basketball star Len Bias and Cleveland Browns safety Don Rogers both died after using crack. Bias, 22, died 48 hours after being picked at the first round of the annual NBA draft by the Boston Celtics. Rogers, 21, died the day before he was to marry in college sweetheart.

12. Anti-drug law, the Drug Abuse Act of 1986
    Prompted President Ronald Reagan to issue an executive order directing government employees to submit to drug testing.

Extra
In light of increasing international awareness, the U.S. is not entirely ignorant of the foreign university. That the U.S. is a more secure classroom than ever before is certain. It may be that the new generation of American students will have to decide for itself what it considers the top national stories of the year. It may be decided that the world learned to live with the nuclear threat.

Not comical
To the Editor: It appears that the comedian "comic" strip is undergoing a "renaissance. Marv Wolfman and Don Perlin, creators of "Wacky Races," claim that the strip is "not a comic." They claim that it is a "super-serial" and only comical in the same way as "self-criticism" or "sacred subject matter" is "comical." It is true that it is often related to popular culture, but is it really a "comic" strip? It is hard to say. The strip is certainly not a "comic" strip in the traditional sense.

Letters
The controversy of the Anti-drug Law Act of 1986 has prompted President Reagan to issue an executive order directing government employees to submit to drug testing.

Graham-Rudman law slashes budget

The year in review
A seduction by design

By Elizabeth Faye

A friend of mine, a stateswoman, has a theory about women—a very believable theory. At any rate, I disagree with her, though this is just the way God wired it up.

I went to a class on seduction tonight. The professor picked up one of the slips of the women who wasn't going home to their families. It was to be all women, I knew we would all be women.

I looked over at the woman next to me. She wore sports, and had a lot of intelligent things to say. She along with the fact that she's a poet in the UI Women's Club, must be a healthy self-respect for her memory, I imagined.

So, I checked out her clothes. She was wearing a vintage sweater dress, frugile, rose, and had a hairbrush put up in her hair. She was in an eagle-faced shirt, delicate purple paint around her lips, and a fur coat over the floor where the eye had been. Glasses sitting on the rest of the dark wood along the edges of the brown girl's eyes, she was walking straight but twisty.

Aadro. Most of my male friends are fancying in a high society. At once. You know them. But it's not the social group that she has there. And the women.

I resisted the urge to count all of the women who apparently are or it is just processing them? Until that can be answered, that is all I have.

Scribble

by Michael Isles

The snow fell light, the snow fell hard, the potatoes peeling, the Christmas trees being delivered. The distant sound of violin, the distant sound of trumpet. The distant sound of Barbara Stanwyck in a movie, peeling a potato, peeling a potato. A potato peeling, Barbara Stanwyck from the closest thing she had to a husband, Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

There were those of us involved in the departmental functions and the staff of the United States Senate who had publicly expressed our grudging admiration for the dedication of our beloved senator. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Thank you to the Editor.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

The president's face lit up—"How real is that of our lawyer?" Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

So, you heard from behind a voice from behind his desk. That's on her face. Always a living, always a look of expectations on her face, Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

The president was asked to the banquet. The president was asked to the banquet. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

The lawyer was involved in the entertainment in the future. The president was involved in the entertainment in the future.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

During her tenure as campus editor, Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. There were those of us involved in the departmental functions and the staff of the United States Senate who had publicly expressed our grudging admiration for the dedication of our beloved senator. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Thank you to the Editor.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

The president's face lit up—"How real is that of our lawyer?" Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

The president's face lit up—"How real is that of our lawyer?" Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

My brother got contacts while he was in high school and had a lot of intelligent things to say. She along with the fact that she's a poet in the UI Women's Club, must be a healthy self-respect for her memory, I imagined.

So, I checked out her clothes. She was wearing a vintage sweater dress, frugile, rose, and had a hairbrush put up in her hair. She was in an eagle-faced shirt, delicate purple paint around her lips, and a fur coat over the floor where the eye had been. Glasses sitting on the rest of the dark wood along the edges of the brown girl's eyes, she was walking straight but twisty.

Aadro. Most of my male friends are fancying in a high society. At once. You know them. But it's not the social group that she has there. And the women.

I resisted the urge to count all of the women who apparently are or it is just processing them? Until that can be answered, that is all I have.

Scribble

by Michael Isles

The snow fell light, the snow fell hard, the potatoes peeling, the Christmas trees being delivered. The distant sound of violin, the distant sound of trumpet. The distant sound of Barbara Stanwyck in a movie, peeling a potato, peeling a potato. A potato peeling, Barbara Stanwyck from the closest thing she had to a husband, Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

There were those of us involved in the departmental functions and the staff of the United States Senate who had publicly expressed our grudging admiration for the dedication of our beloved senator. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Thank you to the Editor.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

The president's face lit up—"How real is that of our lawyer?" Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

The president's face lit up—"How real is that of our lawyer?" Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

The president's face lit up—"How real is that of our lawyer?" Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

The president's face lit up—"How real is that of our lawyer?" Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

The president's face lit up—"How real is that of our lawyer?" Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born. Barbara Stanwyck was being born.

Barbara Stanwyck was being born.
FOR EVERYONE WHO'S MADE THE GRADE, AND PASSED THE CLASS...

Season's Greetings

from
DALE LEE DISTRIBUTORS
OF CEDAR RAPIDS

Best wishes from all of us for a safe and happy holiday season!
Iowa, Iowa State ready for big test

By Marc Grayer

The battle for the mythical state championship between Iowa and Iowa State this week is the biggest in wrestling history. The win will be important for both teams, with Iowa State looking to move up in the national rankings and Iowa looking to maintain its top-five status.

The dual meet will take place on Saturday at 2 p.m. at Carver-Hawkeye Arena. The winner will likely face Northwestern in the regional tournament.

Trivisa Teaser

What is the capital of France?

Wisconsin

Packers’ Lofton suspended after sexual assault charge

By John Dorsey

Green Bay Packers tight end Jimmy Lofton is facing a sexual assault charge after being arrested Thursday on suspicion of second-degree sexual assault.

The 29-year-old Lofton has been with the Packers since 2011 and has been a key player for the team.

Lofton and his girlfriend were arrested Thursday night after police were called to their home.

Lofton’s attorney said the couple was just trying to work things out and that there was no wrongdoing.

Lofton has been suspended by the NFL and will miss the rest of the season.

Hussar overcomes injuries to boost Hawks

By Julie Deardorff

Hussar senior Jessica Hussar overcomes injuries to boost the Hawks in their season opener against Northern Illinois.

Hussar has been dealing with injuries throughout her career but has never let them stop her from reaching her goals.

She has a lot of reading on the importance of positive thinking and the psychology of women.

Women’s Gymnastics

She then told her coach she was going to "kick this year's" team's butt.

Hussar says she's been working hard all year and is excited to see what she can accomplish.

The battle for the mythical state championship between Iowa and Iowa State this week is the biggest in wrestling history. The win will be important for both teams, with Iowa State looking to move up in the national rankings and Iowa looking to maintain its top-five status.

The dual meet will take place on Saturday at 2 p.m. at Carver-Hawkeye Arena. The winner will likely face Northwestern in the regional tournament.

Wisconsin

Packers’ Lofton suspended after sexual assault charge

By John Dorsey

Green Bay Packers tight end Jimmy Lofton is facing a sexual assault charge after being arrested Thursday on suspicion of second-degree sexual assault.

The 29-year-old Lofton has been with the Packers since 2011 and has been a key player for the team.

Lofton and his girlfriend were arrested Thursday night after police were called to their home.

Lofton’s attorney said the couple was just trying to work things out and that there was no wrongdoing.

Lofton has been suspended by the NFL and will miss the rest of the season.

Hussar overcomes injuries to boost Hawks

By Julie Deardorff

Hussar senior Jessica Hussar overcomes injuries to boost the Hawks in their season opener against Northern Illinois.

Hussar has been dealing with injuries throughout her career but has never let them stop her from reaching her goals.

She has a lot of reading on the importance of positive thinking and the psychology of women.

Women’s Gymnastics

She then told her coach she was going to "kick this year's" team's butt.

Hussar says she's been working hard all year and is excited to see what she can accomplish.
Jordans leads late Bulls' rally

NBA

New Jersey 94, New York 90 (NEW YORK UPI) -- Louie Tuck scored 18 field goals, including six in the final two minutes, to lead the Bulls to a 90-94 victory over the Knicks in an NBA game.

The Bulls won their fourth game in a row, and Tuck became the first player in NBA history to score 18 field goals in a game.

The Knicks, playing without center Patrick Ewing, were unable to keep pace with the Bulls.

The Bulls' victory, their fourth in a row, improved their record to 9-1 for the season.

Tuck, who scored a season-high 94 points against the Knicks last season, was 18 of 25 from the field and 6 of 9 from the free-throw line.

The Knicks, who had won three straight games, were led by guard John Starks, who scored 34 points.

The game was decided in the final minutes, as Tuck scored six straight points to put the Bulls ahead for good.

The Bulls' defense held the Knicks to 42 points in the second half, and Tuck's performance helped ensure the victory.

The Bulls will play their next game on Wednesday against the Los Angeles Lakers.
Hawkeyes went:

"We got both small forward, both displays same skills as well as inside
skill, and they could very well match-up.

The similarities between the two don't stop there. Marble and Grayer have even Asian features, and both are 6-foot-9. But Marble has more experience, having played 36 games at Iowa.

From freshman year.
"I'm glad to see how much he's grown and matched up with the Lakers."

BUCKWORTH, a 2005
from Eastern Illinois and the Averaging 12 points per game.

Jerry's a 7-footer at power forward. Kersey is 40 points.

"Jerry's a 7-footer at power forward. Kersey is..."

Basketball.

The switch from an all-around player to the Berry has missed
Portland's worth high in last year's draft.
Our number's up

The Daily Iowan's telephone numbers will change on Friday, Dec. 18. To reach us, dial...
Beatrice: 335-7954

Our new phone number will be 335-5784.

DI Classifieds
Room 111 Communications Center
11 am deadline for new ads & cancellations.

MERRY CHRISTMAS and HAPPY NEW YEAR to all our Classified customers. We hope we have served you well and will continue to do our best. We will be back in the office on January 13, 1987.

Don't forget!
Our new phone number will be 335-5784.
DI Classifieds

Room 111 Communications Center
11 am deadline for new ads & cancellations.

UPPER DOWNTOWN

ROOM FOR RENT

DOOR, 2 blocks from 14th and main. All utilities included, $105 weeks first available 1/1/86. Phone 335-9060.

ROOMMATE WANTED

WANTED ROOMMATE. Large room, all utilities included, $150
Monthly. Phone 338-3674.

ADVENTURES

Journey to the West by Mike H边境

A stimulating adventure novel about a Pilgrimage to the West. A journey filled with suspense and excitement. Don’t miss this captivating tale of adventure and discovery!

DI Classified Ad Blank

Write ad below using one word per blank

DI Classified Ad Blank

Write ad below using one word per blank
NBC continues to dominate ratings

NEW YORK — Four of the five top-rated shows in the prime-time ratings race were NBC's in last week, while the network's "Night Court" was third. "Cheers" and "Hill Street Blues," which ranked second and third in the time period, both received a 14.8 rating and a 22 share, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co. for the week ending Dec. 14.

The network's "L.A. Law," "Hill Street Blues" and "Crime Story" were the top three prime-time shows for the second most-watched network of the season, CBS's "The Last Frontier," remaining on top. "L.A. Law" had a 15.7 rating and 25 share, while "Hill Street Blues" had a 14.3 rating and 23 share. "Crime Story" had a 14.1 rating and 21 share.

"Cheers," starring Ted Danson and Bebe Neuwirth, had a 14 rating and 20 share. It marked the end of its fifth season, and "Hill Street Blues," which is in its seventh season, had a 14.9 rating and 23 share. "Crime Story," which is in its third season, had the highest rating so far in its time period, with a 15.7 rating and 26 share.

This was the story in NBC's "The Cosby Show," which ranked fourth, with its lead over ABC being 12.2 rating and 21 share, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co. for the week ending Dec. 14. According to the A.C. Nielsen Co., NBC had a 14.3 rating and a 22 share, while ABC had a 12.2 rating and a 21 share.

The network's "L.A. Law," "Hill Street Blues" and "Crime Story" were the top three prime-time shows for the second most-watched network of the season, CBS's "The Last Frontier," remaining on top. "L.A. Law" had a 15.7 rating and 25 share, while "Hill Street Blues" had a 14.3 rating and 23 share. "Crime Story" had a 14.1 rating and 21 share.

"Cheers," starring Ted Danson and Bebe Neuwirth, had a 14 rating and 20 share. It marked the end of its fifth season, and "Hill Street Blues," which is in its seventh season, had a 14.9 rating and 23 share. "Crime Story," which is in its third season, had the highest rating so far in its time period, with a 15.7 rating and 26 share.
Footballcember has arrived
See page 6
From the Editor's Desk

'Tis finally the season – Happy Holidays!

When the semester began 115 days ago, the final day of finals week seemed impossibly far away. The mountain of assignments and books promised an endless round of studying and reading. But, as always, the term sped by and it’s already time to pack up, head home and enjoy the holidays.

One of the things to pack for the trip home is this week’s issue of Distractions. In it you’ll find a guide to going broke over break: How to get along with the parents; what to do when you run out of things to do; how to make and keep New Year’s resolutions; and tips on enjoying holiday parties if you’d like to skip the alcohol.

The most important thing to take with you this vacation, however, is a resolve to rest and relax. A semester of college takes its toll. The all-nighters, the Quick Trip food (not to mention what they serve at the dorms), the hours of studying — and that’s just the academic side of college life. Throw in a few nights a week spent at a downtown bar and you’ve got a pretty demanding schedule.

After a few months of that kind of lifestyle, you’re need of some TLC from Mom. Just when you need it most, you have 30 days of well-deserved rest before the next semester comes and everything starts over.

So until Jan. 19, rest up, eat lots of home-cooked dinners and have a good time. Happy holidays from everyone at The Daily Iowan.

Kathy Hinson Breed
Managing Editor

Distractions Staff

Editors
Mary Boone
Kathy Hinson Breed

Contributing Staff
Teresa Heger

Graphics
Jeffrey Sedam
Rod Faccio

Toys aren’t the best part of Christmas anymore

By Kathy Hinson Breed
Managing Editor

Remember how you looked forward to Christmas when you were a kid? By the first day of school in September, you had a wish-list outlined in preparation for the holidays — nothing big, just 1,000 or so items listed in order of preference. By Thanksgiving, the dropping of hints began in earnest. “C’mon, Mom, wouldn’t it be great to have Kingola’s Summer Home/Convertible Car Port/Beauty Salon/ Pizza Parlor Play Set I hear they have that on sale at Penney’s for only $49.99.”

By the time December rolled around, the anticipation made each 24-hour day until Christmas morning seem more like a week.

And one of the most frustrating things about being a kid-in-waiting for the holiday was the seeming indifference of adults. For some reason, the grownups didn’t care if you made a production out of opening another window on the advent calendar or counting down the hours and minutes until Santa would somehow weave himself down the chimney with a bag filled to the bursting point with gifts.

But now that you’re in what a high school teacher used to call “big people’s school,” you’re ready to let in on a well-kept secret. Adults look forward to the holidays just as much as the kids do, but for a different reason: Food.

Face it, Christmas is one of the few times when everyone feels not only obligated to bake enough food to feed the entire fourth division of the Chinese infantry, but also to eat at least that amount themselves. Let the kids have their C.I. Joe action figures and the latest gruesome-looking Masters of the Universe/Lord of the Underworld/Clown of the Living Dead or whatever else it is they’re into. But you’re ready to let in on the secret that the holidays are for the food.

And what better way to celebrate the holidays than baking up some of the best cookies available? Kids, you’re ready to let in on the secret that the holidays are for the food, too.

Some things in the world of food never change. Take the molasses cookie. How many times do we hear the phrase “a humble molasses cookie”? But the humble molasses cookie has been around for so long that it’s almost a classic — right up there with the chocolate chip.

And that’s just the beginning. From the simple sugar cookie to the complicated dozen, these recipes are sure to bring joy to the holidays.

Frosting

1/2 cup of shortening
1 stick butter or margarine
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 to 1 pound powdered sugar
Milk to add

Mix together shortening, butter, vanilla, salt and sugar. Beat on high speed, adding milk and sugar to achieve desired texture. (Frosting should be slightly stiff. If it is too runny, add more sugar; too stiff, add milk.)

Gingerbread Boys

2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
2 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup salt
1 cup sugar
2 well-beaten eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift the flour, add the baking powder and salt and sift again. Cream the sugar and butter until fluffy, add the eggs and vanilla. Stir in the flour mixture and chill until the dough is stiff. Roll out on a floured board, cut with cookie cutters and sprinkle with sugar. Bake on an ungreased cookie sheet at 400 to 425 for 4 to 5 minutes.

Peanut Clusters

2 cups sugar
1 cup evaporated milk
28 caramelized nuts
6-ounce package butterscotch chips
6-ounce package chocolate chips
1 tablespoon vanilla
3 cups Spanish peanuts

Bring the sugar and milk to a boil in a saucepan, reduce heat and add the caramelized nuts. Stir until melted. Remove from heat and add the chocolate chips, stirring until melted. Add the vanilla and nuts, drop by spoonfuls onto waxed paper. Chill until set.

Almost (101)

By Kathy Hinson Breed
Managing Editor

You’ve been dreaming of this since the semester began: it’s the final day of finals week. With a little last-minute studying and some luck, you’re going to make it after all. And after struggling through the semester’s 115 incredibly long and slow-moving days, boy are you ready for winter break.

The first few days of vacation are undoubtedly the best. The lazy hours in front of the TV, the home-cooked meals Mom provides, the break from constant studying. All these little luxuries put anything stressful out of student’s heads.

But sooner or later — when you’ve seen all the “Wheel of Fortune” shows any sane person can take and watch all the re-runs of “Heaven’”s got a new name, this time it’s Dec. 31. And the next day, all you do is worry about whether you’re going to get bored. So, here’s our New Year’s resolution:

WELL, DON’T WASTE the precious
Happy Holidays!

It's not always easy to go home again

By Adam Shell
Freelance Writer

A going-away-to-college jitters are diminished for "Wheels of Fortune" shows any winter break poses new problems for them as they return home for the first major vacation. It is not uncommon for freshmen to feel a bit awkward at home after being away for an extended period of time.

"The adaptation the student has to go through is very difficult, especially after they've become accustomed to taking on new responsibilities while away at school," University Counseling Service psychologist Bruce Etringer said.

Etringer said it is very difficult for returning freshmen to adjust to living by the old rules and standards imposed upon them by their parents.

He added that parents find it difficult to understand the idea of change in such a short period.

OVER THANKSGIVING, many students had a taste of the difficulty of fitting back into the home scene; "it felt a lot different because I'm not used to living with my parents anymore," Scott Everett said. "They have rules about coming home by a certain time at night." Freshmen may also find it disturbing to find their rooms at home have been taken over by a brother or sister.

"I'm now living in the basement because my sister took it upon herself to take my room," Everett said. "I was surprised when I went up to my room and all my furniture was gone and the floor was recarpeted. She didn't even ask!"

ETRINGER SAID THIS becomes problematic because the sister or brother perceives the room change differently than the ousted freshman.

Freshmen say being freshman sees it as an invasion while the brother or sister feels like it's their room," Etringer said.

Another potential problem facing the returning freshman now the relationship with old friends has changed.

"Freshmen change," Etringer said, "and they may not be able to relate to old friends."

Freshmen often cope with this change by attempting to make believe things are still the same.

"The return of a relationship is still in their heads that they may not be the best friends for the rest of their lives."

Bringing rights over who attends the better university and whose grades are higher can create an adversarial situation between old friends. "In high school nobody was interested in grades, but now grades are very important," Kayser said.

However, many freshmen said their relationship with their best friends remained as good as ever. "They were still my friends but were new in different things," Everett said. "But I still wish I would have had more time to do things with them while I was home."

Open communication, a relaxed attitude can make your month with Mom and Dad a lot more pleasant

By Dan McMillan
Editorial Page Editor

As the holidays approach and students get ready for a monthlong visit at home with the parents, most are packing their clothes and a few books.

Others are just packing the candy cane capsules:

Now, of course, not everyone dreads spending winter break with the folks. In fact, many students actually enjoy it. Certainly, a vacation at home can be a relaxing time, complete with plenty of good food, a nice television and the beloved family pet. But if you're one of those who look forward to the holiday season with something less than Kris Kringle's vigor, the experience can't be nothing short of taxing. Parents who are unfamiliar with the typical dormroom, the classroom, your boyfriend/girlfriend, your religion (or lack thereof), your hairstyle or simply trying your "attitude," can make the break seem a lot longer than one month.

EVEN IF ONE OF THESE scenarios sounds familiar to you or your parents don't despair yet. There is still hope for a semi-successful holiday vacation.

One key to enjoying the holidays with your parents is to be relaxed. Although it may seem difficult in the beginning, "like putting the carriage before the horse (since it is the season that is supposed to produce the feeling of good cheer), anyone who's spent a nail-biting, tear-inducing holiday at home would swear by this crucial ingredient," Etringer said.

Being relaxed means letting the minor things slide. Try not to get too upset about Mom's frequent comments about your laziness or Dad's probing questions like, "where did you spend all that money I gave you in September?" if you play these situations right and don't take them too seriously, they can usually be defused without an explosion.

OF COURSE, THIS DOESN'T mean you should sit silently listening to your parents lecture about the evils of wearing a pair of jeans with a hole in the knee, but it does mean you should try to take their complaints with a grain of salt.

Another important part of enjoying the holiday season at home is keeping the channels of communication open. After a few days of well-deserved rest before the new semester and everything starts over.

"It's no fun when each parent wants to talk about exams but it is possible to talk about something else, even if only for a little while," Etringer said.

The third key to enjoying the time at home with Mom and Dad is the realization that, no matter how remote it may seem at the time, they may actually have a point in an argument.

If you're able to keep this thought in mind from time to time, it will make accepting some advice a little easier — and therein lies the parental loves more than seeing a son or daughter act on their advice.

So, now's the time to gear up for winter break. Remember, it's only one month out and it's supposed to be fun. You can do a lot towards making it turn out that way if you go into it with the right frame of mind.

(Almost) 101 Cures for over-the-break boredom

By Kathy Hinson Breed
Managing Editor

You've been dreaming of this since the semester began. It's the final day of final exams week.

With a little last-minute studying and a few hours of leisure that are so rapidly dwindling away. Here are a few suggestions (OK, the headline lied when it promised 101!) as to what to do when the halfway-through-break boredom sets in:

• Hop a flight for California or Florida or Aruba or some such January hot spot. Fun and sun are guaranteed. As you'll recall, the headline made no promises as to the affordability of these suggestions. But if you're less than wealthy or haven't yet won the lottery, read on for more budget-conscious ideas.

• Rent a VCR and some tapes of old television movies. On the way home from the video shop, pick up a box of Kleenex and a pound of chocolates. View, snuffle, and chill-out. Keep this in mind for future reference. It's also a great cure for mid-term blues.

• Call three friends and set up a night of cards with the boys (or the girls — it's dealer's choice). Don't forget to stock up on beer, pretzels and Monopoly money before the crew arrives.

• Visit the local library and bring home a stack of books. Reading can be fun when it's not assigned, it's not a chemistry textbook and there's no quiz over it on Monday.

• Go visit your grandparents. OK, this may sound more like a duty than your idea of a fun afternoon. But they'll love you for it, they'll love you even if you became a serial killer, but this will put extra gold stars on your chart and you may even have a good time.

• Learn to ice skate or ski or knit or needlepoint or paint or macrame, etc. (in order to get closer to the 101 items promised, count this paragraph as six suggestions.)

• Shop. That one should shop every single post-holiday sale should be obvious to anyone intelligent enough to pass college admission tests, but it doesn't hurt to remind everyone. Keep in mind that as of Jan. 1 there are only 359 shopping days until Christmas.

• Rammage through your closets until you find all the gifts you bought during last year's post-holidays sales and then promptly forgot. Wrap them in the paper you just bought for half price during this year's sales and put them in a memorable storage spot in preparation for next Christmas.

• Bake a cake. Knit some socks. Clean your closets. Send New Year's cards to all the people you droppped off your Christmas card list and then got a card from after all.

• Call all the friends who've moved away over the past year. Draw up your resume. Visit a health club. Take your aerobics class. Buy a puppy or a kitten...

Well, that's as close to 101 boredom stoppers as this is going to get. If you're still bored and can't think of anything to do, contemplate buying books for next semester and getting a head start on studying. That's guaranteed to remind you of at least 101 things you'd rather do instead.
Promises, promises ... it's resolution time again

By Anne Upson
Special to The Daily Iowan

With Christmas just around the corner, thoughts turn to bringing in the new year. Among the traditions that come with this occasion is that of making New Year's resolutions.

New Year's resolutions have their beginning in the days of the Roman Empire. The Romans held a yearly celebration in honor of the god Janus, for whom the month January was named. In this celebration, people exchanged gifts on the first day of January with friends and people of high rank in order to gain good fortune.

When the Roman Empire expanded, this custom traveled with it, reaching the Middle East. When the custom reached Persia, it changed. Instead of giving just gifts, people exchanged eggs to symbolize the hatching of new life.

LATER IN HISTORY, around the 1800s, England added another type of celebration to the New Year's tradition. At this time people cleaned their chimneys on Jan. 1 as a way of promising themselves that the faults of the past year would be overlooked and they could start the new year fresh. From this tradition comes the expression "clean the slate."

Eventually this redemption from past years' faults was transformed into a self-made promise. This promise tried to correct flaws and bad habits, making the new year better than the one before. This form of the tradition passed from one generation to another, and the ritual is still upheld today.

The many who participate in this tradition usually make one of two kinds of resolutions: vows of physical, mental or spiritual improvement, or promises to help others.

UNFORTUNATELY, MOST resolutions do not have a positive outcome. About 80 percent of those who make New Year's resolutions fail to reach their goal, according to psychologist Nancy Barnos.

People often fail to meet goals or resolutions because they are too high, too broad, too unrealistic, too rigid and basically impossible, Barnos said.

Besides making improbable goals, people often handicap themselves with an all-or-nothing attitude. When people take a small step out of their self-set boundaries, they often feel they can no longer continue with the goal and end the resolution, the added.

Despite the pitfalls and problems, resolutions can work if some simple steps are followed:

- Set realistic and smaller goals, for instance aiming at a weight loss of 1 pound a week, instead of 20 pounds in a month.
- Reinforce or reward each goal you reach. If you reach a weight-loss goal of 1 pound, for example, buy yourself a new sweater or new pair of pants. Reward along the way to an overall goal level of reminders of progress.
- Keep a positive outlook on the resolution.

Many gyms and weight loss clinics capitalize on this and offer specials on membership fees during the holidays. Several local health club workers said they expect an increase in membership of up to 25 percent during the holiday season.

Next to physical improvement resolutions, the most commonly made promise may be to improve mentally, either by bettering grades or study habits.

The other self-improvement resolution — spiritual betterment — usually means improving religious habits, perhaps praying more or increasing church or synagogue attendance.

Promises meant to help others often revolve around improving relationships.

DI psy next year

By Phil Thomas
University Editor

A new year awaits us adventure and more news. Daily Iowan staff members turned to reporting the news; this time we are not reporting it happened, but predicting the news and events of 1987.

Here are The Daily Iowan predictions for 1987:

- Someone will scrape the dome of the Old Capitol and activities will paint it red, white and blue.
- Congress will repeal the Equal Rights Amendment and Ronald Reagan will campaign for a third term in office being rejuvenated by a fabulous new program.
- UI President James O. Freedman will publicly claim that his life lacks adventure and he will move his family into a residence hall.
- Pop rock star Madonna will begin marketing a new line of lingerie.
- Aliens will land in Davenport December 31, 1987, and he will move his family into a residence hall.
- The University of Miami will lose its public relations department when the entire city of Miami will plunge into the Atlantic Ocean.
- Robin Leach, the host of TV's "Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous," will shed his tuxedo and become an assistant to Mother Teresa.
- After a slight earthquake, Mayflower Residence Hall will begin a voyage down the Iowa River.
- Chicago Bears Quarterback Doug Flutie will become a salesmen for a national vacuum cleaner company.
DI psychics give you next year's news now

By Phil Thomas
University Editor

A new year awaits us with more adventure and more news. Daily Iowan staff members are accustomed to reporting the news. However, this time we are not reporting what has happened, but predicting the newsmakers and events of 1987. Here are the Daily Iowan predictions for 1987:

- Someone will scrape the gold from the dome of the Old Capitol and campus activists will paint it red, white and blue.
- Harvard University will change its name to Boston Area Community College.
- Chicago City Council members will finally realize their city is located in Illinois, and decide to move to the Atlantic Coast.
- Playboy Magazine owner Hugh Hefner will join the National Organization for Women.
- A popular new Hollee H doll resembling Lt. Col. Oliver North will be sold in stores everywhere, replacing the popular G.I. Joe.
- Congress will repeal the 22nd Amendment and Ronald Reagan will begin campaigning for a third term in office after being rejuvenated by a fabulous new diet program.
- Nancy Reagan will rid her wardrobe of the color red.
- UI President James O. Freedman will publicly claim that his life lacks adventure and he will move his family into Burge Residence Hall.
- Iowa football Coach Hayden Fry will start doing commercials for a pickle sauce company.
- UI Student Senate President Joe Hansen will try to get hot tubs installed in the Union.
- Madonna will begin marketing a new line of lingerie.
- UI ofﬁcials will forget what the next phase of the Union renovation will be.
- Aliens will land in Davenport and return a 23-year-old, miraculously rejuvenated Cary Grant.
- The University of Miami will lose to Penn State in the Fiesta Bowl and the entire city of Miami will plunge into the Atlantic Ocean.
- Robin Leach, the host of TV’s “Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous,” will shed his tuxedo and become an assistant to Mother Teresa.
- Joy Rivers’ new late night program will drop drastically in the ratings and will be replaced by Gidget reruns.

Unfortunately, most resolutions fail to reach their goal. About 90 percent of those who make solutions fail to reaching their goal, according to psychologist Nancy Barrons.

People often fail to meet goals or resolutions because they are too high, too broad, too unrealistic, too rigid and basically impossible, Barrons said. Blunders making impossible goals, people often hamstring themselves with an all-or-nothing attitude. When people take a small step out of their self-set boundaries, they often feel they can no longer continue toward the goal and end the resolution, she added.

Despite the pitfalls and problems, resolutions can work if some simple steps are followed:

- Set realistic and smaller goals, for instance aiming at a weight loss of 1 pound a week instead of 20 pounds in 2 months.
- Reward or reward each goal we reach. If you reach a weight loss goal of 10 pounds, for example, buy yourself a new shirt or new pair of pants. Keep along the way to an overall goal with reminders of progress.
- Keep a positive outlook on the resolution.
A month of football: Pro ... and college

By Christopher G. Wesling
News Editor

About this time every year, someone invariably asks, "What's the best thing about Christmas break?"

In reply will come the usual stock answers: "The presents," or "No school," or even "The joy of seeing a loved one's face light up on Christmas morning."

Get serious.

Anyone who knows anything knows full well the best thing about this magical period of the year is football. Be it on TV, on tape or in person, the holidays were meant for football.

It's kinda like this: Some people like to shop, some folks enjoy caroling, but real men love their football. It's common knowledge that to be a real man in America you need three things: Meat, beer and football.

And what better time for all three in the right middle of all the Christmas hubbub! There's NFL action, NCAA bowl games, and ... well, that's more than enough. Of course, if you're just a sports报送 junkie, there's always the NFL to fall back on, but that's another story.

WHAT WE'RE TALKING ABOUT here is football. Good ol' American football, not the sissy stuff by the same name they play in England, but real football — the way God intended it to be played.

And since Americans play football so well, it's only natural the sport seems to agree with the old axiom that more is better, 'cuz there's football wherever you look.

Heck, by now this year's California Bowl game is history, and tomorrow Texas Tech and Mississippi State square off in the Independence Bowl.

And that's just the beginning.

Still to come are the Hall of Fame Bowl, the Orange Bowl, the Gator Bowl, the Cotton Bowl, the Holiday Bowl, the Sugar Bowl, the Rose Bowl and a whole crud- load of other ones too numerous to mention.

BUT PERHAPS THE BEST bowl game of all, at least according to all the sports writers in this great land, will be the Fiesta Bowl.

Breaking the "Jan. 1 is the date for the best bowl games to be played" tradition, Miami and Penn State meet in Temple, Ariz., on Jan. 2 in an unprecedented bowl game greediness.

These two teams, both undefeated and rank two No. 1 and No. 2 respectively, were hooked by Fiesta Bowl officials dangling a $2.2 million bat before their wallets. The million and a half or so offered by a couple of the other bowls apparently wasn't quite enough.

Aren't amateur sports just great?

And while all that's going on, the NFL playoffs will have begun.

AF TER A 16- WEEK season featuring a bunch of sweaty men trying to run down other sweaty men and bash their heads into the ground, these professionals regroup for a few weeks of post-season competition.

By Michael Humes
Staff Writer

It's my assigned task in this journalistic ramification to explain it in graphic detail and sensationalized language just what is wrong with a month of football.

I have been offered certain, shall we say, added considerations should I accept this assignment.

Some might wonder what the hidden motives are of those who would, in a publication intended for the innocent eyes of callow Joe Colleges and Susie Sororities, get outta my face, pal, don't need no favors.

Which is not to say I wouldn't, in a month, a whole stinking month, go to a little hotel, or park, or hotel, not going for fun, not going for nih, not going for N.H.L., not going for N.F.L., not going for N.H.L.

As my primary point of attack, I shall consider that most egregious and notorious of Footballb私服Explicition churches, the bowl game. The reason is that there are approximately a half dozen bowl games as there are collegiates who of sufficient quality to play in them. So these bowl games require the presence of the teams to keep the spectators from losing interest and misbehaving, a second fun has to be found somewhere. Such fun are usually drawn from a heretical deviced list of 20 teams produced by coaches and sportswriters. This list is shaped and limited by its compilers on three personal criteria — experience, instinct and the stress brought on by dealing with numbers much higher than 19.

THIS FOOTBALLCEREMO NIAL, something of a freak of nature has occurred and there will be a bowl game to determine the mythical national championship — the Fiesta Bowl between Penn State and Miami. This mythical national championship is one more symptom of the deep streak of mysticism in football, which simultaneously manifest in the frequency of games on Sundays and religious holidays and the habit of many teams to play it large on important. (Although I have always wondered about the Almighty in the interest of knocking down the appropriate people at the appropriate time. What do these people do to garner God's favor besides something actually important, endow a cathedral?)

But it is good to know that the Feast got two best teams for the championship game — Miami, a team intelligent enough to put the wrong initial on their helmet, and Penn State, which got when it playing such powerhouse as Delaware and Ark., the deepest flaw in the bowl game. We hope this starts a trend — it wouldn't be Footballb私服Explicition without that kind of being.

The playoffs are much like the regular season in respect to all the running and head-bashing that goes on, with one exception: Each playoff game an NFL team wins means a little more money in each player's paycheck, with each game's importance and dollar value increasing all the way to the Super Bowl.

Kind of like the NCAA.

Then with a bang and a boom comes the Super Bowl, the final game of the season. The NFL's supposed two best teams will clash in some cavernous structure filled with beer-swalling fans and before millions more beer-swalling fans through the magic of television.

And then it's all over.

At least until mini-camps in July or when the USFL rises from the dead, whichever comes first.

Rx for 'the day after' gulp water, sleep

By Christopher G. Wesling
News Editor

It's the proverbial morning after and you're lying in bed suffering from a variety of ailments: cotton mouth, Excedrin headaches, dizziness, nausea, drool, queasy stomach, general nausea.

Last night was New Year's Eve.

The wassail was spiked with whiskey, the eggnog laced with vodka and the champagne flowed like water, well, like champagne usually does on New Year's Eve.

And most of it ended up in your stomach.

You promised yourself you'd control yourself last night, but you didn't. You probably wended your way home with more than one drink of any certain alcohol, and you didn't. Instead, you had been there, a glass of champagne at midnight, a shot of Wild Turkey, a shot of Wild Turkey, a shot of Wild Turkey, a shot of Wild Turkey, a shot of Wild Turkey, a shot of Wild Turkey, a shot of Wild Turkey, a shot of Wild Turkey.

And the hangover.

SO NOW YOU FACE the world —
Celebrating
Non-alcoholic New Year’s parties mean safer driving, no hangover

By Monica Seigel
Staff Writer

Dec. 31, 10 seconds to midnight: You’re at a wild New Year’s Eve party where you and everyone around you has had plenty to drink. As you raise your champagne glass for a toast to ring in the new year, you think, “I really having that much fun!” Next year, I’m not going to do this.”

Traditionally, New Year’s Eve is a time for partying. People like to get together with friends and family to reminisce about the happenings of the old year and celebrate the beginning of the new. Usually, these celebrations include the drinking of large amounts of alcohol, but this doesn’t have to be so.

Art Schut, executive director of the Mid-Eastern Council on Chemical Abuse, said there is nothing wrong with celebrating New Year’s Eve by attending parties, as long as alcohol consumption doesn’t get out of hand.

“We wouldn’t advocate not having parties,” Schut said. “Parties are fun and we like them too. It’s really just a question of what you do at them.”

MECCA PUBLISHES RECIPES for non-alcoholic drinks to serve at parties to those who choose not to drink, Schut said. “It’s a good idea to offer alternatives to people who can’t or don’t want to drink,” he said.

Schut added that serving “mocktails,” alcohol-free cocktails, keeps the mood of a party festive and doesn’t make a guest feel self-conscious about not drinking.

UI Coordinator of Campus Programs and Student Activities Mary Peterson said the main alternative to drinking on New Year’s Eve is “not drinking.”

“New Year’s Eve is a time for being together and having fun,” Peterson said. “You want to remember New Year’s Eve on New Year’s Day.”

PETERSON SAID IT’S IMPORTANT to respect people’s rights to choose to drink or not to drink.

“No one should be pressured to drink if he or she doesn’t want to,” she said. “If someone decides he wants to do shots, that’s fine — as long as the person who is enjoying his soda water and lime isn’t forced to participate if he doesn’t want to,” says Mary Peterson, UI coordinator of Campus Programs and Student Activities.

County chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving, suggests that special provisions be made so who drink will not have to drive.

“We’re doing a lot this holiday season to create an awareness about the seriousness of driving while intoxicated,” Panther said.

“We’ve got a red ribbon campaign going on where we are getting people to put red ribbons on their cars to remind them to not drive drunk.”

“We are also appealing to local bar owners to get them involved in our designated driver program,” Panther said.

“In this, we try to encourage the bars to make sure that there will be at least one person in a group of people that comes into a bar that won’t drive.”

The Peterson added that there are currently six businesses participating in the program by offering free soft drinks to designated drivers, but that they hope to get more involvement.

By Christopher G. Wessling
News Editor

It’s the proverbial morning after and you’re lying in bed suffering from a variety of ailments: cotton mouth, Excedrin headache, queasy stomach, general nausea. Last night was New Year’s Eve. The wasp, the blood, the whiskey, the egg nog laced with vodka and the champagne flowed like, well, like champagne usually does on New Year’s Eve. And most of it ended up in your stomach.

You promised yourself you’d control yourself last night. You didn’t. You promised yourself you wouldn’t have more than one drink of any certain alcohol, and you didn’t. Instead, you had three beer, a glass of champagne and maybe, just maybe, one Wild Turkey, a scotch on the rocks, a vodka martini, a gin and tonic, a rum and Coke, a whiskey sour, a Tom Collins, you get the picture...

And the hangover.

SO NOW YOU FACE the world — a blurry world, naid you — with great hesitation and loathing. The first thing you do is grab a glass or two of water, because your nasy hangover stems in part from dehydration of your central nervous system.

Once your central nervous system is taken care of, the next step is a shower. Forget the old cold shower routine, that’ll just change you from a warm person with a hangover to a cold person with a hangover. A lukewarm shower will do better.

After that refreshing shower, a stop in the right direction would be the kitchen, specifically, the refrigerator. Everybody knows: cold remedies are a partial antiseptic for excessive drinking — cold pizza and chicken is especially.

At this time, however, it might be a wise idea to revitalize your physical condition and determine whether your stomach is capable of retaining food. Food is kind of a trial by fire in these situations — either it will help stabilize your gassy stomach, or it will put you on a gastronomic roller coaster. Careful consideration is strongly advised.

REGARDLESS OF HOW THE food question is resolved, this is the time for some form of medication. Aspirin, extra-strength pain relievers, TYLENOL, NAPRIN — they’re all the same. It’s all psychological anyway. As long as you think you’ve got some medicine in your system, you’re halfway to recovery.

Most experts agree the not-logical step would be to grab your favorite section of the newspaper, sit at the kitchen table, spread the paper in front of you and hold your head with your hands. This way, the words on the paper don’t move around as much.

After finishing the paper, flip on the TV. The New Year’s Day is just full of football games, and if you won’t waver at the sight of people cracking heads, find a comfortable chair and rest. For maximum relaxation, be sure to take the phone off the hook and draw the shades. Loud tingling and blinding sunshine are hazardous.

Then, and only then, lie still and try to fall asleep. Despite everything your mother or doctor tells you, sleep is still the best remedy for a hangover.

Rx for ‘the day after.’ Take 2 aspirin, gulp water, sleep the day away

By Art Peterson

2 quarts white grape juice
1 freshly squeezed lemon
or 2 ounces lemon juice
1/4 pint
1 ounce Rose’s lime juice
1/2 ounce
Mix in tall glass. Add ice cubes and garnish. Garnish with lime or mint leaf.

Moody Mary
Pack an old-fashioned glass with ice. Add a few drops of Tabasco sauce, dash of Worcestershire sauce, dash of lemon juice or Rose’s lime juice. Fill with tomato juice and garnish with lemon twist and lime wedge.

Tea-Fashioned
Shake two or three dashes of non-alcoholic bitters on a lump of sugar in an old-fashioned glass. Add a splash of club soda and muddle together. Add two cubes of ice, a twist of lemon peel and a maraschino cherry. Pour in 1 1/2 ounces of very strong tea and stir well.

Mohave
1 1/2 cups sugar
4 cups water
1/4 cup bottled lemon juice
1/2 cup bottled lime juice
2 12-ounce bottles gingerale
1/2 ounce
Mix in tall glass. Pour into tall glasses filled with a spring of mint and lime slice. Makes 8-10 servings.

Southern Beauty
1 egg white
1/2 lime
or 1 ounce Rose’s lime juice
2 dashes non-alcoholic bitters
Blend or shake with crushed ice.

Mocktails’ take the drunk out of drinking

‘Tis the season for partying and going out. But bear in mind that partying does not necessarily mean drinking.

Those who wish to avoid alcoholic beverages can still feel like part of the party. A new trend is for mocktails, non-alcoholic variations on popular drinks.

Celebrate with Care, published by the Iowa Department of Substance Abuse, lists several recipes for mocktails, as well as tips on helping party guests enjoy an alcohol-free evening. Copies of the booklet are available through the Mid-Eastern Council on Chemical Abuse, 430 Southgate Ave.

Temperance Punch
1/2 pound powdered sugar
1 pint lemon juice
1 quart soda water
2 quarts white grape juice
Combine all ingredients in punch bowl with a block of ice. Stir and decorate with fruit as desired.

Prohibition Highball
2 jiggers grape juice
1 freshly squeezed lemon
or 2 ounces lemon juice
1/2 lime
or 1 ounce Rose’s lime juice
1 1/2 ounce
Mix in tall glass. Add ice cubes and garnish. Garnish with lime or mint leaf.

Mocktails’ take the drunk out of drinking

‘Tis the season for partying and going out. But bear in mind that partying does not necessarily mean drinking.

Those who wish to avoid alcoholic beverages can still feel like part of the party. A new trend is for mocktails, non-alcoholic variations on popular drinks.

Celebrate with Care, published by the Iowa Department of Substance Abuse, lists several recipes for mocktails, as well as tips on helping party guests enjoy an alcohol-free evening. Copies of the booklet are available through the Mid-Eastern Council on Chemical Abuse, 430 Southgate Ave.

Temperance Punch
1/2 pound powdered sugar
1 pint lemon juice
1 quart soda water
2 quarts white grape juice
Combine all ingredients in punch bowl with a block of ice. Stir and decorate with fruit as desired.

Prohibition Highball
2 jiggers grape juice
1 freshly squeezed lemon
or 2 ounces lemon juice
1/2 lime
or 1 ounce Rose’s lime juice
1 1/2 ounce
Mix in tall glass. Add ice cubes and garnish. Garnish with lime or mint leaf.

Moody Mary
Pack an old-fashioned glass with ice. Add a few drops of Tabasco sauce, dash of Worcestershire sauce, dash of lemon juice or Rose’s lime juice. Fill with tomato juice and garnish with lemon twist and lime wedge.

Tea-Fashioned
Shake two or three dashes of non-alcoholic bitters on a lump of sugar in an old-fashioned glass. Add a splash of club soda and muddle together. Add two cubes of ice, a twist of lemon peel and a maraschino cherry. Pour in 1 1/2 ounces of very strong tea and stir well.

Mohave
1 1/2 cups sugar
4 cups water
1/4 cup bottled lemon juice
1/2 cup bottled lime juice
2 12-ounce bottles gingerale
1/2 ounce
Mix in tall glass. Pour into tall glasses filled with a spring of mint and lime slice. Makes 8-10 servings.

Southern Beauty
1 egg white
1/2 lime
or 1 ounce Rose’s lime juice
2 dashes non-alcoholic bitters
Blend or shake with crushed ice.

Mocktails’ take the drunk out of drinking

‘Tis the season for partying and going out. But bear in mind that partying does not necessarily mean drinking.

Those who wish to avoid alcoholic beverages can still feel like part of the party. A new trend is for mocktails, non-alcoholic variations on popular drinks.

Celebrate with Care, published by the Iowa Department of Substance Abuse, lists several recipes for mocktails, as well as tips on helping party guests enjoy an alcohol-free evening. Copies of the booklet are available through the Mid-Eastern Council on Chemical Abuse, 430 Southgate Ave.

Temperance Punch
1/2 pound powdered sugar
1 pint lemon juice
1 quart soda water
2 quarts white grape juice
Combine all ingredients in punch bowl with a block of ice. Stir and decorate with fruit as desired.

Prohibition Highball
2 jiggers grape juice
1 freshly squeezed lemon
or 2 ounces lemon juice
1/2 lime
or 1 ounce Rose’s lime juice
1 1/2 ounce
Mix in tall glass. Add ice cubes and garnish. Garnish with lime or mint leaf.

Moody Mary
Pack an old-fashioned glass with ice. Add a few drops of Tabasco sauce, dash of Worcestershire sauce, dash of lemon juice or Rose’s lime juice. Fill with tomato juice and garnish with lemon twist and lime wedge.

Tea-Fashioned
Shake two or three dashes of non-alcoholic bitters on a lump of sugar in an old-fashioned glass. Add a splash of club soda and muddle together. Add two cubes of ice, a twist of lemon peel and a maraschino cherry. Pour in 1 1/2 ounces of very strong tea and stir well.

Mohave
1 1/2 cups sugar
4 cups water
1/4 cup bottled lemon juice
1/2 cup bottled lime juice
2 12-ounce bottles gingerale
1/2 ounce
Mix in tall glass. Pour into tall glasses filled with a spring of mint and lime slice. Makes 8-10 servings.

Southern Beauty
1 egg white
1/2 lime
or 1 ounce Rose’s lime juice
2 dashes non-alcoholic bitters
Blend or shake with crushed ice.