New phones provide efficiency, frustration

Switchover occurs with few hitches

By Shawn Plank
Staff Writer

Students living in UI family housing and residence halls have been answering some unusual calls on the new telephones they received over winter break. The students have been fielding calls for UI business, faculty and staff offices including the UI Student Financial Aid Office, UI Campus Security and UI Registrar Jerald Dallam.

The calls have been misdirected because the new $17 million UI telecommunications system reassigned old phone numbers to students living in UI housing.

"We sort of got caught sleeping at the wheel," UI Planning and Services Director Richard Gibson said.

NEW UI PHONE numbers were necessary because of the large number of telephones switched to the new system Dec. 19, UI Telecommunications Manager William Cleveland said.

The new system includes about 11,000 phones, more than can be handled by one three-number prefix. As a result, all students were assigned the 353- prefix and all UI business, faculty and staff offices were assigned a new 335- prefix.

"There was no way we could avoid assigning the old 353-numbers," Cleveland said.

UI students angry about clone numbers

By Shawn Plank

The new $17 million UI phone system, implemented on Dec. 19, has met with only a few problems in its first month of operation, UI Telecommunications Director William Cleveland said Sunday.

"The cutover went well," he said. "It was very smooth."

But the change has increased the workload of UI Directory Assistance operators, confused many phone users and angered some students who were reassigned old UI business, staff and faculty phone numbers.

In addition, music which played for callers on hold was discontinued a few weeks after the cutover, Cleveland said.

"A NUMBER OF people called who were not too happy with the music we had," he said. "One of the problems is that it is rather loud."

The phone system played a computer-generated series of musical beeps before the decision was made to pull the plug. Now callers waiting "on hold" hear silence.

UI Directory Assistance operators received several complaints about the music.

"People didn't like the carousol music," UI Chief Operator Joyce McMaster said.

UI Planning and Services Director Richard Gibson said a lot of "pointed letters and complaints" were received about the music.

"People didn't like it and it was easier to take it off than to listen to the complaints," he

Back in the spring of things

The start of the spring semester today brought UI students back to Iowa City in droves over the weekend. Sunday afternoon found two returning students hauling their luggage up a fire escape on the west side of Burge Residence Hall.

Leaders call for remembrance of King

By James Cahoy
Staff Writer

While a majority of states in the nation will observe today's anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther King Jr. as a national holiday, many of Iowa City's black leaders say the UI is not doing enough to celebrate.

"I think that the university should do something to honor it," UI Associate Law Professor and Iowa City NAACP member W. H. Knight said. "I think the university should consider taking the day off."

Knight said one of the problems with King's birthday is that Iowa and many other states and organizations aren't celebrating it as a national holiday.

Liz Burden, the Black Student Union representative on the UI Student Senate, said she also thinks the UI should do more to honor the memory of King.

"I CAN UNDERSTAND why they don't take the day off, because the same rationale has always been true for holidays like President's Day, but it would be nice if the university would sponsor some kind of ceremony or something to honor Dr. King," Burden said. "As far as I know, they're not doing anything."

Black Student Union Vice President Rodney Sturgeon agreed a ceremony would be a good idea.

"I think something like that would be appropriate," Sturgeon said.

But UI Dean of Student Services Phillip Jones said the UI has several reasons why it does not officially celebrate King's birthday.

"THE UNIVERSITY has, in the past 18 years, cooperated with student groups in helping to sponsor Dr. King's birthday," Jones said. "I think it's important that the university continue the tradition of having students initiate the events that celebrate his birthday."

Closing the UI and canceling classes because of King's birthday would be unfeasible given the present academic calendar, Jones said, but he added the situation may change.

"The holiday currently falls before our registration date, so our academic calendar doesn't really allow it," Jones

City budget puts pinch on services

By Carol Monaghan
Staff Writer

Iowa City's $40 million 1987-88 budget proposed by City Manager Stephen Atkins last week promises to put the squeeze on several city services, and may result in a loss of jobs for some city workers.

Iowa City councilors will meet today to discuss, for the first time, the $40,304,596 proposed fiscal 1987-88 budget.

"The biggest issue is the cutbacks in the transit system," Councilor Larry Baker said. "Then comes the reduction of services with the library. As the budget proposal stands now, we are on the verge of dismantling the transit system."

Atkins, calling the budget process "an annual agony," said he dislikes the cutbacks as much as any city resident, but "unfortunately finds them necessary in a climate of state and federal cutbacks.

"WITH FEDERAL and state resources disappearing, the revenues which once supplemented our services are now no longer available and we are seeing serious competition among service providers for limited city resources," Atkins said.

Among the city services hit hardest by proposed cutbacks in the city budget is Iowa City's transit system. Atkin's plan allocates $1.8 million to the transit system, a reduction of $175,745 from last year's budget.

The reduction in proposed funds, a decline in ridership and a decline in the parking revenues that help subsidize the transit system have resulted in a plan calling for the layoff of nine transit workers.

"IT'S JUST GOTTEN more and more expensive to operate the system," John Lundell, manager of Iowa City Transit, said. "Ridership is down 12 percent over the last year."

The proposed property tax increase will mean the average home owner, who owns a home valued at $68,450, will feel an added tax bite of $68 a year. Of the increase, general city services will receive 6 percent, while the additional 5.3 percent would be used to finance the debt service costs on the swimming pool bond issue, approved by voters in June 1986.

"People who voted the pool in knew that property taxes were going to go up," Baker said,

Other budget proposals include a refusal to a request for additional library personnel, a decrease in the amount of umbrella insurance carried by the city and cutbacks in aid for several city agencies.

Proposed outlays bring less assistance for local residents

By Carol Monaghan
Staff Writer

The following issues may cause controversy when the proposed 1987-88 Iowa City budget is discussed:

Transit: Substantial cuts, including a reduction of ridership service and the layoff of nine transit workers has been proposed.

The largest service reduction, said Iowa City Transit Manager John Lundell, would be midday service Monday through Friday from one-half hour to one hour service. Also, Saturday night service would end at 7 p.m. instead of 10:30 p.m.

"Saturday evening is when the bus is least used than any other time," said Lundell.

"But the people who do use it rely on it. It's a social service for those who can't afford a taxi or a car."

Lundell said he hopes the effects of the proposed layoffs, which would not take place until July 1, will be lessened by the normal quitting of some employees, especially around graduation time.

Library: The library's request for two and one-half full-time workers has been denied in the proposed budget and the result may be a reduction of library hours.

"If we do not receive the additional employees, it will mean a cut back in services," said Susan Craig, assistant director of the Iowa City Public Library.

The library would close Thursday evenings and all day Fridays, Craig said.

"We would hope this is only a temporary solution," Craig said of the Library Board of Trustees decision.

Insurance: The city has been unable to secure umbrella insurance coverage because of skyrocketing premiums.

City Manager Stephen Atkins said the city received no quotations on their bid for coverage and a request for an additional $1 million in coverage would cost the city $200,000.

The City will rely on a $400,000 held in reserve.

Iowa City Fire Department:

The budget allocates an additional $565,360 for the fire department. The majority of the increase will be used in the purchase of a new ladder truck for the fire department, Iowa City Fire Chief Larry Donner said. It will replace the 1971 model ladder truck now in service.

City budget discussions begin today

The Iowa City Council is scheduled to meet this evening to discuss City Manager Stephen Atkins' proposed fiscal 1987-88 budget.

The informal meeting, scheduled from 5:30 to 9 p.m. at the Highlander Inn, will be the council's first opportunity to review and discuss the proposed $40 million budget.

The meeting, designed as a work session for council members, is open to the public but is not structured for public input.

An official public hearing on the budget is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 24.

Any Iowa City resident interested in learning in more detail the contents of the proposed budget can request a Citizen's Summary, a booklet that outlines the city manager's financial proposal.

County accepts no-till planting forms

The Johnson County Soil Conservation District is accepting cost-sharing applications for no-till planting in 1987, District Chairman Phil Winborn announced last week.

The cost sharing for no-till will be $10 per acre for up to 25 acres. Permanent pasture land is not eligible for the program. Those who have received cost-sharing from any source for three years also will not be eligible.

April 1 is the deadline for application. Funds are also available for cost-sharing permanent practices such as grassed waterways, water and sediment control basins, structures and terraces.

Those interested should apply at the Johnson County Soil Conservation Office, 517 Southgate Ave.

The Johnson County Soil Conservation District also announced the swearing in of two new district commissioners at its organizational meeting Jan. 8.

Brent Mueller, Pleasant Valley Township, and Myron Smalley of West Lucas Township, will serve six-year terms on the district board.

Winborn was elected chairman of the board and Roger Stutsman was re-elected as vice-chairman. Connie Haskins was appointed secretary and treasurer. Dan Poduska also serves on the five-member governing board.

UI Counseling Service vacates Union

UI Counseling Service officials said Friday they have temporarily moved their service out of the Union and into the second floor of the Iowa House.

Counseling Service Director of Programming Services Kathleen Staley said her unit will still offer full counseling services to students in the new location from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Contrary to telephone listings, the Counseling Service telephone number is now 335-0500, she said.

'Mister Rogers' producer plans UI stop

An associate producer for the children's TV series "Mister Roger's Neighborhood" will be a featured speaker at the 16th annual UI Changing Family Conference Feb. 12-13.

Hedda Sharapan, who has been with the PBS series since it began in Pittsburgh in 1966, has a master's degree in child development and has developed materials based on the series for use by parents and teachers.

She will speak at 9 a.m. Feb. 13 about the philosophy of the TV series.

The topic of the conference, to be held at the Holiday Inn in downtown Iowa City, will be "Families with Young Children." More than 400 educators, psychologists, social workers, nurses, researchers, clergy and parents are expected to attend.

The conference is open to all. For more information on the conference, contact conference director Peggy Houston at the UI Division of Continuing Education, 335-2534.

WRAC presents 'class' discussions

The UI Women's Resource and Action Center will present two discussions entitled "Class, Class Consciousness and Classism" and "Working on Class," at the center, 130 N. Madison St.

The "brown-bag" lunch discussions, which begin at 12:10 p.m. Jan. 21 and 28 respectively, are two parts in a three-part series of programs dealing with class issues and how they serve to divide women. The focus of the programs will be classism — the assumption that middle class values are superior.

The third program in the series is called "Class Action," a participatory program designed to create an awareness of the destructive influence of classist attitudes on our lives. This event will take place at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 29 at Wesley House, 120 N. Dubuque St.

For further information, call WRAC at 335-1486.

Union ground floor hallway will open

By Joseph Levy
Staff Writer

Union officials said Sunday the south ground floor of the Union will be open for traffic today after several months of construction kept it closed.

Jean Kendall, director of the Union, said the south ground floor will be opened today for access purposes, but added that all offices and services located there may not be ready.

Kendall said detail work remains on many of the areas before the floor will be completed.

"At least we can use it as an access path," Kendall said. "It doesn't mean they are finished with some of the areas opened off there."

BUT OPENING the area will mean the ground floor thoroughfare connecting the north and south sections of the union will once again be restored.

UI Student Senator and student representative to the Union renovation project Mike Skinner said having the area closed caused some minor problems.

"It's changed traffic patterns quite a bit," Skinner said.

Kendall agreed many patterns have been changed, but said people have been understanding. "They've been good about it," she said. "People have been very understanding. It's a major project. They are going to be inconvenienced some. We didn't have the option of closing down completely. "We've just tried to keep things going and available," Kendall said.

SKINNER SAID all facilities on the south ground floor should be open within three weeks.

While more touch-up work will be taking place on the ground floor, renovation fronts will be expanding to the south half of the first floor today,

Skinner said. But renovations here should not cause as much upheaval as efforts on the ground floor, he added.

"There are not as many things (on the first floor as there are) on the ground floor," Skinner said.

Until renovations here have been completed, the information desk has been relocated in the Iowa House. A "satellite" information desk will be opened on the ground floor, Kendall said.

But much work remains. Construction is completed here, as the total Union renovation project isn't scheduled to be completed until fall 1988.

Ethics chairman wants tougher gift law

DES MOINES (UPI) — Iowa House Ethics Committee Chairman Jack Holveck, D-Des Moines, said he wants to toughen state gift and reporting laws that allowed Iowa senators to receive more than $25,000 from statehouse lobbyists over the past two years.

The 50 senators and their spouses collected an average of about $500 from lobbyists representing businesses and special interest groups in 1985 and 1986, a study by a Des Moines research firm Sunday said.

The senator who received the most money was Majority Leader Bill Hutchins of Carroll. He received $1,527, followed by Sen. Joe Welsh, D-Dubuque, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, with $1,469.

Sen. Charles Bruner, D-Ames, was the only senator who reported accepting no money, the study by Kennedy and Wilson Associates reported.

The totals include only gifts, meals and entertainment valued at more than $15. Figures for House members have not yet been compiled.

State law requires lawmakers to report gifts only if they are worth more than $15. Holveck said he wants to lower the threshold to $10.

He also wants to require lawmakers to report honoraria received and require officials to turn that money over to the state or local governments. Further, he would forbid lobbyists from dividing the cost of a gift among the number of clients the lobbyist represents.

Beer kegs that reportedly rolled down a hill into a man's car early Friday morning on North Riverside Drive resulted in his arrest for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, according to Iowa City police reports.

Daniel L. Anderson, no address given, was charged with OWI.

Anderson requested Iowa City police to investigate 5-7 kegs that were rolled down a hill near 309 N. Riverside Drive, below Delta Chi Fraternity, and struck his Pontiac Trans Am, reports state.

Officers discovered a small dent in the passenger-side door of Anderson's car. Reports state six kegs were rolled down the hill from Delta Chi fraternity. The owner of the kegs, or the thrower were unknown to the Iowa City Police Department Sunday.

Theft Report: More than $650 worth of items were stolen from a UI student's car while he was away on winter break, according to Iowa City police reports.

Tom Kollasch, 824 E. Market St., told Iowa City police someone entered his locked car and stole his golf clubs, valued at more than $200, an electric blanket worth $40, a framed mirror and more than 85 tapes valued at about $425.

Kollasch estimated damage to his car at $30, reports state.

Theft Report: A stereo worth more than $100 was taken from an Iowa City resident's car early Saturday morning, according to Iowa City police reports.

Guljait Khurana, 2909 Raven St., told Iowa City police a K-mart brand AM-FM cassette stereo was stolen from the car on South Dodge Street at about 3 a.m. The car was locked but no damage was reported.

Theft Report: A coat and a pair of gloves valued at $100 were stolen from a downtown Iowa City bar early Saturday, according to Iowa City police reports.

Ann Leerhoff, 814 Reinow Residence Hall, told Iowa City police her wool coat, valued at $90, a pair of gloves, worth $10 and her UI student ID were taken from The Fieldhouse, 111 E. College St., at 12:45 a.m.

Three years ago, single dwellings were located and 330 S. Dodge St. City.

Now an eight-unit apartment building stands in the area a monument to the city's recent years.

City building permits about 30 buildings of types have been demolished since January 1983 to room for apartment buildings ranging in size from four to 54 units. Half of the demolished buildings were used as single-family homes.

Apartments have become more desirable options, UI senior Jane said.

"I think most students feel more comfortable in Iowa City) if they live in a house rather than in an apartment that are available," Martin said. "The apartment is so far away from the center of town to find a decent house is so many apartments have built."

DEMOLITION AND construction peaked between 1984 and 1985 when 1,400 apartments were built in Iowa City, according to reports from the Building Inspection Department. Construction has dropped considerably since then, with about 100 apartments built in 1986 and 1987.

The effect of all this, according to a housing report released in July by the City Department of Planning and Program Development, is that rent has increased 10 percent since 1982. He said after adjustment for inflation the increase in rental rates appear to have held steady or peaked.

Increased construction brings Iowa City metamorphosis

By Lonnie Zingula
Freelance Writer

Three years ago, single-family dwellings were located at 328 and 330 S. Dodge St. in Iowa City.

Now an eight-unit apartment building stands in their place, a monument to the metamorphosis Iowa City has undergone in recent years.

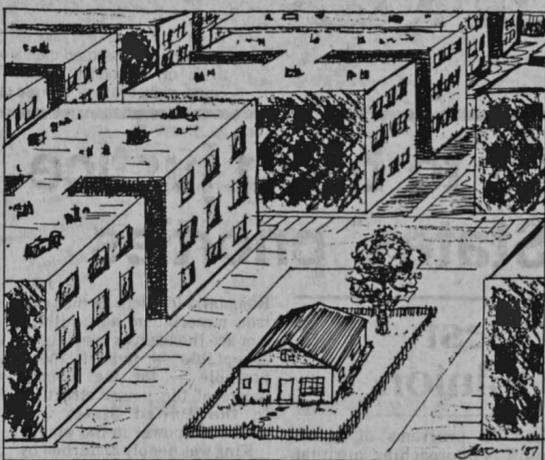

City building permits show about 30 buildings of various types have been demolished since January 1983 to make room for apartment buildings ranging in size from four units to 54 units. Half of the demolished buildings were classified as single-family dwellings.

Apartments have crowded out more desirable housing options, UI senior Jane Martin said.

"I think most students would feel more comfortable here (in Iowa City) if they lived in a house rather than the generic apartments that are available," Martin said. "The problem is you have to look farther and farther away from campus to find a decent house because so many apartments have been built."

DEMOLITION AND construction peaked between 1982 and 1984 when 1,400 apartments were built in Iowa City, according to reports at the Building Inspection Office. Construction has dropped considerably since then, with about 100 apartments built in both 1985 and 1986.

The effect of all this, according to a housing survey released in July by the Iowa City Department of Planning and Program Development, is that rent has increased by 12.5 percent since 1982. However, after adjustment for inflation, the increase disappears and rental rates appear to have held steady or possibly decreased in the past four years.

Currently, efficiency units average $218 per month, a $24 increase since 1982. One-bedroom apartments cost $291 on the average, up $38 in the past four years. Rates for two- and three-bedroom apartments have increased by $60 and $22, respectively.

THE SURVEY ALSO revealed the current vacancy rate is 5.7 percent, compared to 4.3 percent in 1984 and 1.6 percent in 1982.

The fact that apartment building construction continues at all worries and perplexes UI senior Max Smith.

"It doesn't make sense," Smith said. "Every year they talk about declining enrollment and people leaving Iowa. Yet new apartments continue to be built and rent never lowers. I don't understand it."

Current apartment construction can be attributed to the need to cover increased costs of purchasing land closer to the UI campus, according to Wes Fotsch, president of Mod Pod Inc., a local real estate company.

"Developers paid more for property located closer to downtown," Fotsch said. "To pay for this they had to expand on top of commercial space with apartment units."

FOTSCH SAID THAT despite the apparent overabundance of apartment space, he doesn't expect rental rates to drop.

"Rental rates will not go down unless someone is going to take a loss," Fotsch said.

Despite these concerns, nothing can be done to regulate the number of apartments that are constructed, Iowa City officials said.

"Unless the property is located in a historical zone or the city plaza, there's really nothing we can do," Patt Cain, economic development coordinator for the Iowa City Department of Planning and Program Development, said.

'Light' supper menu of mice leads police to snake thief

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seventeen valuable and dangerous snakes stolen from the Bronx Zoo were recovered when an anonymous tipster told police of a youth seen toting a satchel of mice for the serpents' dinner, police said Sunday.

The snakes were back in their Reptile House cages Sunday after spending two nights in a Bronx apartment in small fish tanks where the youth had taken them, apparently as pets, police said.

The youth, Tara Taylor, 17, and Theo Powell, the man in whose apartment the snakes were harbored, were arrested in the theft, police said.

"Two arrests were made and the snakes were returned," said Lt. Edward Cerrone of the 52nd precinct. "We allowed emergency services to transport (the snakes)."

TWO MORE SUSPECTS remained at large.

Taylor, a native of Memphis, took only smaller snakes in the mistaken belief that zookeepers would not miss them, police detective Richard Bambach said. He said Taylor, a knowledgeable snake fancier, took good care of his new pets since he took them Thursday.

The 17 reptiles included four poisonous snakes — a Sidewinder, a Taylor's Cantil and two Pygmy rattlesnakes — which are all considered extremely dangerous. The others included several boas and pythons.

The snakes were examined by Peter Brazaitis, superintendent of the Reptile House, and declared in good condition, Bambach said.

TAYLOR, WHO lives in a Brooklyn shelter for the homeless, was arrested for the theft Saturday night as he carried a light snake supper consisting of 10 mice into a Bronx apartment.

The holiday spirit

Today is supposed to be the day that Americans honor the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., for his efforts, and the efforts of all those who struggled and died with him, to end racism. Instead, if we are honest, we will think today of how we have failed to accomplish that simple act of justice.

In Arizona, the new governor repealed the action of his predecessor and that state will no longer observe today as a legal holiday. Iowa still refuses to make the day a legal holiday.

President Ronald Reagan has subtly tried to claim credit for the holiday, when in fact he staunchly opposed it and referred to King as a communist. And recent studies have shown the position of black Americans eroding under Reagan's policies — policies unopposed by most of white America.

According to a National Urban League report, the median income of blacks was 62 percent of the income of whites in 1975 and only 59 percent of the income of whites in 1985. In 1985, the unemployment rate of black adults was 15 percent and only 7 percent for whites.

The report also shows blacks die from cancer and heart disease more than whites because of inadequate or non-existent medical care and the infant mortality rate for black infants is much higher than for whites.

Today we should not take the easy, comfortable way out and congratulate ourselves for what has been done — and in political terms there has been improvement. Rather, we should follow the harder but more honorable path, and commit ourselves to ending racism in our hearts and in our economic lives. Anything less is smug hypocrisy.

Failing marks

Transcripts are impressive documents — especially for graduate students. Two pages can encapsulate years of study and progress.

It seems that the UI has decided to recognize the importance of transcripts — officials send each page of these precious records separately. Many UI graduate students may have noticed that their grades came in separate envelopes — one envelope for each transcript page.

In addition, if students were so foolish as to not pay for their classes, they received a U-bill, telling them that their grades would be restricted until they coughed up the required dough. In case the erring students might not understand this message, they are also sent — in as many envelopes as necessary — their complete transcripts minus the grades of the delinquent semester. The last page of their transcript tells the students the same message as their U-bill: no cash, no grades.

Anyone who has passed 22M:001 knows that the postage for all of those extra envelopes equals wasted money. If there are approximately 6,000 graduate students at the UI, and all of them have two-page transcripts, that means $1,320 will be spent to send them two letters — one for each transcript page.

If by some chance several of these students are financially delinquent, they will still be mailed their transcripts without their current grades — more wasted paper and money.

The UI is plagued by financial woes. Perhaps the one or two thousand dollars that could be saved with a more frugal mailing system seems like a small drop in the bucket — but every little bit helps.

It's economical

In late 1986, the National Conference of Catholic Bishops approved a pastoral letter on the economy. The letter, titled "Economic Justice for All: Catholic Social Teaching and the U.S. Economy," calls for greater efforts to help the nation's poor and comes at a time of year when its message should be particularly meaningful.

The bishops' overriding concern throughout the 115-page document is for the well-being of the approximately 33 million poverty-stricken Americans as well as the other 20 million to 30 million people they call "needy."

As the bishops correctly observe, "The fundamental moral criterion for all economic decisions, policies and institutions is this: They must be at the service of all people, especially the poor."

Foreseeing attacks from political conservatives who oppose increasing the government's role in the economy, the bishops reject the "trickle-down" theory as the cure for poverty. As demonstrated in the history of the United States and other countries, increasing national wealth does not necessarily translate into greater prosperity for everyone.

In fact, the bishops claim the gap between rich and poor people today is actually widening — 54 percent of the total net financial assets in the United States are held by 2 percent of the families. Such statistics certainly justify their observation that this huge discrepancy in wealth is a "social and moral scandal."

With the federal budget-making process now under way, these words should motivate policymakers to act on the bishops' suggestions for reform. In the longrun, everyone will come out ahead.

King sought to bring justice to United States' priorities

By Chuck Pirtle

TODAY IS the second annual federal holiday honoring the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. It is regrettable that, when even President Ronald Reagan — however reluctantly — joins in commemorations of the holiday, the UI chooses not to observe it.

Equally regrettable, but already commonplace in observances of this day, is a tendency to remember only the great "dreamer" of the 1963 march on Washington, D.C. The result is to forget or ignore the fact that King continued to develop his analysis of the U.S. power structure and his idea of a broad poor people's movement for nearly five years thereafter.

Another fallacious approach to King's holiday is that taken by Reagan: to proclaim that all the gains of the civil rights movement have already been made and consolidated — and to pretend, in the face of a long record to the contrary, that he was "a part of Dr. King's revolution."

NO ONE WHO truly embraced King's vision could accept the kinds of budget priorities that the Reagan administration has recently presented to Congress.

"A nation that continues year after year to spend more money on military defense than on programs of social uplift is approaching spiritual death," said King in 1967.

What does our nation's government propose to us today? More money for MX missiles, Midgetman missiles, Trident II missiles, Stealth bombers, B-1B bombers, two new aircraft carriers and space weapons; more money for the Contras in Nicaragua; large reductions in federal funding for agriculture, child nutrition, student aid, education, Medicare, etc. And nothing to relieve the hardship caused by the chronic unemployment which has ranged from 7 percent to 10 percent during the Reagan years.

Too many Americans consider high unemployment, homelessness and hunger to be an acceptable price to pay for the supposed benefits of economic expansion. But as King warned, "When machines and computers, profit and property rights are considered more important than people, the giant triplets of racism, materialism and militarism are incapable of being conquered."

OF COURSE, the danger of Reaganist ideology is that racism, materialism and militarism are themselves considered acceptable — indeed, indispensable — for the maintenance of the power structure in the United States and American power in the world.

King was deeply disturbed by the U.S. government's wholesale commitment to the Vietnam War. It saddened him to see his country on the wrong side. He saw the conflict in Vietnam not as a defensive action against eventual communist domination, but as another part of the same battle for economic justice on the part of the dispossessed that he was involved in here in America.

"We are on the side of the wealth and secure," King said, "while we create hell for the poor."

King made an effort to learn about and to understand the Vietnamese, their history and the roots and causes of their revolution. We would do well to take the same approach to Nicaragua today, since again we are being told that the enemy is not poor people but dirty communists.

Nicaragua, by the way, is also celebrating King's birthday with a holiday. What are they celebrating? What are we celebrating?

Congratulations

To the Editor:

Congratulations to Iowa football Coach Hayden Fry and our great Iowa Hawkeyes for the most memorable and enjoyable 1986 football season.

As if there were not enough exciting moments during the regular season we were proudly provided with a fantastic Holiday Bowl game to conclude a very successful season.

To me, the most touching moment was when Rob Houghtlin had the opportunity to kick the 41-yard field goal. He realized his responsibility and turned to his concentration formula. When the other team tried to ice his thoughts by calling time out, he turned to his good friend and coach, Fry.

This great rapport and confidence between coach and player was viewed by the entire nation as they huddled along the sidelines. After this time out, one of the most dramatic finishes of an Iowa football game was captured as Houghtlin met the challenge and connected on a game-winning field goal.

Even with all the injuries during the season, this football team, which finished 9-3, met all challenges they were confronted with and it is truly one of the top Hawkeye teams of all time. We indeed hold you in highest esteem.

And again to Fry and the Iowa Hawkeyes: Congratulations and now on to the 1987 football year.

Happy New Year... from one of Iowa's many Hawkeye fans.

Have customers had enough to begin the phone rebellion?

SOME PEOPLE say all the world's great challenges have been surmounted.

Want to be the first to climb Mt. Everest? Too late, bub. Got a great idea for a plane that could circle the Earth on one load of fuel? Somebody beat you to it. Think you'd like to man a mission to the moon? Hey, it's been done.

True, these seemingly impossible feats have been tackled. But one insurmountable task remains: to deal with the phone company and come out with sanity intact.

Face it. When one small, insignificant citizen takes on a corporate giant whose logo has a remarkable resemblance to the Empire's Death Star in George Lucas' Star Wars films, the odds are stacked rather steeply against the small, insignificant citizen. AT&T (which, incidentally, stands for All-powerful Telephone Tyranny) has the weight of an incredibly immense system behind it; the private citizen has zippo for back-up.

TRUE, THE FEDERAL government did mandate reorganization of the immense, monopolizing, competition-killing phone company a few years back. It divided it into slightly smaller, but still immense, competition-killing regional monopolies.

So Joe Private Citizen still faces The Corporate Giant

By Kathy Hinson Breed

Digressions

alone and unarmed.

In fact, this very private citizen had several skirmishes with AT&T just a few weeks ago.

It all started out so innocently: My husband and I went on vacation. No problem, at least until we needed to call someone from the road. Quarter after quarter went into the pay phone:

Could I charge this to my home phone number? No, no one is at that number to OK the charges. We're on vacation. That's the concept of vacation: everyone leaves home and goes somewhere else. No one stays hostage at home to accept phone charges.

COULD I USE my Teleconnect calling card? Why is that number not accessible in this area code? (I found out later that all non-AT&T calling card numbers only work if you call the area code for Rwanda.)

After plugging the pay phone with enough quarters to substantially reduce the national debt, I took the only option left open and made the call collect.

I gave the operator the number and my name. Then she had the gall to say "Thank you for using AT&T, Kathy."

Like I had a choice? And it only adds insult to injury (and highway robbery) to put operators on a first-name basis with the victim they've just taken for $5 worth of quarters.

Is it any wonder E.T. built a telephone from scratch in order to phone home? It's easier than trying to deal with the phone company.

SOMEDAY SOON, I hope, a long awaited consumer rebellion will rise up and battle the phone bureaucracy. Maybe AT&T's insipid computer messages ("I'm sorry, that number is unavailable after dark on alternate Tuesdays. Please hang up and try again.") will spark the rebellion.

Or maybe the stress of arguing with operators who don't give a hooah about your problems ("I'm sorry, ma'am. You'll have to call the billing department in Mongolia to find out why you were assigned the same telephone number as Joe's Bar and Taxidermy Service.") will drive us to it.

But there are signs that the All-powerful Telephone Tyranny and its cohorts know the downtrodden populace is organizing an uprising. Have you ever noticed that the Northwestern Bell office downtown has tiny windows that resemble gun turrets?

Digressions are comments from Daily Iowan staff members. Kathy Hinson Breed is the DI Managing Editor.

Great ideas

To the Editor:

Well, there you have it. Gov. Terry Branstad, after having been in office for four years now, has come up with a brilliant idea. Build roads. Lots of roads. Primary roads, secondary roads, paved roads. Forty-five years of road building in less than a third of that time. Paved roads that are within 10 miles of other roads, clean across the state. Maybe people can drive on them on their way out of Iowa.

Think of the complexity of this great idea! Charge everyone driving 4 cents per gallon to drive on roads that aren't built yet, then use the money to build more roads out of depressed farmland so people can leave Iowa faster.

Iowa will eventually be known as the "road" state — people can come here and just drive around, dumping into Iowa's coffers 4 for every gallon of fuel used. Think of it — "Iowa — A Place to Drive." And you thought all the great minds were in Washington, D.C.

While Branstad is sitting around thinking up silly ideas that buy time rather than solve problems, he might want to remember that 48 percent of the voters of this great state didn't vote for him.

The UI Telecommunications Office has sent letters to students affected by the change said. "Nobody's complained since we've taken it off. Some have thanked us."

THE SYSTEM CHANGE gave UI students, faculty, staff and business offices new phone numbers and new Touch-Tone phones. The phones include a number of features including call holding, transferring calls, conference calls, automatic callback and call forwarding.

The new system has kept the six UI operators busy for the past month. As many as 25 calls at a time have been backed up on UI switchboards, McMaster said.

"Sometimes it takes a very long time to get through," she said. "We sometimes spend a lengthy time explaining the system."

The switchboard handled 5,690 calls last Thursday, the first day of late registration, she said. Last year on the first day of late spring registration operators received 4,220 calls.

BUT THE REAL RUSH of calls should come on the first day of classes, McMaster said. More than 9,000 are expected today, up from 7,238 last year on the same day.

Even with the increased number of calls to the main UI phone number, no additional operators have been hired, McMaster said.

"We haven't had time to hire anyone to train," she said.

Universal Communications System, of Roanoke, Va., which is helping the UI complete its telecommunications project, has temporary staff in town to answer questions about the new phone system on a "trouble line." The number for the trouble line is 335-2945.

The trouble line maintains a staff of up to six people and is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays.

MARCIA SHUPE, customer service representative for Universal Communications System, said most of the calls she receives deal with user questions.

"In my opinion, there have not been that many complaints," she said.

Gibson said the UI's cutover was successful compared to other universities that installed new phone systems. Other schools have experienced problems with whole buildings losing phone service after a cutover.

"We still have some unhappy users," Gibson said. "Some people just don't like change, period. We cutover 11,000 lines. Until we have 11,000 satisfied customers, we're not happy."

said. "It has been talked about closing down the university for King's birthday if the calendar changes in the future. It's quite possible the UI will shut down for his birthday if that occurs."

ACCORDING TO Sturgeon, several black organizations on campus are celebrating King's birthday by bringing in guest speakers.

Sturgeon said the UI Black Student Union is bringing Ernest T. Withers, a photographer who captured much of the civil rights movement on film, to speak Jan. 23 in honor of King's birthday.

Sturgeon also said the UI Black American Law Students Association was bringing the Rev. Joseph Lawry, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference which King formerly headed, to speak Jan. 29 also in honor of King's birthday.

"We don't tend to celebrate King's birthday on a specific day," Sturgeon said. "We look at it as more of a week or monthlong event."

Bush speaks on U.S., Reagan's ethics

DALLAS — Any judgments about President Ronald Reagan's involvement in the Iran-Contra scandal "should be made on the basis of facts and not hearsay," Vice President George Bush said Sunday.

"People can speak out on the president's ethics on Iran, but the best judgment may be made on what happened when he found out about the orders and initial findings. First, he took full responsibility and sought to have the facts brought out," Bush said.

In a 20-minute speech to about 5,000 members of the National Association of Home Builders, Bush also said America's children are growing up in an era lacking ethics.

"With insider trading schemes and corporate takeover attempts, we must teach something to our children: Greed is not a legitimate force in society," Bush said.

Cuban refugees riot in detention center

NEW YORK — Cuban refugees rioted in a federal immigration detention center Sunday, burning mattresses and smashing windows to protest an official suspension of visiting hours after two detainees escaped, authorities said.

The rioting broke out among some of the 150 prisoners at the Immigration and Naturalization Service detention center in Manhattan, said Duke Austin, an INS spokesman.

No one was hurt in the melee, Austin said. The violence Sunday began after the capture of one of the escaped prisoners, Alfredo Diaz, 27, Austin said.

Diaz and Ricardo Revuelta-Rosell, 26, who was still at large Sunday, were among a group of 70 Cuban prisoners detained at the facility pending their deportation to Cuba.

Mozambican insurgents attack bases

LISBON, Portugal — Rightist Mozambican guerrillas said Sunday they attacked seven military bases and killed 116 soldiers, including Tanzanians, Zimbabweans and Cuban advisors, in fighting last week.

In a statement issued in Lisbon, the insurgents also said they downed a Soviet-made MI-8 troop transport helicopter and cut traffic on a national road in fighting between Jan. 11-15.

The Mozambican National Resistance, or Renamo, guerrillas said nine of their fighters were killed in the action. There was no immediate independent confirmation of the rebel claims or comment from the government in Maputo.

Backed by South Africa, Renamo has fought a decade-long war against the Marxist government of Mozambique and allied troops in the former Portuguese colony in southeast Africa.

Rescuers seek survivors after sinkings

Searchers Sunday hunted for survivors of the weekend sinkings of cargo ships off the coasts of Spain and Greece that resulted in 28 missing passengers.

Authorities in Spain said they feared for the lives of 18 missing crew members from a freighter that sank Saturday in the Mediterranean. "The only thing we found today was an oil slick where the ship went down and there is not much hope anyone else has survived," said a rescue spokesman.

The freighter Kythera Star sank in rough seas 65 miles south of Barcelona. The ship's captain and one crewman were rescued Saturday; three empty life boats were found later.

The 1,970-ton vessel was sailing to Libya when its cargo of iron bars shifted, causing the ship to sink.

Shifting cargo and rough seas were also blamed for the sinking Sunday of the vessel Nickolaos in the northern Aegean Sea.

Kemp will announce candidacy in April

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Rep. Jack Kemp plans to announce his candidacy for the 1988 Republican presidential nomination April 6 and step down from two House leadership positions to devote time to the race, it was reported Sunday.

Kemp, R-N.Y., will give up the chairmanship of the House Republican Caucus, the third-ranking GOP leadership post he has held since 1981, after he declares his candidacy, The Buffalo News reported.

Kemp announced Friday he would give up his post as ranking Republican on a House appropriations subcommittee.

The newspaper reported that Kemp will hold news conferences on April 6 in Washington and Buffalo, and in the key primary states of Iowa and New Hampshire.

Kemp, 51, a former Buffalo Bills quarterback, been a member of Congress since 1970.

Report studies farm incomes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Net farm income in 1996 will be lower than it was in 1986 if current farm policies remain in effect during the period, a new study released Sunday by researchers from Iowa State University and the University of Missouri indicates.

The study, issued by the Food and Agriculture Policy Research Institute, said under the 1985 Farm Act the nation's farm economy will continue to lag behind the general economy during the next decade.

The report said net income will decline by 35 percent when inflation is taken into account, despite continuing subsidies to farmers.

Exports will increase slightly, inexpensive feed will lead to larger supplies of livestock and lower prices, and debt problems will continue to plague some sectors of the agriculture economy, the study said.

THE CURRENT FARM policies have "not to this point resulted in a level of performance as favorable as originally expected," the report said.

Some liberal farm groups and some Democratic congressmen in the Midwest have contended the existing law is expensive and holds little promise of boosting the economy. They have suggested a shift to mandatory production and marketing controls in order to raise farm prices.

The Reagan administration continues to say the existing policy will result in major export gains if the Agriculture Department is given more authority to lower price supports to meet foreign competition. The administration also has proposed to control production by allowing farmers to receive federal subsidies even if they do not plant crops.

AGRICULTURE Secretary Richard Lyng told delegates at last week's Farm Bureau convention in Anaheim, Calif., that the 1985 law is not a perfect bill, but it has worked effectively in a number of areas.

Lyng said it would be a mistake to follow suggestions to scrap the bill and craft a new one, but he emphasized that controls are needed to lower government costs through major new reductions in target prices for crops.

The study agrees with the administration's view that farm exports will show a steady increase. The United States sold about $11.2 billion worth of corn, wheat, soybeans, soymeal, rice and cotton last year, and the total is projected to climb to about $21.2 billion in 1996.

However, the national average prices for corn, wheat and soybeans will remain flat, the report said, adding if current export subsidy programs for cotton and rice stay in effect, prices for those commodities can be expected to show significant gains.

Contra drug smuggling told

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nicaraguan Contra rebels smuggled cocaine into the United States to finance weapons purchases with help from U.S. drug officials and the CIA — but then kept the money, Newsweek reported Sunday.

In its Jan. 26 issue, released Sunday, the magazine quoted two accused drug traffickers in a federal prison in Miami as saying that Contra leaders argued for support in the smuggling because Congress had halted military aid to them.

"The Contras in the field were screwed," George Morales, a Colombian emigre with an aircraft charter business, told Newsweek "They didn't have enough beans to eat."

The other alleged drug smuggler, Gary Betzner, said, "I smuggled my share of illegal substance, but I also smuggled my share of weapons in exchange with the full knowledge and assistance of the DEA and the CIA."

Newsweek did not say what type of help the Drug Enforcement Administration or the Central Intelligence Agency provided in the alleged operation.

"NO ONE WAS more knowledgeable about penetration (of U.S. borders) than myself," Betzner boasted to the magazine.

Cocaine from Colombia would leave Contra dirt airstrips in Costa Rica in planes provided by Morales and flown by Betzner, a crop-dusting pilot from Arkansas, the report said.

Betzner would fly up the western side of the Gulf of Mexico to avoid the carefully watched air lanes near south Florida, it added.

The CIA-backed Contras have been fighting to overthrow the Sandinista government in Nicaragua. Congress banned military aid to the Contras in 1984, resuming the assistance in 1986.

Newsweek did not say when the alleged drug operation occurred.

Iran launches Gulf offensive

By United Press International
Iran said Sunday its troops captured two islands in the strategic Shatt al Arab waterway and pushed into the suburbs of the key southern Iraqi city of Basra.

Meanwhile, the West German news magazine Der Spiegel reported the United States is preparing to intervene in the Persian Gulf war with air and ground forces if Iranian troops overrun Basra.

Citing Egyptian sources, Der Spiegel said the U.S. aircraft carrier Kennedy and its destroyer escort already had orders to sail for the Strait of Hormuz, where the Persian Gulf meets the Indian Ocean. It said three Air Force squadrons were deployed to Turkey to support a possible U.S. intervention.

THE MAGAZINE SAID a high-ranking U.S. Navy staff officer discussed preparations for intervention last week with Egyptian officials.

The capture of Basra would give Iran control of southern Iraq and leave neighboring Kuwait vulnerable. Although the capture of Basra would give Iran control of southern Iraq and leave neighboring Kuwait vulnerable.

to attack.
In Washington, Defense Department spokeswoman Lt. Alice Prucha denied the United States is preparing to intervene in the conflict. "There is no truth to the Der Spiegel article," Prucha said. "I would have heard something. The article is not true at all."

She said the aircraft carrier Kennedy is "in the Mediterranean and is doing normal, routine operations," and that its location and the Gulf War "are not connected at all."

Fierce fighting raged Sunday between Iranian invaders and Iraqi defenders near Basra.

TEHRAN RADIO QUOTED Iranian Parliament Speaker Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani as saying Sunday that Iranian troops were 500 yards from Basra's suburbs after advancing 7 1/2 miles Sunday.

Iran's state-owned Islamic Republic News Agency, or IRNA, said Iranian troops were 400 yards from Abul Khasib, a town 10 miles east of Basra.

An American newspaper correspondent who left Basra Friday told the British Broadcasting Corp. Sunday that artillery shells were falling at one point at a rate of one a minute and refugees were streaming out of the city.

Patrick Tyler of the Washington Post said Basra, which has a population of 1 million, "now looks like a studio back lot with empty streets."

"There is an exodus going on from Basra," Tyler said. "People's houses and buildings were sandbagged, up past the first story, and some people are hiding inside. But I'd say the majority of the population has left Basra."

THE OFFICIAL IRAQI news agency, INA, quoted military communiques in Baghdad as saying Iraqi forces "crushed" two Iranian attacks on the Iraqi 3rd Army, which defends Basra.

Both news agencies reported that Iraqi jets Sunday bombed a dozen Iranian cities — the holy city of Qom, Tabriz, Isfahan, Dezful, Masjid Sulaiman, Sanandaj, Islamabad Gharb, Borujerd, Nahavand, Ilam, Malayer and Marivan. IRNA said at least 214 people were killed in the raids.

IRNA also reported heavy fighting in northern Iraq. The agency said Iranian forces "ambushed" Iraqi troops near Sumar region, about 75 miles northeast of Baghdad, and killed about 1,000 Iraqi soldiers.

Iranian forces launched their latest offensive Jan. 9, streaming across the Shatt al Arab waterway into southern Iraq to cut off Basra from Baghdad and northern Iraq.

The Shatt al Arab is a 75-mile estuary that provides Iraq's only water link to the vital

German abducted in Mideast reprisal

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The abduction of a West German Saturday, apparently in retaliation for his country's arrest of an accused Lebanese hijacker, pushed the number of kidnapped Westerners in Lebanon to 18.

The abduction of Rudolph Cordes, 53, apparently was staged to prevent West Germany from sending Palestinian Mohammad Ali Hamadei to the United States to stand trial for air piracy and murder, security sources said.

Cordes, 53, business manager of the giant Frankfurt-based chemical and pharmaceutical company Hoechst, was seized by gunmen at 7:45 p.m. Saturday as he rode in a black Mercedes sedan to his hotel in the commercial Hamra district in Moslem West Beirut.

The sources said Cordes was abducted only 15 minutes after he arrived at Beirut International Airport aboard a Middle East Airlines flight.

"THE GUNMEN, brandishing automatic rifles, intercepted Cordes's car, ordered him outside at point-blank range and bundled him into their own vehicle and sped off to an unknown destination," the sources said.

The latest kidnapping came

just a day after dozens of Syrian troops were deployed at Beirut airport to reinforce security. Most foreigners have been kidnapped on the highway to the airport.

Lebanese political and security sources believe the latest kidnapping is linked to the arrest in Frankfurt Tuesday of Hamedei, accused by U.S. officials of being one of the hijackers of TWA Flight 847 in June 1985.

The United States wants West Germany to extradite Hamedei for trial on charges stemming from the hijacking.

Destabilization plot stopped by Ramos

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — For the second time in two months, armed forces chief Gen. Fidel Ramos moved to foil any attempt by civilian and military forces to overthrow President Corazon Aquino's government, a military source said Sunday.

The well-placed military source said Ramos remained at headquarters with other top generals into the pre-dawn hours Sunday, gathering reports on forces allegedly involved in a "destabilization plot."

Supporters of ousted President Ferdinand Marcos and disgruntled soldiers loyal to former defense minister Juan Ponce Enrile were placed under surveillance, but no unauthorized troop movements were reported, the source said.

After conferring with chiefs of the major service commands and Aquino's executive secretary, Ramos ordered troops in the capital and the regions immediately north and south of Manila placed on full alert, the source said.

TROOPS TO THE north and south were ordered to halt any advances on the capital and soldiers took positions around the presidential palace. But they were pulled out Sunday morning.

"As early as two weeks back, we got intelligence reports that there would be another effort to destabilize the government," he said.

According to military officials, a destabilization plot would have to be carried out before the expected ratification Feb. 2 of a new constitution, regarded as a critical component in Aquino's efforts to restore political stability to the Philippines.

The "God Save the Queen" plot was reported to have involved "surgical operations" to remove left-leaning ministers from Aquino's cabinet.

ON NOV. 22, a day before Aquino fired Enrile, the government announced it had foiled another plot that for the first time allegedly involved disgruntled soldiers and politicians loyal to Marcos.

Enrile Sunday dismissed reports that he was involved in plotting a coup.

"Of course not," he replied in answer to a question on the ABC News program "This Week with David Brinkley."

Utah siege ends with 2 deaths

WEST VALLEY CITY, Utah (UPI) — Officials said a man with a long criminal record barricaded himself and his companion in their home and held off police for 19 hours until officers stormed the house and found the couple dead, apparently of self-inflicted gunshot wounds.

Officers went to the home of Steven Bach, 25, about 6 p.m. Saturday to serve an arrest warrant for alleged possession of stolen property, but Bach sealed the doors and windows and threatened to shoot himself and his companion, 18-year-old Ann Volker, unless his grievances against the police were aired.

Throughout the siege about 30 officers surrounded the house in suburban West Valley City, about 8 miles southwest of Salt Lake City.

AT ONE POINT Bach called a reporter from KSL-TV News to negotiate, saying he could no longer trust police and that he wanted air his grievances before he or Volker "had to die."

"How do you feel when you're gonna die?" Bach told the reporter. "I'm sorry that it has to be like this, but they're not going to lock me up again. I'm sorry, it isn't going to happen."

"They'll lie to me and tell me they're not, 'cause I know they will and that's it," Bach said. "And the thing is, I don't want to hurt anybody."

Several hours into the incident, Volker was asked if she would like to leave the house. She said no because she loved Bach, authorities said.

POLICE LT. LARRY STOTT and the TV reporter spent most of the Saturday night and Sunday on the phone negotiating with Bach, but made little progress, police said.

The siege ended about 1 p.m. Sunday when officers fired tear-gas into the house and stormed in, finding the bodies of Bach and Volker in a crawlspace beneath the home. Police Chief David Campbell said both had died of gunshot wounds to the head, apparently self-inflicted.

"The officers did not fire any shots at them," Campbell said.

Stock trader's 'tip' pays off

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Last week was a most bullish one for Rick Ackerman, a stock options trader on the Pacific Stock Exchange.

Not only did he cash in on one of the most frenetic weeks in stock market history, he also learned he had received a $200,000 reward for helping to jail the first person charged in the United States with tampering with medical products.

Ackerman, 37, will share a reward with 15 other people for their part in uncovering the elaborate scheme. The reward was offered by the Proprietary Association, a trade group which represents makers of over-the-counter medicines.

It was Ackerman who tipped off the FBI about highly unusual stock trading in a case involving Edward Arlen Marks.

Marks, 25, pleaded guilty last August to putting a double dose of rat poison and cyanide into Contac, Teldrin and Diatec capsules — all made by SmithKline Beckman Corp. — and planting them on store shelves in Houston and Orlando, Fla.

MARKS BOUGHT STOCK options, anticipating a drastic drop in SmithKline Beckman's stock. He then called police and news organizations to warn them of the tampering.

Jets narrowly miss commercial plane

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A pilot aboard an Air Cal Boeing 737 flying to San Francisco from Los Angeles reported a near collision with three Navy fighter jets, authorities said Sunday.

The pilot told Federal Aviation Administration officials that the Navy A-7 jets came within 800 feet of the commercial airliner at 2:15 p.m. Friday about 20 miles west of Los Angeles International Airport, an FAA spokesman said. Air Cal filed a complaint with the FAA about the incident, the spokesman said.

The airliner was flying at an altitude of between 12,000 feet and 13,000 feet and was guided by air traffic controllers when the near collision occurred, the pilot told investigators.

The Navy jets were believed to have taken off from Pt. Magu Naval Station.

Hawkeys show weak trends in league win

By Mike Trilk
Staff Writer

Just when Iowa women's basketball Coach Vivian Stringer thought she had her team playing near perfect the Hawkeyes went out and proved that winning its first Big Ten title is going to take some work.

Although the 10th-rated Hawkeyes downed Purdue, 68-54, on Sunday, Stringer's squad didn't look like a team that had beaten its last three opponents by at least 19 points.

"It was one of those games," Stringer said after the win that topped her team's record to 12-3 overall and 5-0 in the Big Ten.

"We never got that (scoring) spurt that we've been getting in other games, and that's a tribute to Purdue," Stringer said. "If I could have written down what the expressions on my players' faces was today, it would have been 'What are we messing around for?'. And as a result of that we started to race and do things individually. People were trying to get everything done by themselves."

JUNIOR GUARD Michelle Edwards, who led the Hawkeye scoring attack with 18 points, had similar thoughts about the win.

"It was a sloppy game," Edwards said. "We rushed things, couldn't get it together. It was a nasty win, but I'll take the win."

Early on it looked like Iowa was going to run away with the contest as the Hawkeyes opened a 10-2 lead with 16 minutes, 49 seconds left in the first half. But Purdue charged back outscoring Iowa 10-4 in the next three minutes to pull within two points, 14-12, with 13:30 left.

Purdue's Kay Sharp tied the game, 24-24, at the 7:22 mark. Christa LaCroix hit a rebound shot less than a minute later to give the Boilermakers their first lead of the ball game, 26-24, with six minutes left in the opening half.

IOWA GOT THE lead back, and even though Tricia Blair misfired on a layup attempt at the buzzer, the Hawkeyes led at halftime 31-30.

It was Iowa's inside combination of Lisa Becker and Lisa Long that finally allowed the Hawkeyes to slip away from the pesky Boilermakers, who dropped to 12-3 overall and 4-2 in the conference. Long and Becker teamed up to grab 21 rebounds and add 21 points as well.

"Iowa is an excellent team. They are definitely the best team we've played so far," Purdue Coach Marsha Reall said. "I'm real pleased with the way we played. Iowa is a lot taller than we are, and I think that made the difference. But we changed our game plan coming in here today. We wanted to play a halfcourt game, and I think that caused some problems for them. They were just taller than we were."

COMING INTO the game the Hawkeyes were playing at their best coming off of blowout wins over eighth-rated Louisiana State, Minnesota and 19th-ranked Illinois.

After all three wins Stringer warned that her team needed to be sky high for every team no matter who it was, but the Hawkeyes were everything but sky high on Sunday.

"We would have had to reach up to hit bottom today," Stringer said.

Iowa aims to conquer Purdue jinx

By Brad Zimaneck
Sports Editor

To say Iowa is heading into a lions' den tonight at Mackey Arena in West Lafayette, Ind., is quite an understatement.

The Hawkeyes, who are undefeated at 16-0 while being ranked third in the country, have not won at Purdue since 1981 and have actually lost 13 of the last 15 contests played before the Boilermaker faithful.

Iowa is not alone. Purdue has won 224 games while losing only 42 in the 19-year old Arena — a remarkable 84.2 percent.

Only Indiana's Assembly Hall is a tougher arena to play in among Big Ten schools. The Hoosiers have won 87.8 percent of their games at Bloomington, Ind., since their building was erected in 1971.

IOWA IS NOT going to give up that easily. Just take a look at what the Hawkeyes did last Wednesday on the road against eighth-ranked Illinois.

With less than 16 minutes left in the game Iowa trailed by 22 points before putting on a comeback show which gave the Hawkeyes a 91-88 overtime win.

"I've never seen anything quite like that. It's going to take a day or two to sort this out," Iowa Coach Tom Davis said following the win which made Iowa 4-0 in the Big Ten. "I don't know if I can ever recall another team of mine coming back on the road after being down by 22 points."

Can the Hawkeyes come back again, if necessary, at Mackey Arena?

"I THINK WE FEEL better because we picked up one road win," Davis said in a telephone interview while watching Purdue's win Sunday over defending NCAA Champion Louisville. "I think there is a little more of a comfort zone for the players, but that doesn't mean we are going to play well. But at least we can feel a little better about it."

Davis can definitely feel good about the success of the Iowa team during the 1986-87 season. A win against Purdue would tie an Iowa basketball winning streak record at 17, set by the 1955-56 squad which finished second in the NCAA tournament.

"Oh, no I never thought about this," Davis said. "We were worried about being 0-3 after we got out of Alaska. Who would have ever dreamed that we would be at this point at the beginning of the season?"

PURDUE COACH Gene Keady was happy to win both last Wednesday's Big Ten game with Minnesota and Sunday's Louisville contest.

Now, even though the Boilermakers have not had much time to focus on the Hawkeyes, Keady believes Purdue is ready for the contest with whom he considers the nation's best.

"I have more of a feeling of relief that we got through two games," Keady said. "Now we're worried about the third game. We talked a little bit about them (Iowa) on Thursday, but I think the main thing is to do the same things we have done all year. And if we hit a high percentage of our free throws, we'll have a chance to win the game. Don't forget Iowa will be coming in here ranked No. 1, so we'll be playing the nation's best."

One of the keys to the Iowa-Purdue contest could be the Hawkeyes' success from three-point range.

VERSUS ILLINOIS the Hawkeyes were easily outscored on three-point baskets, especially because of 5-foot-10 guard Tony Wysinger who is the best three-point shooter in the Big Ten so far this season.

"It very well could. There's no question that some guards in the league are doing a better job with the three-point shot than we are," Davis said. "It's just something that we have to keep working on and get the best that we can at."

One Iowa player who's been taking up the slack for the Hawkeyes is 7-0 forward Brad Lohaus, who scored a career-high 23 points Wednesday at Champaign, Ill., and pulled down 12 rebounds.

"I've been very pleased by it. As a coach you never know which of your players will keep improving and working hard," Davis said. "You're absolutely right in Brad's case. He has just kept on the upward plane and has never leveled off. He just keeps playing better and better and working harder and harder. He's becoming a very fine forward."

Hawkeyes vault past Cyclones

By Brad Zimaneck

The Iowa men's gymnastics team rounded off an excellent semester break by defeating Iowa State in Ames, 207.40-250.60, Saturday night before an Iowa Public Television audience.

The Hawkeyes completed a three-week sweep with the victory which included victories over Brigham Young and defending national champion Arizona State in Honolulu Jan. 1. On Jan. 9-10 Iowa Coach Tom Dunn's squad also won the prestigious Windy City Invitational for the second year in a row while defeating every Big Ten school.

"I'm pretty pleased with our record, but it's all kind of relative," Dunn said. "You would always like to be doing better, but I didn't have any plan that we should be at a certain point. We're just trying to experiment a little bit and look at different combinations through the month of February."

LEADING THE Hawkeyes against the Cyclones was U.S. national team member Ron Nasti, who easily won the all-around competition with a six-event score of 54.10.

Nasti tied for first on the pommel horse with Iowa State's Sam Planck, both recording scores of 9.15. Nasti, an Elmhurst, Ill., native also placed third on the vault and the horizontal bar.

Also leading Iowa was captain Tom "Cheese" Auer who won the parallel bars and tied for first on the floor exercise. The only other Hawkeye taking home an event title was Kurt Karnstedt who won the still rings by just edging out Iowa State's Steve Norvid, 9.45-9.40.

The Hawkeyes had their lowest score of the winter break competition against the Cyclones partially due to a line-up which enabled some Iowa gymnasts to gain more experience.

IOWA ALL-AROUNDER Joe Thome and pommel horse specialists Randy Gentile and Joe Short did not compete against Iowa State.

"He (Thome) hurt his neck in Hawaii and competed in Chicago and didn't do a very good job, so we just decided to rest him and give some other people an opportunity," Dunn said. "The same with Joe Short and Randy Gentile. They did real well in Chicago, and they didn't need any experience."

Without the help of Gentile and Short the Hawkeyes had their lowest event score on the pommel horse, 43.00, but still outscored Iowa State by 8.20 points and virtually put the meet away.

The Hawkeyes' next competition will be at home Feb. 7 versus Ohio State and Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

"Ohio State will be tough. We beat them by three-tenths or so at Windy City, but I expect that they might be our strongest competition at Big Tens," Dunn said.

Wrestlers rebound with win over Wisconsin

By Laura Palmer

After an intense week of suffering a loss to Iowa State, the Hawkeye wrestlers only dropped two matches to easily defeat Wisconsin 30-12 in Madison, Wis., Saturday night.

Royce Alger continued his winning streak at 167 pounds with a 13-5 victory over Wisconsin's Tony Eversen. Alger now boasts a 17-0 record — the only Hawkeye to post a clean slate this season.

Alger underwent arthroscopic surgery on his knee December 19th, and the 167-pounder said that he has had no problem recovering.

Wrestling

"Coming off of an injury I feel like I'm doing pretty good," Alger said.

AFTER A DRAW AT 118 pounds, Iowa's John Regan started Iowa's scoring drive with a 10-7 decision over Mark Clayton at 126 pounds.

Bubba Strauss defeated Tom Daily at 134 pounds, the first time the Hawkeyes scored at that weight during a dual meet this season.

This victory set the stage for Greg Randall's pin at 142 pounds. Randall put Wisconsin's Mike Murphy on his back in two minutes, 12 seconds.

After suffering his only loss of the season to Iowa State's Tim Krieger, 150-pound Jim Heffernan bounced back to post a victory over the Badgers' Jeff Jordan. Heffernan had a close lead on Jordan but began a serious scoring drive during the second and third periods to pull ahead 11-5.

"(The loss to Krieger) gave me the incentive to work harder at practice, not that I wasn't working hard but it served as a little extra motivation," Heffernan said.

HEFFERNAN, WHO IS rated

second nationally, has met fifth-rated Jordan on many occasions and has always come out on top.

"I know how he wrestles, and I knew that he'd try to keep the match close," Heffernan said.

Rico Chiapparelli missed part of the season with a rib injury but was back in the line-up for the Iowa State dual. He beat Cyclone Steve Metzger, 14-5, and continued to dominate Saturday against Wisconsin's Ralph Liegel, defeating him, 13-3.

"We had a real tough week last week. We had to go out and make sure the hard work paid off," Chiapparelli said. "We can't really turn everything around right away. We had a lot of questions going into the meet, but we pretty much dominated."

Iowa's Mitch Kelly, replacing John Heffernan at 158, lost to Paul McShane, 13-5. The other Iowa loss came at 190 pounds when Dave Martin, who is back in the line-up after recovering from a knee injury, was pinned in 5:57 by Kyle Richards.

The Hawkeyes next meet is Friday night, Jan. 23 at home with Big Ten foe Minnesota. After another league matchup, Sunday, Jan. 25 at Michigan State, Gable's crew travels to Norman, Okla., to face perennial rival Oklahoma, Jan. 30.

Gymnasts dump California-Long Beach

The Iowa women's gymnastic team won its second dual meet of the season Saturday by defeating California-Long Beach, 161.4-154.45.

Iowa freshman Shelby Root captured second place in the all-around competition by scoring 32.65. Teammate Mindy Taylor scored 32.15 to place third.

The Hawkeyes stole the show on the balance beam and captured all three places — Root was first with 8.45, Wendy Hussar placed second (8.4) and Nancy Reilly scored 8.2 to place third.

Root placed second in the vaulting competition (8.75). On the uneven parallel bars, Jennifer DuBois scored 8.05 to place second and in the floor exercise competition, Taylor scored an 8.25 to tie for third place.

Hawkeyes get early tune-up at Badger Classic track meet

By Dan Millea
Staff Writer

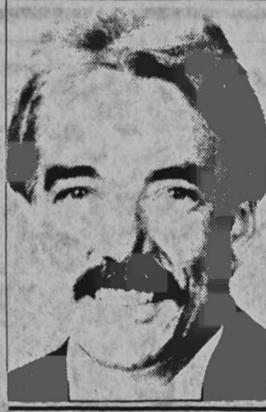

The Iowa track team officially opened its indoor campaign Saturday at the Badger Track Classic in Madison, Wis., but Assistant Coach Larry Wiczorek said the meet could be better classified as a tune-up for the winter season.

Wiczorek and Coach Ted Wheeler took only a small group of athletes to Madison, but expect to find out more about the team as a whole this weekend in a triangular meet with Nebraska and Florida at Lincoln, Neb.

"We didn't want to rush anybody into the meet that we felt wasn't really ready," Wiczorek said. "Everybody we took did reasonably well, but it was really too early to get any type of read from it. Each week we'll get a better read."

IOWA HAD JUST 10 entries in the meet, which was not scored. Among the other schools competing were Wisconsin, DePaul, Iowa State, Marquette and the Chicago Track Club, in addition to approximately 50 unattached athletes.

The Hawkeyes who did compete turned in strong performances. Four sophomores, St. Clair Blackman, Curtis Chung, Paul Steele and Gordon Finch, all placed high as did senior

Men's Track

Chris Gambol and junior Pat Meade.

Blackman and Chung tied for first place in the 600-yard dash. The pair were competing in different heats, both finishing in one minute, 13.6 seconds. Steele made it a triple, turning in a third place finish in the 600 with a time of 1:13.9.

STEELE ALSO TOOK second place in his heat in the 300-yard dash with a time of

"We didn't want to rush anybody into the meet," Iowa Assistant Track Coach Larry Wiczorek says of the Badger Classic. "It was really too early to get any type of read from it."

32.1. But because there was little time between Steele's 600 and 300, he scratched the 300 final.

"I think (Steele) probably would have placed in the top two or three in the (300) finals," Wiczorek said.

Meade and Finch each grabbed a second place finish. Meade went 6 feet, 10 inches in the high jump, and Finch hit a personal best with a 46-5/8 effort in the triple jump.

Gambol placed fourth in the shot put with a throw of 52-6, but Wiczorek said the 6-7, 295-pounder, who also plays on the offensive line for the football team, will only get better.

Swimmers miss Hawaii's heat and campus pool after break

By Steve Williams
Assistant Sports Editor

The Iowa men's swimming team received a rude welcome upon return from its winter training session in Honolulu.

After three weeks of perfect weather and superb training conditions, the Hawkeyes returned to a frigid Iowa City to find that they have no pool to swim in.

Due to a malfunction in the Iowa Field House Pool's filter system, the pool has been closed down since Dec. 24 and is not expected to open again until some time during the week of Jan. 26.

To compensate, Iowa Coach Glenn Patton and his swimmers have been forced to train wherever and whenever possible, training in pools from Coe College in Cedar Rapids to the Iowa City Recreation Center.

"WE'VE HAD TO train in as many as four different pools during the last week," Patton said. "Because there hasn't been any school, the training has been a little easier to handle. But with classes starting up again, training will be much more difficult."

Glenn Patton

In the sun, the Hawkeyes upped their record to 9-0 with a double dual meet victory over Hawaii and Texas A & M in Honolulu.

Iowa defeated Hawaii 141-37 and Texas A & M 135-47, and in the process won every event except the breaststroke.

"This was probably the best training session we've ever been through," Patton said. "This year was especially gratifying because of the increased size of our line-up."

The Hawkeyes trained twice a day and further intensified their workouts by holding open ocean workouts.

Iowa also participated in the Rainbow Invitational during the trip. However, results were not taken from the meet.

"I think everyone enjoyed themselves throughout the trip," Patton said. "We worked hard but gave the team time to enjoy themselves as well, and hopefully this will give us a lift for the rest of our regular season."

The Hawkeyes will resume normal activities by hosting Nebraska this Friday, providing that the Field House Pool is ready for use.

Men's Swimming

However, the lack of usable facilities didn't stop the Hawkeyes from having a happy holiday in America's 50th state. After three weeks of basking

Hawks must avoid letdowns

By Scott Reifert
Staff Writer

The Iowa women's swimming team must fight to avoid a letdown of sorts after spending three weeks of its Christmas break training in Hawaii.

The letdown could be both physical and mental for the undefeated Hawkeyes.

The mental letdown is one that affects most people who are forced to return to Iowa after spending nearly a month in Hawaii.

The physical letdown Coach Pete Kennedy must try to avoid may result because of a drop in training hours now that the team has returned to Iowa City.

WHILE THE HAWKEYES were in Hawaii they were able to devote more time to training — practicing hard twice a day in addition to spending their free time on the beach — than they will be able to spend now that classes have resumed.

Compounding problems Kennedy and his team returned home to find the Field House pool empty. During the break a faulty filter caused the pool to be closed, and the problem has yet to be solved.

In the meantime the Hawkeyes have been forced to practice at a high school pool in Cedar Rapids.

WHILE IN HAWAII the Hawkeyes competed in both the Wahine Invitational on Dec. 31 and the Rainbow Classic on Jan. 2-3.

Although no team scores were kept in the meets, Kennedy said his squad swam "exceptionally well" in the invitational in spite of a rough travel schedule. They arrived in Hawaii early on the morning of the meet, had only three hours of sleep, practiced from 10 a.m. to noon and then swam in the meet that evening.

"It was pretty exciting just being in Hawaii," Becky Anderson, a freshman from Laramie, Wyo., said. "The workouts were tough, but that's OK. Just being in that atmosphere made practices easier. We were outdoors and it was sunny."

Hard-edged romance saves predictable 'Morning After'

By Hoyt Olsen
Staff Writer

THE Morning After begins "in medias res" with a vengeance. In the first two minutes of the film, heroine Alexandra Sternbergen (Jane Fonda) wakes up to discover that she is sharing a bed with a dead man. The carving knife through his chest eliminates natural causes as a consideration.

But Alexandra is an alcoholic has-been actress who goes blank after a binge. She doesn't know where she is or how she got there — and she is only able to identify the corpse because the TV set is on, and the victim happens to be on it. He was, it develops, a controversial photographer whose work is considered pornography by detractors.

Alexandra recognizes instantly that she is the prime suspect. This conclusion has infinite logic, since she spent three months in prison years ago for stabbing her first husband while under the influence.

BELIEVING that she is the killer, Alexandra tries to flee Los Angeles. But after an airport auto accident, she decides to return to the scene of the crime and clean up every possible trace of her presence. As luck and Hollywood plot conventions would have it, the man Alexandra finds to drive her back to town is one Turner Kendall (Jeff Bridges), a disabled former policeman.

Unfortunately, despite much to recommend it, The Morning After is unable to sustain the promise of its early action. A good whodunit needs to be plausible, yet not predictable; instead, The Morning After offers implausible situations that conform closely enough to Hollywood formula that it is easy to predict the villain early in the movie.

After all, only three characters have significant roles:

- Alexandra, the boozed out husband-stabber who is the police department's No. 1 suspect;

- Turner, who routinely shows up in suspicious circumstances (such as when the body is mysteriously moved);

- Joaquin Manero (Raul Julia), Alexandra's second husband and owner of a posh beauty salon. While the two have been separated for years, he remains her loyal supporter and confidante even when she becomes a murder suspect on-the-run.

NOW, IF YOU CAN'T tell the good guys from the bad guys with just those sketchy details, you obviously do not go to many movies. And if the previous information about the TV set being on at the murder scene and the victim happening to be on it has not convinced you already how implausible the movie becomes — well, the 50-odd other lapses worth mentioning probably could not do it either.

The romantic angle helps mitigate the plot's weaknesses. Fonda's Alexandra and Bridges' Turner are not cuddly people. He's an out-of-work divorced redneck who likes "to repair stuff, whatever needs it, whatever people are through with"; Alexandra, a mean-mouthed drunk still proud that she was once groomed "to be the next Vera Miles," clearly qualifies for repairs.

They attract and repel one another with credible ferocity, rather than becoming the latest clones of the popular "Moonlighting" format. Fonda is as good as ever, and Bridges gives a wonderfully convincing performance.

Director Sidney Lumet (Power, The Verdict) allows the film to lag on several occasions. But overall his direction is above average, in particular because he is more concerned with character than with moments of cheap suspense. The Morning After is no must-see, but those who do see it will get their money's worth.

Houghtlin kick boosts Iowa

Big field goal ends thriller in San Diego

By Brad Zimaneck

SAN DIEGO — Iowa kicker Rob Houghtlin ended a furious comeback Dec. 30 by converting a 41-yard field goal with 4 seconds remaining to give the Hawkeyes a 39-38 win over San Diego State in the ninth annual Sea World Holiday Bowl.

Only 41 seconds earlier it appeared Houghtlin wouldn't be given the opportunity to display his patented heroics that have become very familiar to Hawkeye fans.

Iowa led 36-35 when Aztec kicker Kevin Rahill had thoughts of stardom himself as his 21-yard field goal attempt sailed through the uprights. This brought a San Diego State dominated Jack Murphy Stadium crowd to its feet — where it had been for most of the ballgame, including a spectacular halftime fireworks and lights display.

Rahill's kick had been set up by the Aztecs on a 45-yard pass play from quarterback Todd Santos to Alfred Jackson that threaded between two Hawkeye defenders and placed San Diego State on Iowa's 9-yard line.

It appeared the Hawkeyes' chances of winning a second bowl game in California were over.

IOWA KICKOFF returner and back-up tailback Kevin Harmon had other ideas, though, after San Diego State regained the lead.

Harmon received the ensuing kickoff on the 15-yard line and sprinted down the left side of the field past the San Diego State bench and Coach Denny Stolz to the Aztec 37.

Harmon's return of 48 yards set a Holiday Bowl kickoff return record, which was set previously at 37 yards by Arizona State's Darryl Clark in 1985 and later tied by Iowa's Robert Smith in the first quarter of the 1986 con-

Senate OKs financing of laser center

By Joseph Levy
Staff Writer

Top UI officials said Friday they were more than pleased that plans to finance construction of a laser facility at the UI swept through the Iowa Senate last week.

The senate passed legislation Jan. 15 — only the fourth day of the session this year — allowing the state Board of Regents to sell $25.1 million in bonds to finance the laser center.

"I was certainly gratified that it moved so quickly," UI President James O. Freedman said, explaining that speedy passage of the plans will benefit the UI.

"The sooner we begin, the sooner we are able to bring faculty in here," he said.

Freedman said the opportunity for the UI to become a national leader in laser technology may have sped up the senate's voting process.

"It's an idea that has captured the imagination of Iowans," he said.

UI VICE PRESIDENT for Educational Development and Research Duane Spriestersbach was also enthusiastic about the senate vote.

"It was unusual," Spriestersbach said. "Of course we were delighted. It seems to be a project that is right for its time."

The laser lab will be located on the northeast corner of Iowa Avenue and Dubuque Street, next to Van Allen Hall, and will bring at least three of the nation's top laser experts to the UI, Freedman said.

The bond issue must now be approved by the Iowa House of Representatives before Gov. Terry Branstad can give final approval.

FREEDMAN AND Spriestersbach both said they expect the bond to pass in the House of Representatives, but added it could take longer for the lower legislative body to come to a vote.

"There is a continuing concern among the legislature about bonding in general," Spriestersbach said.

But he added he is confident the bonding legislation will pass. "To the best of my knowledge, there is support in the House."

Freedman cited a busy agenda in the House of Representatives as a possible foil to the speedy passage of the bond issue. He said he anticipates it will take several weeks before the issue will be ready for Branstad to approve.

Spriestersbach agreed that the faster plans can be approved, the better. "Every day saved in getting on with it will be a plus. This is an extremely fast-moving field."

Plans to build a laser facility at the UI were first approved by the state Board of Regents last October. The facility is designed to include two floors underground and three floors above ground, providing office space for UI faculty members from the departments of Chemistry, Physics and Astronomy and the College of Engineering.

Firm buys Old Capitol mall; top owners expect change

By Bruce Japsen

When a Chicago firm bought Old Capitol Center last month, store operators said they expected the new ownership to bring many improvements to the mall.

Heitman Financial, the owners of Chicago's popular downtown shopping center Water Tower Place, purchased the mall for an undisclosed amount of money.

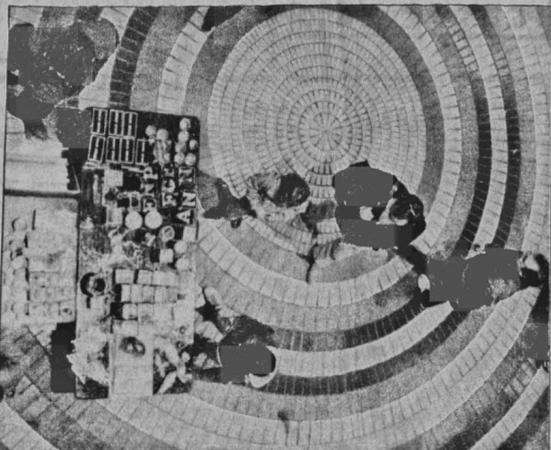

"When this kind of company buys something, they buy it because they think they can make it better," said Gary Lundquist, president of Old Capitol Center Merchants Association.

"Everybody will place an effort to improve the look of the facility," Lundquist said.

By effort to make the facility a place to go they'll attract more open groups selected to use the center."

Old CAPITOL Center Partners sold the downtown shopping mall to Heitman Financial.

Center Investors, which became partners in the mall in 1983, sold its interest in Old Capitol Center Partners Dec. 30 and Partners made a sale to Heitman Financial the same day, according to William Meardon, an attorney for Center Investors.

The Daily Iowan/Carlos M. Trevino

Old Capitol Center, which held its grand opening in 1982 as part of the city's downtown re-urbanization plan, was sold to Chicago-based Heitman Financial Ltd., in late December.

"Center Investors sold its 50 percent interest and Old Capitol Center Partners then sold all of the assets the same day," Meardon said.

Store operators in the mall were notified of the sale Jan. 2.

Lundquist said he and other store operators believe Heitman Financial's success with other ventures will help Old Capitol Center's business flourish.

"WE'RE ALL encouraged with this organization," Lundquist said. "They are very professional," he said. "We know what kind of success they've had with the past experience they've been involved in. It will be for the betterment of the promotional aspects of the mall."

Lundquist said the management of Old Capitol Center has been working closely with owners from Heitman Financial since the sale.

"We're really working together," Lundquist said. "Heitman hopes to make a more visible interest in Old Capitol Center."

Memorial ceremony honors former UI liberal arts dean

By Phil Thomas
Staff Writer

More than 600 people mourned the death of former UI College of Liberal Arts Dean Howard Laster at a Saturday memorial service at Clapp Recital Hall.

Laster, 56, died Dec. 31 after a five-year bout with cancer.

Laster served as dean of the Liberal Arts College from 1977 until 1983, when he resigned because of his illness. He continued teaching courses in the UI Department of Physics and Astronomy.

"Under his leadership the curriculum and college was strengthened," UI College of Liberal Arts Dean Gerhard Loewenberg said Sunday.

Speakers at the memorial service included UI President James O. Freedman and UI Physics and Astronomy Professor Emeritus James A. Van Allen.

LASTER WAS HIGHLY respected and well-liked by the UI community, Loewenberg said.

"By his example, he set the very highest academic standards," he said. "He was a very good friend to an enormous number of faculty members and to me."

During Laster's six years as dean, enrollment in the College of Liberal Arts increased by 40 percent.

Laster remained active in

Howard Laster

several faculty organizations, including the UI Faculty Assembly, until the time of his death.

"Dean Laster's courage and tenacity throughout the course of his final illness were emblematic of his contributions to the University of Iowa," UI Vice President for Academic Affairs Richard Remington said. "As dean of our largest college, he faced difficult issues calmly, but with a clear sense of the overall good of the institution."

BORN IN JERSEY CITY, N.J., Laster graduated from Harvard University in 1951 and received his doctoral degree from Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., in 1957.

Laster then joined the staff at the University of Maryland, where he was noted for his work in cosmic ray astrophysics. He became the chairman of the Maryland Department of Physics and Astronomy before moving to Iowa City in 1977.

While at Maryland, Laster served on the state of Maryland's Power Plant Siting Advisory Committee.

Freedman said Laster played an inspirational role during his time at the UI.

"His death has left the university community immeasurably poorer than it was," Freedman said. "We mourn the passing of a wise and decent man."

LASTER WAS a fellow of the American Physical Society and the Iowa Academy of Sciences. He also served on the Iowa Governor's Science Advisory Council and was a member of several scientific and professional organizations.

Survivors include his wife Miriam; one son, Jonathon of Hyattsville, Md.; three daughters, Elizabeth of Stockholm, Sweden; Jane of Iowa City and Sarah of Washington D.C.; two brothers, Seymour and Owen of New York City; and two grandchildren.

His body was donated to the UI College of Medicine.

Branstad address names education as No. 1 priority

DES MOINES (UPI) — Gov. Terry Branstad began his second term by asking lawmakers to approve a $150 million program to improve Iowa's education system, including $100 million to raise the salaries of public school teachers.

Friday's inaugural festivities also featured the swearing in of Democratic Lt. Gov. Jo Ann Zimmerman, the first woman ever to hold that post in Iowa.

After being escorted to a platform by military officers and political leaders, Branstad, 40, was administered his oath of office by Chief Justice W. Ward Reynolds at 10:22 a.m., moments after Zimmerman took her oath of office.

Branstad said during his reelection campaign last fall that education would be his top priority for 1987 and used the inauguration ceremonies to stress that point.

"THESE TIMES DEMAND our best," Branstad told the crowd at the auditorium. "Our challenge is to be the best, to commit ourselves to excellence. That is why, today, I have decided to depart from tradition and to devote this entire inaugural address to the subject of education."

"Why focus on education? The answer is simple: jobs. If Iowa is going to attract the jobs of the future, we must make an extraordinary commitment to be the best in the nation in education," the governor said.

The cornerstone of Branstad's education plan is a proposal to spend an additional $100 million this year to raise teacher salaries and an increase in state aid to local school districts from $1,581 per student this year to $1,907 next year.

"These dollars will not be scattered recklessly to the educational wind," Branstad said. "They will be targeted toward meeting our three important goals: attracting qualified people into the teaching profession, keeping our best teachers and providing for their development, and finding ways to enhance the quality and effectiveness of our schools."

THE PLAN CALLS for spending $9 million to raise starting

"Why focus on education? The answer is simple: jobs," says Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad of the state's need to give education financial priority.

teacher salaries from the current $14,000 to $15,000 a year to $18,000 annually. Another $38.5 million would be appropriated to raise salaries for current teachers. The remaining $52.5 million would be placed in a special trust fund that could be used by local school districts to provide merit pay raises to their best teachers.

"Our plan for higher education should encourage our institutions to focus their resources on centers of excellence, educating tomorrow's experts and turning new ideas into new developments."

Branstad's other education initiatives include:

- Providing an additional 2,000 tuition grants for students attending private colleges;
- Increasing state grants to encourage local school districts to establish foreign language training;
- Establishing a summer institute for talented and gifted students;
- Providing grants to encourage state universities to reallocate their resources to build "centers of excellence";
- Increasing the number of faculty at the University of Northern Iowa.

"TODAY, WE HAVE an opportunity to shape our future," Branstad said in conclusion. "If we seize the initiative we will ensure a place for our state in the competitive global economy of the 21st century."

Although most lawmakers and the Iowa State Education Association, which represents nearly 30,000 public school teachers, have endorsed the governor's salary proposal, the ISEA and other education groups have denounced Branstad's proposed tuition tax deductions.

The Iowa Parent Teacher Association last week denounced the proposal, saying it will undermine the state's public school system by encouraging more parents to send their children to private schools.

ZIMMERMAN, A registered nurse and farmer, said she hopes to be a leader in developing Iowa's agricultural economy and in improving health care services for Iowans.

"As a nurse, I want to help ensure Iowans have health care available. We must plan now to meet our changing population needs as we move toward an increasing number of Iowans over the age of 65," she said.

"As a farmer, I want to move ahead with initiatives to increase the use of our agriculture products. This means increased emphasis on research in agriculture products. Iowa has the opportunity to be the first in the nation in developing new products from our raw materials," Zimmerman said.

Gym owner files $200,000 suit against owners of Abbey Inn

By Brian Olesen
Staff Writer

The owner of a Coralville fitness gym once located in the basement of the Abbey Inn filed suit against the motel as a result of the Dec. 14 fire that destroyed its business.

Patrick Crone, owner of the Olympic Gym, charges the owners of the Abbey Inn with negligence in the suit filed in Johnson County District Court. Crone seeks $100,000 in actual damages and $100,000 in punitive damages.

The fire that gutted two-thirds of the Abbey was caused by overheated motors in an air-exchange unit, located in the void between the Abbey's basement ceiling and first floor, according to reports from the Coralville Fire Department.

The unit reportedly overheated and smoldered for an extended period of time.

INVESTIGATORS from the Coralville Fire Department, the state fire marshal's office and the Coralville Police Department determined that arson was not the cause of the fire after three days of digging through the motel's remains last month.

"It just had a good build-up before it was even detected," Coralville Fire Chief Gary Kinsinger said after last month's investigation. "It was no fault of anybody's."

The motel did not have a sprinkler system.

"It's a two-story building," Kinsinger said. "They're not required to have one because it's not three stories."

THE FIRE SPREAD, burning through a storage room to a two-level suite in the basement, reports state. The open area of the suite enabled flames to spread to an even more open area — the Abbey's indoor pool room.

Wooden walls, antiques and decorations caught fire and fueled the spread of the blaze, according to Kinsinger. Old books that surrounded the staircase of the two-level basement suite also aided the proliferating flames.

Fire departments from Iowa City, Coralville, and the surrounding Iowa towns of Hills, Lone Tree, Tiffin, Oxford, Solon, Swisher, North Liberty and West Branch tried to contain the blaze.

Fear of an explosion and intense heat from the fire prompted evacuation of four nearby restaurants and businesses, including the Greenbriar Restaurant & Bar, Pizza Hut, the Union 76 station and the Pizzeria Chicago.

The fire spread from the candle to surrounding Christmas wreath decorations on the table. Flames then spread underneath the table to a raised platform.

THE BLAZE CONSUMED the table completely and burned half of the raised platform, the table and other parts of the altar area, reports state.

It took firefighters 30 minutes to extinguish the blaze. Three fire engines, one ladder truck and one equipment truck were used.

Residents of neighboring apartments, above Breeger's Bagel Bakery and The Hair Quarter, were temporarily evacuated.

Firefighters contained the fire to the altar but some fire damage occurred to pews and light controls.

Fire ousts local churchgoers

By Brian Olesen
Staff Writer

An Iowa City church is holding services in a local movie theater after an unattended candle started a fire and heavily damaged the church last month.

The Dec. 23 fire caused more than $72,000 damage and has forced members of the First Christian Church, 217 Iowa Ave., to use the Astro Theatre for services.

"It is very nice of the Campus Theatres' managers to allow us to use the Astro," the Rev. Robert Welsh said. "I hope the rebuilding of the church will get under way soon."

But Welsh said the First Christian Church will continue to use the Astro until the Fellowship Hall, in the basement of the church, is remodeled or the fire damage is repaired in the church.

WELSH SAID he wants to rebuild the church to its previous condition, if possible. He said church members have been attending services at the Astro since Dec. 28.

The investigation by the state fire marshal has determined the "probable cause" as a candle that was left burning on a table.

The fire was reported to Iowa City police by the bartender of the Deadwood tavern, 6 S. Dubuque St., and 25 firefighters from the Iowa City Fire Department responded at about 3 a.m.

Reports state the blaze originated on a communion table in the church's sanctuary. No one was in the church when firefighters arrived and no injuries were reported.

WHAT IS A DILL BURGER?

Terry Hanson can testify that the question he is asked most often is, "What is a dill burger?" His answer is, "It is a 5 oz. of fresh lean ground beef that we top with special seasoning as we cook it." He emphasizes that the beef is seasoned lightly as the spices are meant to enhance the flavor, not overpower it.

Notice how Terry stresses the word fresh? That's because all the beef used at The Famous Dill Burger is locally purchased fresh, never frozen. Terry definitely feels some of the natural flavor of the beef is taken away if it has been frozen. All burgers are weighed at 5 oz. before cooking. Terry and his employees realize that hamburger does shrink during cooking and they want to make sure you do get a full quarter pound of beef when they serve you.

Burgers are not cooked in advance and held under heat lamps. Each customer is asked which condiments he prefers, so each sandwich is prepared to his special tastes and expectations.

Specialtyburgers are also prepared from lean USDA ground beef. Specialtyburgers often requested include the "Mushroom Burger" topped with butter-sautéed fresh mushrooms in a gravy sauce. The "HAM-Burger" is topped with melted Swiss cheese and tender ham slices.

Side orders are delicious with your burger. Try Curly-Q's, freshly spiral-cut potatoes french fried to a golden brown. The onion rings and crisp fresh fries also bring raves. People can return to Terry's counter to tell him how much they enjoyed the food and that they will be back/they feel they get their money's worth as prices are very reasonable.

Any time is "Burger Time." Perfect complements are the creamy dairy malts at shakes prepared at The Famous Dill Burger.

Stop soon. If you're in a hurry call 351-828 and Terry's will gladly carry out break & relax at 121 Iowa where there is lots of comfy seating.

Holiday Bowl

Annual San Diego contest is almost always a nailbiter

By Brad Zimanek
Sports Editor

SAN DIEGO — Iowa kick returner Kevin Harmon stole the show with his Sea World Bowl record 48-yard return in the closing minutes of the Dec. 30 game, that wasn't the only interesting note from the bowl's 10th showing.

Iowa's exciting 39-38 win over San Diego State marked the eighth Holiday Bowl contest to be decided by less than seven points, as well as the eighth contest decided in the final two minutes.

Only Ohio State's 1982 47-17 blowout of Brigham Young tarnishes the Holiday Bowl's track record of fantastic finishes.

The crowd of 59,473 at Jack Murphy Stadium for the Iowa-San Diego State contest marked the second highest attendance in Holiday Bowl history. Only the 1984 game between Brigham Young and Michigan, which decided the national championship, produced a larger turnout.

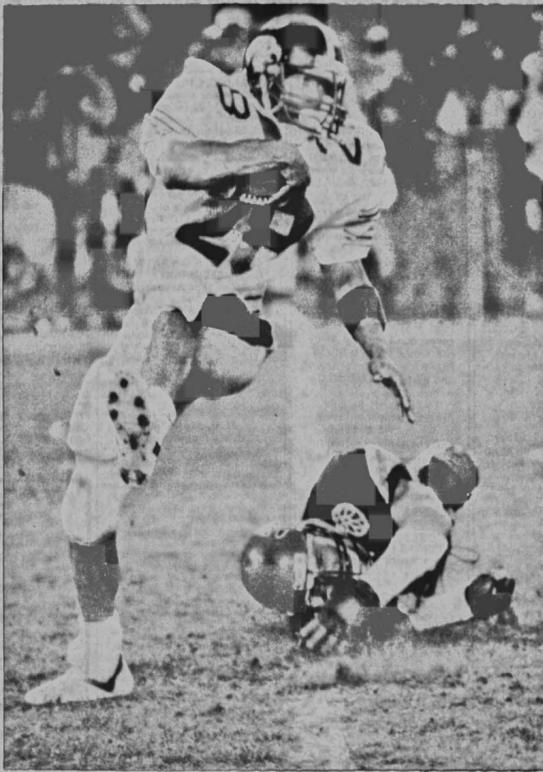

The 1986 Holiday Bowl marked the fifth bowl game for San Diego State, but oddly enough, the Aztecs have never appeared in a bowl game outside of their home state of California.

On Jan. 1, 1948, the Aztecs played in the Harbor Bowl in San Diego where they were defeated 53-0 by Hardin Simmons. In 1966 and 1967 San Diego State won the Camellia Bowl played in Sacramento.

In their last bowl appearance before 1986, the Aztecs defeated Boston University in 1969, 28-7, in the Pasadena Bowl held in Pasadena, Calif. In 1966, 1967 and 1969, San Diego State was led to the bowl games by former NFL Coach Don Coryell, who stepped down last fall as coach of the San Diego Chargers.

Under Coach Hayden Fry, Iowa is 3-3 in bowl games after bowl appearances each of the past six seasons. Two of Iowa's bowl losses, however, have come at the home sites of its bowl opponents.

The Hawkeyes' 1983 Gator Bowl foe, Florida, plays at least one game each season in Jacksonville, Fla., while Iowa's 1986 Rose Bowl opponent, UCLA, calls Pasadena's Iowa's Kevin Harmon shakes loose a potential tackler. Harmon later ran a kick-off back 48 yards to set a Holiday Bowl record.

Rose Bowl home.

Jack Murphy Stadium is also home to San Diego State, but Fry broke the string of losses to home bowl opponents by notching an exciting 39-38 win in front of the home crowd, even though roughly 10,000 Iowa fans made the trip to Southern California.

The win also allowed Fry to even up his career record against the Aztecs.

In 1973, while coaching at North Texas State, Fry was humiliated by the Aztecs 56-9. In 1974 in Denton, Texas, Fry returned the favor by upending San Diego State 14-9. The Aztecs took the advantage in the series in 1975 by defeating Fry's Mean Green Eagles 30-12.

"I doubt seriously if you will see another bowl game like that this year that exciting,"

Fry said shortly following the Holiday Bowl.

He wasn't off by much.

The only two games that can compare with the Hawkeyes' victory over San Diego State would be the Peach Bowl, won 25-24 by Virginia Tech on a last-second field goal, and the national championship contest in the Fiesta Bowl where Penn State edged Miami 14-10, cementing the victory by intercepting Heisman Trophy winner Vinny Testaverde with less than 30 seconds remaining in the game.

The 1986 Iowa team will be remembered in San Diego for its victory over the Aztecs. A banner for the Hawkeyes will be placed in the San Diego Sports History museum located in the city's Balboa Park. Each of the Holiday Bowl's nine winners have been so enshrined.

Fry had more than Aztecs on his mind in Holiday Bowl

By Brad Zimanek
Sports Editor

SAN DIEGO — Iowa Coach Hayden Fry walked into the press room at Jack Murphy Stadium and he didn't appear to be his usual jovial self.

The Hawkeyes had just come from behind in the final seconds to post a 39-38 win over San Diego State in the Holiday Bowl but the weary look on Fry's face proved he had something else on his mind — the prospect of leaving Iowa after thrilling Hawkeye fans for the past eight years with something once thought impossible in Iowa City: victories.

Fry spent little more than five minutes talking about admittedly one of the most exciting games he had ever coached. This is one occurrence members of the Iowa press corps are not familiar with, especially after a victory.

"ALL THE DISTRACTIONS bothered the heck out of me. I had to keep all the players and the coaches really concentrating on the bowl game," Fry snapped back on the first question asked about a possible move to USC. "Some of the Iowa writers will tell I just flat got mad. They kept bugging me: Waiting after practice, stopping me in the halls and calling me on the phone."

Fry continued: "If they would have asked me about San Diego State or some of our players I would have been pretty happy but everything revolved around the USC rumors. I'm a very sensitive guy and when I get mad, I get mad. And I have been damn mad for quite a while with some Iowa people. The majority of the Iowa people are super, but gee whiz."

BUT THEN SOME truth in the rumors became evident. The bowl game was over. The distractions were gone. Would Fry continue to coach next season in a state where only God has a better following?

"I don't really know how to answer that," Fry solemnly said. "I've had a lot of opportunities for other jobs since I've been at Iowa. I've never brought up a job before until this USC job came along and I have never made a move without asking my coaching staff what they wanted to do. My coaching staff voted to look into the USC job."

Arizona's Larry Smith was eventually named to the post vacated by a fired Ted Tollner.

THE REASONS FRY considered moving from Iowa City to Southern California were quite clear — he believed he could succeed quicker in the pasture of one of the richest traditions in college football.

"Twenty-four Rose Bowl appearances, the Heisman Trophies, the pro players, the great recruiting base — probably 85 to 90 percent of the recruits come from a 100-mile radius, etc.," Fry said. "The whole motivation for us to be interested is that maybe, just maybe, we could win a national championship at USC quicker than we could at Iowa."

Only time will tell if Fry will stay and continue to fertilize the football pastures of Iowa's corn country or cultivate one created by someone else.

Over the Break USI names new director to campus chapter post

By Monica Seigel
Staff Writer

UI senior Gregg Shoultz has been appointed United Students of Iowa Chapter Director, replacing former director Circe Stumbo, who took a post in Washington D.C. this month as United States Student Association vice president.

USI Board of Directors member Charles Du Mond said although Shoultz was the only applicant for the position, he was also an obvious choice.

"Gregg has been actively involved with USI for quite a while, so there was no problem having him appointed as campus director," Du Mond said. "I don't anticipate him having any trouble at all."

COLLEGIATE Associations Council President Mike Reck said he is pleased with Shoultz's appointment. "He's got a lot of connections in Des Moines," Reck said. "I'm sure he is going to be a great asset to the lobbying efforts of USI."

Shoultz is the son of State House Rep. Donald Shoultz, D-Waterloo, a member of the Education and Appropriations Subcommittee.

USI Legislative Director Scott Brown said Shoultz will have several projects to take over right away, especially in making plans for the USI legislative assembly to be held at the UI during the weekend of Feb. 14.

"As far as the quality of work we can expect from Gregg, I'm sure he'll do well," Brown added. "He's got a tough act to follow after Circe, but he has a good deal of experience and he knows what he's doing."

HELP WANTED

WISH someone "Happy Birthday" in THE DAILY IOWAN Personal column.

WORK YOUR WAY THROUGH COLLEGE BEFORE YOU EVEN GET THERE.

With the GI Bill Plus the Army College Fund, you can earn up to $25,200 in college money. So when you get to school, you'll be able to spend your time enjoying all that college has to offer instead of worrying about paying for it.

Here's how the program works: as a soldier, you contribute $100 a month from your first full 12 months' paychecks (for a total of $1,200). The government and the Army contribute the rest (up to $9,600 from the government and up to $14,400 from the Army).

If you qualify for this program, you could train in one of over 60 exciting and challenging skills. In areas like communications, mechanical maintenance or electronics. In addition to accumulating knowledge in your skill, you'll be earning up to $25,200 in college money.

Contact your local Army Recruiter to find out more.

Holiday Bowl

The Hawkeye team swarms around the trophy (top) in the middle of Jack Murphy stadium in San Diego after defeating the Aztecs 39-38. Quarterback Mark Vlasic (middle) was voted co-MVP for the game. San Diego guard Mark Tegio raises his arms in a premature celebration of victory as the Aztecs kicked a field goal to put them ahead in the final minute of the game.

like they did after we played Brigham Young." Stolz continued: "The flow of the game actually never got away from us until the kickoff return and the last kick of the ballgame. We made the great play for the field goal and we should have won it with that. The only play that beat us was the last one. Unfortunately, there was one play left in the game."

"AFTER 35 YEARS of coaching I have had a lot of those (games)," Fry said. "Wasn't that a fantastic game? Gee whiz, it had everything: great hits, great defense at times, great offensive plays. It was just a complete sellout by both teams."

The real question, however, is: Was Houghtlin nervous before his game winning kick — especially after he missed an extra point and two field goals earlier in the game?

Hardly, even though the kick boosted Iowa to a 9-3 record and a 15th place national ranking in what was supposed to be a rebuilding year for the Hawkeyes.

"I JUST WENT over to Coach Fry and said, 'Look, they are trying to ice me.' He just laughed and said, 'Yeah, they are,'" Houghtlin said with a broad grin on his face.

"He said, 'You are going to go out there and make it.' Then I told him that I had dedicated this game to my grandfather because he died on Dec. 22 and he said, 'The good Lord isn't going to let you down. I just know that.'" Houghtlin said about his "icing" timeout talk with Fry.

Houghtlin added: "He was trying to loosen me up and we were trying to have a little fun on the sidelines. It's only a ballgame and you have to remember that. It's not life."

The senior from Glenview, Ill.,

has had many game-winning kicks in his career at Iowa, including a 29-yarder when the No. 1 ranked Hawkeyes defeated Michigan 12-10 Oct. 19, 1985, and at least one memorable boot in high school when he won the state quarterfinal game with a 42-yarder at 34 seconds left.

Houghtlin's Holiday Bowl also marked the second straight Iowa contest, with the other being the Hawkeyes' Nov. 22 contest with Minnesota, which he won on the last play of the game.

BUT OF ALL his game winning kicks which is the most memorable?

"This one still ranks No. 2," Houghtlin said following the Holiday Bowl. "I still think the Michigan one is the fondest in my heart."

For awhile it looked like Houghtlin or Rahill would have no direct bearing on the outcome of the game when San Diego State opened up leads of 15 and 14 points in the second half.

San Diego State was leading 35-21 with just 8:31 remaining when the Hawkeyes were faced with a fourth-and-four at the Aztec 29-yard line.

Iowa quarterback Mark Vlasic found tight end Marv Cook cutting across the middle and the 6-foot-4, 232-pound Cook broke a few tackles in scoring his first touchdown of the 1986 season.

A two-point conversion off a fake extra point attempt brought the Iowa team within six at 35-29 while keeping the Hawkeyes in the ballgame and in position for all the excitement that was to follow.

"Any ballgame when you come back and win you're a football team," Stolz said. "You're winners. I don't give a damn what game it is. It was a great comeback for them."

Iowa City

by Larry Shue

Wednesday, January 21 at 4 and 8 p.m.
 Mabie Theatre

This nutty farce takes place in a back country Georgia lodge, where the refusal of a shy Britisher to admit he speaks or understands English sets in motion countless complications. He overhears all manner of skulduggery, but the villains are thwarted, the Klan is turned back, and everybody good lives happily ever after in this sunny comedy.

In its October showing, all 10 performances sold out. If you missed it before, you can see it now! Iowa playwright Glenn Blumstein's play is a dramatization of the greatest male dancer in history. Nijinsky's breathtaking performances and choreography for the Ballet Russe in the 1909-13 seasons took Europe by storm, while his troubled, steamy private life made society's tongues wag.

The Normal Heart

by Larry Kramer

Friday, January 23 at 4 and 8 p.m.
 Mabie Theatre

This searching drama portrays the anguish of a gay relationship dealing with the stress of AIDS during the first years of the disease's discovery 1981-84. The couple must come to terms with the disease while the epidemic grows in velocity—unchecked and unobserved by the media, politicians, and society at large. Kramer's play is highly political, but his passionate message reduces the crisis to the common bond of human love, suffering, and mortality.

Chekhov in Yalta

by John Driver and Jeffrey Haddow

Saturday, January 24 at 4 and 8 p.m.
 Mabie Theatre

Imagine a play by Chekhov, at once comic and bittersweet, set in picturesque Yalta of 1900. Add a brilliant cast of historical figures including the playwrights Chekhov and Gorky, the stage director Stanislavsky, and the entire Moscow Art Theatre. The result is a very special evening of theatre. Don't miss this unusual creation.
