Iowa, Nebraska deaf schools may merge

By Shawn Plank
Staff Writer

State-run schools for deaf elementary and high school students in Iowa and Nebraska may merge by the fall of 1988 to save money in the face of declining enrollments.

If the schools merge, students at the Nebraska School for the Deaf in Omaha will attend school in Council Bluffs, home of the Iowa School for the Deaf. The two schools are located about 10 miles apart.

The Iowa School for the Deaf is governed by the state Board of Regents, the same body that oversees the UI, the two other state universities and the Iowa Braille and Sight Saving School in Vinton.

Regents Business and Finance Director Doug True said Sunday officials from Nebraska and Iowa have met to discuss the merger and have determined the states could each save as much as $2 million every year.

"THERE WOULD BE substantial savings and some very good opportunities for improving programs," he said.

Although no firm proposal has been laid down, True said the topic will be discussed at the regents February meeting in Cedar Falls next week.

Nebraska Education Associate Commissioner Jason Andrew said Sunday 80 or 90 students are enrolled in the Omaha school, a decrease from a high of about 200 students. A total of 130 students are enrolled at the Council Bluffs school.

"Schools for the deaf were built with room for twice as many students," he said.

Enrollment has dropped at the two schools because many cases of hearing impairment in children were linked to rubella, a form of measles, Andrew said.

"Vaccines fighting rubella has solved the problem of a large number of children," he said.

NEBRASKA SCHOOL for the Deaf Superintendent Robert Kellogg said the two schools have had a "good relationship" in the past, including social interaction and competing with each other in sporting events.

Kellogg said he isn't sure if the merger will be the best thing for the schools.

"I'm in favor of good quality education for children," he said. "If this proves educationally to be equivalent or better than what we have now, then it's something to be looked at."

The merger of the two schools would leave the Nebraska

Babbitt: Children top priority

By Carol Monaghan
Staff Writer

If ever there was a presidential candidate who refused to take a stand, it was former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt this past Saturday — at least during the Iowa-Arizona basketball match-up.

Babbitt, in Iowa to woo potential supporters for the 1988 Democratic presidential campaign, watched from Des Moines as the Hawks beat his home state Wildcats.

"When Arizona was up at half-time, I thought my campaign in Iowa was over before it began," Babbitt jokingly said to an audience of about 130 Johnson County Democrats during a brief stop in Iowa City.

Babbitt, on a three-day swing through Iowa, talked with supporters during a reception Sunday evening at the home of Tom and Maureen Taylor, 3104 Maplewood Lane.

With the Iowa caucuses still a

- Daycare: 'My priorities can be summed up in one word... children.'
- Economics: 'Gramm-Rudman is an abdication of moral responsibility.'
- Aid to Contras: 'Nobody in Nicaragua wants to take back the people they threw out and have them shoved through the back door by the CIA.'

Bruce Babbitt

year away, Babbitt has visited the state eight times since his weeklong trip across Iowa last July as a biker in RAGBRAI — the Register's Annual Great Bicycle Ride Across Iowa. Babbitt was the first candidate to establish a campaign committee, but has yet to officially declare his candidacy.

"HE IS SETTING the agenda for children's issues and trade policy," said Johnson County Attorney J. Patrick White, an early supporter of Babbitt.

"He has done more for the state of Iowa than any other presidential candidate."

White said Babbitt's testimony before the Iowa State Legislature this past fall helped lay the foundation for ground water legislation in this state.

Babbitt, who completed a nine-year term as Arizona's governor in January, runs a campaign that emphasizes non-traditional issues such as day care and environmental concerns.

"My priorities can be summed up in one word," Babbitt said. "It's a word that speaks of abandonment, neglect, abuse and the lack of medical attention, but also speaks of who we are. The word is children."

The 48-year-old Democrat also challenges traditional Democratic orthodoxy with his views on issues such as Social Security and Medicare.

Videotaped death threat sent to U.S.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A Moslem extremist group Sunday released a videotape of an American hostage who said he and his fellow captives face "execution" today if Israel does not release 400 Palestinian prisoners.

Another underground group holding U.S. and French hostages warned of "severe consequences" if the United States attacks Lebanon and accused missing hostage negotiator Terry Waite of carrying a concealed transmitter to reveal the hideouts of kidnapers.

In Syria, Shiite Moslem militia chief Nabih Berri said he believed the Church of England envoy would be released "soon" and reiterated an offer to exchange an Israeli pilot captured in October for 400 Arab prisoners demanded by the Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine, which says it has three American hostages and an Indian-born U.S. resident.

Alann Steen

American professors Jesse Turner and Robert Polhill and Indian-born U.S. resident Mithileshwar Singh on Jan. 24 in Moslem West Beirut. At least five other American hostages are among 28 foreigners believed held in Lebanon by various groups.

A TEXT OF THE message read by Steen on behalf of his colleagues was delivered along with the videotape, with some words underlined.

"Feb. 9 is the last date to release (the Arab prisoners). If they don't get released, our fate will be execution (underlined) and the Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine is serious about the time it set (underlined)," the statement said.

"If our lives are important to America, it must order Israel to release the 400 Palestinians as soon as possible — that is, Monday as a maximum," said Steen, unshaven and wearing a white T-shirt and glasses.

In London, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger refused to say what the U.S. response would be if hostages were killed. "I can only hope that no one is deprived enough to do

Women knock out, rob men

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Two groups of women are stalking wealthy men in Broward, Dade and Palm Beach counties, knocking them out with drugs and stealing their valuables, police said.

Police say the women have taken $10,000 to $20,000 in each heist.

"It's the use of these drugs that makes it unique and dangerous," Police Det. Mike Crowley said.

Investigators say the women, who pretend to be off-duty stewardesses and vacationing schoolteachers, look for their prey in high-class nightclubs.

Report: Bush got Iran briefing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A memo by a top aide indicates Vice President George Bush got an extensive, detailed briefing in July on Israel's role in the U.S. arms-for-hostages negotiations with Iran, it was reported Sunday.

The Washington Post reported that Israeli official Amiram Nir told Bush the negotiations were being held with "the most radical elements" in Iran because "they can deliver and the moderates can't."

The report was accompanied by the complete text of the three-page memo written by Bush chief of staff Craig Fuller about the July 29 meeting at the King David Hotel in Jerusalem.

It had been previously reported that Bush met with Nir, but what was not known was the depth of their discussion regarding Israel's participation or the explicit details about the way arms were being directly traded for hostages, the newspaper said.

THE IRANIANS WERE unwilling to turn over all the hostages as the United States had earlier sought, Nir said, because "they fear if they give all the hostages to us they won't get anything from us," the report said.

The Nir briefing for Bush described an operation that differed dramatically from the outlined to President Reagan and Bush by then-national security adviser Vice Adm. John Poindexter on Jan 17, the newspaper said.

A senior administration official told the Post some aides may have misled Reagan about the nature of the Iranian factions doing the negotiating in order to win his approval.

"This is our dilemma," the official told the Post. "Reagan tried to tell the country (that he was dealing with moderates). Nobody else in America believes there are moderates in Iran."

The Fuller memo was originally included in the initial draft of the Senate Intelligence Committee's report on the Iran-Contra affair but was deleted in later versions at the request of the State Department, which objected to the release of such high-level discussions, the Post said.

AFTER THE BUSH meeting the administration opened a second channel to the Iranians through a relative of a senior Iranian official, according to the Senate panel's report, and other sources said that route was thought to be more moderate than earlier contacts.

Bush made no promises to Nir and ended the meeting after thanking Nir "for having pursued this effort despite doubts and reservations throughout the process," according to the memo. The account did not explain whose "doubts and reservations" Bush was referring to.

Bush's only known response to the briefing, the newspaper said, was to direct that a copy of Fuller's memo be passed to Lt. Col. Oliver L. North, the National Security Council aide allegedly responsible for diverting profits from the arms sales to Iran to the Nicaraguan rebels.

Man arrested for breaking child's leg

An Iowa City man arrested for twisting and breaking the leg of an 18-month-old boy made his initial appearance Friday in Johnson County District Court. Ray Charles Moeller, 21, of 1705 Praire Du Chien Road Apt. 7, was charged with child endangerment for twisting the child's femur bone and causing a spiral fracture, court records state. The incident occurred last November. Moeller was being held Sunday in lieu of $5,000 bond at the Johnson County Jail. After the incident, Moeller transported the child to UI Hospitals for treatment. Court records state Moeller's explanation of the injury is inconsistent with the damage done. Moeller's preliminary hearing is scheduled for Feb. 16.

Kirkwood plan may cut course repetition

High school accounting students will be able to receive college credit at Kirkwood Community College through a plan designed by Kirkwood and several Cedar Rapids area high schools. School districts considering the plan are Cedar Rapids, Marion, Linn-Mar and College Community School Districts. According to Dale Simon, assistant dean of business at Kirkwood, the plan was developed because many students from high schools found the Kirkwood course "Principles of Accounting I" was a review of material covered in high school. Students who have completed the basic high school accounting/bookkeeping course will be able to get credit from Kirkwood if they pass an exam given by the college. Vice President of Instruction Don Roby believes this plan will benefit high school students. "This kind of program is a real plus for the student who can fulfill his high school requirements while getting a head start on college," he said.

City schedules children's art programs

The Iowa City Park and Recreation Department will be offering two arts and crafts programs for children in February and March. A series geared for children 2-5 years of age will stress activities in crafts, movement, music, games and cooking. The group will meet weekdays and Saturday mornings, Feb. 16 to March 21. The second set of classes, for youth in grades K-6, will emphasize the process of arts and creative artistic expression. A variety of take-home projects will also be introduced. This group will also meet weekdays and Saturday mornings, Feb. 16 to March 21. Both sets of classes cost $6 per session and advanced registration is required. Payment can be made in person or at the Iowa City Recreation Division office, 220 S. Gilbert St. For more information call 356-5100.

Hospitals offer low-cost blood testing

Cholesterol screening and free blood tests will be offered by Cedar Rapids and Iowa City hospitals this week at a low charge of $5. Mercy and St. Luke's hospitals and Weland Laboratories are working in cooperation with the American Heart Association during "Heart Month" this month to increase awareness of the danger in high cholesterol levels. According to the American Heart Association, high cholesterol content in the bloodstream has been linked to heart and artery diseases. The association estimates 50 percent of all Americans have high blood cholesterol levels. Screening will be available at Mercy Hospital in Iowa City and the following Cedar Rapids locations: Mercy Hospital, St. Luke's Hospital, Weland Laboratories, Mercy Garden Court, Mercy Care North, and St. Luke's Alive and Well Center. All adults over 20 years old are advised to be screened. No appointment or pre-registration is necessary.

Police suspect link between robberies

By Brian Olesen
Staff Writer

Two armed robberies early Sunday in Iowa City are believed to be related, according to the Iowa City Police Department. In both incidents, suspects were described as two black males, each carrying handguns. Darren Speidel, 504 S. Van Buren St., told Iowa City police he was standing outside his apartment at about 2:30 a.m. when he was approached by two black males who forced him into his apartment and stole his wallet and watch. "An investigation is ongoing," Iowa City police officer Joel Myers said Sunday. One of the suspects was described as about 6-foot-2 inches tall, between 28 and 32 years old, clean shaven with a thin build and armed with a .45 caliber handgun. The other suspect was described as about 5 feet 10 inches tall, between 28 and 32 years old, with a small chin beard, a "pockmarked face," a thin build and armed with a .22 caliber handgun.

REPORTS STATE the suspects also took a guest of Speidel's watch, wallet, curling iron and two rings. About one hour earlier another Iowa City resident was also reportedly robbed at gunpoint. James A. Nanke, 40, of Lot 16 Hilltop Trailer Court, was treated for a minor head injury by the Johnson County Ambulance Service after he was reportedly robbed at about 1:30 a.m. at the 100 block of West Benton Street. "We assume the two armed robberies are related but are two separate events," Myers said.

Information concerning the robbery was taken from Nanke's unavailable Sunday from Johnson County Sheriff's Office or the Iowa City Police Department. Nanke told Johnson County Sheriff's officers that the suspects who robbed him were two black men with handguns. One of the suspects was described as about 6 foot inches tall, weighing about 160 pounds with a moustache. The other suspect was described as about 5-foot-10 inches tall, weighing about 160 pounds with a moustache.

Agriculture panel heads for Midwest

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — Sen. Patrick Leahy, the first New Englander to chair the Senate Agriculture Committee in three decades, will tour six Midwestern states with the panel this week to examine the nation's farm woes firsthand. The panel, which begins its trip today, plans to visit Iowa, Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota and Nebraska. The committee has arranged for five different hearings during three-day trip, which takes place during the congressional recess. Leahy said that he wants to bring up such issues as an agricultural trade bill, which would seek to eliminate what he called "unfair agricultural trade practices employed by foreign competitors."

"EVERY $1 BILLION lost in agricultural exports throws 3,000 families off the farm, and costs the jobs of 35,000 farm workers and 60,000 non-farm workers," he said. Leahy, who took over the reins of the Senate Agriculture Committee after the Democrats were swept into power in the Senate in the November elections, says the visit is the first of many trips he plans with the committee. "It's been a long time since there has been a Democratic chairman from New England — over a century," he said in remarks prepared for the trip.

"I have those Yankee traits. I spend money carefully and like to see things for myself." "Over the next few days, we'll be looking at new dairy products in Minnesota and new markets for our products in a hearing on agriculture trade," he said. "We're going back to basics." Although the panel has not planned any trips to New England, Leahy has said the committee is likely to visit the region this year.

Angelou incites Union crowd by singing, dancing, talking

Joshua Barkan
Freelance Writer

Maya Angelou, one of America's premier black writers, swept a capacity crowd of 800 to its feet last Friday in the Union Main Ballroom. Singing, dancing and orating, Angelou received a standing ovation as the first University Lecture Committee guest of 1987.

Author of four poetry collections and five autobiographical narratives beginning with I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings, Angelou drew both from her own writing and writings of other black Americans during her presentation.

Angelou said she uses love poetry as her medium for creating images of self worth.

"LOVE IS THAT condition in the human spirit so profound that it encourages us to develop courage," she said.

"Poems put starch in your backbone," Angelou added. "They are meant to encourage the species to survive, and to do better than that, to thrive, and to do even better than that, to thrive with some passion and some compassion, some humor and some style."

Angelou recited works by black American poets Langston Hughes, Countee Cullen, Paul Laurence Dunbar and James Weldon Johnson as well as some of her own works during the lecture. She said she reads and recites black American poetry because "it is so rich, it is so little known, so rarely cherished, and almost never taught."

Angelou said black literature speaks through the black experience and the human experience.

"IT (BLACK LITERATURE) says, 'I am the black experience. I'm talking about the human condition: what it is like to be a human being, what makes us stumble and fall and fail and rise and go on from darkness into darkness,'" she said. "That is the black literature. One to be proud of, one to cherish, one to study, one to teach and one to lean upon."

Angelou reminded the audience their comfort and well-being has been "paid for" by their ancestors.

"Can you imagine what it would be like to walk face to face with your great-grandmother and have her say 'So you're it. You're the reason I stayed nine months out at Ellis Island?'"

"The responsibility upon us is to go out and develop the courage to love and to go out and pay for someone who is to come," Angelou added.

ANGELOU SAID IT was especially appropriate for her to lecture during the month of February, which has been nationally recognized as Black History Month, but added it is time to celebrate Black History Month every month of every year.

"The idea is not to have Black History Month at all," Angelou said. "The ideal is to have black American history and achievement and failures always included in American history and literature."

Key issues and potential 1988 presidential candidates will highlight concerns Johnson County Democrats have when they meet tonight for their 1987 Off-Year Caucus. ## Councilors to human

By Carol Monaghan
Staff Writer

While Iowa City's proposed 1988 fiscal year budget calls for a 40 percent reduction in funding levels for human service agencies, several Iowa City councilors said they would like to see the funding restored. The proposed 1988 fiscal year funding levels for human service agencies fall $71,111 below the 1987 fiscal budget. Funding alternatives for the various agencies will be discussed during an informal Iowa City Council meeting at 7:30 tonight. Iowa City councilors Kate Dickson and John McDonald told other councilors during an informal council meeting last week they will present funding recommendations developed by a joint committee of city, county and human service workers. In the council's first budget work session, several councilors requested adjustments be made to restore human service funding levels to fiscal 1987 levels.

COUNCILORS ALSO objected to 40 percent across-the-board reductions to each agency's funding levels and said agencies should be evaluated on merit of their need and on how long the city has funded the individual agency. Johnson County Human Service Coordinator Marge Penney said the basic goal in the joint committee's recommendations was to provide funds necessary to maintain current programming levels.

Condom sense

Get out your pens and calendars — today marks the first day of sexual awareness week at the UI. The five-day program — the longest of its kind ever held at the university — was initially considered last fall after members of Associated Residence Halls contemplated handing out contraceptives in the residence halls. The issue of sexual awareness and education arose in October when a Burge Hall resident assistant reportedly purchased a box of condoms. The condoms were to be distributed to residents upon request. Many university officials and students, however, objected to the dispensing of birth control without an education component. Thus, the program was created.

"We started researching stuff and did not know where to turn," said ARH President Larry Pearlman. "There is a lot of just plain ignorance. This is our response." Covering such potentially controversial issues as AIDS and abortion is not easy. But ARH members have gone ahead with the program despite society's natural tendency to downplay the physical and emotional risks of sexual activity.

While Americans can readily discuss the new tax laws, argue about the educational quality of schools and debate which baseball team is destined for the World Series, when that three-letter word is mentioned the response is usually silence.

Hiding behind a screen of secrecy will not curtail the nation's overwhelming teenage pregnancy rate nor will it help shrink the rising occurrence of acquired immune deficiency syndrome. Talking about sex and its consequences is one solution to these problems.

By providing a diverse forum, ARH is doing a great service to students. Discussing such topics as alcohol and sex, relationship development and rape protection will only help students make better informed decisions about their sexual actions.

Dr. Ruth would be proud.

Rightful place

With its usual mind-numbing illogic, the Reagan administration recently sought to persuade Congress to support continued funding for the anti-Sandinista Contra rebels on the grounds that even though the Contras can't win militarily, they can win politically. Asked to explain, Assistant Secretary of State Elliot Abrams said that within four years the Contras could force the Nicaraguan government to accept democratic change.

That, of course, makes little sense. If everyone, including the U.S. government and the Sandinista government, knows the Contras can't win militarily, why should the Sandinistas change anything? The Contras have the power to force change only as long as the Sandinistas believe that the rebels could defeat them.

The fact is the Contras are largely controlled by former members of the government of ousted Nicaraguan dictator Anastasio Somoza and there is little support in Nicaragua for them. In fact, in recent days the democratic elements in the Contras have let it be known that they are so fed up with the corruption, brutality and ineffectiveness of the rebel fighting forces that they are seriously considering resigning. Some, such as former rebel commander Eden Pastora, already have.

Unfortunately, the United States has such an unsavory history of intervention in Central America — especially in Nicaragua — that most would rather suffer anything rather than another puppet American regime. For some 75 years, the United States has been manipulating Central American nations — politically, economically and militarily.

If America is ever to have decent relations with any country in that region, it must act with fidelity to its own principles. That is, it must abandon any effort to manipulate or force change. It can offer economic aid in response to choices that it considers positive and it can deal quietly and respectfully with governments that do not torture their own citizens. Otherwise it should stay out.

Pay raise won't solve education woes

By Mary Boone

Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad began his second term by asking lawmakers to approve a $150 million program to improve Iowa's education system, including $100 million to raise the salaries of public school teachers.

The 40-year-old Republican says higher teacher salaries are needed if Iowa plans to "attract qualified teachers, keep its best teachers and enhance the quality and effectiveness of our schools."

Branstad's plan calls for spending $9 million to raise starting teacher salaries to $18,000 annually and another $38.5 million would be spent to raise current teachers' salaries. The remaining $52.5 million would be placed in a trust fund that could be used by local districts to provide merit raises to teachers.

The ailing educational system needs attention and Iowa must continue to attract top-notch instructors, but increasing teacher salaries is not a panacea.

FIRST, TAXPAYERS MUST be told the truth about teacher salaries: They're not as low as the governor would like to have us believe.

Of the approximately 500

teachers employed by the Iowa City School District, only 12 are earning less than $18,000. The governor's proposed appropriation of $38.5 million for veteran teachers' salaries would raise the average Iowa City teacher's pay from $26,000 to $28,000 annually.

Even when giving teachers the benefit of the doubt by calculating time served at 40 hours per week for 52 weeks a year, the average Iowa City educator is currently earning $12.50 per hour. The governor's plan could raise that hourly wage to $13.70.

And when you compare Iowa's average starting salaries in various other professions to the governor's demands for education, you begin to gain some perspective.

Clinical psychologists, loan officers, registered nurses, social workers, editors and investment analysts all have educational backgrounds similar to teachers but, according to the Iowa Wage Survey, none makes an average starting salary of $18,000 or more.

TAXPAYERS SHOULD also be aware of the fact that Iowa public schools employ a higher ratio of non-teaching employees than any other state. These are the secretaries, janitors, teachers' aides and recess monitors who are correcting papers, typing tests, cleaning-up after and disciplining our children. They are doing much of the work our $12.50 per hour teachers once did.

Return of the CIA

To the Editor:

The Central Intelligence Agency is coming back to the UI this month to recruit. Some people may think it's OK for them to do so. I don't. The common perception of the CIA is that it's just an intelligence gathering organization. But it does much more than that. The CIA is involved in a worldwide effort to support repressive governments (South Africa, El Salvador, etc.) and to overthrow democratically elected ones, such as Nicaragua.

The university administration can argue about students having the right to interview with whoever they want, but does the CIA — an organization that engages in terrorist activities — have a right to be here? Furthermore, I'm sick of the "patriotic" right-wingers who chant, "U.S.A.! U.S.A.!" while murder is being committed in their name.

Parking problems?

To the Editor:

John Fowler, Iowa City's supervisor of parking, wants to favor commuters (who are largely students) with reduced free parking. Apparently, Fowler is not sensitive to the strain parking fees put on the already overstretched budget of UI students. Perhaps he doesn't understand that $240 per year (figured on the basis of 20 cents per hour, six hours per day, 240 days per year) is not a small amount of money to spend for parking.

Fowler says Iowa City is "lucky to break even" when costs of the parking meter are considered. If this is so, then the city has better uses for its money than keeping the meter maintenance department occupied. He justifies expansion of metered areas as a way to provide more available parking spaces. In fact, existing metered areas are already underutilized, as witnessed by a $145,000 shortfall in parking meter revenues for the past year. There are plenty of places to park in Iowa City's downtown area for those willing and able to pay the city's exorbitant rates. The competition for free parking from Church Street on the north side to Prentiss Street on the south, and from the Iowa River on the west side to Dodge Street on the east shows that many commuters are not.

Frankly, I find the city's parking policies to be punitive. Fowler and others responsible for the parking situation should explain the necessity of creating a parking squeeze where, ostensibly, none need exist. For example, why does the odd-even parking schedule extend to streets like Linn Street, where there is little residential parking pressure? Why have odd-even parking on streets where residents have access to alternative parking?

The city should take steps to purge the mean spiritedness from its parking programs and make itself more accessible to those who work and go to school here.

Democratic caucus to focus on major issues, candidates

By Bruce Japsen
City Editor

Key issues and potential 1988 presidential candidates will highlight concerns Johnson County Democrats have when they meet tonight for their 1987 Off-Year Caucus.

According to Johnson County Democratic Party Publicity Chair Pauline Taylor, anyone is welcome to participate in the caucus, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Fairview Golf-course, Muscatine Avenue.

"We'll bring up some key issues and we may write them up into some formal resolutions to send on to the state party," Taylor said.

"It's different than our regular caucus because we'll be discussing issues all in one group," Taylor said. "The regular caucuses are discussed in individual precincts."

Those who attend will be able to participate in a 1988 presidential straw poll.

"The caucuses in February of next year will be for aligning in presidential preference groups," Taylor said. "This is the initial step toward that."

LOCAL DEMOCRATS are also expected to discuss Democratic priorities regarding the adoption of issues dealing with national, state and local importance.

Taylor said the caucus will also include a report on current legislative session from local Democratic members of the Iowa House and Senate.

State Rep. Minnette Doderer, D-Iowa City, said the caucus is also important to legislators.

"Whatever's on their mind, they'll let us know, and believe me, they'll let us know," Doderer said. "They'll tell us where government has overstepped its bounds and where it has mistreated its public."

Doderer will be unable to attend tonight's caucus due to a debate on the House floor in Des Moines, but she said other local legislators will be in attendance.

Doderer said local Democrats might consider taxation an important issue for legislators to consider.

"They should have questions about how we're going to re-do taxes in the state of Iowa," she said. "They might want to know how we're going to decide the rate that people in Iowa are going to be taxed."

Councilors seek alternatives to human services cutbacks

By Carol Monaghan
Staff Writer

While Iowa City's proposed 1988 fiscal year budget calls for a 40 percent reduction in funding levels for human service agencies, several Iowa City councilors said they would like to see the funding restored.

The proposed 1988 fiscal year funding levels for human service agencies fall $71,111 below the 1987 fiscal budget.

Funding alternatives for the various agencies will be discussed during an informal Iowa City Council meeting at 7:30 tonight.

Iowa City councilors Kate Dickson and John McDonald told other councilors during an informal council meeting last week they will present funding recommendations developed by a joint committee of city, county and human service workers.

In the council's first budget work session, several councilors requested adjustments be made to restore human service funding levels to fiscal 1987 levels.

COUNCILORS ALSO objected to 40 percent across-the-board reductions to each agency's funding levels and said agencies should be evaluated on merit of their need and on how long the city has funded the individual agency.

Johnson County Human Service Coordinator Marge Penney said the basic goal in the joint committee's recommendations was to provide funds necessary to maintain current programming levels.

John McDonald

"At a time when virtually all of our agencies are experiencing significant increases in requests for service, most agencies were able to submit budgets with no increased funding requested," Penney said in a report to councilors.

Three agencies — the Elderly Services Agency, the Red Cross and Mid-Eastern Council on Chemical Abuse — did ask for additional funding, Penney said.

The Elderly Services Agency, an agency that provides the Shared Housing Program to the elderly, and the Red Cross, which provides disaster relief, were both victims of cutbacks in federal funding.

MECCA, AN AGENCY that provides substance abuse prevention and treatment programs to Johnson County residents, requested supplementary funds so it could increase its medical director's working hours.

The joint committee recommended supplementary funding be granted to the Elderly Service Agency, but current levels of funding for MECCA and the Red Cross should continue at their present level. Additional funding requests for the two agencies were refused because of budget constraints.

In order to restore the $71,111 to human service agency budgets, cutbacks in other areas must be made in the proposed budget.

Rosemary Vitosh, city director of finance, prepared an alternative plan that would restore the higher level of funding to human service agencies.

Vitosh recommended reductions including:

- $10,000 reduction in the risk management reserve balance. The $400,000 fund is to be reserved for any claims or lawsuits that insurance does not cover, states the Citizen's Summary on the 1987-1988 proposed budget.
- $12,500 reduction in the general fund. The remaining balance would be $107,500.
- $5,000 reduction in data processing equipment.
- $3,000 reduction in the city manager's budget.
- $2,500 reduction in library materials.

The cutbacks would provide $33,000 in funding for aid to agencies. An additional $38,000 would be provided through interest income on federal revenue sharing dollars and additional property tax.

Minister distributes condoms to assembly during sermon

AMHERST, N.Y. (UPI) — A minister who distributed condoms during an emotional Sunday sermon on avoiding sexually transmitted diseases got a standing ovation from his congregation, but picketers outside said "only chastity will stop AIDS."

The Rev. Carl Titchener, midway through his 25-minute sermon at the Unitarian Universalist Church of Amherst, took a box filled with three-packs of Trojan condoms from behind his lectern and began distributing them to church members in the front row.

While he was doing so, about six ushers fanned out among the estimated 350 people attending the service and also handed out condoms as reporters, photographers and film crews recorded the event.

"BY THE TURN of the century, there will be 100,000 deaths from AIDS," a somewhat nervous Titchener said in his sermon, which he called "The Condom Conundrum."

"If we do not get this information out rapidly, this country is facing in the future an epidemic that will make the bubonic plague and the Black Plague look pale by comparison," he said.

"That certainly sounds like a life and death situation," the bearded preacher said.

Titchener last week announced plans to give out condoms to members of his church as part of his sermon on dealing with abstinence and the use of condoms as protection against sexually transmitted diseases.

AIDS — acquired immune deficiency syndrome — has been diagnosed in some 30,000 Americans, more than half of whom have died. AIDS primarily has affected homosexuals and intravenous drug abusers, and there is no known cure.

TITCHENER SAID TWO incidents — a minister colleague who contracted AIDS, and warnings about the disease by top government health officials — prompted him to take the action.

The Rev. Carl Titchener distributes condoms to members of his parish in Amherst, N.Y. Titchener's Sunday sermon focused on sexually transmitted diseases and their prevention.

"When words are not enough, you use a symbol," Titchener said during the sermon. "I hit upon the symbol of a condom . . . by talking about it here, I felt it would elevate our consciousness and relieve some of the sensitivity of the subject."

After distributing the condoms, Titchener had the congregation say the words condom, syphilis and gonorrhea out loud, so they could become familiar with the terms "and not be afraid to talk about them."

The church members, many seated in extra folding chairs set up in the rear of the wood-paneled house of worship, appeared very supportive of Titchener's methods and gave him a standing ovation at the end of the sermon.

"SOME OF YOU MAY disagree with me," he said. "I respect your right to disagree."

"I see AIDS as being the No. 1 public health issue in the United States," said Donald Sabo of Buffalo, a physician who attended the service. "Rev. Titchener has taken us all a step toward making us aware that it is the No. 1 public health issue."

Outside the church, about a dozen people, some praying the rosary, picketed in protest of Titchener's actions.

"We're protesting the Rev. Titchener's policy that it's all right to be promiscuous as long as you put a condom on," said Marilou Bebak, one of the picketers. "This is a problem that is much more serious."

Tropical storm hits South Pacific island

SYDNEY, Australia — Tropical cyclone Uma, packing winds reaching 100 mph, stormed through the tiny South Pacific nation of Vanuatu late Saturday, killing at least one person and injuring dozens, officials said.

The small island nation's National Disaster Organization said Uma hit the main island of Efate at about 9 p.m. Saturday, struck an area surrounding the capital of Vila for about six hours, destroying 5,000 homes, damaging thousands of residences and cutting off all power and water supplies throughout the island.

Eyewitnesses said a man was killed in a village near Vila, and dozens of residents of the disaster-struck area were injured by glass splinters from broken windows and doors.

Officials said they did not know whether there were casualties or major damage on Vanuatu's other islands.

Chinese bus accident leaves 28 dead

PEKING (UPI) — A crowded bus crashed off a viaduct in southern China, killing 28 people and injuring 22 others, the official Yangcheng Evening News newspaper said Sunday.

The Canton-based daily distributed Sunday in the capital said the accident occurred on Feb. 6 as the overloaded 40-seater bus was traveling near the city of Lu Feng, about 1,250 miles south of Peking, in Guangdong Province.

The newspaper said the vehicle skidded and jumped more than 20 feet below the viaduct, killing 28 people, including the driver and his assistant. Twenty-two others were injured, eight of them seriously.

The report said the cause of the accident was under investigation.

Chicago teen repeats father's death

CHICAGO — A South Side teenager dropped dead while playing basketball in a tragic repetition of the death of his father who collapsed on the same basketball court 10 years ago, authorities said Sunday.

Rodney Harris, 18, fell to the ground unconscious Friday afternoon at the Lowe Playground, where he had been playing basketball. A neighbor summoned Rodney's mother, Barbara, who found her son lying on the ground with his arms outstretched and the pupils of his eyes dilated.

Fire Department paramedics rushed Harris to the University of Chicago Hospital but doctors could not revive him. The cause of death was not immediately determined.

Harris had helped support his family since the death of his father, Sonny Harris, 10 years ago. Sonny Harris collapsed on the same court after suffering an apparent heart attack.

New Mexico rejects 'English' proposal

SANTA FE, N.M. — A proposal to make English the official language in New Mexico fell flat as a tortilla last week in a state where one-third of the legislators are Hispanic.

But the proposed constitutional amendment did raise a torrent of emotional opposition in its three days of life.

The issue was introduced on Monday and was dead by Thursday, surprising the sponsor, who said she was only trying to help immigrants.

Republican Rep. Marty Lambert said she introduced the proposal after an employee of her Albuquerque business was tricked into buying an expensive vacuum cleaner because of his inadequate English skills.

"It was my intent to introduce this legislation hoping we could help these residents learn English, let them fit into society," she said. "I'm sorry to say that people outside of the Legislature have tried to make it a racial issue. That was not the point."

House Democrats, the Mexican American Legal Defense Fund and the League of United Latin American Citizens all denounced the proposal.

Baby Jessica 'stable' after transplant

LOMA LINDA, Calif. — A 10-week-old Canadian girl was in critical but stable condition Sunday after a rare infant-to-infant heart transplant, a spokeswoman at Loma Linda University Medical Center said.

Baby Jessica, who received her new heart in a five-hour operation Saturday, was being watched closely by specialists who monitored her heartbeat and other vital signs throughout the night, spokeswoman Anita Rockwell said.

D.C. officials upset by baby death ratio

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's capital, where babies are more likely to die before their first birthday than anywhere else in country, is working to remedy the problem by making health care more accessible to the city's large poor population.

The District of Columbia ranks below all 50 states and every city in the nation in a survey of infant mortality rates released Feb. 2 by the Children's Defense Fund, a national child advocacy group.

Studies over the past decade consistently have ranked the district worst or among the five worst cities and states in infant mortality.

Kay Johnson, a health specialist and co-author of the Children's Defense Fund study, said the statistics for black infants are even more alarming.

"A BLACK INFANT born within five miles of the White House in our nation's capital is more likely to die in the first year of life than an infant born in Third World countries like Trinidad and Tobago or Costa Rica," the report said.

In Washington, D.C., a city of 638,000 people, the overall infant mortality rate — babies who die within the first year — was 21 deaths per 1,000 live births for 1984, the latest year of the study. The rate among black babies was 24.3 per 1,000, the second worst behind Indianapolis with 24.5.

The overall national average was 10.8 per 1,000. Among other cities, Baltimore was at 16.8, San Jose, Calif., was lowest with 7.9, Los Angeles was at 11, New York City was 13 and Detroit trailed Washington, D.C. at 20.9.

The District of Columbia's rate has fluctuated over the past decade and has shown a decline from the 1978 high of 27.3 deaths per 1,000.

CITY OFFICIALS, while upset at having their infant mortality rate compared with those of Third World nations, are mounting an offensive to bring the rate to a more acceptable level.

"The government must be able to make its services available to those who want to use them," said Reed Tuckson, the city's newly appointed public health commissioner.

After the report was released, Mayor Marion Barry, whose city's population is 70 percent black, expressed shock with the conclusions of the report.

"If you don't know who's born, you don't know who dies in the first year," he said, contending that record-keeping in Third World nations is not as thorough as in the district.

But Johnson defended the statistics, saying they were compiled from UNICEF reports, world population figures and research by the Children's Defense Fund.

THE FUND LISTS an array of reasons for the high mortality rate — from a large poor population, to medical care sometimes inaccessible to those who need it the most, to a city historically not fully committed to solving the problem.

"Our aim is to try to put pressure on the mayor to show him that in other areas, mayors and governors have taken responsibility for these problems," Johnson said.

"The district has an unacceptably high rate of infant deaths, no question," conceded Tuckson. "These kinds of statistics focus public attention on what is a severe problem, and that can be good."

Barry said the government can provide education but it has little influence over actually changing individual lifestyles. "The government does not get women pregnant. Men do," he said. "It's the parents' responsibility first."

High cancer rates plague small town

BYNUM, N.C. (UPI) — The cancer mortality rate in Bynum is 59 percent and deaths from the disease are so frequent that residents are going through what they call "a continuous grieving process."

Right at their doorsteps is the crux of the problem, the townfolk say — the Haw River.

"It's a continuous grieving process," former resident Lora Sparrow said, recalling the frequent funerals in the town of 350, the growing number of bereft families and the numerous prayers for the sick.

"It's just that you go on a Sunday to the tiny little church and the preacher gets up and says one prayer and it's praying for the person that's just died (of cancer) and it turns right around and prays for the person who's just been diagnosed with it," Sparrow said.

A study by University of North Carolina epidemiologists showed as many as 59 percent of Bynum residents who died since 1975 succumbed to cancer. The statewide average is 21 percent.

Sparrow and others strongly suspect the problem is Bynum's drinking water from the Haw River. Studies have shown water from the Haw contains many chemicals considered hazardous to human health. Environmentalists said that area companies are illegally dumping sewage and other toxins into the river.

The Promise Of World Peace

A Message to the Peoples of the World

A UNIVERSAL FRAMEWORK

Banning nuclear weapons, prohibiting the use of poison gases, or outlawing germ warfare will not remove the root causes of war. However, important such practical measures obviously are as elements of the peace process, they are in themselves too superficial to exert enduring influence... A genuine universal framework must be adopted.

The Promise Of World Peace, Pg. 6

A year ago, the international governing body of the Baha'i Faith addressed a letter to all the peoples of the earth. It outlines and reiterates the fundamental prerequisites for a just and secure world peace that were first proposed to the political and religious rulers of the planet in the late 1860's, by Baha'u'llah (Prophet-Founder of the Baha'i Faith). He claimed that these principles were the sole remedy for the ills that afflicted the body of mankind. His prescription was ignored. During the past year, this letter has been formally presented to thousands of national and local leaders in over 140 countries. Now the Baha'is of Iowa City are making this document available generally to the people of our area.

S. Korean police interrogate 757 demonstrators in Seoul

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Police Sunday interrogated 757 people who took part in violent street demonstrations Saturday to protest a government ban on memorial services in honor of a student activist tortured to death by police.

A police spokesman said the demonstrators would be freed today — with the exception of "those found involved in extremely radical actions."

The largest group of activists currently detained is in the capital of Seoul, where 455 people are being questioned by police. In the main provincial city of Pusan, 181 people are still held for interrogation and in Kwangju, the site of violent riots in 1980, 102 demonstrators are questioned.

THERE WERE NO official figures available regarding the number of people who took part in the demonstrations in Seoul or in provincial cities. Reports from the various cities puts the number at around 12,000 — including about 8,000 in the capital.

The nationwide memorial services were called by 47 religious and dissident groups in alliance with the major opposition New Korea Democratic Party to mourn Park Chong-chul, 21.

Park, a linguistics student at the prestigious state-run Seoul National University, was tortured to death Jan. 14 during police interrogation about his suspected connection with a fugitive dissident leader.

TWO POLICEMEN were arrested on murder charges that may bring them a maximum life sentence, and President Chun Doo Hwan fired his home minister and national police chief in connection with the case.

Police virtually sealed off a Catholic church and put about 20 religious and political leaders under house detention to block a memorial ceremony in Seoul.

About 200 Catholic priests, nuns and laymen — who had sneaked into the church premises in advance — held a mass in memory of Park, the first political dissident who authorities acknowledged was killed by police torture.

The most violent clash Sunday was in the vicinity of the Catholic church, where 1,500 rock-throwing youths attacked a police station and set a police van ablaze.

As requested by the organizers, many churches tolled bells and passing cars blew horns at 2 p.m., when the memorial services were to start.

Sri Lanka villagers killed by guerrillas

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — Tamil separatist guerrillas killed 27 villagers including 11 children in eastern Sri Lanka, slashing their throats with swords and daggers, security officials said Sunday.

A spokesman for the security forces' Joint Operations Command said 15 to 20 guerrillas killed five women, 11 children and 11 men in the attack Saturday in the village of Aranthalawa in Amparai district, 135 miles east of Colombo.

C.K.R. Runawana, deputy inspector general of police, said the rebels entered three houses and two shops in the village, forced everyone outside and, after binding them, slashed their necks with knives and daggers.

The victims included two infants, Runawana said.

A 17-year-old girl and a man were being treated in a hospital with severe injuries.

RUNAWANA SAID the rebels fled government forces who appeared on the scene.

Officials blamed the raid on members of the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam, the most powerful of several guerrilla groups in the nation.

The Liberation Tigers are seeking an independent state for the Indian Ocean island's 2.5 million ethnic Tamils. More than 75 percent of Sri Lanka's 15 million people are Sinhalese Buddhists.

It was the second such Sri Lankan massacre in less than a week, officials said. Nine Sinhalese civilians were shot to death and 14 others were injured on Feb. 4, Sri Lankan Independence Day, at Manthottam, 48 miles southwest of Aranthalawa.

In the nation's worst ethnic incident in July 1983, angry Sinhalese rampaged through the capital and other areas killing 400 Tamils and leaving some 100,000 homeless in response to a guerrilla assault in which 13 soldiers were killed.

Sri Lanka is a tiny island nation located approximately 70 miles off the southeast tip of India.

Tremors rock isle in Pacific

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A major earthquake shook the South Pacific island of New Britain early today, the U.S. Geological Survey said.

There were no immediate reports of casualties or damage, officials from the geological survey office said.

The quake was recorded at a preliminary magnitude of 7.4 on the Richter scale and was the strongest quake to occur in nearly 3 months, Don Finley, spokesman for the U.S. geological office, said.

USGS monitors in Golden, Colo., showed the quake was centered near the western end of New Britain island, about 280 miles northeast of Port Moseby, the capital of Papua, New Guinea.

"This was the strongest earthquake in the world since a mag 7.8 shock on Nov. 14, 1986, killed 15 people and injured 44 others on Taiwan," Finley said.

New Britain, a possession of New Guinea, has a population of about 150,000.

Des Moines woman dies in house fire

DES MOINES — A 40-year-old Des Moines woman died Sunday when fire broke out in a two-story home on the city's east side, police said.

Police said the woman, whose name had not been released late Sunday, was one of several people in the house when the blaze started in an upstairs bathroom.

Polk County Medical Examiner R.C. Wooters said an autopsy was to be performed late Sunday, but preliminary reports indicate the woman died of smoke inhalation.

Wooters said a teenage boy suffered second-degree burns in the blaze.

ISU student arrested as arson suspect

AMES — Ames police think they know who set fire to the old physics building on the Iowa State University campus last month.

Authorities arrested ISU student Michael English, 24, on burglary charges Thursday night and later charged him with setting the basement fire in the school building that caused $2,000 damage Jan. 16.

He is being held in the Story County Jail on $28,750 bond.

Jury convicts banker of loan charges

DES MOINES — A former executive whose improper loans led to the downfall of an Iowa bank in 1984 was convicted by a federal jury last week.

Ronald Wright, former vice president with the failed Oakland Savings Bank, was convicted Friday on nine of 15 counts involving $479,000 in improper loans, said U.S. Attorney Joe Beck.

Wright allegedly used a middleman to loan money to his Oakland Forging Co., which later filed for bankruptcy.

Wright and former bank vice president Sammy Petersen were also indicted for misapplying $52,000 in loans to a cattle business they owned. Petersen has pleaded guilty to one charge.

Beck said he will wait until Wright is sentenced March 10 before deciding whether to proceed with the trial on the cattle business loans.

Topless attendants prove 'unreliable'

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — A downtown Des Moines auto shop that featured topless female attendants quietly closed its doors this month after the girls proved "unreliable," the owner's wife said during the weekend.

Darrell Lafon's "Boob and Lube" made industry history last fall when it opened for business with the unusual promotion. While Lafon attended to mechanical needs, two topless women checked the car's oil, cleaned windows and passed the time with gawking customers.

Lafon said he came up with the idea to save his struggling business, but the shop closed Feb. 1.

Bertha Lafon said business did pick up, but the girls proved unreliable. She says her husband is out of the auto service business for now, but he may try to sell the idea.

Branstad names February 'heart month'

DES MOINES — For the sentimental crowd February has always been heart month — but now it's official.

Gov. Terry Branstad has designated February as the month Iowans should contribute to the American Heart Association. Branstad says the disease accounted for half of all Iowa deaths last year.

Manure spreader given 'sanctuary'

LOGAN, Iowa (UPI) — A Catholic priest has extended "sanctuary" to a manure spreader as federal officials moved last week to repossess the machinery of an Earling farm couple.

Workers hired by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation hauled away machinery from the farm of Robert and Therese Sullivan on Friday in a repossession action.

The FDIC did not get everything, however. The Rev. Frank Cordaro, a farm advocate and peace activist, hauled a manure spreader to St. Anne's Catholic Church in Logan where he says it will be temporarily safe from the bankers' grasp.

The Sullivans have been fighting legal battles for four years, including a bankruptcy declaration in an effort to save at least part of their 1,500 acre farm. They continue to live on the farmstead, though Friday's action leaves them without the equipment to feed 40 head of cattle.

Therese Sullivan unsuccessfully ran in the Democratic primary for Iowa Secretary of Agriculture last fall.

"The manure spreader is hanging loose in my yard," Cordaro said Saturday. "I took it because it was the easiest to move. I think I might be the only one in the church's 2,000-year history to offer sanctuary to a manure spreader."

Cordaro said the move was funny, but he was also trying to make a point.

"Sometimes you have to have a sense of humor to break through the reality," he said.

Cordaro said the U.S. government "doesn't pay any attention" to the principle of sanctuary, so he expects agents will try to seize the spreader.

"If they go after illegal aliens in churches they'll certainly come after a manure spreader," he said.

Iowa poll tabs Dole GOP's 'strongest'

United Press International

Iowa Democrats perceive Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., as harder to beat than Vice President George Bush, a poll released this weekend by the Iowa Democratic Party shows.

Of the 700 Democrats surveyed, 63 percent said Dole was the strongest Republican candidate. Former Tennessee Sen. Howard Baker won 25 percent, and 14 percent of Iowa Democrats pegged Bush as the strongest candidate in a survey mailed out by the state Democratic Party to 10,000 likely Democratic caucus attenders.

Bush was also tagged as the third weakest Republican presidential candidate behind Sen. Jesse Helms and evangelist Pat Robertson.

Dole was campaigning in northwest Iowa Saturday. At a town meeting in Orange City, Dole told farmers the 1985 Farm Bill needs some fine tuning, but not a major overhaul. He said support payments to corn growers need to correspond with the amount of the commodity raised.

Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., whistled a different tune to farmers as he campaigned in Iowa this weekend.

Gephardt said his Save the Family Farm Act, introduced Friday with Iowa Democratic Sen. Tom Harkin, was getting positive reaction across Iowa. "Many people are interested in our approach."

He denied the bill, which calls for mandatory production controls, was introduced for political reasons to help his chances in the Iowa caucuses. "I started working on the bill over a year ago and believe in it very strongly."

When signing up for a Spring Break trip, beware of these traps:

- Beware of the trips that don't know what bus company they are with. You could end up driving 28 hours in a school bus.
- Do not go with a company that doesn't tell you exactly what hotel you will be staying at. All the good properties have been taken. Why take a chance?
- Do not put your vacation in the hands of an inexperienced person who may or may not be around when there is a problem.
- Do not sign up with a company that disappears off campus as soon as the trip is over.
- Beware, a smaller price does not mean a better trip - you will pay for it in the long run.

Nunn links Star Wars funding to ABM Treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress may cut funding for the Star Wars defense program "very severely" if the administration makes the "very bad mistake" of reinterpreting the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., warned Sunday.

Nunn, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said increased funding for the Strategic Defense Initiative — commonly known as Star Wars — passed by one vote last year in a Republican-controlled Senate.

"From a practical point of view I believe that a reinterpretation (of the ABM treaty) would mean the Strategic Defense Initiative program would be cut very severely," says Sen. Sam Nunn.

The new Democrat-led Senate would not support an administration push for a broad reading of the treaty — allowing space-based testing — without consulting Congress or U.S. allies, said Nunn, who voted last year for huge increases in Star Wars funding requested by the administration.

"I BELIEVE A... unilateral reinterpretation by the president of the United States without advance consultation... would be a very bad mistake by the president," said Nunn, considered a Democratic spokesman on defense issues.

"From a practical point of view I believe that a reinterpretation would mean the Strategic Defense Initiative program would be cut very severely."

President Ronald Reagan reportedly supports such a reinterpretation, but administration officials have said it is still under consideration. Congress and U.S. allies have not been consulted about the possible change.

But Secretary of State George Shultz promised Sunday the administration intends to "work collaboratively, carefully, thoroughly with the Congress" on such a possible change.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said in an interview with the British Broadcasting Corp. aired Sunday that the United States would renegotiate the ABM Treaty when it is ready to deploy elements of the Star Wars system, estimating that it "could be somewhere in the 1993 to 1994 range."

WEINBERGER AND OTHER senior administration officials briefed Reagan last week about a possible early deployment of Star Wars, but officials said no decision had been made.

Critics of the administration and Star Wars, including some members of Congress, have expressed concern that deployment of a Star Wars system would violate the ABM Treaty.

Under a strict interpretation of the treaty, Article 5 forbids the testing or deployment of ABM systems in space. But language elsewhere in the accord makes it possible for the United States and the Soviet Union to discuss amendments to the pact.

"As far as the ABM treaty is concerned, everybody agrees that when we're ready to deploy we would have to take advantage of the provisions of the ABM treaty, which are in the treaty itself, which call for revisions or changes or additional permissions not now in the treaty," Weinberger said.

"WE WOULD DO that," he said. "We would follow the treaty — we would follow the provisions of the treaty that permit that. So no one's talking about violating the treaty."

Article 14 states explicitly that "each party may propose amendments to this treaty."

Cyrus Vance, secretary of state in the Carter administration, said the possible reinterpretation was "a subject that came up time and time again during his recent meetings in Moscow with Soviet officials."

"It is a grave mistake in my judgment to talk about trying to move rapidly into a first phase deployment of (Star Wars)," he said, referring to administration interest in possible early deployment of a partial Star Wars system.

FORMER SECRETARY of State Henry Kissinger said the irony of the current debate is that when he helped negotiate the ABM Treaty in 1972, the Americans supported a narrow interpretation and the Soviets wanted a broad reading so scientific innovations would not be ruled out.

"Now, in recent months, the two sides have totally switched positions," he said. "The Soviets are now taking the American (1972) position and the Americans are taking the Soviets' (1972) position."

Deadline nears for recruits

By Cathy Cronin Staff Writer

With only 24 hours remaining until the Feb. 11 signing date, the list of Iowa prospects narrows.

The last of the recruiting visits is today as both Jeff Skillet and Mark Spindler leave Iowa after their two-day visit.

Skillet, an East Moline, Ill., native attending United Township High School, is a standout in baseball and basketball. But United Township Coach Jim Sanders insists that Skillet's career lies in football kicking.

This 6-foot-4, 190-pound kicker, punts and plays quarterback. In his senior season, Skillet averaged 38.6 yards per punt.

Placing sixth on Houston national high school football recruiting service's list of 10 college prospects, defensive tackle Mark Spindler's choices between four schools. Those remaining on his list before his visit to Iowa, a Illinois, Illinois State and Northern Iowa.

THE 6-5, 270 Pennsylvania native was named Scranton all-America defensive lineman and was a frequent choice as the nation's best defender despite his team's 5-4-1 finish.

"He's mean. He's aggressive. He's got good feet and a good head," one coach said, according to United Press International. "Pursuit is his forte."

Dave Turner gave a verbal commitment earlier this week. Aside from being named an American, the 6-4, 248 Clinton native was also named offensive captain at Bally High.

Also appearing on the early commitment list for the Hawkeyes are Wisconsin natives John Derby and Mike Saunders.

The 6-3, 220 Derby made his final decision between Iowa and Wisconsin, where older brother Glenn is an offensive tackle.

DERBY ATTENDED summer camp at Iowa this past year and had a "good feeling" about the program then, but after his recruit visit, the "facilities, atmosphere and coaches" made his decision easier.

The Oconomowoc linebacker rushed for 1,780 yards and scored 30 touchdowns. The three-year starter also had 6 solo tackles and 44 assists in tackles in his final season.

"John is very happy about Iowa," Oconomowoc Coach Ed Rux said. "So, of course, we're very happy about it also."

Saunders, 6-1, 185 from Milton, Wis., made his decision based on two Iowa strengths: the offenses and facilities. The running back made all-conference for offense and all-State as voted by the Wisconsin high school coaches.

Previously committed to Iowa, Jerome Pitkins has cancelled and more recently committed to Texas A & M.

In 1976 the use of alcoholic beverages in Truk was associated with a great deal of public violence (including homicide and suicide), community disruption, and domestic disturbance. Drinking occurred nearly every day, especially on fortnightly pay weekends, in a pattern called "Weekend Warfare" in an earlier publication. Men-particularly young men-drunk and became "Weekend Warriors;" women in this society did not drink. Matters came to a head during 1977, leading organized groups of church women to lobby for and have enacted a law prohibiting the sale or possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages in Truk. This prohibition ordinance remains in effect despite at least three attempts by opponents to repeal it. Research was carried out during summer 1985 to document the impact of legal prohibition on drunken behavior, on women, and on the general social and economic life of the community. The talk will discuss these changes and their likely future course.

Wiry Buckeyes crack Iowa

By Brad Zimaneck
Sports Editor

Ohio State once again proved to be a tough nut to crack for the Hawkeyes as the Buckeyes' men's gymnastics team soundly defeated Iowa, 278.05-274.80, Saturday in the North Gym of the Field House.

The win for the Buckeyes marked the ninth time out of the last 10 dual meets that Ohio State has defeated Iowa.

"We hate losing to Ohio State. I just hate losing to those guys," Iowa gymnast Chris Stanicek said. "They're a good team."

"It's kind of tough to take a beating like that," Iowa Coach Tom Dunn said. "I'm fairly pleased with where we're at. I thought we would score around 275. So we're right around where I thought we would be. But I didn't realize Ohio State would be quite that tough, but traditionally they're a fantastic dual meet team."

FOR A WHILE IT APPEARED that Iowa would defeat Ohio State. After three events the Hawkeyes led the Buckeyes 138.55-138.35 on the strength of a 47.60 team score on the floor exercise.

were Stanicek and Ron Nasti, both recording scores of 9.65 in tying for first place on the event.

"I'm real happy. It was my personal best," Stanicek, a Park Forest, Ill., native said. "It was a new routine. I added a new second pass that I just put in and have been working on it for about a week and a half. This was the first time I used it in competition, and it improved my score quite a bit."

Nasti finished second on the day in the all-around competition to Ohio State's Gil Pinto, who won event titles on both the parallel bars and the horizontal bar.

STANICEK ALSO ADDED a personal best on the still rings with a score of 9.35. Stanicek tied teammate Joe Thome for second on the event, which was won by another Hawkeye. See Gymnastics, Page 2B

21-2 Hawks surge past Lute's Cats

By Dan Millea
Staff Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. — The No. 4 Iowa Hawkeyes overcame a 13-point second half deficit here Saturday to stop an inspired upset bid by unranked Arizona, finally winning 89-80.

The Wildcats, directed by former Iowa Coach Lute Olson, led 40-37 at the half and nearly blew the Hawkeyes off the McKale Center floor early in the second period.

Charged by a demonstrative crowd of 13,377, Arizona scored the first nine points of the second half to lead 49-37 with 16 minutes, 54 seconds to play.

"I think we just came out of the locker room a little flat, and they were hot," Hawkeye guard Jeff Moe said. "There isn't much you can do when a team hits 10 shots in a row. We were really pretty lucky to be down by just 13."

IOWA REMAINED IN the game, thanks to a pair of three-point goals from Moe, who had five for the game, but the Wildcats maintained leads of as high as 13 points until the 10:28 mark.

"What got us down was they just played terrific," Iowa Coach Tom Davis said. "They were hitting all their shots and they were moving the ball well. We just couldn't find them out there. I even asked the coaches, 'What should we do?' I didn't know what to do."

But Iowa worked out of the jam, responding with a more impressive spurt of its own. Trailing 64-51 with 11:25 remaining, the Hawkeyes outscored Arizona 25-4 in the next 5:18 to lead 76-68.

B.J. ARMSTRONG started the run with a three-point goal from the right wing, then stole the ball on the next Wildcat possession and fed Kevin Gamble for a layup.

Gamble and Armstrong each had five points in the run, and Roy Marble, who managed only seven points for the game, had six.

Second-half comebacks have been characteristic of Davis' Iowa team this season, but he wasn't counting on one Saturday.

"I'm never confident (a spurt) is coming. You hope it does, but there's no guarantee," Davis said.

"There was no question when the game was decided," Olson said. "They got their transition game going, and I don't think we competed as hard as we had been in terms of getting back on defense."

close the gap to 76-73 on a 25-foot Craig McMillan three-pointer at the 4:39 mark, but Armstrong drilled a 20-footer on the next possession and Brad Lohaus added two foul shots soon after to make it 81-73.

A pair of Ken Lofton free throws made it a three-point game again at 83-80 with 1:27 to play, but Iowa scored the next six points at the free throw line to put it away.

Iowa was in control for most of the first half, holding leads of as high as six points.

A Gamble three-pointer at the 7:23 mark made it 29-23, but Arizona rattled off eight straight points to lead 31-29.

The game remained tight until halftime with McMillan making it 40-37 on a driving two-handed shot in the lane with eight seconds left.

IOWA NOTES — Olson, who left Iowa four years ago, had said in the days before the game that this reunion was "just for fun." But the intensity of his team did not bear that out.

The Arizona players shut down Marble and center Ed Horton, who had just five points, and confused Iowa like few others have done this season.

But Moe's long-range bombs, along with good play inside from Gerry Wright and a strong all-around game from Gamble, made the difference.

Gamble led Iowa with 20 points. Wright, who played his best game of the year, and Moe each had 15.

Wright, who has missed much of season with a hand injury, had two trademark dunks to highlight a near perfect day in which he hit six of seven field goals and three of four free throws.

It wasn't supposed to happen this way.

When the two No. 8 swim teams in the country met at the Iowa Field House Pool Saturday afternoon, fans, coaches and even swimmers were convinced that this would be one of the best meets of the season.

Well, it's fate, call it luck, call it karma. Whatever it was, the Wolverines of Michigan used it to perfection. And when the water had settled, the Wolverines had once again established themselves as the favorites to win the Big Ten Championships with a 72-41 win over the Iowa men's swimming team.

"MICHIGAN WAS clearly the better team ... today," Iowa Coach Glenn Patton said after watching his team lose for the first time this season. "They came in here fired up and ready to swim and they deserved to win."

Men's Swimming

However, not to be overlooked was the fact that four races were decided by a total of 28/100 of a second. Michigan won all four. And it was those four races that turned the tide in the Field House Pool and stunned Iowa fans.

"I thought the meet would be much closer," Michigan Coach John Urbanek said. "This was our first real test of the season, and there was a lot of pride that went along with winning this meet. I was pleased that we were able to live up to the challenge."

Leading the way for the 7-0 Wolverines were all-Americans Dave Kerska, Marty Moran and Jan-Erick Olsen along with Joe Parker Dave Goch, all of whom were double winners on the afternoon.

DAN DUMFORD SHOULD have arrested Kerska for grand theft, the way he plucked victories from the Hawkeye sprint specialist. Twice Dumford was in a position to beat him. But each time, Kerska defied defeat, edging Dumford by .06 in the 50-yard freestyle, which he won in 20.78. Then, along with Parker, Goch and Brent Lang, Kerska pulled the feat again, edging Dumford in the final leg of the 400 free relay, again by .06 for a 3:01.23 performance.

Meanwhile, Moran and Olsen pooled their efforts with Parker and Lang to take the 400-yard medley relay in 3:23.90, then went solo with similar success.

While Olsen blew away a six-man field in the 200-yard breaststroke with a time of 2:03.82, Moran took Iowa's living legend John Davey to the limit, then out touched him by .15 at the wall for a 1:49.40 win in the 200-yard butterfly.

MORAN'S WIN OVER Davey evened the afternoon series between two of the Big Ten's best swimmers as Davey beat Moran with a time of 1:52.73 in the 200-yard individual medley for his only win of the day.

"We knew John was going to have a tough time winning all three of his events today," Patton said on Davey's behalf. "Moran is an excellent swimmer, and John did a very good job against him."

After Michigan jumped out to an early 7-0 lead, the Hawkeyes, led by freshman sensation Erik Bacon and Davey, came back and tied things up with a one-two win in the 1,000 free. Bacon's time of 9:17.34 was also a new meet record, one of four broken on the day.

"It worked out exactly the way we wanted it to," Bacon said about the win. "I just tried to get ahead early and stay there, and it felt great to get this kind of time in a key meet."

MICHIGAN THEN took the next three races to gain a 26-17 advantage. Davey narrowed the gap slightly with his win in the 200 individual medley, but the Wolverines won the next two events and took control with a 42-28 lead.

In a desperate move to keep the meet close, Hawkeye senior Ed Lower geared himself for his best performance of the year, setting a new meet record of 45.10 in the 100 free.

"Back in high school, I used to shave during different points of the season, so since this was my senior year I thought I'd try it again," Lower said. "It felt good to get a big win like this at this point in my career and hope it will propel me through the remainder of the year."

Stringer's club soars in win over Gophers

By Mike Trilk Staff Writer

Michelle Edwards dumped in 18 points and Lisa Long added 15 as the 13th rated Iowa women's basketball team cruised by Minnesota, 78-60, at Williams Arena Friday.

The Hawkeyes broke the game open when they went on a 9-0 spurt early in the second half which put Iowa up 51-28 with just over 15 minutes left in the game.

Iowa shot a blistering 53 percent from the floor while the Gophers hit for an icy 39 percent. Iowa also held a sizeable advantage on rebounds as the Hawkeyes grabbed 42 boards to just 31 for Minnesota. Senior Lisa Becker ripped down a game high eight rebounds while Long and Edwards each had seven.

"I wasn't completely pleased with our half-court game," Iowa Coach Vivian Stringer said. "Our transition game was fine though and overall I can't complain."

Molly Tadich, the Big Ten's leading scorer, had 17 points for Minnesota which drops to 1-9 in the league and 6-14

Women's Basketball

overall.

THE WIN LEAVES Iowa with a 9-1 conference mark and 16-4 overall record only one game behind conference leader Ohio State.

A Big Ten title is something that Stringer's squad has wanted from the start of the season and the next two weeks are very important to the Hawkeyes title surge.

Iowa travels to Illinois and Purdue next weekend before coming home to host Ohio State on Feb. 20. It was Illinois that ended Iowa's title hopes last year when the Illini dumped the Hawkeyes in Assembly Hall late in the season.

"It is major for us to beat Illinois and Purdue so we can come back and stand a shot at beating Ohio State," Stringer added. "The pressure is on us. There is no question that we can't let the same thing that happened last year happen this year."

Hawks show home strength

By Eric J. Hess Assistant Sports Editor

Dan Gable knows exactly what has to be done to win his 10th straight national championship.

But an injury to 142-pound Greg Randall has put a crease in Gable's plans.

The Hawkeyes dumped Southern Illinois-Edwardsville (39-10) and Edinboro (40-7) at Carver-Hawkeye Arena over the weekend, essentially without Randall's services.

Randall, a two-time national runner-up, injured the hamstring on his right leg Saturday night in a match with Southern Illinois' Brian McTague.

"They say it's pretty bad," Randall said. "But they're going to get it X-rayed (today) and find out what actually happened and what the extent of the damage is done to it."

RANDALL SAID HE didn't want to say how long he will be out of the Iowa line-up, but he said he will back for the Big Ten tournament.

"I'm going to wrestle Big Tens," Randall emphasized. "There's no doubt about it."

Gable acknowledged Iowa will miss Randall not being in the line-up. But the Iowa mentor did see some other wrestling pleasing to the eye.

"It's just the degree of difficulty of coming back," Gable said. "He'll be back. It's just how much it will be healed."

Dan Gable

Both 167-pound Royce Alger and 177-pound Rico Chiapparelli scored six team points each time they were on the mat.

Alger recorded a one minute, one second fall over Russ Witzig of Southern Illinois-Edwardsville. On Sunday, he frustratingly recorded a technical fall over Edinboro's Rikk Walters in 6:05.

ALGER, WHO IS the only unbeaten Iowa wrestler with a 24-0 record, said Walters wouldn't let him run his pinning combinations.

"He's (Alger) not satisfied unless he pins their shoulders to the mat," Gable said.

Chiapparelli didn't have as much trouble scoring the six team points as Alger did. The senior from Baltimore scored a pin over Southern Illinois' Dwight Downs in 2:25 and a pin over Edinboro's Kurt York in 1:59.

Top-ranked Jim Heffernan joined the Hawkeye winner's circle twice, recording a technical fall and a pin.

John Heffernan, who wrestled the closest Hawkeye matches over the weekend, took a 10-4 win over Southern Illinois' Bob Dahm and a tight 9-7 win over Edinboro's Mike Flynn.

JOHN REGAN, THE Hawkeye 126-pounder, also won two matches. The first match against Southern Illinois' Robert Hall was a 24-10 rout in which Regan tackled Hall for eight takedowns.

"I've yet to be satisfied," Gable said of his team's performance this season. "It's tough to satisfy me totally because that's the way I coach."

Edinboro Coach Mike DeAnna found his wrestlers giving out very little output.

"And I guess maybe I'm a little disappointed because our kids were intimidated," he said.

Root stars in gymnastics win

The Iowa women's gymnasts boosted their record to 3-2 Saturday by capturing first place at the Wisconsin-Osh Kosh Invitational.

The Hawkeyes scored 169.1 over the three other teams present. Centenary College placed second (164.85), Wisconsin was third (163.75) and Ball State placed fourth (162.8).

Iowa freshman Shelby Root led the Hawkeyes in the all-around competition by placing third with a compiled score of 34.4. Root placed second on the uneven bars (9.1) and tied for second in the floor exercise competition with a 8.75.

"I was pleased with how we did," Root said. "It helped our morale going into our next meets knowing we can be competitive."

Hawkeyes Kim Podgorsky and Nancy Reilly both scored 8.85 on the vault to tie for second place. Reilly also placed second on the balance with a 8.70.

West escapes East in All-Star Game

SEATTLE (UPI)—Rolando Blackman weathered teasing from Isiah Thomas and sank two free throws with no time left to send the game into overtime, and hometown player Tom Chambers scored 34 points to become the MVP Sunday and lead the West to a 154-149 victory over the East in the NBA All-Star Game.

Chambers, named to the All-Star team after Houston's Ralph Sampson was injured, became the first hometown player to win the most valuable player award since Jerry West got it in Los Angeles for the Lakers in 1972.

Blackman, who finished with 29 points, was fouled by Thomas with no time left in regulation, and his free throws tied the score 140-140.

Alford leads Indiana over Michigan

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI)—Steve Alford scored 30 points and No. 2 Indiana kept the Big Ten lead Sunday with an 83-67 victory over Michigan in a nationally televised basketball game.

Alford's point total pushed him to fourth on the all-time Big Ten scoring list. The senior All-American needs just 15 points to equal Don Schlundt, the conference's No. 3 career scorer and the all-time Indiana scoring leader with 2,192 points.

Indiana rose to 19-2 overall and 10-1 in the Big Ten. The Wolverines fell to 15-8 overall, 6-5 in conference play.

Alford scored 13 of Indiana's points in a key 19-8 first-half run. With the game tied at 15, Alford shook free of the Wolverine defense to spark the spurt, which lasted 6:21 and gave the Hoosiers a 34-23 lead with 4:32 to play in the half.

Iowa marks fall at UNI Dome

By Robert Mann Staff Writer

In just the third outing of the indoor track season, it's happened again — more records have tumbled at the hands of the 1987 Iowa women's track squad.

After seeing five Iowa records fall the past two weekends, Senta Hawkins and Beeki Borg set two new Iowa marks Saturday at an Iowa-sponsored meet at the UNI-Dome in Cedar Falls.

In the 440-yard dash Hawkins just missed qualifying for the NCAA indoor tournament with a time of 56.21 seconds.

Borg also set a new Iowa mark with her performance in the triple jump, clearing 12.04 meters (39 feet, six inches).

Iowa Coach Jerry Hassard

said the records and progress of his team this early in the season has not gone by unnoticed.

"WHAT I'M REALLY encouraged by is our sprint corps this weekend," Hassard said. "Based on what we saw the past two weekends with our middle distances and jumps, if we have a meet where we combine all of this, we should have a really tough team."

Davera Taylor won the 60 in 6.95 seconds, nearing the national qualifying mark, and the 300 in 35.79. For her efforts, Taylor was named the co-winner of the outstanding runner award. She shared the honor with Angie Taylor from Illinois State, who also was honored as the outstanding field event performer.

THE OUTSTANDING runner trophy is given in honor of Ron Renko, the Iowa State track coach who was killed in a plane crash about a year ago along with other team members from Iowa State.

The field event award is in memory of Pat Moynihan, a former assistant at Iowa and assistant at Iowa State who also died in the plane crash, and Deb Hildebrandt, an Iowa assistant when she was killed in a car accident last fall.

Gymnastics

Kurt "The Sarge" Karnstedt,

Iowa's problems didn't really begin until its last two events of the competition — the parallel bars and the horizontal bar.

Only one Hawkeye, freshman Keith Cousinno, hit his parallel bar routine, and the Hawkeyes stumbled with a team score of 44.30. The Buckeyes, a traditionally strong parallel bars team, received a team of score of 46.65 on the event.

"We always try to have a real good p-bar team," Ohio State Coach Mike Willson said.

"THE LAST TWO EVENTS killed us," Dunn said. "It's just going to take a little more time. We always have problems with parallel bars, and we get routines together in the beginning of the year. And it generally takes us about the whole season to get it together. I was disappointed in the parallel bars because some of our better kids, Joe Thome and Ron Nasti, should be handling it."

Division III Wisconsin-Oshkosh appeared in the meet with Ohio State and Iowa but were easily outclassed by the Division I powers. The Titans set a season-high score of 220.15 but were defeated by more than 40 points by both the Hawkeyes and the Buckeyes.

Iowa's next competition will be Feb. 14 against Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich., and Feb. 15 versus both Western Michigan and Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich.

Jane Keating won three events and Terri Millmier took the diving events as Iowa Minnesota in women's swimming at 134.

Keating, in Iowa's final meet of the season Saturday in Minneapolis, had wins 200-, 500- and 1,000-yard freestyle events, setting in the free which would be the fastest time in the Big Ten exclusion of other action this week at the conference.

Keating's 500 free time of 1:30.49, 59.54 seconds outdistanced the nearest competitor by more than eight seconds.

Millmier took both the diving events, savoring more than an 18-point win in one-meter diving and a 255.075-229 win over fellow team member Vicki Ramseyer in the three-meter event.

Iowa, Minnesota tankers tie

By Eric J. Hess
Assistant Sports Editor

Jane Keating won three events and Terri Millmier took both the diving events as Iowa tied Minnesota in women's swimming at 134.

Keating, in Iowa's final dual meet of the season Saturday in Minneapolis, had wins in the 200-, 500- and 1,000-yard freestyle events, setting in the 500 free which would be the fastest time in the Big Ten exclusive of other action this week in the conference.

Keating's 500 free time of four minutes, 59.54 seconds outdistanced the nearest competition by more than eight seconds.

Millmier took both the diving events, savoring more than an 18-point win in one-meter diving and a 255.075-229.275 win over fellow teammate Vicki Ramseyer in the three-meter event.

Women's Swimming

"THAT'S A TOUGH pool to dive in," Kennedy pointed out. He said it was an excellent effort for Millmier because the Minnesota pool's dimensions were different than what she is used to.

Other Iowa first-place finishers were Becky Anderson in the 50 free, Katie VanVerst in the 100-yard backstroke, Allison Lloyd in the 100-yard butterfly and Bernie Brandenburg in the 200 butterfly.

Iowa, which finished the season with a 5-0-1 mark, came out on the short end a number of times against Minnesota.

The Hawkeyes started the meet with a 4/100 second loss in the 400-yard medley relay.

Later in the 100 breastroke, Chris Dieterle touched in at 1/100 to take third place.

ANDERSON finished second in the 100 free, 24/100 behind Minnesota standout Sue Roell.

"It was a very close meet. Every point counted," Iowa Coach Pete Kennedy said.

"There's a lot of races like that," he continued. "It was that kind of meet."

The Hawkeyes will now turn to the 1987 Big Ten Championships to be held in Indianapolis from Feb. 20 to 22.

Kennedy said he figures it will be the Ohio State Buckeyes in the driver's seat. But Michigan may have an outside chance to dethrone the Buckeyes.

Meanwhile, he sees the Hawkeyes as a team fighting for a spot in the upper division.

"Every team is stronger. Illinois is stronger. Northwestern is stronger. Michigan is stronger," Kennedy said.

Hawkeyes ready to compete after meet in Minneapolis

By Eric J. Hess
Assistant Sports Editor

Iowa Coach Ted Wheeler is ready for his team to move on to bigger and better things.

Wheeler and his men's track squad will move on to the Central Collegiate Championships in Ypsilanti, Mich., after competing in a non-scoring meet Saturday at Minnesota.

"We're ready to move on to the next level — as far as achievement," Wheeler said.

The Hawkeyes turned in a pleasing performance, including a come-from-behind victory in the 4x400 meter relay.

Paul Steele, a second-place

Men's Track

finisher in the 600 meters, turned in a 49-second final leg in a race where Wheeler said the Hawkeyes were down at one time by a sizeable length.

ST. CLAIR BLACKMAN, who also won the 800 in one minute, 53.69 seconds, ran the first leg in about 49 seconds. Wheeler said Blackman's performance was "indicative of what we expect from him."

Sean Corrigan, who placed second and set a personal record in the 1,500-meters in 3:55.56, ran the second leg for the Hawkeyes. Louis English, a runner-up to Blackman in the 800, took the third leg.

The Hawkeyes also got a sparkling performance from K.P. Lansing.

Lansing, who is normally a high jumper, won the 300 in 36.4. Iowa's other entry in the event, Curtis Chung, suffered a cramp in his back and was unable to finish the race. Chung earlier won the 55-meter dash in 6.56 seconds.

In the field events, Chris Gambol tossed the shot put 59 feet to outdistance his nearest competitor by 6 1/2 feet.

Iowa overwhelms St. Ambrose, ready for tougher competition

By Robert Mann
Staff Writer

Despite some lapses in concentration, the Iowa men's tennis team easily defeated St. Ambrose in Davenport Sunday, 9-0.

Iowa Coach Steve Houghton said he was pleased with the overall performance of his team as only one match went three sets.

"It's tough to single out anyone who played perfectly, but certainly no one played poorly," Houghton said. "We can't afford to have any lapses against better teams or we'll be in trouble."

THE IOWA COACH SAID it was not easy for his squad to be sharp because Iowa defeated St. Ambrose easily last year.

"What's difficult psychologically is that we beat them last fall," he said. "It's difficult to play flawless tennis when playing someone you beat easily before."

The only singles contest which went three sets was at the No. 1 spot, where Iowa's Martin Aguirre defeated Owe Pipkorn, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

The No. 2 singles match was also close as Iowa's Rudy Foo defeated St. Ambrose's D.K. Pierson in two sets, 7-6, 6-4.

NONE OF THE OTHER matches were nearly as close as No. 3 Dave Novak (I) beat Chad Vinzant (A) 6-3, 6-2; No. 4 Bryan Stokstad (I) defeated Mike Thatcher (A) 6-2, 6-2; No. 5 Jim Burkholder (I) downed Ronald Martin (A) 6-1, 6-4; and No. 6 Jay Malby (I) bettered Rob Lombardi (A) 6-0, 6-4.

Limited portrayals mar lovely 'Mission'

By Hoyt Olsen
Staff Writer

THE MISSION is a first-rate effort in every respect. The Cannes Festival pick for best film mixes Robert Bolt's literate screenplay with bravura leading performances, stylish direction, gorgeous scenery and a crusading intent. Regrettably, its very nobility of purpose appears to be a cause of its most self-evident flaw.

The action takes place in the 1750s, in an area now divided between Argentina, Paraguay and Brazil. Jesuit missionaries are in the process of converting the native tribal population to Christianity — a goal that runs afoul of Spanish and Portuguese colonial interests, whose representatives see the tribes and their territory solely in terms of economic possibility.

FURTHER complicating the issue is a new treaty between Spain and Portugal that transfers mission properties to the latter; while Spanish law prohibits the slave trade, Portuguese law does not.

The film's two protagonists are caught in the crossfire between Empire and Church. Father Gabriel is a resolute missionary who has risked his life to convert a remote jungle tribe; Roderigo Mendoza is a mercenary and a slave trader, a man for whom death is a way of life.

But Mendoza returns from the jungle to discover that he has lost in love to the brother he adores. After killing his brother in a fit of anger, Mendoza lives in surrender to despair until Father Gabriel accuses him of cowardice. Mendoza, fearing still that "there is no penance hard enough for me," follows Gabriel back into the jungle, dragging his bundled armor behind him as a supreme gesture of atonement.

IN THE JUNGLE, Mendoza learns the doctrine of love both from the Jesuits and the Indians he had formerly hunted. Finding an inner peace he has never known before, Mendoza at last decides to become a Jesuit himself.

The crisis for both Gabriel and Mendoza comes in the form of a papal envoy sent from Rome to work out the tangle between Spain, Portugal and the Jesuit missions. The envoy comes burdened by the realities of global politics, and an awareness that "a surgeon, to save the body, must often hack off the limb."

ROBERT DE NIRO plays Mendoza with the absolute conviction and missionary fervor he brings to every role. Of his contemporaries, only Meryl Streep is as consistently rewarding a performer. For his part, Jeremy Irons demonstrates all the qualities requisite for international stardom as Gabriel; Irons depicts the missionary's inner resolve with a carefully calibrated simplicity.

Certainly The Mission is the year's most beautiful film. The cinematography is as lush as the jungle scenery; Director Roland Joffe turns his cameras again and again to breathtaking waterfalls and mountains that shoot jaggedly out of the rain forest. No less beautiful are the scenes at the mission cathedral of San Miguel.

THE ELOQUENCE is entirely one-sided, and therein lies the film's major flaw. The Mission is about the evils, past and present, of colonial empires subduing native populations; at the end of the film we are reminded, quite rightly, that "The Indians of South America continue to struggle to preserve their land and culture."

In the process of supporting this legitimate message, however, The Mission turns its Indian characters into icons instead of people. The film portrays the jungle as an Eden minus the serpent (as well as insects, tropical heat and malaria). The natives become colorful, innocent stoics with "Noble Savage" scrawled on them in enough places to make Rousseau blush. This portrayal of primitive, indistinguishable perfects who stay respectfully in the background while the Anglo stars decide their fate detaches both the film and its cause from reality, and correspondingly weakens each.

A second weakness is the film's failure to support the view of either one of its principals. Passive and active resistance seem equally futile, considering the seemingly equal failure of both Gabriel and Mendoza.

Despite its lapses, The Mission is well worth seeing. Those waterfalls by themselves deserve a view, and there are other rewards aplenty.

Former adviser survives overdos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mer national security adviser Robert McFarlane, a key controversial figure in the Iran arms scandal, was admitted to Bethesda Naval Hospital Monday after taking an overdose of Valium, one of his lawyers said.

Lt. Russell Sanford, public affairs officer at the hospital said McFarlane's condition "listed as good." He said Privacy Act prevented him from saying what McFarlane was being treated for.

"There was an overdose of Valium," Peter Morgan, attorney for McFarlane, said. Valium, a widely used tranquilizer, is often prescribed for treatment of anxiety.

Asked whether the overdose was accidental, he said, "don't know."

But CBS News, quoting unnamed source, said hospital officials believe McFarlane tried to commit suicide.

HOSPITAL OFFICIALS refused to comment on CBS News report.

Morgan said McFarlane, 41, father of three, was at home with his wife, Jonda, when episode occurred.

President Ronald Reagan informed "this morning by staff," White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater to United Press International adding, "We have not received unofficial reports."

A source close to McFarlane said, "I think the whole thing weighs on him, obviously think he feels bad that the (the Iran arms deals) turned into a big problem."

It was unclear whether hospitalization would cause any delays in the congressional investigations into the scandal.

JOHN HENSHAW, an aide of McFarlane at his office in the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington, said McFarlane went to the hospital after suffering "adverse reaction to a prescribed medication he took and said the reaction did not cause a life-threatening situation.

The AMA Drug Evaluation said Valium and similar drugs are the safest of all currently available anti-anxiety drugs and offer "a significant safety margin in cases of overdose."

McFarlane has come under scrutiny because of discrepancies between his testimony and that of White House chief of staff Donald Regan over President Reagan's ear actions in the shipment of arms to Iran.

McFarlane has testified that Reagan approved the first shipment of arms to Iran August 1985 before they took place, but Regan said the president learned of the shipment after the fact from McFarlane. McFarlane has said he found Regan's version "puzzling" and could not account for them.
