Syrian forces intervene in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Attempts by the Israeli military to force the Druze into a fighting role in Syria's bloody civil war had failed for a second straight day, in a first step toward ending the fighting in the town that has been known as Lebanon's military answer to Israel.

Thousands of cheering Lebanese soldiers poured into Beirut on Wednesday, the latest sign that the Israeli military is preparing to end its war in Lebanon, in which it has been fighting since the 1970s.

Assessor's budget talk set for tonight
The Iowa City Councilmen will meet at 7 tonight for the council's first meeting in the new fiscal year in the Iowa City City Council Chambers.

The proposed $271,000 budget is $43,000 less than this year's budget.

Some of the budget's major areas will see increases in the proposed budget. Increases include $10,570 for insurance, $2,120 for interest, and $4,125 for wages, a 5 percent increase in wages, Iowa City Attorney John Furlong said.

New England agency seeks summer help
Officials from the Cape Cod Summer Job Bureau in Massachusetts said they will be looking for people in the area who will be available to work during the summer months.

The Bureau said it expects to hire between 1,000 and 2,000 people for summer work.

Library hour reduction begins March 5
The Iowa City Public Library will be reducing its hours beginning March 5 in order to save money and keep the budget in balance.

The library will now be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and will be closed on Fridays. All other hours will remain the same.

Borough says that the library is not an alternative to today's "library" service, and the library will be less detrimental to library users than other types of libraries.

The library is considering making changes to its facilities, eliminating some services and charging residents for the loan of library materials.

"Power hours will be an inconvenience to some people, but it's necessary," he said. "If buying fewer books is the answer, the new library's collections will continue to grow and be maintained."".

Panel says student activism still vital at nation's colleges

By Scott Hauser

University Editor

While agreeing the efforts of student activists are still important in American campuses, Iowa State University Professor of Counselor Education Albert Hoad said student activists comprise about 0.5 percent of the student population, but can increase to about 3 percent if they become involved in student government.

"Administrators tend to be unenlightened. They tend to be dumb," says James Banning of administrative response to student activism. "In the late 60s, there were all kinds of opportunity for administrators to act dumb — and they did."
Letter from the Editor

New York Times: Mario Cuomo's announcement not to seek the 1988 presidential nomination should come as a shock to Iowa Democrats. C. Everett Koop and former Colorado Sen. Gary Hart among Iowa Democrats to become the party's nominee are disagreeing nearly as strongly as a year ago; in a way, it's quite a showing for a man who never made a campaign appearance.

The poll showed that Iowans seemed to admire what little they knew about Cuomo. As a champion for the nation's homeless, Cuomo believes the highest responsibility of government is to care for those who can't care for themselves. He sponsored a congressional committee and helped gain $50 million for the nation's homeless, but said $800 million was needed.

This type of dedication and drive was valued in Iowa.

But Cuomo had the character to say no to presidential politics early. He cleared his family, a grandstanding campaign and his commitment to the state of New York. To keep his message simple, it's not easy, he said. As Cuomo noted, it would be even harder when his Demo friends have already been "campaigning in Iowa for 30 days.

Cuomo turned away from the wishes of others and his own spirit in favor of his state. For this, he should be respected.

His candor would have been an exciting one, and it will surely be missed in Iowa. But Cuomo's pride, voice and vision will live on.

Week of UI's great Hart Writer

There are a few things to look forward to this week. There will be a celebration of both sports and music. Saturday's "Dunk-a-thon," which will send a tiny basketball into the Willis Tower, will help raise money for the Chicago Bulls. And UI's Spring Festival, featuring the music of performs, will be another day to look forward to.

But tonight's "Dunk-a-thon," which is a competition between the UI's basketball teams, will be the event to watch. The teams will be doing their best to win the title of "Dunk-a-thon" champion.

Evansville's Bobcat Express will be the first team to take the court, followed by the UI's men's team. The UI's women's team will be the last to take the court.

The UI's crowd will be the loudest of the night, as they cheer on their favorites. The event will be held in the John Wooden Arena, which is located on the southern part of campus.

Events will be followed by a reception at the storm center. The reception will feature food, music and other entertainment. The event will be open to the public and is free of charge.

Regan holds onto position despite battle with first lady

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Reagan, who is to deliver the State of the Union address on Monday, has decided to hold on to a big victory by delaying a major push for a constitutional amendment to ban distribution of some weapons to Central American guerillas.

The president, who is still fighting a battle against the first lady over his controversial policy in Central America, has decided to delay moving forward with the amendment to the Constitution for at least another week.

The move comes as the administration is preparing to announce a new policy toward Central America, which is expected to be unveiled later this week.

The president's decision is a significant setback for his efforts to strengthen the U.S. role in the region, and it could further undermine his position on the issue of aid to the Contras.

Regan agreed with their argument, and the administration, after considering the political climate, decided to delay moving forward on the amendment.

The president's decision is expected to be met with criticism from both sides of the political spectrum, with some critics accusing him of caving in to the first lady's demands.

However, the president's decision is also likely to be praised by some in the administration, who saw it as a wise move in light of the current political climate.

The president's decision is also expected to have implications for the upcoming presidential election, as both candidates are expected to make the issue of aid to the Contras a focal point of their campaigns.

The decision is also expected to have implications for the future of the U.S.-led war in Afghanistan, as the administration is likely to face increased pressure to withdraw U.S. forces from the country.

Sindlinger clinches Hawkeye win

By Mike Trilk

A sweep during the three-day Big Ten swimming meet in Columbus put Iowa in a position to overtake Ohio State in the conference championship race. Winning the meet would be a huge accomplishment for the Hawkeyes, who have never won the Big Ten title.

The meet was held at the Ohio State University Natatorium and featured the top teams in the Big Ten. Iowa, along with Ohio State, Indiana, and Michigan, competed for the conference championship.

Iowa was led by their strong individual performances, particularly in the freestyle events. The Hawkeyes swept the 200 and 500 freestyle events, which were crucial to their chances of winning the meet.

The Hawkeyes also performed well in the backstroke, with two top-three finishes. In the breaststroke, Iowa had a strong showing, placing third in the 200 and second in the 100.

Iowa also had strong performances in the butterfly, with a victory in the 200 and a second-place finish in the 100.

Overall, the Hawkeyes' strong showing in the freestyle events, particularly in the 200 and 500, was the key to their victory. Their strong performances in the individual events, along with their team relay success, helped them overtake Ohio State for the Big Ten championship.

Hawks power past Cyclones; prepare for conference meet

By Cathy Cronin

Graciously a war for status between the two schools, the Iowa State Open the swimming 31st Friday had a be-tiful sound to it, to their final meet, welcomed the Iowa State swimming teams to the

Iowa Memorial Aquatic Center. The last time the Hawkeyes had been at the Iowa City meet was 1994 when Coach Glenn Howland started the school's program.

Lena later took an en with the swimming meet being a "must win" event for the Hawkeyes.

IM wrestlers top Iowa State

By Cathy Cronin

With a final score of 18, Iowa's im wrestling team defeated the University of Minnesota.

Iowa State opened the dual at 197 pounds with 36 seconds remaining. Martin, a sophomore from Ames, won by pinfall at 3:45 minutes over an opponent from Minnesota.

PATTON FOUNDED

Patterson was elected in Iowa City as the "best wrestler on the team," and he won by technical fault.

Patterson was also scheduled for the 197-pound match against a wrestler from Minnesota.

Patton said the Hawkeyes were ready to make an adjustment to their change in the second half of the season.

Red-hot Hawks throttle Cyclones

By Brad Zimova

It wasn't the most impressive performance of the season, but the Iowa women's gymnastics team still had enough to celebrate in Saturday's dual meet against Iowa State at the North Gym. It was the Hawkeyes' second victory of the season, following a win over Missouri two weeks ago.

Iowa won the meet by a score of 195.00-194.50, the two top performers for Iowa were Nancy DuBois and Kim Reilly. DuBois scored a perfect 10 in the floor exercise, while Reilly, a junior, scored a perfect 10 in the all-around.

The Hawkeyes compiled their weekend with a bang by defeating Iowa State 173.30-172.65.

"They made the trip, four of them, and we were able to put a little distance between ourselves and Iowa State," said Iowa Coach Robert Mann.

"It was a good meet," DuBois said. "I was happy about that."

"I wish they (Thome and Nasti) could have put a little more distance between us and Iowa State," said Iowa Coach Robert Mann.

"I was happy about that," DuBois said. "I wasn't too many other places." I

"We're very pleased with how we handled things," Mann said. "We're happy about the first place finish."

After losing two tough matches last weekend, the Iowa men's tennis team was able to come back and sweep two teams this weekend.

"I was very pleased with the effort," said coach Steve Houghton. "We played very well and we did almost everything right."

The Hawkeyes went into Illinois, with a 6-3 loss over the White Stags last weekend, to play with win over Southern Illinois, 7-2, and No. 3 Illinois State, 7-5.

"We worked on our technique, and we learned from the experience," Houghton said. "We worked on our weak parts and requested very different."

The Hawkeyes went into action this weekend with a 6-3 loss against Nebraska and a 9-0 loss to Iowa State after winning over Northern Illinois, 8-1.

"We played very well in singles," Houghton said. "We can't afford to have to come back and sweep teams like these."

Iowa men's tennis team was No. 1 singles against Illinois in the match was limited to the number of matches you have to get in order to win the meet. "In their three singles matches," Houghton said. "We got out of a good start."

"That week," Houghton said. "We were almost as competitive, losing just three of 18 matches over the course of the weekend."

No. 1 singles player Martin Agnew went 6-3 in singles matches and doubles matches to play in three singles matches. "I don't think I could have done anything different," Houghton said. "I think that really made it."

"It's a very good win for us," Houghton said. "We can have our confidence blown away, or we can learn from the experience."

The Law made its first sold-out appearance with its Iowa City debut, performing before a packed house.

The band, composed of Iowa State University students, included members Brian Armstrong, Bob Rose, Greg Samuels and Brandon Turner. The band opened with a self-produced, four-song EP titled The Law. After a series of kick starters, the band also plans to release a second compilation this year.

“They’re all half their songs into the studio over the weekend and recording four or five more originals for a tape at the end of the semester,” Flora said before the Saturday performance.

Flora said the four songs on the EP were chosen based on their success with Iowa crowds last summer. The band recorded only original songs and performed mostly original songs on the EP.

“Two-thirds is original stuff,” Flora said of band performance.

The group opened the group’s songs with one version of the EP songs such as the instrumental performed Saturday night, in accordance with the heavy metal band Spinal Tap. It was a perfect match.

Flora said excited about the band’s first gig in Iowa City.

“We’ve heard a lot of good things about the Iowa City music scene,” he said. We’ve heard it’s a great-kept secret.

Flora said the band planned to get into town early so they could play deep tracks and other cover songs.

NYU (UPI) - Artist and fashion icon Andy Warhol died in New York City's Babies Hospital on March 5. Warhol was 87.

Warhol was pronounced dead at 1:30 a.m. after suffering a heart attack in his hospital room. He had been admitted earlier, a hospital spokesman said.

Private funeral services were held at富豪's home. He was cremated.

In the years leading up to his death, Warhol had undergone gall bladder surgery and was in poor health, The New York Times reported.

Warhol was born in Austria and immigrated to the United States in the 1920s. He worked as a chef, a bartender, and a busboy before starting his career as a fashion designer.

He was one of the first to incorporate the fashion world into his art, creating a series of portraits of famous people, including Elizabeth Taylor, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, and Princess Diana.

Warhol was also known for his work in the entertainment industry, including his television show, "Andy Warhol's Murder Mystery Club," which ran from 1967 to 1968.

He was also known for his work in the fashion industry, including his line of clothing, "The Andy Warhol Collection," which was launched in 1980.

Warhol was succeeded by his partner, Jim Balsillie.

The family said that Warhol had been diagnosed with lung cancer in 1986. "He fought the disease for years, but the cancer proved to be too much," the family said.

Warhol was survived by his partner, Jim Balsillie, and by his brother, James Warhol.

Warhol was buried at the Woodlawn Cemetery in New York City.
