Dukakis begins '88 candidacy

BOSTON (UPI) — Massachusetts Democratic Gov. Michael Dukakis, promising a "commitment to integrity" and economic "opportunity for all," formed a campaign committee Monday in preparation for his 1988 presidential bid.

Dukakis, a liberal credited with turning around Massachusetts' aging economy, said he was establishing a presidential campaign committee and would "unquestionably" make a formal announcement of candidacy May 4.

"Today I am authorizing the formation of my presidential campaign committee. On May 4, I will make my formal declaration of candidacy," he said.

Dukakis, 53, serving his third term as governor, said his candidacy would send a message to the American people.

"It is a message of good jobs and economic opportunity and vibrant, sustained economic growth for every American in every part of our country," said Dukakis. "It is a message of opportunity for all.

"It is a commitment to integrity in public office — every day and every week and every month," he told a news conference in the Massachusetts Statehouse.

Former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt and Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., already have announced their candidacies. Former Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado will announce April 13. Others certain to run are Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware and the Rev. Jesse Jackson. Another possible candidate is Sen. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas.

Branstad announces regents appointees

By Shawn Plank
Staff Writer

Gov. Terry Branstad Monday appointed three "supporters of the universities" to the state Board of Regents, including two Republicans who donated to his 1986 re-election campaign.

Branstad submitted the three names along with about 150 other nominees for state boards and commissions to the Iowa Senate, the body that ratifies the governor's appointments.

The three regents appointees, John R. Fitzgibbon and Marvin Pomerantz of Des Moines and Mary C. Williams of Davenport, will replace three retiring regents May 1 if they are confirmed by the Senate. The three retiring board members include regents President John McDonald of Dallas Center, Iowa; June Murphy of Des Moines; and Peg Anderson of Bettendorf, Iowa.

The nine-member board governs the three state universities and Iowa's two special schools for the blind and the deaf.

DICK VOHS, the governor's press secretary, said the appointments should sail through the Senate.

"All three are well-known as supporters of the universities," Vohs said.

But Sen. Rich Varn, D-27th District, said the picks are indications that Branstad is trying to have more influence over the regents.

"The message that we are increasingly picking up is that the governor is trying to use the regents more and more in a political fashion," Varn said.

But Fitzgibbon said the governor "appoints people for ability, not for their party."

Pomerantz, a Republican, was the finance campaign chair for Branstad during the 1986 gubernatorial race and donated $2,700 to the campaign, according to the state Campaign Finance Disclosure Commission. Fitzgibbon, also a Republican, donated $1,600 to the campaign, a commission official said.

WILLIAMS, a Democrat, donated $5.50 to Branstad's campaign, the official added. Varn said Branstad appointed a Democrat because state boards cannot have a majority of members from one political party.

Fitzgibbon is the chief executive officer of First Group Companies in Des Moines, which deals with real estate, finance, construction and insurance. He also heads the financial consulting firm of John R. Fitzgibbon & Associates in Des Moines.

Lawmaker indicted in bribe scam

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., and former Brooklyn Democratic boss Meade Esposito were indicted on bribery and conspiracy charges Monday for allegedly using their influence to help a failing ship repair firm.

The seven-count indictment accused Biaggi of taking bribes and trying to influence various officials to help Coastal Dry Dock and Repair Co., a bankrupt firm with operations at the former Brooklyn Navy Yard.

The officials Biaggi allegedly tried to influence included New York Mayor Edward Koch and unnamed deputy mayors, an unnamed senator and a commandant of the Coast Guard.

In exchange for Biaggi's influence and assistance, Esposito financed a Christmas holiday for Biaggi at the Bonaventure Hotel in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., in December 1984 and January 1985, the indictment charged.

similar vacation Biaggi took at the Florida spa in late 1985, although Biaggi, a former police officer, eventually paid for that trip himself.

The two men also were charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice because of Biaggi's alleged efforts to hinder a federal investigation of the scheme.

GOVERNMENT SOURCES

said the payments covered the costs of a stay at a Fort Lauderdale spa "and other expenses" for Biaggi and an unidentified female who was not his wife.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, described Biaggi's companion as "a Fannie Fox type."

"She's not a stripper, but she's a bimbo," the source said.

One source noted, however, that government prosecutors were not moving against Biaggi "for his indiscretions at a hotel."

The holiday expenses reportedly totaled about $3,000.

Esposito also was charged with arranging to pay for a BIAGGI ASSERTED his "total innocence" at a packed news conference at his lawyer's Manhattan office. "I fully expect this to be proven in a court of law," he said.

After Biaggi was questioned by FBI agents in June 1986, he allegedly telephoned Esposito and attempted to persuade him to "give false and evasive explanations of their conduct" to a federal grand jury, the indictment charges.

Both face a maximum sentence of 49 years in prison and a fine of $250,000 if convicted of bribery and receiving bribes.

Cities make 'free ride' offer

By Carol Monaghan
Staff Writer

"Try the bus on us," was the motto of the day for Coralville and Iowa City transit systems Monday.

As part of Coralville's $26,000 marketing campaign to encourage ridership on the financially burdened local transit systems, all rides on Iowa City and Coralville buses were free for the day.

"We hope a few people try it and find out they can't ride once," Roger Fisher, Coralville's Transit Operations Manager, said.

Coralville is using Exxon Corp. fuel overcharge funds distributed by the state to purchase newspaper ads, radio spots and a video promotion to be aired on the local cable television channel to promote the transit system.

As part of the ad campaign, Monday's free bus rides were intended to point out the advantages of riding the bus.

"THESE ADVANTAGES include avoiding the downtown parking crunch (and parking tickets), conserving energy and the ability to read or study on the way to work or school," Fisher said.

Bus ridership in both Coralville and Iowa City has been shrinking in recent years. Iowa City has experienced a ridership decline of more than 600,000 riders since peaking in 1983. In the past two months, the Coralville bus system has averaged a 10 percent ridership loss, Fisher said.

But Monday, some bus riders commuting to work or morning classes found their trip being broadcast live on radio airwaves.

Glenn Gardner, news and public affairs director of KRNA-93 FM, 2105 ACT Circle, said the broadcast made for "a little commuter party" and surprised many riders.

"SOME PEOPLE with Walkmen knew what was going on," Gardner said. "But a lot of passengers didn't realize we were broadcasting until I switched on a flip and said 'Hi, this is Glenn Gardner with KRNA broadcasting live.'"

Despite the promotion, bus drivers said Monday's free bus rides will probably have little effect on ridership.

"I have noticed a few people who normally don't ride, ride," said Jess Lopez, a driver on the Hawkeye Apartments route. "It's a nice thing to do for one day, but as far as it having some far-reaching results, I don't think it'll have much influence."

Iowa City Transit System drivers said it seemed doubtful any kind of promotion will have much effect in helping the system after cuts already decided upon by the Iowa City Council. The system faces a $150,000 deficit this year.

"THE CITY COUNCIL seemed determined to make changes," said Ken Shrobbshire, a driver on the Manville Heights route. "Obviously, they have indicated their decision by their vote last week."

This past week the council voted to begin severe service cutbacks for the bus system in June, the end of the fiscal year. Fare increases may begin sooner.

The cutbacks include reducing midday service from half-hour to hourly service, ending Saturday service at 7:30 p.m. instead of at 10 p.m. and combining routes.

Costliest college hikes fees

BENNINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — Bennington College said Monday it will raise annual charges by $1,000 next year to cover increased operating costs at the nation's most expensive liberal arts college.

Spokesman Charles Yoder said it will cost $17,990 to attend Bennington next year, 6 percent more than this year.

"We're trying to cover our operating costs," said Yoder, noting that insurance premiums and maintenance charges have increased substantially for the college over the past year.

The college, which prides itself on its experimental approach to education and low student-faculty ratio, enrolls more than 500 students.

Tooth decay experts meet at UI today

An international symposium on new ways to prevent tooth decay will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today in Galagan Auditorium of the UI College of Dentistry. Dental researchers from the University of Oslo in Norway, the Karolinska Institute of Stockholm in Sweden and the UI will present findings at the "Dental Caries: New Aspects of Fluorides, Chlorhexidine, and Other Preventive Measures" symposium. UI Professor of Oral Pathology Christopher Squier said faculty in the UI College of Dentistry can learn quite a bit from their Scandinavian counterparts. "They have a lot to tell us," he said. "Scandinavians lead research in preventive methods for caries (cavities)." Squier said some of the Scandinavian researchers will remain at the UI College of Dentistry after the seminar for collaborative research efforts.

$40,000 in minority scholarships awarded

The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants has awarded more than $40,000 in scholarships to minority students in accounting for the second half of the 1986-87 academic year. The scholarship aid was granted to 105 undergraduate and graduate accounting students, including blacks, Hispanics, American Indians and Asians. This year's scholarship winners represent 68 schools. "The scholarship program is designed to make accounting education accessible to as many qualified minority students as possible by giving them needed financial support," institute President Philip B. Chenok said. Individuals interested in applying for future scholarships should write to Sharon Donahue, manager, Minority Recruitment and Equal Opportunity Department, AICPA, 1211 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036. Application deadlines are July 1 and Dec. 1.

Faculty award applications available

The UI Council on Teaching will be accepting nominations for the 1986-87 Burlington Northern Faculty Achievement Awards until May 1. Three awards of $3,000 each will be given to those found to have made outstanding achievements in teaching at the UI during the 1986-87 school year. The awards recognize excellence in classroom teaching, professional scholarship or creative achievements enhancing the effectiveness of the nominee's teaching. Only regular, full-time tenured or tenure-track faculty members are eligible for the award. Nominations may be initiated by students or faculty members and must have the endorsement of at least one student and one faculty member or a departmental executive officer. Required nomination forms are available at the Academic Affairs office, 105 Jessup Hall. The awards will be announced at the 1987 fall convocation. For more information, call the Academic Affairs office at 335-3555.

Graduate test review session offered

A Graduate Record Examination math review will be sponsored by the UI Center for Conference and Institutes from 7 to 9 p.m. March 30 in Gilmore Hall Room 106. The five-session class is designed to assist students in preparing for the GRE and will be conducted by UI Department of Mathematics Professor Jean Geraghty. The fee for the class is $35, including materials. For more information, contact the Center for Conferences and Institutes, located in Union Room 210, or call 335-3231. The session will also be held April 1, 3, 6 and 8.

Over-the-counter acne fighter introduced

A leading pharmaceutical firm announced this month it will soon be offering non-prescription help to adult victims of acne. A new antibiotic gel that retains the skin's moisture during acne treatment will be introduced by the Upjohn Company within a few months, Upjohn officials say. "Cleocin T Topical Gel 1 Percent," a new moisture-retaining form of the leading brand of antibiotics prescribed by doctors for acne — is made especially for adults who suffer periodic acne. According to the Upjohn Company, an estimated 30 million people in the United States have acne. The company reports a substantial number of men and women continue to suffer from and seek treatment for acne breakouts well into their late 20s, 30s and 40s.

Bond proposal faces governor's veto

DES MOINES (UPI) — Gov. Terry Branstad, in his weekly news conference Monday, indicated he intends to veto the $98 million university bonding plan approved by the Legislature and suggested Iowa State University could use profits from WOI-TV to fund its maintenance needs. Branstad stopped short of saying he has decided to veto the bonding proposal approved by the Democrat-controlled Legislature, but said he has made his stand clear to the Legislature.

He said he supports bonding only for the proposed $37.5 million molecular biology building at ISU and the proposed $25 million laser center at the UI. The Legislature's plan includes $5.1 million for an ISU home economics addition, $8.4 million to replace a boiler at the University of Northern Iowa, $4.3 million to remodel the Old Law Center at the UI and $1.4 million for fire and environmental safety at all three schools.

"THE REGENTS ALREADY have a very high level of indebtedness. I don't believe they should go into debt any further," Branstad said. ISU President Gordon Eaton criticized Branstad earlier this month for supporting funding for popular programs like the molecular biology center, while neglecting fundamental equipment and maintenance needs. But Branstad said Monday it is not the state government's responsibility to finance those smaller-scale needs.

"It is the responsibility of the universities to focus attention at maintenance matters themselves. Iowa State has WOI-TV... Some of that profit should be plowed into their needs for maintenance," he said. "The universities have to do what the state did — reorganize and focus resources on priority areas," he said. Branstad said he had a frank discussion with Eaton last week and Eaton indicated he will follow the governor's wishes.

Legislators call Branstad plan longshot

DES MOINES (UPI) — Gov. Terry Branstad expects the Legislature to pass his proposed 4-cent gas tax increase, but key legislators said Monday the plan is a longshot and may not be considered until the last day of the session. Rep. Mike Connolly, D-Dubuque, chairman of a subcommittee backing the full 4-cent increase, said the situation reminds him of a Legislative session two years ago when a gas tax hike was killed and revived a number of times before it finally was approved. "In 1985, it was the last bill on the last day of the session. I think we are looking at a similar scenario," said Connolly, a strong supporter of increased spending for Iowa's major highways. He said majority Democrats are determined to focus their energies on education and tax reform before addressing transportation needs. "This must come at the end of the train, if at all. It is fair to say it is a longshot," Connolly said. THE HOUSE Transportation Committee has approved a bill calling for a 2-cent increase in the gas tax with the money funneled into the current Road Use Tax Fund, which distributes money to the state, cities and counties.

The proposal now moves to the House Ways and Means Committee, where Connolly plans to amend the bill to call for a 3-cent or 4-cent increase and to target some of the money specifically for primary highways. "We will have to make some compromises to get it out of committee... but I am very interested in a fuel tax increase this year."

Polls prepare for SPI Board, UI Student Senate elections

By Scott Hauser Staff Writer

UI polling stations open at 9 a.m. this morning as students begin two days of voting for members of the UI Student Senate...

STUDENT SENATE ELECTIONS

John Soloski, the board is responsible for the administrative part of running the paper.

Neither election has been without controversy. Early in the senate campaign, ASAP candidates requested the UI elections board censor the Action campaign for false and misleading campaign tactics.

The board refused to take immediate action, ruling Action's campaign literature was within legitimate boundaries.

IN THE SPI BOARD election — an election known for its lack of high visibility campaigning — student candidates Mike Ketchmark, Eric Klein and Susan Johnson distributed campaign literature promising to deliver "fair and unbiased reporting."

Soloski said the flier is misleading because the board has no say over what goes in the paper after the editor has been selected and enforces a policy that all editorials must be signed by their authors.

"The problem with it is that it's wrong," Soloski said of the flier. "The DI does not make political endorsements."

Ketchmark said the flier is fair because SPI Board has ultimate control over the paper and is responsible for its final content.

"INSOFAR AS SPI Board is responsible for choosing the editor-in-chief of the paper, the board does have some control over the editorial content," he said.

Ketchmark said he does not intend for the board to scrutinize the accuracy or slant of every story in the paper, but said if a group is dissatisfied with its coverage, the board should address their concerns.

Jeff Stein, current board chairman and candidate for a two-year term, said the procedure for making complaints about coverage is already in place.

"People are welcome and invited to come to the board's monthly meetings to express their concerns," he said.

Students can vote at the following eight locations on campus until 5 p.m. today and Wednesday: the Union's Landmark Lobby, the Chemistry Botany Building, Phillips Hall, the Field House, Bowen Science Building, Schaeffer Hall, English-Philosophy Building, and the Engineering Building.

Budget, staffing problems greet incoming librarian

By AnJanette Brush Special to The Daily Iowan

Since assuming the post of head UI librarian, Sheila Creth has had to deal with budget concerns, an understaffed department and the development of an automated library system.

And she's only had the job since Jan. 15. "The budget for the library's collection is a very serious concern for us in terms of maintaining quality," Creth said.

According to Creth, a 15 percent to 16 percent increase over funds received this year is necessary for the library to avoid a reduction in the serials collection. Costs of foreign publications coupled with the falling value of the dollar have presented problems for the serials and periodicals budget.

CRETH, WHO REPLACED retired UI librarian Dale Bentz after coming from the University of Michigan, said she hopes to help maintain a quality collection through developing activities involving grant sources and fund raising.

This year, the UI library system has benefited from redirected funds because of low heating costs, she said.

"We received $200,000 for the materials acquisition budget. We are applying it toward requests," Creth said, adding that many requests are made and many must be postponed.

Among Creth's goals is a more extensive library informational program. "We want to determine what resources are required to provide more opportunities to educate users with regard to the use of materials," she said.

The problem of library staffing also concerns Creth.

"THE UI LIBRARIES are considered to be seriously understaffed," she said. "We will be spending considerable effort to do our own analysis of staffing patterns and the number of people needed."

The automation of library systems will also receive added attention. In a joint project with the UI Law Library, Creth wants to implement the Online Access System for Information Sources program, which she says will require an enormous amount of time and energy.

In the senate election, the incumbent Allied Student Advocacy Party and the challenger Action party have fielded a full slate of 29 candidates while a third party, None of the Above, has three candidates.

All UI students are eligible to vote.

Students vote for constituent candidates and the winners of the majority constituency-vote select the four executive senate positions of president, vice-president, treasurer, and executive associate, said Kevin Taylor, director of UI Campus Programs.

SPI BOARD is comprised of six students, three faculty members and two staff members. Six students are running for the three two-year term vacancies and three students are running to fill the single one-year vacancy.

According to UI Associate Professor of Journalism and SPI Board faculty appointee

Arbitration favors district

By James Cahoy Staff Writer

Despite the first arbitration settlement in the history of Iowa City schools, one that favors the Iowa City School District, both teachers and administrators admit problems remain.

"The fact that we had to go to arbitration is going to make our relationship with the administration more difficult in the future," Iowa City Educational Association President Sue Mandernach said Monday.

But Chief District Negotiator Al Azinger said he hopes the arbitration will not create problems between the district and teachers in future negotiations.

"We are pleased to win, but we want to go forward now and put this thing behind us," Azinger said. "If the arbitration is allowed to hamper teacher-administration relations, it will be someone else's decisions and not the administration's."

THE RULING BY arbitrator John Gradwohl in favor of the district means teachers will not be able to file an official grievance against the content of an evaluation they disagree with, an issue that was considered the basis of the arbitration by both the teachers and the district.

- 1. Teachers cannot file grievance against an arbitration they disagree with. 2. Minimum salary for teachers increased to $16,000 per year. 3. Insurance payments per teacher increased to $130 per month. 4. Joint teacher/district committee on evaluations cannot make recommendations with contract negotiations between district and ICEA.

But the district win also means teachers will get a $16,000 minimum salary, $200 more than the ICEA asked for, as well as $10 more toward family insurance and a raise for Iowa City high school volleyball coaches.

"Nothing was lost by us, but the sad part is that no positive changes were made, either," Mandernach said of the district's win.

"We did not submit a complete salary schedule proposal to the arbitrator, but instead submitted only the changes we felt should be made in the schedule," she added. "As it turned out, this was a big technical error on our part."

MANDERNACH SAID Gradwohl was concerned that the lack of a complete salary schedule could open the possibility of a lawsuit by the district if the teacher's position had been accepted.

But Azinger said Mandernach was wrong in saying the district had won on a technicality.

"The arbitrator said we won because we had the more reasonable final offer," Azinger said. "The teachers may have made a mistake and that may have influenced the arbitrator's decision, but there is no reason to assume that if the salary issues had been correct the arbitrator would have necessarily ruled in favor of the teachers. There were several other issues he clearly felt we had the better position on."

Bass lecture covers forensics

By John Bartenhagen Staff Writer

Nearly 40 UI faculty and students gathered Tuesday in the Bowen Science Building to hear Ida Beam Visiting Professor William A. Bass speak on "Anatomical Differences in Age, Race and Sex."

Bass, a forensic anthropologist at the University of Tennessee, said law enforcement agents occasionally bring him a single bone from a body they have found and ask, "Well, Doc, who is it?"

Due to great variability in human skeletal structures, forensic specialists are not always able to determine age, race and sex, but Bass said several key bones are rarely misleading.

AMONG CHILDREN, dental patterns and growth centers in the long bones are the most reliable indicators of age, Bass said. The growth stages of the six-year molars, 12-year molars and wisdom teeth usually allow experts to determine a child's age to within six months.

Bass said degenerative changes in the skeleton make it possible to determine the ages of adult specimens.

"After 21, it's downhill fast," he said.

HE SAID THERE are several means of determining the sex of a specimen, but that pelvic width is the best. Women have proportionately broader pelvic bones than men to enable them to bear children. Another way to identify the sex of an individual is by mouth size, Bass added.

"Contrary to popular opinion, men actually have larger mouths, on the average," he said.

Bass said race is a useful means of classification to anthropologists and should not be confused with bigotry.

"Sociologists and psychologists say there's no such thing as race," he said. "But there is, and it's important and useful to biologists."

"When a black man is thrown out of a bar in Iowa City, they call it racial strife... that's not racial strife, it's social problems," Bass added.

Life or death situation

Suicides among all people, especially teens, seem to be increasing in our society at an alarming rate. Just last week, news of an apparent "suicide pact" between four New Jersey teens shocked their community as well as the nation. These four young people died in an automobile from exhaust fumes which were purposely inhaled. They left no reasons or explanations for their actions, only a final message expressing their request to be buried together.

Many people point to the dim prospects society offers today's youth in an effort to explain the rising rate of suicide. Others, more concerned with specific situational factors, say broken families and lack of religious guidance is the heart of the issue. Explanations have placed the blame on everything from genetic susceptibility to how windy it is in certain areas.

The very fact that we have such a diverse range of explanations addressing the problem of suicide in our society should caution us against looking too hard for an all-encompassing answer. Nearly all reasons cited by people explaining suicide have probably been right in one instance or another. But the attempt to explain suicidal behavior in terms of such black and white, clear-cut rationale is as futile as it is potentially dangerous.

Because of the degree to which our society has advanced in virtually every aspect of our lives, the underlying reasons people become depressed and suicidal will also continue to increase. Society must shy away from the tendency to place the blame for suicides solely on the instability of suicidal individuals, and on factors which appear most obvious.

More attention must be placed on the hidden consequences of societal interaction and progress: things such as the growing stress experienced by workers displaced by robotic advances in industry, changes in lifestyle and occupations due to technological advances and cultural assimilation.

Once society realizes and accepts the fact that people become depressed and suicidal as a by-product of the very way our system evolves, it will be better able to address the problems of suicide in a more effective manner.

Teach the children

Christian fundamentalists and the moral majoritarians rant about secular humanism and homosexuality destroying the moral fabric of the nation, but a better target for their indignation might be old-fashioned greed and lying.

Secular humanism, whatever it is or isn't, isn't responsible for greed or lying. Atheists, Catholics and Protestants could all join fundamentalists in supporting Christian charity and truthfulness. Homosexuality, whether the result of biological structure or childhood development, is neither a sin chosen out of a wish to be perverse nor a disease to be caught.

Greed and lying, by being widely practiced and thus implicitly condoned, can be taught, caught and chosen. And there is, unfortunately, increasing evidence that such lessons are being taught and learned.

Recently, a study of the Securities and Exchange Commission, which includes 172 successful offers to buy companies between 1981 and 1985, revealed that in every case there was an abnormal rise, three weeks before the bid was made public, in the price of the stock of the company to be bought. In other words, the best available evidence indicates insider trading is more widely spread than previously thought.

And sports, supposed to teach values of discipline, hard work and fair play, may instead be teaching winning by any and all means including drugs and bribes. For example, Southern Methodist University and Texas Gov. Bill Clements, former chairman of SMU's board of trustees, recently admitted bribing athletes to play at the school and then lying about it. He admitted it after being caught.

While the scandal at SMU may be the extreme, it is unfortunately part of an all too common pattern: A pattern like that on Wall Street and Main Street that preaches a value system in which money and power are the final and most crucial signs of value. Society seems to say that being a "loser," that is not rich and not powerful, is worse than being a liar. It seems to say that money and possessions, not good character, are the goals to strive for.

Did UI own Ronnie Harmon?

By Scott Raab

As if student government elections weren't enough excitement (if you listen carefully, you can already hear the soft thud of resumes being padded), now we've got Harmongate, complete with a committee to investigate charges that former Hawkeye running back Ronnie Harmon received $54,000 in improper payments from a sports agent during his last two years at the UI.

Of course, the only issue of concern to the committee is whether anyone in the football program knew about the payments. Harmon's current agent has admitted that the former Hawk star took the money. Yet aside from the burning question of what Iowa football Coach Hayden Fry knew and when he knew it, I hope the committee might find it within its scope to consider the following:

Why is a computer science major allowed to use his skills to earn money during his school years? Why is he allowed to make career contacts and commitments? Why is he entitled to provide for his future, his family? Doesn't the university own him?

How about a successful researcher recruited to teach at the UI? Why is he permitted to hire out as a private consultant? Why is there no cap on the amount of grant money he may bring in or the amount of time devoted to making it? Doesn't the university own him?

Why CAN A COACH charge $1,000 per speech in the off-season, or get paid to take a Caribbean cruise? Why can he negotiate in public with another school for another job, even though he's under contract here for another seven years? Doesn't the university own him?

Why aren't all students and faculty members subject to random and mandatory urinalysis and polygraph tests to prove their academic honesty? Don't they belong to the university, too?

The truth is that all such restrictions and tests subvert the individual freedoms that our university and our country supposedly stand for. But the NCAA says that if you're a major college athlete, you no longer own your skills, let alone your privacy. And the university will gladly make money from your skills and then piously boot you if you try any profit-sharing.

Let's be honest: We brought Ronnie Harmon here to play ball and he earned this university millions of dollars in real cash. That's no exaggeration, either. Think about ticket prices, TV contracts and bowl checks. Millions. The $54,000 he allegedly accepted is a fraction of what he was worth to this school.

So let the committee investigate and let them report to UI President James O. Freedman that the player may have been dirty, but the program is "clean." As if Ronnie Harmon didn't keep his bargain with the UI. As if being a less-muddy pig in the sty of big-time sports programs is reason for pride.

WE ASKED HARMON to risk disabling injury every week, to lose the chance at ever making a clean dollar at football. We made sure he stayed eligible, fed him special food and saw that he received the right medical care. This was his pay: tuition, room and board, care and feeding.

It was an offer he couldn't refuse, not if he wanted a chance to play pro ball.

Who cares if he made some money? Where are the committees to protect brilliant young athletes like Ronnie Harmon from the greed of the college sports machine? What did Ronnie Harmon get from the NCAA and the UI in return for the money he generated? Urine tests. Game tickets. An investigation.

Will the committee investigate the average lifetime earnings of a pro running back? How long does his career last, compared to the scientist's, the businessperson's and the football coach's?

Will the committee ask how much money the university would have given Ronnie Harmon if he had ruined his knee on the field at Kinnick Stadium?

Not one cent. We wouldn't even have bothered to appoint a committee to sanctify ourselves.

Scott Raab's column appears on the Viewpoints page every other Tuesday.

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to Dan McMillan's editorial March 9, "Threatening Conditions."

McMillan's claim that Iowa is in danger of losing its status as a "leader in ACT scores" and as "producer of the best teachers" if parents are allowed to teach their children as they see fit makes no sense. He makes several assumptions that he cannot prove. First, he assumes that children do poorly in Christian schools. He also assumes that a certified teacher is more competent and better qualified than a non-certified teacher.

I would like to make a direct challenge to McMillan. Prove to me that: children in public schools perform better than children in private, Christian schools, and that certified teachers are more competent and better qualified than non-certified teachers.

My wife's grandmother taught in a one-room school in Iowa with only a high school diploma, and, quite frankly, I would rather have her teach my children than any certified teacher from this over-rated Mecca of Education, the UI.

I challenge McMillan, or anyone else, using any test or study, to prove that public education is better than Christian training and I will pay that person or party $1,000.

If more education is better and makes a person smarter, then I'll bet I'm smarter than you. If you were educated in Iowa perhaps you didn't have a very good education or you would be familiar with the United States Constitution and the Bill of Rights which gives parents the right to train their children the way they believe.

editorial "Threatening conditions" (the DI, March 9).

According to McMillan, the state of Iowa is on the verge of becoming an educational desert if "certain religious zealots have their way."

These zealots who are supposedly running amok in our state are trying to capture the educational process and force everyone's children to settle for a less than adequate education. . . .

If all this is true, then Iowa certainly will not remain a place to marry and raise kids. So why bother dating because there is no hope? Unless, of course, these people are not the threat that the media is making them out to be.

These Christian parents are in an uproar because what is theirs is being stolen from them. The Constitution — remember the Constitution? — gives some allusion to the freedom of religion. These individuals want to retain what is theirs: the right to follow their God as their conscience dictates. . . .

More money needed

To the Editor:

We have seen several articles recently on the commendable resolution by the regents and the UI to encourage recruitment and support for minorities at the UI. I applaud the resolution, but seriously question its validity.

Many people may be unaware of the existence of the African-American World Studies program here at the UI. Our faculty are mostly Afro-Americans who have been dedicated for several years to providing students of all races and nationalities with insights to the unique perspectives of Afro-American culture, literature, society and history. Our faculty is a small but dynamic group of highly qualified individuals whose dedication to teaching and creativity are an established matter of record.

However, recent budget cuts in the College of Liberal Arts have removed the merit staff support for these faculty members, creating an environment that may well make it impossible for those faculty members to remain at Iowa. Without a secretary, it will be difficult for this academic program to function at all, much less grow to meet the changing needs of the supposed influx of minorities encouraged by the recent decisions of the regents.

I find it less than believable that the regents are serious about encouraging minorities here at the UI. This budget cut is being pursued in the only black academic unit on campus. It is time for the regents and the UI to stop the public relations rhetoric and put their money where their mouths are. It is time for the people to demand that the black faculty on this campus receive the staff support necessary to continue the work that has already been established as a part of the College of Liberal Arts.

UI family housing applicants face long wait, short notice

By Tinu Shopeju
Special to The Daily Iowan

UI students with families of their own are finding it difficult to get placed in an apartment in the family housing units.

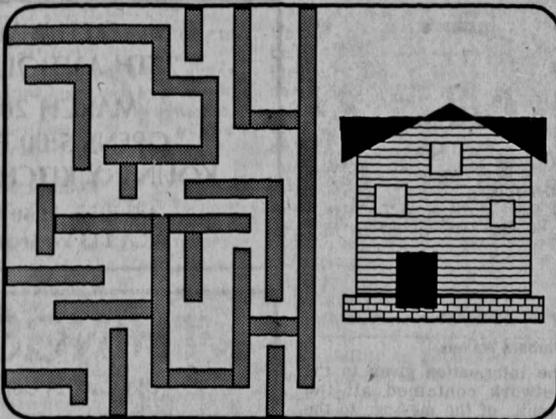

Casey, manager of family housing, said there are usually as many as 400 families requesting housing in the units at different times throughout the year. Most applicants are on a waiting list for nine to 12 months, unless they extend that time by requesting a specific unit preference.

There is also an "as soon as possible" list for people with families, who are already enrolled at the UI. These people are contacted in the event of an emergency opening, and must be willing to sign a lease within two weeks, she said.

CASEY SAID HER office recognizes the impracticality of families on the ASAP list to deal with two leases at the same time, and advises students to make alternative arrangements until they can be placed in the family housing units.

"Once landlords get students to move in, they don't let go easily on leases," Casey said.

UI senior Mark Feeney said getting into family housing would save him about $200 over his current rent. However, Feeney said he is worried that there won't be an opening in August when his current lease expires.

The Daily Iowan/Jeffrey Sedam

This story is part of a five-part series examining housing.

"If we don't get in by August, I will have to sign another one-year lease or find alternative housing," he said. "I have to find what I can, when I can."

Feeney said it would be easier if the housing office could give applicants more than one month's notice before they move in.

"THERE'S NO WAY one can move in without having to sublet or at least pay a month's rent in lieu of notice."

he said.

Joseph Babatunde, a UI graduate student, has been on the waiting list since August. He said he was on the ASAP list for a while, but had his name removed when he realized that if he could not move in within two weeks of notice, he would lose his position on the list altogether.

"It's impossible for me to move in two weeks without foregoing a month's rent, and I wanted to avoid that," he said.

Babatunde also said he would be in a bind if he does not get a family housing apartment by June.

"I will have to sign another lease and start the whole process all over again," he said.

Renters' collective rebounds from past financial difficulties

By Terri Bullock
Freelance Writer

If you want something done right, do it yourself, as the saying goes.

Within the past year, several River City Housing Collective residents took it upon themselves to rebuild the collective's financial shambles. After coming within two months of bankruptcy last fall, new RCHC officers say the collective is stable and growing.

"For the first time in our history, we are paying for ourselves," David Hughes, financial manager and resident, said about the RCHC budget.

RCHC is an organization that attempts to beat commercial rent rates in Iowa City by owning and collectively maintaining its properties through the efforts of its tenants. Rent, including utilities and food, averages $180 a month, according to RCHC statistics. Residents share housework, cooking, maintenance and organizational responsibilities. A representative from each of the collective's five houses and a set of resident officers create guidelines and make business decisions.

WHEN HUGHES and RCHC President Eric Pauls, along with five other people experienced in collective living, moved into RCHC this past summer, only about half the rooms were occupied.

"We were bringing in only half the income for the same amount of expenses," Hughes said.

In lieu of rent, Hughes became the financial manager last September. At about the same time, a balloon payment, for which RCHC was not prepared, was coming due.

A balloon agreement with a bank allows a purchaser to pay only the interest on a loan until a prearranged time at which the principal is due.

This story is part of a five-part series examining housing.

"Records had not been properly kept," Pauls said. "We didn't realize the balloon payment was due."

INITIALLY, another bank agreed to loan RCHC 75 percent of the amount due if the collective could supply the remaining 25 percent, Hughes said. With the help of collectives at three other universities, RCHC was able to come up with their portion. However, Hughes said the bank reneged on the deal, and RCHC was not able to hang on to the property.

"We blew $15,000 in equity," he said, explaining that the bank's refusal was based on the collective's negative cash flow and a bad rent collection record.

In the past six months, Hughes has been working to collect $7,500 in back rent from tenants. Although some debtors had to be taken to court, he said they have managed to regain all but $100.

Around $60,000 in rent is collected each year, and Hughes said about 60 percent of this income is spent on mortgages.

RCHC OWNS TWO houses and rents three houses from the UI. Eventually, RCHC will relinquish the three houses to the UI on a "phased-return" plan, Pauls said.

RCHC presently has nearly $200,000 in total assets, which, Hughes said, is carefully budgeted out over the coming years for projected maintenance costs.

Hundreds answer IBP recall

DAKOTA CITY, Neb. (UPI) — Officials said they were pleased with what they said were "hundreds" of former workers who showed up for orientation Monday in preparation for today's reopening at the meatpacker's strike-bound beef plant.

The United Food and Commercial Workers Local 222 in Sioux City, Iowa, voted to strike the meatpacker Sunday after rejecting a proposed wage cut and four-year salary freeze.

Iowa Beef Producers Inc. invited the 2,800 workers who have been locked out since December to return to work and company spokesman Gary Mikelson said hundreds took advantage of that offer Monday by showing up at company meetings.

The flagship plant resumes production today and on Wednesday IBP says it will start interviewing new replacement workers.

IBP OFFICIALS insisted their actions were not an attempt to replace members of United Food and Commercial Workers Local 222 who voted Sunday to strike the company.

We're hiring permanent workers. Even if (union workers) had decided to come back to work, we would have had to hire permanent workers," Mikelson said.

He added the company needs to hire new workers because a number of union employees have found other jobs since they rejected the company's initial contract offer and the lockout began Dec. 14.

The Local 222 strike began Sunday when the union turned down a new IBP proposal that would have allowed the workers to return to work under a pact cutting wages 45 cents to 60 cents an hour and imposing a four-year pay freeze.

Police team investigates train bombing

MADRAS, India — A special police team Monday investigated whether Sri Lankan Tamil separatists planted the bomb that sent a passenger train hurtling off a bridge in southern India, killing 24 people and injuring 254.

There were no claims of responsibility for the bombing, but leaflets found at the site called for India to recognize Eelam, the independent Tamil nation for which guerrillas have been fighting in northern and eastern Sri Lanka.

Police said they set up a special team to investigate the blast.

India last month suspended its mediation in the Tamil separatist conflict until Sri Lanka ended its offensive in the island nation's northern Jaffna province.

A spokesman for the Liberation Tigers for Tamil Eelam, the largest Tamil group, denied his organization bombed the train.

Former Illinois governor Shapiro dies

KANKAKEE, Ill. — Sam Shapiro, the affable politician known as "Smilin' Sam" who served as Illinois governor for part of 1968, died Monday, apparently of natural causes. He was 79.

Kankakee County Coroner James Orrison's preliminary report indicated Shapiro died of natural causes.

Shapiro was elected to the state House of Representatives in 1946 and served for 14 years. He was elected lieutenant governor in 1960 and again in 1964 and rose to the governorship in May 1968, succeeding Otto Kerner, who resigned to accept a federal judgeship.

Shapiro was known best for his work in the field of mental health and was a principal sponsor of the Illinois Mental Health Code. The Shapiro Mental Health Center in Kankakee is named for him.

Thatcher signs controversial aid pact

LONDON — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher signed an aid and trade agreement worth $75 million Monday with Kenyan President Daniel Arap Moi.

Moi arrived in London on Sunday after a visit to the United States that was described by The Times as a "diplomatic disaster" following pressure over allegations of human rights abuses in Kenya by the monitoring group Amnesty International.

"Throughout the week he came under attack from members of Congress and the press, and was even given a forthright warning by President Ronald Reagan about maintaining high standards on human rights," The Times said Monday.

But a Foreign Office spokesman said Britain avoided "controversy" during Moi's daylong visit.

"The ($75 million) grant will be used for development projects in Kenya," he said.

Omaha tribe angry over land dispute

OMAHA — A possible confrontation looms March 23 between private land investors and members of the Omaha Indian Tribe in a dispute over the ownership of farmland along the Missouri River northwest of Omaha, Iowa, an attorney for one of the investors said.

Tribal officials testified at a recent federal court hearing that they would arrest, handcuff and jail representatives of the investors if they attempted to enter the land.

The tribe has its own law enforcement and court system. Omaha attorney Thomas Burke said representatives of the investors would risk arrest and jailing by going onto the land March 23.

Tribal Chairman Doran Morris Sr. said from the tribe's reservation at Macy that Burke knows his client and the others are not supposed to step onto the land while court action is pending.

Regan will tell 'his side of the story'

WASHINGTON — Former chief of staff Donald Regan plans to write a book about his years in the White House and as treasury secretary, his agent said Monday.

Contacted in Los Angeles, agent Norman Brokaw of the William Morris Agency said he is handling contracts with Regan and former White House spokesman Larry Speakes for books and speeches.

As for Regan, Brokaw said: "I think he will be telling his side of the story."

Regan departed the top staff job on a sour note after first lady Nancy Reagan and most of President Ronald Reagan's closest political associates urged the president to part company with Regan.

Speakes, who served as presidential spokesman for six years, is now a public relations executive with Merrill Lynch investment firm.

Walters served as arms deal courier

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Television correspondent Barbara Walters relayed secret messages from an Iranian arms merchant to President Ronald Reagan in violation of network policy, ABC News said Monday.

The ABC statement followed a report in Monday's Wall Street Journal that Walters agreed to act as a messenger for arms merchant Manucher Ghorbanifar after her well-publicized interview last December with Ghorbanifar and Saudi businessman Adnan Khashoggi.

Ghorbanifar and Khashoggi have emerged as central figures in the covert White House operation to sell arms to Iran in exchange for the release of American hostages held in Lebanon.

"After the interviews, Mr. Ghorbanifar asked to speak with Ms. Walters again and asked that she send his views to the president," network spokesman Tom Goodman said.

"BELIEVING THAT her information could be of assistance to the remaining hostages (held in Lebanon), and before informing her management, Ms. Walters did that and also gave her information to the appropriate editors" at the network, he said.

He said the network's policy "expressly limits journalists cooperating with government agencies unless threats to human life are involved. Ms. Walters believed that to be the case."

"The management of ABC News discussed this matter with Ms. Walters who understands that the transmission of her information to the president was in violation of a literal interpretation of news policy," he said.

An ABC spokeswoman said

Barbara Walters

the information given to the network contained all the details of the message to the president and Walters would not be punished for her action.

WHITE HOUSE spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said two messages "with no address and no signature" were passed to Reagan in December 1986 and January 1987 and the president turned them over to the White House counsel.

Walters, who has a multimillion-dollar contract with the network, transmitted information from Ghorbanifar to Reagan on U.S. arms sales to Iran, including allegations about payments made to Iranian officials, the Journal said.

The television journalist said she did not broadcast Ghorbanifar's allegations, and she "felt terrible" being an intermediary for Ghorbanifar but she thought the information needed to be relayed.

"So, I made sure it was delivered," the Journal quoted Ms. Walters as saying. "It is very unimportant whether I delivered it or somebody else did."

Goetz fears life term, wants to plea bargain

NEW YORK (UPI) — Subway gunman Bernhard Goetz said Monday he is increasingly worried about a conviction in his upcoming attempted murder trial and wants to plead guilty to misdemeanors and "spend a year in jail" but prosecutors refuse to bargain.

A disillusioned Goetz said during three months of preliminary jury screening he has become more and more worried about a possible life prison term for attempted murder and assault charges stemming from a shooting incident on a Manhattan subway Dec. 22, 1984.

"Rather than go to trial, I would plead guilty to any number of misdemeanors and spend a year in jail, but the D.A. has stated publicly and privately I must plead guilty to attempted murder," he said in an interview with United Press International.

ASSISTANT DISTRICT Attorney Gregory Waples and the subway gunman's attorney, Mark Baker, declined comment.

Goetz, 39, shot and seriously wounded four youths on the subway train after at least one of them asked him for $5.

The thin, bespectacled electronics specialist claims he shot the teenagers in self-defense because he was afraid they would mug him. All four victims have arrest records.

After two grand juries considered the case, Goetz was charged with attempted murder, assault and illegal weapons possession.

Final jury selection in Goetz's trial is to begin March 23.

"I've lost a tremendous amount of respect for the public (during jury selection). I've heard a lot of public attitudes.

"I can't understand why New York would get so bent out of shape when violence is inflicted on criminals when New York has demonstrated countless thousands of times that it couldn't care less when violence is inflicted on the public. They don't care. That's the bottom line," Goetz said.

Illegal aliens face fee for citizenship

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Illegal aliens will be charged a $185 fee to apply for legal status beginning May 5 and those who are unable to pay or are on public assistance will not be eligible to become U.S. citizens, Immigration Commissioner Alan Nelson said Monday.

Nelson, in a news conference to announce the rules, defended the Immigration and Naturalization Service against criticism the new law is too complicated and is causing mass firings of Hispanic and other foreign-born workers.

"We have not seen any evidence of that whatsoever," he said. The INS has held hundreds of meetings nationwide with church groups, labor organizations and other groups trying to help undocumented workers, Nelson said.

"An employer, if they in fact are refusing to hire an illegal alien, are acting quite properly," he said. "If they are firing an illegal alien, again they are acting properly, although we advise them to be cautious because those people might qualify for legalization."

HE ANNOUNCED the INS will charge $185 for each adult and $50 for each child under 18 who wants to become a U.S. citizen but will cap the application cost at $420 per family. However, the total cost could be more if required doctor certification and legal fees are added.

Asked what would happen to those who want to apply but cannot pay, Nelson said, "Basically, then they're not going to be qualified."

Under the law, illegal aliens seeking legal status cannot be on public assistance, described as "a public charge."

"A PERSON who can't pay $185, they might well be in a public charge mode," Nelson said, defending the fee as reasonable and the same amount required of those who enter the United States legally and seek permanent status.

"In most cases, many of these illegal aliens will have already paid thousands of dollars to an alien smuggler to get in here, they might well have paid attorneys substantial fees, so this fee is certainly reasonable," he said.

The fees are part of the nation's new amnesty program that was established by the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, signed by President Ronald Reagan on Nov. 6, that prohibits employers from hiring illegal aliens.

The proposed rules will be subject to public comment for 30 days following publication.

Under the program, illegal aliens can begin applying for legal status, or amnesty, in about seven weeks — beginning May 5 — and may continue applying through May 4, 1988, at any of 100 special offices to be established around the country and staffed by 2,000 additional immigration personnel.

Mexican reveals theft of '59 Soviet satellite

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI)—The United States, lagging behind the Soviet Union in the early days of the space race, obtained valuable information from the 1959 theft of a Soviet satellite by an elite Mexican intelligence unit, a newspaper said today.

Eduardo Diaz Silveti, who is now living in Texas, told the Austin American-Statesman he pulled off the secret hijacking in Mexico City while the Soviet satellite was on a world tour.

The satellite was reportedly the backup for Luna 3, the first satellite to photograph the far side of the moon, scientists say.

Silveti, 58, who has remained silent about the incident for 28 years, said the theft was not detected by the Soviets for years and was not reported.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT and NASA officials said they have no knowledge of the incident, which Silveti said he staged in December 1959. Mexican government officials also denied knowledge of the theft, the newspaper said.

The Central Intelligence Agency had no immediate comment.

But Jim Oberg, an engineer, author and expert on the Soviet space program, said he has heard of some aspects of the hijacking and thinks the information obtained was valuable to American officials.

Silveti said he arranged for the satellite to be hijacked and made available to CIA and military intelligence officials who had flown to Mexico City for the operation.

He said he finally went public with the secret because "it is time the people of the United States and Mexico realize the boost the American space program got from this hijacking."

OBERG SAID he did not know Silveti but said he had knowledge about specific aspects of an operation similar to the one in Mexico City. Oberg said it was likely the satellite would have yielded much valuable information, since so little was known about the Soviet space program.

Hostage's execution 'unlikely'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A French hostage faced a death sentence deadline Monday, but a Shiite Moslem leader said the captors of Jean-Louis Normandin are "unlikely to execute him." A Lebanese terrorist jailed in France pleaded for the hostage's life.

Normandin's fate remained uncertain as the second deadline in three days passed with no word from his captors, the pro-Iranian Revolutionary Justice Organization. The group threatened to kill him over French policy in the Middle East.

The Revolutionary Justice Organization allowed its first deadline to pass Saturday but then reset it for Monday, saying Normandin would be tried by a "revolutionary tribunal" and "executed." Normandin has been held for a year.

In Paris, former Prime Minister Michel Debre said France should sever relations with Iran if the militants kill Normandin, 34.

QUOTING AN unidentified Western diplomat, the independent An Nahar newspaper said the killing of Normandin would break the strategic alliance between Iran and Syria.

Syria is the staunchest Arab ally of Iran in its seven-year-old war against Iraq.

The French Foreign Ministry said it was in contact with parties throughout the Middle East to save Normandin's life, and the hostage's parents pleaded for his life.

Anis Naccache, serving a life sentence in Paris for the attempted assassination in July 1980 of the shah of Iran's last prime minister, Shapour Bakhtiar, called on the extremists to spare Normandin.

"In the name of our common struggle, spare the life of the innocent Normandin," said Naccache, 33, one of the three Middle Eastern convicts whose release from French jails was demanded by authors of a series of terrorist bombings in Paris this past year.

SHEIK MOHAMMAD Mehdi Shamseddine, vice president of the Higher Shiite Council, told Beirut's pro-Syrian newspaper As-Shark that he doubted the kidnappers would kill the technician for the French Antenne-2 network.

"I can't say that I have been promised but I can deduce from the efforts which have been exerted by us and others that his safety is more likely," he said.

The moderate Shiite clergyman said that he exerted "thorough and tiring" efforts to guarantee Normandin's safety.

The second death threat Saturday by the pro-Iranian group triggered an appeal for Normandin's life by another Shiite leader, Sheikh Mohammad Hussein Fadlallah, spiritual chief of Hezbollah, Arabic for Party of God.

FADLALLAH, LEBANON'S most influential Iranian-backed Shiite extremist leader, said, "The attitude of a president of a state or a country cannot be countered by executing a kidnap victim."

In a message of thanks, Normandin's parents said, "Thank you Sheikh Fadlallah. May the blood be spared and stop flowing and peace return at last to Lebanon."

Twenty-four foreigners — including eight Americans and six Frenchmen — are missing and feared held hostage in Lebanon by various Moslem extremist groups. One, Associated Press reporter Terry Anderson, passed his second year in captivity Monday.

Massive explosion destroys linen mill

BEIJING (UPI) — A massive explosion ripped through a linen mill in the northeastern city of Harbin, killing 47 workers and injuring 179, the official Xinhua News Agency said Monday.

A spokesman for the Heilongjiang Provincial Foreign Affairs Office earlier confirmed a report in the official China Legal News newspaper that the blast occurred Sunday, when 470 workers were on duty at the Harbin Linen Textile Mill.

Xinhua said 47 people were killed in the explosion and 179 were injured, many of them suffering burns.

The explosion occurred in the linen mill's carding, drawing and spinning workshops, the news agency said. Four workshops were destroyed by the blast, China Legal News reported.

An accumulation of flax dust may have set off the explosion, Xinhua said. Dense concentrations of dust have been known to spontaneously combust under very dry conditions.

XINHUA SAID more than 1,000 rescue workers, including police and People's Liberation Army soldiers, rushed to the mill following the blast. Firefighters took more than three hours to extinguish a blaze ignited by the explosion, the news agency said.

The injured were taken to more than 10 local hospitals and three burn specialists were sent to the city from the nearby Daqing oil field, China Legal News said.

Attitude guides Tigers in Final Four search

United Press International

The way Louisiana State has played in the NCAA Tournament with its carefree attitude, maybe DePaul should be worried.

"If we lose, it's not the end of the world," Tigers guard Anthony Wilson said. "We're just enjoying it. That's what college basketball is all about. We've got to continue to take one game at a time. That's the key."

Louisiana State got 21 points from Wilson and 18 from Darryl Joe on Sunday to upset Temple 72-62 in the second round of the Midwest Regional and advance to the regional semifinals at Cincinnati,

NCAA Roundup

where the Tigers will play No. 5 DePaul.

"We like going in there as the underdog," Wilson, a 6-foot-5 sharpshooter from Plain Dealing, La., said. "I just go out and say, 'Hey, we've had a great year. I go out and give 100 percent."

"I DON'T WORRY about it. If it's my last game, it's my last game. You know how they say all good things must come to an end."

The tournament nearly ended for Louisiana State Sunday afternoon at Rosemont, Ill., when the Tigers let a 13-point lead in the second half slip away as the Owls narrowed the gap to 61-58 with less than three minutes left.

That's where Joe, a 6-1 junior college transfer from Dallas, Texas, made his mark. Joe's running three-pointer with 2:25 to go gave Louisiana State some breathing room at 64-58, and the Tigers held on.

Joe, who averages 9.0 points per game and leads the team in steals with 87, said it's a great feeling to be out of the junior college ranks and playing in the NCAA Tournament.

"I DIDN'T GET NO publicity coming out of junior college, but I feel like I'm the best defensive guard in the country," Joe said Monday. "I'm not trying to prove anything. It's just that the ball's falling. I feel great."

"We really think we can beat DePaul," he said. "We match up well with them. It doesn't really matter who we play."

Wilson, whose outside shots have kept the Tigers clawing towards the top, said Louisiana State must contain the Blue Demons' Dallas Comegys and Rod Strickland. Comegys and Strickland scored 15 and 16 points, respectively, in DePaul's 83-75 victory over St. John's.

DePaul's school-record 28th victory of the season marked its fourth NCAA triumph in five tries in the past two years. The Blue Demons are two wins away from a trip to the Final Four and a chance at their first national championship.

"I guess, especially after seeing us come from behind to win, that maybe we are a team of destiny," DePaul Coach Joey Meyer said. "At least, that's what I want the players to believe. You can't look away from what confidence in your ability has to do with it."

IN OTHER MATCHUPS in the Midwest region, Duke, which beat Xavier 65-60, will face Indiana, which belted Auburn 107-90.

In the East, North Carolina will play Notre Dame Thursday at East Rutherford, N.J. The Tar Heels defeated Michigan 109-97 and the Crimson Tide belted New Orleans, 101-76. Florida will face Syracuse. The Gators stopped Purdue 85-66 and the Orange-men beat Western Kentucky 104-86.

In the West Region, UNLV defeated Kansas State, 80-61 to advance to its regional matchup at Seattle against Wyoming, which topped UCLA, 78-68. Oklahoma held off Pittsburgh 96-93 and Iowa topped Texas-El Paso, 84-82, to set up the other regional semifinal.

Dawson adjusts to Cubs' uniform

By Brad Zimaneck
Sports Editor

MESA, Ariz. — Right fielder Andre Dawson's first week of spring training with the Chicago Cubs had been going quite well, until Saturday at HoHoKam Park.

While standing on the third base line during a morning workout, Dawson was hit on the leg by a line drive off the bat of left-handed Cubs' reserve catcher Mike Martin.

The former Montreal Expos All-Star hobbled around and before leaving for the club house and treatment yelled back at Martin. "I thought you told me you were going to pull the ball."

Cubs pitcher Steve Trout laughed and said, "Tell your agent about this one."

Dawson just nodded.

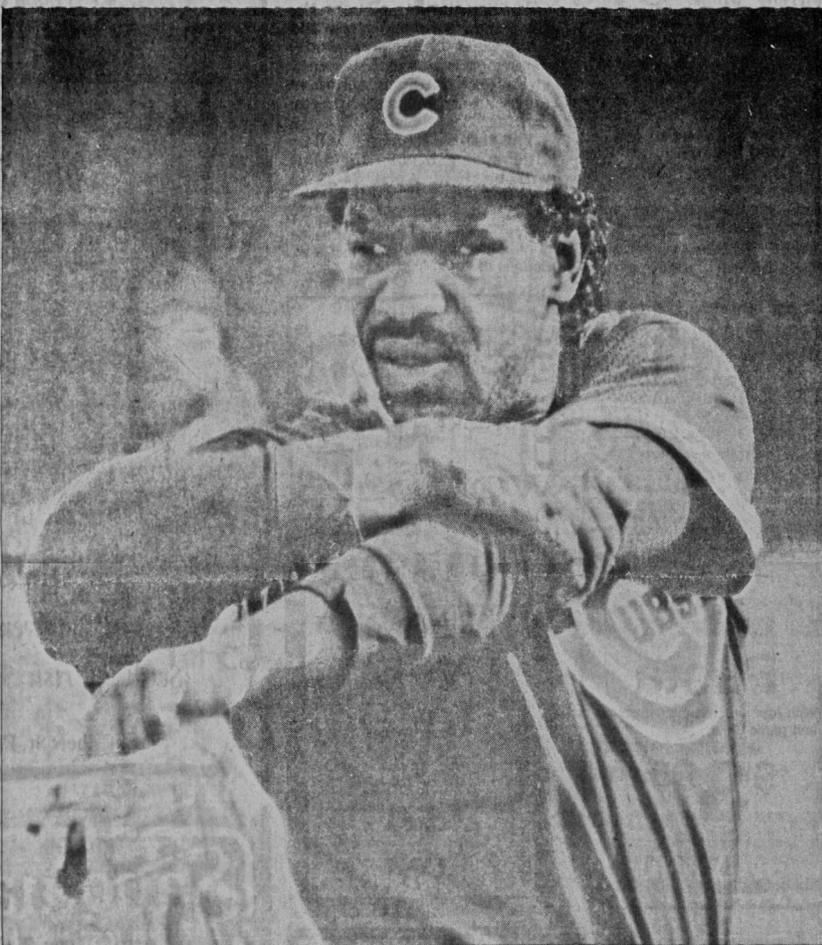

THE 11-YEAR veteran, who signed a free agent contract with Chicago March 10, received a hefty pay cut after he and his agent agreed to sign a blank contract with his 1987 salary up to the discretion of General Manager Dallas Green.

Green decided on a reported figure of $500,000, with incentive clauses that could raise that amount to $650,000. In 1986 Dawson received $1 million a year.

Dawson, though disappointed, doesn't hold a grudge. He just wants to play baseball for the Cubs, especially on the grass at Wrigley Field.

"I wanted to stay in the National League Eastern Division, but the main thing was to get off the Astro turf," Dawson said. "I still feel these guys have a lot of talent over here and they're capable of winning it, and with the addition of a player or two, they could be right back where they were a couple of years ago."

IS DAWSON THE player needed to bring the Cubs back to the form that won the National League East title in 1984?

New Cub acquisition, Andre Dawson, stretches during the team's workout at its spring training site in Mesa, Ariz. The outfielder signed with Chicago after 11 years with the Montreal Expos.

"I don't profess to be a savior or anything," Chicago outfielder Andre Dawson says about his role in the Cubs' drive for a 1987 divisional title.

"It's hard to say what he is going to mean to this club," Chicago Manager Gene Michael said. "I think he'll mean a lot, especially if we're a contender. He's a good player and he's going to be a good addition to the ball club. He solves a problem for us and he will help us be better than we were last year."

"He solidifies our outfield and that was a problem for us," Cubs pitcher Dennis Eckersley said. "He'll turn in 25 to 30 home runs. It has to help us. Andre is just a hell of a player."

Dawson still tries to keep his arrival into Cub lore in perspective.

"I DON'T PROFESS to be a savior or anything," Dawson said. "I know that there's a lot of good talent here if guys can get back on track and play the way they did two or three years ago and they're right back into the thick of things. My role is to be a veteran and provide some punch in the middle of the line-up."

He has proven he can supply punch. In 1983, Dawson batted .299 with 32 home runs and 113 RBIs. Over the last 10 years (excluding the 1976 season where he appeared in only 24 games) Dawson has averaged more than 20 home runs and 70 RBIs.

Dawson, who turns 33 on July 7, said he believes some of the best years of his career are ahead, but retirement is also not that far in the future.

"Probably at the most four more years," Dawson said while taping his right knee to return to the field. "I still have a few of my better years ahead of me. In my situation if I just play 150 games everything will take care of itself."

Dawson saw his first action in a Chicago uniform Saturday versus the San Francisco Giants. In a pinch hitting role, Dawson lined a single. Maybe it's a sign for the 1987 season.

Davis: Wins earned with confidence

By Steve Williams
Assistant Sports Editor

The Iowa Hawkeyes have survived the first two rounds of the West Regional. They have avoided the upset and have done what they were supposed to do.

Now, the upset possibilities are over and Coach Tom Davis knows that if his team is to advance beyond the round of 16, they will have to earn it.

At the same time, however, Davis said he may have seen the best defensive unit the Hawkeyes will face in Texas-El Paso Coach Clem Haskins' Miners.

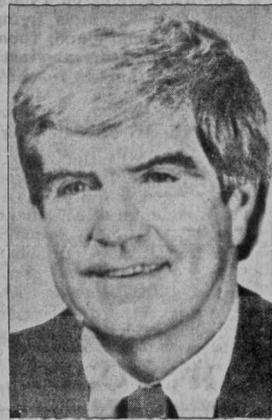

"Many people feel UTEP is one of the best defensive teams in the country, but because they are in the Western Athletic Conference, they don't get the exposure they deserve," Davis said. "But we will have to have more poise against Oklahoma because they can hurt you in so many ways."

THE HAWKEYES WILL be in search of their 30th win Friday, something no Iowa team has ever come close to doing, and while that may tend to put more pressure on a fairly young squad, Davis said the worst may already be behind his team.

"I think we will have much more confidence going into this game with Oklahoma," Davis said. "We were worried a little about our first game with Santa Clara because they were such a low seed. All the pressure was on us to win."

"Some of the players mentioned that beating Santa Clara was a particularly big win because they had never won an NCAA tournament game before," Davis added, "and hopefully that helped them psychologically."

Going into this season, Davis' major concerns were rebounding and who would take over the reigns at point guard. Both of those worries have been erased as the Hawkeyes are currently one of the best rebounding teams in the nation and have one of the better point guards in the country in B.J. Armstrong.

"B.J. has had a terrific year for a sophomore," Davis said. "He's far from perfect but to do what he has done in his first starting year at Iowa is just fantastic, and it has solidified our team."

Davis also praised the performance of Ed Horton, who has made his presence felt under the boards for the Hawkeyes all season. And while he may not be the best offensive threat Iowa has, the first-year coach was impressed with his intelligence on the court.

"Horton has a chance to be a great power forward," Davis said. "He has a good grasp of the game and seems to do his best work under pressure. He's also very tough to move underneath the basket."

Three of the best running teams in the nation will be assembled in Seattle for the West Regional finals, including Iowa, Oklahoma and Nevada Las Vegas.

The conclusion, according to Davis is that this could be the most exciting region of them all.

"Our game has a chance to be a truly great one," Davis said. "Both UNLV and Oklahoma can really move the ball up the court, and Wyoming can run when they have to."

McCray's last-second tip-in downs Chicago

United Press International

HOUSTON — Akeem Olajuwon scored 28 points and Rodney McCray added 22, including a tap-in with one second remaining, Monday night to lead the Houston Rockets to a 97-96 victory over the slumping Chicago Bulls.

Michael Jordan scored 44 points and his two free throws with five seconds remaining gave the Bulls a one-point lead. But McCray grabbed a missed shot by Allen Leavell and scored to send the Bulls to their fifth straight loss, including three in a row by one point.

Jordan recorded 11 first-quarter points and helped the Bulls to a 21-12 advantage with 3:44 remaining in the period. But the Rockets outscored Chicago 8-2 to cut the margin to 23-20 at the end of the quarter.

Robert Reid scored nine second-quarter points, including a three-point play with 7:37 left that gave the Rockets their first lead, 33-31. Jordan added eight points to keep Chicago close, but Olajuwon hit the first three-point shot of his career at the buzzer to give Houston a 47-43 halftime advantage.

Chicago outscored Houston 11-2 to open the second half and take a 54-49 lead. Olajuwon hit a hook shot with one second remaining to tie the score 69-69, despite Jordan's 15 points in the quarter.

Houston took an 82-76 lead with 7:55 remaining, but the Bulls battled back to take an 87-86 edge. McCray scored on a layup with 4:14 remaining, and Houston held the advantage until Jordan went to the line with five seconds to go.

Detroit 115, Indiana 95

PONTIAC, Mich. — Adrian Dantley scored a game-high 31 points and Vinnie Johnson contributed 25 Monday night, helping the Detroit Pistons extend their winning streak to seven games with a 115-95 triumph over the Indiana Pacers.

The victory was Detroit's 12th in its last 15 games and improved its record to 44-20, marking the first time in team history the Pistons were 24 games over .500. The game also marked the fifth straight time the Pistons have held their opponents under 100 points.

John Long topped Indiana, 31-34, with 17 points.

Dantley scored 12 points in the third quarter when Detroit began to pull away. Dantley capped a 10-4 run at the start of the third quarter as the Pistons stretched a nine-point lead into a 61-46 advantage.

Indiana responded with nine straight points and cut the margin to 61-55 on Herb Williams' turnaround jumper. Moments later, however, Dantley engineered a 16-1 blitz with six points to lead Detroit to an 81-60 cushion with 1:26 left in the third.

Bill Laimbeer added 19 points for Detroit.

Dantley had 13 first-quarter points as Detroit took an early 11-4 lead. Laimbeer scored on a layup to give Detroit a 23-13 edge. Detroit led by 12 on three occasions in the second period and settled for a 51-42 halftime advantage.

Former Iowa assistant named at Rice

HOUSTON (UPI) — Scott Thompson, who served as an assistant under Digger Phelps at Notre Dame and for Lute Olson at Iowa and Arizona, Monday was named head basketball coach at Rice University.

Thompson, 32, replaces Tommy Suiitts, who was forced to resign Jan. 30 midway through his sixth season. Greg Walcavich, an assistant under Suiitts the past four years, coached Rice in the final eight games and the team posted a 1-7 record.

Thompson, a native of Moline, Ill., spent the last seven seasons at Arizona. His first head coaching job involves a basketball program that has not had a winning season in 17 years.

"My big concern is building a solid foundation," Thompson said. "I'm not going to wave a magic wand and make the program competitive. It's going to take a lot of hard work. I don't want certain goals of so many games to win. I just want to build a solid foundation."

Rice finished 8-19 overall this season and 2-14 in the Southwest Conference for last place.

ESPN-NFL pact may help cable industry

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cable television experts say the industry will experience a growth in advertising revenues through ESPN's new agreement to carry 13 NFL games next season and avoid the financial losses suffered by the three major networks through a boom in subscriptions.

ESPN, which televises sports nearly 24 hours per day, will become the first cable network to televise NFL games next season. ESPN joined the three major networks — ABC, NBC and CBS — in the NFL's new $1.4 billion pact.

ESPN has the rights to four prime-time preseason games, eight regular-season Sunday night games and the Pro Bowl, the league's postseason All Star game. The eight Sunday games — five of which were formerly carried by ABC — will all come in the second half of the season.

Houston awaits Thon's return to camp

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (UPI) — Houston Astros officials Monday awaited word from shortstop Dickie Thon, who left camp unexpectedly for reasons apparently linked to lasting ill effects from a 1984 beaming.

Astros General Manager Dick Wagner said Sunday he and field manager Hal Lanier both have warned Thon the team cannot continue with such uncertainty and that Thon must make a decision about his future in baseball.

Thon walked out of the Astros' camp Saturday morning, and did not speak with club management over the weekend.

The Astros released a statement Sunday saying Thon's agent, Tom Reich, is trying to locate the frustrated shortstop. When found, Thon will be asked to return to Houston for an eye examination, the statement said.

Spinks arrested for drunken driving

WILMINGTON, Delaware (UPI) — Heavyweight contender Michael Spinks was arrested early Monday morning and charged with drunken driving following an accident near his Centerville residence.

New Castle County Police Lieutenant Fred Calhoun said Spinks was arrested about 4:30 a.m. near Alapocas Woods, north of Wilmington.

Iowa's sailing club set for Icebreaker

By Marc Bona
Staff Writer

The members of Iowa's sailing club, refreshed from their competition in the Rolsch Regatta in New Orleans, will stay in the Midwest to compete in the Notre Dame Icebreaker, March 28-29.

Clubs from at least six Big Ten schools will comprise most of the tournament's competition, according to Iowa Coach Bob Woodward.

"I think we're going to win," a confident Woodward said. "I think if we don't win it all we'll be right there at the top."

Iowa will be skippered by sophomore Tim Craven and junior Gunther Lubben, whose crew will be made up of freshmen Joey Grandanett and Tricia Combs along with senior Paul Goodman.

The winds at Notre Dame might tend to be in Iowa's favor, Woodward believes, saying the Hawkeyes are a "tough club" who like "shifty and squirrely" winds.

"Our slogan is 'No Wimps,'" Woodward said. "The rain and cold — other clubs don't like that kind of weather; our club really gets off on that."

Woodward said the regatta's favorites will probably be Wisconsin and Purdue, predicting, "I'm guessing that we'll be the top three."

Iowa's volleyball club competed in the Fort Dodge Tournament Saturday, coming away with fifth place overall.

Sportsclubs

while claiming the consolation title.

Offut Air Force Base from Omaha, Neb., took top honors in the field of eight clubs.

Iowa's semifinal consolation win over the Ames volleyball club, 15-6, 16-14, advanced the Hawkeyes to the consolation championship. The Hawkeyes then defeated Cycle Video volleyball club of Mason City, 15-9, 15-5.

"We just wiped them off the court," Iowa's Club Treasurer Bill Dorner said. "We led 11-1 at one point."

"I think we were capable of beating everyone there, but it was just a shame that we had to play while we were half asleep," Dorner added. Dorner said club members had to get up at 3:30 a.m. in order to arrive in time for their scheduled 8:30 a.m. match at the Fort Dodge YMCA.

As consolation winners the Hawkeyes received a red and white volleyball, a new model on the market which is being considered for legalization in tournament play, according to Dorner.

The club's next match will be after spring break. Regionals will be held April 24-25 in Cedar Falls.

Quickness may tell story of Iowa's fortunes

TUCSON, Ariz. — The Iowa basketball team almost got upset by Texas-El Paso in the second round of the NCAA tournament Sunday by something that cannot be taught or learned — quickness and lots of it.

For the 29-4 Hawkeyes to attain their goal of reaching the Final Four they must use their speed and rebounding ability to conquer quickness at least once and maybe twice, if the Hawkeyes defeat Oklahoma and have the opportunity to play Nevada-Las Vegas.

Brad Zimaneck

An example of quickness exhibited by the Sooners was evident when guard Ricky Grace made a move on Pittsburgh's Pat Cavanaugh on a fast break. I felt sorry for Cavanaugh. Not only did Grace score a layup, but the freshman Panther was so confused and twisted around that he almost fell down.

QUICKNESS HAS ITS advantages, and I could see a few Iowa players falling victim to that kind of speed. Jeff Moe, Kevin Gamble, Ed Horton and Al Lorenzen all come to mind.

I don't mean that these players are not capable of playing good defensive basketball, but Tim McCallister, Harvey Grant, Darryl Kennedy and Stacey King are something special around the basket.

The only question that remains is what Oklahoma team will make the trip to the Kingdome, the one that defeated some of the top teams in the nation (including No. 1 ranked Nevada-Las Vegas' only loss of the season) or the one that happened to lose to some sub-500 ball club in Ames. Iowa State I think it's called.

Sunday, Oklahoma looked like an explosive championship ball club.

THE SOONERS NOT only defeated Pittsburgh, 96-93, but they held their ground in an area where they were not supposed to — rebounds.

Pittsburgh has the second best rebounding average in the nation, behind the Hawkeyes, and Oklahoma tied the Panthers with 45 apiece.

"Well, we're a good offensive rebounding team. Our guys know if they get an offensive rebound they can shoot it right back up. Our guys don't care about defensive rebounds — that's the problem," Oklahoma Coach Billy Tubbs said.

What will this mean about Friday's game with the Hawkeyes?

"IF WE PLAY IOWA there will probably be 300 or 400 hundred points scored," Tubbs said. "There ain't anybody guarding each other and everybody is going to be throwing the ball the length of the floor and it's just going to be a wild game."

A wild game may have been to the Hawkeyes' advantage versus first round opponent Santa Clara, but it wasn't Sunday against the Miners and it certainly won't be against Oklahoma or Nevada-Las Vegas.

Wiener ballet enhanced by UI dancers

By B. Gordon
Staff Writer

THE UI Dance Department did itself proud last weekend, blending in seamlessly with a hand-picked set of professionals in Enclosed Time, a ballet by Nina Wiener. Unfortunately, through no fault of the students, the accomplishment seemed less than it might have been.

The problem was with the dance itself. The Enclosed Time project, sponsored by the Brooklyn Academy of Music's "Next Wave on Tour" fund, is sending Nina

Dance

Wiener and Dancers to various cities all over the country to incorporate local dancers in Wiener's piece. As an outreach for somewhat avant-garde art, the idea is original and exciting; but Enclosed Time is not of a high enough caliber to make the idea work well.

Wiener's choreographic ideology may contribute to the difficulties this viewer had with the overall effect of the piece.

IN THE HANCHER program, Wiener describes her work as "basically abstract; literal imagery is scarce. I give you, the audience, tiny narrative possibilities, allusions for the imagination to enrich."

These "tiny narrative possibilities," gestures which are tantalizingly dramatic (for instance, the clapping of hands together over the head, which was a movement motif throughout), were performed beautifully but coldly, without enough of a suggestion of human emotion or character. Long, writhing solos were danced without a hint of suffering, and eventually all the dances blended into an undistinguishable mass.

There were a few notable exceptions — a male solo danced to the sound of a jaw's-harp, and a male-female duet which sinuously depicted a failed relationship — but mostly the choreography was entirely unmemorable.

IT WAS HARD to come to this conclusion. The brilliantly evocative sets, the dramatic lighting, and the music were all eerie and compelling. Wiener claims to be working in the abstract expressionist painting tradition, and the look and feel of her ballet captures that inner sensation very well.

But in the end, the production does not add up to an experience of either emotional or intellectual stimulation, and therefore its aesthetic qualities seem sterile.

One recommendation for future performances is that the two intermissions be done away with. Enclosed Time is supposedly a triptych of three separate dances, but each succeeding section is shorter than the last. The constant interruption of the flow does not help the average audience member's understanding of the piece at all, and Wiener risks resentment when the second intermission is almost twice as long as the work it precedes.

Ailey troupe will perform in Hancher

By B. Gordon
Staff Writer

IF A Declaration of Independence from European artistic tradition was to be written today, Alvin Ailey's signature would be as prominent as John Hancock's.

The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, approaching its 30th explosive year, will be performing tonight and Wednesday night at 8 in Hancher Auditorium.

Two separate programs, totaling seven ballets from a repertory of almost 150 works, will be presented. Tonight's concert is titled, "In the Black Tradition," and features works that take their inspiration from black culture and portray the black experience.

Wednesday night will feature the ballet Revelations, the company's signature piece.

There will also be a presentation and discussion, "Traveling With a Family of 40," by Ailey company manager Donald Moss one hour before tonight's performance in the Hancher Greenroom.

Stephen Smith

Dance

THE AMERICAN Dance Theater was created, in Ailey's words, "to explore black culture." In its early years it drew on raw talent from the ghetto neighborhood where its school was located, Hell's Kitchen in

New York City, and refined that talent through the twin disciplines of formal ballet and strict Martha Graham modern dance technique.

Much of the present company has spent an internship in the school, including Stephen Smith, a young dancer who spoke with The Daily Iowan recently.

"The company is very young," Smith said. The all-black look of the past is gone, and now ethnic and caucasian dancers from all of the Americas are members of the troupe. "It's really nice, good, high-energy."

Smith is a former Junior Olympic gymnastics champion who injured himself in competition and found his way to Ailey's school. After a year of dance training, he was asked to join the company.

"IT'S A DREAM come true for me," he said. "I've been a whole, whole lot of places with this company. Gymnastics is just one more advantage."

"Technically, dance is much, much harder" than gymnastics, he continued. "A lot of gymnastics calls for strength in my arms. In dance I'm able to use a lot more of my body." The tremendous repertory of the troupe, as well, makes it "a lot more complicated mentally."

Smith can be seen tonight in "The Stack-Up," Talley Beatty's depiction of an urban street scene. He puts his gymnastics skills to good use, he said, doing flips across the stage at one point in the piece.

THIS ATHLETICISM is typical of Ailey's flamboyant, full-throttle choreographic style, which is adhered to even in the large section of the repertory not choreographed by Ailey himself. An evening with his American Dance Theater is literally a revival, and not just because it taps the rich black tradition of religious passion that makes the revivalist meeting what it is. Any performance with these soulful dancers guarantees quick toe-tapping and quicker heartbeats to even the sleepest viewer.

"It's happy, moving, spiritual, warm, loving, lyrical," said Smith. "A joyous, wonderful feeling to dance."
