Waldheim barred from U.S.; suspected as 'war criminal'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States branded Austrian President Kurt Waldheim a suspected war criminal Monday and barred him from entering the country for his alleged role in Nazi atrocities.

Austria, criticizing the decision as based on suspicion and not on proof, promptly recalled its ambassador to the United States, Thomas Klestil, for consultations.

And in Vienna, Austrian chancellor Franz Vranitzky said the decision is "a source of great dismay for myself and my country," and that U.S.-Austrian relations "must now be rebuilt."

Attorney General Edwin Meese, however, in deciding to bar Waldheim, accepted the recommendation of his Nazi-tracking unit made more than a year ago, and placed the former secretary general of the United Nations on a U.S. immigration watch list and denied him entrance to the country.

"THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE has determined that a prima facie case of excludability exists with respect to Kurt Waldheim as an individual, and his name is being placed today on the watch list," Justice Department spokesman Terry Eastland announced.

With the announcement, Waldheim joins an estimated 50,000 suspected World War II criminals on the U.S. watch list, the Justice Department said. He has no right to appeal the decision.

Before departing, Klestil met with President Ronald Reagan and "the president received him to reconfirm the friendly and good relations between the two countries and stated this decision on Waldheim was based on American law and the mandate of Congress," Walter Greinert, a spokesman for the Austrian Embassy, said.

WALDHEIM, WHO HELD the top U.N. post 1972-1982, has denied that he participated in any Nazi atrocities.

Until a year ago, Waldheim had maintained that he was discharged from the German army after being wounded on the Russian front in 1941.

A senior Justice Department official told reporters later: "There is more than an adequate basis to conclude that between 1942 and 1945, while serving as an officer in the Army of Nazi Germany (Wehrmacht), Kurt Waldheim ... assisted in the smooth operation of a Nazi military organization which committed numerous and direct acts of persecution against Allied nationals and civilians."

Jewish groups, including the World Jewish Congress in New York which led a yearlong crusade, hailed the U.S. action.

World Jewish Congress President Edgar Bronfman said, "Meese has acted in a courageous manner and has sent a clear message: Nazis are not welcome here."

Bond plan faces cut of $10 million

Classified research OK'd

By Shawn Plank
Staff Writer
and United Press International

The new bonding proposal for university building projects may be trimmed $10 million by the Iowa House of Representatives, but the cut will not affect funding for the proposed $25 million UI Laser Center, Rep. Jack Hatch, D-Des Moines, said Monday.

Hatch said a $64.6 million proposal will likely clear the House Appropriations Committee by the end of the week. The Senate last Thursday approved a $75.5 million bonding bill for university building projects.

Also Monday, the Iowa Senate passed a separate bill which would allow classified research at state universities after they have informed the public of proposed projects through notices and hearings.

THE BILL, SPONSORED by Sen. Rich Varn, D-Coralville, would require the state Board of Regents to notify a legislative oversight committee if it intends to allow such experiments at its institutions, and give the committee the power to temporarily block the experiments.

House Speaker Don Avenson, D-Oelwein, said the classified research prohibition in an earlier bonding bill vetoed by Gov. Terry Branstad could make it difficult to market the bonds.

Senate Majority Leader Bill Hutchins, D-Audubon, said the bill, approved 26-26, is a compromise that will assure passage of a bonding bill that would allow the UI to build a new laser center, while addressing concerns of lawmakers who do not want the facility to conduct research on President Ronald Reagan's Star Wars program.

Avenson said the Senate action should clear the way for both houses to finish work on a bonding bill that will win

Branstad's approval.

UI VICE PRESIDENT for Research Duane Spriestersbach, who emphasized the UI currently does no classified research, opposed efforts to bring such projects to the UI.

"I'm steadfastly against classified research," he said. "It is totally out of character with the openness of universities."

In addition to the UI's $25 million laser center, the bonding proposal will include $31.5 million for a molecular biology center at Iowa State and $3.5 million to remodel the University of Northern Iowa's Latham Hall, Avenson said.

He said the remaining $4.6 million is "mixable and matchable" to be used for three Iowa State projects — a home economics addition, meat irradiation center and veterinary medicine animal holding facility.

"Iowa State would be the big winner," he said.

Earlier this year, Branstad vetoed a $98.5 million bonding bill. That proposal funded the regents top 15 priorities, including its No. 1 concern, $5 million worth of fire safety improvements at all three schools.

Branstad said he would bond only for $25 million at the laser center and $37 million at the molecular biology facility. He also said he opposed the classified research ban because it would cripple efforts to draw Defense Department grants and contracts.

Avenson said lawmakers are nearing an agreement with Branstad on the new bonding plan because it would not cost much more than $60 million and exclude the Star Wars provision.

"It is not fair to say we have agreed. We do not have an agreement," he said. "But I think we have a pretty good fix on what the governor will accept and he has a good idea of what we will insist on."

UI committee juggles funds

By Scott Hauser
Staff Writer

The UI's two student body governing groups approved a near-$900,000 allocation budget Monday night, dealing with no increase in the UI mandatory fees budget by jockeying the amounts funded to UI groups.

Members of the UI Student Senate and Collegiate Associations Council debated for two and a half hours on whether budget cuts in the student activities fees available should be distributed evenly to all funded groups or only to the groups with revenue-generating possibilities.

The final motion was to put the brunt of budget difficulties on groups having other sources of income.

"I'm not happy with it," CAC President Mike Reck said of the final proposal. "But I think it's the only possible decision."

IN THE FINAL proposal, seven of the 11 funded groups receive an increase, three are cut, and one item — the UI Student Associations office budget — was split and merged with the senate's and the CAC's budgets.

A motion by CAC Executive

Associate Jim Vogl to distribute the cuts throughout the 11 budgeted groups was defeated.

"I don't like it, but what are you going to do when you get a zero increase and 200 student organizations knocking at your door?" UI Student Senate President Joe Hansen asked.

Hansen said the reason for the stringent budgeting is a 0 percent increase in the mandatory student fees budget approved last week by the state Board of Regents.

The allocation budget had to stay under the UI's approved budget which allocated $14.48 per student per semester for the 1987-88 academic year and $2.38 per student for the summer 1988 session, equaling last year.

THE $14.48 AND $2.38 fees are an earmarked part of tuition paid by students each semester. With an estimated 29,000 students enrolled in the 1987-88 academic year and 9,000 in the summer, the budget amounts to about $860,000.

UI Vice President for Finance Dorsey Ellis has said repeatedly the money from tuition increases not going to the fees budget will be used to

Iowa fireworks bill sparks concern

By Brian Olesen
Staff Writer

The possibility of liberalizing the state's fireworks law has lit a firestorm among local citizens' fuses.

John A. Nesbeth of Iowa City, chairman of Committee Against Fireworks in Iowa, said at a press conference Monday at the Iowa City Fire Department that the passage of the Open Fireworks Bill, currently in the Senate, could cause injury to 101 youths in 1989. CAFI, the first Iowa organization formed against fireworks, is based in the Iowa City-Coralville area.

"The Fourth of July at parks can be enjoyable with fireworks set off under supervision by firemen and other professionals — that's all we really need," Nesbeth said.

THE IOWA HOUSE approved the Open Fireworks Bill March 30, allowing the sale of small firecrackers and other small fireworks from Memorial Day through July 20.

The fireworks bill is currently eligible for debate on the Iowa

Senate floor because two members of the Senate Judiciary Committee reversed their votes after first rejecting the bill.

Sen. Wally Horn, D-Cedar Rapids, the bill's manager, has said the bill would allow an enterprise in Iowa. Current law ignores the large amounts of fireworks that are brought into Iowa from Missouri and other states where sales are legal, Horn said.

Gov. Terry Branstad has not yet indicated if he would sign the fireworks legislation into law.

"Gov. Branstad would have to look very closely at the bill and weigh the safety hazards with possible economic development," Branstad's press secretary, Dick Vohs, said.

BUT NESBETH SAID the fireworks bill is a "big rip-off" and it will result in costs to Iowa.

"The proposed Open Fireworks Bill is an open fire command," Nesbeth said. "I predict it will result in an annual average of fireworks victimization in Iowa of 178 injuries, 517 fires and $478,966 in property damage."

Nesbeth based his estimates on a similar fireworks law in Kansas.

An added concern is the conservation of hearing and eyesight is at issue, UI Professor in the Department of Preventive Medicine and Environmental Health Kenneth Mac-

Donald said. Legislators need to look at the reason for Iowa's Safe and Sane Class "C" Restricted Fireworks Law

Grassley reinstates grassroots TV show

U.S. Sen. Chuck Grassley, R-Iowa, will conduct five live statewide call-in television programs beginning next month to provide grassroots Iowans with a chance to have personal contact with him.

The first program will air at 6:30 p.m., Monday, May 4 on the Iowa Cable Network.

The show, entitled "Grassroots Forum," is designed to provide Iowans with an opportunity for personal contact with national leaders who impact the state, Grassley aide Allen Finch said.

The first half-hour show will feature a discussion about federal farm policy, the 1985 Farm Bill and agricultural export markets with Deputy Agriculture Secretary Peter Myers.

The show will originate from the Senate Studio in Washington, D.C. Viewers will have the opportunity to call 800-424-9047 — a toll-free number — to directly question Grassley or his in-studio guest.

Grassley ran the program on an experimental basis last year. Guests on his show included Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kansas, and other prominent senators.

Exchange program seeking host families

Host families are being sought for high school students from 15 foreign countries for the 1987-88 school year, Sharon Coppinger of the American Intercultural Student Exchange said.

Students aged 15-17 will come from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Belgium, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Spain, France, Italy, Ecuador, Australia and Japan and will stay in the U.S. from August 1987 to June 1988 through the program.

All students, fluent in English, will attend a local high school. Host families may deduct $50 per month for income tax purposes.

AISE is also seeking American high school students aged 15-17 who would like to spend a high school year or semester in Australia. Interested families or students should call 1-800-SIBLING.

'Buckle-up' planned for Memorial Day

Traffic accidents claimed 595 lives Memorial Day weekend last year, according to National Safety Council figures.

In an attempt to curtail further fatalities this year, traffic safety organizations have declared that the national "All-American Buckle-Up" will take place May 18-25, challenging Americans "to give safety belts a try," James Rohden, director of Iowa Traffic Safety Now, said.

The national effort will coincide with Memorial Day weekend, a holiday that ranks fifth most dangerous for traffic fatalities in Iowa.

UI program sends elderly back to school

A new program designed specifically for Iowans aged 60 and older will give senior citizens a chance to attend college this summer.

The program, called ELDERHOSTEL, will be offered at more than 24 different sponsoring colleges across the state. It will feature more than 70 different courses on subjects such as art, archeology, computers, chemistry, literature and law.

In addition to coursework, those attending ELDERHOSTEL can participate in social and recreational activities, tours, and cultural events on the campuses, Peggy Houston of the UI Division of Continuing Education and director of ELDERHOSTEL, said.

No tests, no prerequisites or a high school diploma are required for those interested in participating.

The cost for weeklong courses is $215, which includes tuition, food and lodging. Commuters may pay a $100 fee, which covers the cost of tuition and activities.

Information on all ELDERHOSTEL programs offered within the state can be obtained by calling Houston at 335-2533 or writing to ELDERHOSTEL, Seashore Hall Room C108, Iowa City, Iowa 52242.

Israel, occupied lands discussed tonight

Moshe Ma'oz, a professor at Hebrew University, will speak on "Twenty Years After: Israel and the Occupied Territories" at 7:30 p.m. today at Hillel House, 122 E. Market St.

Ma'oz will also speak Wednesday, April 29 at the Iowa International Center, Jefferson Building.

Clarification

The Daily Iowan will correct unfair or inaccurate stories or headlines. If a report is wrong or misleading, call the DI at 335-5965. A correction or clarification will be published in this column.

In a story called "SEATS ridership increases, prompts wage hike proposal" (DI, April 22), because of a source error, the fact that a pay increase requested by Johnson County SEATS workers had already been approved was not reported.

The DI regrets the error.

TIC provides room to grow

By D.R. Miller
Special to The Daily Iowan

The UI's Technology Innovation Center offers facilities designed to foster the development of new businesses with advanced technology applications, Bruce Wheaton, director of TIC, said.

"I take the core mandate of the center to be to foster the growth of companies that show the prospect for high growth," he said. Inexpensive workspace is provided for UI researchers and academic scientists to cooperate with 15 tenants.

Technology applications vary within the establishments in residency at TIC.

"Our business possibly uses the least amount of technology of the tenants here at TIC," Laural Bar, a registered occupational therapist, said. Bar and her partner, Judy Galluzzo, run Functional Home Designers, the first business owned and operated by women at TIC. The consulting firm provides services to evaluate the interior and exterior of building and homes for handicapped and elderly persons or other clients with special needs.

This is the second of two articles examining the Technology Innovation Center at the UI Oakdale Campus.

DOUGLAS PAUL, president of PROFILES Corp., echoed many of the other tenants feelings about TIC and the opportunities it held.

"This community thrives on each other's experience," he said. "We all experience the same growing pains."

PROFILES creates educational testing material for national clients.

"The TIC is one supercongenial and helpful environment," Anddre Peery, president of A-JEM Co. Inc., said. Peery's company produces a universal interface device, called Interlink, which links computers, printers, telex machines and other peripherals to electronic, key telephone systems, such as the UI's new system.

"MOVING INTO TIC was very cost efficient, in terms of rent," Mike Richey, vice president for marketing with Corcoran Communication, said. Prior to the move, the business worked out of Tom Corcoran's basement.

Corcoran devises marketing tools, posters, view books and brochures for private colleges in 17 states. "We did about $750,000 in sales last year," Richey said.

According to a news release from the Iowa Department of Economic Development, T.V.L. Corp., and Worldview Inc., were recently awarded the Community Economic Betterment Account loans from the state.

T.V.L. — The VideoText Line — is a computerized public information service that received a $75,000 in funding, the release reported. T.V.L. will initially receive $50,000 and the remaining $25,000 when 50 jobs have been created. Worldview Inc. which offers fully translated, same-day satellite feed of "Vremya", the official Soviet television newscast, received $100,000.

"TENANT COMPANIES NEED" the (TIC) board of directors to help advance the business plan," Dan Van Der Weide, president of sola mente inc., said. The engineering firm designs, develops and manufactures a system for speech therapy and drill in language.

Other TIC tenants include Educational Concepts Ltd., whose National Athletic Merit Endorsement Service program acts as a clearinghouse for talented high school athletes in football and women's basketball searching for college educational and athletic opportunities, Lloyd Dill, owner, said.

Computer Aided Design Software Inc. markets hardware and software developed by UI engineering faculty to assist in the design of mechanical systems.

GLOBAL CONNECTIONS Inc. is involved in finding opportunities for international students to find employment, and Applied Designs' emphasis is working in the fields of nuclear medicine and health physics.

Bio-Research Products Inc. is involved in special enzyme research, Wheaton said. Solvay Veterinary Inc., formerly a part of Salisbury Labs in Charles City, Iowa, is working with the UI College of Pharmacy on drug applications in animals.

Middle Coast Publishing is a small publishing house for books, and The Typesetting Connection offers other TIC tenants access to in-house publishing and printing.

UI: Blacks needed in sciences

United Press International

Fifty universities, including the UI, have launched an effort to attract more black students to the biological sciences.

Leo Davis, professor and chairman of the UI Chemistry Department, said the Coalition for the Advancement of Blacks in the Biological Sciences will attempt to increase the number of blacks holding advanced degrees in the biological sciences.

The coalition gathered for the first time this weekend on the UI campus.

"We will network between the universities to see that bright black undergraduates are made aware of the opportunities available to them," Davis said.

BETWEEN 1975 AND 1984, only 624 doctoral degrees in the biological sciences were awarded to U.S.-born blacks, while a total of 60,000 doctorates were awarded. Fewer than 18 blacks have earned doctorates in the field in the last year.

Davis said both the National Institute of Health and the National Science Foundation have created special programs, but despite these efforts, the numbers of blacks in these programs are not increasing.

The chemistry professor blames intercollegiate athletics for dominating the college careers of many black students. "Perhaps the public emphasis on participation in intercollegiate athletics by blacks really works to the detriment of young black males," he said.

DAVIS ALSO SAID the absence of black role models in the biological sciences contributes to the lack of interest among black students.

He predicted the situation could get worse as the ratio of minority instructors decreases in relation to the number of minority students.

"I think it's a potentially explosive situation," he said.

The state Board of Regents has set a goal of increasing minority enrollment to 8.5 percent at the UI.

Iowans travel to Washington to protest Reagan's policies

By Suzy Price
Staff Writer

Tens of thousands of people — including more than 100 Iowa residents and students — marched through Washington, D.C., Saturday protesting President Ronald Reagan's policies in Central America and South Africa.

Iowa's delegation included high school students and union workers who braved the grueling 22-hour journey to join the Mobilization for Justice and Peace at the Capitol.

People came from as far away as Wisconsin and Colorado, and organizers estimated 150,000 people were present.

"Although this is not the largest march in recent years, it is the first march with such broad participation," Josh Bornstein, Outreach worker for the National Mobilization, said. "Labor movements and the church were especially heavily represented."

ABOUT 400 TO 500 demonstrators — including some Iowans — were arrested Monday morning at CIA headquarters in Langley, Va., during the civil disobedience rally, Bornstein said.

"They shut down the CIA for most of the morning," Bornstein said. "It was very powerful."

But Saturday's march was equally effective according to Otis McGowan, a worker at Quaker Oats in Cedar Rapids.

"The government will have to take notice of that many people, but we must keep voicing our opinion and let them know we are unhappy with conditions," McGowan said.

MARCHERS MET AT the Ellipse next to the White House.

The muddy circle of grass was filled with people carrying banners, chanting slogans and singing and dancing despite the wind and rain. A South American group held an impromptu concert next to symbolic black coffins while an Uncle Sam figure walked around on stilts throwing a gun and bag marked "cocaine" into the crowd yelling, "Just say no."

The march was organized into different sections, including labor, religious, peace and disarmament, students, international and women's groups.

Supporters lined the streets of Washington, which echoed with the chants of "Student aid not Contra aid" and "Impeach Reagan."

"The issues are so clear, people can't help taking a stand," Peggy Macaluso, a member of the UI Central America Solidarity Committee said of the large turnout. "It will generate enthusiasm for further political action. We met a lot of new folk from Iowa we can contact."

SEVERAL UI STUDENTS who attended the weekend of activities viewed them as optimistic.

"The march has potential depending on what people make of it," Margi Newman, a UI student, said. "It is an important chance to coalesce around the movement for Central America and is a strong statement of grassroots feeling in the country."

UI medical student Maria Ottavi seemed to agree.

"I'm optimistic in small ways," Ottavi said. "People gain inspiration which they can take with them into other activities to keep up the struggle."

Weapons warning

On Friday morning, the deaths of six people in Palm Bay, Fla., were reported in newspapers across the country. The six were slain by a 59-year-old gunman when he went on a rampage through two shopping centers in the southern Florida community. Fourteen other people were injured.

Closer to home, a 17-year-old Bettendorf, Iowa, girl was killed early Saturday morning as she sat in a police car outside the Bettendorf Police Station. Sheryl Horak, a high school junior and student Law Enforcement Explorer Scout, was shot twice in the neck and head as she waited for the police officer she had been helping to return.

The painful memory of both tragedies will remain with the innumerable relatives and friends of those killed for years to come, yet for most Americans the seven deaths are already yesterday's news. For many, the details of these unfortunate incidents will soon become part of the faceless, nameless police statistics.

And with thousands of firearm deaths reported each year, the fact that this dulling process occurs is not surprising. In 1985 alone more than 10,000 people — or one person every hour of the day — were killed by handguns and rifles, according to the federal Uniform Crime Report.

The numbing effect of these most recent incidents, however, should serve as stark reminders to local council members and state legislators that these tragedies will continue to happen if more stringent gun licensing statutes are not enacted.

Banning handguns from a specific area cannot be realistically enforced. But passing laws that make purchasing and licensing a gun a more complicated process could help to decrease the number of guns in the hands of unfit owners.

True, some tragedies cannot be prevented. Distraught farmer Dale Burr of Hills, Iowa, had no history of violence, thus a gun license would have been issued to him. Unfortunately, the killings of Hills Bank President John Hughes, farmer Richard Goody and Burr's wife, Emily, probably could not have been avoided.

Yet the shooting of Iowa City resident John Slager could have, in all likelihood, been prevented if the criminal record of Ramon DeSantiago had been thoroughly checked before he was granted a license.

The Iowa City Council should again consider handgun legislation before another tragedy strikes close to home.

A place on the map

"Iowa? Where's Iowa? It's not even on the map! Ha, ha, ha!"

Well, it's time to put this little joke to rest. Iowa is on the map, after all. In fact, it's an established, viable entity in the minds of thousands of people between the Appalachian and Rocky Mountains, according to a survey conducted by the Meredith Corporation, a Des Moines-based publisher.

In an attempt to gather marketing data for its new magazine, Midwest Living, Meredith asked more than 7,000 people questions about the Midwest, including the all-important query: "What is it?" Answers ranged from Kentucky to Kansas, but only Iowa was mentioned by all the respondents. In the end, the publishers decided to target the 12 states which make up the Census Bureau's North Central states: Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

The results of the survey may not seem like much to get terribly excited about, that's true. But, on the other hand, it's nice to know Iowa's general location is firmly rooted in the consciousness of a broad cross section of Americans. While the Hawkeye state is probably still confused with Ohio and Idaho, at least the poll's results stifle the rumor that Iowa ceased to exist about 10 years ago and was divided up among Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri and Nebraska.

Letters policy

The Daily Iowan welcomes letters from readers. Letters to the editor must be typed and signed and should include the writer's address, which will be withheld on request. Letters must include the writer's telephone number, which will not be published but is needed to verify the letter. Letters that cannot be verified will not be published. Writers are limited to two letters per month. Letters should not exceed 200 words, as we reserve the right to edit for length and clarity.

Guest opinions policy

The Daily Iowan welcomes guest opinions on current issues written by readers. Interested readers are encouraged to discuss their guest opinion ideas with the editor prior to submitting manuscripts. Guest opinions must be typed and signed and include the writer's address and telephone number which will not be published. A brief biography should accompany guest opinions, which are subject to editing for clarity and space. Guest opinions are limited to two double-spaced typed pages.

Answers to the readers' mail

By Scott Raab

I'm not saying my mailbox is full, but this Christmas I'll be tipping the postman a truss. Keep writing, though; my public means the world to me, and vice versa. And now the mail:

Dear Scott:

What's with all these gripes about athletes? Did you ever want to be an athlete, but couldn't? Why are you so jealous of athletes?

C-A. H.

Dear C-A.:

How insightful. Yes, I'm deathly sick of being urbane, literate and respected for my intellect. If only I could live sweating and in pain while boozing with physical education degrees blew their whistles and screamed at me. I would putt around all day on a bright red scooter, work summers in construction and maybe wear a whistle myself if I ever graduated. Ooooh, heaven.

Dear Scott:

It's difficult to take you or your views seriously. You could use a little more compassion, tolerance and personally love.

D.R.M.

Dear D.:

Let's trade: Loan me some of your compassion and I'll give you a few brain cells.

Dear Scott:

I personally eagerly await your weekly ramblings. It enables me to fully understand something my parents told me when I was younger — that the world is full of people who are qualified to do little else but sell shoes.

M.J.F.
President
Libertarian Students of Iowa

Dear Prez:

Ouch! No wonder you were voted president of your little club. I'm sure your parents thrill at the glow of your future, so much brighter than some worthless, loathsome shoe salesman's. Yes, I see you selling something vital, maybe even life insurance. Good luck and give my best to both your Libertarian friends.

Dear Scott:

You must be some kind of pinko to support gun control. Without guns, what'll keep us from being overrun by some armed group of commie thugs seeking to impose their crackpot views on our free society? Huh? And what about the Constitution? Besides, I like to hunt.

N.R.A.

Dear N.R.A.:

You've got some good points, fella. I hadn't realized that killing birds and deer for fun kept the nation safe. And I always thought that the "bearing arms" amendment referred to a "well-regulated militia." I guess I'll have to rethink my position on this. Meanwhile, take care — I've heard how those bunnies can turn on a hunter while he's reloading.

Dear Scott:

You're the best thing to ever hit Iowa City. Your humor, insight and commitment mark a future Pulitzer Prize winner and your prose style is unmatched in the annals of journalism.

Y.L.M.

Dear Mom:

I owe it all to you.

Dear Scott:

What's Michael Humes really like?

Dear E.T.:

He's like the first warm day of spring, like walking in a soft rain hand-in-hand with the one you love. He's a man's man, a ladies' man, a columnist columnist and, as I recently found out, the proud holder of a black belt in karate.

Dear Scott:

I just became president of an elite university, but now I'm worried. What happens if the students start to protest about something?

J.O.F.

Dear J.O.F.:

No problem. Endorse the protest as "a passionate exchange of ideas" on your way to the airport.

Crucial issues surface in 1988

By Rob Hogg

AMERICA is at a crossroad. As we did after World War II — when we made foreign policy commitments to NATO, the nuclear triad and containment — we will choose a course in the 1988 elections which will likely determine national policies for the next several decades.

Do we forge ahead with the Strategic Defense Initiative? Do we commit ourselves to quality in education, the economy and the environment? We must focus on these and other issues, because they will largely determine our national character well into the 21st century.

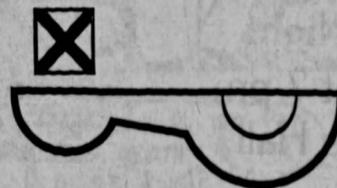

Many student organizations are devoting themselves to raising the level of political discussion and broadening the degree of participation in this process. These efforts are great. However, UI students can't wait for somebody else to lead the way. We must take the first step.

THE ISSUES AREN'T just concerned with some far away national policy. They are matters of how we live our lives and what our communities are about. We should challenge ourselves to learn about the issues. Make them our friends. Bring them into our hearts. Let's let the issues grab us.

During the next nine months, we should see the issues when we read the news and watch the television. We should find them when we go to work. We should see them in class, at home and among our friends. Let me suggest what issues we should be looking for.

First, there are issues of war and peace. These include Central America, the

The issues aren't just concerned with some far away national policy. They are matters of how we live our lives and what our communities are about.

Guest Opinion

Strategic Defense Initiative, military commitments in the Philippines and Western Europe and a $300 billion defense budget. We spend a lot of money and stake much of our reputation on these issues. Second, there are issues of social justice and community development. Thirteen million American children live in poverty. Hungry and homeless people live here in Iowa City. College costs are soaring. More and more teenage girls become pregnant. Racism, drugs and alcohol and suicide are widespread. Don't these issues grab you?

THIRD, THERE ARE issues of quality economic development. Our agricultural and industrial sectors are struggling. In their place we have low-paying service jobs. We are as dependent on foreign oil as we were in 1973. Many foreign companies make better products than U.S. companies at lower costs. Will we meet these challenges?

Finally, there are environmental issues. Chemicals, nuclear energy and toxic waste threaten our health and welfare. More seriously, deforestation in the tropics, carbon dioxide buildup in the atmosphere and holes in the ozone layer threaten the ecological systems that make life possible.

In 1988, the issues are vital. We must make choices about what we value, how we live our lives and what our government will do as we set the course well into the next century. Are UI students, faculty and staff a community that holds common values, sees a common vision and makes a commitment to improve the quality of our lives? I believe we are. A good first step would be to learn about the issues and feel them in our hearts. We must let them grab us.

Rob Hogg is a UI sophomore.

which prohibits the most explosive fireworks but still allows the use of sparklers and "snakes."

"HOW MANY OF YOU would like to be in a crowd and have a cherry bomb explode behind you?" MacDonald asked.

The concern for an increase in property loss from fire and risk of death and injury to Iowans prompted the Johnson County Mutual Aid Firemen's Association on April 24 to adopt a resolution that opposes liberalization of current law and supports citizen efforts to resist any effort to weaken current law concerning fireworks.

Recreation services received the largest cut — 67 cents per student per semester — down from $1.03 last year to 36 cents per student in the 1987-88 allocation.

Director of UI Recreation Services Harry Ostrander told the assembly he would rather deal with a decrease of that size by cutting services rather than charging a higher fee for them.

DI Publisher Bill Casey said the loss would amount to between $12,000 to $14,000 and said he would be forced to ask for an increase in ad rates to make up for the loss.

The third group cut — the UI Lecture Committee — lost 8 cents per student per semester in the reshuffling, from $1.03 to 95 cents.

The seven other categories were increased slightly, the largest increases coming for Student Video Productions — 42 cents — and the Student Commission on Programming and Entertainment — 5 cents.

Group warns of possible Iowa job loss

A Washington, D.C.-based citizens group warned that Iowa could lose up to 20,000 manufacturing jobs if trade legislation pending in the U.S. House and Senate is enacted.

Citizens for a Sound Economy President Richard Fink said, "If the U.S. embarks on a binge of protectionism, we can fully expect other nations to retaliate against American exports."

Fink said just this year Canada retaliated against U.S. corn exports after being threatened with sanctions on Canadian softwood exports.

Iowa risks losing major export markets if the U.S. falls into the trap of charge and counter-charge on trade, he said.

Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Missouri, a sponsor of the House legislation, said the bill is needed to change the U.S. image of being a patsy on world trade.

Rhetorical battle dominates Goetz trial

NEW YORK — Subway gunman Bernhard Goetz went on trial Monday with a prosecutor calling him an "emotional powder keg" who became a cold-blooded executioner and a defense lawyer describing him as a robbery victim attacked by "vicious predators."

Inside the hushed courtroom, Assistant District Attorney Gregory Waples stood before a four-woman, eight-man jury and painted a portrait of an emotionally troubled man who gunned down four youths because of a warped sense of justice.

Goetz, 39, has been charged with four counts of attempted murder, four counts of assault, reckless endangerment and illegal weapons possession.

Defense lawyer Barry Slotnick followed Waples and described the case as something out of the "Twilight Zone."

Jury selection begins in Scarfo trial

PHILADELPHIA — Amid heavy security and unprecedented secrecy, lawyers Monday began selecting a jury for the trial of Nicodemo "Little Nicky" Scarfo, the reputed mob boss accused of trying to extort $1 million from a developer.

The tedious selection process included assurances to each of the potential jurors that their names and addresses would be kept secret. Four jurors were selected in the first day.

"We needed an anonymous jury because of Scarfo's reputation for violence," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Ronald Cole.

Scarfo, the reputed leader of the mob in Philadelphia and southern New Jersey, has been charged with two murders for which he is to be tried later. Scarfo also has been implicated in at least a dozen other killings, according to authorities.

China to require student manual labor

BEIJING — China is planning to revive Cultural Revolution-style regulations requiring students to work in factories and on farms, the official China Daily newspaper said Monday.

The new rules follow student demonstrations for democracy that swept as many as 20 Chinese cities in December, prompting the fall of Communist Party chief Hu Yaobang and a nationwide campaign against capitalist ideas.

"Since 1977, schools and colleges have stopped sending students to work in rural areas and factories," the newspaper quoted Vice Minister of the State Education Commission He Dongchang as saying.

He said schools will "introduce curricula and set aside class periods for students to learn labor techniques and study the society and people in field work."

Shamir remains opposed to conference

PARIS — French Prime Minister Jacques Chirac Monday urged Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir to consider an international peace conference on the Middle East, but Shamir restated his opposition to the plan.

Chirac said he told Shamir that the 12 European Community nations were in favor of an international conference to consider issues such as a Palestinian homeland. Shamir has said such a conference "would not serve the cause of peace."

Shamir favors direct peace negotiations between Israel and its Arab neighbors, while Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres supports an international peace conference.

PLO's Egypt offices closed up in protest

CAIRO, Egypt — The government Monday closed all offices of the Palestine Liberation Organization in Egypt to protest the PLO's decision to link relations with Egypt to abrogation of the Camp David peace accords.

Also Monday, a Lebanese newspaper said the PLO plans to move its headquarters from Tunisia to Algeria.

A statement read by Egyptian Foreign Minister Esmat Abdel-Meguid described the resolution adopted by the Palestine National Council last week as a "foolish resolution issued for no reason at all and in total aggression against the truth."

"The Arab Republic of Egypt has decided to shut all offices of the Palestine Liberation Organization and its affiliated institutions in Egypt," the statement said. "The decision has been conveyed to the PLO office in Cairo."

But the closings did not reflect any change in Egypt's "support for the struggle of the Palestinian people," the statement said.

Hosni Mubarak had sent a message to the meeting of the PNC, the Palestinian parliament-in-exile, warning any discussion of Egypt abrogating the Camp David accords with Israel would be regarded as interference in its domestic affairs and would not be tolerated.

PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat tried to weaken resolutions on Palestinian-Egyptian relations but was forced to bow to PLO hardliners to maintain Palestinian unity.

The Egyptian delegate, Taha El-Farnawani, walked out in protest from the PNC meeting, which ended this weekend in Algiers, Algeria.

The rift between Egypt and the PLO is the most serious since Mubarak came to power after the assassination in 1981 of President Anwar Sadat, who signed the Egyptian-Israeli accords.

The Algiers resolution asked the PLO leadership to "define relations with Egypt on the basis of past resolutions of the PNC, particularly the resolutions of its 16th session, and in light of Arab summit resolutions."

Film falls short of potential

By Hoyt Olsen
Staff Writer

EXTRME Prejudice is two stories. One has potential; one is a dull mishmash of Western clichés. But bloodletting action, not story, is this film's raison d'être anyway.

The credentials of some key figures associated with the film provide an accurate view of what the audience may expect. Executive producers Mario Kassar and Andrew Vajna and producer Buzz Feitshans previously collaborated on First Blood and Rambo. Feitshans' other productions include Conan the Barbarian and Red Dawn, films written and directed by John Milius, who assisted on story development for Extreme Prejudice.

THE RESULT IS an emphasis on action over thought; this is the "shoot first, ask questions later" school of filmmaking. Nevertheless, Extreme Prejudice occasionally threatens to become a very interesting suspense thriller. Its mix of two highly contrasted film types opens up many intriguing possibilities, but more is promised than delivered.

One part of the film wants to be a classic Western, but has much more in common with the low-budget Grade B Westerns of the 1950s. Jack Benteen is a Texas Ranger in a border town; Cash Bailer, the best friend of his youth, is an outlaw (the 1987 version deals dope instead of rustling cattle). Naturally, both have been involved with the same woman, who happens to sing in the local cantina. All this is more familiar than one's next of kin.

THIS WESTERN borrowing could have been used to say something about the difference between the Old West and the New West, or about moviemaking of the past vs. the present, or about myth vs. reality. Unfortunately, Extreme Prejudice doesn't take us anywhere new in this part of the plot; it doesn't even treat its old clichés with an ounce of humor. Played straight, it is almost unbearably stale.

Nick Nolte

Film

Benteen and Sheriff Hank Pearson shoot it out with bad-dies in a crowded saloon. Pow! Blam! And just like the good old days, no innocent bystanders are hit by all that flying lead.

Pow! Blam! Pearson is killed in the line of duty — and Benteen says, "He was a damn good man. He was like a father to me." Benteen crosses the border into Mexico after his nemesis, and actually tells him, "I'm calling you out."

The only thing changed from Old Hollywood West is that Benteen plays cowboys-and-Mexicans instead of Indians. Indeed, "extreme prejudice" describes the film's depiction of Chicanos fairly accurately.

THE MORE INTRIGUING plot line involves a group of six special forces, military operatives whose specialty is top-secret missions, usually abroad. This time their mission is to obtain files of Cash Bailey that are potentially embarrassing to the U.S. and Mexican governments. The files are supposedly locked in a bank safety deposit box in the unnamed Texas city where Benteen operates.

Their mission, complete with electronic gimmickry, an odd mix of personalities, and the requisite double-cross, holds interest. One would like to know more about these shadowy figures, but Extreme Prejudice subordinates character interests to the ranger vs. bad guy nonsense.

THE FILM COULD ask what a real hero is, and supply a thoughtful answer. Instead, it supplies an ever-rising body count, and gives us the old stereotype of the man-of-action whose gun can tame the West.

At least Director Walter Hill (48 Hrs.) supplies an expert hand with the action sequences. The film's one memorable acting performance is Rip Torn's too brief appearance as Sheriff Pearson. Nick Nolte plays Benteen, with granite jaw and stony face; more expressiveness can be found on a clear day at Mt. Rushmore.

Viewers who want no more than a lively shoot-'em-up will find this picture very satisfactory. More discriminating viewers will occasionally be caught up in the suspense, particularly during a terrific bank robbery sequence. But it's too bad that this commercial, action melodrama headed off a more thought-provoking movie at the pass. Something much better could have been created from this film's dual premise.

Grant named Big Ten's best defender

SCHAUMBURG, Ill. (UPI) — Michigan guard Gary Grant was named Big Ten Defensive Player of the Year in balloting by radio broadcasters who regularly cover Big Ten games, the conference announced Monday.

Joyner named AL Player of Week

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wally Joyner of the California Angels, who hit .480 and belted five homers, was named American League Player of the Week Monday for the period ending April 26.

Joyner's slugging average for the week was 1.120 and he reached base half of the times he came to the plate. Joyner, who went 12 for 25 during the week, drove in 13 runs and scored 10.

Dawson nabs NL Player of the Week

NEW YORK (UPI) — Andre Dawson of the Chicago Cubs, who hit .375 with three homers, was named National League Player of the Week for the period ending April 26.

Dawson collected nine hits in 24 at-bats with three doubles and a game-winning grand slam. He drove in 11 runs, with two game-winning RBI, and scored seven runs.

Webster resigns from Rangers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Webster, who developed a serious ear infection shortly after being named coach of the New York Rangers, Monday said the condition has forced him to resign.

Webster said he made his decision late last week and notified Richard Evans, the president of Madison Square Garden, and Phil Esposito, the team's vice president and general manager.

"I told Dick and Phil that I do not feel confident this medical problem can be quickly and fully resolved before the beginning of next season," Webster, who compiled a 5-7-4 record, said.

Esposito, who resumed coaching road games after the inner ear infection prevented Webster from flying, said a search for a new coach would begin immediately.

"This has been the saddest part of my first season (as general manager) with the Rangers," Esposito said. "I know this has been an extremely difficult decision for Tommy to make. But he told me that the good of the team comes first and that he feels the stability of the club is vital to our future success."

Webster was hired Nov. 26 to replace Ted Sator, but his ear became infected in January. On Jan. 28, Esposito took over as coach for the rest of the season.

New York went 24-19-0 under Esposito and finished fourth in the Patrick Division. The Philadelphia Flyers eliminated the Rangers in the first round of the playoffs in six games.

Webster will serve as a special assistant to Esposito in the areas of scouting and personnel evaluation.

Webster, the 22nd coach in the 61-year history of the Rangers, joined New York from the Windsor Spitfires of the Ontario Hockey League where he served as coach.

NBA great Russell lands coaching job

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Former NBA great Bill Russell, who last coached 10 years ago, Monday was named coach of the Sacramento Kings.

Kings General Manager Joe Axelson announced the signing of Russell, 53, to a seven-year contract effective June 1. Russell will coach for either two, three or four years, depending on the progress of the team, and then become general manager, Axelson said.

Axelsson — who will retire within four years, permitting Russell to succeed him — said he envisions Russell ultimately becoming president of the struggling Kings organization. Russell has coached the Boston Celtics and the Seattle SuperSonics and, most recently, has been a commentator for WTBS.

IN HIS 13 YEARS with the Celtics, the last three as player-coach, the team won 11 NBA titles. At the University of San Francisco, the Dons won 55 straight games and captured back-to-back national titles, in 1954-55 and 1955-56. He led the U.S. Olympic team to the gold medal at Melbourne, Australia, in the fall of 1956.

"What I know about is winning, period," Russell said at a news conference. "I know what it takes and how to do it. If you want a team that will contend for the NBA championship, I'm your guy."

Russell takes over a team that slipped to a 29-53 record during the 1986-87 season after making the playoffs the previous year.

Russell began talking with the team March 5, after learning Axelson planned to retire, and reached an accord last Thursday. Financial terms were not disclosed.

THE KINGS FIRED Coach Phil Johnson Feb. 8, shortly after the All-Star break, following a lopsided loss to the Los Angeles Lakers in which Sacramento was outscored 40-4 in the first quarter. The team's record was 14-32 at the time.

Jerry Reynolds, a scout, guided the Kings to a 15-21 record the rest of the season. He will continue with the team as assistant coach.

Russell said he expects building a winner will be a lengthy project, a reason he wanted the long-term contract. He praised Reynolds, calling him experienced and insightful.

"Although I think I am very good, I need help," Russell said.

Russell's record as a coach for seven seasons with the Celtics and Seattle was 324-249. He last coached in 1977. During his three years as player-coach, the Celtics won two NBA championships.

Five-year drought ends for Haas with PGA win

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (UPI) — Jay Haas ended a five-year drought on the PGA Tour by winning the $600,000 Houston Open. Buddy Gardner wonders what he has to do to win a tournament.

Haas won his sixth PGA event Sunday and first since 1982 when he sank a 2½-foot par putt on the first playoff hole to capture the $108,000 first prize. The putt came moments after Gardner missed a similar 2½-footer.

"I GENUINELY FEEL bad for Buddy for missing a putt like that," Haas said. "I was rooting for myself, but at the same time, I would like to have won it with a birdie, or a great up-and-down par. I feel like I deserved to win this week. I just think it was my time."

Gardner, who has not won a PGA tournament, finished second for the fourth time in his career and the second time at Houston. He is now 0-2 in playoffs, losing in 1979 to Bobby Walz at the Tucson Open.

"This is twice I've got so close and I've gone so long (without winning)," Gardner said. "You can't help but think about that. It make it much worse, losing like that. Maybe next time."

Net club takes second in tourney

By Marc Bona
Staff Writer

The UI volleyball club, competing in regional action at Cedar Falls, rolled to a second place finish out of 14 clubs Saturday and Sunday.

The club, which compiled a 13-2 overall record in the two-day event, finished runner-up in the B division of the Cornbelt Region of the United States Volleyball Association.

"We had a big emotional letdown and lost all emotional continuity," UI club treasurer Bill Dorner said of the club's loss to the North Central Volleyball Club in the championship. The UI lost two games to one in the best-of-three series.

"It was quite an accomplishment," Dorner said. "But I think we're all kind of down about it because we know we're the best team in B division."

Dorner said the key to the loss might be found in the third game the UI played as club captain Keith Spengel suffered a sprained ankle and missed the next five games.

Sportsclubs

"He came back and played the next day but was definitely not 100 percent," Dorner added.

The club's members this season are as follows. Setters: Schutt (president), Spengel (vice president) and Don Ho; outside hitters: Mitch Jacobs, Mark Keller, Eric Pearson; middle hitters: Dorner, Brent Sliefert, Bill Christensen.

While the club's season is over, it is planning an informal summer tournament in Iowa City. Flyers will be posted next fall to announce upcoming club activities. The club may have two traveling clubs in the 1987-88 season instead of the usual one, Dorner said, because of the large amount of interest generated this year.

"What Bill said about our accomplishment is true," Schutt said. "In a matter of two months of playing together we've come a long way. It was definitely a positive experience.

We're looking ahead to next year and perhaps moving up a league."

The Iowa crew club competed at the Midwest Championships Saturday at Madison, Wis., taking third place of 12 clubs entered. The Mexican Nationals and Nebraska, finishing first and second, respectively, were the two clubs to beat the UI.

It was the first time the UI club ever took a medal at the Midwest Championships," Heidi Goldwater, fundraising director, said. Because of its performance, the men's four division was invited to the first Crew Classics Tournament at Washington University-St. Louis in Missouri on May 16.

The women's rugby club was swept in a two-game series against Illinois, 12-4 and 20-4, at Champaign, Ill., this weekend. Diane Pfile and Lisa Thomas scored Iowa's lone tries in the losses.

The club will host its only home contests of the season when it faces Wisconsin-Madison and Wisconsin-

Milwaukee Saturday in a round-robin tournament at the field by the Hawkeye Drive Apartments beginning at 11 a.m.

The Hawkeye soccer club blanked the Waterloo Strikers, 3-0, on the strength of two goals by Luis Arones.

"It was a good win," Faculty Advisor Raul Curto said of the victory which boosted the club's record to 2-1. "I think the midfield was the key to the game. We kept control of the game and opened up the ball to our wings." Curto added a goal in the win.

The club, which practices Wednesdays and Fridays from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., has tentatively scheduled a game against Iowa City West High on Sunday at the field by the Hawkeye Drive Apartments. The club will compete in a tournament at Waterloo, May 9.

Sports medicine program gives awareness seminar

By Cathy Cronin
Staff Writer

Many fans have praised Iowa's athletic program as being one of the most successful in the country. However, many people remain unaware of the excellent sports medicine program which has developed to support the athletes who participate on these teams.

On April 23-24 the Fourth Annual Hawkeye Sports Medicine Symposium was held at the downtown Holiday Inn. Those sponsoring the symposium were the UI Sports Medicine Services, Hospitals and Clinics along with the Colleges of Medicine and Nursing. This two-day symposium was concluded with a session on how to talk to the news media.

DIRECTOR OF Hospital Information Dean Borg began the final session with a story relating to the sports-injury aspect.

"I also come from a family where I have four boys," Borg said. "And I've watched as Dr. (Richard) Brand, here at UI Hospitals told one of my sons, as he began to sob, that he was not going on to the state wrestling tournament that he had just earned a spot in because he had, as Dr. Brand said, a severe injury to his knee. I've been through all of that and I know different perspectives in educating the public."

Borg then went on to state three different goals that the media helps to bring together and educate the public with, even though the media may seem "sinister and threatening," according to Borg.

The media bring together, first, the desire to win, second, from the parents perspective — the desire to see sons and daughters participate in excellence and safety in sports, and, third, to educate the common people and professionals as well as upgrade safety throughout each district.

BORG, ALONG WITH other professional speakers at the Symposium, said they feel we need to emphasize that there are sports medicine specialists and coaches should be educated about this.

"We need to educate coaches," Borg said. "My sons have come home with some very bad advice from coaches who had good meaning but just didn't know what's available to their athletes."

After presenting a short film, commented by Melissa Wells, on ways to prevent sports injuries Borg then turned the podium over to George Wine, the Director of Men's Sports Information at Iowa.

"We have a mentality to connect sport with injuries," Wine said. "And we can't seem to separate them. Injuries are a very big part of sports."

This represents one of the reasons for the general public's "hunger" for health information, especially on exercise and fitness, as Borg expressed.

And Wine added, "The media reflects that hunger."

Wetzel named Suns' coach

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The Phoenix Suns, who failed to make the playoffs and ended the season reeling from a drug scandal, Monday promoted assistant John Wetzel to head coach.

He replaces interim coach Dick Van Arsdale, who took over Feb. 26 when John MacLeod was fired in his 14th season as head coach.

The move ended speculation concerning the possible appointment of Rick Pitino, the Providence coach who interviewed for the job.

Wetzel takes over a troubled team. Three current players — Jay Humphries, James Edwards and Grant Gondrezick — were indicted although all passed their league drug tests last week. Also, star player Walter Davis has been readmitted to a drug rehabilitation clinic.

Wetzel, 42, joined the Suns as an assistant coach in June 1979. After MacLeod's firing, Van Arsdale put Wetzel in charge of the Suns' offense and the team responded with a 14-12 record.

"Sometimes, I wondered whether or not I'd ever have the opportunity to be a head coach," Wetzel said at a news conference. "I feel very fortunate."

THE SUNS FINISHED WITH A 36-46 record, but Wetzel praised the team's play over the last 15 games.

"The players played with confidence," he said. "They believed in themselves again. They finally thought in their minds that they could win again. Our atmosphere was a little bit more relaxed. Our players felt more comfortable."

Wetzel said he wants to meet with the players this week. He added that he has not yet chosen an assistant coach.

"Hopefully, that will be done in the next couple of weeks," he said.

Wetzel played in college at Virginia Tech and was drafted in the eighth round by the Los Angeles Lakers in 1966. He did not play the 1966-67 season because of a broken wrist.

After one year with the Lakers, Wetzel was selected by the Suns in the 1968 expansion draft. Before he could report, he entered military service for two years.

Wetzel played two years with Phoenix before being waived and went to Atlanta for three seasons. The Suns acquired Wetzel again in 1976 and he played one more season before retiring.

Herzog snares 1,000th win

NEW YORK (UPI) — The crew cut and spirit are the same as when he began managing in 1973, but Whitey Herzog said he has adjusted his style over the years.

"I manage quite differently today than when I started with Texas and the early Royals teams," Herzog said. "I didn't have the players then. I would go five or six games without putting on the hit and run. They couldn't execute."

Last weekend, Herzog posted his 1,000th triumph as manager, the 37th manager to do so. He is the fifth winningest active manager behind Gene Mauch of California, Spence Anderson of Detroit, Dick Williams of Seattle and Chuck Tanner of Atlanta.

Like those four, Herzog has traveled. He started with the Rangers, where he went 47-91, managed California where he went 2-2 in 1974 and then joined the Kansas City Royals the following year. In five seasons with the Royals, Herzog finished first or second in the division.

He joined the Cardinals in 1980 and assumed duties as general manager until 1982. With St. Louis he designed a team around speed and defense. He won the World Series in 1982 and lost to the Royals in Game 7 of the 1985 Series.

"OVER THE YEARS, THE GAME hasn't changed that much," Herzog said. "I've been in the American League with the designated hitter, but it is still baseball."

Herzog entered the season needing nine victories to reach 1,000. Four of the nine triumphs came against last year's World Series champs, the New York Mets.

Herzog is 1,001-856 for his career. He will be honored in a ceremony before the Cardinals' game Tuesday with the San Diego Padres. When he won his 1,000th, team owner August Busch, who made his money selling beer, sent Herzog champagne — Dom Perignon. The Saturday triumph against the Mets was a milestone for someone else on the Cardinals — rookie left-hander Joe Magrane, who posted his first major-league victory.

Iowa takes pair from Drake

By Brad Zimaneck
Sports Editor

Iowa softball pitcher Tracy Langhurst couldn't nail down a doubleheader sweep of Drake Monday, but teammates Carol Bruggeman and Beth Kirchner wouldn't allow the Hawkeyes to let go of the broom handle.

Iowa, 22-21-1 after the wins, was leading the Bulldogs in the second game 1-0 in the top of the seventh when Langhurst's problems began.

Drake third baseman Amy Aversmen lifted a pop fly behind the mound when Langhurst moved back to make the play. The senior from Cedar Rapids got tangled up and went head over heels, allowing the ball to drop safely giving Aversmen a free trip to first.

One out later, Langhurst hit Bulldog first baseman Ann Laughhunn, putting runners on first and second.

LANGHURST, WHO HAD been fighting off Drake rallies most of the day, was then tagged for a double by Kim Zmrhal that tied the game at 1-1. Drake pitcher Kim Wylie then helped herself out by singling to give herself a 2-1 lead.

Centerfielder Kirchner kept Iowa in the game when she caught a fly ball and doubled up Zmrhal on a close play at the plate.

Now it was Bruggeman's turn.

The senior from Charter Oak, Iowa, had already scored Iowa's only run in the second game and went 5-for-7 on the day before stepping to the plate in the bottom of the seventh. She responded to the challenge. She singled.

"I was so mad that they even scored on us. It was a big letdown," Bruggeman said. "I was hoping I could get on and spark the team. So I got a hit. I was nervous, but I wanted to be up."

KAREN WICK SACRIFICED Bruggeman to second. Kirchner, who had the game-winning RBI in Iowa's 5-0 win in the first game of the doubleheader, singled to center and Bruggeman raced home to tie the game.

First baseman Cara Coughenour singled and after a force out stood on second when Lynda Schleuter drove the ball to right field, scoring Coughenour and giving the Hawkeyes a 3-2 win.

The sweep stopped a seven-game Iowa losing streak, including four straight from Ohio State last weekend. "They're not concentrating like they should," Iowa Coach Ginny Parrish said. "All of a sudden people come back and eat away and eat away. The same thing happened today. We had ample opportunities."

Parrish added: "I'm pleased that we won two and broke out of that little rut we're in, but I wasn't real pleased with how we did it. Hopefully the kids learned from this that they almost lost again to a team that they were obviously much better than."

In the first game, Iowa pitcher Cris Barry went the distance in picking up the victory.

Drake's record falls to 11-27 on the season. The Hawkeyes will be in action again today when they play a doubleheader against Western Illinois at Macomb, Ill.

Hawkeyes await NFL draft calls

By Steve Williams
Assistant Sports Editor

Dave Croston and Jeff Drost will headline the names of Iowa football players heading into today's 1987 version of the National Football League draft in New York.

But unlike last year when Iowa was tabbed for three players in the first round of the draft, the outcome of Iowa's graduating seniors may be a while in coming.

Croston was the honor boy for the Hawkeyes in 1987, receiving first team all-American status from Sporting News and Football Writers Association of America and second team All-America from United Press International and Gannett. Croston was also an Outland Trophy finalist, first team all-Big Ten, academic all-Big Ten and a participant in the Japan Bowl.

DROST'S LIST OF HONORS include honorable mention all-American by the Associated Press, all-Big Ten, a nomination for the Lombardi Award and a trip to the Japan Bowl.

But while Croston is picked as a possible first-round choice, Drost may have to wait a little longer for the phone to ring after a season full of injuries deflated his status by NFL standards.

"They both have great potential," quarterback Mark Vlasic said of his Hawkeye teammates. "Both have size and speed and are very smart, so I think their future in the NFL is very bright."

Following a junior season in which he led the team in quarterback sacks, Drost was picked as a captain on the 1986 squad and became a likely candidate for all-American honors.

Injuries limited the play of the 6-foot-5, 286-pound defensive lineman. Still he led the team with six sacks and recorded 35 tackles in a limited amount of playing time.

tain hampered with injuries was Vlasic.

After leading the nation in passing through the first two weeks of the season last year, the Monaca, Pa., native was sidelined with shoulder injuries, limiting his play throughout the remainder of the season.

Vlasic did receive the Most Valuable Player award from the Holiday Bowl and earned an academic all-Big Ten award as well as a spot in the Japan Bowl line-up, but his future in the NFL may be a little tougher to foresee.

"It's tough to say what will happen right now," Vlasic said the day before the draft. "Right now I am a little nervous, but I try not to think about it. I just hope the phone rings tomorrow. But as the rounds get later, the waiting is going to be tougher."

Other players with a shot at becoming an NFL draft choice are Chris Gambol, Kenny Sims, Robert Smith, George Davis, Jon Vrieze, and Mark Sindlinger.

ESPN will televise all rounds of the draft and anyone wishing round-by-round information can contact the draft hotline at 1-900-650-4635.

Hawks hope to continue winning ways

By Eric J. Hess
Assistant Sports Editor

While today's doubleheader with Augustana (Ill.) was canceled, the Hawkeyes now look at a new schedule for the week, featuring Grand View, Augustana and Coe College.

Iowa takes on three-time NAIA District 15 defending champion Grand View in doubleheader action Wednesday. Augustana comes to the the Iowa Baseball Diamond for a single game at 1 p.m. Coe is scheduled to follow with a single game at 3 p.m.

Grand View Coach Lou Yachimich said Iowa will be a good club to meet in preparation for the NAIA tournament to be hosted by Grand View on May 7-9.

Baseball

"It's always tough to beat a Division I ball club," he said. "But we hope to give Iowa everything they can handle."

THE VIKINGS' record stands at 11-20, but Yachimich said those figures don't accurately reflect his team because the team sports a strong Division I schedule.

Grand View will field five top returners for the doubleheader. Senior Brent Rice at shortstop, Tom Sharp at first base and Al Olson in the outfield. Junior catcher Mark Zerkatsky and sophomore reliever Pat Yacinich will also add some depth.

As for the Hawkeyes, Coach Duane Banks and his crew are coming off a successful three-game series against Kansas, taking two of three from the Jayhawks.

First baseman Jason Jones said he hopes to improve on what he believes was his worst weekend of hitting while at Iowa.

"I'm feeling comfortable in the field," the junior transfer from Muscatine Junior College said. "But hitting has been up and down."

The Hawkeyes will need to keep their hot bats and confidence in tact going into the Big Ten action this weekend.

"The next two weekends are going to determine if we go to the Big Ten tournament or not," Jones said. And the Hawkeyes will be battling for the Western Division crown with a pair of doubleheaders at Wisconsin this weekend and a pair of doubleheaders at home against Minnesota on May 8-9.
