500 join to march against racism

By Monica Seigel
University Editor

More than 500 people marched through the streets of downtown Iowa City and congregated on the UI Pentacrest early Wednesday evening to protest racism and discrimination during the highlight of UI Minority Affairs Week 1987.

UI students, faculty members and Iowa City citizens joined forces for about two hours, demonstrating against what one participant called "every form of oppression in our society today."

In the opening address of the event, UI Black Student Union President Kelvin Burton said prejudice in the U.S. stems from a "patriot of America attitude that tells us, 'This is America — love it or leave it.'"

"We're here today to say to America, 'Yes, we do love you,'" he said. "But our mere presence here says we will not accept it in its present condition."

SEVERAL FEATURED speakers echoed Burton's remarks, each focusing on a different aspect of discrimination.

• UI Special Support Services Upward Bound Project Director Arturo Sierra spoke on prejudice against Latinos and urged students to use procedures available to them for reporting instances of discrimination at the UI.

• UI Assistant Professor of English Melbe Boyd spoke on institutional racism, saying there should be more support for the UI African-American Studies Program and similar programs. "These are the study of the legacy of democracy in this country," Boyd said.

• New Wave member Bruce Nestor noted a rise in overt racism in the United States and blamed it on the Reagan administration, saying it is evident in President Ronald Reagan's foreign policies. "Racism in this country allows us to kill people of color and not care about it," he said.

• The Rev. William Burton, president of the Georgia Voters Association, discussed the three levels of consciousness in American society — master, slave and free man. "The free man does not want to be master and will not tolerate being a slave," he said.

• E. Shelton Burden, Affirmative Action director at Auburn University in Alabama, said discrimination against women must be overcome before any other form of discrimination. "Racism will not be killed until sexism is killed," she said.

Fraud case testimony tabs North

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Conservative fund-raiser Carl Channell pleaded guilty Wednesday to the first criminal charges in the Iran-Contra scandal and named Lt. Col. Oliver North as his co-conspirator in defrauding the government with a scheme to arm Nicaraguan rebels.

The guilty plea was part of an agreement reached Tuesday with special prosecutor Lawrence Walsh in exchange for Channell's testimony against North, the former National Security Council aide fired for his role in the secret arms sales to Iran and diversion of profits to the Contras.

Channell's plea marked the first conviction in the scandal and in the history of the special prosecutor's law.

CHANNELL, 41, appearing before U.S. District Judge Stanley Harris, pleaded guilty to the one count of conspiracy, acknowledging he falsely claimed tax-exempt status for his fund-raising group's efforts to raise more than $2 million to provide the Nicaraguan Contras with military and other non-humanitarian aid.

The diminutive, well-dressed fund-raiser, whose efforts on behalf of conservative causes have been supported personally by President Ronald Reagan, named as his co-conspirators North and Richard Miller, the president of International Business Communications, a public relations firm that has been linked to the private aid network for the rebels.

ASKED WHY NORTH was not indicted, Walsh associate counsel David Zornow said after the hearing, "Our investigation is continuing. And as you learned today, Mr. Channell is cooperating with that investigation."

North's attorney was not available for comment.

Miller, in a statement released by his attorney, denied he conspired with Channell in any illegality.

"No charges have been yet brought against me and no details of Mr. Channell's allegations have yet been made public," Miller said. "I categorically deny that I conspired with Mr. Channell or anyone else for that purpose or any illegal purpose."

THE DEVELOPMENT came as congressional leaders announced that another key figure in the scandal, retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord, will be the first witness at public hearings that begin next Tuesday.

Secord, considered a key middleman in both the arms transactions and Contra aid network, will testify without immunity and will be followed by former national security adviser Robert McFarlane on Capitol Hill.

At the White House, a spokesman declined to comment on any personal contacts Reagan may have had with Channell, but noted the president had requested a full investigation of the scandal.

"The president said, 'Let the chips fall where they may,'" the spokesman reiterated.

Later, in an interview with CBS News, the chairman of the Senate select committee, Daniel Inouye, said there was no proof Reagan knew of the diversion, but the president's personal notes and other evidence shows, "He was very much knowledgeable about the events occurring around him."

Bill OK'd despite trade war warnings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House ignored warnings of a trade war Wednesday and narrowly approved Rep. Richard Gephardt's amendment to force U.S. trading partners to open their markets or face severe sanctions.

The 218-214 vote, seen by many as an anti-Japan statement, occurred hours before Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone arrived in the nation's capital for a state visit.

Opponents of the Gephardt amendment — including President Ronald Reagan — believe it would invite retaliation from other nations.

But the president chose to interpret the narrow passage as a victory, saying he was "pleased by the size and strength" of the anti-Gephardt forces, which sent a "clear signal: that protectionism is not the way to resolve our trade imbalance."

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., who led the opposition, said he too was pleased with the close vote, adding that if it wasn't offered by Gephardt — who he described as "a popular young man" — it probably would have been defeated.

BUSINESS representatives criticized the House action, with American Business Conference President William Lillie calling the Gephardt amendment "an irrelevant solution to a grave national economic crisis."

The amendment, part of a sweeping trade reform package now under consideration by the House, would target countries that have excessive trade surpluses with the United States and engage in unfair trade practices.

If negotiations failed to eliminate the problem after six months, the offending nation would be forced to cut its exports to the United States by 10 percent across the board.

The reform bill, expected to come to a final vote Thursday as Nakasone meets Reagan at the White House, calls for tougher action against unfair trade practices, improved benefits for import-battered industries and displaced workers, expanded export promotion efforts and reduced export controls on low-technology products.

Parents upset over sex texts threaten to keep kids home

By Carol Monaghan
Staff Writer

Although a new sex education textbook series will begin to be taught at Iowa City Regina Elementary next week, several parents who object to the series may pull their children out of the Catholic school.

Sister Jean Marie Brady, principal of Regina Elementary School, said the New Creation textbook series, published by W.C. Brown Co. of Dubuque, will begin to be taught in classrooms at the first through sixth levels next week.

"The series takes in more than the biological aspects," Brady said. "It takes in the whole aspect of human sex. By our very being, we are sexual people."

The series is a revised version of the same Creation series that was taught in the schools for a short time this past fall, but then discontinued after parent's objections led the school board to review the textbook series, Iowa City Catholic School Board President Bob Boyd said.

"We were concerned enough to take the texts out of the system and review them for six months," Boyd said. "Some graphic things I can understand may be too explicit to a third-grader. But most of the objectionable things have been taken care of in the revised text."

AT A FEBRUARY FORUM called by the school board, more than 100 parents and students met for two and a half hours to discuss the texts. Immediately following the forum, the school board voted to use a revised version of the series in the classroom, which does not include some earlier graphics some parents had found objectionable.

The school board also voted to have a teacher-training program in conjunction with the series and gave parents the chance to have their children spend time in the library instead of attending sex education classes.

Another opening meeting Monday attended by school faculty, administrators, board members and parents reviewed the revised texts and the overall curriculum for sex education classes.

Boyd said the majority of parents approve of the texts, including some who had objections to the unrevised edition.

But a few parents say they do not approve of the New Creation series.

"I'm definitely going to have my children opt out (of sex education classes)," parent Charlotte Gavin said. "I'm opposed to those particular texts, although I'm not

Confused deer stages classroom 'break-in'

By Bruce Japsen
City Editor

It wasn't a typical breaking and entering incident for UI Campus Security Wednesday evening when a "confused" deer broke into two buildings on the west side of campus.

But deer roaming the UI Campus in the spring is not unusual, according to Lt. Ralph Moody of UI Campus Security.

"It's that time of year when females are usually carrying a foal for the first time," Moody said. "They get confused. They come onto campus and they go ape."

Moody said two deer have been killed in the past 30 days, after being hit by cars on Mormon Trek Boulevard.

"We've had a lot of deer on campus before," Moody said. "One got into Med Labs once and did a lot of damage."

Moody said deer that roam the UI campus could be dangerous. "Their hooves are sharp," Moody said. "If a deer is alive, don't go too close to it. Stay back and call one of us."

Several witnessed Wednesday's incident when a doe jumped through a window and into a classroom at the Steindler Building at about 5:30 p.m. The animal broke three windows before it ventured east, jumped 15 feet off of a ledge and entered Bowen Science Building through a loading dock door.

"It sure was mayhem over there," UI Anatomy Professor Ron Bergman said.

Bergman, Campus Security officers and custodians helped capture the deer after it became tired due to loss of blood from cuts suffered during the incident.

An Iowa Conservation Commission officer examined the deer and determined that the animal had to be put to sleep because of a broken jaw.

Freedman to moderate symposium today

UI President James O. Freedman will serve as moderator for a symposium on "Society's Changing Expectations of the University" from 1:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. today in Levitt Auditorium of the Boyd Law Center.

The panel of speakers will include: U.S. Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa; Edward Jennings, president of Ohio State University and former UI vice president for Finance and University Services; Ernest L. Boyer, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching; and Barry Sherman, director of clinical research for Genentech Inc. and a former faculty member in the UI College of Medicine.

The symposium is part of a celebration to honor Duane Spriestersbach, UI vice president for Educational Development and Research, for his years of service at the UI, first as a professor and for the last 22 years, as one of the chief UI administrators.

Spriestersbach was to have retired at the end of the current academic year but will continue in his position for one more year while the UI searches for a successor to Freedman.

The symposium is free and open to the public.

UI study links 'chew' to oral disorders

A study conducted by a UI graduate student confirmed the hypothesis that a connection between smokeless tobacco and oral lesions exists. These leukoplakic lesions have been linked to the onset of oral cancer.

Lynn Budding of the UI College of Dentistry examined juvenile smokeless tobacco users in the Wilton Community School District in October 1986. Of 251 high school students surveyed, 96 males and 17 females had tried smokeless tobacco and 26 regular users agreed to be examined. Of these users, 60 percent were found to have oral lesions.

"In nearly all the cases, a lesion was occurring where the student reported placing the smokeless tobacco," Budding said.

Budding said time is a critical factor in lesion development, as students who kept tobacco in their mouths longer were more likely to have lesions. He also found that smokeless tobacco use was most often prompted by friends who were using it.

The National Institute of Health estimates that 10 million Americans — 3 million of whom are under the age of 21 — use smokeless tobacco each year. Budding's work is the first study of juvenile smokeless tobacco use in Iowa. It is a pilot study for further research Budding hopes to do statewide.

Researchers probe day-care accidents

Results of a study conducted by UI Associate Professor of Education Richard Elardo show that accidents occur frequently at day-care centers, although injuries are usually minor.

The study involved all reported accidents at the UI Early Childhood Education Center. The analysis of 1,324 accidents in a 42-month period showed that nearly 75 percent were head injuries. Of these, 43 percent were self-induced, such as children tripping over their own feet.

Falls caused the most injuries followed by collisions and bites. Abrasions were the most common type of injury, followed by swelling, human bites and bruises.

Elardo said most previous studies dealt only with less frequent serious injuries. About 99 percent of injuries in the UI study could be treated by washing, applying ice or a bandage or comforting the child.

The study included 133 children enrolled at the UI day-care center during its last three and one-half years of operation. The children ranged in age from two months to six years.

2 City High students receive art honors

Two Iowa City City High School students are among 1,000 young artists nationwide whose work has been selected for top honors as 1987 National Scholastic Art Awards winners.

Nichelle Reighard, 18, won a medal in the pastels division and Chris Buckman, 15, took an honorable mention in the same category.

Finalists in the contest were selected from more than 150,000 entries submitted.

The Daily Iowan will correct unfair or inaccurate stories or headlines. If a report is wrong or misleading, call the DI at 335-5965. A correction or clarification will be published in this column.

In a story called "Iowa fireworks bill sparks concern" (DI, April 28), the name of the chairman of the Committee against Fireworks in Iowa should have been John Nesbitt.

In a story called "Man nearly drowns after fall off bridge" (DI, April 29), the headline should have indicated the man fell from the riverbank into the river.

The DI regrets the errors.

UI Foundation plans to reveal progress

By John Bartenhagen
Staff Writer

The first public announcement of progress made toward achieving the goals of the UI Foundation's $100 million gifts campaign, "Iowa Endowment 2000: A Covenant with Quality," will be made during an evening of entertainment at Hancher Auditorium, Friday, May 8, UI officials announced Wednesday.

UI Foundation Vice President of Communications and Administration Alan Swanson said the amount of contributions so far would be kept secret until next Friday, but added "pledges thus far represent a major advance towards the campaign's goal."

The evening will celebrate the official start of the campaign, to raise $100 million by the year 2000, Swanson said, and will include dance, music, comedy, laser effects, film and fireworks.

UI FOUNDATION President and Campaign Director Darrell D. Wyrick said the program is designed to celebrate progress toward the campaign's singular goal: nourishing and strengthening intellectual quality through private support of the UI's most important resource, its faculty and teachers.

"The creative program will reflect the positive spirit of both the university and the state of Iowa in preparing for the future as well as stimulating broader public understanding of the campaign's purpose," he said.

Wyrick added the campaign, begun in 1985, is under the supervision of the National Steering Committee and the UI Foundation's Board of Directors. Meetings of both committees will coincide with the May 8 announcement of the campaign's progress.

THE STEERING committee is led by Chairman Marvin Pomerantz, Des Moines businessman and recent appointee to the state Board of Regents.

Board members include: Susan Boyd, wife of former UI President Willard Boyd; Clark Houghton, president of the Iowa City First National Bank; John English, vice president of the Ford Foundation; and Los Angeles filmmaker Nicholas Meyer, director of the film Volunteers.

Swanson said the evening's entertainment will focus on Iowa artists and "our commitment to excellence at the UI."

Appearing together on stage for the first time will be Duck's Breath Mystery Theatre, the Old Gold Singers and the UI Dance Company. Swanson said a 23-minute documentary about the UI, "Light on the River," will be included in the entertainment and represents the ideals of the campaign.

HE ADDED THE campaign's symbol is a pair of hands sheltering a flame while passing it to another pair of hands.

"We want to keep passing on excellence from this generation into the future," Swanson said. "The purpose is to find excellent professors and graduate students, to bring them to the UI and to keep them here."

Larry Eckholt, UI Foundation director of Arts Fund Raising, said the theme of light will be prevalent in both the evening's presentation and the campaign itself.

"We think light is an appropriate symbol of the University of Iowa — what it has meant over the years and what it will mean in the future," he said. "Light is a symbol for the Iowa Endowment Campaign as well."

No admission will be charged for the event, he added. "We're not asking for donations of any kind from the people there because we know the UI can sell itself."

However, reserved-seat tickets are required for the event, a limited number of which will be available to the public.

Courts

Two UI students were arrested on a charge of stealing a computer printer and three disc drives from an Iowa City school made their initial appearance Wednesday in Johnson County District Court.

Kathy A. Kilburg, 18, of 2317 Burge Residence Hall, and Christopher R. Rettkowski, 21, of 906 Benton Drive Apt. 22, were charged with second-degree burglary after the incident last Thursday.

Court records state Kilburg and Rettkowski admitted taking the printer and discs from Roosevelt School, 611 Greenwood Drive.

Kilburg and Rettkowski were released on their own recognizance. Their preliminary hearings are scheduled for May 13.

An Iowa City man who was arrested on a charge of stealing $145 cash from an apartment made his initial appearance Wednesday in Johnson County District Court.

Stanley Jackson, 24, was charged with third-degree theft after the April 21 incident at an apartment at 302 S. Gilbert St.

Court records state a witness told Iowa City police officers he saw Jackson take the money off of a table in the apartment and put it in his pocket.

The witness said he did not confront Jackson immediately following the incident because he did not know who the money belonged to, court records state.

Jackson was being held Wednesday at the Johnson County Jail in lieu of a $1,000 bond. His preliminary hearing is scheduled for May 8.

An Iowa City man who was arrested on a charge of failing to return to a local rehabilitation facility where he was serving a sentence made his initial appearance Wednesday in Johnson County District Court.

Larry G. Davis, 38, of Project

H.O.P.E., 1916 Waterfront Drive, was charged with escape from custody after he did not return last Thursday to the facility.

Court records state a staff member at the facility checked on Davis at the Free Medical Clinic, 120 N. Dubuque St., where Davis signed out to go, but was not present at the time of the call.

When Davis later failed to return, staff from the facility contacted Iowa City police officers, court records state.

Davis was being held Wednesday at the Johnson County Jail in lieu of a $5,000 bond. His preliminary hearing is scheduled for May 8.

Work-study boost seen as 'unlikely'

By Shawn Plank
Staff Writer

A proposal to increase UI faculty salaries will likely be approved by the Iowa House of Representatives, but plans to boost state-funded work-study for UI students may fall prey to the budget ax.

Rep. Charles Poncey, D-Ottumwa, chairman of the House Appropriation Subcommittee on Education, said a $691 million appropriations bill, passed by the Iowa Senate Tuesday, requires "considerable revision" and the House will "amend most of the increases."

One increase proposed by the Senate, but in jeopardy in the House, is a $1.5 million boost in a state-funded work-study program for Iowa college students. Gov. Terry Branstad said he would give $1 million toward work-study, the same amount as last year. Most of that money — $640,000 — would be allocated toward private college students.

Sen. Rich Varn, D-Solon, introduced a proposal into the bill that would increase work-study to $2.5 million — $1.5 million for public university students and $1 million for private college students.

BUT PONCEY SAID he was "doubtful" the House would keep the increases in the work-study program and would likely return to Branstad's proposal.

"Generally, the larger amount goes to private schools because their tuition is higher and they lack the internal ability to give any work programs to students," Poncey said.

United Students of Iowa Campus Director Greg Shoultz, who spoke to Senate leaders Tuesday night, said the work-study provision had a good chance of passing in the House.

"People seem to think we have the money because it got out of committee," he said.

But Poncey said the Senate subcommittee that drew up the proposal lacked any direction from senate leadership and proposed spending too much money.

PONCEY SAID PLANS to increase faculty salaries at the UI and Iowa State University will likely be approved.

"One good thing about the commitment to salary increases is to keep instructors and professors," he said.

In November, UI President James O. Freedman and ISU President Gordon P. Eaton urged the state Board of Regents to increase faculty salaries 13 percent using money from 12 percent tuition increases. Poncey said 6 percent of the salary increase will come from tuition and the other 7 percent will come from state funds and internal reallocation within each university.

But UI Vice President of Academic Affairs Richard Remington, who also serves as dean of faculties, said there is currently no set percentage increase for faculty salaries. But he anticipates it will be in the double digits.

Poncey said the entire appropriations bill will come before the House Appropriations Committee early next week. The legislature had planned to adjourn May 1.

Student court reduces Action fines

By Scott Hauser
Staff Writer

The UI Student Judicial Court reduced by $3 dollars per candidate the election campaigning fines levied against the members of the Action party, overturning the $10 fine levied last month by the UI Elections Board.

The 29 Action party candidates will be fined $7 dollars apiece for a total of $213 for the party, the court ruled, instead of the $10 per candidate the board had decided.

In reaching its conclusion, the 6-member court said the meeting at which the elections board decided on the extent of the fines was improperly held.

"We don't believe a meeting was ever held to discuss the fines," UI Student Judicial Court Chief Justice Dave Kuntz said in giving the court's verdict.

THE MEETING WAS improperly held because, contrary to Robert's Rules of Order which are UI groups' procedural guide, improper proxy ballots were considered and a quorum of members wasn't present.

The court agreed the Action party was guilty and should be fined, but said the two different types of violations should be fined equally.

In March the board found the Action party guilty of three counts of violating rules regulating the distribution of campaign literature and one count of writing on UI campus chalkboards.

The Allied Student Action Party was also found guilty of the chalkboard offense.

In April, the board levied a $1 dollar fine for the chalkboard offense against each party and a $3 fine for each of the distribution offenses for a total of $290 against Action and $29 against ASAP.

THE APRIL MEETING was ruled improper by the court.

"Although it wasn't to the completest extent, it supports what we've been saying: that the elections board acted unfairly and didn't uniformly enforce the rules," Action presidential candidate Mike Gainer said of the verdict.

He represented the Action party in the proceeding and argued the elections board imposed excessive fines against Action while ASAP wasn't fined for the same offenses. He also accused UI Elections Board Chairman Jerry Miller of being biased in his decision-making.

Miller said the court was correct in saying the board misinterpreted the application of Robert's Rules of Order.

"There was no malicious intent involved and I apologize for that," Miller said. "It was entirely my fault."

He said, however, the court did not adequately address the issue of how to assess fines.

Graduate grants gone; waiting lists offer hope

By Shawn Plank
Staff Writer

Funds for the UI-supported Graduate Tuition Grants are exhausted, but UI Student Financial Aid Associate Director Mark Warner said some students who weren't awarded the grant may receive financial aid from other sources.

The grant, based on a graduate student's need and awarded toward tuition, was awarded to about 250 students, Warner said. The grant money ranges from $60 to full resident tuition, or about $1,800.

Despite the lack of funds for grants, students may still be eligible to earn money through the College Work-Study program or receive money through the Perkins Loan program.

But by this time in the year most of the financial aid funds are committed, UI Student Financial Aid Director John Moore said.

"IT'S NOT A bottomless pit," he said. "We have a lot more applicants than we do funds."

Most grant, loan and employment programs for student aid had a March 1 priority deadline. Applications received before the deadline are processed according to need and those received after March 1 are dealt with on a first-come, first-serve basis, Moore said.

"Generally by the end of April we have committed all the funds we are expecting to have," Moore said. "As we have people drop out, we bring people on the wait list."

Warner said some graduate students may receive teaching or research assistantships that would reduce their financial need, making them ineligible for the tuition grant. Others may receive other forms of financial aid or decide not to return to the UI in the fall.

The financial aid office initially notifies all graduate students who meet the need requirement, plus an extra 10 percent. Students who later receive other aid or leave the UI are then cut from the list, Warner said.

"If history repeats itself, the attrition we build in gets to the point where the funds are not overspent," he said.

In the 1986-87 school year, the UI awarded $240,000 in Graduate Tuition Grants, Warner said.

spoke optimistically on the potential for minorities. "We must have affirmative action," he said. "But we must back it up with affirmative excellence."

The march and rally was sponsored by the UI Black Student Union and co-sponsored by the UI Liberal Arts Student Association, Colleague Associations Council, Student Senate and Minority Recruitment Committee.

Pepe Rojas-Cardona, a member of the senate minority affairs committee said he was pleased with the numbers and diversity of the people who attended the rally.

opposed to sex education." Gavin said she feels the text is "too explicit" and gives too much information before the child is ready.

GAVIN SAID SHE objected with the way the matter was handled by the school system and is considering pulling her three children out of the Regina schools.

"My husband and I are looking for alternatives for our children," Gavin said.

She said two families this spring have already pulled their children out of Regina because of the textbook controversy and added more families are considering doing the same in the fall.

But Boyd said the board plans to stand firm on its decision.

"This board is not going to be blackmailed by any such threat by parents who wish to have their kids pulled out of school," Boyd said. "While it's not something we want to see happen, it may only work to harm their children in the end."

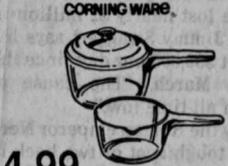

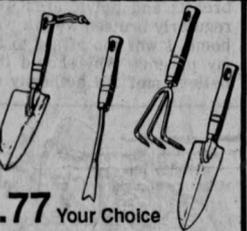

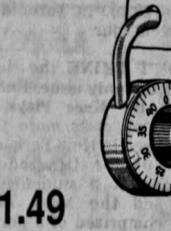

Sister Brady said the textbook series incorporates Catholic church teachings on marriage and moral responsibility.

"Children are bombarded constantly," Brady said, especially of television's sexual images. "We can't close our eyes to it. I would rather see the children receive a good Christian viewpoint on it."

The show goes on

After more than six weeks of damaging disclosures about their less-than-saintly behavior, America's television evangelists continue to suffer setbacks. And, having seen them rake in literally millions of dollars in donations and gifts over the years, it's hard to feel very sorry for them.

Fresh from the "Holy War" front are new allegations concerning former PTL minister Jim Bakker's sexual forays, including alleged homosexual relations, spouse swapping and frequent visits to the local brothel. Despite Bakker's denials, the charges have once again stirred up the controversy engulfing the television ministry. On Tuesday, the PTL leadership cut off Bakker's $1.6 million salary and barred him from returning to his post.

Joining Bakker on the hot seat is the Rev. Robert Schuller, who in 1985 led followers to believe he was on a religious mission to China and in need of money to continue his ministry. Actually, according to those who worked with Schuller, the minister never left southern California, but he used a movie-set depiction of the Great Wall of China to convince viewers he was in the Far East.

Naturally, the revelation of such dishonest dealings has hurt T.V. preachers. The Rev. Jerry Falwell of the Moral Majority claims to have lost nearly $2 million in the past month and the Rev. Jimmy Swaggart says his ministry has been losing about $50,000 per day since the Bakker scandal erupted in March. "The cause of Christ," says Falwell, "is at an all-time low."

That is doubtful, considering the Roman emperor Nero had the early Christians in a tough spot or two back in the first century. What is at an all-time low, hopefully, is tolerance for the escapades of deceitful T.V. evangelists. The crimes these so-called preachers have committed — including the use of their offices to add to their personal wealth — are on par with those of big business racketeers and they should be held accountable. Surely, the "cause of Christ" will operate independent of any television interruptions.

Up in smoke

If most members of the Iowa City School Board have their way, smoking may soon be prohibited in local schools. Tuesday night the board approved the first reading of a policy that would ultimately ban all smoking on school property. The policy, which will be voted on at the next meeting, would require all district buildings, vehicles and grounds to be "smoke-free" during school hours.

While some clauses of the policy need to be ironed out, board members and administrators deserve a pat on the back for taking a position on a controversial issue. Drawing up a policy that prohibits smoking in schools is a risky endeavor — some will undoubtedly be perturbed with a smoking ban — but such action is needed to protect the health of students and teachers.

The recent U.S. Surgeon General's report on the effects of passive smoking offers strong evidence that nonsmokers, in many instances, are substantially harmed by the smoke of other people's cigarettes, cigars and pipes. According to Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, second-hand smoke is a leading cause of lung cancer, emphysema and heart disease.

Although the medical testimony is alarming, some are already protesting such a policy, saying it infringes on the rights of smokers. True, the U.S. Constitution grants all citizens certain basic rights, but this document does not give smokers the license to harm others. When the personal rights of others — the right to protect one's health in this case — are violated, it is time for policy passage.

"Why should my health be jeopardized just because someone cannot kick a smoking habit?" Board President Randall Jordison said. "Should I have to suffer for something (a smoker) cannot control?"

The school board should continue to fight for a smoke-free environment. Passing the "no smoking" policy will safeguard the health of hundreds of children and adults and may inspire other governmental bodies, businesses and restaurants to take similar action.

Women unite to take back the night

By Jane Doe

TAKE BACK the Night is an event protesting violence against women. It serves to bring women together in solidarity to provide support and raise awareness. The rally and march will be held May 2 at 7 p.m. on the Pentacrest. Traditionally, women have not been allowed a space in which they can discuss their oppression and share their experiences with other women. Take Back the Night is for any woman who has been afraid of the violence she sees around her and who has been immobilized by that fear.

Take Back the Night is important to me because for years I lived with an experience that I could not discuss with anyone. When I was 10 years old I was beaten and sexually assaulted by a group of boys at my grade school in Iowa City. I had just moved to the district and learned that this was common practice during recess and would be the first of many group attacks. I was one victim among many girls the boys decided to target.

IT WAS TAKEN for granted that all boys were sadists, enjoying inflicting pain on others as evidence of their "natural" aggression and destructiveness. Girls, in turn, were believed to welcome the attention, however violent, because it indicated male approval. Girls were conversely masochists, enjoying pain and humiliation.

At one point a few girls asked me to talk to the principal. I went to his office, feeling shy and intimidated. When I told him: "We are being molested,"

Graphic by Mette Offenberg

Guest Opinion

he laughed, thinking I couldn't possibly know what I was saying.

The 10 of us who had been assaulted were too ashamed to be specific and use anatomical names. Even though my breasts and pelvic area were regularly bruised when I went home, I was too afraid to tell my parents. Why should they believe me? All authority figures seemed to say: "Boys will be boys; that's just the way it is." The assaults continued for two years until I graduated and went on to junior high. I would keep the events secret for another six years.

COMING TO COLLEGE, involving myself in women's groups, I was to discover I was not alone. Many women I met and spoke with had gone through similar ordeals in the forms of incest, domestic violence, spouse abuse or "date rape." It was not limited to race, class or even age. Our experience was common as well in that we were made to feel ashamed, as though we had brought the violence on ourselves and had therefore deserved it.

"I knew him," "I trusted him," "I invited him into my house" are common phrases among the women I spoke with. In most cases the assailant was someone they knew, a family member, a co-worker, a peer, a friend.

I WAS NOT ALONE in numbers or in guilt. We were to keep silent and not talk openly of our experiences. Again and again women are still told that somehow, something they said, a look they gave, something they wore, provoked the attack. They secretly "wanted it."

But, no one asks or deserves to be degraded and abused. No means no.

Take Back the Night strives to address the assumptions of our culture, a culture that tolerates and even encourages violence against women. A culture in which rape remains a male prerogative for a husband, boyfriend or acquaintance. Men remain in the role of the aggressor and potential tyrant; women in the role of the dependent, living in fear.

As a victim of this violence and fear, I invite all women and men to come in protest to the Pentacrest Saturday night. Take Back the Night is a rally completely organized and run by women, many of whom have overcome their victimization with strength. So, come not only in protest, but come to see and celebrate the empowerment of women. Take back the night!

Why do UI students avoid Hancher?

By Kevin Goulding

AS AN ARTS management student and graduate assistant in advertising and marketing at Hancher Auditorium, I would like to respond to Keith Meyers' letter to the editor regarding expensive ticket prices at Hancher (The Daily Iowan, April 20). Hancher Auditorium is a non-profit organization. Ticket prices are determined solely with the intent of breaking even. Furthermore, student ticket prices are set 20 percent below prices for the public.

Let's consider the Twyla Tharp Dance ticket prices that Meyers refers to. The top student ticket was $15.20. If a student had purchased the two-event Dance Series, the price would have been $12.16, a cost approximately 36 percent less than a full-priced, public, individual event ticket. Hancher consistently offers world-class performances at prices far lower than at other locations. For example, Twyla Tharp Dance drew a top ticket price of $32.00 in Toronto on the current tour.

I DON'T THINK the ticket price is the only issue. Robert Wilson's The Knee Plays, an event which costs more than $30.00 to see in New York, cost only $8.00 for UI students here; and if a student had purchased the Next Wave Series, comprised of 5 performances, it would have cost less than $7.00 per ticket. More than 500 students from selected classes were given the opportunity to purchase tickets for as low as $6.00.

Also, Hancher offered a $5.00 student rush for Nina Wiener and Dancers and for the Mark Morris Dance Group. For all of the above events, there were empty seats. Obviously, it wasn't because the ticket prices were too high.

I think students are reluctant to attend live performances of contemporary or "experimental" artists or groups such as Robert Wilson, Mabou Mines, Nina Wiener and Dancers, etc. Increasingly, students seem content to limit their cultural intake to Ferris Bueller's Day Off or the most popular rock groups. I like the movies, too, but Pee Wee Herman and Michael J. Fox take me only so far.

A UNIVERSITY EDUCATION is more than just preparing for the (first) job; to be fully worthwhile, it should involve experiencing new ideas and new people and exploring new opportunities. These are the kinds of things students will carry with them the rest of their lives. It is Hancher's role — as well as that of the other units of the Iowa Center for the Arts, such as the University Theaters, Dance Department and the School of Music, and other groups like SCOPE — to make these cultural opportunities available. But it is the responsibility of the individual UI student to take advantage of these opportunities.

Concerning next year's season at Hancher: There are 37 events in the season. If a student were to purchase the lowest priced seats, he or she could attend every event for an average of $8.38 per ticket. This would include the world premiere of The Joffrey Ballet's The Nutcracker, Cats, the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, Mummerschanz, etc., several of which have top-priced tickets of more than $25.00.

I think Hancher is fulfilling its obligation to offer the best in entertainment at the lowest possible prices. As a student, I fully realize money is very tight. I agree with Meyers' suggestion that the administration or the Student Senate consider subsidizing student ticket costs. Perhaps the existing Hancher student discount could be further subsidized by the Student Senate or the UI.

Involvement marks oldest preschool

By Suzy Price
Staff Writer

Iowa City's oldest cooperative preschool, University Preschool, will celebrate its 40th birthday next month while it continues to encourage parental involvement.

The Veterans' Playschool, 212 Myrtle Ave., as it was called, was set up for children of World War II veterans studying at the UI. It opened Jan. 12, 1947 with one full-time teacher and several parent volunteers.

Although parents no longer have to teach, they are still involved, according to the preschool's director, Kay Prediger.

"The parents are very important here," Prediger said. "They are still welcome to teach and every spring they are invited to spend some time in the school."

The school board, which decides all policies, is entirely composed of parents.

Cathy Weingeist, president of the preschool board, said she believes parents are the school's biggest asset.

"We have young parents who are not burned out," said Weingeist, who has children enrolled at the preschool. "They give a lot and don't just see it as a place to dump the kids."

The school is still non-profit and self-supporting.

"It is nice to feel the school is not owned by anyone," Weingeist said.

THERE ARE 23 children between the ages of 3 and 5 in a class, and they attend either two or three half-days a week.

The children at the school are primarily linked to the UI as they are not only students' children, but children of hospital residents or teachers, Prediger said.

"Socialization is our main aim here," Prediger, who has been director since 1974, said. "We provide an opportunity for children to experience different toys and activities. They choose what they want to do."

The children help make their own snacks, such as pizza, muffins or fruit salad in weekly cooking sessions. They also take many trips, aided by parents, to farms, the UI Museum of Art, the UI College of Dentistry or the Iowa City Fire Station. The preschool also has a picnic twice a year.

WHILE THE STUDENTS keep occupied with the various activities, the teachers seem to enjoy themselves as much as the children.

"Children are so eager to try everything and are excited about learning," Prediger said.

Tish Cook, an assistant teacher sends both of her children to the preschool.

"What makes the school special is the emphasis on socialization," Cook said. "I enjoy working with the kids most, they are all individual personalities. We rarely have a dull day."

Penny Balmer, who has two children at the school and is ex-president of the board said the facilities at the preschool make for a unique atmosphere.

"The children learn to follow directions and have a good time doing it," she said. "There is a very friendly camaraderie between the families involved. I think it's good for children to get out of the house and do their own thing."

The school's birthday party will be May 17. Those who work with the school hope to invite as many old pupils as they can.

Media pioneer Harshbarger dies at 86

A UI professor, who was a pioneer in the teaching of radio and television in the United States and former chairman of the UI Department of Speech and Dramatic Art, died Sunday, April 26, at UI Hospitals following a brief illness.

H. Clay Harshbarger, 86, taught the first radio course at the UI in 1930 and introduced courses in television at the UI in the early 1940s.

Harshbarger is survived by his wife, Gretchen, of Iowa City; two sons and a sister.

Memorial services will be held at 2 p.m. May 10 in Communication Studies Building Room 101. Memorial contributions may be made to the H. Clay Harshbarger Fund through the UI Foundation.

When Harshbarger was hired by the UI in 1930 and began to teach radio, he admitted his knowledge was limited.

"I knew the difference between a microphone and a loudspeaker," Harshbarger said at the time.

But he learned quickly and soon became a leading director of radio drama. He was awarded a Rockefeller Fellowship in 1937 to study network radio at CBS.

HE BECAME THE director of the UI Liberal Arts Advisory Office in 1948, before being promoted to assistant dean and finally associate dean, a post he held until he retired in 1968.

In 1956, Harshbarger was appointed chairman of the Department of Speech and Dramatic Art, which was later split into the two separate departments of Communication Studies and Theatre Arts, a post he also held until retirement. During his tenure as chairman, Harshbarger is credited by colleagues as being responsible for the renaissance of that department by giving special and equal emphasis to research and artistic work.

He received the Distinguished Service Award from the Iowa Broadcaster's Association in 1972 and co-authored the book Television: Techniques for Planning and Production, with UI Communication Studies Professor Samuel Becker.

House speaker blasts Branstad 'slush' fund

DES MOINES (UPI) — House Speaker Don Avenson, D-Oelwein, said Wednesday he wants to cut funding to Gov. Terry Branstad's Ambassador Program because it has turned into a $1 million slush fund to pay caterers and hotel bills.

His comments came as the Democrat-controlled House debated a plan to remove a grain exporting program from the Ambassador Program and create a new grain trading company in the Department of Agriculture, run by Democratic Agriculture Secretary Dale Cochran.

"The Ambassador Program has really become a slush fund for the governor that he uses for whatever purpose," Avenson told reporters Wednesday.

"It really raises some serious questions. We put $1 million in the program on the last night of the session last year and he has only spent $100,000 of it. He used it to hold receptions and pay for catering and hotel bills," he said.

"NOW HE HAS STARTED the quality grain program there. I don't think anyone envisioned doing that in the Ambassador Program. We were supposed to be sending people out around Iowa and to other states to recruit business and attract people to Iowa. It has been misused," Avenson said.

Branstad set up the grain quality program last year and named former U.S. Rep. Cooper Evans, R-Iowa, to run it.

The partisan proposal debated on the House floor Wednesday would establish a separate investor-financed Iowa Export Trading Company at a cost to the state of $289,000. The company would assist producers, shippers and exporters by expanding existing markets and developing new markets, said Rep. Dennis May, D-Kensett, the bill's sponsor.

W. Germany gives promise to terrorists

BONN, West Germany — West Germany has promised terrorists holding two German hostages it will not extradite a Lebanese wanted by the United States on a hijacking charge if the captives are released, it was reported Wednesday.

The Bild newspaper said Bonn had informed the pro-Iranian Hezbollah, or Party of God, who kidnapped the Germans in Beirut that the suspected hijacker, Mohammed Ali Hamadei, 22, will be tried by a German court and not a U.S. court if the hostages are freed.

The newspaper, known for its reliable security sources, said the government has contacted the kidnapers through Syrian and Israeli intermediaries.

Along with the offer, the government indicated to the kidnapers that its patience is not unlimited and if the hostages are not freed, Hamadei might be extradited to the United States, the Bild said.

The United States wants to try Hamadei for the June 14, 1985 hijacking of a TWA Flight 847 from Athens to Beirut and the murder of a U.S. Navy diver, one of the 153 passengers.

Stricken freighter found on Atlantic

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland — A stricken freighter with 24 crew members aboard was taking on water through a broken hatch Wednesday in high seas on the Atlantic Ocean, about 1,200 miles east of the Maryland shore, officials said.

No injuries were reported among the 24 crew members aboard the Panamanian-registered Skipper One, which was headed from Boston to Turkey carrying scrap iron when it was struck by high seas, a Canadian Coast Guard spokesman said.

Spokesman Clarence Peddle said the C.S.S. Hudson, an oceanography vessel from Nova Scotia, arrived on the scene Wednesday evening and was helping evacuate 24 crew members from the stricken vessel.

"We have word now that they are abandoning the freighter," he said. "They'll try to get the crew into lifeboats and transfer over to the Hudson."

Winds were 45 knots as of 7 p.m. with 20-foot waves, he said.

Foreign company interested in Amana

AMANA, Iowa — The Hong Kong garment maker interested in expanding the Amana Woolen Mills has been identified as the K.Y. So company, officials said Wednesday.

So has factories in Bangladesh, Sri Lanka and Korea but this would be his first American facility, officials say. The sportswear maker plans a joint venture with the Amana Society and IE Industries, the parent company of Iowa Electric Light and Power.

The group is seeking state lottery money to upgrade the Amana Woolen Mills. Officials plan to ask the state for a $160,000 loan and a $20,000 grant.

Amana Society General Manager Dennis Schrag said about 40 new jobs would be created by the venture with the possibility of doubling the workforce within a couple of years.

Amana Woolen Mills laid off 125 people or all but six employees in 1985, in part because of foreign textile competition.

Toddler dies in fireworks accident

CHICAGO — A 2-year-old boy died Wednesday in a fire caused when his brother set off fireworks in their public housing apartment.

Anthony Fraction was killed when an afternoon fire swept through the bedroom of the toddler's apartment in the Robert Taylor Homes public housing project Tuesday.

Police said Anthony's 9-year-old brother, Fred, bought bottle rockets and whistling bombs from peddlers and lit them in a bedroom where Anthony was sleeping.

Fire spread through the bedroom and fatally burned Anthony as his 29-year-old mother and a 15-year-old brother tried to extinguish the blaze.

Police arrested two people who allegedly sold the fireworks to Fred Fraction and charged them with illegal possession of fireworks. William Golden, 55, and Estella Price, allegedly sold fireworks and snacks from a van parked outside the project.

High price expected for Van Gogh work

NEW YORK — A steely blue painting by Vincent van Gogh is going on the block and is expected to bring an estimated $15 million, the second highest in history, Christie's auction house announced Wednesday.

"Le Pont de Trinquetaille," painted during an 1888 frenzy of activity by the artist while in the south of France, will be offered in London on June 29, Christie's said.

The announcement "comes hot on the heels" of a recent record-breaking $40 million sale of one of Van Gogh's famous "Sunflowers" paintings.

Christopher Burge, president of Christie's U.S. division, said the auction house sold the vibrant, gold and yellow painting for $39,921,750 to the Yasuda Fire and Marine Insurance Company for a museum in the Japanese firm's Tokyo headquarters.

Goetz: 'I wanted to kill them'

NEW YORK (UPI)—A hushed courtroom Wednesday heard an angry but sorrowful Bernhard Goetz tell police in a taped confession "my intention was to murder" four youths he claimed were about to mug him on a Manhattan subway.

"When I saw what they intended for me, my intention was, was worse than shooting," he said on a two-hour tape recording played for the jury in his attempted murder trial.

"My intention was, I know this sounds horrible, but my intention was to murder them, to hurt them, to make them suffer as much as possible," he said.

Goetz, 39, surrendered to Concord, N.H., police nine days after he shot and wounded the four black youths on a subway Dec. 22, 1984, after at least one of them asked him for $5.

CONCORD POLICE taped the long, rambling confession just hours after he turned himself in.

"They had set a trap for me... it was just so bizarre, it was, I know this is disgusting to say, but it was, it was so easy," he recalled in a nervous, high-pitched voice. "I can't believe it God."

Goetz described how one youth, Troy Canty, approached him and demanded $5.

"His eyes were shiny. He was enjoying himself... They wanted to play with me. You know, it's kind of like a cat playing with a mouse," he said.

"If you put people in a situation where they're threatened with mayhem, several times, and then if, then if something happens, and a person acts, turns into a vicious animal... what do you expect?" he continued.

The jury followed the four tapes over earphones and a printed transcript.

Goetz, who previously had been mugged three times, claims he shot the four youths in self-defense.

He was charged with attempted murder, assault, reckless endangerment and illegal weapons possession and faces 30 years in prison if convicted.

Tree breaks woman's 18-story fall

NORMAL, ILL. (UPI) — An Illinois State University student remained in critical condition Wednesday after accidentally falling 18 stories from her dormitory room, authorities said.

The woman, whose fall Tuesday afternoon was broken by a small tree, landed on soft soil covered by wood chips, police said. She was listed in critical but stable condition with multiple fractures, a spokesman for Brokaw Hospital said.

The woman, Mary Elizabeth Zilly, 18, of Aurora, Ill., was alone in her room on the 18th floor or the 28-story building when she fell, authorities said.

"Illinois State University police have ruled out foul play and have reason to believe it was an accident," Jude Boyer, associate vice president for student affairs, said in a statement.

U.S., Japan set for trade talks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, leaving behind a rising yen and waning political support, arrived in the United States Wednesday for key talks with President Ronald Reagan on easing the worst trade conflict between the two nations since World War II.

Nakasone's special Japan Air Lines jetliner touched down at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington at 5:30 p.m. The prime minister, accompanied by his wife and aides, was greeted by Secretary of State George Shultz and is scheduled to meet today and Friday with Reagan.

The conservative, outspoken Nakasone, 68, who has departed from traditional Japanese style to forge a "presidential" leadership, will meet with Reagan at a time when both are nearing the end of their administrations and coping with unaccustomed Yasuhiro Nakasone public criticism.

HE WILL TRY TO ease irritation over the U.S. trade deficit with Japan, $59 billion last year, that led this month to the imposition of Washington's first trade sanctions against Japan since World War II over charges on unfair Japanese trading in computer chips.

Nakasone is expected to at least win indications from Reagan that the $300 million in retaliatory tariffs on Japanese goods will be lifted soon. But he must also convince congressional leaders that Japan is serious about reducing its trade surplus to head off stiff trade legislation.

Nakasone also hopes to win a halt to the rise of the yen. Washington has been allowing the dollar to fall to make U.S. exports cheaper and reduce its trade deficit, but the yen's rapid rise has hurt Japan's economy and panicked business leaders.

The dollar fell below 140 yen Tuesday, a postwar low. Tokyo markets were closed Wednesday for the emperor's birthday, a national holiday.

THE PRIME MINISTER will present measures to expand Japan's domestic economy and boost imports, such as a $35 billion stimulus program and purchases of supercomputers and other big-ticket items, along with concessions on specific trade disputes.

Major Japanese newspapers sent Nakasone off with a chorus of editorials urging prompt action. "Now is the time to carry it out and not just discuss it," the newspaper Yomiuri Shimbun said.

When Nakasone last visited Washington in April 1986, Reagan greeted him with a bear hug before the two held talks at the president's retreat at Camp David, Md. But then and the following month, at the Tokyo summit of industrial democracies, Nakasone failed to win U.S. support for halting the yen's rise.

Officials clash over embassy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department and a House subcommittee chairman traded accusations of "outrageous" behavior Wednesday in a dispute over access to classified documents about security problems at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

State Department spokesman Charles Redman said a subpoena issued by the House panel for thousands of documents had "absolutely no justification" because the department was willing to make all the information available.

Later, Rep. Dan Mica, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs international operations subcommittee, said Secretary of State George Shultz returned the subpoena with a letter that said: "I am returning the subpoena to you in hopes you will see fit to withdraw it so that we can meet to work out a reasonable document request. In this way, you will undoubtedly obtain all documents necessary to your work."

"I WILL NOT withdraw it," Mica said in a telephone interview, but added, "If he's willing to work it out, I'm willing to work it out."

The panel voted 6-0 Tuesday to subpoena all State Department files relating to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and a new building under construction.

Mica complained the department was withholding documents that the panel wants as part of its probe of alleged KGB penetration of the old embassy through a sex-for-secrets scandal involving Marine guards and the planting of electronic listening devices at the new embassy.

But Redman told reporters: "Nothing has been denied to Congress. We have been fully cooperative in this matter. It really is an outrageous act." He said all documents sought by the committee had either been delivered or made available for inspection at the State Department.

MICA RESPONDED: "I tell you what's outrageous: the way the State Department is conducting itself." He accused the department of withholding documents it considers sensitive to avoid embarrassment.

He was also angry because Shultz had declined to take a telephone call from him serving notice of the subpoena.

Mica said he did not know about Redman's statement that sensitive documents would be made available to the subcommittee at the State Department. He expressed a willingness to cooperate in such an arrangement. Redman said the panel was notified in writing of that offer.

Redman said the department has delivered thousands of documents it deemed "relevant" to the subcommittee's inquiry Friday and Monday.

THE DEPARTMENT ALSO notified the panel that its representatives could examine at the State Department about 150 "highly sensitive documents" that were withheld, as well as those "irrelevant" to the inquiry, Redman said.

He said a State Department task force worked all weekend going through the documents to ensure those related to sensitive matters were protected.

Fallen PTL founder faces loss of property, mansions

FORT MILL, S.C. (UPI) — The new chief operating officer of the PTL empire said Wednesday he might have to evict fallen founder Jim Bakker and his wife Tammy from some of their mansions in order to balance the beleaguered ministry's books.

But while the Rev. Jerry Falwell was telling viewers on the PTL television network that "the salvaging of God's work," a thousand of the faithful gathered to bewail the banishment of the Bakkers.

Harry Hargrave, the new chief operating officer for PTL, said the television ministry and its sprawling Heritage USA resort and theme park here will have to do some belt-tightening to get out of its $50 million financial hole.

HARGRAVE, 38, a Dallas financial consultant, told UPI he is a "Christian businessman. Christianity comes first."

"The books are a mess," he said, "but that doesn't mean we're going down the tubes. There are a lot of assets here" — including homes maintained for the Bakkers and for Bakker's right-hand man, Richard Dortch, who was forced to resign from the ministry at a Tuesday board meeting.

"We will look at all the property and we will unload any property we don't need. That might be getting rid of some assets. It might be a lake home or property in Gatlinburg, Tenn.," Hargrave said. "Rev. Bakker and Rev. Dortch have homes that at some point we will ask them to vacate the premises, and they will move. I don't know when that will be, but we will be fair to all concerned."

FALWELL, TAPED AN hour earlier in Lynchburg, Va., appeared on the PTL cable network Wednesday in a "special presentation" at the normal hour of "The PTL Show."

He said he wants the television ministry to focus on "world evangelical action," offering aid to "the bums, the homeless and the addicts."

But while Falwell was speaking, an audience of 1,000 gathered for a private show in the studios at Heritage USA where "The PTL Show" is normally aired.

They cheered wildly when Doug Oldham, a regular singer on "The PTL Show," said, "They drove Jim out of the camp and thought he was dead and buried ... and Heritage went on. It happened again yesterday ... and Heritage went on. God's grace will go on forever."

"We could get bitter over Jim and Tammy or Richard (Dortch) or Jerry (Falwell)," he said, "but our bitterness doesn't hurt them. It doesn't hurt our antagonists but judging from your faces today, you already know that ..."

Dole maps strategy to win nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican leader Robert Dole said Wednesday he will wage an "old-fashioned" campaign for the GOP presidential nomination and added the battle may be over early next March after the Southern primaries or the Illinois contest.

Dole, running second to Vice President George Bush in most polls, said he will formally announce as a candidate "probably in September" but the exact time will depend on "when we think we're organized in each state and have money in the bank to demonstrate fund-raising ability."

The Kansas Republican, who formed an exploratory committee in February, said, "We're in the process of raising money and interest," and noted it was "no secret" he will seek the nomination.

THE SENATE LEADER outlined his plans in a news conference during which he was endorsed by Rep. Andy Ireland, a Florida Democrat-turned-Republican, who called Dole a candidate with the "hands-on experience and leadership" the public wants in the post-Reagan era.

"I'm going to a broad-based candidate, a national candidate," Dole said. "I don't have a one- or two-state strategy."

Robert Dole

Our strategy extends throughout the country.

"It's going to be old-fashioned politics," Dole said of his strategy. "We're going to try to resort, where we can knowing it's a big country, to personal appearances, trying to get people committed."

Dole said the GOP contest "could well be over by Super Tuesday (and) if not there, then the next week in Illinois," noting that in 1984, Walter Mondale won the Illinois primary, squeezing out Gary Hart, and rolled on to the Democratic nomination.

Dukakis officially joins race

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis evoked images of his state's last president, John F. Kennedy, in formally entering Wednesday the 1988 Democratic presidential campaign.

"Ask more than what we are going to do. Ask what we have already done," Dukakis told a crowd at a rehabilitated wooden mill building in the largest city of the state with the nation's first primary.

"Ask more than what kind of president we will be. Ask what kind of people we are and what kind of people we will have around us," Dukakis said, echoing the challenge offered by Kennedy in his 1961 inaugural. The link with the state's political dynasty was sharpened later Wednesday at a rally on historic Boston Common, covered by an unusual April snow, when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., introduced Dukakis to a crowd Boston police estimated at 20,000.

Dukakis, 53, in his third term, became the fourth Democrat to formally enter the 1988 race.

Contras blame Sandinistas for 'accident of war' killing

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — A Contra rebel army acknowledged Wednesday that its soldiers killed an American engineer in a Nicaraguan peasant village, but said the death was an accident of war and blamed the Sandinista government for allowing him to work there.

"The United States government killed my brother," said John Linder in Portland, Ore., speaking of his brother, Benjamin, who was killed Tuesday in a Contra ambush in northern Nicaragua.

He is believed the first American civilian killed by the U.S.-backed Contras.

"The Contras killed my brother and Reagan says he is a Contra," Linder, 32, told reporters at a news conference at Portland's First United Methodist church. "My brother was a victim of United States policy . . . a victim of Contra policy. The CIA told the Contras to do this."

BENJAMIN LINDER, 27, was killed in an attack by six Contras in San Jose de Bocay in northern Jinotega province, 110 miles north of the Nicaraguan capital of Managua, where he was bringing electricity to an impoverished northern village.

"That is a zone of conflict with much troop movement," said Adela Icaza of the Nicaraguan Democratic Force, known by its Spanish initials the FDN.

The FDN is the largest Contra army and received part of the $100 million in aid from Congress last year given to the umbrella United Nicaragua Opposition.

"We are sorry for the consequences," she said. "(Linder) knew perfectly well the risks that he ran to be in a war zone accompanied by Nicaraguan army soldiers."

The group said Linder was killed in a firefight between the rebels and Nicaragua militiamen who they said accompanied the American.

IN MANAGUA, a witness quoted by the government newspaper Barricada said the rebels, firing rifles and flinging grenades, deliberately killed Linder as he was sitting on the ground writing notes. The witness was quoted as saying two peasants also were killed in the ambush.

"Definitely it is not correct that our soldiers tried to kill him," the FDN's Icaza said.

"All of our soldiers have received training in the code of war. We respect the laws of war and we have alerted civilians in the war zones to the risks they run.

"The Sandinista government has responsibility in his death for sending him to a war zone," she said.

Jinotega province has been the scene of recent increased fighting between the leftist Sandinista army and the Contras.

IN THE UNITED STATES, Linder was described as a staunch supporter of the leftist Sandinista revolution, which ousted President Anastasio Somoza in 1979, and who was bitterly opposed to U.S. policy in Nicaragua.

The Center for Constitutional Rights in New York said it had represented Linder in a lawsuit filed in September on behalf of several people seeking to block Congressional funding for the Contras. The suit was dismissed.

In an affidavit filed with the suit Linder predicted his own death: "If the United States continues to train, support, finance and aid the FDN in violation of international law . . . I will be subject to personal danger to life and limb as I carry out work."

The Bellingham, Wash.-based group, the Nicaraguan Appropriate Technology Project, said Linder, a mechanical engineer, had been in Nicaragua since 1983.

Reagan blasted by institute

LONDON (UPI) — An authoritative institute Thursday criticized President Ronald Reagan for allowing his administration to fall into such disarray that it had "badly compromised" his ability to deal with the dynamic new style of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

The International Institute of Strategic Studies said in its annual report that "time is running out for the Reagan administration to regain its equilibrium" and criticized the president for letting the early promises of 1986 slip away.

The institute, widely respected among political and military leaders for its annual reviews of major strategic developments and trends, said 1986 was a year "of sharp contrasts, particularly in the fortunes of the two major international powers."

ITS REPORT DREW a stark comparison between Reagan's "disregard for details and his refusal to give more than general policy guidance" and Gorbachev's "subtle and sophisticated" brand of politics that had captured world imagination.

As dramatically indicated by the Iran arms-for-hostages scandal, the institute said, "Reagan's approach and style of management provided the soil in which . . . disarray could flourish."

"His failure to act virtually ensured that the most powerful nation in the Western alliance will face the challenge of the coming year with its ability to conduct a forceful foreign policy badly compromised."

UNLESS REAGAN "can regain his grip on authority and exercise the full power of his office," the institute said, the remaining two years of his presidency "seem destined to be years of drift," despite recent hopes for an agreement to reduce nuclear weapons in Europe.

"While President Reagan was losing his grip on the levers of authority," said the institute, "Gorbachev was trying to tighten his own" in the past year.

The report traced Reagan's problems to the failure of his administration to capitalize on his "extraordinary popularity at home and substantial approval from his key allies abroad" at the start of 1986.

BUT BEDEVEILED BY foreign affairs fumbles, including the Iran arms scandal, "his administration began to look less in control of its policies, reacting to outside challenges with uncertainty and in the end failing to cope," the institute said.

The organization scored the Reagan government for "its lack of sophisticated ideas and processes" and said the year's "mishaps and revelations left the administration with its foreign policy goals undermined and the president's own authority and credibility damaged."

BY CONTRAST, its report said, the Soviets' "dynamic new leader" Gorbachev "had some success in beginning to nudge Soviet policy out of the glacial inertia induced by his predecessors."

"He — and, by extension, the Soviet leadership — appeared to know where they were going and seemed to have a clear idea of how to get there," the report stated.

The result, said the institute, means "the outlook for the West in the near future remains unpromising."

It said, "Gorbachev has demonstrated that he is a subtle and sophisticated politician, and he can be expected to gild many more Soviet policies with a new sheen that will challenge the wit and will of a weakened U.S. government."

Officials hospitalize aging Nazi

BERLIN (UPI) — Rudolf Hess, the 93-year-old former deputy to Adolf Hitler sentenced to life imprisonment for Nazi war crimes, was briefly hospitalized for the second time in two months, a British spokesman said Wednesday.

Hess was transferred from Spandau prison, which is operated by the Allies of World War II, to the nearby British Military Hospital at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday after he complained of feeling ill, spokesman Anderson Purdon said. He returned to the prison at 2:15 p.m. Wednesday.

"Hess complained of feeling unwell and, as he is 93, the governors thought it wise to send him to the hospital again," said Purdon, who released no details of the illness.

Hess, who parachuted into Scotland on May 10, 1941, in an effort to make peace with Britain, was hospitalized last month with pneumonia. He was taken to the hospital March 1 and returned to prison March 16.

In Munich, Hess's son, Wolf Ruediger Hess, 49, a civil engineer, said the British, French, Soviet and American governors of the prison had not informed him of his father's latest illness.

Hess, who turned 93 Sunday, is the last surviving Nazi leader.

Grand View splits twinbill with Iowa

By Robert Mann
Staff Writer

Baseball

With the Iowa baseball team getting ready to make a run at the Big Ten's Western Division title, the Hawkeyes came out flat and split a doubleheader with the Grand View Vikings at the Iowa baseball diamond Wednesday.

Grand View, which was crushed by the Hawkeyes last year by scores of 20-4 and 18-7, won the opener, 2-1, but lost the second game, 5-4.

"I didn't think we played well at all," Iowa Coach Duane Banks said. "It's 99 percent mental and 1 percent physical, and we just weren't ready to play."

"This was the poorest we've played mentally all year. I can't believe that with the biggest weekend of the year coming up that they played like that. Apparently it was more important to them than to us."

IOWA, WHICH NOW stands at 21-19 overall and 5-3 in the Big Ten, is one game behind Minnesota in the Big Ten's Western Division. The Hawkeyes continue conference play this weekend against last-place Wisconsin (19-19 overall and 4-8 in the Big Ten) after having played a non-conference schedule the past two weeks.

"I hope the problem was that they are looking ahead to the weekend," Banks said. "Because if they are not, we might as well not show up. They're either going to play hard, or we are going to get beat."

The first game turned out to be a pitching duel between Grand View's John Hedgecock and three different Iowa pitchers after both teams scored early.

GRAND VIEW'S BRENT Rice took the fifth pitch of the game from Iowa's Mark Boland and put it over the fence. In the second inning Iowa found itself down 2-0 when Iowa's catcher, Bryan Luedtke, threw the ball into left field when he tried to pick off Steve LeWerne at third, allowing LeWerne to score what turned out to be the winning run.

Iowa's only run of the game came in the third when Keith Noreen knocked in Randy Frakes.

In seven innings, Hedgecock, 1-4, allowed just one run on four hits, striking out nine Hawkeyes while walking four. His performance, however, was aided by Iowa's lack of patience, Banks said.

"HEDGECOCK STRUCK out nine, but we were swinging at pitches between the letters and the head," Banks said. "We had zero discipline in the batter's box. We were beaten before we got here. They've got to be ready to play every day because we don't have great skill by any means."

The three Hawkeye pitchers allowed only four hits. Boland, 4-3, started for Iowa and took the loss after giving up two hits and two runs in three innings. Allen Rath pitched three scoreless innings before Rod McConnell pitched the final inning without allowing a run.

In the second game, Grand

Iowa's Randy Frakes, a senior from Des Moines, slides safely into third base during the first inning of the Hawkeyes' first game with Grandview College Wednesday afternoon. Iowa lost the opener to the Vikings 2-1, but rebounded to split the doubleheader 5-4.

The Daily Iowan/Carlos M. Trevino

View again scored in the first, but this time Iowa answered with a run in the bottom of the inning.

THEN, WITH GRAND View's starting pitcher, Don Shultice, still pitching in the third, Iowa's first three batters reached and scored. Noreen walked, Bill Heinz doubled and Jason Jones hit a home run to account for Iowa's runs in the third.

But Grand View, still feeling confident from the first game, chipped away at the lead with a run in the fourth and two more in the sixth.

In the bottom of the sixth

Iowa's Calvin Eldred reached on an error, was advanced by Bart Givens' sacrifice and scored on a triple by Luis Ramirez.

Eldred, 3-5, got the win after entering the game in the fifth. He struck out two and gave up two runs on three hits and walked no one.

The Hawkeyes play another doubleheader today when they face Augustana at 1 p.m. and Coe College at 3 at the Iowa baseball diamond.

Iowa reopens Big Ten action this weekend at Madison, Wis., playing a pair of doubleheaders with the Badgers.

Gooden released from center

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cy Young Award winning pitcher Dwight Gooden was released from the Smithers Alcoholism and Drug Treatment Center Wednesday, 28 days after the New York Mets announced he had tested positive for cocaine use.

Gooden hurriedly left the facility on Manhattan's Upper East Side at 3 p.m. with several friends. He turned and faced the building, stretched his arms and waved goodbye to other patients inside. Then he got into a car and sped away without talking to the crowd gathered outside.

The Mets have not commented on Gooden's immediate future, but it is expected he will be sent to their Class AAA minor league team at Tidewater or to the Florida Instructional League until he is ready to return to the team.

THE METS ANNOUNCED April 1, six days before they opened their season, that the 22-year-old, $1.5-million a year pitcher had tested positive for drugs. Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth told the Mets Gooden would have to undergo rehabilitation or face suspension.

of an 8-month-old son, born to Debra Hamilton and called off his plans to marry Carlene Pearson.

Gooden and four friends were arrested by Tampa police in December after they were stopped for traffic offenses and became involved in a fight with the officers. On Jan. 23 Gooden pleaded no contest to two felony charges and was sentenced to three years probation. As a result of the discovery of his drug usage, probation officials will now require him to undergo regular urinalysis.

The New York Times last week quoted unnamed sources at Smithers saying Gooden had been found to be an occasional cocaine user and not addicted to the drug. "He's sold on not taking drugs of any kind again," the source said.

The discovery of traces of cocaine in Gooden's system culminated a turbulent six months for Gooden, beginning with his missing the team's World Series victory parade Oct. 28.

In November, Gooden confirmed that he was the father of an 8-month-old son, born to Debra Hamilton and called off his plans to marry Carlene Pearson.

Dawson's cycle aids Chicago in 8-4 win

CHICAGO (UPI) — Andre Dawson went 5-for-5 and hit for the cycle and Dave Martinez drove in three runs Wednesday to help the Chicago Cubs to an 8-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Cubs' starter Greg Maddux, 1-2, pitched five innings to earn the victory. Ed Lynch pitched the final 1 1/2 innings for his first save. San Francisco starter Roger Mason, 1-1, gave up six runs in 3 1/2 innings and took the loss.

Dawson homered in the first inning, hit a bloop double over first base in the third inning, singled in the fourth and tripled in the sixth to complete the cycle. He added an eighth-inning single.

DAWSON BECAME THE first Cub to hit for the cycle since Ivan DeJesus did it against St. Louis on April 22, 1980. It was also the first time Dawson has hit for the cycle.

With the score tied 3-3, Leon Durham singled to start the Cubs' fourth. After Jody Davis popped out trying to swing in front of a pitchout, Shawon Dunston's pop to center was dropped by Chili Davis to put runners on first and second.

Martinez hit the ball toward Davis, who first broke toward the infield then watched the ball sail over his outstretched glove for a two-run triple. Martinez scored on Chico Walker's single to make it 6-3.

CHRIS SPEIER'S FIRST error in 69 games led to a Cubs' run in the fifth inning. Durham singled and Davis hit a fly to right that bounced high off Candy Maldonado's chest for a double. After Martinez was walked intentionally to load the bases, Durham scored when Speier bobbled pinch hitter Jerry Mumphrey's grounder to second.

The Giants took a 1-0 lead on first-inning doubles by Chili Davis and Maldonado but Dawson's homer tied the score in the bottom of the first.

San Francisco took a 2-1 lead on Jeff Leonard's RBI single in the third, but the Cubs went ahead with two runs in the third on Walker's RBI single and a run-scoring double by Dawson.

Hawkeyes seek second straight win

By Mike Trilk

After winning last weekend's Drake Invitational the Iowa men's golf team will be looking to make it two wins in a row at this weekend's Midwestern Invitational at DeKalb, Ill.

The win at Drake was a good win for the Hawkeyes, but a win in DeKalb would be quite a surprise to Iowa Head Coach Cuck Zwiener.

"This is a good tournament with a very tough field," Zwiener said. "We just have to do the best we can. Our kids like to play in tournaments like this because it's a challenge and they play a little better that way."

Men's Golf

IOWA WILL BE ONE of eight Big Ten schools in the 14-team tournament that includes three-time defending champion Ohio State, Ball State, Kansas, Kansas State, Nebraska, Western Michigan and host school Northern Illinois round out a field that, according to Northern Illinois

Coach Jack Theanis, could be the toughest field of any meet in the Midwest.

"This is a great tournament in that we have more quality teams," Theanis said. "This may be the best field in the Midwest with the exception of the Kepler that Ohio State has every year."

The 14 teams will tee it up for 36 holes on Friday morning at DeKalb's Kishwaukee Country Club and finish up with an 18-hole affair on Saturday. Zwiener thinks his team will be ready for the 6,326 yard par-70 course.

"We've been going over there for the last five or six years and we kind of like the course," Zwiener said. "It is a different, older style of course with smaller greens. It is a course that has you saying 'Oh man, let me at it' but when you are done you are saying 'Oh man, what happened?'"

Zwiener will be taking the same line-up to DeKalb that came away with the hardware from the Drake meet.

"We feel good about the way we played at Drake," Zwiener added. "We were four shots down after the first day and the guys went out, sawed wood and won the thing by 10 shots. Joe Kramer tied for medalist, but our No. 5 score wasn't too high either."

Sikma advances Bucks past 76ers, 121-120

United Press International

PHILADELPHIA — Jack Sikma followed his own blocked shot to score with two seconds to play Wednesday night, sending the Milwaukee Bucks to the Philadelphia 76ers' 120 for a 2-1 lead in the playoff series.

Sikma's first shot was blocked by Philadelphia's Roy Hinson but the ball came back to Sikma, who scored on a six-foot jumpshot and finished with 13 points.

Terry Cummings scored 36 points to lead the Bucks as the 76ers blew an eight-point lead with 2:28 left. Milwaukee scored 12 of the last 15 points.

The best-of-five series resumes with Game 4 Friday night at Philadelphia.

A dunk by Charles Barkley, who led the 76ers with 39 points, put Philadelphia ahead 117-109 with 2:28 remaining before the Bucks scored 10 straight points. A three-point play by Terry Cummings tied the score with 51 seconds to go. Ricky Pierce picked up the ball after Philadelphia's Julius Erving fell and laid it in for a 119-117 Milwaukee lead with 39 seconds left.

A jumper by Barkley tied it 119-119 with 31 seconds to go and Barkley hit one of two free throws for a 120-119 lead with 22 seconds to play.

Detroit 97, Washington 96 LANDOVER, Md. — Vinnie Johnson scored 10 of his 21 points in the fourth quarter and Rick Mahorn hit a free throw with four seconds left Wednesday night to lift the Detroit Pistons over the Washington Bullets 97-96 for a 3-0 sweep of their playoff series.

Moses Malone, who scored 31 points, hit a pair of free throws with 55 seconds left after Mahorn's foul for a 96-94 Washington lead. But Johnson tied it 96-96 with 41 seconds left with two free throws after Jeff Malone fouled.

Washington guard Frank Johnson could not get the ball inside to Malone on the ensuing possession and missed a 20-footer with 24 seconds left, which was rebounded by Adrian Dantley.

After Detroit inbanded, Frank Johnson knocked the ball away from Thomas at the top of the key. Mahorn picked up the ball and was fouled by Charles Jones on an off-balance 14-footer.

Mahorn, traded by Washington to Detroit two seasons ago, missed the first shot but hit the second. Frank Johnson and Thomas were ejected for exchanging punches on the play.

Indiana 96, Atlanta 87 INDIANAPOLIS — Chuck Person scored 23 points and grabbed 17 rebounds Wednesday night to lift the Indiana Pacers over Atlanta 96-87, cutting the Pistons' lead in the playoff series to 2-1.

In the winning its first playoff game since it joined the NBA, Indiana staved off elimination in the first-round series. Game 4 of the best-of-five series is Friday night at Market Square Arena.

The Pacers lost four previous playoff games in their 11 NBA seasons. Indiana's last playoff victory came 12 seasons ago in the American Basketball Association.

Surprising pick throws Bears into quarterback dilemma

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (UPI) — Jim McMahon's health and Mike Ditka's future with the Chicago Bears were unclear in the wake of the club's surprising first-round draft choice of quarterback Jim Harbaugh.

McMahon has insisted he is ahead of schedule on his rehabilitation from shoulder surgery in December. But the choice of Harbaugh out of Michigan may signal the Bears are more pessimistic.

A more subtle question also was raised concerning Ditka's status with the club. Bears president Michael McCaskey, who had said for months he wanted to choose a quarterback in the first round, apparently got his way.

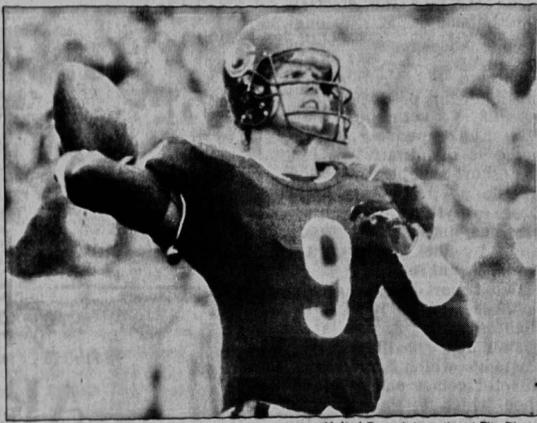

DITKA, WHO HAD lobbied for defensive line or wide receiver help, apparently bowed to McCaskey.

The two have been at odds since Ditka's close friend, Jerry Vainisi, was fired as general manager by McCaskey after last season.

"Management, ownership and the scouts all had a hand in the selection," Ditka said. "What people have to understand is that we make choices not for the media or the fans but the organization."

"Why does everyone have to know who had the final say," McCaskey insisted about the choice of Harbaugh. "This was an organizational choice."

After Vainisi's firing, Ditka said he had no immediate plans to leave the organization.

What will the Chicago Bears first-round NFL draft pick of Michigan quarterback Jim Harbaugh do to Jim McMahon's career?

DITKA, WHOSE CONTRACT is up after next season, shares the belief with his staff his club is capable of duplicating 1985's Super Bowl championship season. By picking Harbaugh, the Bears were openly admitting they were planning for future as much as for the upcoming season.

"We not only draft for 1987 but for the team in 1990 as well," Bill Tobin, the Bears player personnel director, said.

McMahon has not trained at the Bears' Lake Forest facility since his surgery.

"We keep hearing about Jim but he hasn't been here working out doing what was expected," Tobin said. "All we hear about Jim's health is rumor at this point."

Ditka, who has had his public run-ins with McMahon, is willing to give the quarterback the benefit of the doubt.

"Jim's following the advice of his doctors on how he is progressing," Ditka said. "I'd like to see Jim do more weight lifting to build muscle up around the shoulder."

The Harbaugh pick also seems to leave Doug Flutie's status in doubt. Flutie, who signed with the Bears in midseason and was the starting quarterback in the loss to the Redskins, might have a tough time making the team if McMahon comes back healthy.

NFL changes drafting theory

NEW YORK (UPI) — The "best available athlete" theory was shot full of holes at the NFL draft Tuesday when teams showed a definite preference for filling specific needs instead of picking the highest ranked player.

Tampa Bay selected Vinny Testaverde and Indianapolis took linebacker Cornelius Bennett to open the draft, although both clubs could have used help elsewhere. After that, teams used their early-round selections to strengthen their weakest links.

Drafting to fill spots resulted in four quarterbacks going in the first round and Kansas City, the Los Angeles Raiders, Pittsburgh, Seattle and Detroit using their first two choices on the same position.

Cornerback Rod Woodson of Purdue was called the "best overall athlete" by scouts, yet lasted until the 10th pick Tuesday. When he was finally selected it was by the Steelers, a team so cornerback-hungry that they picked two more in the first four rounds.

"IN A WAY, I'm disappointed I lasted until the 10th pick," Woodson said. "But I think I got chosen by a good team, a team I can help right away."

Most first-rounders can feel the same way.

The Chiefs entered the draft badly in need of a running back. They watched Alonzo Highsmith, Brent Fullwood and D.J. Dozier go before their 19th pick came up, then made Paul Palmer the fourth of six running backs selected in the opening round. Kansas City then traded up for sleeper fullback Christian Okoye of Azusa Pacific in the second round.

"Based on what we really need at the present time in the Kansas City Chiefs organization, Paul Palmer will provide that for us," first-year Chiefs Coach Frank Ganz said. "I'm very, very keyed up about Paul Palmer and very keyed up about Christian Okoye."

HE SHOULD BE. Kansas City has been last or next-to-last in rushing the past four seasons.

The Raiders, seeking to improve an aging offensive line, took tackles John Clay and Bruce Wilkerson in the first two rounds. Both are 6-foot-5, and the Raiders prefer tall, wide offensive linemen. They even overlooked Clay's recent weight problems to take him on the 15th pick of the first round.

Clay, who weighs 315, was the first offensive lineman drafted.

"Our choices will make the tackle position much more competitive," said Raiders Coach Tom Flores, who may try Wilkerson at guard. "Clay has the ability to shuffle and that's what you look for in offensive linemen."

The Seahawks selected linebackers Tony Woods of Pittsburgh and Dave Wyman of Stanford with their first two picks in an attempt to add defensive speed. Woods was the 18th pick in the first round and Wyman was the 17th player chosen in the second round.

"WITH WOODS AND Dave Wyman we got two players who will hit you and can run," Seattle Coach Chuck Knox said. "We have needed more team speed and hitters on defense."

The Lions took defensive end Reggie Rogers of Washington with the second pick in the draft. Their next selection — in the third round — was used on defensive tackle Jerry Ball. Detroit Coach Darryl Rogers called Rogers "an easy pick, by position and need."

Except for Testaverde the first-round quarterbacks were picks based on need. Quarterbacks were not rated high in the draft, but St. Louis, Atlanta and Chicago felt they had to have one. The Cardinals took Kelly Stouffer of Colorado State sixth, the Falcons picked Chris Miller of Oregon 13th and the Bears grabbed Jim Harbaugh of Michigan 26th — making him the fifth passer on their roster.

OTHER TEAMS MADE it obvious they entered Tuesday's draft looking to upgrade one or more specific weaknesses.

San Francisco and New England worked on building their running games. The 49ers picked tackle Harris Barton and running back Terrence Flagler in the first round and guard Jeff Bregel in the second.

Comedy revives play, 'dead' language

By Victoria Carlson
Special to The Daily Iowan

AN UPCOMING UI production of The Menaechmi: A Comedy of Errors by Roman comic Plautus promises to be not only a revival of the play, but a vibrant presentation of the language that some refuse to dismiss as "dead."

The production is the project of a Latin class taught by UI visiting Professor Gerda Seligson and will be presented in a combination of Latin and English.

"It's a mixture of Latin and English which makes it possible for people who don't know Latin to understand the play," Seligson said.

Along with the addition of English words and phrases are references to 20th century life, including some Iowa City institutions, a cast member explained.

"With the English inserts, you can relate to it. We bring in Younkers, Herbert Hoover, and we even have a rubber chicken," Deana Cherryholmes, UI freshman, said. Cherryholmes plays the role of Peniculus, the "parasite" who mooches from his friend Menaechmus.

"IN MY OPENING speech I say 'I would have loved to have been a doctor or a lawyer, or even a businessman, but I couldn't get a student loan,'" Cherryholmes said.

Anachronisms aside, The Menaechmi is a comedy of errors involving the mistaken identity of twin brothers. One brother steals his wife's stole to give to the local courtesan. His brother wanders unwittingly into the situation, accepting a dinner invitation from the courtesan and sending the stole out to be altered. His brother's wife, angry over the theft, mistakes him for her husband. A loyal slave finally resolves the confusion and thereby wins his freedom.

The play's broad sense of comedy, which appealed to the masses in Plautus' day, also makes it accessible to modern audiences, Seligson said.

"Things haven't changed much then in regard to the structure of comedy," she explained. "This is not 'high' comedy, or 'literary' comedy. It's middle-class comedy, situation comedy."

"THE PLAY HAS one serious subject, and that is freedom. Its serious theme is the desire of the slave to become free," Seligson said. "Slapstick is only there to keep people from running away. Plautus says 'I'm in competition with the rope walker next door.' So he has to have that slapstick."

"These Romans can speak to us," she emphasized. "They were human beings and they had a wonderful way of expressing themselves."

Judy Deuling, associate director of the production and UI graduate student in classics, also said certain comic conventions of The Menaechmi share similarities with modern comedy.

"It's much like what Woody Allen does with his satire. In fact, when Woody Allen steps out of a scene and addresses the audience, it's straight out of Plautus. Plautus's characters talk to the audience almost more than they talk to each other," Deuling said.

MUSIC FOR THE production also combines the classical and the modern, Martin Jenni, UI professor of composition and theory, said. Jenni said he set about 10 short pieces to music for this production.

"This is a verse play, much like Shakespeare, and the verse is quantitative — long and short syllables. So what I've done with the music is to base everything on Plautus's rhythms, his longs and shorts, and also the intonation patterns," Jenni said.

"What's sort of amusing for me is these metrical patterns of Plautus are very similar to certain dance rhythms, such as the tango, which is how iambic dimeter comes out, or a soft-shoe which is the character pattern for the Parasite in the play," he added.

The UI production, an abridged version of the original play, will open tonight in Macbride Auditorium, with a preperformance talk at 7:15 and the performance at 8. Additional performances are scheduled for Friday at 8 p.m. and a Saturday matinee at 2:30 p.m. Admission is free.

My Demon Lover may be worst of '87

By Kevin C. Kretschmer Staff Writer

My Demon Lover

Directed by Charlie Loventhal. Written by Leslie Ray. Music by David Newman. Produced by Robert Shaye.

It is still relatively early in the film year, but My Demon Lover has already stepped forward as a likely candidate for worst movie of the year honors for 1987.

My Demon Lover combines the horror and comedy genres to produce a hybrid that manages to be neither scary nor funny. The horrific elements are too laughable to be taken seriously while the comedic elements are too serious to be laughable.

The major culprit is screenwriter Leslie Ray, who manages to go for every cheap joke and sleazy situation imaginable.

DIRECTOR CHARLIE Loventhal, a Brian DePalma protégé and former student of DePalma's at Sarah Lawrence College, displays a good visual sense.

Scott Valentine, best known for portraying Mallory's boyfriend, Nick, on "Family Ties" and for a spate of commercials for Wendy's "Big Classic" hamburger, makes an inauspicious starring debut in this witty hodgepodge.

Films like My Demon Lover can end careers, but let us not set ourselves up as final judge. A film this bad even gives demons a bad name, so it is likely that these filmmakers will have the devil to pay.

Special condemnation must be expressed for the make-up crew. They were able to provide that distinctively shoddy look that so characterized the rest of the film.

Sopranos hit high note with 'Giovanni'

By Teresa Heger
Arts/entertainment Editor

CRITICS consider Wolfgang Mozart's Don Giovanni one of the composer's greatest operas. It also contains some of Mozart's most challenging soprano arias, sung by the character Donna Anna.

UI students Michele Crider and Rosemary Lack, who will share the part of Donna Anna in the UI production of the Mozart opera this weekend, face this challenging role with enthusiasm.

"The beautiful music is Donna Anna's," said Crider, who will be singing the part of Donna Anna on Friday night. "Mozart does take her to her limits — to her vocal limits."

Lack, who will sing in Sunday's performance, agreed. "She is ... smooth and graceful musically," Lack said, adding that this musical "smoothness" matches Mozart's concept of nobility. "The hardest part about (the role) is that when you are doing an ensemble you are always on top, and most of the time there are places where there is a pianissimo or a piano or a sotto voce, and everybody's in the same range and we're up an octave higher trying to be quiet ... It's like an aerobic exercise."

In the opening scene of the opera, Donna Anna is accosted by Don Giovanni. She calls out for help; in the following action her father, the Comendatore, is killed in a duel with the Don. Donna Anna, who is unsure of the identity of her attacker, vows to gain vengeance. She enlists the help of her spineless fiance Don Ottavio and sets out to find her father's murderer.

Don Giovanni, in the meantime, is far from fearing for his life. Instead, he is out making new conquests, much to the sorrow and distress of his old love, Donna Elvira.

Lack contrasted the musical roles of Donna Anna and Donna Elvira. "Although Donna Elvira is the other prima donna of the opera, she is here, there and everywhere; (her music is) very jagged," Lack said. "Donna Elvira could have Peter Pan wings put on her — she's jumping all over the stage and she's a very angry woman; she's terribly upset — it's kind of nice to play off that."

"DONNA ANNA WANTS vengeance for her father," Crider said, "and Donna Elvira wants vengeance for herself."

Crider and Lack both have proven their operatic talents in the past. Lack performed the leading role in the UI's production of L'Agripinna and Crider performed the title role in last summer's Madame Butterfly. Both were winners of the 1986 Metropolitan Opera District Auditions. Besides rehearsals, both women have been preparing for the role of Donna Anna with voice lessons from UI Opera Director Beaumont Glass.

Lack and Crider said that they both view their part in the opera as a learning experience.

"This is an educational institution and we are here to learn how to appear on stage," Lack said. "Mozart offers everything in his operas — drama and comedy. What we're doing is learning and it's nice that we get to do the performances."

Crider said that performing Donna Anna is helping her to expand her "collection" of roles.

"It's nice that we 'know' her," she said. "It's quite different from Madame Butterfly because (Butterfly) is very submissive to Pinkerton or whoever, but Donna Anna is very strong."

Lack concurred. "Agripinna was the Joan Collins of Rome," she said. "Donna Anna is certainly much nicer than Agripinna."

BOTH CRIDER AND LACK, who are active in the Arts Center Outreach program, see opera as an art form that should be accessible.

"I think that back in the 1960s and '70s everything was oriented toward the richer class," Crider said. "(Opera) was done in the original languages — you could buy a libretto for $5 (if you wanted to know the story line). I think now even the Metropolitan Opera has gone through the expense and taken the time so that everyone can enjoy the opera."

Lack said that she thinks opera artists must take a realistic view of familiarizing the public with their art. "Opera isn't a lady with horns," she said.

"It's great when people come up to you and say 'I've never seen an opera before, and I saw Don Giovanni or whatever, and I can't believe I thought opera was anything else,'" Lack continued.

Both singers praised the people who work behind the scenes on the opera. "They've put work in since January, maybe before," Crider said. "It's so easy to work to a situation where everyone is doing 200 percent."

'Family Ties' upstages 'Cosby' in ratings race

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC won the ratings war in the first week of the summer repeat season but "The Cosby Show" failed to finish in the No. 1 spot for only the sixth time since the fall, according to figures released Tuesday.

for the week ending April 26, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., were:

1. "Family Ties" (NBC)
