Panel hears first day of testimonies

Secord defends Iran plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress opened hearings Tuesday into the "sad and sordid" Iran-Contra scandal and the first witness, Richard Secord, said he served as a financier and arms dealer in the affair "in furtherance of the president's policies."

Secord, the retired Air Force major general who played central roles in both the U.S. arms sales to Iran and private efforts to supply the Nicaraguan Contra rebels, gave the first public accounting of $30 million generated by the arms sales and accounted for all but $2 million.

He said $3.5 million eventually went in support of the Contras — not the $10 million to $30 million mentioned by Attorney General Edwin Meese when he first revealed the diversion scheme Nov. 25. Secord also revealed that some of the money was used for other unrelated covert projects.

THE 11 SENATORS and 15 House members on two select congressional panels convened as a single body at 10:02 a.m. in the ornate Senate Caucus Room.

The morning session was given over to opening statements from panel members, some of them broad and sometimes flowery descriptions of the probe's goals.

But in the afternoon, the panel turned to Secord with questions on the use of the arms-sales money and the operation of the private Contra network. Before the panel quit for the day, Secord described calmly his activities in the past year and ardently defended his goals and those of the people who guided him in the White House, especially Lt. Col. Oliver North and former national security adviser John Poindexter.

Secord had just begun to explain how he was drawn into the Iran arms sales when panel Chairman Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, gavelled the hearing to a close at 5 p.m. The panel will meet again today at 10 a.m.

A CONGRESSIONAL investigator said Secord probably would appear for only one more day. Next up, on Thursday or Friday, will be Robert McFarlane, until December 1984, Reagan's national security adviser.

Secord first read a four-page statement lauding the valor and creativity of the administration officials who participated in the globe-spanning affair and insisting his actions were a patriotic response to an SOS from his government.

"I am now prepared to explain to all of you and to the American public precisely what I did. I am ready to answer all your questions," Secord said.

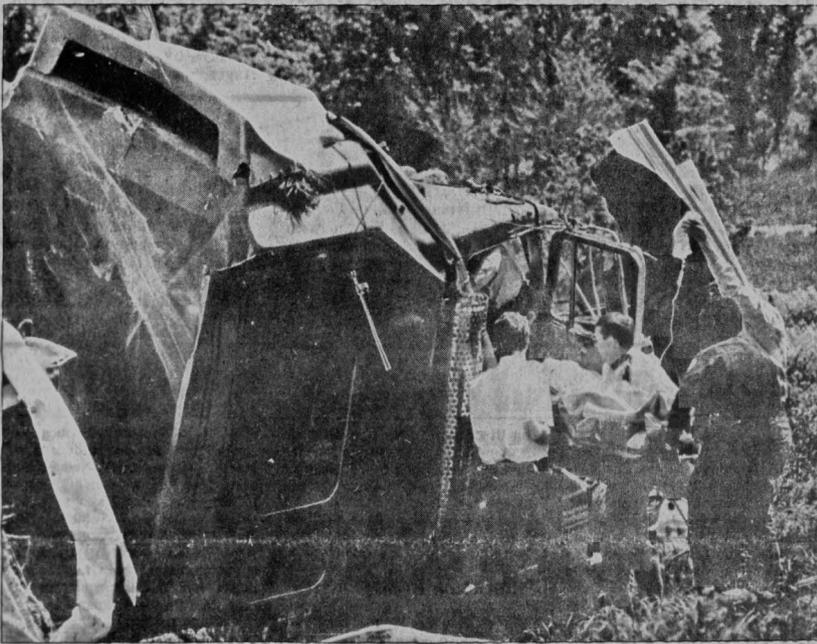

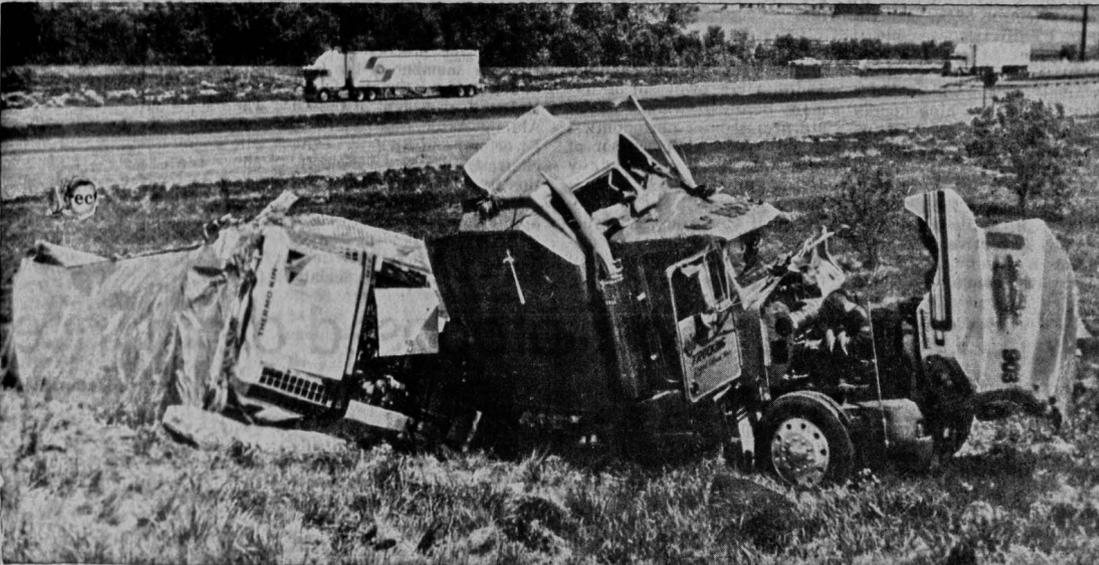

"In all these endeavors, at least we tried — and I, for one, am not ashamed for having tried," he said. "If we were unconventional in some of our methods, it was only because conventional wisdom has been exhausted. If we had been successful in every respect, we would not be here today."

SECORD, WHO RETIRED from the Air Force in May 1983, became involved in the private network that was funneling supplies to the Contra rebels. He said administration officials, anticipating the congressional cutoff of money to the rebels, approached him in mid-1984 asking for help. Official requests to assist the Iran initiative — which started in early 1985 — came in November 1985, he said.

Secord touched on another crucial area in the scandal — the role of former CIA Director William Casey. He said that he discussed his private Contra aid network with Casey three times and that Casey supported his efforts. But Secord said he was not satisfied with the quantity of CIA intelligence support.

While he did not identify his contacts in the Contra network, Secord said, "All of them worked long and difficult hours. Many worked in the

Hart denies sexual charges

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gary Hart, vowing his campaign for the presidency "has just begun," said Tuesday he made a mistake spending most of the weekend with a part-time actress 20 years his junior, but insisted he did nothing immoral.

The 50-year-old former Colorado senator, emerging from seclusion for the first time since the weekend, said his campaign for the 1988 Democratic presidential nomination "has just begun" and added, "I don't intend to give up."

He lashed out at The Miami Herald, which said Hart and 29-year-old Donna Rice spent most of Friday night and Saturday in his Capitol Hill home, for publishing a "misleading and false story" and using "questionable and inadequate surveillance."

"Did I make a mistake in putting myself in circumstances that could be misconstrued?" Hart asked. "Of course, I did. That goes without saying."

"DID I DO anything immoral?" he asked. "I absolutely did not."

Rice, who denies she had a sexual relationship with Hart, canceled a Tuesday new conference and left Miami in the afternoon.

"The fault was my own. I did in fact get into a situation that could be misconstrued," Hart said, but added: "At no time did we spend the night together as suggested."

In brief remarks prior to a previously scheduled speech to the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Hart did not deal with the specifics of the allegation.

The Hart campaign confirmed however, that Hart met Rice, a honey blonde from South Carolina, at Aspen, Colo., in January and her lawyer said that they also were together during a yacht excursion to the Bahamas in March.

HART TOLD Herald reporters that he made frequent "casual, political" calls to Rice and, in response to a question, said, "There were no more than a dozen or so" and dealt solely with the model-actress and friends wanting information about getting involved in the campaign.

The Herald originally said that Rice was not seen leaving Hart's townhouse from late

Senate adds $1.7 million to bonding plan

By Monica Seigel

and United Press International

DES MOINES — The bonding proposal for the UI Laser Center and other state university projects continued its journey through the Iowa Legislature Tuesday as the Iowa Senate added $1.7 million to the package passed in the House last week.

The action, approved on a 28-15 vote, makes technical changes in the bill and will allow the state Board of Regents to bond $66.3 million worth of high-technology projects at Iowa's colleges.

The Senate increased funds for the proposed $25 million laser research facility at the UI and decreased funds for several bonding projects at Iowa State University and a project at the University of Northern Iowa.

The measure is the second regents bonding bill to be considered by lawmakers this session. The Legislature earlier this year approved a $99 million bonding measure, but Gov. Terry Branstad vetoed it because it contained funds for projects he said should be funded through the universities' operating budgets.

IN A SEPARATE vote, the Senate refused to adopt another House measure that would have required the regents to notify the state's Executive Council and the public, via a newspaper advertisement, when universities intend on conducting classified or restricted access research on defense projects.

The proposal originally was drafted by lawmakers who oppose President Ronald Reagan's Star Wars missile-defense system.

Sen. Jim Riordan, D-Waukee, argued in favor of the House bill.

"All we're asking is to fulfill the responsibility of letting the citizens know that they are involved in that kind of research," he said. "The citizens have a right to know what their government and public institutions are doing."

But opponents of the House bill said the legislature has no business dictating policies for the universities. They said if the state is going to support a laser research facility, it should not tie the hands of people running the project.

Sen. Julia Gentleman, R-Des Moines, said although she does not support the Star Wars project, the legislature has no business dictating policies for the state's universities.

"TO PUT THIS language on... threatens the concept of academic freedom," she said.

Other lawmakers said they preferred a similar proposal adopted by the Senate that would require the regents to

New regents president blasts Curris

By Monica Seigel
University Editor

DES MOINES — Des Moines businessman Marvin Pomerantz today was elected president of the state Board of Regents, and assumed authority almost immediately, reprimanding Iowa President Constantine Curris for allegedly circumventing the board's authority.

The regents, in a special meeting Tuesday, questioned who lobbed for an amendment to the Iowa Senate appropriations bill passed Monday that would force the UI and Iowa State University to share excess tuition revenues with UNI.

The amendment calls for the UI and ISU to place any tuition revenue beyond their yearly estimates in a fund to be shared on a dollar-for-dollar basis with UNI, who would have to use the funds for faculty salary hikes.

POMERANTZ, A new appointee to the board who was elected regents president unanimously by the other members, stopped short of accusing Curris of being responsible for the amendment, but hinted Curris knew something about it.

"That kind of legislation doesn't just grow on a tree, it comes from somewhere," Pomerantz said. "When this board comes forward with a policy, we expect our institutions serve it. We need cooperation from our institutions."

Traditionally, all legislation regarding regents institutions is approved by the board and then sent to the legislature with the board's lobbyists. The UNI amendment apparently caught the board by surprise.

UI PRESIDENT James O. Freedman and ISU President Gordon Eaton were both critical of the amendment.

"The two words that best describe this amendment are divisive and unfair," Freedman said.

But Curris said he supports the amendment as a means to "close the gap" in salaries between UNI and the other universities, although denying he had anything to do with the drafting of the amendment or its passage.

He said the UI and ISU have the advantage of generating extra revenue through higher tuition for non-resident students, while the UNI has only a few out-of-state students. Curris said UNI needs the

FBI ends investigation of IU Foundation

After two years, the FBI may be nearing the end of its investigation surrounding the Indiana University Foundation and its former president, William Armstrong, according to university officials.

Special Agent Charles Kurz said the FBI is essentially finished with its investigation and has turned the case over to the U.S. attorney.

Kurz said the FBI looked at a practice permitted under Armstrong's presidency that allowed top Foundation officials to take interest-free cash advances for personal use, as well as the possible misuse of planes operated by the Foundation for the university.

Other sources confirmed the loans in question had no specified repayment dates and sometimes reached into the tens of thousands of dollars, and that planes had been diverted from normal routes to pick up family members of Foundation officials.

Johns Hopkins gets top federal money

Johns Hopkins University ranked first in amount of federal research money received in 1984, according to a recent ranking by the National Science Foundation. The government provided $5.6 billion worth of research money to universities in 1984, and 86 percent of that money was spread to just 100 schools.

The top 20 of those 100 universities accounted for 42 percent of all federal money spent on research and development, 46 percent of all National Science Foundation research money, and 44 percent of all National Institutes of Health funds.

Following Johns Hopkins in the top five on the list were MIT, Stanford, the University of Washington, and Columbia University. Big Ten schools making the top 20 included the University of Wisconsin, Madison (ninth), the University of Michigan (12th), the University of Minnesota (17th), and the University of Illinois (18th).

Texas students rekindle long rivalry

Law and Engineering students at the University of Texas have revived a 79-year-old rivalry concerning the remains of a five-foot statue of a man holding a mug of beer.

Engineering students reportedly stole the statue from an Austin, Texas pub in 1908, only to have the statue snatched by law students later that year. The two groups have alternately stolen the statue, dubbed "Sir Alec," and claimed ownership repeatedly until the 1930s when law students hid the statue.

Law students rediscovered the torso — all that remains of Sir Alec — and displayed it at the law library. Engineering students then reclaimed Alec about a month ago while students were allegedly photographing him for a birthday celebration.

Meanwhile, a cement canoe belonging to civil engineering students turned up on the stairs in front of the school of law last week. Engineering students blame the law students, saying they are still smarting over Alec's "liberation" in April, but law student deny the accusations. A law student spokesman said the engineering students were probably carrying the canoe around campus and it got dark, so they got lost.

"If they're nice," the student said, "we'll give it back to them. But we need a letter from the dean of the engineering school saying that they are sorry that they have left their belongings around and that in the future they will keep their slide rulers and the like on their own dredge-laden campus."

Engineering students said they could care less about the canoe, and have a list of other things they have left out with the hopes that someone would remove them — including the electrical engineering building, the aerospace engineering building, and their undergraduate advisor.

SECS makes Austin campus greener

An unidentified student group, going under the acronym SECS — Society for the Elimination of Campus Stupidity — beautified the University of Texas campus last week with an early morning clandestine raid on all the poster-covered tree trunks in the inner campus area.

However, the assistant dean of students was not amused and said any student found guilty of stripping posters off trees will face disciplinary actions ranging from being forced to pay for the posters to suspension from the university.

UI presidential search committee OK'd

By Monica Seigel
University Editor

DES MOINES — The state Board of Regents approved a 17-member presidential search committee to identify candidates to succeed UI President James O. Freedman.

The selection of the committee by UI officials was done in accordance to guidelines established by the regents at its April meeting which said it should consist of nine faculty members, one collegiate dean, three staff members, two students and two alumni.

"This committee is broadly representative of the diversity at the University of Iowa," Regents Executive Secretary Wayne R. Richey told the board of the committee, which includes eight women and two minorities.

UI Communication Studies Professor Samuel Becker, who is chairman of the UI Faculty Senate's Committee on the Selection of Central Academic Officials, will also chair the presidential search committee.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS in addition to Becker include: Judith Aikin, professor of German; Benny Hawkins, associate professor of periodontics; Donald Heistad, professor of internal medicine; Sydney James, professor of history; Susan Johnson, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology; James Osborne, associate professor and director of radiology; Virendra Patel, professor of energy engineering; Marilyn Zweng, professor and chair of secondary education; Gerhard Loewenberg, dean of the college of liberal arts; Patricia Piper, president of the UI Staff Council; Jean Kendall, former staff council president; Howard Meyer, former staff council president; Melinda Hess, UI Student Senate vice president; Ellen Herman, member of the Graduate Student Senate; Susan McDevitt, president of the UI Alumni Association Board of Directors; and Richard Levitt, chairman of the UI Foundation Board of Directors.

"We will aggressively seek applications from and nominations of outstanding candidates from across the nation," Becker said. "We especially hope to develop a diverse pool of candidates, including women and members of minority groups."

Becker asked the regents permission to begin distributing nomination forms to UI faculty and staff, from whom he said "the best nominations usually come." The regents approved the measure, which will allow faculty and staff members to nominate candidates before the end of the academic year, when many will leave.

Becker said the committee will begin work immediately. The tentative timetable approved by the regents last month calls for the committee to recommend, without ranking, a list of not less than six finalists to the board by early fall.

RV owners protest proposed ordinance

By Carol Monaghan
Staff Writer

Nearly 50 Iowa City residents, mostly recreational vehicle owners, filled the Iowa City Council chambers Tuesday evening to protest a proposed ordinance that would prohibit storage of such vehicles in front or side yards.

The proposed ordinance would restrict vehicles which are either more than 7 and a half feet in height or more than 17 and a half feet in length from being parked in a front or side yard, and would "beef up enforcement" by placing a 48-hour time limit on parking, Iowa City Senior Planner Karin Franklin said Monday.

A present ordinance restricts vehicles more than 7 feet in height from being parked in the required front or side yards, but provides little means to enforce the ordinance, Franklin said.

THOSE RESIDENTS in favor of the ordinance said large vehicles obstruct the view and endanger public safety.

Dick Buxton, of 2655 Hillside Drive, said a recreational vehicle near his home obstructs the sidewalk and may be a safety hazard for children who climb the ladder of the tall vehicle.

"The RV sticks out onto the sidewalk and proves to be an intrusion with joggers, passers-by, and baby carriages," he said.

John Shaffer, Assistant State Director of the Iowa Good Sams — a group of RV owners — said the group would prefer the city allow the owners to police violators among themselves.

The council left the public hearing open for further discussion at their regular June 2 meeting. Councilor Kate Dickson said a decision would be delayed after city staff meets with the Good Sams.

UI Greeks set rules for liquor

By Jay Casini
Special to The Daily Iowan

The UI Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils voted to adopt a new alcohol policy in a joint legislative session Monday. The policy places alcohol-related guidelines on Greek social functions and provides for the formation of a Greek student committee to oversee compliance with the policy among individual fraternities and sorority houses.

Until Monday, the UI was one of very few schools with large Greek systems not having an alcohol policy. Some of the new guidelines include limiting party entrances, providing transportation home for party guests and requiring valid identification to determine legal drinking age.

The policy was designed by the IFC and Panhellenic presidents, in conjunction with representatives from various Greek houses, lawyers and insurance agents. While the policy resembles those found at other major universities, the UI policy is somewhat unique in that it was devised by the students themselves.

"I'm proud of our Greek system policy because it was conceived by students, debated by students and passed by students," Mary Peterson of the Office of Campus Programs, said.

ACCORDING TO IFC President Larry O'Brien, the new policy is "nothing chapter shouldn't have been doing before to protect themselves. The best thing it did was raise the consciousness of people in the system to their liability."

The alcohol policy is only part of a yearlong concentration on risk management by both the Interfraternity and Panhellenic councils. During research on the policy, open workshops for Greek houses were held to discuss liability and insurance coverage.

"Part of being Greek is having a certain amount of responsibility to chapter members," Panhellenic President Michelle Friek said.

"We have a policy we can work with. It is to the benefit of our system. We're not saying we can't have fun, we'll have as much as we always had," she said.

Donations skyrocket at U.S. colleges

By Scott Hauser
Staff Writer
and United Press International

Although donations to the UI decreased slightly while donations to the nation's colleges increased dramatically over last year, a UI Foundation official said Tuesday UI fundraising is actually going very well.

The Council for Financial Aid to Education announced Tuesday donations to U.S. colleges soared to a record $7.4 billion in 1985-86, a rise of 17.1 percent over the previous year.

But UI Foundation Vice President for Communications and Administration Alan Swanson said donations to the UI declined about $600,000 in 1985-86, and that the decrease was due to an unusually successful 1984-85 year.

He said the foundation was not particularly concerned about the decrease and its comparison to the nationwide figure.

"We dropped," he said of the 1985-86 figure. "But we had several large gifts — one of which was anonymous — in the previous year which really skews us."

HE SAID THE UI received at least one donation for $8 million in 1984-85 which, if removed, would mean UI donations increased well above the council's percentage.

The number of donors to the UI and the UI Foundation continues to increase, he said.

The council said the increase, estimated at $1.08 billion over the previous year, was the largest annual gain and one of the largest percentage increases since it started tracking educational philanthropy in the mid-1950s.

The top 10 recipients were: Stanford University, $179 million; Harvard University, $146 million; the University of Washington, $146 million; Cornell University, $114 million; Yale University, $110 million; Columbia University $94 million; the University of Minnesota, $93 million; Princeton University, $87 million; the University of Illinois, $83 million; and the University of Pennsylvania, $79 million.

SWANSON SAID THE UI and the UI Foundation received more than $30.1 million in donations in 1985-86, a slight decrease from the 1984-85 figure of about $30.8 million.

Discounting the $8 million donation, the UI's donations would have increased from about $22.8 in 1984-85 to $30.1 in 1985-86, Swanson said, an increase of about 32 percent.

Because the council figures donations on a fiscal year basis and the UI on a calendar year basis, the figures for the UI are really extrapolations, he said.

Gifts from "friends and alumni" rose 25 percent over the previous year, amounting to $3.6 billion, the council's report showed. Corporate donations, totaling $1.7 billion, rose 8 percent.

Council President John Haire, calling the non-corporate increase "extraordinary," speculated the generosity of individual donors was stimulated by ambitious fund-raising drives, stock market gains, and the likelihood some major donors anticipated the recent changes in the federal tax code.

"PERHAPS THE MOST important factor," he said, "is that Americans believe strongly in higher education and remain persuaded of the colleges' and universities' need for financial support from the private sector."

Swanson said the UI and its ambitious fund-raising drive, Iowa Endowment 2000, continues at a strong pace.

Describing it as fund raising for the future, Swanson said the foundation will announce the figure around the drive has raised Friday.

"I think people will be surprised by our progress," Swanson said.

Other significant gift categories and amounts in the report: foundations, $1.43 billion, up 18.4 percent; religious organizations, $211 million, up 2.8 percent; other, $518 million, up 7 percent.

SWANSON SAID UI alumni donations comprise 63 percent of the dollar amount donated to the UI and 60 percent of the number of givers; individual, non-alumni comprise 21 percent of the dollar donations and 37 percent of the number of givers; business, foundations, and others comprise 16 percent of the dollar amount and 3 percent of the givers.

The record $7.4 billion in gifts from private sources amounted to 7 percent of the total of $105.4 billion in college and university expenses in 1985-86, the council reported.

The Council is a non-profit corporation funded by the business community and charged with encouraging, and making more effective, private-sector support of education.

Laudable legislation

Under a bill passed Monday by the Iowa Senate, discrimination against working women who wish to bear children would be seriously reduced. The bill, passed by a 38-5 margin, requires employers to grant up to eight weeks of disability leave to women who wish to bear children and return to work. This bill will prohibit employers from hiring or firing women because of pregnancy and also require employers to grant women leaves of absence for pregnancies when sufficient disability leaves aren't available.

This bill, which will now be considered by Gov. Terry Branstad, appears to be top rate and should be made into law as quickly as possible. Women have been subjected to incessant discrimination in the work place in nearly every situation and scenario imaginable. The problem of sexual discrimination affects not only the immediate recipients of prejudicial attitudes, but society as a whole.

Women, as a result of systematic discriminatory policies and practices, still make only about 60 cents for every dollar earned by their male counterparts. Enactment of this bill into law would not only signify a major legal victory for women in their continuing bid to gain equality, but would also illustrate a socially responsible and meaningful step taken by our state government.

Many people and organizations persist in believing that sexual discrimination is a thing of the past, no longer constituting a major problem in American society. But in fact, sexual discrimination is so institutionalized in our society that, while it may appear to be subsiding, it is simply more refined and better disguised.

One of the ways in which women are still seriously discriminated against is in the birthing process. Many employers still look at the absence of a pregnant employee as an unnecessary interruption in their business and reason enough to avoid efforts to re-employ the worker afterwards. Passage of this bill would discourage such narrow-minded practices while also increasing the participation of women in the workforce. With the increased number of women who are able to remain in their jobs, the economic and social mobility of women will be greatly improved.

Finally, passage of this bill promises to improve the level of care for infants born to working mothers, if for no other reason than because mothers will still be employed after giving birth to a child. With the pronounced increase of unwed mothers and single-parent households, this bill addresses some very immediate problems which face the state of Iowa, as well as the nation. By proposing a law which is based on social responsibility and support for those with parental duties, Iowa legislators are addressing issues in a commendable fashion.

Hart made error in judgment

By Bruce Japsen

Local Democrats supporting Gary Hart for president can rest at ease, for now.

It's obvious they'd heard the rumors that Gary Hart was a "womanizer," long before The Miami Herald's decision to window peep.

Hart said Tuesday he did nothing "immoral" last weekend with the pretty Miami actress Donna Rice. He probably didn't.

But should Hart be penalized for being human?

No. At the same time, should a presidential aspirant such as Hart be running around with blonde bombshells behind closed doors if he expects to be this country's next Chief Executive — even if he claims everything is on the up and up?

... the campaign for his credibility has to start over.

Uh... no.

GARY SEEMED TO ADMIT this himself when he gave a statement to the American Newspaper Publishers Association Tuesday.

"Did I make a mistake by putting myself in circumstances that could be misconstrued?" the 50-year-old former Colorado senator asked Tuesday.

"Of course I did," he continued, "that goes without saying. But, did I do anything immoral? I absolutely did not."

Hart says he did nothing wrong, but he really didn't do anything right, either.

There were already allegations that Hart was — if I can hock a phrase from another columnist — a "skirt-chaser."

If Hart read these rumors, then why would he spend a weekend with a woman 20 years his junior?

REPORTS STATE HART LAMBASTED The Miami Herald, which said he and the 29-year-old Rice spent most of Friday night and Saturday in his Capitol Hill home, for publishing a "misleading and false story" and using "questionable and inadequate surveillance" for the story.

If Hart was dumb enough to go ahead with something he knew would ruin his chances at being his party's 1988 presidential nominee, then he's a fool and should not be considered for president.

At least one Johnson County Democrat leader said his fellow party members will now look more closely at Hart as a candidate, which all Democrats should.

Hart vowed Tuesday his campaign had "just begun."

And he's right, but the campaign for his credibility has had to start over.

Second guessing

To the Editor:

Am I going crazy or has the UI library gotten a lot noisier lately? Am I losing my mind or are people talking loudly and laughing in places that are reserved for quiet study? Have I lost all concept of reality or has there been an increase in the number of students who wear personal headphones and wrongly think that they're the only ones who hear the music? Am I a complete psychotic or does the second floor study area consist of a lot of people wearing Greek sweat-shirts who throw pencils and act like first graders?

Am I going crazy or is the UI library not quite the peaceful haven that it once was? If I'm not going crazy, then there is a serious problem, either with a lot of students, with library rules or both. If I AM going crazy, then I sincerely hope I come to my senses by next fall.

Money at work

To the Editor:

Tax day was a scant two weeks ago and already we learn that our money, thanks to our administration and Sen. Chuck Grassley, R-Iowa, has been put to use in a peasant community in Nicaragua.

American technician Benjamin Linder, working on a hydroelectric project, was executed by Contras — and we provided their guns and bullets. Doesn't that make you feel like you're contributing to the betterment of this world?

He wasn't the first unarmed civilian to be executed by these thugs and thanks to Grassley's allocations of our taxes we can rest assured there will be more.

Thanks, Doc

To the Editor:

This past weekend when the Philadelphia 76ers lost to the Milwaukee Bucks, it marked the end of the career of Julius "Dr. J." Erving. He brought basketball, and all sports, to a new and greater level.

During the past year or so, sports have hit some very troubling and trying times: the drug-induced deaths of Maryland basketball star Len Bias and pro football player Don Rogers and the scandals of illegal recruitment that have rocked the NCAA. It is nice to know that there are still outstanding people like Erving in sports.

There are many youngsters with big dreams that need someone to be a role model and Dr. J was the one person that everyone seemed to look up to. Dr. J. was not just a winner on the court, where he showed composure under pressure and outstanding leadership, but he is also a devoted family man and puts in many hours doing charity work.

Dr. J proved that good guys still do win and not just in sports. They also win in family life, in business, in school and in friendship. Dr. J may be gone, but he will never be forgotten. Doc, you're a class act. Thanks!

Money talks

To the Editor:

The proposed laser facility has brought out the dollar signs in everyone's eyes. The university administration, the legislature and many in the general public have jumped on the bandwagon. Somehow, they have overlooked the fact this project is taking precedence over projects of greater concern and that the foundation upon which these hopes are based is continuing support for Star Wars.

One of the projects deleted from the budget for the coming year (and in previous years) is the repair of the Chemistry-Botany building. As many who have had classes or worked in this building know, it has many problems. The ventilation system is inadequate. The building is also a fire trap. Both problems are very serious. If there were an accident involving a toxic chemical or a fire, there is great potential for loss of life.

Apparently, administrators and legislators are not concerned about the lawsuits that would be filed should such an accident occur nor, indeed, are they concerned about the lives that would be lost. Right now all they see are dollar signs. They look toward the millions of dollars in grants from which the university could skim their portion and potential jobs that could generate taxable income for the state.

These hopes could be dashed if funding for Strategic Defense Initiative projects were cut or eliminated in future years. One could seriously question the appropriateness of defense research here at the UI, but I would rather not get into that.

I do seriously question the priorities set by the university administration and the legislature. Clearly, they are thinking with their pocketbooks, not their heads.

Questionable priorities

Some 11 million Americans watch "Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous." Robin Leech is in the process of making himself rich and famous by providing the crucial service of exploring the home of one of the Heathers, Chads or Todds.

Vanna White gets around $100,000 a year turning letters on a TV game show. A college professor earns about $30,000. On TV we get the greed and sleaze of shows such as "Dallas," "Dynasty," "The Colbys," "Falcon Crest," "Knots Landing" and dozens more.

Meanwhile, TV evangelists, supposedly concerned about the moral health of the nation, spend more time collecting money, arguing that communists are at the Rio Grande and defending President Ronald Reagan's Star Wars plan than they do teaching people to be generous to the poor, kind to the afflicted and loving to their "enemies."

Students, too, are often too selfish or too ignorant (or both) for there to be hope of change. For 20 years, since 1966, Alexander Astin and the Cooperative Institutional Research Program have been studying college freshmen. The item on the survey showing the greatest trend is "being very well-off financially." That value has increased from 43.8 percent to 70.9 percent. The item with the biggest drop was "developing a meaningful philosophy of life."

Students have been taught that being tolerant is equivalent to having no principles. They have been taught that all learning can be made fun and easy. And they know little of the foundations of art, history, literature, music, science and politics. Their culture begins with their own generation and ends with distorted and incomplete bits of their parents.

The blame for these circumstances falls on parents who have been absent and greedy, on society which will not pay for good teachers, on teachers who opt to teach only what comes easily, on clergy who either teach feel-good religion or hell and damnation and on business interests which teach that no product or deal is too shoddy if it will make a buck. And it falls on the students, who have chosen willful ignorance instead of the harder task of self-education.

UI Libel Research Project gets $158,000 Markle grant

By Anne Halloran Staff Writer

A $158,000 grant will fund a UI Libel Research Project, a nationwide experiment to resolve libel disputes outside the courts.

The grant, from the John and Mary R. Markle Foundation, will allow a team of UI professors and a director for the Iowa Libel Research Project to test the alternative process of libel suits.

The members — which include Professor of Law Randall Bezonson; head of the graduate studies and Associate Professor at the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, John Soloski; and director of ILRP Roselle Wissler — held a press conference Tuesday afternoon.

According to the project members, the decision to test alternatives to litigation is an outgrowth of a three-year study that found libel litigation costly, time-consuming and often unsatisfactory to plaintiffs and defendants.

THE ALTERNATIVE procedures, designed by ILRP, involves libel cases that have not been settled and will include a hearing before a neutral, who will issue a finding on questions of harm to reputation and the truth or falsity of the challenged statements.

According to the ILRP members, their alternative will not include money damages.

The members said the procedure involves the American Arbitration Association which will administer the conference and hearing, but the parties will have a say in who the neutral will be and will negotiate the remedy, which will likely be the publication of a finding on the falsity issue.

Bezonson said he expects the newspaper defendant to agree to pay the plaintiff so the plaintiff could buy space in a comparable medium if the findings prove it printed false facts.

Bezonson said the procedure he and the other research members have adapted will counter the problems of the current procedure for libel suits.

"OUR PROCEDURE IS prompt, within 60 days," Bezonson said. "That's three years and four months shorter than today. It is also informal and flexible."

Soloski said the cost of the process would be between $3,000 to $4,000, compared to $175,000 to $225,000 newspapers normally spend for defense.

"The cost of the process is going to be minimal because the research grants will defray the costs," Soloski said.

The members of ILRP claimed the legal system failed to address plaintiffs' key concern, which was the alleged falsity of a statement made by the media.

"One of the problems in the present legal system is that it places judgments on how well the media does its work," Bezonson said. "We think that's unhealthy."

Soloski said the project would counter this problem.

Ex-campus recruiter doubts referral service

By John Bartenhagen
Staff Writer

A new Iowa City information referral service may not be the best way for graduating seniors to find a job, UI doctoral student Craig Tunwall said Monday.

Tunwall, a former campus recruiter, said he is skeptical services offered by Global Data Systems of Iowa City will help students engaged in the job hunting process.

For a $20 fee, the company claims it will process student information and present it to employers.

But Alvin Logan, a member of the Global Data Systems board of directors, said the company does provide students with legitimate benefits. "We put resumés in front of 10 to 15 potential employers for every student," Logan said. "It is a much faster, much more direct way of putting information into the hands of the people that are doing the hiring."

LOGAN ADDED there is a need for private job-referral services because more corporations are using their services due to the prohibitive costs of on-campus interviewing.

Tunwall, however, feels the company may simply be preying on the anxieties of average and below-average students. These anxieties are increased, he said, by a poor economy and a low success rate at placement offices.

"The really good students that have made good use of the placement office are not the ones who will be using these services," Tunwall said. "It's the students that are feeling scared about their job situation who will really jump on this."

"IF YOU'VE GONE through the placement office and the opportunities there seem limited, you have very few avenues left open," he said. "For a student who has spent four or five years or more in school and who is not confident about job prospects, a service like this might seem like a better deal than it is."

UI Business and Liberal Arts Placement Office Assistant Director Donald Moffett said private information referral services are an easy answer — though not necessarily a good one — for students trying to find a job.

"What happens is these places are inundated with resumés, which drastically reduces an individual's chances of finding employment," he said. "It's an easy way to make a buck, as far as I'm concerned."

Moffett said he does not believe placement offices will be replaced by private companies, adding placement offices are attempting to make use of new interviewing technology such as telephone and video-recorded interviews.

ON-CAMPUS INTERVIEWS are never the total answer for students, Moffett said, but are a good place to start.

"Placement offices are a good way to develop job hunting skills — and they're free," he said.

Tunwall said a particular concern is the amount of effort made by private information referral services to find their clients jobs.

"There are no industry standards for what constitutes a quality effort to get people jobs," he said.

An informational packet about Global Data Systems was mailed to graduating seniors which contains a disclaimer that states, "We pledge to put your resumé before employers for employment consideration. However, we cannot guarantee or promise that you will receive an offer of employment."

Tunwall, a doctoral student in Industrial Relations and Human Resources, added the company's timing for its letter campaign has made him even more suspicious.

"For these services to do any good, people would have had to get the information by February at the latest," he said. "Anyone that doesn't have a job already is going to have a tough time finding work in their field."

Asian Center looks forward to growth

By Adam Barnard
Special to The Daily Iowan

One of UI President James O. Freedman's priorities during the past five years has been a commitment to education in Asian-related fields.

Last May, Freedman announced a $2 million endowment to establish the Center for Asian and Pacific Studies, giving action to his words about the importance of understanding Pacific nations.

In the wake of news of Freedman's departure from the UI, Acting Director Professor Robert Leutner feels confident about the center's future, now nearing its first anniversary.

"We have identified substantial interest, particularly among the faculty, and I don't think that interest and support are in any way endangered by Freedman's leaving," Leutner said.

PROFESSOR THOMAS Rohlich, chairman of the Department of Asian Languages and Literature, said Freedman's absence will not destroy the center.

"(It's) off to a good start, but it has to have time to fully develop its mission," he said. "There's promise of further growth even though President Freedman won't be here."

Leutner said Freedman recognized the UI's strength in Asian studies, and the center only adds to the strength.

"There were a couple of other initiatives that he took on our behalf which have paid off," he said, mentioning the recently established UI Critical Languages Program. "These programs go together to put a floor under our activities here that simply would not have been here before without (Freedman) actively involving himself."

The center's three formal missions involve teaching, research and service. Rohlich said a pilot course in Korean, offered through the Division of Continuing Education with the support of the center, is a direct benefit to his department.

"We think (the center) is going to be a great boon to Asian studies on campus," Rohlich said.

ACCORDING TO LEUTNER, the center's primary function is currently as an information exchange for people at the UI.

"There are a lot of faculty not in Asian studies per se — in the medical sciences or mathematics — who have contacts in Asia. We're interested in who knows who in Asia," Leutner said.

Leutner estimated that two-thirds of the UI's 1,700 foreign students are Asian nationals.

"We're hoping that as we learn more about the institutions those students are coming from, we'll be able to do a much better job of recruitment and selection and thereby ensure the real quality of the students we're getting," he said.

"I think we've been doing pretty well, but there is still a lot of uneasiness about recruiting from Asia. It is hard to know what students' English skills are like, or the quality of the institution they are applying from," Leutner said.

IN ITS FIRST year, the center has already been involved in a wide range of public activities.

"We are in increasing contact with high schools interested in honors projects on Asia," Leutner said, adding that the center is also "working individually and institutionally with members of the business community to help with their planning and trade missions and their contacts with Asian businesses."

Last fall, the center co-sponsored the Intensive Japanese Language and Culture Seminar to introduce aspects of modern Japan to Iowa's business leaders and others.

The center is also getting involved in Asian-related artistic enterprises. In September, the center sponsored a reception to welcome Asian writers currently in residence with the UI's International Writing Program. The center is also working to get grants for educational activities to enhance Asian-related events at Hancher Auditorium, according to Leutner.

Reception honors UI women

By Anjanette Brush
Staff Writer

In honor of women's scholarship, members of the UI community met Tuesday at a reception recognizing academic excellence among women.

Jointly organized and sponsored by the UI Department of Women's Studies, the Jane A. Weiss Committee and the Women's Resource and Action Center, the reception was the sixth annual spring celebration honoring women's achievements at the UI.

UI Assistant Dean of Academic Affairs Nancy Barcelo said the women being honored were those committed to bringing diversity to the UI curriculum and attention to affairs affecting women both nationally and internationally.

"The accomplishments of these women serve as an inspiration to each of us and a reminder of the work still before us," Barcelo said.

INCLUDED IN the event was an address by JoAnn Castagna, UI doctoral candidate in American Studies, and the presentation of two scholarships, the Jane A. Weiss Memorial Scholarship and the Katherine Orne Memorial Scholarship.

The Weiss Scholarship is awarded each year to a doctoral student whose dissertation promises to expand understanding of important women's issues. This year's recipient was Kesho Scott, a UI doctoral candidate in American Studies.

Scott, an instructor at Grinnell College, was awarded the scholarship for her dissertation entitled "The Habit of Surviving: Black Women in America."

"This award means something very specific to me, it means that we have direct support in continued scholarship with regards to America's black women," Scott said.

Duangrudi Suksang, a doctoral candidate in English, received the 1987 Orne

Scholarship. Her dissertation is entitled "Social Relationships in Nineteenth-Century Utopias by Women."

"IT IS VERY encouraging to have your work recognized as being of worth," Suksang said. "I feel fortunate and honored at the same time."

The Orne Scholarship has been awarded annually since 1981 to a doctoral student whose dissertation work is in the area of women's studies.

The reception also celebrated the contributions and accomplishments of various other women in the UI and Iowa City community. Special recognition was given to Mildred Lavin, retiring assistant director of the UI Division of Continuing Education.

Lavin was involved in the establishment of the Bachelor of Liberal Studies degree for non-traditional students and played an integral role in the development of the Women's Studies program.

House endorses cut version of Reagan's Pentagon bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House, after partisan wrangling, endorsed a $289 billion Pentagon spending bill Tuesday that will become the focal point for nearly two weeks of arms control debate in the House.

The chamber voted 248-172 for the spending level, $23 billion less than President Ronald Reagan sought and down 5 percent from 1987 levels. Final passage will not come until late next week.

Meanwhile, the Senate Armed Services Committee approved a $303.3 billion Pentagon measure for 1988, essentially a budget freeze. It offers to trade President Reagan money for his Star Wars project in return for votes in Congress if he wants to expand the program's scope.

HOUSE ARMED SERVICES Committee conservative Republicans held out for a $306 billion measure the committee approved, but the more moderate to liberal Democrat-controlled House accepted instead the $289 billion measure.

"What we have here is a vote on the issue of whether or not the defense bill... should be consistent with the budget resolution... This is a test of the budget resolution," argued Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., of the Armed Services Committee.

"If the House Armed Services Committee is going to blow the budget resolution by $17 billion (the $306 billion measure), that's the end of the budget resolution even before we go to conference (with the Senate)," he said. "The finances of the country, the deficit, all of that rests on our ability to live up to the budget resolution."

ONCE THE SENATE passes its budget resolution, with about $303 billion for defense, the two resolutions will be reconciled somewhere in between. Then both House and Senate defense bills, once passed, must go to conference.

Defense spending in 1986-1987 fell about 7 percent, and the 1988 measure represents a potential third straight drop in Pentagon purchasing power.

Today, arms control advocates will start trying to decorate the defense bill with amendments restricting administration actions on the 1972 ABM treaty, the Star Wars program, the unratified SALT 2 treaty, nuclear testing, an anti-satellite weapons program, chemical weapons and the MX missile.

The horde of arms control amendments expected to pass already has prompted a veto threat from the White House.

Before Tuesday's debate, the House committee's top Republican, Bill Dickenson, R-Ala., and others called a press conference to back the higher budget as indicative of the nation's defense needs. Dickenson said the forced reductions are "getting into the bone and sinew" of national defense.

Meese faces special inquest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department is investigating whether Attorney General Edwin Meese's ties to the Wedtech Corp. warrant an independent counsel inquiry, a special prosecutor said Tuesday.

The revelation by independent counsel James McKay, who said he does not now have authority to include allegations of wrongdoing against Meese in his probe of ex-White House aide Lyn Nofziger and his lobbying for the New York defense contractor, is the first step toward opening a special prosecutors inquest.

McKay also revealed his investigation was recently expanded to allow him "prosecutorial jurisdiction" — which could take him into related investigations in New York and Baltimore that have already resulted in four Wedtech executives pleading guilty to bribing public officials.

IN A LETTER TO the chairmen of the House and Senate Judiciary Committees, McKay said:

"It is my opinion that the jurisdiction presently conferred upon this office does not encompass the allegations respecting Mr. Meese's conduct relating to possible violations of federal ethics law.

However, McKay said, if the court or Justice Department "requests this office to assume responsibility for further investigation of allegations respecting Mr. Meese, we would be prepared to undertake that assignment."

The charges of possible wrongdoing have arisen in recent weeks with Meese's acknowledgement that he interceded for Wedtech on a no-bid government contract in 1982 when he was counselor to the president; that he subsequently invested in 1985 with a company associated with Wedtech, and his failure to excuse himself until April 8 from investigations of Wedtech that federal prosecutors in New York and Baltimore began last year.

UNDER FEDERAL ethics laws, high-ranking officials are prohibited from lobbying their former agencies on issues they were substantially involved in.

McKay, appointed Feb. 2, said "The Department of Justice has advised me that... the Public Integrity Section of the criminal division is conducting a threshold inquiry to determine whether information respecting Mr. Meese's relation to Welbilt-Wedtech and certain associates of the company is sufficient to constitute grounds for a preliminary investigation."

The 1973 Ethics in Government law requires the Justice Department to determine whether or not an independent counsel should investigate the allegations against Meese.

World Bank launches new project

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The World Bank launched an environmental campaign Tuesday that bank President Barber Conable said will start with projects to fight the growth of African deserts, preserve tropical forests and protect the Mediterranean.

Conable, in remarks prepared for a speech to the World Resources Institute, also said the bank has created a department devoted to examining how bank-sponsored projects affect the environment.

That department and other bank employees will spend part of their time over the next five years assessing environmental threats in the 30 most vulnerable developing nations, he added.

THE WORLD BANK, which pools money from richer nations and then commits some $14 billion to development projects each year, has come under increasing criticism for bankrolling what turned out to be environmental destruction.

Conable noted those complaints and cited one example — the Polonoreste road project in Brazil's Amazon region — in which the bank had to stop funding in order to get problems corrected.

"The World Bank is a force for development and will remain so," he said. "Our role in such projects, however, will include greater sensitivity to their long-term environmental effects."

Canadian immigration bill introduced

OTTAWA — A tough immigration bill requiring deportation of aliens who fail to qualify for refugee status was introduced in Parliament Tuesday, the same day a new immigration law took effect in the United States.

The legislation, expected to be enacted before the end of the year, establishes a pre-screening procedure for applicants for refugee status and automatic deportation for those who fail to qualify.

Aliens would have to prove "a well-founded fear of persecution," government officials said. Those not granted refugee status would be deported to a "safe" third country where they would not face persecution, officials said.

But opposition politicians, church groups, Amnesty International and the Canadian Bar Association said the bill would allow the Canadian government simply to dump its problems on other countries.

If the legislation is approved by Parliament, the Conservative Cabinet would establish a list of "safe third countries" to which illegal aliens could be deported.

Lawyer: 'Crack down on insider trading'

WASHINGTON — U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani, a lead prosecutor in the Wall Street scandals, called on Congress Tuesday to crack down on insider trading crimes, including doubling or tripling prison terms.

Giuliani, testifying to a House Energy and Commerce subcommittee, said Congress needed to send Wall Street a clear signal that white collar crimes will no longer be lightly treated.

To do that, he suggested that the maximum five-year prison terms for some insider trading crimes be increased to 10 years or 15 years. That, he said, would be a "more realistic" response to the apparent explosion of Wall Street crimes.

In addition, Giuliani said Congress should approve mandatory minimum sentences of two to three years for convictions of crimes associated with the insider trading cases.

Double suicide rocks small Iowa town

MANCHESTER, Iowa — West Delaware High School officials called in mental-health practitioners Tuesday to help students deal with the suicide of a 15-year-old girl who hanged herself six weeks after her boyfriend took his life.

Delaware County Medical Examiner Dr. John Tyrell said Sally Loeck of rural Greeley hanged herself Monday in her family's barn. Her boyfriend, H.G. Benjamin "Ben" Tenhoff, 15, died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound March 25th. Both students were freshmen at the high school.

Superintendent Steve Swanson said the deaths have thrown a "double whammy" on a small school that rarely has been the setting for anything out of the ordinary.

Swanson said a group of social workers visited the school Monday, and students were allowed to meet with them on a one-on-one basis.

Appeals court stops anti-smoking rule

ALBANY, N.Y. — An appeals court Tuesday stopped New York's tough new anti-smoking regulations from taking effect on Thursday, upholding a lower court decision that a state agency exceeded its authority by passing the rules.

The Appellate Division of state Supreme Court set June 12 as the date for arguments on the state's appeal of a decision by Justice Harold Hughes striking down the anti-smoking measure last month.

The new regulations would have banned smoking in almost all public places, including taxis, food markets, banks and hospitals.

It was considered among the toughest anti-smoking ordinances in the country.

Pravda celebrates 75th anniversary

MOSCOW — Pravda, the official newspaper of the Soviet Communist Party, celebrated its 75th anniversary Tuesday with a page-one picture of founder Vladimir Lenin and criticism from its current editor that journalists are not doing enough to promote the reforms of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

When it first opened as an opposition newspaper to the czar's government five years before the 1917 Bolshevik revolution, Pravda — which means "truth" in Russian — had a circulation of 60,000 copies and cost 2 kopeks, about 3 cents.

Today the newspaper has a circulation of 11.3 million and costs 5 kopeks, about 8 cents.

Rodino: Iran scandal similar to Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., who led the committee that voted to impeach President Richard Nixon, compared the Iran-Contra scandal to Watergate Tuesday, saying they both stemmed from the chief executive's misunderstanding of the rule of law.

Rodino, who led the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment hearings that prompted Nixon's resignation in 1974, said at the opening of congressional hearings into the Reagan White House's Iran-Contra affair:

"Nothing undermines our representative system of government more than actions taken by officials entrusted with the reins of government which, even for purposes believed good, are designed to set aside the law, distort it or ignore it."

RODINO SAID UP until now he has been reluctant to compare the administration's secret sale of arms to Iran and diversion of funds to U.S.-backed rebels in Nicaragua with Watergate, a botched political break-in and coverup.

But now, Rodino said, based on his own examination of "the considerable body of evidence at hand," he feels he can offer an assessment.

"There has already emerged a picture or pattern of questionable conduct, of illegality and wrongdoing reaching all the way into the White House, raising serious questions concerning possible knowledge and involvement of the president," he said.

"We have already learned that there has been a diversion of funds to the Contras from the sale of arms to Iran, which appears to be a violation of our laws," said Rodino, 77, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

"THESE ACTIONS BY high-ranking government officials and others connected with them cut to the very heart of our constitutional system and represent a serious breach in public trust," he said.

"The larger issues raised are not simply the coherency of American foreign policy in the Middle East or Central America," he said.

"The fundamental questions posed — just as in the Watergate crisis — have to do with the executive's misunderstanding of the rule of law," Rodino added.

Rodino said, "For all the inconsistencies of policy, for all the arrogance of power exhibited by certain administration officials who secreted their schemes from the open purview of the Congress and the American people, only our adherence to the rule of law, can, in the end, restore the public's trust," he said.

Network hassles begin with hearings coverage

NEW YORK (UPI) — Americans got a taste of the Iran-Contra scandal on national television Tuesday, but what the networks offered viewers in the way of coverage varied wildly.

Coverage in the morning ranged from ABC, which went live for just 19 minutes but never showed the hearings, to CNN, which never turned the cameras off. But by afternoon, when the first witness was called, all networks went live and stayed with the hearings until the 5 p.m. sign-off.

All three commercial networks were flooded with telephone calls from viewers complaining that their favorite soap operas or game shows were pre-empted, but no exact tally was available.

NBC and CBS lost an estimated $1.5 million in advertising revenue by pre-empting day and afternoon programming.

NBC ALSO LOST another $100,000 by interrupting the last 10 minutes of "Days of Our Lives" for live coverage of presidential contender Gary Hart's speech from the American Newspaper Publishers Association in New York. In the speech, Hart denied allegations that he spent a night with a woman in Washington while his wife was in Denver.

ABC offered the briefest morning coverage, running only 19 minutes. ABC anchor Peter Jennings and four correspondents set the stage for the hearings without televising a single word of the opening remarks.

At 10:19 a.m., ABC was back to regular programming.

"We made an editorial judgment that the real news event begins at 2 p.m. with the first witness," said ABC spokesman Tom Goodman. "We'll make editorial decisions each day."

NBC and CBS both scored anchor locations in Washington with impressive views of the Capitol dome and both covered the opening remarks of a few of the committee members.

But then, while other committee members were still delivering their opening remarks on CNN, PBS and C-Span, NBC and CBS broke away to offer produced explanatory pieces and commentary.

CNN and PBS will cover the hearings without commercial interruption.

Illegal aliens test new laws

By United Press International

A steady flow of illegal aliens, ranging from migrant farmhands from Mexico to businessmen from Poland, came forth Tuesday in search of amnesty under new immigration laws but many more hung back for fear it was an elaborate trap.

The stampede of illegal aliens many feared would swamp special Immigration and Natural Service legalization offices did not materialize.

"They are scared," said Ruben Maldonado, 23, whose friends were expected to see what would happen when he entered the INS office in San Antonio, Texas, to pick up his four-page application for permanent residency. "They think immigration will send them back to Mexico."

Bill Sanchez, a tree service operator, personally brought eight of his workers into the INS center to get their forms.

"The only reason why they're here is that I'm here," he said.

"They're scared. They think the INS will lock them up when they walk in the door."

IN MIAMI, knots of Spanish-speaking people gathered outside INS offices and, after much argument, selected one individual to venture inside and test the water.

"Some are scared that we're going to be sweeping them up and deporting them," said Ana Pardo, director of the INS center in Charlotte, N.C.

At the INS center in Harlingen in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas, home base for most of the nation's migrant farmworkers, nearly all those who showed up simply picked up forms and left without waiting to be interviewed. By mid-day only mechanic Rogelio Diaz-Alaniz, 33, had gone far enough through the process to receive his temporary ID card, good for six months.

A SEVEN-MEMBER family near the front of the short line waiting to get into the Harlingen office said they came from Mexico in 1977, and three of their children were born in Texas. Asked how they would prove they had been in the country since 1981 — a major requirement of the new law — one of their teenage sons answered in perfect English: "Because we went to school in McAllen, and we had perfect attendance."

About 100 people went through the INS office on West 24th St. in New York during the first hour of the day, and the first to get their get their laminated ID cards were Rosa and Mark Klich, from Elblag, Poland.

The couple has been living for eight years in Brooklyn and operate their own trucking company.

"Everything that I want, I got today," said Klich, 32.

Hector Marroquin, a Mexican-born socialist, said he arrived at the office at 4 a.m. to be first in line.

Marroquin, 33, a member of the Socialist Workers Party and the Young Socialists Alliance, has lived in the United States since 1974.

"WE WANT TO make this a test case to see if the amnesty program is going to discriminate against people for their political ideas," Marroquin said.

In Los Angeles, where more than a quarter of an estimated 4 million eligible illegal aliens live, INS Western Commissioner Harold Ezell said the light turnout was evidence the INS has done its job well.

"We've done everything to avoid confusion: mail-in applications, drop-in applications, appointments in advance. It's just like a retail business — we've got customers and it's important to treat them well," he said.

INS passed out 60,000 applications in the Los Angeles area last week, but most of those who showed up today came only to get forms and then left.

Postal board OKs 3-cent stamp hike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Postal Board of Governors put its stamp of approval Tuesday on plans to boost the price of mailing a first-class letter — now at 22 cents — to 25 cents next year.

The board, at its monthly meeting, said the Postal Service will ask the Postal Rate Commission later this week to approve an average 16 percent increase for all classes of mail, including the 3-cent hike for a first-class stamp.

Michael Coughlin, deputy postmaster general, said at a news conference after the meeting that if the rates are approved, the stamp price will likely rise to 25 cents in May 1988 and stay at that level for at least three years.

Mailing a first-class letter has cost 22 cents since Feb. 17, 1985.

"I KNOW THIS IS not great news," said board Chairman John Griesemer, noting that although the Postal Service is now in good financial shape, the hikes are needed to offset anticipated increases in the cost of labor, health, retirement and general operations.

The announcement of a 25-cent stamp had been widely anticipated, but the timing angered the presidents of the nation's two largest postal unions, representing about 600,000 workers, who began contract talks two weeks ago.

At a news conference outside Postal Service headquarters, Moe Biller of the American Postal Workers Union and Vincent Sombrero of the National Association of Letter Carriers accused the board of "thumping its nose" at a rate commission recommendation.

Guatemala aided by U.S. airlift

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Three U.S. Army helicopters with American crews airlifted about 300 Guatemalan troops into a remote area of the country to fight leftist guerrillas, expanding U.S. military operations in Central America, the Pentagon said Tuesday.

In the first such direct U.S. military assistance to Guatemala, the three CH-47 Chinook heavy lift helicopters made about a dozen flights Sunday and Monday from near Guatemala City to a regional headquarters at Playa Grande, about 120 miles north of the capital, a Pentagon spokesman said.

The helicopters and their crews of 18 soldiers flew to Guatemala from Palmerola air base in Honduras, a major U.S. installation in that country. The choppers are attached to the Army's 243rd Aviation Co., based at Fort Lewis, Wash., and are on temporary assignment in Honduras, the spokesman said.

The Americans did not come in contact with guerrillas in Guatemala, said spokesman Col. Marvin Bramer.

"THEY WERE ASKED to fly one-way transportation," he said.

U.S. helicopters twice have been used in Honduras to ferry Honduran troops to the Nicaraguan border after Nicaraguan troops raided rebel camps in that country, but the mission in Guatemala marked the first time they have been used there for that purpose, Bramer said.

The use of U.S. helicopters in Guatemala for a counterinsurgency operation for the first time expanded American military involvement in the turbulent region beyond Honduras, where U.S. troops have been staging near-continuous exercises for four years.

Guatemalan President Vinicio Cerezo requested the helicopter support from the U.S. ambassador to Guatemala, Alberto Piedra, Thursday, Bramer said. The choppers went in Sunday and wound up their mission at about 3:30 p.m. Monday, he said.

Family wins 'chemical' death suit

NEW YORK (UPI)—A federal judge Tuesday awarded more than $700,000 to the estate of a man who died in 1953 after he was used involuntarily as a human guinea pig in a secret Army chemical warfare program.

U.S. District Court Judge Constance Motley ordered the $702,044 award in the federal negligent death suit to Elizabeth Barrett and her sister Belinda Gilroy on behalf of the estate of Harold Blauer, their father.

Blauer died as a result of one in a series of injections of mescaline derivatives he was given at the New York State Psychiatric Institute, a hospital run by New York State.

The hospital was under contract to the Army to experiment on chemical warfare drugs. The government did not know if it would appeal the decision.

THE JUDGE SAID the Army used "a hallucinogen" on Blauer in its search for a "potential 'dicombobulator' of enemy populations."

Blauer was a 42-year-old tennis pro undergoing psychotherapy for severe depression following a divorce from his wife when he died Jan. 8, 1953.

Admitted to the Psychiatric Institute in Manhattan Dec. 5, 1952, and having improved substantially through therapy, "he was scheduled to be released in a matter of weeks" when he died, according to Motley's 109-page decision.

Blauer's depression was not regarded as a permanent psychiatric condition.

His ex-wife brought action against the State of New York on behalf of the estate, eventually settling for $18,000 in 1955. A release signed at the time was rescinded in order to file the federal suit.

Amy Blauer, the ex-wife, died in 1974. The army's role was revealed in August 1975 and the federal suit filed the following month.

U.S., Soviets reach accord

GENEVA (UPI)—The United States and the Soviet Union announced agreement Tuesday on establishing nuclear risk reduction centers in the first accord to emerge from the 1985 Geneva summit.

President Ronald Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev agreed at that time on the need for establishing the centers to permit immediate explanations in case of misunderstandings that could lead to accidental nuclear conflict.

U.S. and Soviet delegates held confidential talks on the proposed centers in May and August of 1986, again in January, and then for a fourth time on Sunday and Monday.

"There was a champagne celebration at midnight," a Soviet delegate said. "It is the first agreement resulting from the Geneva summit. This shows that we can do business."

IN WASHINGTON, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said, "The administration welcomes this agreement as a practical measure that will reduce the risk of conflict between the United States and the Soviet Union, particularly nuclear conflict that might result from accident, misinterpretation or miscalculation."

Neither side provided details because the draft agreement, along with two protocols, were being referred to Reagan and Gorbachev for final approval.

But State Department officials in Washington said the centers will be used to trade information on such things as nuclear tests or missile tests.

The original concept had Soviet officers serving in Washington and U.S. military officials working in Moscow. But the State Department said military leadership on both sides objected and their offi-ers now will work in their own capitals while maintaining instant communication.

UNDER THE arrangement, according to the State Department, the centers will not be used in the kind of crisis where the Hot Line is employed. The risk centers will only be used for routine operations, the officials said.

Earlier, Soviet diplomatic sources said they believed that there would be "mixed staffing."

"The agreement is designed as a confidence-building measure," an American spokesman said.

U.S. delegates to the negotiations were Assistant Secretary of Defense Richard Perle and special presidential assistant Robert Linhard.

The Soviet chief delegate was ambassador Alexei Obukhov, who is also the deputy leader of the Soviet delegation at the main nuclear and space arms talks in Geneva.

AT THOSE TALKS, negotiators began new rounds of talks Tuesday on long-range nuclear weapons and on anti-missile defense systems in space — the eighth round since the talks began March 12, 1985.

In Washington on Monday, Reagan proposed reducing U.S. and Soviet strategic arms by 50 percent over a seven-year period. The proposal will be included in a draft treaty the United States will put on the negotiating table this week in Geneva.

The Soviet Union has linked cuts in long-range intercontinental arsenals to tight restrictions on the Strategic Defense Initiative.

Hopes for early agreement are centered on eliminating medium-range and possibly also shorter-range missiles in Europe.

Blacks start S. African strike to protest all-white elections

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI)—An estimated 1 million blacks stayed home Tuesday to begin a two-day strike protesting today's whites-only national parliamentary elections, and police opened fire seven times in ghetto clashes.

Government officials said one person was wounded and three arrested in the clashes, but township sources said they believed more people were hurt.

"Down with minority rule — end Botha's dictatorship," the United Democratic Front and the Congress of South African Trade Unions declared in pamphlets circulated in Johannesburg's Soweto black township.

"Let us demonstrate our rejection of the apartheid elections ... by staging the biggest national stayaway in the history of our country," said the 2 million-member UDF and the 600,000-member Cosatu.

A SPOKESMAN FOR the university-based Labor Monitoring Group estimated the stayaway was "in the area of 1 million so far" although he had been unable to reach all employers.

Up to 3.1 million whites go to the polls today to elect 166 white lawmakers to the dominant House of Assembly. No election has been scheduled for the separate Asian and mixed-race, or "colored" chambers created in 1984.

President Pieter Botha, whose

Afrikaner party has ruled South Africa since 1948, says he called the election two years ahead of schedule to seek a mandate to negotiate power-sharing with the nation's 25 million blacks.

IN A LETTER distributed Tuesday by soldiers who patrolled black ghettos in force, Botha said, "I need the strong support of white voters for negotiating the participation of blacks at all levels of government. That is why this election is important."

A spokesman for the government Bureau for Information said security forces opened fire seven times on blacks who threw stones and gasoline bombs in at least six ghettos near Cape Town and Durban, where dozens of black schools were closed.

The Durban townships of Lamontville and Umlazi, apparently worst hit by violence, were sealed off by police and soldiers to all outsiders. Witnesses said ambulances entered the area after prolonged gunfire.

Poland: Solidarity 'fading'

WARSAW (UPI)—A communist government spokesman said Tuesday a drastic drop in the number of people attending illegal protests showed that popular support for them was "fading," but Solidarity said official attendance figures were inaccurate.

Government spokesman Jerzy Urban told Western reporters at a weekly news conference that the number of people participating in illegal demonstrations had fallen from 63,500 people in 1983 to the 2,530 who attended May Day protests Monday.

"These events have been fading year by year due to lack of social support," Urban said.

But Janysz Onyszkiewicz, a spokesman for the outlawed trade union Solidarity said, "Minister Urban probably meant 2,530 persons had their identifications cards checked in the streets."

Friday night until about 8:30 p.m. Saturday, but a day later conceded the rear entrance of the newly purchased townhouse was not under surveillance from about midnight until 5 a.m.

Rice said she spent the night at the nearby house of William Broadhurst, a friend and campaign adviser of Hart's. Broadhurst confirmed that the model-actress was in his house overnight.

Hart said his 28-year marriage to his wife, Lee, has survived separations but today "is stronger than ever." She did not, however, come to New York for his speech, grounded by doctors who told she could not fly because of a sinus condition.

The former Colorado senator said since entering public office, "I have held myself to a high standard of private and public conduct and I always will."

BUT HE ADDED, "For some of us in public life, even the commonplace and appropriate can be misconstrued by some to be improper. That just means that I will have to raise my own standard of conduct even higher."

Hart said, "My campaign has just begun. . . My confidence in the process is even stronger. I don't intend to give up because the cause is more important than the candidate. We will prevail because the truth will prevail. The truth will conquer falsehood."

contact legislators, through the administrative process if the universities conduct classified research.

In the regents bonding bill, the Senate funded two UI projects — the laser facility and remodeling of the Old Law Building, now the International Center, a total of $25.1 million.

The senate also struck $50,000 from six proposed bonding projects at ISU. The projects, which now total $38.2 million, include a molecular biology building, a meat irradiation facility, development of a research park, a veterinary medicine research laboratory and funding for the remodeling of the home economics and industrial education buildings. The Senate also struck $100,000 in bonds for UNI, now allowing them to buy $3 million in bonds for the project.

SEN. RICH VARN, D-Solon, said although the projects are line-itemized in the bill, the universities will be allowed to internally reappropriate the bond funds.

"They can move the money around as they see fit," Varn said.

Rep. Jack Hatch, D-Des Moines, said he feels confident the House will concur with the new bill.

"It's a very clean bill," Hatch said. "There's nothing new on it and I think it's going to be a lot more attractive to the governor."

If the House approves the bill tomorrow, it will be sent to Branstad. If not, it will return once again to the Senate.

money to increase faculty salaries so they are comparable with those at the UI and ISU.

"There has been a history of inequities," Curris said. "The salary gap has been expanding."

BUT EATON disagreed, saying salaries at UNI cannot be compared with those at ISU or the UI because UNI curriculum does not require the same level of faculty member. He said it's logical for a veterinary medicine or engineering professor at ISU to earn more than an education professor at UNI.

"The salary discrepancy reflects the very different missions of the very different faculty at the universities," Eaton said. "When you look at common fields, some of their faculty salaries exceed ours."

"If this whole thing is going to be about discrepancy, we'd better look at all the facts," he added, saying UNI shouldn't compare itself to ISU and the UI.

face of constant danger; some died.

"WE BELIEVED VERY much in the significance of what we were doing and that our conduct was in furtherance of the president's policies. I also understood that this administration knew of my conduct and approved it," he said.

Secord, questioned by chief House counsel John Niels, said about $30 million was in the secret Swiss account, in the name of Lake Resources, that he controlled with Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North — the National Security Council aide believed to be the mastermind and front-line operative in the affair. Reminding the committee that his figures were from a preliminary audit, Secord said about $12 million was paid to the Treasury for the cost of the arms sold to Iran, about $8 million remains in the bank, $3.5 million was paid to the Contras — including monthly payments to the three top rebel leaders — $3.5 million was spent covering expenses to move weapons to Iran and $1 million was spent on other expenses not related to the Iran initiative or the Contra supply operation.

Another $2 million is not specifically accounted for, he said.

Secord said that in three meetings with Casey in late 1985 and early 1986, he expressed concern about the ability of the Contras to maintain their war without more U.S. support.

UNI baffled by Hawkeye fireballers

By Scott Wingert
Staff Writer

The Iowa softball squad, its pride still smarting after letting the Big Ten title elude them, turned in a pair of brilliant efforts at the Iowa Softball Complex Tuesday, sweeping a doubleheader from Northern Iowa, 3-0, 1-0.

The Hawkeyes did it in stunning fashion with freshman Pam Brown tossing a no-hitter in the opener and junior Cris Barry a one-hitter in the second game. Brown was untouchable, facing only 22 batters, one over the minimum, and allowing only two balls hit out of the infield.

"I didn't even think about it until after the game," Brown said. "I've had no-hitters before, but not here. It feels great."

BOTH PITCHERS WERE aided by outstanding defense in the field with shortstop Lynda Schlueter and third baseman Sally Miller, both sophomores, combining for 22 assists on the afternoon.

"I wouldn't trade my defense for anything in the world," a happy Iowa Coach Ginny Parrish said.

Softball

rish said. "When we play like this, nobody can touch us."

Almost lost in the shuffle of the excitement of the day was the new Iowa record of 27 wins in a season, surpassing the 26 victories set by the Hawkeyes a year ago.

"That's just a virtue of playing more games these days," Parrish said. "We really should have broke it earlier. It's disheartening because I feel we should only have about 10 losses."

IN THE FIRST game, Iowa jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the third inning when sophomore Cara Coughenour smashed a one-out double to the gap in left-center field, scoring Carol Bruggeman and Jeanette Painovich, who had both singled to open the inning.

Brown's gem improved her record to 10-7.

Barry was the beneficiary of a pair of outstanding plays in the outfield in the second game. Senior Beth Kirchner made a running, over-the-shoulder grab of the Panthers

Iowa's Cara Coughenour stretches for a low throw to first base Tuesday at the Iowa Softball Complex. Pam Brown no-hit Northern Iowa in the first game and Cris Barry one-hit the Panthers in the second.

Chris Ehler's drive with two out and a runner aboard in the first inning.

Then it was Karen Wick's turn in the third when she made a diving catch of Northern Iowa's Shelly Beauchamp's pop-up behind third base to wipe out another Panther rally.

"I'VE SAID ALL year this is the strongest defense around," Parrish said. "The potential of this team is there. It's fun to watch them click."

Northern Iowa's only hit of the day came in the top of the fifth when Jenny Schultz just beat Miller's throw on a bunt-single in front of the plate. After a forceout, a sacrifice and a walk put runners on first and second with two out, Barry again worked out of the jam, getting lead-off batter Paula Evers to ground out to the shortstop.

The game stayed deadlocked at 0-0 until the bottom of the eighth and seemed certain to go to the ninth with two out and nobody aboard for the Hawkeyes. Painovich then stroked a single to center before Kirchner, mired in a mild hitting slump, clobbered a clean double to left-center for the game-winner.

"We've been through a lot of adversity," Parrish said. "But instead of rolling over, this team decided to finish strong. I'm proud of them for that."

The Hawkeyes, 27-24-1, finish their season with a doubleheader with Northern Illinois Saturday at the Hawkeye Softball Complex at 1 p.m.

Panthers win nightcap to gain split

By Steve Williams
Assistant Sports Editor

Iowa may have been caught looking ahead Tuesday in Cedar Falls during a doubleheader with Northern Iowa.

But after a pair of extra-inning shootouts with the Panthers, Iowa Coach Duane Banks may not have to worry about such things again this season.

By winning three of four games from Wisconsin last weekend, Iowa has put itself in position for a possible Western Division Big Ten title, pending on a four-game series with Minnesota this weekend.

Baseball

With that in mind, the Hawkeyes stepped onto the Northern Iowa Baseball Diamond, fought off the Panthers in 10 innings for a 6-4 win, struggled through nine innings for a 6-5 loss and got back on the team bus and headed home exhausted.

IOWA, NOW 27-21, will have to deal with Iowa State today in Iowa City, a task which should be no easier since the Cyclones beat the Hawkeyes 7-6 when last they met and are coming off a four-game split with No. 3 Oklahoma State.

"We hope we can play better than the time before," Banks said. "But the key for us is to keep things going into this weekend."

Keith Noreen got things going for Iowa early with his third homerun in two games, followed by a two-run shot by Jason Jones giving the Hawkeyes a 3-0 lead.

Four innings later, it was tied at 4-4 and after four innings of scoreless ball, Bryan Luedtke notched his first homerun of the season — a two-run blow — that gave Iowa the win.

In game two it was the Panthers who took the early 3-0 lead, only to see it fade in the fifth inning when Noreen hit his second homerun to tie the game again. An inning later

Gary Ellis singled home John Kuester and Iowa led 4-3.

Kurt Wedewer's homerun tied the game in the bottom of the seventh but Noreen singled home home Randy Frakes in the ninth and it looked as if the Hawkeyes would obtain the sweep.

A half inning later, Dave Smith stroked a bases-loaded double to the fence and the sweep was dissolved.

Northern Iowa closes out the year at 26-21 tying a Panther season record for wins.

Celtics dump Bucks in opener

United Press International

BOSTON — Larry Bird scored 40 points and grabbed 11 rebounds Tuesday night to lead the Boston Celtics to a 111-98 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks in the opening game of their Eastern Conference semifinal playoff.

Game 2 of the best-of-seven series will be played Wednesday night at Boston.

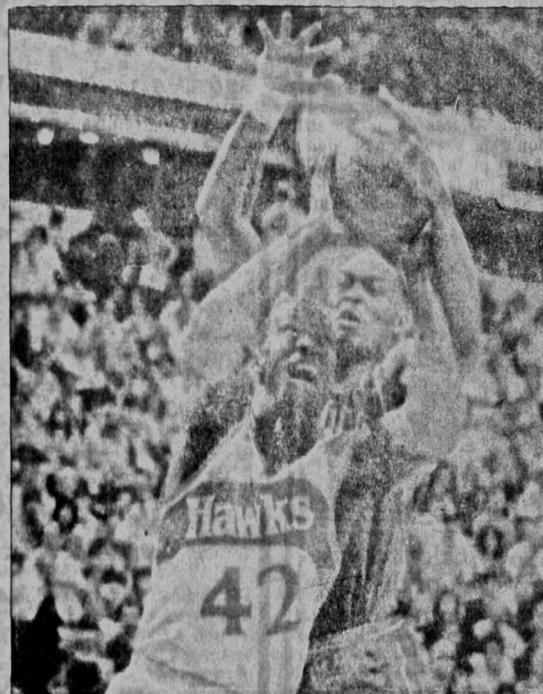

Celtics forward Kevin McHale, who severely sprained his right ankle in the first-round playoff against the Chicago Bulls, dressed but did not play. He was replaced in the starting line-up by Fred Roberts, who scored 13 points.

The NBA's defending champions led throughout and won in Boston Garden for the 32nd consecutive time. The Celtics have won 13 straight home playoff games, one short of the league record set by the Minneapolis Lakers between 1949-1951.

Boston led 65-55 at halftime and Milwaukee got no closer than eight points in the second half. The Celtics effectively used reserve Bill Walton in tandem with Robert Parish. The 7-footers combined to deny the Bucks second-shot opportunities and triggered Boston's fastbreak with their defense rebounding.

Milwaukee, which was swept by Boston in last year's playoffs, was led by Terry Cummings with 28 points, Ricky Pierce with 18 and Jack Sikma with 17.

Parish scored 22 points and grabbed 12 rebounds, and Dennis Johnson added 20 points.

Detroit's Rick Mahorn attempts to block a shot of Atlanta's Kevin Willis Tuesday in their NBA Playoff game. Atlanta won to even the series 1-1.

NBA Playoffs

Milwaukee shot 41 percent from the floor. Boston connected on 51 percent of its field goal attempts. Each team committed 20 turnovers. Milwaukee had 14 steals and Boston 11.

In the first quarter, Boston jumped to a 14-4 advantage. Milwaukee pulled within four points on two occasions before the Celtics used an 11-3 surge to take a 52-39 lead, Parish completing the run with a windup slam dunk at 6:06.

The Celtics used a 9-0 run to extend their lead to 63-45, but after the teams exchanged baskets, Milwaukee scored the final eight points of the half. Pierce netting the final six as Boston held a 65-55 lead at intermission.

The teams split their six regular-season meetings, the home team winning each game.

Boston has won 78 of its last 79 games in Boston Garden.

Atlanta 115, Detroit 102

ATLANTA — Randy Wittman scored 34 points Tuesday night to lead the Atlanta Hawks to a 115-102 victory over the Detroit Pistons, evening their best-of-seven Eastern Conference playoff series at one game apiece.

Dominique Wilkins added 23 points and Kevin Willis 18 for Atlanta, which led 56-48 at halftime and 83-71 going into the final quarter.

Seattle 99, Houston 97

HOUSTON — Dale Ellis gave Seattle the lead for good on a 20-foot jumper 1:33 left and finished with 30 points Tuesday night to lead the SuperSonics to a 99-97 victory over the Houston Rockets and a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal playoff.

Xavier McDaniel added 22 for the Sonics, who have now won five straight playoff games after losing the first game of the opening-round series to Dallas. Tom Chambers finished with 13 points, including the game's final free throw.

Three NBA greats inducted into Hall

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Former National Basketball Association greats Rick Barry, Walt Frazier and Pete Maravich along with Bob Houbregs and Bobby Wanzer were inducted Tuesday into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame.

Their enshrinement brought the number of inductees to 161.

Barry, a color commentator for NBA broadcasts on WTBS, came out of Miami as an all-American in 1965 and played 14 seasons of professional basketball in both the NBA and rival American Basketball Association.

Barry, who played 10 years in the NBA with San Francisco, Golden State and Houston, and four in the ABA with Washington and the New York Nets, is the only player to lead both leagues in scoring. He led the NBA in 1967 and the ABA in 1969.

He led the Warriors to the NBA championship in 1975.

"THIS IS THE greatest individual honor a player can receive," Barry, who spoke in an unusually soft tone at the induction ceremony because he is suffering from a viral throat infection, said. "I'm thrilled to be put into such elite company and I will cherish the honor always."

Frazier helped the New York Knicks to NBA titles in 1970 and 1973. The 6-foot-4

Jackson ready to picket owners

NEW YORK (UPI) — Civil rights leader Jesse Jackson Tuesday said a group of former major-league players would picket ballparks on Independence Day if club owners fail to form a coherent affirmative action policy by then.

Jackson, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1984, met with baseball commissioner Peter Ueberroth to discuss the hiring policies of the 26 major-league teams. The two had met in April to discuss the absence of blacks in baseball's management positions.

"By July 4, if there is not a coherent plan put forth, we are going to have a national day of justice in sports," Jackson said outside the commissioner's Manhattan office. "Ex-players around the league, around the country, will be manning picket lines on that day unless there is a plan for justice, unless there is room for these black and hispanic baseball players, and room for women, beyond just the days of active playing."

JACKSON DID NOT indicate where the former players would picket, but Frank Watkins, a spokesman for Jackson, said they would stand outside of games.

Major-league baseball is celebrating the 40th anniversary of Jackie Robinson's becoming the first black player, but there are no black or hispanic managers in the major leagues.

Frank Robinson, Larry Doby and Maury Willis are the only blacks ever to manage in the major leagues. The issue has received considerable attention since Al Campanis, then vice president of the Los Angeles Dodgers, said on national television April 6 that blacks "lacked some of the necessities" to be managers or general managers. Campanis was fired for the remark.

Kicker's dream shot falls a little bit short

Only 10 seconds left on the clock. It's fourth down and things aren't looking too good. On tromps Joe "the toe" to attempt a game-winning 55-yard field goal. The ball is down. The kick is up...

"Son, wake up. It's time for school. Get out of bed. NOW!" I knew it was too good to be true as I plummeted back from nearly 12 years of kicking dreams in the back yard into the worst reality.

It was my junior year in high school and I was editor of my school's newspaper. On a warm August day I said to my adviser, "Gonna try out for the football team."

Larry wasn't too thrilled about my statement. I could read it in his face, which split instantly like goalposts. Conflict of interest. Too much of a time drain. I knew he was right.

IT WAS MY SENIOR year in high school and I was editor of the Reflector News. Another warm, gusty August day was here and Larry knew what I was going to say.

"Yessir, I'm going to do it this year," I told him. "No one around here can kick 'em like I can." I was right. No one could. The kicker we had that year was proof of that. He was a friend of mine and I taught him most of what he knew about placekicking.

But Larry's words of a year ago still rang true, and I knew it. So my football career never got out of the back yard.

This column could end right here if I hadn't done the unlikely. This April I found I still had one last chance to pursue a dream. So I became a walk-on placekicker here at Iowa.

One phone call was all it took. On a warm April day I walked into Kinnick Stadium with all of the confidence of an underdog. I felt like Robert Redford in The Natural. I held a card up my sleeve — I wasn't just a rookie to Iowa, I was a rookie to football. The look on Iowa Assistant Coach Carl Jackson's face when he found out I had never played organized ball was classic.

THE COACH TRIED NOT to look obvious, but he was squelching a look of surprise. I could sense that maybe he felt I didn't even belong out on the same field Reggy "send that pigskin into orbit" Roby once reigned. This just put fuel on my fire.

For almost four weeks the three other walk-ons and I would go into the stadium and plow through footballs like they were going out of style. We kicked more than mules in heat. Sometimes the coach would watch, and sometimes the Goliath, padded and humungous players would practice around us. Other times we would have the entire confines of Kinnick Stadium to ourselves.

DI writer Joseph Levy warms up his leg for a possible game-winner?

Vivid imagination would sometimes violate my deep concentration. An empty stadium creeks and rattles with sounds of underlying meaning. It was as if every one of Chuck Long's plays was recorded in the memory of endless bleachers. You could almost hear the thundrous roar of the fans.

INSTEAD OF JUST pounding another 45-yarder, I was kicking a game-winner in front of 67,000 screaming fans. The ball is down. The kick is up...

Dad wasn't there to wake me up this time. At first, more often than not, I had to watch the ball sail wide of its mark. A dream with an anti-climax.

But nevertheless it was still a dream of sorts. I would listen to the other kickers talk about their high school careers and their all-state honors. At first this was most intimidating.

But when all was said and done I found the only difference between them and me was a couple of yards. I started making my game-winning 45-yarders as I watched the others hit from 50. My confidence was building. In fact I was just beginning to hit my groove when I got cut.

"Try again next year," the coach said. "You haven't seen the last of me," I answered.

I suspect, having lost my virginity with the sport, I may try again next year. Maybe if I do I'll get a chance to finally meet Hayden Fry.

Byers' vacated NCAA post sought by Indiana president

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — John Davis, president of the NCAA from 1985-87, was on a list released Tuesday of four men to be interviewed as a possible replacement for outgoing NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers.

Byers announced last fall that he wished to retire as executive director, a position he has held for 36 years. He is the only fulltime executive director the NCAA has had.

Davis, 59, was president of the NCAA until the association's convention in January. He is the associate athletic director at Oregon State.

THE OTHER FINALISTS are: John Ryan, president of Indiana University; Harvey Schiller, commissioner of the Southeastern Conference; and Richard Schultz, athletic director at the University of Virginia.

"We agree unanimously as a committee that these are the individuals most highly qualified for the position," said Wilford Bailey, current NCAA president and chairman of the search committee. "We had applications and recommendations on approximately 80 people, which provided us an excellent pool from which to choose candidates for this important position."

Bailey said the four finalists will be further interviewed by the NCAA Presidents Commission, the NCAA Council, the NCAA Executive Committee and the seven NCAA department heads. The Executive Committee was expected to name an executive director-elect before the NCAA special convention in Dallas at the end of June, he said.

BYERS, 65, WILL remain as executive director and help his successor adjust to the job. He has said he will leave the NCAA by the fall of 1988.

"It's been a very difficult assignment. Identifying a good person to succeed a living legend (Byers) is hard," Bailey said, adding that Byers had "very little input" regarding the applicants in the selection process.

"I feel it correct that the NCAA has never faced a more critical time in history than we're facing now as evidenced by the initiation of the national forum that could continue for 12 to 18 months.

"For a position of such importance, of public image, susceptibility to criticism, many extremely capable people who are doing well in their own positions, as all of these people are, are reluctant to leave and move into something that is so fragile and potentially so vulnerable."

ALL OF THE FINALISTS have well-founded NCAA connections. Davis served a two-year term as NCAA secretary-treasurer before he was its president. Ryan was the first chairman of the NCAA Presidents Commission. Schiller was the faculty representative of the Western Athletic Conference while he was at the Air Force Academy. Schultz is the chairman of the Div. I Men's Basketball Committee, the group that selects the 64 teams to play in the NCAA tournament.

"I'm personally convinced that is one of the most important positions in the country, given the role the NCAA is playing in drug testing and academic standards," Bailey said.

'Self-image' guides local writer Kaplan

By Teresa Heger
Arts/entertainment Editor

David Michael Kaplan

IOWA CITY is crawling with "future" writers. These would-be Leo Tolstoy's, Charlotte Brontës and Ernest Hemingways dream of the beautiful books they will write, the glorious fame they will win and (most importantly) the big bucks they will earn.

Unfortunately, most of these "some-day-I'll-write-a-novel" authors never get around to putting a pen to paper.

But one-time "future" writer David Michael Kaplan offers inspiration to closet scribblers everywhere. Kaplan, who has had short stories published in The Atlantic, The Ohio Review and other magazines and anthologies, has recently published a collection of short stories, Comfort.

"What inspired me to write was turning 30," Kaplan said. "I always thought I would somehow be a writer — I'd always had that in the back of my mind. I turned 30... and I thought: 'If I'm ever going to be a writer I'd better start.'"

KAPLAN'S TRANSFORMATION, however, did not happen overnight. "This all came about very slowly," he said. "I thought 'If I'm going to write I'm going to have to get something done; I'm going to have to get disciplined.' It was a slow process. At first I would relatively "late" in life, he said that he had always known that he wanted to write.

"Each of us has some sort of 'self-image,'" Kaplan said. "Everyone in their childhood has some idea if they want to be a writer, a doctor, a lawyer... and the degree of happiness we've achieved is linked to how closely we've achieved that idea.

"A LOT OF people don't achieve it; they settle for less sometimes — or sometimes they don't even realize what it is that they want," Kaplan continued. "Nothing stopped me from writing except myself."

In some ways, Kaplan's sense of "self-images" carries over into his fiction. His sparse and efficient writing style marks his works, and his brilliant characters come to life with ease.

The opening short story in Comfort, "Doe's Season," shows the inner conflicts of a young girl on a hunting trip with her father. Kaplan said he tries to convey something "deeper" in his fiction, and "Doe's Season" comes closest to achieving that goal.

"Doe's Season" is probably the most fully realized short story in the book," Kaplan said. "It hits at things at a more mythical level — not as in Greek myths — but on a Jungian level, Jungian archetypes."

KAPLAN SAID HE was also particularly fond of "Elisabetta, Carlotta, Catherine (Raising the Demon)," another short story in the collection about one woman's search for her father, because the amount of work he put into the story — two or three "reconstructions."

Kaplan, while continuing his work on short stories, is currently working on a novel. "I don't want to say too much about it," he said. "I'm sort of superstitious about that." Kaplan did say, however, that the work is about a social literary critic who, as the novel begins, has self-evicted himself to a desert island in Massachusetts without telling anyone who might be concerned about him where he is.

"He is escaping from them all — his mistress, his wife, her lawyer, his lawyer, and all of his academic enemies," Kaplan laughed.

Kaplan, who is a student in the UI Writers' Workshop, will be moving to Illinois soon to teach fiction at Loyola University in Chicago. While Kaplan said he is looking forward to living in Chicago, he has enjoyed his time in Iowa City.

"The workshop is a great place to have been," he said. "It provided time to write — it is one of the best programs in the country because it gives students that time to write. It is a privileged time."

Books

write something and then not write anything for two months. Then I thought I needed to write more, and so I started to write on weekends."

Soon, Kaplan said, he began to write every day. "Writing is the slow process of acquiring the skill of discipline," he said. "Often writers fail not from lack of talent but from lack of discipline, from a lack of writing in a coherent, programmed way... It's like a muscle getting exercise."

Although Kaplan did not begin his writing career until

STUDENT FOOTBALL PRIORITY SALES ENDS FRIDAY, MAY 8

The cost of the tickets are $35.00 per student and $80.00 per student guest ticket. Student season tickets are good for all five home games of the 1987 football season. Student guest tickets are available on a limited basis; all students ordering these tickets may not be accommodated, but will receive a refund for their order at fall pickup. Priority buying was from April 13th thru May 8, and this is the only time that guest tickets may be ordered. Athletic Ticket Office hours are 9 am to 4 pm, Monday through Friday. Students may pick up their tickets beginning September 9. Please read the student ticket policy before placing your order.

STUDENT FOOTBALL POLICY · 1987

1. A student may purchase one season ticket at the student price of $35.00. A guest ticket may be ordered at the public price of $80.00. A limited number of guest tickets will be available; therefore, all students ordering these may not receive them. The guest ticket will not be available after May 8, the deadline for student priority. Office hours are 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.
2. Students will receive priority based on the number of consecutive years they have applied for or purchased football tickets at The University of Iowa. There will be no loss in priority for off-campus programs or a bona fide illness. An individual who misses two or more consecutive seasons for reasons other than the above will lose all priority.
3. In order for a student to receive their priority for football he/she must order sometime during the period of April 13 to May 8, 1987. These orders will be filled according to priority established. Any order placed after May 8 will be filled as if the order had zero priority. Students ordering after the priority period will also accrue a year of buying credit toward their priority purchase of tickets in the following year.
4. Individuals may order season tickets for a group no larger than eight. If all group members cannot be present when the order is placed, the members who are not present must provide either their personal check with current and summer address thereon or cash and their ID number to the person placing the order. One student may not write a personal check in payment for another student's tickets.
5. The lowest priority within a group will determine the location of the entire block of tickets for that group. That is, all students within a group will carry the lowest priority of any member in that group. If certain priorities are denied student or guest tickets, anyone with higher priority requesting seating with this group will also be denied tickets.
6. Student season tickets will continue on sale on a non-priority basis after May 8 and will remain on sale through Friday, September 4 if still available.
7. Each student must pick up their own ticket in the fall. The student must present their own student ID with current registration (Fall 1987) sticker and picture ID at the time of pickup. Student pickup will begin Wednesday, September 9.
8. Students may cancel their football season ticket order and receive a full refund up until the Friday before the first home game. After that date, refunds will be issued only for the portion of the games remaining to be played. No cancellations or refund requests will be honored after the student ticket has been picked up and signed for. All requests for refunds must be made in writing to the Athletic Ticket Office. Please provide your full name, ID number and an address for the mailing of your refund check.
9. A student ticket, to be valid, must be accompanied by a University of Iowa ID with current (Fall 1987) registration sticker and a picture ID. A student ticket may be used by the original purchaser or by any other University of Iowa student, but the original purchaser will be held liable for any violations of the student ticket policy. If a non-student is found using a student's ticket, the student forfeits all future student ticket privileges. The penalty for a violation of the University policy involving the ID and ticket will be the loss of the use of the ticket for two games. DUPLICATE TICKETS CANNOT BE ISSUED FOR LOST OR STOLEN STUDENT TICKETS.
10. Everyone, regardless of age, is required to have a valid ticket for admittance to all University of Iowa football games. This includes infants in arms.
