Branstad OKs bond funds; cuts budget by $35 million

By Shawn Plank
The Daily Iowan
and United Press International

Gov. Terry Branstad Tuesday signed the long-awaited resolution that will enable the state Board of Regents to provide funds to build the $25 million UI Laser Center, but later cut more $35 million from the state budget.

Saying taxpayers cannot afford a host of new and expensive programs, Gov. Terry Branstad vetoed more than $35.1 million of the $2.4 billion budget lawmakers sent him May 10, including money for several of his own priorities.

Branstad said his item vetoes, just before a midnight deadline to act on bills sent him during the regular session, became necessary when lawmakers Saturday refused to enact the $93 million income tax increase he asked for. Instead, the Legislature approved a $62 million tax bill.

BRANSTAD, a Republican, also accused the Democrat-controlled Legislature of "restoring to gimmickry" by appropriating nearly $12 million for programs in the fiscal year which begins July 1 out of a surplus in from the current fiscal year.

"They overspent the budget and tried to hide the fact it was done with this gimmickry," Branstad said.

The governor's budget cut came just hours after a ceremony in which he released funds for the UI laser center.

UI administrators have promoted the center since last October, saying it will boost the UI to the top of the emerging field of laser science. Officials also say the center could boost the area's economy and provide as many as 12,000 jobs by the year 2000.

"We think that the laser center will make Iowa a very attractive state for companies that are dependent on expertise in lasers and micro-optics, both in science and engineering," UI Laser Facility Director William Stwalley said. "We're actively pursuing connections with a number of those companies right now."

THE RESOLUTION calls for the regents to issue $65.6 million in bonds to fund construction projects at Iowa's three state universities. The UI will receive $25.1 million for the laser center and for the remodeling of the new UI International Center, formerly the Law Center.

The resolution also calls for the regents to invest $37.5 million in projects at Iowa State University, including a molecular biology building and $3 million at the University of Northern Iowa for remodeling Latham Hall.

The governor signed the resolution during a brief ceremony in his office in the state Capitol Building in Des Moines Tuesday afternoon attended by 10 officials from the UI, ISU

Planners opt for Union lot as laser site

By Scott Hauser
The Daily Iowan

The UI Campus Planning Committee voted Tuesday to recommend the proposed $25.1 million laser facility be constructed in the parking lot north of the Union, reversing its earlier unanimous opposition to the site.

As part of the project, the committee recommended a parking ramp and a chilled water facility be built with the laser facility to make the project an integrated unit which would not restrict easy use of the Union.

"No one of these sites is overwhelmingly the best," UI Professor John Fuller, who introduced the final resolution, said of the four main finalists for consideration. "If you encompass site 2 (the union lot) with an integrated approach, it would have more pros and fewer cons."

The committee agreed with the recommendation of the UI-hired design team to build the facility at the Union site and to replace the 290-space parking lot with a parking ramp on Bloomington Street.

EARLY IN THE two-hour meeting, UI Vice President for Finance Dorsey Ellis said the UI has had plans to build a parking ramp on campus, but had not decided where it should be.

UI Director of Planning and Administrative Services Richard Gibson said the 200,000 square-foot facility, in conjunction with the Chemistry-Botany Building, would eventually need an expanded chilled water facility, but that other utility requirements were not cause for concern.

The meeting centered on presentations by Cal Lewis, a representative of the Des Moines architecture firm of Herbert, Lewis, Kruse and Blunck — which is working with Venice, Calif., architect Frank O. Gehry on the design of the facility — and by the UI's consultant on campus planning, Thomas Hodne, professor and dean of architecture at the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg, Canada.

HODNE SAID THE building had to be "people-oriented," but still have a high-image profile. He said the building would be comparable to the new UI College of Law Building in gross square feet, but would serve about half the students.

The Law Building houses 600 students, he said, while the laser center would serve about 270 after its projected expansion.

He narrowed the site possibilities to three main options: the Union site, the Union Field and the parking lot west of Main Library. A site at Myrtle Avenue and Riverside Street was also considered.

Lewis said the design team — including Gehry — made its first in-depth analysis of possible locations last week and agreed the Union site was best because it allows a design which could interact well with the Iowa River and student needs, provides for adequate expansion without crowding the site and is in a location that has a public as well as campus image.

THE UI HAS been interested in a site close to the Chemistry, Physics and Engineering departments — the three areas which would use the facility heavily.

U.S. debt, terrorism headline summit

By Lou Cannon and Hobart Rowen
Washington Post

VENICE, Italy — President Ronald Reagan received only tepid support Tuesday from allied leaders attending the 13th economic summit here for U.S. policy on terrorism and the Persian Gulf and also came under strong pressure to reduce the U.S. budget deficit.

French President Francois Mitterrand and West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl described the U.S. deficit as the "central issue" facing the global economy. Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, usually conciliatory to U.S. policy in Reagan's presence, also spoke out forcefully about the harmful impact of the American deficit.

The general economic package emerging at the summit after the seven nations' finance ministers met Tuesday appeared to fall short of U.S. goals to seek agreement on measures sustaining world economic growth, policy coordination and the reduction of farm subsidies.

CONSPICUOUSLY ABSENT from the terrorism statement was a passage in last year's declaration at the Tokyo economic summit pledging "refusal to export arms to states which sponsor or support terrorism."

Secretary of State George Shultz said there was "no particular reason" for this deletion, but another administration official said the United States had eliminated the passage from the draft presented

Biden predicts Iowa's help in race

Joe Biden

DES MOINES (UPI) — Sen. Joe Biden, D-Del., told Iowans Tuesday night they will help him become president of the United States because they — more than anyone else — want to restore the nation's enduring values.

Biden, before a crowd of more than 500 at the Savery Hotel, followed the speech he used to announce his formal candidacy earlier in the day in his hometown of Wilmington, Del.

However, he added several references to Iowans and the role they will play in selecting the next president with the nation's first caucuses Feb. 8.

"In my time in Iowa, one thing I have learned is you are very much like my own people. You know what must be done. Your gut tells you what must be done," Biden said.

"YOU KNOW BETTER than anybody else in the country, and I am not being solicitous, that we must restore the primacy of enduring values in our society. You understand that compassion for the poor, the hungry and the homeless among us can no longer be viewed as charity," he said.

Biden opened the day with his speech at a Wilmington Amtrak station flanked by his wife, Jill, his three children and nearly 20 other family members. He carried the "family" theme to Des Moines Tuesday night, where supporters sang "Happy Birthday" to his daughter Ashley, who turned 5 Monday.

He kissed his daughter and wife before telling the crowd, "It's good to be back in Iowa and I want to tell you we're going to be here an awful lot."

"When you speak it will not merely be for Iowans. Yours will be the voice of hopes and aspirations of millions of Americans. When the caucuses end, you truly will have spoken for all Americans so it is only fitting that I come here to announce my candidacy for president of the United States," Biden said.

LOWELL JUNKINS, Iowa's unsuccessful 1986 Democratic gubernatorial candidate who has endorsed Biden, said the senator will spend 10 days of each month in Iowa between now and the nation's first presidential caucuses Feb. 8.

"He will increase his own presence in the state greatly over the next few months. When you take an organization that is second to none and a candidate that is second to none, you finish second to none," Junkins said.

Biden also received Iowa endorsements last week from Lt. Gov. JoAnn Zimmerman, Treasurer Mike Fitzgerald and former state Democratic Party Chairman Arthur Davis.

"To those who say endorsements don't mean anything, we are more than endorsers. We're workers. We're foot soldiers. We'll help bring it home," Davis told the ballroom crowd.

from Daily Iowan wire services

Jobless payments fall

DES MOINES — Unemployment insurance benefits paid to jobless Iowans totaled $9.2 million in May, the lowest amount remitted in nearly three years, the Iowa Department of Employment Services said Tuesday.

DES director Dick Freeman said May's total compares with payments of $15.3 million in April and $13.6 million in May 1986.

During the first five months of this year, nearly 38,000 new unemployment-insurance claims were filed with Job Service of Iowa, a DES division, Freeman said. That figure compares with more than 45,000 claims filed during the same period a year ago and more than 50,000 during the first five months of 1985.

Discrimination bars blacks

CHICAGO — A federal lawsuit charging the system of electing public officials in Chicago Heights bars blacks from the political process has been filed against the south suburb.

The suit, filed Monday in U.S. District Court, alleges at-large elections and racial segregation in the city systematically keeps blacks from being elected, in violation of the federal Voting Rights Act.

About 29 percent of the city's 37,000 residents are black, according to the 1980 census. And the class-action suit contends the system still discriminates, even though one of its five elected officials is black.

Handicapped need skills

EVANSTON, Ill. — Mentally retarded people often have greater difficulty dealing with loneliness, depression and ordinary social situations than with problems posed by their mental impairments, a researcher reported Tuesday.

Life assessments of several hundred mentally handicapped individuals nationwide suggest a need for education programs that place greater emphasis on the social skills necessary to interact with other people, said Steven Reiss, professor of psychology at the University of Illinois-Chicago.

"What we're finding is so many have social problems, they can't find those jobs. And if they do get them, they can't hold on to them."

Hazardous acid found

GARY, Ind. — An abandoned, decrepit tanker-trailer loaded with 4,000 gallons of hydrochloric acid and an unidentified chemical was a time bomb waiting to go off, the Gary civil defense director said Tuesday.

The rig was found abandoned at a Gary truck stop last week.

The tanker was left at the truck stop either late Tuesday or early Wednesday, said Bill Nassis, the truck stop manager.

The owner of the trailer is believed to be a group in Illinois that has operated a number of hazardous chemical firms, Lanier said. Typically the group operates one firm until it is either forced out of business or goes bankrupt and then reopens under a new corporate name.

Illinois gets drug funds

Illinois Tuesday became the first state in the country to receive federal drug enforcement funds under the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1986.

Bridge inspector says river span narrow and obsolete

By Craig Sterrett
The Daily Iowan

The bridge over the Iowa River on Old Highway 218 — the route from Iowa City's North Dubuque Street to the Coralville Reservoir — is functionally obsolete, bridge inspector Noel Willis said Tuesday at an informal meeting of the Johnson County Board of Supervisors.

The highway becomes North Dubuque Street when it enters Iowa City.

The deck of the bridge has deteriorated from road salt, continuous pounding of heavy traffic and aging, Johnson County Department of Secondary Roads

Head Gene Bane said the bridge only has a life of two to three years remaining.

Willis also said the width of the bridge — 24 feet — is too narrow for the amount of traffic and heavy trucks using it. He said the bridge should be 28 to 30 feet wide.

Willis indicated that the highway itself, also known as County Road W66, is also too narrow.

"There probably are not five places in the state that carry that type of traffic on that type of roadway," he said.

Instead of building a new bridge beside the old one, the Board may consider widening and rebuilding the old bridge using the existing piers and abutments. According to Willis, widening the bridge would cut costs about 20 percent, but it would also shorten down the life of the bridge.

Presently, there is a paved bicycle trail that runs all the way from Iowa City to the reservoir road, but the bicyclists have to cross the river on the narrow bridge. A separate lane for bikers would probably be included in a new or rebuilt bridge.

County officials will be making a study to set costs and to determine the most feasible way to deal with the bridge.

Metro briefs

UI names acting education dean

The UI has named education professor Lowell A. Schoer acting dean of the UI College of Education, effective July 1.

An authority on educational psychology and statistics, Schoer will succeed Charles W. Case, who announced April 30 that he would leave the UI at the end of this month to become dean of the School of Education at the University of Connecticut.

Schoer's appointment, announced Tuesday by UI Vice President for Academic Affairs and Interim President-designate Richard Remington, is subject to approval by the state Board of Regents at its June 17-18 meeting in Cedar Falls.

Remington said the review process and search for a new dean of education might take up to one to two years.

Police/courts

A man was arrested for assault after Iowa City police were called to investigate a domestic violence complaint Tuesday morning.

Michael Borchard, 22, of 1124 Oakcrest was arrested and charged with simple assault. Borchard spent the night in the Johnson County Jail and was released on his own recognizance Tuesday morning.

Accident Report: A car ran into a Delimart building Tuesday, causing more than $500 damage to the building's structure and minor damage to the car.

Police reports stated the 1977 Oldsmobile, driven by 18-year-old Patrick Sueppel, 30 Norwood Circle, ran into the store at the corner of 1st and Muscatine avenues after he apparently spilled a drink on the floor of his vehicle and then reached over to get it. No one was injured in the accident.

Accident Report: A Jeep ran into a light pole Tuesday after the driver apparently dropped a cigarette inside his vehicle and then reached over to get it, according to police reports.

Jeffrey McKinney, 38, of 931 N. Summit St., ran into a pole near the intersection of Bowery and Dodge streets. The impact caused less than $500 damage to the pole.

• The driver of a car who allegedly ran his vehicle into a motorcycle and now faces charges of intentionally causing injury in the incident made his first appearance in Johnson County Court Tuesday.

Dwight Finken, 52, of 510 Brown St., is being charged with assault causing willful injuries after his car ran into a motorcycle driven by Stephen Mann, according to court documents.

Court documents stated Finken used his vehicle to block the path of the victim and the motorcycle he was riding, doing so without giving the victim time to avoid the collision.

• A man charged with inciting a riot and driving while his license was under suspension also made his initial appearance before a Johnson County judge Tuesday.

Dale Eakes, 30, of 310 Second Ave., was arrested Friday night and charged with riot. Court documents stated Eakes gathered with five other people and used force against police officers in an attempt to interfere with an arrest. He was released on his own recognizance.

Eakes was also arrested on Monday and charged with operating a motor vehicle while his license was under suspension.

A preliminary hearing on the riot charge will be held on June 23.

A group of students attending the mass marking the closing of Regina Elementary School Tuesday wage a battle between concentration and distraction. The school closed after 65 years.

Regina Elementary closes after 65 years of classes

By James Cahoy
The Daily Iowan

A slice of Iowa City history ended Tuesday as Iowa City Regina Elementary School Tuesday closed its doors at a ceremony attended by about 100 former graduates of the school.

The final school event was a mass marking the 65-year-old building's close, which opened in October 1922 at 229 E. Court St. In the fall, students from Regina Elementary School will move to the newly built Regina Elementary Center, located next to Regina High School on Rochester Avenue.

The old building holds many memories for those who have served there. Sister Mary Agnes Giblin, who taught third grade and kindergarten at Regina Elementary for 15 years, delivered the homily at Tuesday's Mass and said she will remember the building for the rest of her life.

"I love the place," Giblin said. "I certainly will miss the makeup of the place, the auditorium and the children playing on the playground."

BUT GIBLIN SAID the move to the new school was necessary, largely because of the school's increasing enrollment.

"With the increase in enrollment we've had, there just was not enough space at the old facility," Giblin said. "The people really made up the building, and I think it's good they are moving to a new facility."

The Rev. Gene Benda, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, 228 E. Court St., which owns the building, said he had mixed feelings about the closing of the facility.

"I think there's both a happiness in that we have a new facility and sadness in seeing the old one close," Benda said. "I'll just miss the children there every day, and hearing their voices on the playground."

Benda said St. Patrick's has no definite plans on what will happen to the building, but he would be very surprised if it was torn down or demolished.

"IT BELONGS TO the parish, but at this point we don't plan on keeping it," Benda said. "We have some county and city agencies that have indicated interest in purchasing it, but we're not sure what will happen at this point. It's still in good shape."

But some former graduates said they would not particularly miss the old building. Catholic School Board President Bob Boyd, a former student at the school whose parents and children also attended Regina Elementary, said he was happy to have a new facility.

"I'm not sentimental because I think it's fantastic that we could raise money for a new school," Boyd said in reference to the new $1.7 million dollar elementary center. "I'll miss the old building itself, but I'm glad to have the new building."

Councilors mull over report by local citizens' committee

By Joseph Levy
The Daily Iowan

A local citizens' committee has suggested the Iowa City Council consider a property tax increase or the implementation of a local sales tax if the city wants to continue offering civic services at their current level.

The Citizens' Committee on City Revenue, formed in January by the council, issued a report in May suggesting the city take one of the two routes to increase its tax base rather than cut back on services.

City Manager Stephen Atkins told the committee if Iowa City services are to be maintained at their current levels into fiscal year 1989, the city would have to find additional revenue.

"WE CAN EXPECT the budget we would prepare would be about $900,000 short," Atkins said.

The committee's report to the council consisted of two separate letters — one supporting a property tax increase and the other supporting a local sales tax. Ten of the members supported raising property taxes while five were in favor of adding a local sales tax.

The local tax would be a 1 percent addition to the state's 4 percent sales tax. Funds resulting from the additional 1 percent tax would go exclusively to the city, while the state would continue to collect the regular 4 percent sales tax.

Committee chairman Craig Willis, who was one of the five supporting the local sales tax, said he thought councilors would be more inclined to put a local sales tax up for referendum for voters to approve.

"POLITICALLY (the sales tax) is more palatable for the council to do," he said, explaining voters — not councilors — would ultimately be responsible for this type of tax increase.

The tax has been levied successfully in Ames and Sioux City, Willis said.

Willis said the committee agreed a tax increase is necessary, despite disagreement among committee members on which tax increase to support.

"THE COMMITTEE voted 14-1 to find the $1 million," he said, adding the matter is now up to the council to debate.

Willis said the formation of the committee showed good foresight on the part of the city.

"This is an exercise in good government," he said.

Atkins said the committee was formed so the inevitable would not be put off until later.

City school board discusses student good conduct policy

By Craig Sterrett
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa City School Board discussed changes in the district's good conduct policy Tuesday night which would expand it to apply to all extra-curricular activities.

Currently all students must fill out and sign a Good Conduct Acknowledgement Card before they are allowed to participate in any sport. In the card the student must say he has read the rules cited in the good conduct policy, which range on topics from smoking to alcohol abuse, and agree that the rules apply to them, with a penalty if they are broken.

With the new proposed policy would expand the policy to include all students who participate in extra curricular activities.

"Students who participate in any student activities should be required to follow good conduct policy," Iowa City School Board President Randall Jordison said.

THE NEW POLICY sets up the penalties for rules violations. Students caught smoking for the first time would be suspended from their activity for one-fourth of the original season, but will still be allowed to practice. On the second offense for smoking suspension would be for half of the original season with practice permitted, while a third offense would result in removal from the activity. Students caught using or possessing drugs or alcohol for the first would be suspended from their activity for one-third of the original season, but would still be allowed to practice. Second offenses would result in removal of the student from the activity.

David Cronin

School board members disagreed over whether the students who were suspended for being first-time offenders should be allowed to practice even though they were under suspension.

"IF WE ARE really going to be tough about alcohol and drug use," Jordison said. "It seems to me that they should not be allowed to practice either."

But Iowa City Schools Superintendent David Cronin said the district should allow for human error.

"We want to discourage use," Cronin said. "But we have to realize that there will be those students who will make mistakes."

Parents also have to sign the card saying that they understand the rules and that disciplinary action could be taken under their son or daughter.

Iran radio reports U.S. vulnerability

ATHENS, Greece — State-controlled Iranian radio, in an apparent threat of terrorist action inside the United States, warned Tuesday that U.S. nuclear reactors "can be more vulnerable" than Iran's missile bases.

"Clashes with the Islamic Republic of Iran will be extensive" if the United States attacks Iranian missile bases, the radio said in a commentary monitored in Athens.

"Nuclear centers and reactors can be more vulnerable than the (Iranian) missile bases," the radio said.

The broadcast followed comments by officials in Washington that U.S. planes might make pre-emptive strikes against launch sites for Iran's Silkworm missile if Tehran began deploying the missiles in the Strait of Hormuz.

U.S. asks Soviets for military 'glasnost'

WASHINGTON — A top U.S. arms negotiator challenged the Soviets Monday to act on Mikhail Gorbachev's "glasnost" policy by opening the Soviet military to scrutiny, thereby permitting verified compliance with disarmament agreements.

Edward Rowny, a special arms control adviser to President Ronald Reagan, issued the challenge to the Soviet leader's new policy.

Rowny's statement called on the Soviets to prove that the policy of "glasnost," or openness, laid down by the popular leader is more than a public relations campaign.

"The Soviets can verify U.S. compliance with agreements very simply because of the openness of our government, our economy and virtually every other element of our society," Rowny said. "The Soviet system offers no such inherent means for us to verify compliance or detect strategic deceptions."

House votes to ban aid to contras

WASHINGTON — The House, without dissent, voted Tuesday to retain the current ban on U.S. aid to the Nicaraguan rebels unless Congress specifically authorizes additional assistance.

President Ronald Reagan is expected to submit a request to Congress later this year to resume aid to the rebels, so the issue was not raised during consideration of the regular intelligence authorization bill.

"We all expect that the controversial issue of further aid to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance to be addressed later this year when the president submits a formal request for such assistance," said Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill.

House approval of the intelligence authorization bill came shortly after the special House and Senate investigating committees ended their first phase of hearings into the Iran-Contra scandal.

U.S., Soviets near arms treaty draft

MOSCOW — A Soviet spokesman said Tuesday a draft U.S.-Soviet arms treaty may be ready by September or October, followed immediately by a superpower summit in Washington.

Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Boris Pydyshev said the timing of the third meeting between Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and President Ronald Reagan depended on arms talks in Geneva.

"The two delegations can finalize the appropriate draft in Geneva approximately in September or October," Pydyshev told a news conference.

"If the two delegations at Geneva succeed in fulfilling this timeframe, then a summit might take place at any moment after that deadline — that is starting from November."

Peace activists rally for world peace

WASHINGTON — Hundreds of peace activists converged around the White House Tuesday, declaring "a spiritual war" against nuclear weapons and demanding an end to the "obscene" superpower arms race.

Nuclear weapons are "not only immoral but truly and really evil in the right sense of the word," said the Rev. Kevin Queally, director of the Franciscan Peace and Justice office.

Hundreds of activists gathered at Lafayette Park across from the White House and police were positioned nearby. The protest was organized by the American Peace Test.

A red, white and blue banner with two American flags painted on it hung over the speakers' podium. It read: "Peace is Patriotic."

Pope visits Nazi concentration camp

LUBLIN, Poland — Pope John Paul II knelt in prayer Tuesday at a former Nazi concentration camp and called on Poles to raise society's consciousness during a visit to his homeland.

At the site of the Majdanek concentration camp, John Paul embraced Wanda Ossowski, an elderly survivor of the camp, and accepted from her a spray of roses he placed on a memorial to the camp's 360,000 victims.

John Paul left the former concentration camp for Lublin, where an estimated 1 million people jammed into the city to hear the pope ordain 46 priests.

At least nine members of the outlawed Solidarity union were arrested, and a 10th — Josef Pinior, a prominent Solidarity leader from Wroclaw — was warned to stay away from a meeting between students and the pope at Lublin's Catholic University.

Court ruling limits inmates rights

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court ruled 5-4 Tuesday prison inmates have only limited First Amendment rights and may be prohibited from attending worship services for security reasons.

The ruling came in the case of two Muslims who were denied the right to go to weekly Jumu'ah services at the state prison in Leesburg, N.J.

While acknowledging inmates "clearly retain protections afforded by the First Amendment," Chief Justice William Rehnquist said those rights may be restricted by rules "reasonably related to legitimate penological interests."

Target practice caused death at park

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Five people took turns shooting a Chinese assault rifle at a makeshift target, police said Tuesday, and they may never know which of them fired the shots that killed one girl and wounded another at an amusement park half a mile away.

"We discovered there were five people out there shooting," said Capt. C.L. Owens, with the Mecklenburg County Sheriff's Department.

Owens said all five people fired the weapon, a Chinese clone of the famous Soviet AK-47 "Kalishnikov" assault rifle.

Iran-Contra panel finishes first phase

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Fawn Hall concluded a dramatic account on her life as Oliver North's secretary, and the Iran-Contra panel concluded Act I Tuesday of the "depressing story" of U.S. foreign policy gone awry.

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., finished the first segment of the investigation by the select House-Senate committees into the Iran-Contra scandal with an almost mournful address on "the remarkable confusion in the processes of government."

But before the panel ended nearly six weeks of testimony, Hall related more details on her four years of service to the Marine lieutenant colonel.

Hall, 27, testified that when she and North destroyed a 14-foot stack of critical documents by feeding them into an office shredder last Nov. 21, she was just doing her job as a loyal secretary — and the thought of cover-up never occurred to her.

TESTIFYING WITH limited immunity from prosecution, Hall said she was trying to serve North and her country, and shredding documents was a protective measure she thought necessary to save the foreign policy initiatives her boss had instigated.

Hall's only remorse now, she told the committees, was for sneaking other classified documents that described North's clandestine activities out of the White House on Nov. 25 — the day Attorney General Edwin Meese announced that profits from the U.S. arms sales to Iran had been diverted through Swiss accounts to the Contras.

The committees' public hearings recessed for a brief break and are tentatively scheduled to resume Monday, June 22.

"This is a depressing story," said Hamilton.

Gulf hotheads

The Persian Gulf is heating up into a boiling cauldron of global greediness.

The Iranians don't appear to be willing to let just anybody sail through the Strait of Hormuz, at least that's what their possible deployment of Chinese-made Silkworm missiles seems to indicate.

The United States, though, committed to protecting Kuwaiti ships as well as their own, is determined to navigate through the Gulf come hell or high water.

Or Chinese-made missiles.

Sunday, the White House issued what was more a threat than a warning to Iran, saying the deployment of missiles "might invite retaliation."

The United States is in a huff and has to show a little backbone after 37 of their crewmen died aboard the USS Stark. Iran is embroiled in a 6½-year war with Iraq, and can't afford to appear weak, either.

Oversimplified, it comes down to a push-and-shove match between two kids in the global neighborhood. Neither wants to throw the first real punch, but it looks as if the United States is ready to unleash the first blow.

Reports swirling in Washington, D.C., indicate the United States is considering a preemptive strike against the missile sites. No missiles, no sinkings.

Everybody's happy.

The United States can't back down — they're committed. In reality, only Iran can alleviate the tension. If the Iranians force the issue by placing missiles in the Gulf, conflict is inevitable.

Admittedly, the hothead reaction of the United States did more harm than good. If anything, it escalated tensions on both sides.

The question isn't which country is at fault or whether the Persian Gulf is open to navigation... It's boils down to a matter of life...

And if cool heads don't prevail — a matter of death.

Let's do lunch

The leaders of seven industrial nations, including the U.S., opened their annual economic summit Monday.

Journalists covering the summit number in the thousands — thousands of reporters, photographers, editors. Yet they all admit little economic news will come of the meetings.

The summit organizers have picked the right spot — beautiful, breathtaking, bubbly Venice. Only it wasn't the comfort of the leaders the organizers of this summit were thinking of at all.

Most of the coverage to date has centered on the status of the seven leaders in their public opinion polls in their respective nations.

Several of the leaders really need to make all those press corps very, very happy.

U.S. President Ronald Reagan, for example, is attempting to up his foreign relations image while British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher is up for election in only two days.

The strange thing is — it's working.

While the news media are mentioning the fact that no real discussions are going on, they are also keeping their mass of reporters there to cover the summit like a ceremony.

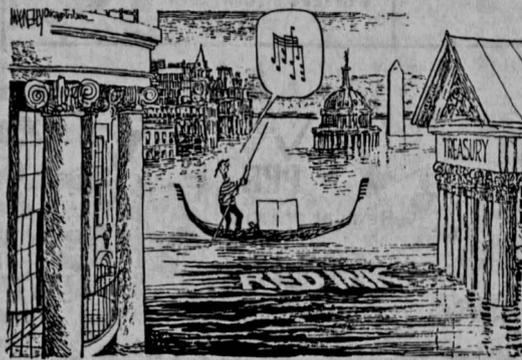

Perhaps being so far away from the "third world" has allowed the "first world" leaders to forget they should be trying to work on a more balanced world economy in the wake of World Bank failure after World Bank failure in development initiatives.

Yesterday in one part of the world, a change agent who had been trying to "better feed" a community somewhere in the third world hopped a plane and stamped the project "failed" because of his lack of knowledge. In this part of the world, more Iowa farms were foreclosed. And in Venice Reagan and Thatcher had breakfast.

It is a terrible statement for the leaders of industrial nations to have an economic summit which does nothing more than broadcast their overly-luxurious lifestyles to the rest of the world.

The press seems to be jumping in too. Overall coverage is positive. Shouldn't a world economic summit be more than a parade and a bunch of diplomats and reporters eating lunch?

Opinions add to knowledge

If you lose the key... throw away the house. If the clock stops... use your own hands to tell time.

On the back porch in the heat of an Iowa City — it's June but it's summer — night my friend Suze handed me this little booklet by Cooper Edens where every idea was turned upside down. It reminded me of bets my brother Steven used to make with me when I was around five years old.

"I'll bet you the sun won't rise tomorrow," he'd say. "Well...sure it will, won't it?" I'd answer.

"Do you want to bet or not?" he'd demand.

"Well...it's gonna rise." "Is it a bet?" he'd repeat.

"Well..." "Bet or not?" "No."

And sure enough I'd wake up the next day to rays streaming in through the window and warming the room. I never understood the game until much later in life when Steven told me, "Knowledge is only what you know right now."

While there are many things I am as-sure-as-sure-can-be of, (I'm 90 percent on the sun bit), the importance of continually gathering information and questioning what I believe to be "The Truth" has been impressed upon me in a big way.

For who really knows what "The Truth" is? (Besides the PTL club?)

Besides betting Steven, I used to spend those childhood days under a big sycamore tree in the backyard watching caterpillars crawl along a fence made of railroad ties. The sun would beat down and the tar between the ties would melt. I would stick my fingers in the black liquid and watch it harden until it was a part of me.

Acquiring knowledge reminds me of that tar. Little bits and pieces of the world melt into a big pot. You dip your fingers in, and sometimes you taste, sometimes you spit it out, or sometimes it becomes yours.

Opinions are like the leaves of the big maple. They may all look the same, but each one as it drifts downward is unique. In the same way, each person who tells you something comes from a different perspective and mass of experiences and beliefs. A lot of opinions may sound the same; they may sound "liberal or conservative," but they are different if you look closely enough.

Trace over those opinions and the person who is telling them like kindergarten children trace over leaves with crayolas; and the lines in veins, the points on the leaf, the stem, will all be different from one another.

Viewpoints, The Daily Iowan editorial page is a place in the paper where opinions are openly presented. (I say openly for any journalist will tell you that all news is biased by the person who writes it.) Many times the words written here may anger, cause sorrow or cause joy. Many times they may not cause a reaction at all. But my hope is even if the opinion is one which differs from what "The Truth" is to you, that you will take time to look at the issue.

Many things happen in the newsroom day in and day out. Most of it is accumulating news — from many, many sources — and most of what is deemed important is put in the news section.

Anytime something appears on the editorial page it is because it is an issue which needs to be discussed. The opinion which appears will always be only one side of a many-sided problem. And for this reason I encourage anyone who wants more information or information from the "original" source to call the newsroom.

And of course, we welcome guest opinions and letters to the editor and any feedback at all.

For this reason, the editorial page has (or more accurately, I have) established phone-in times for readers to call in gripes, comments, suggestions or letters for those of you who are more vocally oriented. These times will be Tuesday and Thursday from 7-9 p.m. for the summer. Fall times and any change in time will be posted in the letters policy box.

When I first started working at this paper, I had an editor who told me, "Write for the person reading at six a.m. over eggs and coffee."

Since that time I have learned at least three things:

- 1) Not all of you eat eggs.
- 2) Some of you like decaf.
- 3) Very few people actually get up at 6 a.m.

And as Suze said as she handed me the little book, "If tomorrow morning the sky falls...have clouds for breakfast."

Unfair Trial

To the Editor:

In February of this year, 24 people were arrested for demonstrating against the policy of allowing agents of the CIA to use UI facilities for the purpose of recruitment. They were charged with criminal trespass, for they had occupied the UI Office of Academic Affairs, located in Jessup Hall, during business hours with the intent of remaining there until their grievances were acknowledged and acted upon. No damage to property or personnel was ever contemplated or inflicted.

They were not the only people who were demonstrating in Jessup Hall that day. They had been followed inside by a group of counter-demonstrators whose goal was to support recruitment on campus by disrupting the actions of those who were opposed to the recruitment. The counter-demonstrators were not arrested.

An Iowa City jury found all 24 defendants not guilty of criminal trespass and dismissed all charges against them. Of course, no official verdict was reached on the actions of the counter-demonstrators because the UI had chosen to ignore their presence at the "scene of the crime."

Two days before the conclusion of the 1986-87 school year, the UI decided to recharge the students who were involved in the action with the same crime for which they had just been found not guilty. The university has notified 17 protesters that their registrations for next semester have been suspended pending a disciplinary hearing. It should be noted that these para-legal hearings are only called for prior to disciplinary sanctions being effected — these sanctions ranging from probation to suspension to expulsion.

If I am not mistaken, the UI is about to prosecute and render a guilty verdict on students who have just been found not guilty of the same charges by a magistrate court. This simply does not seem right.

In addition to this, the timing of the UI's decision, at the end of finals week, when many were getting ready to leave town for the summer, gave those charged little time to pursue channels of recourse. This action also caused inconvenient and expensive disruption in summer jobs and activities, and, is if nothing else, arrogant and vindictive.

Racist Reading

To the Editor:

Must people of color continue to teach and make excuses for white people about their racism? In order for us to attend this university we must learn your culture. White people, read a book! Don't read one written by you interpreting us. Ask intelligent questions of people of color. Realize that we are not the minority in the international community, you are! For your own self worth and self development realize that you are underdeveloped, not us!

The anti-racism conference was held in April. The anti-racism rally was held in May. Where was most of the white community? Interesting how this paper decides to discuss the issue of racism at the end of the semester when you no longer publish.

An Apology

To the Editor:

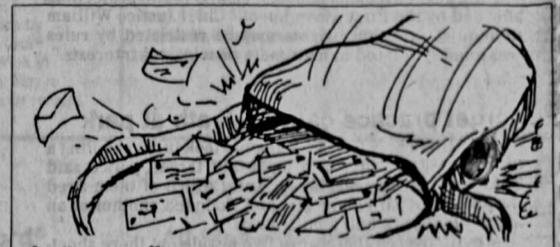

I am writing in response to your article in The Daily Iowan, "A Truly Embarrassing Display," on Wednesday, May 13.

I was participant in the moon-ing incident and I'm writing to express my apologies. My actions that Saturday evening in no way exemplify what Lambda Chi Alpha is or stands for. My actions were not meant to demean or downplay the cause of the Take Back the Night rally and I am truly sorry for my behavior.

I have been reprimanded for my actions and I am embarrassed for myself and the fraternity.

I ask that you please forward my apology to the others whom I so rudely offended. Thank you.

Social Security, community top Babbitt stop

By Shawn Plank
The Daily Iowan

Bruce Babbitt, stressing the need for a greater sense of community, advocated continuing and strengthening the Social Security program during his campaign stop in Iowa City Tuesday.

The Democratic presidential candidate, and former governor of Arizona toured the Iowa City Senior Center, 28 S. Linn, and later gave a speech at the Iowa City Public Library, 123 S. Linn, outlining his views on support for older and younger Americans.

Babbitt is credited with improving conditions for senior citizens while he was governor of Arizona by creating a state advisory council on aging, improving services to senior citizens and mandating that cases of elderly abuse be reported.

During his tour of the center, led by Ida Hilleman, a volunteer at the facility, Babbitt shook hands with Iowa City residents attending the noon congregational meal.

BABBITT PRAISED the idea of the daily gathering by saying it promotes a sense of community, which he says is key in this campaign.

"Congregate meals are one of the greatest successes of all time; it's the perfect converging of nutritional needs and social needs," he said.

During his speech at the Iowa City Public Library, Babbitt attacked former Delaware Gov. Pierre "Pete" du Pont, a Republican presidential candidate whom he debated at the Midwestern Republican conference in Des Moines last month.

In the debate, du Pont said he favored dismantling Social Security, an issue Babbitt says is "the most successful program in history."

The desertion of Social Security is "part of the desertion of community by the leadership in the country," Babbitt said. "The system isn't perfect, but we have a moral obligation. The roof may be leaky but you don't tear the house down, do you?"

BABBITT ENCOURAGES a widening of Social Security by making the benefits taxable. The revenue collected from Social Security taxes would be put back into the system, benefiting the needy and providing broader coverage in health care.

The revenue would be used only for the Social Security program and would not be channeled into other programs, according to Babbitt.

Babbitt was elected Arizona's attorney general in 1974. In 1978 he became governor, succeeding Wesley Bolin, who died in office. He left the office after 1986 to pursue his campaign full-time. This is his 12th visit to Iowa — home of the nation's first caucus — since last summer when he participated in RAGBRAI, the annual bicycle ride across Iowa.

BABBITT WAS A participant in the sometimes violent civil rights marches in Selma, Ala., in the 1960s, which he said left a lasting impression on his life.

UI Associate Vice President for Finance Mary Jo Small, who introduced Babbitt at the library, praised the candidate for his competence and moral character, which she added is becoming a more popular campaign issue.

"Knowing Governor Babbitt went to Selma tells me something about his character," Small said.

Babbitt also scolded President Ronald Reagan and others for trying to prevent the spread of communism by selling weapons to underground groups. The former governor not only said it was wrong, but unnecessary.

"Look at the springtime of democracy, fragile though it may be," Babbitt said. "When the world is coming our way, these people choose to retreat behind the ramparts and try to sell the American public a false view of the world — a paranoid view of the world — that says, 'They're all against us.'" and UNI. Stwalley, who attended the ceremony, received one of the 10 pens the governor used to sign the document, calling it a "$2.5 million pen."

Laser

UI Vice President for Research Duane Spriestersbach, who also attended the ceremony, was emotional about the signing.

"IT ISN'T ANYTHING when somebody signs his name to a piece of paper, but the symbolism is very dramatic when you consider it began last January and has wandered through discussion," Spriestersbach said. "Seeing the governor put his name to the document, I have nice feelings about it all."

The measure to issue bonds was adopted 28-16 in the Senate and 77-11 in the House in the final hours of the legislative session. The measure was the second bonding proposal to pass the 1987 Legislature. Lawmakers originally approved a measure that would have given the regents $98.5 million in bonding authority for several projects.

Branstad, who originally recommended the board be allowed to bond $62.5 million worth of projects, vetoed the first bill in March saying it would have left taxpayers with too much debt.

He said he also opposed a provision banning classified research at any of the state's universities. The proposal was designed to block university research of President Ronald Reagan's Star Wars plan.

LAWMAKERS THEN redrafted the bill to strike language dealing with Star Wars and to trim additional funds slated for fire and safety improvements at all three universities.

Groundbreaking for the laser research facility, the first of its kind in the world, is scheduled for next spring, Stwalley said.

Three world-renowned laser scientists are expected to sign with the UI soon and Stwalley said there should be no problem finalizing their appointments. The state is providing $1.5 million in Iowa Lottery funds to be matched by grants from the UI Foundation to endow professorships for the three scientists.

The three are Willie Phillips, a physicist at the National Bureau of Standards in Washington, D.C.; Ara Moorian, professor of engineering at Lincoln Laboratories in Lexington, Mass.; and Richard Van Duyne, professor of chemistry at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill.

Site

The committee was opposed to the Union site in May because the project would replace 290 parking spaces close to it and said the facility would make the Union inaccessible to visitors.

UI graduate student Linda Yanney, who voted against the compromise solution, said the UI could find better uses for the Union location.

"I do think that what we have seen from the architects was better than what we saw a month ago and significantly better than the one we voted down," she said. "But I still disagreed. This doesn't unify the campus."

GIBSON AND LEWIS refuted UI Department of Pathology Research Assistant Richard King's charge that the UI administration was determined to have the facility in the Union lot and the presentations were "flimsy excuses" to locate it there.

"My original choice was site 6," Gibson said of the site on Myrtle Avenue, adding the presentation made by the designers, not the interests of UI administrators, convinced him to support the Union site.

Lewis said the design team did not know what the UI administration preferred, but made its recommendation based on professional judgment alone.

GIBSON SAID THE details of the final proposal have to be worked out before it can be presented to the state Board of Regents.

The parking ramp is slated for the site on Bloomington Street across from the Chemistry-Botany Building which was an early choice for the laser facility.

The proposed ramp location is currently the site of a parking lot and the Hillside Arboretum.

Gibson said decisions need to be made on the size of the parking ramp and where to place the chilled water facility — with the ramp, at the laser facility site or in a separate location.

Gibson and Ellis said they hoped the regents will consider the site recommendation at their June or July meeting.

Summit

to the allies. He said this avoided what "could have been an embarrassing reminder" of the clandestine U.S. arms sale to Iran.

Before he left for the summit meeting in Tokyo last year, Reagan approved a mission to Iran carrying U.S. weapons in return for a prospective release of American hostages in Lebanon.

THE TOKYO SUMMIT statement on terrorism agreed to "intensify the exchange of information" between governments about terrorists. Shultz said at a news conference after Tuesday's summit session that increased international cooperation had produced a worldwide decline in terrorist incidents, especially in Europe.

Shultz was asked about the case of Mohammed Ali Hamadei, a Lebanese Shiite Moslem accused of perpetrating a 1985 TWA hijacking and now held by West German authorities. The Reagan administration is seeking to have Hamadei extradited to the United States or tried for the murder of a U.S. Navy diver, but Bonn sent an envoy to Iran last month to discuss ways to free two West German businessmen who were taken hostage in Beirut after Hamadei's arrest.

"I don't have the slightest doubt — and I think I'm reasonably well informed — that the Germans will handle this in a correct and stiff way," Shultz said.

Johnson's magic lifts Los Angeles

BOSTON (UPI)— Magic Johnson drove across the lane for a hook shot with two seconds to play Tuesday night, putting the Los Angeles Lakers on the threshold of their second NBA title in three years with a 107-106 triumph over the Boston Celtics.

Johnson's only basket of the fourth quarter gave him 29 points and capped the Lakers' return from an 8-point deficit with 3:30 to play. Los Angeles seized a 3-1 advantage in the title series and can clinch its 10th crown Thursday night at Boston Garden.

The defending-champion Celtics, by losing for just the third time in their last 88 games at the Garden, face an imposing challenge in attempting to become the first team in 18 years to capture consecutive NBA titles. No club has ever rallied from a 3-1 deficit to win the NBA finals.

AFTER A RUN of 9 straight Los Angeles points, Larry Bird struck for a 3-point basket from the left corner with 12 seconds left to give Boston a 106-104 edge. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was fouled on the other end with eight seconds left, but hit just the first of 2 free throws to make the score 106-105. However, Kevin McHale lost the rebound of the miss out of bounds, giving Los Angeles a final chance with seven seconds remaining.

Johnson took an inbounds pass on the left flank, ran across the lane and put a 10-foot hook shot over McHale and Robert Parish for the winning points. Bird's jumper near the 3-point line in the left corner was long at the buzzer, silencing the capacity crowd at the Garden.

The Lakers, who trailed by as many as 16 points in the third quarter, were behind 93-86 with 8:11 remaining, but hit 7 foul shots in a 7-0 run to tie it, 93-93, with 6:14 to play. After an exchange of baskets, Bird connected from the right corner and Dennis Johnson and Danny Ainge added breakaway layups — Laker defenders Michael Cooper and Johnson strangely did not grab the Celtics to prevent the easy baskets — and that gave Boston a 101-95 edge with 4:26 remaining.

AFTER A TIMEOUT, Bird struck for a jumper over Abdul-Jabbar with 3:30 to go for a 103-95 lead. The outcome appeared to be decided.

However, Abdul-Jabbar and Mychal Thompson each sank a free throw and Cooper stole the ball from Parish and hit a 3-pointer with 92 seconds remaining. McHale lost the ball out of bounds and Worthy scored with 59 seconds left to bring the Lakers within 103-102, setting up the game-ending flurry.

McHale led Boston with 25 points and 13 rebounds, and Bird, held without a field goal for the first 25 minutes, finished with 21 points. Ainge added 23 for Boston.

Worthy contributed 21 points for the Lakers, and Abdul-Jabbar and Thompson added 16 apiece.

THE SERIES FEATURED its first outbreak of violence near the end of the first half when Dennis Johnson fouled Worthy as the Lakers forward was charging toward the basket. Worthy and Boston reserve center Greg Kite were each assessed technical fouls, but no one was ejected.

Criner acknowledges Henderson's contract

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (UPI) — Former Iowa State football coach Jim Criner said he knew All-American wide receiver Tracy Henderson had signed with an agent while still a member of the Cyclone squad.

Criner, in an interview with the Fort Dodge Messenger, said when he learned two years ago that Henderson had signed with an agent, he immediately dropped him from the team.

"When I found Henderson had signed, that was the frosting on the cake and the final reason that I got rid of him," Criner told the Messenger. "He was flunking out of school, wasn't going to classes, had stolen some school books, a whole mess of things."

Criner, who now runs the Bud Lilly Trout Shop in West Yellowstone, said several players had told him Henderson had signed with an agent and that Henderson had been seen riding in the agents Lincoln Continental.

It was the testimony of Hen-

derson and former quarterback Alan Hood that led to an NCAA investigation into illegal payments to players and recruits by members of the Cyclone coaching staff. Criner was fired by Iowa State in November, although the NCAA investigation later cleared him of any major wrongdoing.

CRINER ACKNOWLEDGED there was some wrongdoing by the ISU staff, but contends he was the administration's scapegoat and fired for the actions of one ambitious coach. He said Frank D'Alonzo, then his chief recruiter, was by far the most guilty. D'Alonzo is now an assistant at Pitt.

"I am the only one let go. Frank is still coaching at Pitt," Criner said. "They should have hound D'Alonzo by his toes. Frank did some things that got us in trouble because he wanted everybody to like him, to further himself in his profession."

Criner said the only violation he was guilty of was paying a hotel bill for some recruits.

Criner told the Messenger he is still steaming over the way he felt the school's administrators treated him.

"I will never feel good about the administration at ISU and for what they did to me, not as long as I live," he said.

Twins move into first place tie

United Press International

MINNEAPOLIS — Newly acquired Joe Niekro, backed by Tim Lardner's two-run homer, won his first game as a Twin and led Minnesota to a 5-2 victory Tuesday night over the Kansas City Royals.

The Twins notched their fourth straight victory and moved into a tie for first place with the Royals in the American League West.

Niekro, 4-4, went 6-1-3 innings, giving up one earned run in his first start since being traded from the Yankees on Sunday for catcher Mark Salas. The knuckleballer struck out six and walked three. Keith Atherton worked the final 2-2-3 innings to get his first save.

Blue Jays 7, Yankees 2
NEW YORK — John Cerutti allowed three hits over 5-2-3 innings, and Jesse Barfield homered and drove in three runs Tuesday night to pace the Toronto Blue Jays to their seventh straight victory, 7-2 over the New York Yankees.

Cerutti, 3-2, struck out two and walked one in his sixth start. Mark Eichhorn allowed consecutive home runs to Ron Kittle and Henry Cotto in the seventh. Kittle's home run broke the Yankees' streak of 18 scoreless innings overall, and 24 shutout innings against Toronto.

Ron Guidry, 0-2, yielded four runs on six hits over four innings in his first start of the season.

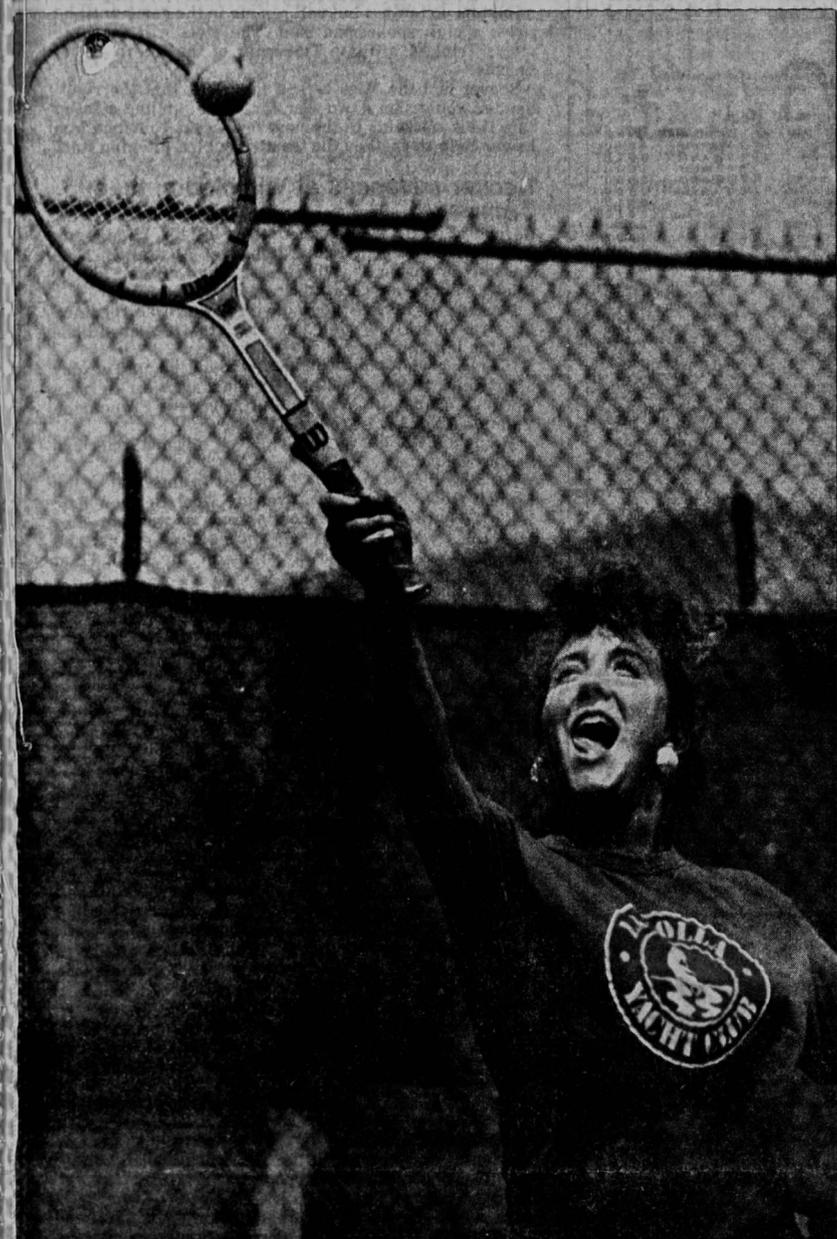

The Blue Jays, who took over first place in the American League East from the Yankees Monday night, have won 10 of their last 11 games.

Tigers 8, Brewers 5
DETROIT — Jack Morris

earned his seventh straight victory and Bill Madlock drove in two runs with four hits Tuesday night to lift the Detroit Tigers to their fourth consecutive triumph, 8-5 over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Morris, 8-2, gave up eight hits and five runs over 8 1-3 innings, before yielding to Mark Thurmond. Morris carried a two-hit shutout into the eighth but a leadoff walk to Glenn Braggs and a double by B.J. Surhoff put runners on second and third. Morris, who struck out six and walked one, wild-pitched home Milwaukee's first run and Jim Gantner singled home the second. Surhoff's two-run single in the ninth and Jim Paciorek's run-producing single completed the scoring.

Larry Herndon drove in two runs for Detroit with a home run, his fourth of the season, leading off the fourth and a fielder's-choice grounder with runners on second and third and one out in the fifth.

Robinson's two-year home far away from Spurs camp

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI) — Ensign David Robinson, expected to be the No. 1 pick in the this month's NBA draft, will spend the next two years with the Navy in Kings Bay, Ga., a spokesman for the Navy told The San Antonio Light in Tuesday's edition.

"He'll report to an operational unit of the civil engineer corps in Kings Bay," Ken Pease said. "That's a naval submarine base, a new Trident base still under construction."

Robinson graduated from Annapolis last month, but must serve two years with the Navy before he will become eligible for the NBA. The San Antonio Spurs won the lottery on May 17 to gain the No. 1 pick in the June 22 draft. The Spurs are still committed to drafting Robinson, team president Angelo Drossos said, and his assignment to Georgia will have no bearing on that decision.

"IT DOESN'T MAKE any difference where Robinson is at as long as he can't play for two years," Drossos said. "I don't see where there's anything bad or good about it."

Pease said Robinson, who has known about the Georgia assignment since the beginning of the month, will report to Kings Bay in less than two weeks.

"He graduated the 20th of May and they have 30 days of leave and then however long it takes to get there (to Kings Bay) by driving," Pease said. "I'm sure he'll be in Kings Bay by June 22. That's a big day, isn't it?"

The league announced last week the issue of rights control for Robinson's second year could wind up in court.

Regardless of how that matter is decided, if Robinson is still unsigned after two years, he would then be a free agent and could sign with the team of his choice.

Samuel, Wilson carry Phillies Bedrosian gets another save

United Press International

PHILADELPHIA — Juan Samuel and Glenn Wilson each homered and Steve Bedrosian notched his eighth straight save to tie a National League record Tuesday night, helping the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Phillies starter Bruce Ruffin, 4-5, gave up six hits, struck out four and walked two before getting relief help from Bedrosian in the eighth. Bedrosian recorded the final six outs for his 15th save.

Bedrosian has been successful in his last eight save opportunities, tying a mark held by four other NL relievers. Dave Smith of the Astros, in 1986, was the last pitcher to achieve the feat.

NL Roundup

Bedrosian also has 15 saves and a victory in his last 17 appearances.

St. Louis starter Danny Cox, 6-3, gave up seven hits in seven innings, while striking out seven and walking one.

The Cardinals chased Ruffin in the eighth. Pinch hitter Tito Landrum led off with a single. Vince Coleman followed with a chopper to third that Rich Schu fielded and threw into right field for an error, allowing Landrum to reach third.

Bedrosian relieved Ruffin and, after Coleman stole second, Ozzie Smith grounded out to score Landrum and cut Philadelphia's margin to 3-1. Tom Herr singled home Coleman, who had extended his streak of reaching base by a hit or walk to 39 straight games.

Jack Clark followed with a long fly to left that Chris James caught at the fence and Herr was doubled off first to end the inning.

Cubs 6, Mets 6
CHICAGO — Ryne Sandberg singled home two runs in the eighth inning, snapping a tie and lifting the Chicago Cubs to a 6-5 victory over the error-prone New York Mets.

With one out, Shawn Dunston reached on an infield single off Randy Myers, 0-2. Roger McDowell relieved and yielded a single to pinch hitter Bobby Dernier.

Quick Quiz

What Boston hurler compiled a 1.75 ERA in 1916, a record that still stands for AL left-handers pitching 300 or more innings in a season? (Answer below)

Over 40 Club

Phil Niekro scattered three hits over 7-1/3 innings to record his 315th career victory, leading the Indians to a 2-0 triumph Monday over the Angels. The 48-year-old Niekro, 4-5, struck out four and walked five. He moved ahead of Gaylord Perry into 11th place on the career victory list. He bested Don Sutton, 42, who failed in his fifth attempt for his 313th victory.

Who's Hot

Ivan Calderon of the White Sox has five homers and 14 RBI over his last nine games. Greg Walker of the White Sox has driven home 25 runs in his last 24 games.

Who's Not

Houston left-hander Bob Knepper, 2-7, has lost five straight starts.

Iron Man

Baltimore's Cal Ripken played in his 821st consecutive game Monday, longest current streak and the ninth longest in major-league history. This season, Ripken has a chance to climb to sixth on the all-time list by passing Augie Surr (822), Ed Yost (820) and Stan Musial (895). Ripken's target date for record holder Lou Gehrig (2,130) is June, 1995.

Bulpen Heat

Cleveland's Scott Bass struck out four of the five batters he faced Monday and notched his fifth save.

Oakland's Jay Howell worked 1-2/3 innings for his 10th save, striking out the last five hitters he faced.

Turning the Heat-on

Neal Heaton of the Expos recorded his fifth consecutive victory Monday, a 7-1 triumph over Pittsburgh. Heaton, 8-2, also drove in two runs. He allowed seven hits while walking two and striking out 12. The Expos have won nine of Heaton's 13 starts.

Quick Quiz Answer

Babe Ruth.

Long Gone

Toronto's Fred McGriff Monday hit what is believed to be the longest home run in Yankee Stadium since its renovation in 1976. With the Blue Jays leading 1-0 entering the fifth, Ernie Witt singled and McGriff drove a 3-pitch off Rick Rhoden into a runaway in the right-field upper deck, at least 13 rows up.

Quality, not Quantity

Through Sunday, winning teams have had as many or fewer hits as losing teams in 218 of 714 games, a percentage of 305.

(Not) To Catch a Thief

Vince Coleman of the Cardinals stole four bases Monday to lead St. Louis to a 12-9 win at Philadelphia. The four stolen bases tied Coleman's career high and he has now stolen 37 bases against the Phillies in his career without getting caught.

Coach: Random tests may halt steroid use

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Steroids are flooding the nation's universities because athletes feel they need the drugs in order to compete with other athletes who are using them, a college strength coach said Tuesday.

Mike Clark, strength coach at Oregon, told the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics that steroids are a growing presence on campus and that only random testing could end the problem. But the random testing would hurt the performance of the team, he said.

"Any of you who are having your football team or any of your other athletes randomly tested, you have to realize that you are putting your athletes, your coaches and your program at a competitive disadvantage," Clark said.

ATHLETES USE steroids despite the risk of health problems and penalties because they fear failure, Clark said.

"Their entire feeling of self-worth comes from their athletic achievements," Clark said. "It can be devastating to their self-image."

Steroids are synthetic hormones that promote the growth of muscles, but experts believe they can cause medical problems such as hypertension, aggressive behavior, sterility and liver disease.

Clark said that the drugs were not confined to so-called high-risk sports, such as football and weight-lifting, and that women also used them.

Dr. Donald Catlin, a medical professor who has extensive experience testing for steroids, said that urine samples taken from athletes in the high-risk sports strictly for research purposes, without fear of penalties, showed an alarming rate of steroid usage.

"I'M DISTURBED" at some of the samples that have gone through my laboratory recently," Catlin said. "It's sickening to look at the samples and see 50-60-70 percent positive (results) in some high-risk sports."

Clark said that the grapevine in the nation's weightrooms and gyms provided information on how and when to take steroids so that they would be flushed out of the system by the time scheduled testing came around.

Strawberry's late arrivals cost him starting position

CHICAGO (UPI) — New York Mets right fielder Darryl Strawberry was fined and removed from Tuesday's starting lineup for arriving late for the second straight day, manager Davey Johnson said.

Johnson said after the Mets lost to the Chicago Cubs 6-5 he benched and fined Strawberry for showing up late a second successive day. The Mets wouldn't confirm the amount of the fine but sources said it was around $250.

"The first day I let it slide. Today I fined and benched him," Johnson said.

Lee Mazzilli replaced the benched Strawberry in right field in the starting lineup.

Strawberry was sent up to pinch-hit against Lee Smith in the top of the ninth after the Mets had closed to 6-5 on Mookie Wilson's homer and had Len Dykstra at first base with two out.

Darryl Strawberry before the disciplinary action before or during the game.

"I told him to go up and win us a ballgame," Johnson said.

Johnson had a meeting before the game with the players, in part because he was "disgusted" with the way the club had been playing. Monday, the club missed a critical bunt sign and had a player picked off second in the same inning during an intentional walk.

"I don't like how we are preparing for ballgames," said Johnson, whose defending world champions slipped to the .500 mark, 28-28, after their third straight loss.

"We're too good a ballclub not to be doing the little extra things to win ballgames."

But most of Johnson's wrath appeared directed to Strawberry, the all-star outfielder who had had an earlier-run in with the Mets' manager.

IN SPRING TRAINING, Strawberry failed to take part in two team workouts and was fined $1,500 by Johnson. Initially, Strawberry hedged on paying the fine, but soon after did pay.

Asked if Strawberry would be in the lineup for Wednesday's game, Johnson shook his head.

"The only thing I can tell you is that he was late. That's inexcusable. He probably won't play tomorrow (Wednesday)," Johnson added.

Stephenson makes comeback in 'Skins Game' competition

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Jan Stephenson, who suffered two broken ribs in an auto accident five weeks ago, returned to competition Tuesday in a $25,000 LPGA Skins Game.

Stephenson wore a brace around her ribs as she toured the back nine at the Country Club of Indianapolis during the event, a prelude to the $350,000 LPGA Mayflower Classic that begins Thursday.

"I'm feeling great and I'm glad to be back. It was more painful watching my name go down the money list than hitting balls," said Stephenson, who suffered broken ribs on her left side in a May 2 crash in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Stephenson was ranked fifth on the money list at the time of the accident, but has slid to eight entering the Mayflower with winnings of $94,714.

The accident came after Stephenson had shown signs of breaking out of a slump. She had won only once in three seasons until taking the Santa Barbara Open in April.

STEPHENSON, 35, was tied for the lead after three rounds of the next LPGA event, the S & H Classic in St. Petersburg. But the accident knocked her out of the final round and the next five weeks of action.

"It just goes to show you shouldn't be overconfident. I was driving home that night thinking I had finally gotten out of my 3-year putting slump and — BAM! — a car came from out of nowhere," Stephenson said.

Stephenson was not expected to return to action until mid-July, but she recovered quickly and was a surprise entrant Monday in Indianapolis.

"The doctors told me if I wasn't in such good shape, I would not have been able to recover as quickly as I did," Stephenson said. "They said I had the heart and lungs of a 15-year-old."

Stephenson returns to the Mayflower Classic this week where she finished second with Chris Johnson after losing a playoff to Sandra Palmer. Each player finished regulation at eight-under-par. This year's winner at the 6,186-yard, par-72 course will take home a check of $52,500.

Oilers coach squelches rumors

TORONTO (UPI) — Edmonton Oilers Coach Glen Sather Tuesday denied a report that he refused to coach the Canadian team in the Canada Cup hockey tournament and that he told organizers he did not want his players involved.

"It's not my place to tell the players what they can and cannot do because they have an agreement with the Players' Association and they have an agreement with the NHL," Sather said in a telephone interview from Edmonton.

The Toronto Globe and Mail reported that Sather told Canada Cup organizer Alan Eagleson he did not want members of the Oilers involved in the September tournament. The article also said Sather refused to coach or manage Canada's entry.

Quoting unidentified NHL sources, the newspaper said Sather is concerned his star players would be tired after just completing their longest season ever. Including exhibition, playoff and regular-season games, Edmonton played 112 matches over more than eight months.
