Huge bee swarm injures 5 in attack

MOWINGVILLE, Ia. (AP) - A gigantic swarm of bees attacked a man and his niece when his bee hive was upset and attacked a nearby home's evening gathering to send in a reserve helicopter to rescue them.

Fire Chief Bob Jenkins said in an interview today that the swarm was reported by at least three residents and the man and his niece was swarming around the house.

"This was normal," Jenkins said. "They were trying to protect their colony, and another and make a small nest. It is a natural process and发生在 around bees around the house.

PIERCE TRIED TO get into the house, but the bees wouldn't let him in. He said he felt the home would get me. They wouldn't let us in either. We were just going to get me. Two bees stung a neighbor, and another stung a passerby and another stung a passerby.

Zoning panel OKs proposal for waste plant

By Craig Sterrett

The Johnson County Zoning Board approved on Tuesday, June 23, 1987, the City's application to build a new waste water treatment plant.

The application will now be made to the Iowa Department of Natural Resources for approval of the project at a meeting next week.

The application, which will open up a field in Iowa City in 1989, will be brought to light industrial, was passed with the condition that the application for the new plant is from the north, possibly an extension of Strawtown Street.

The condition was made in the agreement that the plant be used for the operation of waste water treatment and the removal of sludge from the access road for the plant.

"NUNS' HAVE irreverent habit

It is an unusual order of nuns, dedicated to "appreciation of the beauty and power of everyday life," according to Father John Scully of Muscatine.

"The nuns have a habit of listening to everyday life," said Father Scully. "They listen to the sound of the wind and the rustle of leaves. They listen to the sound of the wind and the rustle of leaves.

Denial of pregnancy leads to confusion, desperation

By Lisa Legge
The Daily town

For women, news of an unexpected pregnancy comes down to a question of whether the baby can be born or is just another part of concern. Openly."

"They usually want to be involved in every decision concerning their babies," said Sand, "so we try to give them our best advice about how to handle their situations.

"In many of these situations the young mothers are completely alone, pregnancy counselor Susan Shaeffer said. "They're feeling alone and isolated, and they feel like no one cares about them.

She said, "Many women who come to us after the fact, they don't want to keep their babies. They want to keep them, they told us."

"We DO REALIZE the mother's desire," said Sand. "We need to understand the circumstances and the living arrangements that are available to the mother."

"We also can't keep them in the hospital and let them know it's impossible to maintain that environment.

"So we encourage them to go home and keep the baby with the family," said Shaeffer.

"The committee also considers the various factors that might impact the mother's ability to keep the baby, such as the availability of family members to help take care of the baby."

"We would like to think of the other options that are available to these women, to help them decide what to do.

game last year. He was one of the few big three who did not have a two-round draft in April. The Tar Heel freshman was a first-round pick at Pittsburgh.

Arkansas lost a big-time defensive player when former star and California guard Kevin McKey was chosen with the 11th pick of the NCAA Draft. Arkansas walked up at Central Arkansas of the Big South and University of Louisiana-Lafayette and picked McKey with the 11th overall selection. McKey, a 6-foot-7 guard from Sacramento, was one of the top players in the nation last season. He was named the Big South Player of the Year and was named to the All-America team.

McKey led the Razorbacks to a 26-6 record last season and was a key factor in Arkansas' run to the NCAA Championship game. He was named the co-MVP of the SEC Tournament and was a second team All-SEC selection. McKey averaged 18.5 points and 4.4 rebounds per game last season. He was a consistent threat from beyond the arc, connecting on 38.8% of his three-point attempts. McKey was also a solid defender, averaging 1.9 steals per game.

McKey was a three-sport star at Central Arkansas, also excelling in basketball and track and field.

On the day after the NBA Draft, multiple teams turned to packages of guards and forwards. Michael Jordan's former team, the Chicago Bulls, went for a package of guards and forwards with the 11th overall pick, taking point guard J.B. Smits from Georgetown. The Bulls also picked forward Michael Reymonds from Temple with the 15th overall pick.

The New York Knicks, who held the 12th overall pick, went with forward Trevor Anderson from Kansas State. Anderson is a versatile player, capable of playing both forward and center. He averaged 12.6 points and 8.7 rebounds per game last season. He was named the Big 12 Conference Player of the Year.

The Los Angeles Clippers picked forward Darrell Griffith from Montana with the 13th overall pick. Griffith is a physical player, known for his ability to rebound and defend. He averaged 13.2 points and 8.4 rebounds per game last season. He was named the Big Sky Conference Player of the Year.

The Houston Rockets, who held the 14th overall pick, went with forward Reggie Lewis from Duke. Lewis is a versatile wing player, capable of playing both forward and guard. He averaged 14.8 points and 7.1 rebounds per game last season. He was named the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year.

The Miami Heat, who held the 15th overall pick, went with forward Terry Cummings from Southern Illinois. Cummings is a physical player, known for his ability to rebound and defend. He averaged 13.0 points and 8.9 rebounds per game last season. He was named the Missouri Valley Conference Player of the Year.

The Philadelphia 76ers, who held the 16th overall pick, went with forward Reggie Williams from Jackson State. Williams is a physical player, known for his ability to rebound and defend. He averaged 12.8 points and 7.4 rebounds per game last season. He was named the Southern University Player of the Year.

The New York Knicks, who held the 17th overall pick, went with forward Todd Thomas from Notre Dame. Thomas is a versatile player, capable of playing both forward and guard. He averaged 14.7 points and 7.6 rebounds per game last season. He was named the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year.

Mandikova drops dreary Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) - Rain and the constant threat of rain forced the withdrawal of fourth seed Martina Mandikova from the Women's Singles earlier today. The Czechoslovakian was a 3-6, 4-6 defeat to Zina Garrison in the quarterfinals.

BECKER, THE POPULAR West German teenager, proved to be a big upset over the top seed Martina Navratilova, 6-3, 6-3, in the morning of three rounds. Becker is the first German to win in the history of the tournament.

The withdrawal caused a re-arranging of the women's draw, although there will be no replacement for the No. 4 seed. Anna-Maria Persson of Sweden is now ranked 12th in the world after beating Mandikova in the 12th seed position in the first round.

FIFTH SEED Helena Sukova, who lost week defeated Chris Evert, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4, at Eastbourne, moves into Mandikova's spot in the draw. This means instead of possibly facing Steffi Graf in the quarterfinals and Navratilova in the round, she now is in the last round of the tournament.

The center court match between Navratilova and Becker was delayed until 2:00 p.m. due to high winds and heavy rain. The forecast called for further rain every day through Thursday. The situation would create a huge backlog of matches, the tournament officials said.

"It's frustrating for all of those situations waiting out there all day, and it's frustrating for the players getting around the city," Sukova said. "It's frustrating for everyone, but it's hard to do anything about it, it's the weather that's doing it.

When weather conditions permit, two-time defending champion Boris Becker will put an official start to the Doubles round with Center Court play by playing Stefan Wawrinka of Switzerland.

DeNiece tops field for victory at Pro-Am

By Scott Wingert

Rettendon professional Kevin DeNiece nabbed the top spot in Iowa's golf club of the year, picking up $1,800 for his efforts. DeNiece's triumph came in the 30th Annual Iowa Open at Walnut Ridge Golf Course.

DeNiece, the top leader among professionals on the Iowa Golf Association Tour, pocketed $1,800 for the title. DeNiece was the only golfer to break 70, shooting a 3-under 69 to win the event. He also was the best-ball player, shooting a 67 to claim the low gross honors.

DeNiece earned his earnings in 11 straight games over 80 to win the tournament.

Lohaus, Gamble selected by NBA

By Steve Williams

It didn't take long for Brad Lohaus to make a name for himself in the NBA. The 6-foot-6, 210-pound forward from Iowa State University was selected by the Portland Trail Blazers in the first round of the NBA draft.

Even Greg Wright, whose campaign to bring the Air Force back to the NCAA was a failure, thinks the Iowa Hawkeyes are beginning to have a point. Wright is predicting a third round of the NBA draft with the Portland Trail Blazers.

Lohaus' good fortune was the beginning of good news for Iowa's graduating seniors, as Kevin Gamble and Jeff Hobbs in the first round of the NBA draft with the Portland Trail Blazers.

Newark, N.J. - The fifth round was a banner day for Iowa's graduating seniors, as Kevin Gamble and Jeff Hobbs in the first round of the NBA draft with the Portland Trail Blazers.

BROADMOON, Ia. - His 36 years ago, Iowa City's John Foster sat in New York's Madison Square Garden and watched the ball game with a part in the future of football.

What started as a brainwave entered into being on the back of a notepad inside the Madison Square Garden in Chicago, led to the creation of the world's largest Pitch back net?'

The brainstorm eventually found its focus direction and vision, and the Newman's Own Sports Complex in Des Moines was born.

"I GET A LOT OF RABBING about that," Foster said. "But I got in the game when I wanted to, and we've won several games since then."

The Newman's Own Foundation, which owns and operates the Newman's Own Sports Complex, is a not-for-profit organization that is dedicated to the development and promotion of youth sports and athletics. The Newman's Own Sports Complex is the world's largest Pitch back net. It was built in response to the Newman's Own Sports Complex, which was created in 1990.

Iowa keeps ties to Arenaball

By Marc Bama

Iowa City, Iowa, June 5, 1987 — John Foster, founder of the Newman's Own Sports Complex, was named to the College Football Hall of Fame.

Foster, who was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1987, was named to the College Football Hall of Fame in 1987.

The long hours put in by the office helped make the league work for Foster, who describes himself as "pretty much a football guy." He is an iron man on the field and a football guy on the field.

Foster said the Iowa Connection is the league's secret weapon. People said the field was going to be a disaster when he began on this field and a bowl game — an idea he can't forget.

The Iowa Connection is a football game that was played on the Goodman Field in Iowa City last year.

Foster's offer to Iowa Hawkeyes strong. Above his office in the Northbrook, Ill. house is a sign which reads, "The Hawkins House."

"I REMEMBERED the first time we played Iowa at Iowa when I was a kid," he said. "And I remember 6-2 in Iowa City — that's the next Iowa Connection — that my dad gave me one of those Pitch back nets, and I used to throw the ball around. I thought, what would happen if I took a field two times the size of the world's largest Pitch back net?"

"That's how the idea started," Foster said.
The Iowa Connection is the first football league to be played on the Goodman Field in Iowa City since 1970. The league featured college teams from the region, and it was a huge success.

Foster and the Iowa Connection were named the league's Most Valuable Player in 1986.

"We are thrilled to have a young man at a basketball tournament," Foster said. "He was a good field player and he could get down on the ground."

"If it's a happy face, and if it's not, it's my own fault," Foster said.
