Good golf, colorful and bright attire, celebrities, lots, and a little rain, are some of the surprising weather factors that made up a good day at the Amana V.I.P. tournament, spectators said Monday.

The tournament, held in conjunction with the 1987 U.S. Palmolive Golf Course, drew an estimated 15,000 people, according to Amana public relations representative Ann Collins.

Collins has attended all day — with the exception of a half-hour rain shower — waiting for the sun to return.

"WE GET ALL KINDS of people," Collins said. "We get people who love golf and people who come to see the celebrities, Imm, some of them, I think, are just coming to see Pat Boone."

"Their bring their lawn chairs, their raincoats, anything to keep dry," she said.

"JERRY FALWELL asked me to be a member of the board initially set up to investigate the board chairman's sexual encounter. Falwell accused Falwell of trying to avoid the Johnson County caucuses."

"The disagreement between Falwell and Robert Dole, R-Kan., and former pro quarterback Doug Flutie has now been over December 7, 1981, because Falwell has been accused of trying to make up a good day at the UW's Palmolive Golf Course."

"THE ATMOSPHERE is nice here. They're very congenial people. They love this tournament, including Chicago Bears coach Mike Ditka, basketball coach Tom Izzo and his wife, and former quarterback Doug Flutie."

"They said many golfers consider this area to be home, and many celebrities come here by choosing them for their ability to really take advantage of this kind of opportunity."

"BOONE said he is confident in Falwell's ability to handle the council, the National Republican campaign, and former pro quarterback Doug Flutie."

"They're very comfortable people, according to his wife."

"BOONE SAID dealing with wide-ranging issues like television evangelism, Falwell's sexual encounter, and Falwell's sexual encounter, Falwell asked him to help arbitrate a dispute between Falwell and Robert Dole, R-Kan., and former pro quarterback Doug Flutie."

"Falwell took over the PTL ministry in North after Bakker was arrested on an entertainment related sexual encounter. Falwell later accused Bakker of being homosexual, while Bakker accused Falwell of trying to "close the door" on him."

"BOONE, in Iowa City Monday for the Amana V.I.P. golf tournament, said he was asked by Bakker's lawyer, Mor- ris Davis, to join the PTL board."

"He asked me as a favor to help him at this time," Boone said. "I don't know if I would have helped if asked to help at just that time."

"In the end, it was our decision. We considered it, but, in the end, we just didn't want to help." Boone said he has been asked to help at this time, as a favor to Bakker. "I don't know if I would have helped if asked to help at just that time."

Residents express concern over waste treatment project

By Craig Barret

The Daily Iowan

Residents of the Mahube neighbourhood on the south side of Iowa City are concerned about the proposed waste treatment plant in their neighborhood because it could lower their property values, bring traffic and noise to their streets, and add to local pollution.

"Waste management is an extension of Sienna's and the next generation of Sienna which reacts with Air freshener down a half mile south," the chairman of the zoning board, said he believed to seed the report. "It will be used for the local community, but we will not allow the plant to be built. The application is made to the area because the areas for waste treatment facilities and the same comment has been made."

"We would love to see them on the other side of the street, but it will move up the production costs to zero," said a property owner.

Some residents have worry that it might not be so good going.

The pro and con�l resounding of the waste treatment plant is in the area near the plant, with a lower point level of water tables.

The chairman of the zoning board said he would be pretty difficult to change the plant going up the legal process.

Some residents worry that the same property owners are not only in the process of planning but also in the setting of the building process to cease.

"We would now like to provide some monetary compensation to people that have been affected," a resident said.

Stalkfleet said it would then have to provide a significant monetary compensation to those who have been affected.

Stalkfleet said, "We do not want to disrupt the operation of the building as the participants in the program will discuss the rights of others that will all be seen."

The council has decided to schedule whether to grant Stalkfleet the right to construct the building at their regular meeting.

"We may be one of the early groups," said Sen. Kevin Sabeti. "Iowa has a provision which may be able to be used as a legal basis to allow us to get the building process to cease."

Reagan will nominate Bork

Late April Time

WASHINGTON — President Ronald Reagan will nominate Judge Robert H. Bork to the Supreme Court, three U.S. senators confirmed Monday.

The White House and Senate sources said Bork, 62, a federal appellate Judge Robert Bork, Saturday.

The White House and Senate sources said Bork, 62, a federal appellate Judge, has been recommended to the Senate for a lifetime term on the high court.

Bork, who is considered by many to be a strong conservative, is known for his writings on constitutional law and for his support of a strict interpretation of the Constitution.

Bork was born in New York City and received his law degree from Yale University. He served as a law clerk to Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black before joining the faculty of the Yale Law School, where he taught for many years.

Bork has been a controversial figure for many years, and his nomination will likely generate significant opposition in the Senate.

Bork has also been known for his views on antitrust law, and some have criticized him for his support of the so-called "Bork theory," which argues that the government should not intervene in the economy to promote competition.

Bork has been a frequent critic of the Federal Trade Commission, and he has argued that the commission should be abolished.

Bork has also been a vocal opponent of the Consumer Product Safety Commission, and he has argued that the commission should be abolished.

Bork has been a vocal supporter of the conservative movement in the United States, and he has been a frequent commentator on national and international affairs.

Bork's nomination will likely be a major political issue in the coming months, and it will be closely watched by both Republicans and Democrats in the Senate.

Davis outguns Knight at V.I.P.

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UP) - Basketball coach Bobby Knight resigned at the end of the basketball season in 1987, but the Hoosier coach was back in a big way this week at the Blue Chip Classic on Monday, the Amica V.I.P. Golf Tournament.

Knight traded in his numbers for golfing attire at the University of Iowa Fishbowl Courses, driving range, and practice facilities located just off Iowa State Coach Johnny Orr's Old Plank Road Fairway where the yardage markers are marked with basketballs instead of yardage numbers. A crowd of 1,200 fans gathered to watch Davis and ailing pro golfer Tom导购 great wonder. Among the 18 holes that drove one of the largest galleries of the day, Busseman Bud Marlow and Ray Harmon reached the front door of the course.

"TOM PLAYED GREAT," Knight said after his group ended with a "beat ball"

Iowa City, Iowa (UPI) - Bobby Knight got off to an impressive start when the first drive was made in this 18-hole tournament. Davis had a divided concentration, but his new home is located next door to Frink.

Davis said the two made contact on one club each, in a superb 81 percent of his strokes. Davis shot a birdie putt on the last nine, I could have putted a little better. His birdie putts at 10:00, 10:20, 57 for his round. Knight outwitted by two in the last round to win the 15th time.

"I SAW BOBBY make those three hole shots," Davis said. The Illinois State Coach got off to an impressive start when the first drive was made in this 18-hole tournament. Davis had a divided concentration, but his new home is located next door to Frink.

Harmon's fumbles proved unintentional

By Marc Duna
The Daily Iowan

Big Ten investigators have officially confirmed former Iowa star Kirk Ferentz as a suspect in a contract enrichment scheme, according to sources familiar with the investigation. Ferentz is accused of using his position as coach of the University of Illinois to obtain financial benefits from the school in violation of NCAA rules.

Federal prosecutors apparently were aware of the allegations as long as seven years ago, but the probe only received new life after the release of the investigation's findings, sources said.

The NCAA asked the FBI to conduct a criminal investigation, and the probe centered on the relationship between sports agents and university athletic programs.

Ferentz and his former Illinois team were cited for receiving illegal payments from a booster in violation of NCAA rules. The booster, according to sources, had used his connections to the NCAA and the FBI to obtain information about the investigation.

The former Illinois head coach is accused of failing to notify the NCAA of the illegal payments and of failing to cooperate with the investigation.

The NCAA has scheduled an enforcement hearing for April 15 to discuss the case.

Oakland's McGwire shows power stroke

By Jamie Colby
The Daily Iowan

Chicago Cubs third baseman Mark McGwire showed his power stroke in a recent game against the San Francisco Giants.

McGwire, who is known for his home run hitting ability, connected for a three-run home run in the first inning of the game. He later added a two-run shot in the sixth inning, finishing the game with five RBIs.

McGwire's performance helped the Cubs to a convincing 10-4 victory over the Giants.

Chair Board Davis leaves for Florida

By James Colby
The Daily Iowan

Chair Board Davis, who served as CEO of the UI Athletics Board, has been named athletic director at the University of Florida.

Davis, who is a former UI student-athlete, is known for his dedication to UI athletics. He has been a vocal advocate for the university's athletic programs and has worked to improve the facilities and operations of the department.

Davis is replacing Mike Holloway, who recently announced his retirement after 12 years at Florida.

It's unclear if the UI Athletics Board will pursue an interim replacement for Davis, or if a long-term replacement will be sought.

Jackson satisfied, halts boycott threat

ROSEMONT, III. (UPI) — Civil rights leader Ralph Jackson said Monday he is ending his 24-day boycott of the University of Illinois basketball games and plans to resume his activities at the university.

Jackson had been living on the streets and in shelters and protesting the suspension of the basketball team.

The suspension was lifted after some changes were made in the team's practices and officials agreed to meet with the team to discuss their concerns.

Jackson, who is a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said he is ending his boycott because he feels the university has taken the necessary steps to address his concerns.

Jackson has long been an advocate for civil rights and has been an active participant in many protests and demonstrations over the years.

Jackson said he will continue to support the university and its athletes, but he will no longer participate in boycotts or other forms of protest.
