Bush caravan invades Iowa

Vice president speaks on farm crisis, Contras

By Shawn Plank
The Daily Iowan

VAN HORNE, Iowa — While campaigning for president in person for most candidates is as easy as riding into an Iowa town and shaking a few hands, a campaign stop for Vice President George Bush resembles something like the D-Day invasion and reflects some problems he has campaigning while being an elected official.

When Bush visited this small Benton County community Wednesday, he brought with him a motorcade including 14 cars, four state patrol cars, an ambulance and vanfuls of secret service agents.

A secret service agent stood at the door, carefully examining press credentials and photo identification. Campaign official, taking phone reservations for his visit, jotted down social security numbers.

"It's a precautionary measure," Bush's state campaign manager George Wittgraf said. "It insures the ability to check should anybody do anything."

PHOTOGRAPHERS were taken aside by a neatly dressed secret service agent and told, "If you want to get off the press platform and get down closer, I'll take you. But don't go off without me."

The motorcade was aided by dozens of Benton County sheriff's deputies who lined Highway 30, blocking intersections and interstate exits to give Bush a clear, secure path to Van Horne.

Despite the security and the clear path, Bush was 30 minutes late for the Van Horne appearance. Wittgraf said the protection which comes with being vice president shouldn't slow Bush's Iowa campaign appearances.

"We will not let the security standpoint stand in the way,"

North quizzed on Reagan's role in scandal

By Walter Pincus
Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Fired White House aide Oliver L. North was questioned behind closed doors for nearly two hours Wednesday by congressional investigators regarding President Ronald Reagan's knowledge of the diversion of funds from the U.S.-Iran arms sales to support the Nicaraguan rebels.

When last questioned seven months ago about what Reagan knew, North told Attorney General Edwin Meese III that he had never discussed the diversion with the president and did not believe Reagan ever received a memo which North had drafted regarding the funneling of funds to the Contras, according to notes of that session shortly before the Marine lieutenant colonel was fired.

Wednesday, appearing under a grant of limited immunity from prosecution and wearing his Marine uniform, North told reporters on his way into the basement hearing room in the Rayburn House Office Building that he planned to tell "the truth" to congressional investigators. His only other response to reporters' questions was, "Have a nice day."

NORTH WAS officially granted immunity Tuesday by the House and Senate committees investigating the Iran-Contra affair and thus is protected from being prosecuted for anything he says to the committee, unless the testimony is proven false.

The interrogation lasted one hour and 45 minutes, according to a congressional source. Under an unusual agreement hammered out last week between North's lawyer and the committees, the questioning was limited to the narrow issue of North's knowledge of the president's involvement. In return for the committees' limited closed-door questioning, North guaranteed he would appear for public questioning beginning next Tuesday.

The chief counsels of the two committees, Arthur L. Liman and John W. Niields Jr., explored not only North's direct exchanges with Reagan on the diversion issue, but also what he had been told by other individuals, sources said. These would include North's former boss, Rear Adm. John M. Poindexter, whom the committee has already questioned for almost 15 hours behind closed doors.

DURING THE INITIAL, "off the record" questioning by the two counsels, North was not under oath, according to the agreement with his lawyer. He then was sworn in for a formal executive session of the committees during which a transcript was made. The questions were "broader than expected," one source said.

The committees plan to keep the testimony secret and make no comment about it until the public session with North begins next week.

North, who was fired Nov. 25 from the National Security Council staff at the time the diversion was announced, has since become the central figure in the Iran-Contra scandal. On the day before his firing, North's lawyer at the time, Thomas Green, told a Justice Department official that North "wants to step forward and take the spears in his own chest."

NORTH HAS previously discussed the diversion on several occasions with individuals involved in various aspects of the Iran-Contra affair, according to documents and testimony introduced in Congress and presented by the Tower review board.

In a nearly four-hour session last Nov. 23 in the attorney general's office, North was quizzed by Meese, Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, Meese aide John Richardson and Assistant Attorney General Charles J. Cooper.

Bork earns High Court nomination

By James Gerstenzang
Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — President Ronald Reagan nominated Robert H. Bork, a conservative federal appellate judge, to the Supreme Court on Wednesday, describing him as "the most prominent and intellectually powerful advocate of judicial restraint."

The 60-year-old judge faces a difficult and prolonged confirmation fight in the Senate, but his eventual approval does not appear in doubt. Bork, who is Reagan's third nominee to the High Court, is expected to provide crucial support for a coalition of conservative justices that could leave its mark on American society into the next century.

"Judge Bork is recognized as a premier constitutional authority," Reagan said. "His outstanding intellect and unrivaled scholarly credentials are reflected in his thoughtful examination of the broad, fundamental legal issues of our times."

BORK IS BEING nominated to fill the seat left vacant by the retirement of Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., who announced his departure Friday. While Powell was considered a centrist "swing" vote crucial to forming majorities, Bork is deemed a conservative by supporters and critics.

In nominating another conservative, Reagan has the historic opportunity of shaping the ideological balance of the high court for the next several years. Moreover, confirmation of Bork would give the president a key victory at a time when the administration has suffered deeply under the weight of the Iran-Contra affair in the final years of his presidency.

Bork's history on the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here would indicate a tendency to side more often with such conservative members as Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist, Sandra Day O'Connor and Antonin Scalia. Reagan nominated Rehnquist to be chief justice and named O'Connor and Scalia to the High Court.

REAGAN URGED the Senate to move quickly on Bork's nomination.

Remington begins term as UI chief

By Scott Hauser
The Daily Iowan

Saying his term as UI interim president will be one of action, UI Vice President for Academic Affairs Richard D. Remington officially took over as interim president Wednesday.

"This will not be a period when we shift into neutral," Remington said at a press conference Wednesday afternoon in the president's office in Jessup Hall Room 101. "I hope to see us even accelerate a little."

Remington, 55, assumes the duties of outgoing UI President James O. Freedman, who announced in April he was leaving the UI to accept the position of president of Dartmouth College in Hanover, New Hampshire.

Remington has been UI vice president for academic affairs since 1982, when he came to the UI from his position as dean and professor at the University of Michigan School of Public Health.

HE SAID THE appointment of women and minorities to administrative and professorial positions and the recruitment of minority students would continue to be top priorities for the UI.

He announced the Associate Director of the Center for Laser Studies at the University of Southern California, Susan D. Allen, would join the faculty of the UI's Department of Chemistry as a professor in the fall.

"I couldn't be more pleased that she's agreed to join us," he said, adding he thought she was the first female full professor in the chemistry department.

Remington said Allen, who is an expert in laser science, will enhance the faculty of the UI laser center, expected to be completed in 1990.

REMINGTON SAID HE expected the UI to announce a major program in the fall geared toward the recruitment of minority faculty and students.

"We are not in good shape, in my opinion, in either of these areas," he said.

Last March the regents agreed the three regents institutions should set a goal of having a minority student population of 8.5 percent of total enrollment by 1991.

Remington said he would continue to follow the direction set by Freedman and said he still sees many of the opportunities for the UI he saw in 1982.

"I believed then, and I believe now, that the UI is one of the few universities in the nation with the chance to improve itself substantially in the years to come," he said.

Although Remington said he is well acquainted with the duties of the UI president, he reiterated he is not a candidate for the job of president.

"I WOULD LOVE to be the president of the shortest term," Remington said, adding he is interested in continuing his work as UI vice president for academic affairs and dean of faculties. "My goal is to do this and keep the university going on an interim basis."

The state Board of Regents approved a national search firm and a 17-member on-campus committee in May to identify and select a new UI president.

The approved schedule calls for a new president to be selected by the board in October.

Branstad vetoes assailed

DES MOINES — Nearly 500 social service and farm advocates joined Democratic legislative leaders Wednesday in denouncing Gov. Terry Branstad for breaking campaign promises by vetoing programs for low-income Iowans and farmers last month.

Lt. Gov. Joann Zimmerman told a Statehouse rally of farm, labor, church and social service organizations the vetoes of $35 million in spending will hurt those who have been hardest hit by Iowa's economic woes.

Peace Institute to move

DES MOINES — The directors of the Iowa Peace Institute were to be asked Wednesday to approve moving the institute's headquarters from Des Moines to Grinnell, Iowa.

Institute President Jean Lloyd-Jones, who will make the recommendation to the board, said the move may put Grinnell in the running to be the site of a proposed peace center.

Lloyd-Jones said Grinnell is a suitable headquarters site because Grinnell College has a strong international studies program.

Kidney donor files suit

IOWA CITY — A Montrose, Iowa, man who claims he was not told of the repercussions that could arise from donating a kidney said Wednesday he will ask the state Supreme Court to reinstate a $20 million lawsuit he filed in 1985 against UI Hospitals and a physician. Steven Lawse, 37, said when he agreed to donate a kidney for an operation for his brother, doctors failed to advise him he could encounter severe health problems as a result of donating the organ.

Baby deliveries halted

OELWEIN, Iowa — The high cost of medical malpractice insurance Wednesday brought to a halt the delivery of babies at Oelwein's Mercy Hospital, forcing area women to drive at least 30 minutes to obtain obstetrical care, hospital officials said.

Hospital Administrator Andy Huff said Darwin Jack and Harold Hallberg, the only two physicians delivering babies in Oelwein, stopped performing obstetrical services July 1 because they could not justify paying sharp increases in malpractice insurance premiums that would provide the $500,000 coverage they needed.

Suit filed in jail death

MASON CITY, Iowa — The stepmother of a Cerro Gordo County Jail inmate killed during a forced sexual act at the jail last year filed a lawsuit Wednesday against the county, its sheriff and a jailer, citing negligence on the parts of all three.

Donna Troll of Albert Lea, Minn., alleges Sheriff Steve Madson knew the jail had been rated as being below state standards and understaffed at the time her stepson, Richard Vargas, was incarcerated.

Iowa judge nominated

WASHINGTON — President Ronald Reagan will nominate Charles Wolle, an Iowa Supreme Court justice since 1983, to be a U.S. district judge for southern Iowa, the White House announced Wednesday.

Wolle, 51, of Sioux City, was a state district court judge from 1981-83 and was in private practice from 1961-1980. Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, who recommended Wolle be appointed to the post, said Wolle is an outstanding jurist and should win Senate confirmation later this summer.

Board may help county in fight against cable TV suit

By Craig Sterrett
The Daily Iowan

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors will decide today whether to give $1,750 to Marion County, Iowa, to fight a lawsuit against the county by Heritage Cablevision.

Heritage Cablevision is suing Marion County to avoid paying taxes on what it says is personal property. The trial is scheduled for August 13.

If the company wins its case against Marion County, many Iowa counties, including Johnson, would lose a substantial amount of tax money, Marion County Supervisor Frank Peak said.

"It does not amount to much to us, but to the whole state it would dollar up to quite an amount," Peak said.

Johnson County could lose an estimated $11,000 in yearly tax dollars if Heritage wins the case, while more populated counties like Linn, Polk and Scott would probably lose much more, Johnson County Supervisor Donald Sehr said.

HERITAGE WANTS Section 427A of the Iowa Code declared unconstitutional. The section states that real estate and things that are a part of, attached to, built on or growing on real estate, although they may be personal property, are defined as real estate property, and are taxed at a higher rate than personal property.

However, one provision of the code states that "transmission towers and antennae that are not a part of a household" are considered personal property. This provision is the one which prompted Heritage Cablevision to file suit, according to Heritage lawyer Mark Schuling.

The cable company is claiming antennae and wiring are personal property and that counties have no constitutional right to tax them as real property.

"What we are trying to say is property has been mis-categorized," Schuling said.

BUT PEAK disagreed. "They say that these cable lines running all over are personal property," he said. "We feel they are just like Iowa power lines or water lines."

The Iowa State Association of Counties voted to support Marion County in its effort and requested in a June 16 memo that all Iowa counties contribute financially to Marion County's cause. If the case were to go to the U.S. Supreme Court, defense costs could reach an estimated $100,000.

Heritage Cable officials would not say how much money its company stands to save in tax dollars if it wins the case.

In its Tuesday meeting, the Johnson County Board of Supervisors indicated it would allocate $1,750 in order to help Marion County in its legal efforts against the cable television company.

"The county has too much at stake not to support Marion County in its effort," Supervisor Dick Myers said.

If the pay television company wins its case, Iowa counties could lose tax money coming in from other utilities if companies other than Heritage follow suit and challenge 427A as unconstitutional.

"If it won the suit all the utility companies would be in there asking not to be taxed on their property," Sehr said.

Schuling admitted that if Heritage Cable wins its case, taxation on pipelines and power wires would, in theory, be unconstitutional.

Courts/police

By Phil Thomas
The Daily Iowan

An Iowa wrestler appealed his convictions of disorderly conduct and public intoxication and motioned for a new trial, according to Johnson County Magistrate Court records.

A lawyer for UI junior Brad Penrith motioned for a new trial after claiming Penrith did not know about the "serious negative consequences of filing the pleas" that would affect court probation and the status of his athletic scholarship, according to court records.

If the guilty pleas stand, Penrith will have to serve a 28-day jail sentence in Johnson County and a 58-day jail sentence in Dallas County and will lose his scholarship. Both probations were related to OWI convictions, according to court records.

Penrith reversed his guilty pleas in connection with a June 16 incident in which he was allegedly fighting with another male subject while intoxicated at Clinton and College streets at about 2 a.m.

Penrith initially pled guilty to the charges and paid fines for the violations. After the incident, Penrith was suspended from the Iowa wrestling team by Coach Dan Gable.

An Iowa City school board member was formally charged with assault causing injury and false imprisonment Monday in connection with a June 14 incident in the 2400 block of Shady Glen Court, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Orville Henry Townsend, 44, of 713 Whiting Ave., allegedly held a woman against her will at knife-point, according to court records.

Assault causing injury and false imprisonment are serious misdemeanors, which are punishable by up to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

An Algona, Iowa, man

filed a civil suit Wednesday against the Fieldhouse bar, 111 E. College St., in Johnson County District Court for an unspecified amount, according to court records.

Clayton Mowers claimed he was descending a flight of stairs in the building on Oct. 11, 1986, when he slipped in a pool of water and sustained unspecified "serious" bodily and mental injuries, according to court records.

Report: A man was reported attempting to steal parts from a motorcycle in the 400 block of South Johnson Street at about 1:15 a.m. Wednesday, according to police reports. After the complainant yelled at the subject, he fled the scene, according to police reports.

Report: About $250 damage was reported to the tailgate of a 1987 Ford Bronco at about 1 a.m. Wednesday, according to police reports.

The tailgate was apparently damaged by someone kicking it with a boot, according to the report.

Fourth of July weekend attracts candidates

By Shawn Plank
The Daily Iowan

Despite the opportunity to meet with thousands of Fourth of July parade-goers Saturday, only a few presidential candidates will take advantage of large holiday crowds to campaign in Iowa this weekend.

Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., who has one of the most ambitious campaign schedules of the candidates, will be in Iowa all day Saturday, participating in the River Bend Rally in Iowa Falls, Iowa, the town's annual Independence Day celebration.

AFTER PARTICIPATING in a parade there, Gephardt will travel to Cedar Rapids, where his press secretary Laura Nichols said he will gain some "key endorsements" from Iowa Democrats. Gephardt will also attend Celebration of Freedom festivities in Cedar Rapids to speak to a small group and watch fireworks with the 60,000 people expected to attend.

"The Fourth of July is important to Gephardt because he wanted to spend it here in Iowa," Nichols said. "And his family will be with him."

will also be spending the holiday in Iowa, according to a spokesperson from his Des Moines press office. Gore will begin the day at a city festival in Webster City, Iowa, will go from there to Iowa Falls and Ames in the afternoon and will spend the evening in Humboldt, Iowa, to participate in parades and celebrations.

Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., will spend the morning in Storm Lake, Iowa, to participate in a parade there, and Penny Brown, press secretary for Kemp, said it will be a chance for Kemp to be exposed to about 25,000 parade-goers.

"It's one of the biggest parades in the state," she said. Most candidates will take a break from their busy campaign schedules to spend time with their families during the holiday weekend.

Beverly Tauke, press secretary for Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kansas, said candidates appearing in Fourth of July parades make the candidate appear more colorful to parade-goers than seeing them on television.

"The biggest advantage is the exposure to a large constituency in a short time span," she said. "People aren't more persuaded on the Fourth of July, but it's an opportunity for exposure."

TAUKE'S HUSBAND, U.S. Rep. Tom Tauke, and their son, Joseph, will be in Iowa on the Fourth to campaign for Dole's GOP rival, Vice President George Bush.

George Wittgraf, Bush's state campaign chair, said campaign representatives will participate in 10 parades and celebrations around the state. And while the vice president won't be in the state, the Bush for President van will motor through parades.

Democratic hopeful Gov. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts will spend part of the important campaign day in New Hampshire.

Later in the day, he will celebrate the Fourth in Boston, his home town. Both Delaware presidential hopefuls, former Gov. Pierre du Pont, a Republican, and Democratic Sen. Joseph Biden, will be taking a break from campaigning to spend time with their families. Other candidates, including former Democratic Gov. Bruce Babbitt of Arizona and Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., will campaign in their home states.

Bar's plan faces stiff opposition

By Joseph Levy
The Daily Iowan

A beer garden will not be built in an alley behind The Sports Column bar if objecting neighbors of the downtown bar have their way.

Don Stalkfleet, owner of The Sports Column, 12 S. Dubuque St., asked the Iowa City Council Tuesday night to defer consideration of his application to a later date, after he and his attorney could confer with the upset neighbors.

But at least one neighbor, who wrote a letter to the council objecting to the construction of the facility, said Wednesday he would not change his mind.

The Rev. Robert Welsh, pastor of the First Christian Church, 217 Iowa Ave., said in his letter to the council the facility would only add to the clutter in the area around his church and would increase the likelihood of outdoor urination in the alley.

BUT STALKFLEET said the alley is already plagued by drug dealers, drunks and people sleeping there. He added his proposed facility would eliminate those problems.

"The beer garden is going to help the church," he said. "I'm going to make that a more secure place with supervision. The thing that makes me mad is there's so many misconceptions about what we're going to do."

Frank Fowler, Stalkfleet's attorney, said the beer garden would actually prevent the alley from being obstructed — an objection both the letter-writers and members of the council have expressed.

"We in no way intend to block off the entire alley," Fowler said.

Fowler also said lighting the alley would discourage scrupulous activities from going on there.

But council members said they didn't like the idea of having an outdoor service area in that neighborhood.

"The probability is extremely strong that we will vote it down," said Council Member George Strait. Council Members Larry Baker, Darrel Courtney, Kate Dickson and Mayor William Ambrisco also said they will vote against construction of the facility.

Talented mix will star at Blues Fest

By Alex Wilding-White
 The Daily Iowan

THE blues has been around for a long time and, with any luck, will be around for a good while longer. It is the single strongest influence on popular music, from early jazz and swing music to psychedelic rock and soul music, and is rightly regarded by millions around the world as one of the most authentically American forms of music.

It is appropriate, then, that a celebration of our country's birth should include a large festival devoted to the blues, a music that is such a strong part of its cultural heritage. And this is exactly what is going on this Friday and Saturday in Davenport's LeClaire Park as the Mississippi Valley Blues Society presents Blues Fest '87.

A two-day musical feast that will bring together an awesome array of blues talent, the bill will include established performers, some impressive new acts and talent from all parts of the country, including some eastern Iowa players. Most noteworthy of all, however, will be the reunion of one of the premier roadhouse blues bands, The Nighthawks, especially for this occasion.

Reunited especially for Blues Fest '87, The Nighthawks, a premier roadhouse blues band, will perform in Davenport this weekend.

and his group the Wolfgang and guitarist Fenton Robinson take the stage. Shuff, once a sideman for the legendary Howlin' Wolf, has written and/or arranged material for Muddy Waters and Willie Dixon, and his songs have been recorded by many other blues artists.

Robinson was once described by the Japanese press as "the mellow giant of the blues" and his jazz-inflected playing has been widely admired by musicians and fans alike. A well-rounded musician with a sweet guitar sound, Robinson has, after three decades of clubs and concerts, finally taken his place among the pantheon of blues greats.

Little Charlie and the Nightcats, a new band from out West, shows a crafty sense for blues and boogie. Their debut LP, All The Way Crazy, features understated arrangements and a shuffling harmonica sound most people probably thought died 20 years ago.

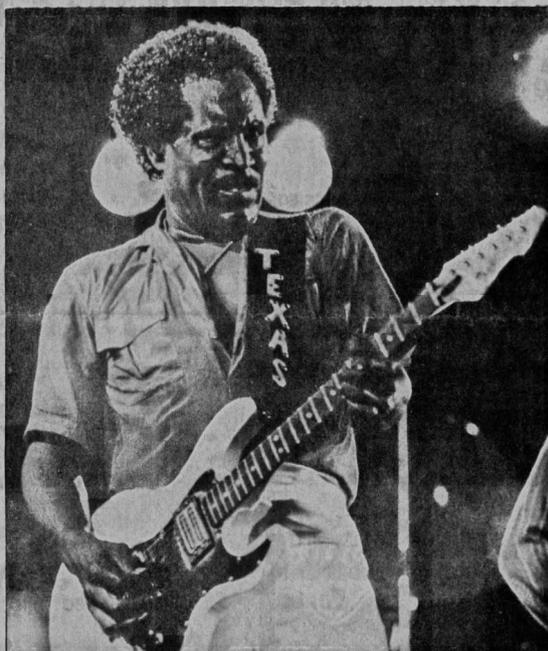

BEFORE THE fireworks display begins, veteran blues piano player Charles Brown will give the audience a taste of a more traditional blues style. Brown has worked with a variety of musicians in the past. Several blues players, including B.B. King, Fats Domino and Ray Charles have cited him as an influence on their music.

Capping the two-day feast will be the reunion of The Nighthawks, a Washington, D.C.-based band that originally broke up last year. One of the hardest-working outfits in the business, The Nighthawks played 300-plus gigs a year, in addition to making 11 albums and several television appearances during its career. The best word to describe this group is slick. It hits its changes and breaks right on head and can sustain a tight, fast pace over a wide-ranging set.

All throughout the festival a variety of performers will entertain in the Bluestent. Jim Schwall, once the co-leader of the renowned Chicago group The Siegel-Schwall Band, will host the proceedings both days as singers and players get into some more informal music-making. More than just a side show of the Bandsell, the Bluestent should see some great sets, presenting some top-notch talent present both days.

And if all that isn't enough, some of the acts will do some post-fest jamming in Quad Cities nightspots such as RIBCO and Lee's Place in Rock Island, Ill.; Cheers in Moline, Ill.; and the Quad City Queen Riverboat in Bettendorf, Iowa.

Admission to the festival is $2 with the Bandsell slates set to begin at noon each day. To get there, take I-80 east to either the Highway 130 or Highway 61 exits and go south. Both roads will lead straight to the festival site on the riverbank.

Johnny Copeland

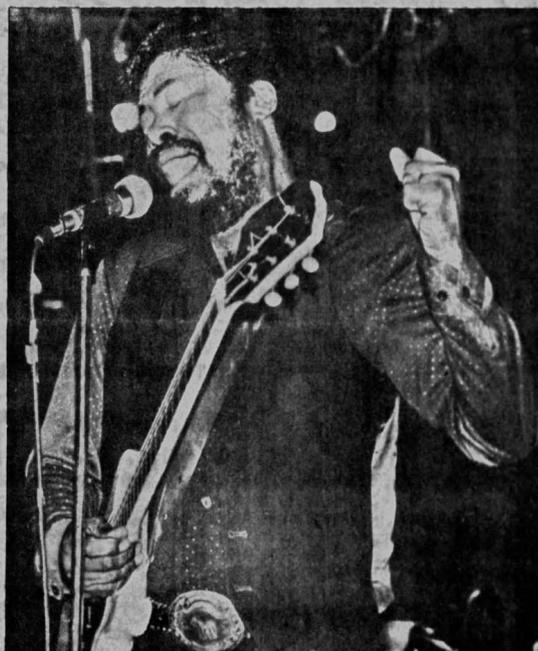

master guitar player and first-rate stage performer. He's written some great songs, too.

If there is a theme for the first day of the fest, it is the infectious sound of slide, or "bottleneck," guitar. Roy Rogers and Ron Thompson will keep that motif going with their distinctive guitar styles. Rogers' band backed up Texas boogie master John Lee Hooker for several years before hitting the road on its own.

TOPPING FRIDAY'S show will be one of Texas' finest, guitarist Johnny Copeland. His two most recent records, Texas

Thompson and his band The Resistors have been a consistently strong club act. With a new record due out soon and possessing what was once described as a "nuclear meltdown" performance style, Thompson will be looking to win over a few new converts.

THOMPSON FRIDAY'S show will be one of Texas' finest, guitarist Johnny Copeland. His two most recent records, Texas

Son Seals

Twister and the collaborative effort with Albert Collins and blues-pop sensation Robert Cray Showdown, have received extensive press coverage. These records have helped bring Copeland, an R&B star of the late 50s and 60s, back into the national spotlight. Along with Collins, Copeland has brought the new Texas sound to a larger audience, which has in turn given momentum to acts like The Fabulous Thunderbirds and Stevie Ray Vaughn.

Starting Saturday's program will be the Blue Collar Band, an outfit known for its arrangements of traditional rural blues songs. The Mudcats will follow with its inventive blend of standards and originals and the sharp harmonic work of Dennis Hancock.

TWO MORE Chicago acts will heat up the afternoon when saxophonist Eddie Shaw

Cook parodies 80s culture with sci-fi novel 'The Shift'

By Jan Peregrine
 The Daily Iowan

The Shift by Hugh Cook

THE second novel by Australian science fiction writer Hugh Cook, The Shift, is symptomatic of most sci-fi novels, but fantasy is never completely indulged in. The writer makes the reader aware that this is only fiction with his digs about the 80s culture and people. For example, he calls President Ronald Reagan an elegant, charismatic Ultimate Criminal whose room is as messy as the American Dollar. This realistic intrusion into a marvelous world of aliens in competition to control Earth and experiment with the human mind is annoying, but the book is still enjoyable.

The Shift is able to distort time and space — it rewrites history without Jesus or Christianity and turns everyone Jewish, Buddhist or Islamic — to transform objects and ultimately destroy the universe (as described in the book) and create a door into a virgin Eden. There is an intergalactic struggle for power before this machine can be deployed and women provide their nemesis.

WOMEN ARE SLAVES to men in the beginning and the end but rebel hysterically in-between. The Big Man's mistress becomes a theater actress and then a saint with a following so huge that it kills to avenge her kidnapping. The Big Man's daughter, in pursuit of the question of whether female orgasm is clitoral or vaginal, disobeys Dad, has sex and flies over the sea with her lover in a bed.

Her lover tries to sell her, then marry her, but both ploys fail and he barely escapes with his life. When he tries to rape her, her blood goes cold at the sight of a shark at the window, his penis freezes and drops off, the shark attacks and when the police arrive, she is charged with murder. Dad gets custody, only to be set up and thrown into a psychiatric jail. He, like the other one-sided bad guys, gets his just desserts when he is killed before he can jump through the door to Eden.

COOK'S WRITING style is sometimes similar to a soap opera summary. One short chapter updates the reader on the situation, moving the story ahead without explanation of crazy career changes made by the characters, such as the Big Man becoming a business English teacher while on the run from aliens. Though a bit complicated in the beginning, with strange names and places and made-up verbs and adjectives to create the color of a futuristic society, the book is fun to read. Fast-changing scenes give the reader a feeling that everything is happening at once, so boredom is never a problem.

All in all, The Shift is a provocative study of human greed, fear, corruption and primal tendencies.

UI Theatres presents a night of levity with 'Oh Coward'

By Hoyt Olsen
 Daily Iowan

I WAS born into a world that took light music seriously," Noel Coward once explained. That attitude shaped Coward's own approach to songwriting. And served him well, as University Theatres warm-hearted salute to Coward's music demonstrates.

Oh Coward, a musical comedy revue, is served up cabaret style. Early arrivals may sit at tables in front of the stage; for others, there is comfortable bleacher seating. A selection of beverages and pastries is available in the theatre, although service is interrupted during the performance. But it's the entertainment, not the routine refreshments, that proves to be the real treat of the evening.

Coward never received a formal musical education and could not read music. This inexperience probably worked to his advantage. His melodies are simple, uncluttered and inviting, the sort of thing that one might hum absent-mindedly for a minute or two before becoming consciously aware of the pleasure of doing so.

COWARD'S LYRICS are best when whimsical or gently satiric, which they generally are in this show, although there are moments of affecting poignancy as well. Oh Coward couples songs with short humorous skits and a scattering of Coward's pithy remarks about his life and times ("I ride the golden road to Samarkand. But it's summer, and it stinks").

The show's performers deliver their material with suitable élan. Musicians Maria Klott (piano), Patricia Schroder (bass) and Rick Chambers (percussion) wear black and perform with inobtrusive competence while the three-person company of Steve Ascioffa, David Blakely and Lisa M. LoCurto sing, dance and cavort on center stage. The trio is well matched. All have appealing voices, and their joint chemistry strikes just the right note.

ASCIOFFA IS tall, dark and handsome, a less craggy version of Clark Gable; his looks and voice could potentially doom him to a career of serenading beauty contestants. Blakely is short and fair and his expression and delivery are marked by a dour archness that is unmistakably comic. LoCurto is winsome and vivacious; her obvious enjoyment is all the more infectious when contrasted against Ascioffa's gentlemanly reserve and Blakely's aura of ironic detachment.

Those who can keep a straight face while three people in formal attire croon, "That sheep's behavior is just obscene/Maybe it's something to do with spring" might find Oh Coward a bit odd. But those ready to embrace an evening of levity should be engaged by Coward's gift for the unexpected turn of phrase, the brilliant non sequitur and the tasteful leer. All together now, "Mad dogs and Englishmen" out in the midday sun. ...

Korea begins drafting constitution

SEOUL, South Korea — Lawmakers of the ruling and opposition parties began the task of drafting a new constitution for South Korea Wednesday, after President Chun Doo Hwan, in a speech to the nation Wednesday morning, gave the go-ahead for the change.

Spokesmen for the two parties said each side would come up with a separate draft. Negotiations will follow toward producing a single document, which will then be submitted to the National Assembly.

"The most difficult points have now been agreed to," said Hyun Hong Choo of the ruling Democratic Justice Party, referring to Chun's acceptance to the opposition's demand for direct presidential elections. "The minor parts can be worked out soon."

Soviets, U.S. close to missile treaty

WASHINGTON — U.S. and Soviet arms negotiators have discussed a potential compromise on a treaty eliminating medium-range and short-range nuclear missiles, but agreement has been held up by Soviet reluctance to embrace the idea, senior U.S. officials said Wednesday.

"We have no real indications of any breakthroughs or deals or tradeoffs," chief U.S. negotiator Max M. Kampelman said in an interview, "although we remain very hopeful that such an agreement is possible."

State Department spokesman Charles E. Redman told reporters that, contrary to published reports Wednesday of an agreement in principle on a nuclear arms treaty, "we haven't reached an agreement — either formal, informal, in principle, handshake or otherwise."

Glass called 'spy' by abductors

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A previously unknown group Wednesday claimed responsibility for kidnaping American journalist Charles Glass and said it is holding him for interrogation as a "spy."

In a statement delivered to the Sunni Moslem Voice of the Nation, a group calling itself the Organization for Defending the Liberal People said, "He (Glass) is a spy and will remain in our hands until the interrogation is over."

It was the first claim of responsibility since Glass was kidnaped June 17. The group did not produce a photograph of Glass to validate its claim. Other Moslem extremist groups claiming responsibility for holding some of the 24 kidnaped foreign nationals in Lebanon routinely produce photographs of their victims.

Plane crash kills 5, spectators watch

FORT BRAGG, N.C. — A huge Air Force cargo plane skimming the ground in a daring demonstration crashed and burst into flames Wednesday, killing five men and narrowly missing 5,000 horrified civilian spectators.

The plane careened at 120 mph within 50 yards of the grandstand, crushed several jeeps, split apart and slammed into a stand of pine trees, and erupted into a ball of fire.

One of the dead was a soldier who was watching the exercise on the ground, said Capt. Brian Irving at Pope Air Force Base. Three of the six crewmen of the Hercules died in the crash. The other three were rushed by helicopter to hospitals, where another died.

Bakker asks for bankruptcy examiner

COLUMBIA, S.C. — An attorney for fallen PTL founders Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker asked a federal bankruptcy court to appoint an examiner to look after the interests of 120,000 "life partners" in the ministry, court papers showed Wednesday.

The motion was filed amid reports that a special federal grand jury was being convened in Columbia to investigate possible criminal violations by Bakker.

"With the media attention generated by this case and the obvious public concerns, it is in the interests of creditors, the court, the public and the judicial system that there be a perception of impartial scrutiny of the matters of this case," Rock Hill attorney W. Ryan Hovis said.

U.S. closes embassy in Panama

WASHINGTON — The United States protested Wednesday "in the strongest terms" the Panamanian government's involvement in demonstrations at the U.S. Embassy in Panama City and announced it is closing the consular section and USIS library there.

The U.S. protest was a response to demonstrations Tuesday involving an estimated 5,000 people, including high-ranking government officials and leaders of the ruling Democratic Revolutionary Party.

Charles Redman, spokesman at the State Department, said, "The United States is protesting in the strongest terms to the government of Panama its unmistakable involvement in demonstrations which resulted in significant damage to U.S. diplomatic property and which put U.S. diplomatic personnel at risk."

Toshiba executives resign over exports

TOKYO — Two chief executives of Toshiba Corp. resigned Wednesday — a day after the U.S. Senate voted sanctions against the company — saying they felt a "big responsibility" for a subsidiary's illegal exports of technology to the Soviet Union.

The resignation of Toshiba Chairman Shoichi Saba and President Sugichiro Watari came after the Senate voted Tuesday to amend trade legislation to ban sales of the electronic giant's products in the United States for at least two years.

U.S. officials have said the sales of restricted milling machines and associated computer programs allowed the Soviets to produce quieter submarine propellers, making them more difficult to track by sonar.

Deaver denied request to delay trial

WASHINGTON — Chief Justice William Rehnquist Wednesday denied a request by former White House aide Michael Deaver to halt his perjury trial, scheduled to begin in two weeks, until it is decided whether the special prosecutor handling his case is constitutional.

Rehnquist, in a two-page order, said, "There will be time enough for applicant to present his constitutional claim to the appellate courts if and when he is convicted of the charges against him."

Flyboy completes cross-country flight

WASHINGTON — Eleven-year-old pilot John Kevin Hill of Arlington, Texas, landed safely at National Airport shortly before 3 p.m. Wednesday, completing the last leg of a cross-country flight that lands him in U.S. aviation history as the youngest American to fly coast to coast.

The young pilot, who sits on three cushions atop his cockpit seat so he can peer out the windshield, hopes the flight will help him in his goal to become an astronaut.

nomination to ensure a full complement of nine justices on the court when it begins its next term in October.

Reagan escorted Bork to the White House press briefing room at mid-afternoon to announce his decision. "He'll bring credit to the court and his colleagues, as well as to his country and the Constitution," the president said of his nominee.

Bork, a large, bearded man in a blue blazer and rumpled gray trousers, stood just off to the side, a slight smile crossing his face. In a matter of minutes, Reagan read the 13 sentences in his statement and departed, refusing to answer questions. Bork left with the president, never saying a word.

As an appellate court judge in the last five years and as a professor at the Yale University law school before that, Bork has been a powerful and influential figure among students of the Constitution, advocating a limited role for the court in shaping the laws of the land.

IT WAS THIS approach that Reagan singled out, saying that Bork, "widely regarded as the most prominent and intellectually powerful advocate of judicial restraint, shares my view that judges' personal preferences and values should not be part of their constitutional interpretations."

Indeed, in five years on the federal bench, Bork has turned out to be a jurist who follows the law and legal precedent, not his personal preferences, in reaching his opinions.

Among his decisions:

- He ruled against conservative students seeking to picket the Nicaraguan Embassy and in favor of an artist who sought to place a poster mocking Reagan in the Washington subway system.

- He dismissed the pleas of a homosexual sailor who said the Constitution's right of privacy should extend to gay activity. Judges, Bork said, "have no warrant to create" such rights.

Bush

he said, adding Bush will travel to Iowa at least once a month before the February 1988 caucuses.

BUSH, ALONG with his wife, Barbara, spoke to a crowd of about 125 at an "Ask George Bush" forum. Bush broke away from his tight security for about an hour, speaking to the audience of mostly older men and women in a theater-in-the-round, informal style.

Bush supported President Ronald Reagan's stands on most issues and said he was the best candidate because he could continue what Reagan has begun.

"I'm better equipped than anyone out there," Bush told the crowd. "It sounds funny for me to say."

Before being picked to be Reagan's running mate in 1980, Bush served in the U.S. House of Representatives and as an ambassador to China. He was also CIA director in 1976 and 1977. Bush also served as a Navy pilot during World War II and was shot down on a mission.

"YOU DON'T have to be shot down," Bush said of presidential credentials, "but it helps."

Bush also threw jabs at the press, which he said has been questioning him because of his dogged loyalty to the president.

"They say, 'You don't have a mind of your own.' In our family, loyalty was not a character flaw, it's a strength," Bush said.

George Bush

Bush also spoke favorably of other Reagan policies, including farm and Central American policy.

"It's getting better," Bush said. Economists and business people Bush has spoken with say the farm crisis is dissipating.

Bush also followed Reagan lines, supporting the Contras in their effort to overthrow the Sandinista government of Nicaragua, which he called "Marxist-Leninist." The government, led by Daniel Ortega, has received $1 billion in aid from the Soviet Union, Bush said.

"We must keep the pressure on," he said. "We must give freedom fighters a chance. If we aren't willing to stand up for democracy, who is?"

Wimbledon Almanac

Today is July 2, and just as they have done 72 times, Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert will play each other, this time with a final berth at stake.

Quote of the Day
 "Ever since I've been 30 I've been thinking this could be my last Wimbledon. I still think it could be. I hope it isn't, but if it is, I've had a good run. I've had a good record here."—Chris Evert after reaching the semifinals for the 15th time.

Many Happy Returns
 Eduardo Bengoechea (1959), Michael Robertson (1963).

Not to Worry
 Despite losing his bid for a third successive Wimbledon title, Boris Becker won't go hungry. His earnings for this year are estimated at $10 million.

History Lesson
 In a first-round match in 1969, Pancho Gonzalez and Charlie Pasarell played a Wimbledon-record 112 games, including an opening set of 24-22, with Gonzalez coming back from a two-set deficit to win.

Streaks
 Martina Navratilova has won 39 consecutive singles matches at Wimbledon since a semifinal loss to Hana Mandlikova in 1981, and Steffi Graf has a string of 44 victories in a row since November. Helena Sukova had her winning streak snapped at 10 matches.

Statistic of the Day
 Although Gabriela Sabatini has won a set from Steffi Graf in seven of their eight career meetings, she has yet to beat her doubles partner.

Fast Fact
 Pat Cash is bidding to become the first Australian men's champion at Wimbledon since John Newcombe in 1971.

Baseball Almanac

Quick Quiz
 Name the three active players — not counting Pete Rose — who have collected 200 hits in a season at least four times in their career. (answer below.)

In Tune in June
 In six June starts, Orel Hershiser of the Dodgers was 5-1 with a 0.90 ERA.
 — Boston's Wade Boggs batted .485 for the month of June (49-101) to raise his season average to .391. He hit safely in 25 of 26 games, had a slugging percentage of .762 and drew 21 walks.

June Swoman
 The Orioles finished 5-23 in June. The pitching staff, since May 29, has given up seven or more runs in 18 of 31 games.

The Streak Goes On
 Steve Bedrosian extended his own major-league record with his 13th save in his last 13 appearances to help the Phillies to a 6-4 decision over the Pirates. Bedrosian induced a double play against the lone batter he faced, Sid Drell, to record his 20th save, tying Lee Smith of the Cubs for the major-league lead.

Oh, those bases on balls...
 A walk is considered by many to be more damaging than a hit because it cannot be defended. Statistically, managers have good reason for having fits when his pitchers walk too many batters. Teams walking 4 or more batters in a game have a winning percentage of .402, while teams allowing less than 4 walks have a winning percentage of .577.
 Through Sunday, teams allowing 5 or more walks in a game are 193-330, a winning percentage of .368.
 Teams allowing 4 walks in a game are 145-173, a winning percentage of .458.
 Teams allowing 3 walks in a game are 194-181, a winning percentage of .517.
 Teams allowing 2 walks in a game are 198-146, a winning percentage of .573.
 Teams allowing less than 2 walks in a game are 226-124, a winning percentage of .646.

Stat of the Day
 Milwaukee's Mark Clear made his first major-league start after 425 relief appearances and lost an 8-5 decision to Detroit.

Death by DP
 Hitting into a double play is one of the surest ways a team can reduce its chances of scoring. In fact, only teams completely avoiding the double play in a game have a winning percentage this season. However, the last five teams to hit into three double plays in a game have all won.
 Through Sunday, teams hitting into no double plays are 421-354, a winning percentage of .545.
 Teams hitting into 1 double play are 317-372, a winning percentage of .460.
 Teams hitting into 2 double plays are 164-166, a winning percentage of .497.
 Teams hitting into 3 double plays are 39-47, a winning percentage of .453.
 Teams hitting into 4 or more double plays are 13-15, a winning percentage of .464.

Gilmore wants an NBA title in a Chicago Bulls uniform

CHICAGO (UPI) — Veteran center Artis Gilmore, who plans to end his quest to play on a NBA championship team in Chicago, may play two or three more seasons.

Gilmore, re-acquired from San Antonio on June 22, told a news conference Wednesday he would consider playing two or three more years to finish up his career with the Bulls.

"I am considering it, although you have to be realistic," said the 37-year-old, 7-foot-2 center. "I am excited about coming back to Chicago."

Gilmore became disenchanted with the Spurs last season although he denied he demanded to be traded.

"The situation had deteriorated in San Antonio," said

Gilmore, who was acquired for a second-round draft choice next year. "I wanted to finish up my career in Chicago and get a chance to play with Michael Jordan."

CHICAGO ALSO revealed Tuesday another high-priced veteran, forward Gene Banks, will miss the entire 1987-88 season after suffering a ruptured Achilles tendon.

"I know what it's like to be 28 and have a serious, career-threatening injury," Bulls Coach Doug Collins said of Banks.

Unlike Gilmore's first tour with the Bulls between 1976 and 1982, the veteran won't be asked to carry a heavy scoring burden. Collins has said he wants Gilmore to play 24 minutes per game and share duties with another veteran, Dave Corzine.

"I think I'll have a race between the two and the one that is the fastest will be my starter," Collins smiled. "Actually, I had been trying to get Artis here all of last year. With his stats, he would have been our second-leading scorer and rebounder last year."

Last season, Gilmore's 16th in the pros, he averaged 11.4 points and 7 rebounds per game. In his career, Gilmore has scored more than 15,300 points and grabbed nearly 900 rebounds since breaking in with the Kentucky Colonels of the American Basketball Association in 1971-72.

District court judge separates Hagler from home and family

HINGHAM, Mass. (UPI) — A district court judge Wednesday continued a restraining order against Marvellous Marvin Hagler, requiring the former middleweight boxing champ to stay away from his family and his suburban home.

Hagler and his wife, Bertha, agreed to continue discussions aimed at ironing out the future of their rocky marriage. Bertha Hagler's attorney said he did not think divorce was likely.

Bertha Hagler sought the restraining order, claiming her husband threw her out of their Hanover, Mass., home and heaved a boulder at a family car parked in the driveway.

She filed a non-criminal petition Friday in Hingham District Court, seeking protection from her husband and custody of the couple's five children. In court papers, Bertha Hagler said she feared physical harm from her husband.

"MARVIN THREW ME out of the house. He pushed me. He hit the car with a boulder. I am in fear of him," she wrote in the family abuse petition.

At Wednesday's hearing, attorneys for both parties agreed to work on a written agreement that would lift the temporary restraining and custody orders imposed June 26.

The civil case was continued to July 8 when lawyers were expected to submit to Judge Alvin Tamkin an agreement designed to cover a variety of issues.

Wayne Budd, Bertha Hagler's lawyer, said he did not think divorce was likely at this point. "I am not sure that is what she had in mind at all," Budd said.

In court Wednesday, the couple sat at opposite ends of the court, not looking at each other. Hagler, in a suit with an open collar and wearing sunglasses, did not speak to reporters. Bertha Hagler referred all comment to her lawyer.

Hagler's lawyer, Morris Goldings, also declined comment Wednesday, had said Tuesday the issue was a "domestic relations matter and it's a matter of privacy in the family."

BERTHA HAGLER has consulted with famed divorce attorney Marvin Mitchelson about the situation, a spokesman for the lawyer said from New York. Mitchelson plans to meet with her in Boston at the end of the week, the spokesman said.

Hagler's boxing handlers say he has been bitter since losing the middleweight championship on April 6 to Sugar Ray Leonard. Hagler has lived in seclusion since the Las Vegas fight.

Hagler held the title nearly seven years before dropping to Leonard in the richest boxing match ever.

Groups hail NCAA's decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Women's groups Wednesday hailed the NCAA's decision not to cut scholarships in 21 men's and women's sports — a reduction some argued would discriminate against women — as a victory.

"It's a great day for us. We're thrilled," said Women's Sports Foundation Executive Director Deborah Anderson. "It gives us hope for women's sports and college sports in general."

Delegates to the NCAA's special convention in Dallas Tuesday tabled a proposal from the powerful NCAA Presidents Commission that would have cut 27 scholarships in 21 men's and women's Division I sports, but would spare all 95 scholarships for football.

WOMEN'S GROUPS SAID the cuts contained in the so-called Proposition 18 would have disproportionately impacted women's sports. A study conducted by University of Texas Women's Athletic Director Donna Lopiano found Proposition 18 would have caused a 10.4 percent reduction in women's sports and a 6.5 percent reduction in men's sports.

"This is a victory," Anderson added. "I think the NCAA will have to do more independent planning and not look at cutting scholarships. They'll have to look at the big picture."

Ellen Vargyas, a lawyer with the National Women's Law Center, said "you always anticipate the worst" considering men already receive approximately two-thirds of all athletic scholarships.

"Our reaction is that we are certainly pleased that the NCAA declined to cut disproportionately women's scholarships. But we think much still has to be done. Women should have access to 50 percent of the athletic scholarships offered. Currently, women have access to far fewer scholarships than men," Vargyas said.

THE PRESERVATION OF the scholarships may not have been as surprising as the failure of the three-year-old Presidents Commission to assert its power.

But Lopiano, who spoke at the convention, said Proposition 18's overshadowed the Presidents Commission's cost-containment plan.

"It was just bad legislation,"

Lopiano said. "We all want to cut costs, but scholarships are the life of a program. I don't think it would have passed even if football had been reduced. It just wasn't fair."

Paul Olum, the president of the University of Oregon, added: "Women's sports have made a lot of progress and they shouldn't be the only ones hit by cost-containment. They need the same opportunity as men."

NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers insisted that Proposition 18 was not discriminatory.

"The perception was there by that segment of the intercollegiate family — women and blacks — that it was biased against them. I did not see that at all. It was an attempt to save money for programs in trouble, and I think the sponsors were taken aback by that," Byers said.

Chicago gets Hoyt, will play at Daytona

CHICAGO (UPI) — Former Cy Young Award winner LaMarr Hoyt has agreed in principal to a minor-league contract with the Chicago White Sox, General Manager Larry Himes announced Wednesday.

Hoyt is to fly to Chicago this weekend to meet with White Sox officials to formalize and sign the contract. He will be assigned to Chicago's Class A affiliate at Daytona Beach, Fla., where Himes said he expected the right-hander would remain for the rest of the season.

"It was a no risk proposition for us," Himes said. "He won't be coming up to the big leagues this year. Hopefully, he's cleaned up his act and will accept the challenge of getting back with the club."

Hoyt, 32, was 8-11 with San Diego last year. Hoyt spent time in prison and was once banned from baseball for a year because of repeated arrests on charges of buying illegal drugs.

A baseball arbitrator ruled last month Hoyt must be paid the final $2.8 million owned by the Padres and would be free to join another team. The arbitrator criticized the management of the Padres, which acquired Hoyt Dec. 6.

"We are satisfied that LaMarr's character is as good as it was when he was here," White Sox board chairman Jerry Reinsdorf said.

Toronto, Atlanta and Baltimore talked to Hoyt since the arbitrator's ruling but Himes said the "atmosphere was the best" with the White Sox.

"We looked at our pitching at spring training and thought it would be good enough," Himes said. "Obviously, we feel that LaMarr can work himself back into a position where he can help us over the long term. He may have to work his way up to AA ball before he even comes back here. I saw him throw last September and frankly, he didn't throw very well."

Hoyt had his best season in 1983 when he won 24 games and was named winner of the Cy Young Award.

The Sox are in need of both pitching and hitting. Entering Wednesday's game with Oakland, the club was 27-46, last in the American League East.

Iowa's Rath grabs all-America honors

The Daily Iowan

Two people associated with different aspects of Iowa sports were commended Wednesday for jobs well done.

Allen Rath, a pitcher on Iowa's baseball team, has been named to the 1987 second team freshman all-America unit by Baseball America.

Rath, a righthander from Riverside, Iowa, posted a 5-6 record with a team-best 3.2 ERA and struck out 76 batters in 81.1 innings to rank among the national leaders. Rath was one of six rookie pitchers selected to the 16-man second team.

Former Iowa third baseman John Knapp, a first team selection in '84, was the last Hawkeye to earn freshman all-America honors.

RICHARD KLATT, 28, has been named director of promotions for the Iowa athletic department.

Klatt will be responsible for

the promotion of the University's 20 intercollegiate programs. He will coordinate department outreach and public relations campaign, and he will edit Iowa's monthly alumni newsletter, "Hawk Talk," as well as recruiting publications for football and basketball.

Klatt had been director of Iowa's women's sports information since August 1985.

USC still uncertain of Emanuel's future

By Mal Florence The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — Aaron Emanuel's attorney would not speculate Tuesday whether his client intended to transfer from the University of Southern California to another school. However, he had some questions about how USC would treat the running back once his suspension has ended.

Emanuel, who has pleaded innocent on two misdemeanor battery counts, has been suspended from school for a year. Emanuel is accused of punching Sharon Hatfield and knocking her unconscious at an off-campus party May 3. He is also accused of pushing a beer bottle into the face of another USC student, Tammy Baird, in a separate incident Dec. 18.

On the recommendation of a three-person administrative review panel, Emanuel was ordered by the USC Office of Student Affairs to complete 100 hours of community service and to undergo psychiatric treatment once a month while serving his suspension.

IT HAS BEEN learned, however, that the suspension may be rescinded for the spring semester. However, Emanuel would still not be able to play for USC next season.

Lawrence Elkins, who represents Emanuel, has said that he regards the findings of the review board "curiously shallow."

"Very frankly, I would question USC's sincerity in dealing with Emanuel after the circumstances in which he was suspended," Elkins said. "If I were his adviser on his academic-athletic career, I would have some questions as to how he would be treated at USC. But that isn't my role in this matter."

Still, the question remains whether Emanuel should transfer after the court case.

"If, in fact, he hasn't been contacted by other schools — and I don't know whether he has — perhaps they're awaiting the outcome of the proceedings here," Elkins said.

ELKINS IS TRYING to separate the two cases. He was in Pasadena Municipal Court Tuesday and said that a motion in that regard would be filed next Tuesday.

He added that that motion would be argued July 16 with July 22 as a tentative date for a trial.

"Standing alone neither court holds any water whatsoever," Elkins said. "By tying the two cases together that in effect gives the prosecution an additional chip that says we have a track record of alleged violent behavior."

"Therefore, it increases the chances of conviction because of his guilt by association, one case with the other. I think that is terribly prejudicial."

Elkins has maintained that Emanuel was physically provoked by Hatfield, claiming that Hatfield struck his client and threw beer in his face.

Hatfield, in her complaint, said that she threw beer on Emanuel after he persisted in pinching her on the buttocks. Sources close to Hatfield say that she denies striking Emanuel.

As for the alleged pinch, Elkins said, "Aaron touched her on the upper thigh. It was not a pinch, a grasping of the flesh."

Barr's injured back gives Canada hope

TORONTO (UPI) — Dave Barr's injured back should give superstitious Canadian golf fans their best sign in 33 years.

Last year, Bob Murphy, suffering from a strained and aching back, crawled out of his sick bed to capture the Open, ending an 11-year span without a tournament victory.

Barr, Canada's best hope in this year's $850,000 tournament beginning Thursday, is suffering from an injured back. He has not decided if he will try to become the first native to win the Open since Pat Fletcher captured the title in 1954.

Barr, who recently won the Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Classic by one stroke over Masters Champion Larry Mize, injured his back at the U.S. Open and has been relatively inactive since.

"IT'S DAY-TO-DAY," explained Barr just prior to testing his back in Wednesday's Pro-Am. "Today will be a good test as far as my back is concerned.

"I don't want to play unless I'm at least 90 percent and right now I only feel about 75."

"I don't want to prolong this thing. If you keep playing hurt you get into bad swing habits and then they take a month to correct. Right now I can't even bend down."

Barr might derive some inspiration from the 44-year-old Murphy, who last year had to quit Tuesday's practice before Thursday's opening round.

"It's amazing how good a can make you feel," Murphy said. "I can only remember now how bad I was feeling before that. I only got to practice about half an hour before the tournament started. I didn't have much hope."

While Barr, a big draw for local fans, remained questionable, tournament organizers were pleased to learn that leading money-winner Paul Azinger, who won the Greater Hartford Open last week, and Mac O'Grady had decided to join the field.

Nijdam takes lead in Tour de France

WEST BERLIN (UPI) — Dutchman Jelle Nijdam Wednesday became the first leader of the 74th Tour de France cycle race by winning the 6.1 kilometer prolog by nearly three seconds over Poland's Lech Piasecki.

The 26-day Tour, the most prestigious cycle race of the season, began outside France for the ninth time since its inception in 1903. The prolog was held on a main boulevard in West Berlin as part of the city's 750th anniversary celebrations.

Fighting strong winds and a route longer than normal for a prolog, Nijdam finished in seven minutes, 6.7 seconds to take the overall leader's yellow jersey.

The Superconflex team rider posted his fourth victory of the year in a prolog after winning the opening time trials at the Dunkirk Four Days race, the Tour de l'Oise and the Tour of Sweden.

Piasecki, of the DTO team, was second in 7:09.0 while one of the race favorites, Tour of Italy winner Stephen Roche of Ireland, was third in 7:13.2, one-tenth of a second better than his Italian Carrera teammate Guido Bontempi.

THE 207 RIDERS from 23 teams are to run a 105.5-kilometer second stage and the 40.5-kilometer team time trial Thursday at West Berlin. They have a day off Friday to travel to Karlsruhe, West Germany for the 219-kilometer third stage Saturday to Stuttgart. The race reaches France at the end of Sunday's fourth and fifth stages.

Among the favorites in what is widely considered a wide-open race this year, Ireland's Sean Kelly was well back at 7:35.5, Tour of Spain winner Luis Herrera of Colombia came in at 7:37.4, American favorite Andy Hampsten finished in 7:26.5, Frenchman Laurent Fignon was at 7:36.6 and Canadian Steve Bauer at 7:22.6.

Frenchman Jean-Francois Bernard, leader of the Toshiba (La Vie Claire) team, was seventh at 7:15.6.

Wimbledon 'promising' S. Angry for Connors

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Jimmy Connors, promising "I can't stop now," reached the semifinals of Wimbledon for the 11th time Wednesday with a straight sets victory over Slobodan Zivojinovic.

Connors, continuing to overshadow Martina Navratilova's quest to set history, didn't lose his service once in beating Zivojinovic, 7-6 (7-5), 7-5, 6-3, despite 25 aces by the 6-foot, 6-inch Yugoslav.

The 34-year-old left-hander, who suffered muscle cramps in his right leg during a five-set comeback over Mikael Pernfors the previous day, said he was more tired mentally than physically after playing for the third time in as many days.

Following a day off, Connors will meet Australian Pat Cash, a straight sets winner over third seed Mats Wilander, in the semifinals Friday with second seed Ivan Lendl facing No. 4 Stefan Edberg in the other semifinal.

ment, overcame doubles partner Gabriela Sabatini, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1, while Shriver survived her third match point in two days to edge past Helena Sukova, 4-6, 7-6 (7-1), 10-8.

Lendl, playing what he called the best match he's ever had at Wimbledon, defeated ninth seed Henri Leconte, 7-6 (7-5), 6-3, 7-6 (8-6); Edberg took advantage of 15 double faults by Anders Jarryd to defeat his Swedish compatriot, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3, and Cash was a 6-3, 7-5, 6-4 winner over Wilander.

Not until the fifth game of the second set did Zivojinovic reach break point against Connors, and he was unable to take advantage. Connors finally gained the first service break of the match in the 12th game, converting his third set point with a forehand cross-court service return.

NAV RATILOVA, meantime, moved within two victories of equalling the Wimbledon record of eight singles titles by crushing fellow left-hander Dianne Balestrat, 6-2, 6-1. It marked her 39th triumph in a row at Wimbledon since 1981.

To have a chance at the record, Navratilova first must get by her greatest rival, Chris Evert, in the semifinals Thursday. Evert, after a shaky performance the day before and with thoughts this could be her last Wimbledon, showed her best form of the tournament Wednesday to beat eighth seed Claudia Kohde-Kilsch, 6-1, 6-3.

Following a string of 29 consecutive meetings in tournament finals dating to 1981, Navratilova and Evert will be facing each other in a semifinal for the second time in a month. Navratilova, who won their last duel in the French Open, leads their series 38-34.

THE OTHER SEMIFINAL today brings together second seed Steffi Graf and No. 5 Pam Shriver. Graf, although dropping her first set of the tournament, SEED seventh, then got the decisive break in the eighth game of the third set with a forehand pass down the line. Zivojinovic saved three match points in the ninth game before netting a backhand to end his hopes.

Although Zivojinovic was unseeded, he is ranked 21st in the world and took Lendl to five sets in the 1986 semifinals.

"I always said Jimmy Connors is the best and greatest player," Zivojinovic said. "I'm disappointed I lost, but coming to him it isn't so bad."

Lendl also held his service throughout against Leconte, the Frenchman who eliminated him from Wimbledon two years ago, and had only two break points against him. The second seed conceded a mere three points off his serve in the second set.

Michigan thrashes Iowa club

It's likely there are a number of college coaches around the country who would trade their team wholeheartedly for Michigan's entry at the Amateur Athletic Union 19 and Under National Basketball Championships.

Michigan, which has 10 players on its roster who will play for Division I teams, blasted the host team, Señor Pablos, 132-80 at Carver-Hawkeye Arena in a game which featuring more than 30 dunks for the two team combined.

"We looked at it like we're playing a Division I team," said Señor Pablos Coach Kevin Seering. His Iowa team has three Division I recruits on its roster, including two Iowa recruits — Rodell Davis and Brig Tubbs.

TEMPLE-BOUND MARK

Macon and Anderson Hunt of Nevada Las-Vegas each had 27 points. Doug Smith added 26 points for the winners.

Davis led the hapless Señor Pablos team with 24 points.

Michigan Coach Quinton Watkins said his team will not look past anyone en route to defending its national championship, but a more structured game will have to be played to take home the title.

"When we get in front like that early, it's kind of like harnessed enthusiasm," Watkins said.

Señor Pablos have now played both the Metropolitan Gauchos and Michigan, two teams picked by many AAU onlookers as the favorites to be in the finals.

SEERING SAID HE thinks Michigan would win a clash between the two clubs if the duo meets. He said Michigan has strength and a little bit of height advantage, but the Gauchos have a slight advantage with their quickness.

Two other Iowa teams also met each other in the first round of the final 16 in what was a rematch of the Iowa AAU finals between the champion Esterville Northstars and runner-up Iowa Sports Supply.

Wade Lookingbill, a senior-to-be at Fort Dodge High School, poured in 23 points and pulled down 11 rebounds as history repeated for the two teams as the Northstars won in a 103-80 romp. Troy Skinner added 22 points and Drakebound Curtis Stuckey scored 20.

Six-foot-two Kirk Ridout led the scoring for Sports Supply with an 18-point effort.

IN OTHER AAU action, North Carolina's Brian Combs tossed in 27 points in a 99-94 triumph over Pacific Northwest.

Georgia advanced in the winner's bracket, topping Central of Illinois 94-87 at Carver-Hawkeye Arena behind Chris Spann's 28 points. Georgia used six players in the game. Herbert Jones added 26 and grabbed 16 rebounds for the winners.

Inland Empire's Duke Wallenborn scored 29 points as it slipped past Indiana 92-90.

Jimmy Apple led Indiana with 34 points. John Karaffa added 18.

Metropolitan and Ozark both advanced with forfeits by New England and Arkansas, respectively. Both New England and Arkansas opted to leave the tournament, leaving the field with 14 teams.

Play in the double-elimination tournament continues through Saturday at the Arena where a champion will be crowned.
