North testimony cites top officials

Ex-CIA chief implicated in proceedings

By Bob Woodward
Washington Post

WASHINGTON—The guiding hand behind secret Iran-Contra operations, Oliver North testified Wednesday, belonged to the late CIA Director William Casey. By North's account, Casey was effectively his personal case officer from 1984, when the secret Contra-supply operation was "almost drawn up" by Casey, until early November 1986, when Casey suggested that it was time to "get rid of things... clean things up."

North said Casey was fully informed about, supported and was "effusive" in praising the plan to divert funds from the Iran arms sales to the Nicaraguan rebels. Casey called the diversion scheme "the ultimate irony, the ultimate covert operation," North said, because it diverted money from Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to the benefit of the Contras. North said he informed Casey of the diversion in February 1986 before the first of three diversions of

Marine admits no regret for lying to Congress

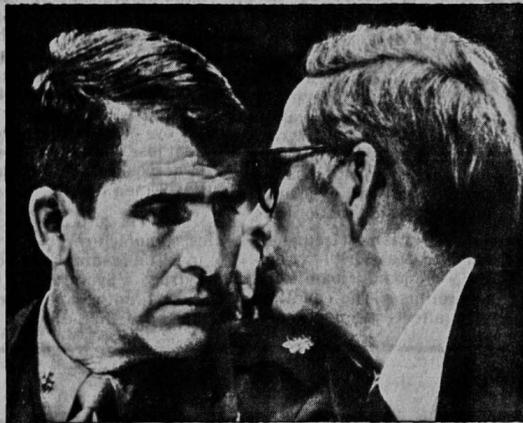

By Walter Pincus
Washington Post

WASHINGTON—Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North drew several high-ranking Reagan administration officials deeper into the Iran-Contra affair Wednesday while admitting without regret that he and his White House superiors lied to Congress about covert assistance to the Nicaraguan rebels.

In a second day of riveting testimony, the former White House aide told the Iran-Contra panels that Secretary of State George Shultz had put his arm around his shoulder at a social event last September and "told me what a remarkable job I had done keeping the Nicaraguan resistance alive."

North later elaborated: "I knew what he meant. He didn't have to say, 'You did a great job on the L100 resupply on the night of the ninth of April.' He knew in sufficiently eloquent terms what I had done."

WITH THAT, SHULTZ joined a growing list of top officials cited by North as knowing more than previously disclosed about his secret support from the White House for the Contras while U.S. military aid was prohibited by law. Two others named Wednesday as being aware of details of his military-support activities were the late CIA Director William Casey and Assistant Secretary of State Elliott Abrams.

A spokesman for Shultz confirmed that the secretary had congratulated North but said the secretary was referring only to the lieutenant colonel's efforts at bolstering morale of the resistance and "was not indicating either his knowledge or approval of the matter to which North has testified." In his appearance before the investigative committees, Abrams denied knowing the details of North's operations. And Wednesday Attorney General Edwin Meese III said through a spokesman that some of North's testimony about his knowledge of 1985 transfers of U.S. arms from Israel to Iran was not correct.

THE PERSONAL DRAMA of North's long-anticipated testimony was increased by his repeated assertions of his isolation and vulnerability, alone among all the high officials with whom he once worked closely. Wednesday he again described himself not only as the scandal's political "scapegoat" but as the central focus of a criminal investigation led by independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh.

"I was supposed to be dropped like a hot rock when it all came down, and I was willing to serve in that capacity," he said. But, he added with emotion, "I was not willing to become the victim of a criminal prosecution."

Scandal gets mixed reviews in Iowa City

UI students and Iowa City residents have mixed reactions about recent testimony by Lt. Col. Oliver North concerning the Iran-Contra scandal.

"I think we'll never really know what happened," said UI senior Michele Lavature, who was watching the hearings at the Union. "A lot of people seem to think the whole situation is amusing, the way they bicker back and forth during the hearings."

But other Iowa City residents took a more cynical view of the hearings.

"I had the TV sets tuned to the hearings today," Dan Tholen, manager of Radio Shack in the Old Capitol Center, said. "Probably the biggest comment was that this sort of thing happens all the time, only these guys got caught. All it's doing is costing us extra money to put this circus on the air."

AIDS to escalate in Iowa this year

By Scott Sonner
United Press International

DES MOINES — AIDS cases reported in Iowa are expected to double this year, but the increase was expected and Iowa continues to have one of the lowest incidence rates in the nation, health officials said Wednesday.

Twenty cases of AIDS were reported in Iowa during the first six months of this year compared with a total of 21 cases through all of 1986, said Laverne Wintermeyer, chief of the Iowa Health Department's Bureau of Infectious Disease Control.

"If the trend continues, our cases will probably double this year," he told the state Board of Health.

"That is what is going on across the Midwest countryside, compared to the East and West Coasts where it is leveling off, slowing down," he said.

"THERE IS A two-year incubation period with the disease. What we are doing is catching up," he said.

Since Jan. 1, 1983, a total of 61 AIDS cases have been reported in Iowa, 45 of them reported by homosexuals or bisexuals and all but three by men, Wintermeyer said.

Thirty-seven of the 61 AIDS patients have died, which is "considerably higher than the national average, probably because most of the cases are acquired on the East or West Coasts and they just come home to die," he said.

UI introduces new plans for paying tuition

By Scott Hauser
The Daily Iowan

OKOBOJI, Iowa — UI students and their parents will be able to make long-term loan arrangements with the UI as an alternative to paying the costs of their education with the traditional monthly U-bill, UI officials announced Wednesday.

In a report to the state Board of Regents on student account payment plans used by the three state universities, UI Assistant Vice President for Finance Mary Jo Small said the UI has plans to implement a 12-month payment plan and two long-term loan plans this fall.

"We looked at several alternatives and these appeared to be the most flexible," Small said.

Small added the program is similar to the Guaranteed Student Loan program except parents of students enrolled in the program would borrow the money and be responsible for its repayment, which would begin while the student is still enrolled.

THE PROGRAMS would be administered by Tuition Management Systems of Providence, R.I.

Under the budget plan, students would repay their annual education costs in monthly installments throughout the year. The charge for using the plan is $30.

UI students and their parents would have two options under the loan programs.

Mary Jo Small

The first is an unsecured loan spread over a predetermined number of years at an interest rate of 3.5 percent above the prime rate.

The second is a home equity loan plan offered at an interest rate of 1.25 percent over the prime rate.

The prime rate is now 8.5 percent.

The alternatives were studied in response to a request by Regent Percy Harris made at the regents' December meeting.

HARRIS SAID he likes the UI's current system of monthly installments and said he doesn't like the loan plans because of their interest rates

Smoking law has little local effect

By Joseph Levy
The Daily Iowan

Don't expect to be ticketed for smoking in a public place in Iowa City just yet.

Iowa City Police Chief Harvey Miller said Wednesday his force has not yet issued any citations to violators of the new Iowa law, which prohibits smoking in most public places. "I don't know how to issue a citation on it," Miller said.

Miller added he is waiting for legal counsel on how, when and where to issue a citation before the force will write up offenders and isn't certain how long it will take.

He also said the police department is allowing businesses time to post signs regarding the law, which took effect July 1.

"There obviously has to be time for the posting of signs in public places," he said, adding he didn't feel the issue was very pressing right now.

But some businesses, such as the Old Capitol Center, have put up signs asking smokers to smoke in designated areas only.

OLD CAPITOL CENTER General Manager David Sternberg said the public has been very receptive to the idea of a designated smoking area.

"I'm very pleased," he said. "People have been most cooperative with it."

The mall is utilizing its sunken bench area as its exclusive smoking area but has left sand canisters throughout the mall so smokers can put out cigarettes.

"If somebody is smoking and we ask them to put it out on the wood floor, it would burn the floor," Sternberg said, adding he has heard no complaints about the new regulation.

Most smokers contacted this week agreed with Sternberg, saying the new law wasn't too hard for them to handle.

"It doesn't bother me at all," UI graduate student Kris Condon said. "I'm usually quite careful about where and when I smoke."

CONDON SAID she thought most smokers are taking the new law in stride and has not seen any people violating it.

Another smoker, who declined to be identified, agreed the law was a good idea.

"I think it's a wonderful idea," the smoker said while using the Old Capitol Center's designated smoking area. "I have no problem with it."

Medical costs may rise

DES MOINES — Doctors, patients and insurance companies are waiting anxiously this month to see if Iowa's largest medical malpractice insurer in Iowa will be granted a 47 percent premium increase.

State Insurance Commissioner Bill Hager said Wednesday he has 30 days to decide whether to approve the unprecedented premium hike requested by St. Paul Fire & Marine Insurance Co., St. Paul, Minn.

"We are getting to the breaking point. Doctors no longer can afford to provide all the services they used to," Deputy Insurance Commissioner David Lyons said Wednesday.

Lottery raises $99 million

DES MOINES — Iowans purchased more than $99.9 million worth of lottery tickets during the fiscal year that ended June 30, exceeding the Iowa Lottery's projections by nearly $6 million, state officials said Wednesday.

Lottery officials said nearly $31.2 million of the money raised by the lottery during the year just ended was spent on state programs, including $26.9 million spent on the Iowa Plan mandated by the Legislature for economic development and job creation, and nearly $3.8 million to the general fund. The rest of the money went into the state's Gambler's Assistance Fund.

Legislative Fiscal Bureau figures show more than 14,000 jobs have already been created or retained with Lottery funds.

Republicans snub forum

DES MOINES, Iowa — Organizers of a peace issues forum for presidential candidates Wednesday said they have "firm" commitments from six Democrats, but have struck out with the Republican candidates.

STAR-PAC — Stop the Arms Race Political Action Committee — has scheduled the Democratic forum for Sept. 27, but the prospect for the Sept. 20 Republican event is becoming unlikely.

Event organizer Bob Brammer said Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis is the only Democrat who has not given "a firm yes." He said STAR-PAC has written and phoned the Republican candidates since January, with no luck.

School leader faces firing

FORT DODGE, Iowa — The Fort Dodge School Board has accused Superintendent June Gabler of insubordination, behaving unprofessionally with students and employees and willfully violating school board policies.

The charges, made public Wednesday by Gabler, who has asked for a public hearing on the allegations, follow the board's decision last month to begin termination proceedings against the four-year superintendent.

Meadows said Gabler experienced differences of opinion with several school board members. Gabler, one of only 10 female superintendents in Iowa, is president of the American Association of School Boards.

Education combats AIDS

DES MOINES — Sex education, beginning in grade school, is the best way to combat the unwarranted fear and anxiety over the spread of AIDS to heterosexuals, one of Iowa's top health experts said Wednesday.

"One of our biggest problems, and it is a serious problem, is the fear and anxiety about AIDS. It consumes about 90 percent of my time," said Dr. Laverne Wintermeyer, chief of the state Health Department's Bureau of Infectious Disease Control.

Wintermeyer said he does not understand why parents resist sex education programs for their children.

Pharmacists warn patients not to change thyroid drug

By Tony Jeffris
The Daily Iowan

Individuals using levothyroxine, a drug commonly used to treat thyroid deficiencies, should exercise caution in switching brands during treatment, pharmacy industry officials said Wednesday.

The warning comes from a report issued by Iowa Board of Pharmacy examiners indicating different brands of the drug are not clinically equivalent and may cause adverse reactions among patients who switch brands to save money.

Board Executive Secretary Norman Johnson said although all the currently available drugs, including generic ones, are safe for use, switching the drugs during treatment could have potentially serious effects.

In one documented Iowa case a patient nearly died from substitution of the drugs, he said.

JOHNSON SAID the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has yet to establish content equivalency between the major brands, adding there is no state regulation preventing pharmacists from switching a patient's prescription in the middle of treatment.

"If the physician doesn't explicitly say: 'Don't substitute,' the pharmacist is free under Iowa law to substitute a less expensive generic product at the patients' request," Johnson said.

The thyroid gland normally secretes the hormones T3 and T4 which regulate growth and differentiation of body tissues. Levothyroxine is used as a substitute for these hormones for patients with diminished or absent thyroid functioning.

The drug is most frequently used to treat hypothyroidism, commonly manifested as cretinism. The condition also affects about 10 percent of the U.S. female population as Hashimoto's disease.

ACCORDING TO Michelle Eimer, UI Pharmacy Research Fellow, patients switching brands during treatment may exhibit signs of increased hypothyroidism or the opposite condition, hyperthyroidism, depending on the relative potency of the original and substituted drug.

Hypothyroidism is characterized by sluggishness, cold intolerance, weight gain, hair loss, dry skin and cardiac problems. Hyperthyroidism — the opposite condition — is characterized by heat intolerance, weight loss, increased appetite, nervousness and irritability, Eimer said.

More than 20 U.S. companies manufacture Levothyroxine. The leading brand of the drug — Synthroid — is the sixteenth most prescribed drug in the U.S.

A New York doctor and lawyer accused of assault and theft in connection with an incident in which he allegedly took a tape recorder from a man in a scuffle at a UI forum pleaded innocent to the charges in Johnson County Magistrate Court last week.

Victor Herbert, a professor of medicine at the Mount Sinai Medical Center, was charged with fifth-degree theft and simple assault after he reportedly took a tape recorder from Frank Wiewel, of Otho, Iowa, at a forum on First Amendment rights last month, according to court records.

Herbert was reported as saying Wiewel was attempting to steal his intellectual property by taping the lecture.

The two men were allegedly in an argument about a medical practice used on AIDS and cancer patients when the incident occurred. A trial date is expected to be set in the next few days.

An Iowa City man was charged with second-degree criminal mischief in Johnson County District Court Wednesday after he allegedly caused more than $1,500 damage to the interior of a local residence, according to court records.

Matthew G. Meraz, 22, of 419 S. Lucas St., allegedly "damaged and destroyed" furniture, walls and glass at a residence in the 1000 block of North Governor Street on May 25, according to court records.

Meraz was reportedly seen exiting the residence and admitted to causing the damage in police interviews that followed, according to court records.

Meraz was placed in the custody of the Sixth Judicial District Department of Corrections and is not allowed to be on the premises or property of the incident, according to court records.

Meraz is also required to keep his attorney advised of his whereabouts, according to the records.

Report: Two Iowa City mailboxes were reported blown up Wednesday, according to police reports.

Two mailboxes, one valued at $30 in the 2200 block of Taylor Drive and another valued at $50 in the 1400 block of West Benton Street, were reported destroyed, according to police reports.

The type of explosive used in the explosions is unknown, according to the reports.

Regents approve new research facility plan

The State Board of Regents approved a plan by the UI Wednesday to convert a former auto parts supply store at 324 S. Madison St. into a UI College of Engineering research facility.

The regents also approved the selection of the Des Moines firm of Brooks, Borg and Skiles as the architect for the $2.19 million project. When completed, the facility will include an environmental engineering research lab, electrical and machine shops, computer areas, a small conference room and about 2,000 square feet of storage space.

The building will also house the administrative staff offices for the UI Center for Computer-Aided Design, which will vacate its current space in the UI Engineering Building.

First-in-the-nation caucuses won't boost local economy

By Franc Contreras
The Daily Iowan

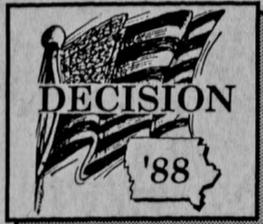

Iowa's first-in-the-nation presidential caucus in February will have little effect on the local economy if predictions from economists and merchants hold true.

Even local businesses which traditionally draw campaign dollars — hotels and motels, car rental agencies and printers — will probably see only minimal increases in sales when the political season intensifies seven months from now, UI Economics Professor Jerald Barnard said.

"The candidates and their support people fly in and out of here, but they probably take more money with them than they leave behind," Barnard said.

Iowa State University Economics Professor Ken Stone said there is no accurate way to measure how local economies profit from caucuses, adding he is skeptical of much economic impact.

"There is no real good way of pinpointing the amount of money that comes into a given community because campaign managers are reluctant to tell us what they spend on hotel rooms and car rentals," Stone said.

IF CAMPAIGN expenses were tabulated, the data would be meaningless because of complexities involved in analyzing the economy, Stone added.

"There are too many other variables at work on the economy to be able to make that kind of judgment," he said. "Besides, I doubt that campaign expenditures would help Iowa City much anyway. It's the bigger cities like Des Moines and Cedar Rapids that do the best."

"As a matter of fact, I doubt we'll see much of an economic increase in Iowa as a whole," Stone said.

Nagui Sassine, owner of Lind Artworld, a printing business at 116 E. Washington St., agrees with Stone.

"I don't think we'll get much of the candidates' business — it will be the out-of-town companies that will benefit," he said. "Most people here seem to think that we'll make money off the campaign. That's not the case. The candidates usually end up asking us for money."

But some local merchants are expecting the political hoopla to cause a substantial upswing in sales.

Randy Phillips, sales manager at KKRQ-FM, said he doubts the economy will experience a lift until the candidates begin to feel the pressures of caucus time.

"They've started inquiring about air time, but we've had no big accounts yet," he said. "There should be a noticeable increase around caucus time, and we expect the increase to continue until the elections in November."

Regents pass tougher entry standards for 1990 freshmen

By Scott Hauser
The Daily Iowan

OKOBOJI, Iowa — Incoming freshmen to the UI will face toughened entrance requirements in the fall of 1990 as the state Board of Regents formally approved the tightened standards at its meeting Wednesday.

The board also approved the UI's $410 million fiscal year 1988 budget which includes an approximate 11.2 percent raise for UI faculty. The salary increase will be funded by a 5 percent increase in state appropriations, increased tuition and internal reallocation.

The new entrance requirements — which were tentatively approved by the board last month — are needed to ensure the state does not fall behind in preparing its high-school students for higher education and for a more complex society, UI Interim President Richard Remington said when he proposed the standards at the June meeting.

THE NEW STANDARDS require entering students to complete four years of English/language arts, three years of mathematics, two years of a single foreign language, three years of natural science and three years of social studies at the high-school level.

The date the new admissions requirement goes into effect is a compromise between the conflicting dates of 1989 that the UI had asked for and 1991 requested by Iowa State University.

University of Northern Iowa Vice President and Provost James Martin, speaking for the committee which studied the timing of the standards, said the committee's main concern was whether currently enrolled high-school students would be able to adjust to the change.

"We think this is a good compromise and gives ample time for students to prepare," Martin said. Students will need at least two full years to meet some of the new requirements, he added.

THE BOARD ALSO approved a plan to study the impact of the proposals on minority recruitment goals, high-school students, parents and counselors, to be completed in December.

In other business, the regents approved a motion to recognize former UI President James O. Freedman as a president emeritus of the UI. Freedman will be inaugurated as the president of Dartmouth College in Hanover, N.H., July 18.

Remington said the motion would be a symbol of the board's recognition of Freedman's dedication to the UI.

The regents also changed its procedural guidelines to require 30 days notice of proposed tuition increases to student government leaders at the three state universities.

UI aware of underachievers Frustrated students examined by educators

By John Bartenhagen
The Daily Iowan

For many educators, underachieving students — those unable or unwilling to use their natural abilities to the fullest — represent a classic classroom frustration.

While most can't offer any solutions yet, several UI officials say they are beginning to understand the root causes of underachievement.

Carl Burns, a counselor at UI Counseling Service, said a program to begin in the spring through the UI Department of Counselor Education will work to help former high-achieving students who no longer work up to their potential.

Burns said although he has not yet collected enough data to begin working on a solution, a lack of motivation is a common problem among underachievers.

"Usually, when bright individuals are underachievers, it is mainly that they have not found a sense of purpose or meaning to studying, so they can't bring themselves to do it," he said.

Burns said students with abilities in several academic disciplines are often unable to choose a career in one field.

"IT'S DIFFICULT to make a commitment to only one interest if you think you will be unable to fulfill your other interests," he said. "I hope to be able to show that this isn't necessarily the case."

In addition to indecision and a lack of motivation, many underachieving students must also deal with outside pressures, Burns said.

"I see a lot of people that realize they are not performing up to the level they know they can," he said. "There is a societal concern, almost an obsession, with people being productive that compounds these students' problems. If people can be productive and happy at the same time, then I guess that would be ideal, but short of that I think you need to get your priorities straight."

Juliet Kaufmann, director of the UI Undergraduate Academic Advising Center, said although she has also been unable to identify general causes, underachievers with high entrance examination scores tend to have different problems than those with good high school grades.

"HIGH ACT (scores) and a low high-school class-rank indicates that the student hasn't applied him or herself," she said. "Often, students like this haven't taken a broad high-school base of courses and they usually don't do very well here because they don't have the motivation."

Kaufmann said students with high test scores are more likely to have been recognized as having great potential at an early age, which may aggravate the situation.

"All their lives they have been recognized as having this potential to do great things and their family and friends have been telling them that they should be an astronaut or a doctor," she said. "But a lot of times they want to do something different, something that isn't glamorous or high-paying."

WHILE STUDENTS WITH lower test scores and high class-rank may not be seen as having such great potential, low ACT scores may only represent lack of in-depth exposure to certain academic areas, she said.

"These students are really a better bet to do well here because they work harder and they know how to study," she said. "If they have any deficits, any holes in their knowledge base, they have the tools to make those up."

But because each student has unique problems, counselors must deal with them on an individual basis and avoid trying to apply generalized solutions, Kaufmann said.

"The best way to deal with an underachiever is to talk in-depth with them," she said. "We may ask them, 'Is college the best place for you to be right now? And if not, then why don't you take a semester or a year off to think things over?'"

BUT IF A STUDENT is unwilling to leave school, even temporarily, then the advisor has to help focus the student's interest by identifying areas of academic interest, she said.

There are times, though, when an advisor must encourage a student to leave school for the student's own benefit, she said.

'Grazing' craze sweeps U.S.

Scaled-down food becomes newest fad

By Lisa Legge
The Daily Iowan

America is into grazing. The term has moved from the pasture to national franchised restaurants who know Americans like to eat less food more often — graze, as they call it.

Representatives for the restaurant say it has become such a huge trend that they are marketing new sandwiches to meet America's grazing needs.

The sandwiches are scaled-down, snack-sized versions of their popular counterparts. Burger King's Burger Bundles are like miniature Whoppers and Kentucky Fried Chicken's Chicken Littles imitate the discontinued Chicken Breast Fillet Sandwiches. Both weigh one ounce.

Kentucky Fried Chicken Spokesman John Weir explained the need for snack-type sandwiches.

"AMERICANS ARE ON the move constantly," he said. "Nationally, it's been they like to go one place for happy hour, another place for an appetizer, another place for a sandwich and another place for dessert."

"That's where the whole grazing thing comes in," he said.

Family mealtimes are often divided, Weir said, making the need for smaller meals more important.

"One kid is involved in dance lessons and the other has baseball," he said. "The sandwiches suit them better than buckets or barrels of chicken."

Weir said people usually "pack 'em down three in one sitting."

Burger King is using its pint-sized burger as a summer marketing promotion. If it is successful, the sandwiches may be back next summer, Regional Marketing Coordinator Kathy Boehmer said.

"So far they've sold very, very well," Boehmer said.

THE IDEA TO PROVIDE fast-paced food for fast-paced American lifestyles is the same for Burger King, Boehmer said.

"We try to get products into stores that are faster for people to eat because people move so much," she said.

In Iowa City the burgers are selling well, according to Manager Cindy Stebens of the 124 S. Dubuque St. restaurant.

"They're easy when you're on the go or if you just want a little snack," she said.

Boehmer said the smaller burgers, which come in packs of three and six, are especially well-suited for eating while driving.

"They can go through the drive-through and get a six pack for the road," she said. "A little round burger is fun to hold in your hand and eat."

"Funness" is a big appeal of the smaller 39-cent chicken sandwiches, too, Weir said.

"CHICKEN LITTLES are a fun product," Weir said. "They keep the taste of 11 herbs and spices while adapting to a changing lifestyle."

White Castle, a snack-size burger franchise which is popular in other parts of the country, makes its products available only in area grocery stores. Econofoods, 1987 Broadway St., sells its products in boxes of 100.

"They go very well basically because they have such a good

"Occasionally, people who are not motivated dig themselves into a hole that it will be difficult to get out of," she said. "That's when you need to say 'Maybe you shouldn't be here right now.'"

While underachievement at the college level may be damaging, students who work below their potential in high school are sometimes denied admission to college because they have neither high ACT scores or class rank.

UI DIRECTOR of Admissions Michael Barron said the UI requires either a composite ACT score of 24 or class-rank in the upper one-half of the graduating class for Iowa residents to be admitted, but added exceptions are sometimes made.

"A letter of recommendation from a respected faculty member at the high school level will indicate to us that the student has an intellectual spark that hasn't shown through in other ways," he said.

Barron said universities must be dedicated to searching out students with hidden potential in order to best serve the needs of society.

"In some cases it's luck, but in most cases it's hard work and networking," he said. "A university has to have connections at the high school level, people who are there every day and are able to identify intellectual ability and curiosity when it pops up on a personal level."

The Blues Band cashes in on Iowa interest in the blues

By Alex Wilding-White
 The Daily Iowan

HERE'S no doubt that the blues has a strong following in eastern Iowa. At last weekend's Mississippi Valley Blues Festival in Davenport, attendance estimates for the Saturday show alone were running at about 40,000. Blues acts are booked regularly into a large array of locations in this part of the state, and several musicians have commented that the reception here has been consistently strong.

This strong interest, however, has not translated into a healthy number of area groups regularly appearing in area clubs and concerts. Most of the blues acts that play in eastern Iowa are touring bands primarily from Chicago, Texas and the West Coast.

However, some area groups and individuals have done fairly well and demonstrate that the support is there.

ONE IOWA BAND that has established a good following is The Blue Band, which will be playing at the Dubuque Street Brewing Co., 313 S. Dubuque St., Friday night. Formed from the remnants of the group Little Red Rooster, the group got started as Bobby's Blue Band, a play on the name of the popular R&B singer Bobby "Blue" Bland, in June 1981.

The name was shortened to The Blue Band because, as vocalist and harmonica player Bob Dorr recently explained, a lot of people "didn't know who Bobby Bland was and those who did either thought it was a bad joke or thought we were trying to somehow rip off Bobby Bland, which was far from our intention. It was just an example of our jaded sense of humor."

THE BLUE BAND now has four records to its credit, the most recent being One More Won't Kill You, a release from the Cedar Falls-based label Hot Fudge Records. The group's latest record features an array of styles and techniques that highlight the variety of talents within the band. There is highly charged rock 'n' roll in Chuck Berry's "Run Rudolph Run," R&B with a full-tilt horn section in "Walk Right In," straight blues in Memphis Slim's "Lonesome" and even a song by the group Selector.

Bassist Molly Nova uses a couple of tracks to display her abilities on electric violin, saxophonist Bob Thompson turns in some nicely done horn arrangements and guitarist Jeff Peterson shows a deft hand on the striding "Son of Groove Cat."

"We've really tried to put together a real ensemble approach," Dorr commented. "There are no stars (in the band). Everyone is contributing something."

DORR SAID what The Blue Band does is not really blues. "We're more of an R&B group," he said. But even that description doesn't fully cover what the band does.

"It seems that our major problem is that we don't have an identifiable sound," Dorr continued. "What the Blue Band tries to do is play as good as it can with as good a people as we can find. And I feel that the current people in the band are as good as can be found anywhere in Iowa."

Dorr says that the group tries to mix original and cover material as evenly as possible. "We could do up to 100 minutes of original material in a set," Dorr said, "and some of our most frequent requests are for our originals."

BUT DORR admits a strong liking for doing classic songs. "I dearly love the E Street Band (Bruce Springsteen's band). But my favorite part of their show is when they do their oldies medley, with "Good Golly, Miss Molly," "Devil with the Blue Dress On," songs like that. We like playing (that kind of music), though we're not aiming for a note-for-note rendition."

The group has had success in other places, such as Kansas City, Mo., and the Omaha/Lincoln, Neb., area, but it is eastern Iowa that holds a strong attraction for the band members.

"Everyone enjoys living in Iowa," Dorr said. "We like the pace and the style and the people in this state."

Wherever the band plays, its aim will remain the same. "We make a conscious effort to play the best we can every night," Dorr said.

Movie industry looks for biggest year ever

By Becky Aikman
 Newsday

IF the lines seem long at the local multiplex these days, there's a reason. The summer movie season has gotten off to a rollicking good start, prompting speculation over whether 1987 will be a record-breaking year at the box office.

Thanks to Beverly Hills Cop II, The Untouchables, The Witches of Eastwick and other popular entries, theaters are pulling in an adult audience this summer as well as the usual batch of teenagers on vacation from school.

They've helped the movie industry enjoy the third-best June on record, according to Art Murphy, an analyst for Variety, the entertainment-trade publication. That, together with a strong pre-summer season, has brought in $1.9 billion at the box office so far this year. "The worst that can happen is that this will be the second-best year ever," Murphy said.

THE YEAR TO BEAT is 1984, when movies sold $4.03 billion worth of tickets. Last year came in second, with $250

Predator, starring Carl Weathers and Arnold Schwarzenegger, and The Witches of Eastwick, with Jack Nicholson and Cher, are two of the million less. But so far, this year is $230 million ahead of last year's pace, Murphy said, and many potentially big summer films are still to come.

One reason for optimism is the return of the adult audience. "We know the movie audience is getting older, and we're perceptive to that change," said Barry Reardon, Warner Brothers' president of distribution. "We all saw how Prizzi's Honor did a couple years ago, and we're not afraid of making R movies."

In recent summers, grown-ups often found themselves with little choice as theaters pandered to teenagers. In 1984, for example, the big June movies were all rated PG or PG-13, including Ghostbusters, Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom, Star Trek III and Gremlins.

BUT THE FOUR top summer reasons why this summer may be a record-breaker at the box office. Cinema experts predict 1987 may be the second-best ever for movies.

movies so far this year are all rated R. The leader, Beverly Hills Cop II, has made $118 million in six weeks of release, with a lot of help from the youth audience. In second place, The Untouchables, a story of Prohibition-era gangsters that has considerable adult appeal, has made $44.6 million in four weeks.

Arnold Schwarzenegger's latest action film, Predator, has made $34.9 million in three weeks. As expected, it drew a young, male crowd in the first weeks of release and then faded quickly. But The Witches of Eastwick, whose star, Jack Nicholson, attracts an adult audience, is still packing them in after making $33.5 million in three weeks.

"The young audience of a few years ago has gotten older and has still got the movie-going habit," said Martin Grove, an analyst for The Hollywood

Reporter.

YET MOVIES STILL need youth appeal to become megahits, he said. That's one reason why expectations are high for InnerSpace, produced by Steven Spielberg, which opened Wednesday. It combines action and comedy in the PG-rated story of a test pilot, played by Dennis Quaid, who is miniaturized and accidentally injected into a grocery clerk, played by Martin Short.

The distributor, Warner Brothers, previewed the movie at an unprecedented 700 screens nationwide last Saturday, to enthusiastic results.

"It seems to appeal to people of all ages, like Back to the Future," said Reardon. "It might find its niche in the marketplace like that picture did."

Other potential biggies this summer include the new James Bond film The Living Daylights, Adventures in Babysitting, a youth-oriented adventure and the re-release of Walt Disney's 1937 Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, expected to find the youngest market niche of all.

U.S.S.R opens 15th international film gala

By William J. Eaton
 Los Angeles Times

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union opened its 15th international film festival Monday amid signs that the government, determined to polish its international prestige, for the first time has not stacked the deck in favor of Soviet entries.

Sponsors of the 12-day biennial event said that they expect higher quality in the competition as well as the judging following a shakeup in the Soviet motion-picture industry. For the first time since the festival started in 1959, foreign film makers have been invited to sit on juries. American actor Robert de Niro will be chairman of the jury for the feature-film category. Soviet critics, in a rare acknowledgment of the heavy-handed pressure on judges in the past, said that some of the best Western and East Bloc films once were barred from consideration by narrow-minded screening boards.

"THE REPUTATION of the festival wasn't exactly helped by the very evident desire to crown a Soviet film with one of the top prizes, at all costs," Georgy Kapralov, a leading Soviet film critic, observed.

De Niro, acknowledging the unprecedented invitation to serve as head of the main jury, quipped to an opening-night audience of 2,500 people that "being an actor, I accepted the role." Later, talking with reporters, he added, "It's a great honor, and I'm a little nervous." Elem Klimov, the new head of the cinematographers' union and a former prize winner at the festival, introduced de Niro as one of the world's greatest actors, but noted that Soviet people have not been able to see any of his films.

A message was received from Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, who conveyed his greetings and said that in the current critical times "unity of progressive people of culture ... is so important."

AS A RESULT of Gorbachev's new policy of glasnost, or public openness, a series of Soviet films, barred from the screen by censors in the 1960s and 1970s, also will be shown this year.

In addition, films of the late Andrei Tarkovsky, a director who left the Soviet Union to have greater artistic freedom, will be exhibited, including those he made after his departure.

The change in attitude is largely the result of a shakeup in the union of cinematographers, which led to the election of Klimov last year as its new director. He established a commission that cleared 30 films, once banned by the censors, for public showing in the Soviet Union.

Only 27 films were selected for the 1987 competition, compared with 45 at the last such event, and fewer prizes will be awarded so that each will have greater significance. But more than 200 other films, submitted by a total of 110 countries and five international organizations, will be shown during the festival to give it additional public appeal. Tickets are expected to be virtually impossible for the average movie buff to obtain.

A TOTAL OF 1,500 guests are expected, including such famous names as Federico Fellini, Stanley Kramer, Arthur Penn, Warren Beatty and Milos Forman.

Francis Coppola, the director of the American feature-film entry, Gardens of Stone, is scheduled to appear. Robert Wise, president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, and Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, also plan to attend. A special showing of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs has been added to the program as a salute to the late Walt Disney.

Perhaps the most poignant entry is a short film entitled Chernobyl: A Chronicle of Difficult Weeks, photographed on the site after the world's worst nuclear accident in April 1986. The director, Vladimir Shevchenko, who worked with two cameramen near the stricken reactor, died in March of radiation poisoning. The cameramen have been hospitalized, according to the weekly newspaper Nedelya.

In contrast to the glittery atmosphere at Cannes, Venice and other film festival sites, Moscow is taking a more serious approach. The slogan for the festival again is "for humanism and peace in film art, for friendship between peoples," and it is illustrated by a poster showing a globe encircled by reels of film.

Bork hearings to start in September

By Henry J. Reske
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph Biden, calling it "highly unlikely" he will vote for Robert Bork, said Wednesday confirmation hearings on the Supreme Court nominee will begin Sept. 15, virtually assuring the court will be a justice short in October.

Biden, D-Del., who made the announcement following a meeting with Democratic members of the committee, said he had spoken with committee ranking minority member Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and set a date of Sept. 15.

Biden said the hearings will take at least two weeks and possibly more time to allow all those interested in testifying for and against Bork to be heard.

WHEN ASKED IF BORK could be seated before the beginning of the court's term Oct. 5, Biden said, "I think that is unlikely, but it's not unusual."

"There have been a number of times throughout our history where there have been fewer than nine members at the start of the term," he added.

But White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater expressed hope the committee "will reconsider. We would like to start the fall session with a full court."

Mark Goodin, a Thurmond spokesman, said Thurmond had no problem with the Sept. 15 date "provided that agreement can be reached on a broad package of timetables and deadlines, whereby a reasonable time is certain for a full committee vote and a date to begin and end the hearings."

HE SAID IN GENERAL terms an acceptable timetable would have the committee hearings finished by the end of September and be before the full Senate at the beginning of October. He said during the hearings to elevate William Rehnquist to be chief justice last summer, when Thurmond was panel chairman, Biden "asked for same thing we are asking for."

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole said, "There is absolutely no substantive reason why we have to wait more than two months to begin nomination hearings."

Dole said he would seek a meeting with Biden, Thurmond and Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd "to see if there isn't some way we can push the schedule up. The American people know that it's critical to fill the seat on the Supreme Court. And the Senate should do everything it can to fulfill its duty as quickly as possible."

Dole said Bork was ready to testify and added committee Republicans were willing to hold hearings during the August recess.

U.S. thwarts coup plan by Marcos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration, concerned Ferdinand Marcos was plotting to retake power in the Philippines, has told the former president he cannot leave the Hawaiian island of Oahu without permission, officials said Wednesday.

The State Department said Marcos was informed of new restrictions, including a blanket prohibition against leaving the United States, by a top-level U.S. government delegation at a meeting at his hillside home outside Honolulu.

"The United States is seriously disturbed by indications that Mr. Marcos appeared to be seeking to destabilize the Aquino government and was contemplating a return to the Philippines without the express permission of the Philippine government," said State Department spokesman Charles Redman.

Administration officials who requested anonymity said the action was taken in part because of concerns raised by tape recordings of conversations between Marcos and an American arms dealer.

THE RECORDINGS, the officials said, indicated the former president was actively plotting against the government of President Corazon Aquino, which took power in a wave of "people power" when Marcos fled his homeland to exile in Hawaii in February 1986.

One official said the recordings were not made by the U.S. government but came into its possession. Marcos was recorded "discussing efforts to obtain weapons in an effort to retake power in the Philippines," the official said.

A congressional source who listened to one recording made in May told ABC News Marcos discussed a 10,000-man invasion force backed by tanks and stinger missiles to regain power in the Philippines.

The source quoted Marcos as saying, "What I'd like to see happen is we take her (Aquino) hostage, forcefully take her, without killing her."

REDMAN SAID MARCOS was informed of the travel restrictions Tuesday by State Department legal adviser Abraham Sofaer and Gregory Walden, associate deputy attorney general.

Sofaer "conveyed to Mr. Marcos U.S. concerns about his activities, which we believe violated the understanding under which he is permitted to remain as a guest in the United States," Redman said.

Sofaer also gave Marcos a letter from President Reagan. Redman declined to disclose the contents.

The Justice Department released two letters to Marcos from William Craig, Immigration and Naturalization Service district director, that told Marcos he must obtain Craig's written permission 48 hours in advance before leaving the island of Oahu, which includes Honolulu.

HE MUST APPLY in writing for permission and specify any means of transportation from his Makiki Heights residence, identify his traveling companions and crew members for his boat or plane and state where he obtains the craft.

Marcos signed one of the letters and wrote, "I have no such intention of departing without notice to the U.S."

Redman said the administration acted under a provision of federal immigration law that gives the INS authority to "bar an alien from departing the United States" when the departure would be "prejudicial to the United States."

North

During six hours of questioning, North:

- Credited Iranian businessman Manucher Ghorbanifar, the intermediary in the U.S.-Iran arms deals, with the idea of using "residual" funds from the sale of weapons to Tehran to assist the Contras fighting the government of Nicaragua.
- Said he never kept track of how former Air Force general Richard V. Secord was spending money generated by the arms sales and was "shocked" to learn from evidence presented at the hearings that $8 million remains in Swiss bank accounts under the control of Secord and his business partner, Albert A. Hakim, and that Secord's operation had spent only about $4 million on the million into the Secord-Hakim accounts, of which only $8 million had to be repaid to the Central Intelligence Agency for weapons sold out of American stocks.

• Said he did not recall telling Marine Lt. Col. Robert Earl last Nov. 25 that President Reagan had said in a telephone conversation that day, "It's important that I not know" about the diversion of U.S.-Iran arms sale proceeds to the Contras. North repeated his assertion that the president had said, "I just didn't know." But he said it was possible he had told Earl, "It's important that I, Col. North, understand that he (the president) did not know." Earl has been questioned by the committee, but it is unclear whether he will testify in public.

Wednesday's testimony was in some respects even more compelling than North's initial appearance on Tuesday as the former National Security Council aide took the committees and a national television audience on a roller coaster ride of emotions.

very well," said Jeff Renander, editor of The Campus Review. "He comes off as being very honest, overall. I think he's making the committee look bad."

Others said they thought North was just a scapegoat for the Reagan administration.

found the whole thing boring. "They are kind of lacking in excitement," said UI senior Mike Skinner.

"I think the hearings are boring, and that's part of the reason why I haven't been watching," UI junior Lisa Mueller said. "It's a big deal, but it shouldn't be on every channel. Maybe they should put it on a special channel."

Several UI students said they watched some of the hearings, but soon tired of them.

"I've gotten to the point where I'm getting sick of it," said UI senior Brenda Bremicker. "I think the media is really overdoing it."

"I watched some of it, but I wouldn't watch four days of this," UI senior Mary Ellen Coners said. "It's just too monotonous."

THOSE WHO watched the hearings had differing opinions of North's performance. "I think he is handling himself very discreetly."

"I think Reagan is more involved than he has admitted," agreed Lavature. "I really do believe that North is a scapegoat."

But others said they didn't believe North's testimony at all.

"He comes across as lacking in credibility," Skinner said. "There's still more to the scandal than he is willing to tell. I don't think he is telling the whole truth."

profits from arms sales to Iran.

OFFICIALS AND sources who worked with Casey said Wednesday that North's description could be true, since it is consistent with Casey's fierce anti-communism, his secretiveness as director and his willingness to circumvent the normal government bureaucracy. Several of these sources also noted that Casey, who died this May, is a convenient cover and scapegoat for North.

The other persons North identified Wednesday as intimately familiar with his work for the Contras was Adm. Arthur Moreau Jr. who was assistant to the chairman of the Joints Chiefs of Staff from 1983 until October 1985. Moreau died of a heart attack last December.

North has acknowledged that he lied repeatedly — to the Iranians, to Congress and others — in what he deemed to be the higher national-security interests of the United States and the need to achieve "plausible deniability" for the covert operations in which he was engaged.

Nonetheless, he has repeatedly insisted to the Iran-Contra committees in two days of testimony that he is now telling the truth. Several of Casey's closest Central Intelligence Agency associates said Wednesday they could neither confirm nor refute North's claims.

One former Casey associate said, "There was never any way to tell everything Bill was up to ... not then (when he was CIA director), not today and probably not tomorrow."

and because repayment begins while students are still enrolled.

"It's a whole lot easier to come up with $300 — or whatever it is — every month than come up with a payment for the entire cost of room and board and everything else," Harris said.

Payments on the loans would begin 30 to 60 days after borrowing.

Small said the UI has no idea of the number of students interested in the program but said the UI will begin sending information about the payment options in the fall.

UI Collegiate Associations Council President Mike Reck said students had little input into the formulation of the options and said he sees little interest in the plan.

Smoke

Joan Kuepper, a Burlington, Iowa, resident visiting the Old Capitol Center, said she felt the law was long overdue.

"It makes it more difficult for people to hurt themselves," she said, explaining she had a relative who died of emphysema. "It got so there were places we couldn't take him because of the smoke."

But not all smokers said they favored the law.

"If I want to smoke a cigarette, I'm going to smoke it wherever I am," Iowa City resident John Crow said while smoking in an unauthorized location downtown. "I don't think much of the new law."

Crow said no one has asked him to put out a cigarette since the law has taken effect, but added he would extinguish it if asked.

Pitchers send serious threats to hefty hitters

CHICAGO (UPI) — Like Howard Beale in the movie "Network," major-league pitchers appear "mad as hell and aren't going to take it anymore."

What else can explain the latest spree of beanball incidents and brushback pitches? Pitchers, the victims of the lively ball that has made home-run totals soar, have come back with the only weapon they know to silence the big bats: pitch close and tight. Send a message: stay off the plate.

Tuesday's brawl between the Chicago Cubs and San Diego Padres was typical of what has been happening all year in the majors. The Padres, tired of seeing Andre Dawson belt ball after ball out of the park (Dawson has seven homers against the Padres this year), decided to move Dawson south of the plate.

But Eric Show, who isn't accustomed to throwing close to batters, put one too close to Dawson and hit him in the head. The prototype baseball brawl — shown over and over again on local sportscasts — followed along with the usual retaliation pitches.

THIS SEASON HAS included a plethora of homers in both leagues. At the halfway point, 10 clubs had hit at least 100 homers, including the Cubs. For years, pitchers usually answered someone who had taken them deep with a brushback pitch.

Two reasons are given for the home-run explosion: the lively ball and the poor quality of pitching.

Pitchers can't do much about the lively ball except to scuff it. Some who do can avoid the home-run curse, but a scuffed ball is tough to control.

The other alternative is for pitchers to move the batters off the plate. Dawson has hit 24 homers this season and did not start Wednesday against the Padres because of a swollen left cheek.

"They've been throwing at his head a bunch of times this season," Cubs catcher Jody Davis said.

IN NORMAL YEARS, players such as Dawson, Jack Clark, Eric Davis or Mark McGwire would receive the brunt of the brushbacks. But when Luis Aguayo and Rafael Santana start taking pitchers deep, they can expect the same treatment.

The result will likely continue to be more brushbacks, more beanballs, more fights and more replays of brawls on the nightly sports shows.

Ironically, it was Cubs Manager Gene Michael who during spring training urged his pitchers to throw closer to hitters.

"We've got to learn to throw inside," Michael said. "It's part of the game."

After his star was struck Tuesday, Michael took a different view.

"I don't believe in throwing at anyone. I don't believe it's part of the game to throw at anyone's head," Michael said.

Brushback pitches are nothing new. Sal Maglie earned his reputation as the "barber" not for his hairstyles but for his inside pitches. Hall of Famer Bob Gibson's success was due in part to his throwing inside.

"I was never afraid to come back and throw one in if the guy had taken me deep the time before," Gibson said.

In some cases, the brushback pitch does work. But more often than not, sluggers such as Dawson just come back angrier and move closer in on the plate to tee off on a pitch.

The by-product of the home-run barrage in the second half of the season is likely to be a replay of the Cubs-Padres incident in selected cities across both leagues. It may get worse during the hot days of July and August before things simmer down.

Eight birdies give Woosnam Scottish lead

GLENEAGLES, Scotland (UPI) — Ian Woosnam of Britain sank eight birdies Wednesday for a 6-under-par 65 that gave him a one-stroke lead after the first round of the $310,000 Scottish Open golf tournament.

Brian Marchbank of Britain was second on the 6,823-yard King's Course in a round marked by blustery conditions. Spain's Severiano Ballesteros shot a 68 to share third place with nine others.

"I want to win here because it would give me the chance of getting further ahead in the order of merit," said Woosnam, who tops the European Order of Merit. "I would like to go to America in August for three tournaments, including the U.S. PGA championship to which I have been invited."

"I had a pure shank at the fourth," Ballesteros said. "I was chipping to the green and hit the ball straight right from my intended flight line. It's the first one I've had since I won the 1982 French Open, so perhaps it's a good omen."

Marsh, who had a 36 on his first nine, surged with four birdies in his last seven holes. Ratcliffe had five birdies in his 68 and Senior collected all his four birdies in the last six holes. Davis also had four birdies in his round.

Anders Forsbrun of Sweden, American Dillard Pruitt and Britons Roger Chapman, Ken Brown and Grant Turner shot 68s.

Lineups set for All-Star showdown

NEW YORK (UPI) — Second baseman Willie Randolph completed a late charge in fan balloting, giving the New York Yankees four starters on the 1987 American League All-Star team.

In results announced Wednesday by the Commissioner's Office, Randolph joins teammates Rickey Henderson, Dave Winfield and Don Mattingly for the July 14 game in Oakland. Mattingly is making his first All-Star start.

Other AL All-Star starters are shortstop Cal Ripken Jr. and catcher Terry Kennedy of Baltimore, Boston third baseman Wade Boggs and Toronto outfielder George Bell.

On the National League squad, shortstop Ozzie Smith and first baseman Jack Clark represent the East Division-leading St. Louis Cardinals while catcher Gary Carter and outfielder Darryl Strawberry come from the World Champion New York Mets.

Other NL starters are Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt, Cincinnati outfielder Eric Davis and second baseman Ryne Sandberg and outfielder Andre Dawson of Chicago.

OAKLAND ROOKIE Mark McGwire led all write-in candidates with 95,498, and Montreal outfielder Tim Lincecum paced NL write-ins with

In snapping George Brett's string of 11 consecutive elected berths, Boggs led American Leaguers with 1,529,819 votes.

Maechler continues overall Tour lead

EPINAY-SOUS-SENART, France (UPI) — Dutchman Jean-Paul Van Poppel of the Superconflex team won the eighth stage of the Tour de France cycle race Wednesday and Erich Maechler of the Carrera club retained the overall lead for the fifth consecutive day.

Van Poppel, a sprint specialist, completed the mainly flat, 127.7-mile stage from Troyes in 5 hours, 23 minutes, 53 seconds, finishing just ahead of Belgians Michel Vermote and Johan Capiot.

Maechler leads Frenchman Christophe Lavainne of the Systeme U team by 36 seconds in the overall race.

JULIO-CESAR CADENA of Columbia escaped the pack on a bonus sprint 16.8 miles into the stage and was caught six miles from the finish. His lead lasted 11 minutes — which briefly made him the overall leader — before several riders increased their pace with 31 miles left. Cadena, who began the day in 137th place, 9:49 off the lead, picked up 30 seconds in bonus sprints during his escape.

The more than 190 riders enjoyed cooler temperatures than had prevailed during the first seven stages and continued their grueling, more-than-24.8-mph pace that has caused several to fear lack of stamina for when the race reaches the Pyrenees Mountains Monday.

Show's beanball gives Dawson 24 stitches

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Cubs outfielder Andre Dawson was sidelined with a swollen left cheek and San Diego pitcher Eric Show was denied a request to attend Wrigley Field Wednesday, a day after being involved in a beanball incident that spurred a benches-clearing brawl.

Dawson received 24 stitches on the inside and outside of his left cheek Tuesday at Northwestern Memorial Hospital after being hit in the face by a Show pitch in the Cubs' 7-5 victory. X-rays on the cheekbone showed no break.

Dawson arrived at Wrigley Wednesday and refused to talk to reporters before the game.

"He looks like a guy who chews and has a big wad of tobacco," said Cubs public-relations director Ned Colletti, who added Dawson will not play until the swelling lessened.

SHOW WAS TOLD BY Manager Larry Bowa to stay at the club's downtown Chicago hotel rather than join the club at Wrigley. San Diego pitchers normally must attend games following starts.

"There's no reason for him to be here," Bowa said.

Bowa again defended Show, saying if Show had intended to hit Dawson, he would have thrown behind him because that is the way batters instinctively lean.

Cubs Manager Gene Michael said he talked briefly with Dawson to ask how he felt.

"He said he had a headache," Michael said. "I haven't heard anything else."

Michael had been unhappy Sunday when umpires refused to act against San Francisco Giants pitcher Mike Krukow, who Michael thought was scuffing the baseball. Michael was upset again after Tuesday's beaning.

"WHEN THEY GO head-hunting, I'm all for hitters going out there now," he said. "I've changed my mind. I'm going to condone that. If that's what it takes to stop it, fine."

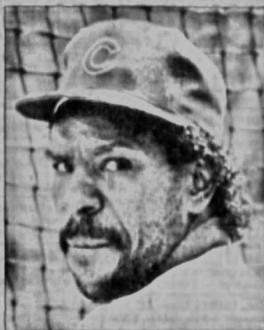

Michael said only one player gets hurt in a beaning, the batter, and "usually, the pitcher gets away and nothing happens to him." He added he was especially angered by the location of the pitch — the face, where an injury can end a career.

"They (players) won't get as angry when they get drilled and they do when it is at their head," he said.

Rookie Rafael Palmeiro was given the start in place of Dawson Wednesday against Ed Whitson of the Padres.

Dawson has been struck in the head twice by a pitched ball and the Show pitch marked the second time he has been hit in the face. In 1982, when Dawson played with Montreal, he was struck in the face by a pitch from Bobby Castillo of the Los Angeles Dodgers.
