When 9-year-old Pen Rive-Softball player Emily Burmeister comes to the plate, she has the ball back on the bat.

"I usually made home runs this year," the Cedarville Central sixth-grader said. "I just went up and the ball is in the right place and then hit it up like everyday," said Burmeister, a Pen Rive-School district player.

Burmeister and about 100 other children played softball at Cedarville High School-department wide on the last day of school. The league's season ended Friday.

The Pen Rive-School district player said she is particularly excited about playing in the tent all four nights.

"We like to try and make the kids feel like they are going to be at a big-league game," Burmeister said. She added that she is looking forward to the big league experience.

Perilous water

The placid water of the Iowa River is deceiving. While the river may appear calm and serene, the Iowa River can be a silent killer, a threat to life and a treaties.

On the afternoon of Thursday, July 12, a young man from Coralville drowned in the Iowa River. The young man, identified as John Gilardi, was swimming with friends near the old power dam in Coralville when he disappeared. A search and rescue operation was launched, but Gilardi's body was not found until the following morning.

Gilardi was the latest in a string of accidents that have been plaguing the Iowa River. In the past several months, several people have died while swimming in the river, and many others have been injured or rescued.

The Iowa River Authority has issued warnings about the dangers of swimming in the river, but many people still ignore the warnings and take the risk. The river is not only a threat to life, but also to property, as it has caused millions of dollars in damage to homes and businesses in the past.

The Iowa River Authority has been working to improve safety measures, but more needs to be done to prevent accidents. In the meantime, the river continues to be a danger to those who use it, and the search for solutions continues.

Weinberger supports Shultz testimony
WASHINGTON - Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger is supporting Secretary of State George P. Shultz's testimony that the Soviet Union is violating its non-aggression pact with Iran.

"I am prepared to testify that the Soviet Union and Iran are not in compliance with Article II of the treaty," Weinberger told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

Shultz, appearing on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley," gave a clear as in what his testimony will be when he appears before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday on the maneuverings of the Soviet military in Iran.

"We believe they are violating the treaty," Shultz said. Agreement reiterates a similar concern expressed recently by Weinberger. Both men will testify at the request of the Senate for an assessment of the Soviet military presence in Iran.

Weinberger said he was preparing to make a statement to the Senate panel on Sunday or Monday. The hearing has not been scheduled.

Ireland’s Roche barely wins Tour

PARIS (UPI) — Stephen Roche Sunday won the 107th Tour de France by the second smallest margin in history to become the first champion from Ireland of the world’s most grueling bicycle race.

Roche, 27, leader of the Irish Continental team, completed the 2,437-mile course in 113 hours, 20 minutes, 44 seconds — only 43 seconds better than Spain’s Pedro Delgado and 213 ahead of Frenchman Jean-Francois Beret.

Just a few minutes later, Rogiers Commissaire Peter Uderholz in attendance, Williams gave his runner-up trophy to a sobbing Becker, who hadn’t been expected to do anything more than be his assistant, but instead won it all.

Cooperstown, N.Y. — Billy Williams picked up a major honor of his own when he was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame, the fourth former Cubs player to be inducted this year.

Williams, along with Bobderiv Piers, who finished 88th overall, won the time trial at Dijon yesterday, three days ahead of the 1,983-mile final stage that ended with the American Greg Lemond, who finished 14th.

TOWARD: Larry Spear, freelance photographer, says of the 1987 Olympic Festival: “It’s almost worth getting hit in the head.”

Johnny Bench had a good day with bat, and the feature story will be on him.

U.S. Olympic Festival tops all expectations

With the Olympic Festival now underway, the American teams are off to a good start. The U.S. Table Tennis team has won six medals, and the swimming team has won nine.

Iowa City, Iowa — A sudden thunderstorm halted action at the U.S. Women’s Open before any leaders got marked. Play is scheduled to resume today.

ANDREWS Williams, winner of the 1987 Olympic Festival, is shown at the 24-hour gum ball at the Vernon County Fair in Iowa City. The 28-year-old Iowa City native, who finished the Festival in 75 minutes, will be considered for the 1992 Olympic team.

Roche’s victory is a first for the United States, and West Germany.

ROCHE DELGADO and Beret, a member of the Irish National League, climbed into the stands and apologized to the masses, having lost the race.

The American team drops from No. 4 to No. 5 in the world ranking.

It’s almost worth getting hit in the head,” Becker said.
