Dukakis seeks revolving fund to pay college bills

By John Gillard

A new plan to benefit college students seems on the verge of reality in order to help students go to college. Massachusetts Governor Michael Dukakis has proposed a revolving fund which would expand tuition aid awards.

A source close to the administration said that a group of 150 supporters of the plan, including influential state legislators, is expected to meet with the governor tomorrow afternoon at the Back Bay home of the governor's chief of staff.

The plan would be similar to a revolving fund proposed by Massachusetts Governor Michael Dukakis which was first used to help pay the state's share of the cost of college tuition. The fund is expected to be a boon to college students who are paying for college.

10 candidates expected to attract voters

With Iowa City voters expected to turn out in record numbers to cast ballots in last year's election, and the leading vote getter — Townsend — reelected only 314 votes ahead of his closest opponent, Townsend said he was pleased by the number of voters who cast their ballots in last year's election as compared to last year.

"It is a shame there are increasing numbers among the public who are apathetic," Townsend said. "I think it's better to have an informed public than to have a 50 percent
'no show.'

But Townsend added he is not sure what accounts for the increase in the school board election.

"I don't know, maybe there's been more attention this year than before," Townsend said. "Or maybe it's because the general public is more interested in politics than before.

Hart set to discuss scandal with Koppel on 'Nightline'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Sen. Gary Hart, who quit the presidential race by daybreak last Thursday after it was revealed he had an affair, will make his first public appearance Monday, his spokesman said.

Hart is scheduled to appear on ABC's "Nightline." Former White House press secretary James Brady will moderate the interview, which will be broadcast live from ABC's studios in New York.

Hart also will discuss his campaign and the controversy with "Nightline" correspondent Peter Jennings on his "11th Night" segment on ABC, which will be broadcast Tuesday.

A Democratic official said last week by name of Monday's appearance, but Hart will not be with Koppel on "Nightline." Hart will be the first major party presidential hopeful to make his first public appearance since last Thursday, when ABC's scoop about Hart's affair spread across the country.

"It's the first time they've had an opportunity to speak directly to the American people," said the Democratic official, who did not want to be identified.

PITTSBURGH - Jesse Jackson is expected to announce plans to become a Democratic presidential candidate today.

JACKSON, Tenn. -- After a week of pulling the plug on his presidential campaign, Rep. Jesse Jackson said Monday it was time to "move on." It was a choice Jackson made after reviewing a complex array of practical and political realities.

Through Monday night, Jackson had not been told what Hart might say. "It's hasn't happened yet," he said.

The skeleton of Hart's presidential campaign had been torn apart since Jackson's story broke late last week. The scandal, which began with Hart's admission that he spent a weekend with model Donna Rice, kindled speculation Hart might be dropped from the race. Hart denied there was any sexual relationship between himself and the Miami model, maintaining the two were just friends. Subsequent stories revealed Hart had traveled to the island of Bimini with Rice.

The Washington Post said it had evidence of other Hart liaisons, though, citing Hart's withdrawal from the race, he did not report details.

Grassley to endorse Dole

From W TV news reports.

Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, is expected to endorse Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas for the Republican presidential nomination later this week, aides said Monday.

Aides to Terry Branstad said Grassley is slated to appear with his favorite nominee later Saturday prior to a Republican gathering in Ames. Grassley had said he was also expected to make a formal endorsement of Dole Monday.

Hart considers "nightmare" a "sensational talk show.

CINA ALLARD said he will "apologize for his actions while he was a student and a coach."

Hart's speech at ABC News Nightline was the first time he had not been told what Hart might say. "It's hasn't happened yet," he said.

Hart campaign officials could not be reached for comment. Hart was the front-runner in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination until the May 3 newspaper report alleging he had been with a new girlfriend. Hart abruptly halted his campaign May 2, acknowledging it had been seriously damaged by the May 3 newspaper report alleging he had spent a weekend with yet another model.

Schmidt freed after 7 months in Beirut

By Red Kap

HARRAH'S NEVADA - West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt was released Monday in Beirut after being held in the city for seven months.

The announcement came as reports from the Middle East indicated that the government and a private company had agreed to pay the release of Schmidt, who had been held hostage since October 1984.

The release was made at a news conference at the American University of Beirut, he said. "I believe the Northwest crash would not have happened this year."

Exercise may benefit heart patients

DALLAS - Long-term, strenuous exercise lowers blood pressure and reduces the possibility of heart attack, a study showed Monday.

Sixteen patients in a study showed an average 13 percent increase in "hard" heart attacks and no increase in "soft" heart attacks, according to the study published Monday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The patients in the study were generally overweight and in poor physical condition. They were divided into two groups, one of which was assigned to exercise, the other to no exercise.

An exercise program of moderate intensity was followed, and over the period of the study, the group that did not exercise had a higher incidence of heart attacks.

A 50-set patchen, and Elly Mckinley, with 20 kills, the Huskers.

It's a different story for the championship match. It took Nebraska to win in five sets.

In the first game, the Cornhuskers showed why they are the top-ranked team in the nation. The Huskers there, winning 15-6.

After Iowa State went down 15-6 in the second game, Hawkeye Coach Paula Smith-Piccolo was not too pleased.

"We put the ball in the setter's hands," said Smith-Piccolo, a Nebraska grad. "We thought we needed someone to take charge, and make people throw the ball to her."

I thought that I have to be patient with my setter. I needed to make her more of a leader. She needed to be more of a leader, and she did a much better job right away.

Michael will be back.

At the changeover, she stepped up and the third game, 15-13.

The Husker win extends their run of two sets to 12, leaving them unbeaten at 11-0 in the Big 12. Despite being the top seed, they were still chosen as the third to match Nebraska's second seed.

"We have to be realistic about what we can do," said Michael. "I think we can do better than that." ...

Rugby provides chaotic fun

By Hugh O'Dea

The Daily Break

Rugby is a rough game played without pain or realfield and often with modified rules, as detailed in the article. It is described as a sport of constant danger, where the game requires a constant understanding of the opponent's moves, frequent mental toughness, and, most importantly, toughness. Rugby players are not only known for their physical abilities but also possess an intense determination.

The game requires constant teamwork, with players moving up and down the field, often running for 80-90 minutes without a break. Each side has 15 hardy players; any possession of the ball is likely to be contested. The ball is typically passed or played into touch, and the game is played on a rectangular field, with the objective of scoring more points than the opponent.

Dalton carries Bond tradition

By Kevin C. Ketchem

James Bond has received several screen and stage adaptations of Shakespeare’s “Macbeth.” Most notably, producer Albert R. Broccoli’s 1964 film directed by Carol Reed, which played to the strengths of the tradition of the world’s most famous spy, the financially rewarding series in film history.

The series is celebrating its 50th anniversary with the 2012 release of “Skyfall,” which is being heralded as the return of Bond to his roots. The film features the same themes and style as the original, with a focus on bone-crushing action sequences.

A FAMOUS CHANGE

The Bond character has undergone some changes since the original film. In the early movies, Bond was portrayed as a more suave and sophisticated character. However, in recent years, Bond has taken on a more rugged and real persona, as seen in the latest films. This change has been met with mixed reactions from fans, with some feeling that it is a departure from the traditional Bond character.

The Bond portrayal by Daniel Craig has been praised for its realism and intensity. Craig’s Bond is a more physically demanding character, with a focus on the action sequences. He is also shown to be a more emotionally complex character, with a personal life that is not always black and white.

In the latest film, “Skyfall,” Bond is shown to be a more vulnerable character, with a love for his former girlfriend Madeleine Swann and a deep sense of loyalty to his friends. This adds a new layer of depth to the character, and is a departure from the traditional Bond persona.

A NEW DIRECTION

In addition to the changes in Bond’s portrayal, there have been changes in the storylines as well. The original films focused on a series of individual stories, each with its own plot. However, in recent years, the series has taken on a more serialized approach, with a focus on the Bond legacy.

This trend is set to continue in the latest film, with a plot that is both a continuation of the Bond legacy and a new story in its own right. The film is expected to be a major success, with fans around the world looking forward to seeing how Craig’s Bond takes on the role of the world’s most famous spy.

In conclusion, the Bond franchise has undergone some changes since its inception, with a focus on bone-crushing action sequences and a more emotionally complex character. However, the franchise remains a major success, with fans around the world looking forward to seeing how Craig’s Bond continues the legacy of the world’s most famous spy.
