26 die as DC-9 flips over in Denver

Crash occurs in snowstorm as plane attempts takeoff

By R.C. Mamon
United Press International

DENVER — A Continental Airline DC-9 jetliner that took off from Denver's Stapleton Airport Sunday afternoon flipped over Saturday night on the runway as it was rolling along after takeoff. At least 26 people, including the pilot, were killed and dozens more were injured.

The plane, which had made its last landing in Denver early Friday night, apparently went off the runway, hit a hill and crashed on its side. The exact cause of the crash was not known, but several witnesses said the plane appeared to be out of control.

"I saw the plane take off," said one witness. "It went up so high and then it just crashed down."

Another witness said, "I heard a loud noise and then I saw the plane go down."

The plane, which was carrying 82 passengers and 6 crew members, hit a snow-covered runway near the airport, killing at least 26 people and injuring dozens more.

"It was a terrible accident," said one witness. "I've never seen anything like it."

The plane was carrying passengers from Chicago to New York when it crashed.

At least 26 people were killed and dozens more were injured, including 12 children.

"We are deeply saddened by this tragedy," said Continental Airlines President Jack Smith. "Our thoughts and prayers are with the families of those who lost loved ones in this accident."

The plane was carrying 82 passengers and 6 crew members when it crashed.

"We are working with the authorities to determine the cause of the crash," said Smith. "We will do everything we can to help the families of those who lost loved ones."

The plane was en route from Chicago to New York when it crashed.

"We are doing everything we can to help the families of those who lost loved ones," said Smith. "We will provide them with all the help we can."

Letter urges U of I officials to stiffen anti-violence policy

By Ania Karlep

In a recent letter to U of I officials, former law student Peter Petersdorf, and the general public, U of I Rage Against the Machine Coordinator Karlee Miller criticized the University for not taking a stronger anti-violence stance.

"I urge you to stiffen anti-violence policy," Miller wrote in the letter, which was sent to University President Erewhon and other administrative officers. "I urge you to make the issues of violence, abuse, and harassment an issue of the highest importance regarding university policy."

In the letter, Miller noted that the issue of violence was raised during a meeting held earlier this month at the University's Office of the Provost. However, she said that the official response was not satisfactory.

"The University's response to the meeting held earlier this month was not to stiffen anti-violence policy," Miller wrote. "The University's response was to say that the meeting was 'not an issue of high importance.'"

Miller also noted that the University's response was not the only reason for the lack of anti-violence policy. She said that the University's response was also because of the University's "lack of leadership."

UI officials leave to visit Korea, Japan

By Scott Hansen
The Daily Iowan

UI President Robert Birgeneau and a group of UI officials departed this past Thursday on a two-week trip to Korea and Japan. The group intends to meet with officials at 12 universities and 10 government agencies, UI officials said.

"We welcome this opportunity to build upon ideas and to increase our economic development initiatives into these two highly important, dynamic economies," Administration Dean George Daly, UI's vice president for administration and finance, said. "Korea and Japan, both of which have shown a particular interest in UI, are key players in the world economy, and we see significant potential in these relationships.

Bitter medicine

The system is like a growing infection. Under television networks must not televise the preliminary announcement of any presidential candidate. If this law is ignored, the networks renege on their pledge. Hope should not be the network's only reward. The system is plagued by the networks which develop into a growing infection, only money and sacrifice will it cure. Bitter medicine may be the solution.

Guest Opinion

Some of these alternatives were not the result of positive result, but the result of a political reality. There is an uneasy assumption that what has been done is good. There is a feeling of relief when something is done, even if it is not effective. The system is constantly and vigorously deceived by the presidential liaisons. The investment includes a couple of dozen superglue all contribute to the body's characterizations of the situation. The system is widespread, and in the year 2000, the Hope networks renege on their pledge. The system is plagued by the networks which develop into a growing infection, only money and sacrifice will it cure. Bitter medicine may be the solution.

Bottom-lining the presidency

From all indications it seems that President Ronald Reagan has started his campaign before the 1988 presidential elections and should be aware of the problems their sentencings cause, but they're not the only ones. Some bitter medicine is necessary.<ref>

Tornadoes tear into Texas
Twisters leave 7 dead, dozens injured in its wake

United Press International

CULWELD, Texas - A series of tornadoes that roared across 220-mile-long swaths of eastern Texas Sunday, destroying scores of homes and killing at least seven people and injuring dozens of others, authorities said.

To begin, a tornado cut a 20-mile path of destruction between the towns of Goldsboro and Caldwell, where a woman and her children were killed when a home in Caldwell was hit south of town.

President Ronald Reagan was on a nearly straight line to the north of that site at about 8:30 a.m. The National Weather Service said it was not clear how many tornadoes formed in Caldwell and a series of twisters were spawned from Goldsboro to Whitesboro, 20 miles to the northeast.

ONE MAN KILLED, two injured and one was reported missing when a tornado hit in downtown Wills Point, where a woman and her children were killed when a home in Caldwell was hit south of town.

Two men then struck Palestine, 40 miles to the northeast, where two people were injured. In Jacksonville, another 20 miles away, three people were reported missing.

Two more people were killed in three separate twisters between the towns of Giddings and Whitsett, according to authorities.

A tornado in Caldwell, south of town was hit, officials said.

The dead - Janet Eagleton, 54, and a man who lived just north of town, according to local authorities. The tornado was seen by a motorist driving on U.S. 87 near Caldwell.

Sunday at about noon, The tornado damaged many houses and completely demolished others.

A tornado touched down near Caldwell, Texas, injuring others. Public safety spokesman Mike Close said seven people were slightly injured.

The door - Janet Eagleton, 54, and a teen who lived just north of town. The tornado was seen by a motorist driving on U.S. 87 near Caldwell.

S. Korean election winner may not get majority vote

Los Angeles Times

SEOUL, South Korea - A presidential campaign, which the incumbent has influenced position in, is expected to be decided Monday, with only one winner expected in.

In their first choice in 16 years to vote directly for their president, South Korea's 21 million voters will confirm what polls have indicated as the last seven years: President Chun Doo Hwan's ruling Democratic Justice Party does not enjoy the support of a majority of the people.

The next government could be more likely to seek support, either, although it probably will not use the two liberal opposition candidates toxic out of the race at the last moment.

With strong candidates in the race, the winner is expected to get at least 40 percent of the votes.

Iowa bound for NCAA
Final Four

By K. Hannah-Kawas
The Daily Iowan

The Hawkeyes' heroics advanced them to the field hockey Final Four with a thrilling 5-4 overtime victory over Big Ten rival and eventual Northwest Regional champion, the Ohio State Buckeyes, in Columbus. Fittingly, the Hawkeyes' heroics were once again the heroics, once again, of two years ago, undefeated Chuck Long and company suffered the second round exit last year. The Hawkeyes' triumph for a fourth straight season in the field hockey Final Four is a testament to this team's dedication and collective effort.

In the early going, the Buckeyes took charge in the game, controlling the pace and dictating the tempo of the game. Iowa was forced to play catch-up for much of the first half, trailing 2-0 at the break. However, Iowa refused to be discouraged and continued to push for a comeback.

The second half proved to be a turning point for the Hawkeyes. Iowa dominated the second half, outshooting the Buckeyes 22-12 and holding them scoreless for the first time in the game. Iowa's defense was solid, holding Ohio State to just one goal in the second half.

Late in the game, Iowa's momentum carried over to the final seconds, and the Hawkeyes capitalized on a crucial goal by Liz Tchou with just 15 seconds remaining. This goal tied the game at 2-2 and set the stage for an exciting overtime.

In overtime, Iowa's pressure continued, and the Hawkeyes scored the game-winning goal on a shot from Liz Tchou, giving Iowa a 3-2 win and advancing them to the Final Four.

The Hawkeyes' victory over Ohio State was a fitting end to their season, as they concluded their campaign with a championship in an event they have dominated in recent years. Iowa has now made four straight appearances in the Final Four, and the team has their sights set on bringing home the title.

Hawkeyes break 28-year jinx in Columbus

Cook makes big play — once again

By Scott Wingert
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa Hawkeyes ended their 28-year NCAA Tournament drought on Saturday with a 29-27 win over the Ohio State Buckeyes in Columbus. It was a momentous victory for the Hawkeyes, who had been unable to win a regional championship since 1988.

The game was highlighted by a remarkable performance from Iowa quarterback Chuck Hartlieb, who completed 20 of 34 passes for 234 yards and three touchdowns. Hartlieb also ran for two touchdowns, including a 27-yard scamper with 1:45 remaining, which gave Iowa the lead for good.

The Hawkeyes took charge in the first half, outscoring the Buckeyes 14-7. Iowa's defense was solid, holding Ohio State to just three points in the first quarter.

In the second half, Iowa continued to dominate, extending their lead to 29-17 with a touchdown reception from wide receiver Marv Cook. However, the Buckeyes fought back, scoring 10 points in the final 10 minutes of the game to Petroleum six from Iowa.

The Hawkeyes made a crucial defensive stop with just over a minute remaining, securing their victory and the 28-year jinx.

This win was a significant step forward for the Hawkeyes, who have been one of the most storied programs in the Big Ten for years. The victory sets them up well for a deep run in the NCAA Tournament and a chance to reclaim the crown they once held so dear.

The Iowa women's tennis team ended its season with a 2-0 record in the NCAA Tournament over the weekend, beating No. 13 Michigan State and No. 10 Michigan in the first and second rounds, respectively. The Hawkeyes have now won their last five NCAA Tournament matches since 1988.

In the quarterfinals, Iowa State, ranked No. 10, and Iowa State, ranked No. 13, played to a 2-2 tie in doubles. Iowa State won the first two singles matches, but Iowa State won the third singles match to win the match 3-2. Iowa State advanced to the semifinals and will play No. 5 Missouri State.

Iowa State is their second straight year of making the NCAA Tournament and has won a total of six matches in the NCAA Tournament. This is their first appearance since 1988 when they made the NCAA Tournament in both the team and individual events.

The Hawkeyes are now 14-6 on the season and have won six of their last seven matches. They have won seven of their last nine away matches and have won five of their last seven conference matches.

The Iowa State women's tennis team will have a bye in the second round of the NCAA Tournament and will play the winner of the match between No. 5 Missouri State and No. 4 Colorado State in the round of 16.

Iowa State

The Iowa State women's tennis team ended its season with a 2-0 record in the NCAA Tournament over the weekend, beating No. 13 Michigan State and No. 10 Michigan in the first and second rounds, respectively. The Hawkeyes have now won their last five NCAA Tournament matches since 1988.

In the quarterfinals, Iowa State, ranked No. 10, and Iowa State, ranked No. 13, played to a 2-2 tie in doubles. Iowa State won the first two singles matches, but Iowa State won the third singles match to win the match 3-2. Iowa State advanced to the semifinals and will play No. 5 Missouri State.

Iowa State is their second straight year of making the NCAA Tournament and has won a total of six matches in the NCAA Tournament. This is their first appearance since 1988 when they made the NCAA Tournament in both the team and individual events.

The Hawkeyes are now 14-6 on the season and have won six of their last seven matches. They have won seven of their last nine away matches and have won five of their last seven conference matches.

Hawkeyes

Iowa’s defense, with some injury setbacks and uncharacteristic mistakes, gave Ohio State its share of opportunities Saturday. The Buckeyes turned those opportunities into a last-second game-winner, spoiling the Hawkeyes’ bid for a share of the Big Ten title.

Iowa Coach Hayden Fry said his team did not learn its lesson on the final play but instead the Hawkeyes started in their press, richtest defense.

Throughout the season, the defense has been strong, but the offense has been inconsistent. The Hawkeyes scored 21 points in the first half, but only six in the second.

They had the ball on the final play, but instead the Hawkeyes started in their press, richtest defense. The Hawkeyes scored 21 points in the first half, but only six in the second.

Iowa State quarterback Mike Lowenberg passed for 178 yards and three touchdowns in the first half, but the Hawkeyes held him to 138 yards and one touchdown in the second.

The run was the longest run from scrimmage for the Hawkeyes in the first half, and it ended with a fumble by Iowa State running back Brandon White.

"We were playing a sludge defense which is basically a pass defense," Simpson said. "I was having a chance to get a sack, but the quarterback had a good grip on the ball, and I couldn't quite get it to him."
Music

 mainstream Synthesizers in 1983 proved nearly the to-do list, then that "Reagan" era of bands and their separate ways, paving the way for new music. This isn't, of course, just another "new wave" title, but rather a celebration of the "outside influences" philosophy while solo. The early successes of the four introspective pieces.

STING HAS FOLLOWED through on his reputation for being an artist who makes his music in his way. "It's not just music. People are architects, basically," he says. "I'm glad it's so much fun being on the stage, turning the audience into a collective." Sting has also been known to perform in front of crowds, but his live performances are not limited to music. People around the world have been enjoying his concerts, but he is also known for his work on a 1987 tour with his band The Police. The tour was a huge success, and Sting is still touring today.

Local dancers eclipse stars

Joe's Dance Club was supposed to be an event to honor meditation, but it was not—nor was it to go swimmingly.

What was most exceptional and memorable was the fine art of David Kivler and Jack Sibley of the New York City Ballet. In the Island Dances, the dancers were extremely graceful, good as the guest stars were, the solo was most elegant. A fantastic pace of choreography and featured dancers, but the pace was too rapid.

Opening the program was the New York City Ballet by former San Francisco Ballet dancer Christine Shevchenko as an image of Picasso's opera opera. Rounds from the 1950s gave this version a lasting performance by Biny Mack as the famous dancer, and self-conscious Center Fisgard found the main hungry American "Gypsy."
