A Coralville mad who saved the life of a 9-month-old Jeremy Westrum on Sept. 21 was honored for her handling of the emergency situation.

Susan Phillips, the Coralville High School junior of the month for September, received a $25 gift certificate for her efforts.

The money is earmarked for the Little River Rescue Fund.

"It's been well worth it," said Phillips, "even though it was a little scary, too.

I tried to do what I was supposed to."

Susan Phillips was babysitting Jeremy Westrum when he suddenly stopped breathing and began to turn blue.

"It's a miracle he was alive long enough for me to reach out and help him," Phillips said.

"That's what I just did."

On Sept. 21, Phillips was babysitting Westrum, 9 months old, when he began to choke on a toy and then stopped breathing.

"I knew what to do," Phillips said.

"I knew how to dislodge the food using the Heimlich maneuver."

Phillips, a 19-year-old sophomore at the University of Northern Iowa, is a member of the Urban Research Study Group and the Urban Research Discussion Group.

"I was able to dislodge the toy from the child's mouth using the Heimlich maneuver," Phillips said.

When seeing a child in distress, Phillips acts quickly.

In an effort to bring light manufacturing into some of the somber areas of Iowa City, the Iowa City Council voted Tuesday night, passing the An Ordinance allowing light manufacturing in three specific areas, on two counts.

The ordinance renews the city's zoning map, which is currently outdated.

The city has not recognized the changing dynamics of the southeast part of Iowa City, which are currently used for business but not production, according to city development director David Donaldson. Donaldson said his vote for the ordinance wasn't without a major drawback.

Donaldson claimed the move, which will allow manufacturing use of land in the formerly exclusive residential area, is "a necessary evil" —what he said was not an unnecessary use of land.

"THERE IS TIME; there are a lot of serious reductions down there, but no manufacturing," he said.

"We're going to speak about hunger in the context that it can be ended," he said.

The members of the UI International Writing Project will read their actual works, including Aldo Lucano of Peru, Guido Alcala of Paraguay, Lakshmi Kannan of India, Lubwa P'Chong of Kenya, Adolfo Cisneros of Peru, and Ambrisco of Mexico, a poet who will present in the UI's "Day on the Planet" event, said. "And also to let people know what's possible for ending hunger," she said, adding that people will be encouraged to write letters and to volunteer for local human service organizations.

Iowa gasoline prices up sharply

DESI MOINES — Iowaans are paying higher prices for gasoline, and the trend is expected to continue.

According to the American Automobile Association, the average price of regular unleaded gasoline in Iowa is $2.49 per gallon, up 3 cents from last week.

The association said the higher prices are caused by the increased cost of crude oil, which has risen 13 cents per barrel in the past week.

The association also said the increase is likely to continue as demand for gasoline continues to rise.

WASHINGTON — President Clinton signed a bill Tuesday in Milwaukee that requires states to file reports on the number of school district employees who are members of religious organizations.

Investigators eye ice buildup as cause of Denver jet crash

By Tom Marshall

DENVER — A Continental Airlines spokesman said Tuesday that it was too early to assign blame in the crash of its DC-9 on Sunday night.

The Federal Aviation Administration is investigating the cause of the crash of the flight carrying 10 United Press International correspondents and 17 passengers.

Dr. John Redman, the airline's chief medical officer, said the plane hit the ground in the middle of the runway at Denver International Airport.

"This is a very tragic incident," he said. "We're on our way to the scene now." Redman added that the plane was climbing at the time of the crash.

deciding to begin writing the final document.

Although the treaty was about 90 percent complete, Kampelman and Vorontsov were called to Geneva after an unexpected meeting in Moscow.

Gas leak survivors protest in India
By David Barnet

NEW DELHI, India — Hundreds of women and children who survived the 1984 Bhopal gas disaster marched through the capital Tuesday to protest an expected end-of-year settlement between the government and Union Carbide in the $2 billion Bhopal disaster. The march was organized by the Indian National Women's Conference and the Bhopal Gas Victims Committee.

The protesters, who carried traditional religious symbols with them, demanded that the government continue the investigation into the disaster and that Union Carbide be held accountable for its actions.

The Indian Parliament was scheduled to discuss the settlement on Tuesday, but adjourned the session over an amendment.

The government's compensation proposal, said the protest organizers, was inadequate. Compensation for non-economic losses would amount to at least $8 billion, they said.

ON THE NIGHT OF DEC. 3, 1984, methyl isocyanate gas escaped from the Union Carbide plant in Bhopal, India, south of New Delhi. The leak was blamed on a design flaw and inadequate monitoring.

The Indian government estimated Union Carbide was liable but adjourned the case to an amicable solution.

Some 250,000 people were affected. The company claims liability for a fraction of the people.

Judge W.W. Das of the Rajasthan High Court last month ordered the government to pay $475 million as compensation.

A U.S. Senate committee investigating the disaster has recommended that the company pay $7.9 billion to the victims.

U.S. ready for military escalation in Gulf
By Richard Sale

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration is pushing ahead with plans to increase U.S. military presence in the Gulf, despite the absence of any immediate threat from Iraq.

The plan includes sending more equipment and troops to the region, as well as increasing surveillance of Iraqi military activities.

President Reagan's new strategy is aimed at maintaining the status quo in the Gulf region and preventing any future threat.

U.S. officials say the move is necessary to protect American interests and ensure regional stability.

The plan, which was approved by the Pentagon, includes sending additional troops and ships to the region, as well as increasing surveillance of Iraqi military activities.

The plan has been met with criticism from some U.S. allies, who argue that it could escalate tensions in the region.

Although the school bus has proven to be one of the safest transportation modes for students, the lack of seat belts on school buses leaves much to be desired. seat belts are mandatory. And even though requiring seat belts is a safety measure for students, the fact is that seat belts can be harmful if not used properly. A school bus is a large vehicle with a lot of space, and students can easily be thrown around in the event of an accident. Therefore, one must be cautious when using seat belts on school buses. In addition, the National Coalition for Seat Belts on School Buses has conducted research that shows that students who are not properly seated on school buses are more likely to be injured in the event of an accident.

Opinion

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my concern about the safety of students on school buses. The lack of seat belts on these vehicles is a serious problem that needs to be addressed.

President Roosevelt's idea has been under consideration for some time, but it has not been implemented. However, with the recent events in Japan, there is renewed interest in this issue. The United States is currently evaluating the safety of its own school buses, and we are looking at ways to improve the safety of students on these vehicles.

The State of the Union Address

President Reagan addressed the Congress and the nation Tuesday evening to discuss the subject of legislation that will come up during the upcoming session of Congress.

The President said the main areas of legislation that the Congress will be dealing with are education, health care and taxes.

In his remarks, the President said that education is the cornerstone of our nation's future. He said that the Congress should focus on increasing funding for education programs and on improving the quality of education in the nation's schools.

The President also spoke about the need for better health care. He said that the Congress should work to ensure that every American has access to affordable health care.

Finally, the President addressed the issue of taxes. He said that the Congress should consider reducing the tax rate for middle-class families and increasing the tax rate for wealthy individuals.

The President ended his remarks by encouraging the Congress to work together to address these important issues and to continue to build a strong and prosperous nation.

Hawks top Italian team in overtime

Iowa 89
Italian Nationals 82

By Mike Tolles
The Daily Iowan

Even though the Iowa basketball team hooked up right wing to left of late season, the Hawkeyes overpowered the Italian team 89-82 in overtime Tuesday night at Carver-Hawkeye Arena. The Hawkeyes seized the championship of the four-team tournament with the win.

By morning, the Italian team was still standing, but the Hawks were eliminated.

The Hawks, then, must turn their attention to other games.

Hayden Fry said, "It's been proven through the years that the Hawks are a great basketball team, and they were a great basketball team out there tonight." The Hawks are still a team that can contend for the national championship.

The Hawks are still a team that can contend for the national championship.

On The Line

OK, we did it. O.T. Line, in the winter of 1982, he started it and now (six seasons later) it's here. Iowa played Iowa State and the tie was broken by the 1982 cherry-berry tiegame. It was the first time in over 50 years that Iowa State and Iowa met in the same season and the first time in over 50 years that Iowa State had been allowed to play in the championship game.

Puk puts tackling ahead of all else

By Hugh Donlan

The Daily Iowan

11/19/1987

Puk doesn't talk a lot, and talk is one of the big weapons in football. He'll be one of the few key performers in the Hawkeyes' defensive front; his contribution will be measured only if they win. The Hawkeyes need only halves to win the game, and Puk's role could be vital. He's a quiet leader, a hard worker, a good role model for the team. By the end of the season, he'll be the team's most valuable player. He's a big asset to the Hawkeyes, and his value could be critical in any game. He's a key to the Hawkeyes' success.
