Baby heart patient leaves hospital

By Monica Seigel and Lisa Legge
The Daily Iowan

Mariasa Getting, the youngest heart transplant recipient in Iowa, was released from the UI Hospitals and Clinics Thursday, 40 days after receiving a new heart.

Getting, daughter of Robert and Doreen Getting of Grundy Center, Iowa, was born Oct. 17 at a Waterloo hospital and transferred to the UI Hospitals two days later.

UI College of Medicine Professor Douglas Behrendt, chief of the transplant team, said Getting's release was about on schedule.

"It was about on time for our transplant patients — four to five weeks," he said.

ON OCTOBER 18, Getting, born with hypoplastic left heart syndrome, was placed on a national computer listing of potential heart transplant recipients. At seven days, she received the plum-sized heart from a Washington, D.C., Sudden Infant Death Syndrome victim, making her one of the youngest heart transplant recipients in history and the youngest ever at UI Hospitals.

Behrendt said Getting's recovery from the transplant has been "faster than expected."

"She had a lot of difficulties the first week," he said. "But once she began to get well she got well quickly."

Getting will make weekly visits to UI Hospitals and to Waterloo pediatric cardiologist Gregorio Kazenelson, the doctor who diagnosed her condition.

Kazenelson said they will watch carefully for signs of rejection of the heart or infection, but added he isn't overly concerned those problems will surface.

THE BABY'S AGE and size shouldn't create any special complications in her recovery, Behrendt said.

"I think she has the same potential problems as any transplant patient," he said.

Behrendt said Getting's parents helped care for her while she was in the hospital and had a bed set up in her room so they could sometimes stay with her.

"The most difficult part of this whole miracle was the waiting," Robert Getting said. "Waiting to see if a heart would become available. Waiting to see if she'd make it through surgery. Waiting to see what would happen next. Now, we're at the last phase, just waiting to take her home."

"We're very grateful to all the people who have helped us," he said.

GETTING WILL take medication for the rest of her life, hospital officials said, but otherwise will probably live a normal life.

"Other than weekly visits to University Hospitals and to her doctor in Waterloo, she'll live a

Fifth prospect Challoner will visit UI today

By Scott Hauser
The Daily Iowan

University of Florida Vice President for Health Affairs David Challoner — the last of five announced presidential prospects — will be on campus today to talk with campus constituencies about becoming the next UI president.

Challoner, a medical doctor who is chairman of the board of the University of Florida's Shands Hospital, was praised by University of Florida officials as an excellent administrator who has helped lead the university's health-sciences complex into one of the best in the nation.

"He's a fantastic individual and a wonderful administrator," University of Florida College of Medicine Dean William Deal said.

FLORIDA UNIVERSITY system Vice Chancellor for Health Affairs Patricia Hainey said Challoner has a "very information-oriented" management style.

"One of the things I've been extremely pleased with is that he either knows what's going on or immediately knows the person who has the information he needs," she said.

Challoner, 52, has been vice president for health affairs at the University of Florida, where he is also a professor of internal medicine, since 1982. Previously he was dean and professor of medicine at St. Louis University School of Medicine.

As vice president, he is the administrator in charge of the University of Florida's Health-Science Complex — which includes the colleges of medicine, dentistry, nursing, pharmacy, allied health and veterinary medicine, Shands Hospital spokesman Douglas Buck said.

CHALLONER RECEIVED his bachelor's degree from Lawrence College in Appleton, Wis., and his medical doctor degree from Harvard Medical School in 1961.

He was a professor of medicine and biochemistry, assistant chairman of the department of medicine and special assistant to the dean for research and development at the University of Indiana before becoming the dean of medicine at St. Louis University.

He was scheduled to arrive Thursday night and will have a series of meetings with UI administrators, faculty and staff members and students while he is on campus.

In a prepared statement, Challoner said he is not a candidate for the presidency, but has been invited to gather information about the position, to explore his interest in the UI and to let UI representatives meet him.

HE SAID HE and his family are happy in Florida, but said the UI is a leading Big Ten institution located in the state with the highest literacy rate in the nation, which he called "an attractive combination."

Residents oppose park development

By Craig Sterrett
The Daily Iowan

The Johnson County Conservation Board presented its six-year county conservation development plan during a public hearing Thursday night, but most of those attending the meeting expressed opposition to the further development of Kent Park, Hwy 6.

About 80 people crowded into the Board of Supervisors office in the Johnson County Administration Building Thursday night to express their views on the board's plan, which would allocate $3 million in funds over a six-year period to various conservation programs.

The plan, which was approved Nov. 23 by the conservation board, includes:

- Creating a family campground at Kent Park that could handle 40-foot long campers with electrical hookups, sewer systems, showers and resurfaced paved roads. The renovated campground would cost $74,000 and could be constructed beginning in 1987, with construction being completed by 1989.

- Making no further improvements in Scott's Church Corner Park, and turning Walker County Park from a park into a county conservation area because of lack of use. The county conservation board would continue to maintain the park, but make no further improvements on county-owned river accesses.

- Dredging of the heavily-silted 683-acre Kent Park Lake and taking steps to avoid further siltation. One of these steps would be to possibly purchase land surrounding the upper 265 acres of the lake's upper watershed from farmers and conserving the soil around the stream.

- A wildlife habitat and reforestation project aimed at maintaining trees and shrubs, and improving wildlife areas in all of the county's conservation areas.

- Creating a $70,500 wildlife exhibit area in Kent Park, beginning development in 1989 and finishing the project by 1991. The exhibit would allow the viewing of elk and buffalo confined in "as nearly natural an area as possible," and would cost about $2,700 a year to maintain. The Board of Supervisors unanimously rejected this idea last spring when it was proposed.

- Developing a $34,700 arboretum in Kent Park where different varieties of trees and shrubs could be studied.

Finally, the board proposed setting up an Environmental Awareness Program, based at Kent Park, and hiring a naturalist to serve as an environmental education coordinator to help educate the public. Cost

Cubans to end Atlanta seige Pact with government accepted by prisoners

By Ken Sugar
United Press International

ATLANTA — Cubans holding 89 hostages in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary voted Thursday to accept an agreement with the government ending the 11-day-old siege, a Justice Department spokesman said.

Spokesman Pat Korten said detainees called to tell government officials at 4 p.m. that the agreement had been accepted. It was initiated by a delegation of inmate leaders at 1:30 p.m.

"At this hour . . . we are waiting for word from them concerning the timing and manner in which they would like to formally sign this agreement and put an end to the incident that began 11 days ago," Korten said.

Roman Catholic Bishop Agustin Roman left Miami for Atlanta aboard a government plane at 7:40 p.m., according to U.S. Customs spokesman Michael Sheehan. Roman was scheduled to land at Atlanta's Hartsfield International Airport at 10:20 p.m. The Cuban-born bishop who lives in Miami was instrumental in ending the takeover by Cuban inmates of a federal prison in Oakdale, La.

"NOW I GO TO Atlanta," Roman said in an impromptu news conference outside the Shrine of Our Lady of Charity in Miami.

Roman said he hoped to meet with the inmate leaders and to review the agreement, which he has not seen. He was not involved in the drafting process.

Poll: U.S. does not understand treaty

By Richard Morin
Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Slightly more than half of all Americans approve of the proposed treaty banning medium- and short-range nuclear missiles, but an even larger majority say they know little or nothing about it, according to a new Washington Post-ABC News poll.

The survey showed that 52 percent of the 1,007 persons interviewed said they supported the treaty. Only 8 percent were opposed, while 40 percent said they did not know enough about the agreement to have an opinion.

Other results suggest that even those Americans with no firm opinion are predisposed to favor the treaty. When respondents who said they were undecided were then asked which way they were leaning, support for the agreement increased to 82 percent.

THE SURVEY SEEMED to describe an American public eager to embrace the proposed INF treaty with the Soviets. But some results also suggest opinion on the proposed treaty, while generally positive, is also largely uninformed and easily led, factors that could be exploited by treaty opponents during the ratification debate in the Senate next year.

The survey disclosed that half of all respondents said they knew "not much" about the treaty and

Johnson County Board votes to sell cows at care facility

By Craig Sterrett
The Daily Iowan

More than a century ago when the Johnson County Care Facility was founded as a poor farm it was feasible to farm the 50 acres of land surrounding the facility and raise livestock to feed the residents.

But that apparently is no longer feasible.

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously Thursday to sell the livestock at the care facility located just inside Iowa City's western city limits on Melrose Avenue. After a few of the beef and dairy shorthorns are butchered, what remains of the county's herd of 35 stock cattle, 28 dairy cows and seven feeder cattle will be hauled off to market this month.

The board decided to sell the cattle for economic reasons and because working with the livestock is not as therapeutic to the mental health facility's residents as it was when the facility was a poor farm, Supervisor Harold Donnelly said.

"IT USED TO be quite a therapeutic thing for the people out there," Donnelly said.

But over the years, the facility has changed from being a home for the poor with a large population of elderly people to a mental health/mental retardation facility with a younger population less able to do the farm work.

"Economically it's not worth the trouble," Donnelly said.

An inspector from the Iowa State Department of Health said the facility needed a new pasteurizer for its dairy cow milk. Rather than buying the new machine, the county opted to get out of the dairy business.

Johnson County Auditor Ed Brunner said there are no records indicating exactly when the care facility began raising cattle, but said he knows the county began farming soon after the care facility's founding to make the facility self-sufficient.

"THERE HAS ALWAYS been livestock here," Johnson County

Iowa Avenue reopened

Iowa Avenue between Madison Street and Riverside Drive has been reopened after 21 days of being closed, according to Iowa City officials.

The street was closed on Nov. 12 after a truck carrying a crane apparatus crashed into the railroad bridge spanning Iowa Avenue west of the Pentacrest.

Damage to the bridge was estimated at $200,000. The truck was totaled in the accident.

Board appropriates funds

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors voted 3-2 Thursday to appropriate $27,412 to the county attorney's office to cover the costs of collective bargaining negotiations, wage raises and family health insurance of attorney's office employees.

The county attorney had asked for $31,412. Proposals by board members for appropriations of $23,412 and $26,412 were defeated before the board approved the final total.

The appropriation will help cover personnel costs, collective bargaining contract costs, health insurance costs and the County Attorney's salary.

Mall sponsors gift program

The Old Capitol Center in Iowa City is sponsoring its annual Santanonymus Program for needy individuals in the Iowa City area.

The program, now in its seventh year, collects items for eight Iowa City and Johnson County agencies: Head Start, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, The Domestic Violence Project, the Emergency Housing Project, The Crisis Center, Willow Creek Neighborhood Center, Youth Homes, Inc., and the Association for Retarded Citizens.

The Iowa City Hospice group will also be selling ornaments to decorate the Hospice tree on the second level of the Old Capitol Center at the north end. Contributors may purchase ornaments for $1, $3, or $5 to help raise money for the hospice organization.

Hospital offers programs

Groups affiliated with Mercy Hospital, 500 Market St., will be holding meetings throughout the month of December at the hospital.

The monthly meeting of the Compassionate Friends support group will be held on Monday, Dec. 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the First Floor Conference Room at the hospital. The group offers friendship and support to parents who have lost children through death. Discussion for this meeting will be on preparing for the holidays.

The monthly meeting of the Johnson County Arthritis Support Group will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 15, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Community Room of Capitol House Apartments, 320 S. Dubuque St. The topic for the evening will be "Fight Back With Fitness."

The Stroke Club will also hold a meeting on Dec. 15 at 1:30 p.m. in the First Floor Conference Room at the hospital. The club, which is a support group for people who have experienced a stroke and their families and friends, will feature a lecture on "Healthy Holiday Eating" at the meeting.

For more information about Mercy Hospital support groups, contact Mercy's Education Office at 337-0670.

Red Cross offers course

The Johnson County chapter of the American Red Cross will be offering a babysitting course which will teach the function and skills of babysitting to interested participants.

The class will meet Monday, Dec. 7, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., Friday, Dec. 11, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., and Saturday, Dec. 12, from 9 a.m. to noon in the Robert A. Lee Community Recreation Center, 220 S. Gilbert St.

Red Cross certification will be awarded to those 11 years old and older who successfully complete the course.

Enrollment is limited to 20 persons; a cost-recovery fee of $5 per person will be charged. Interested persons may register with the Johnson County American Red Cross by calling 337-2119.

School district is cleared for past contract violations

By Craig Sterrett
The Daily Iowan

After more than six hours of arbitration by a Public Employment Relations Board attorney, the Iowa City Community School District and the Iowa City Education Association reached a tentative agreement early Thursday morning nullifying a grievance the teachers' union filed against the district last year.

The agreement will enable district administrators to deny any violations cited in an October ruling by the employment relations board which said school district administrators had made violations in the Iowa Code during last year's contract negotiations and teachers' evaluations.

At 1:17 a.m. Thursday, the two sides reached the tentative agreement. The decision was delayed over the issue of the ICEA recognizing the district's right to communicate with its employees.

THE DISTRICT MAY communicate with its employees, as long as that communication does not circumvent the bargaining process, Iowa City Community Schools Associate Superintendent Al Azinger said.

The district and the ICEA agreed upon use of an "evaluation instrument" — or the way teacher performance is evaluated — for a trial period of two years. The two sides also agreed upon having an evaluation committee, although the ICEA initially was opposed to having the committee, Azinger said.

The October ruling against the district stated that the district had made changes in the teacher's evaluation committee without consulting the bargaining unit, had contacted individual members of the union rather than communicating with them through the ICEA and had made changes in the mandatory subject of negotiations without consulting the ICEA.

ICEA PRESIDENT Karen Woolums said she was happy to get the dispute between the district and the union settled.

"I think it is a workable plan," Woolums said. "The most important thing to me is that we reached a tentative agreement in a positive atmosphere."

She said both sides seemed to want to get the issue settled.

The Iowa City School Board will vote on the tentative agreement Dec. 8.

If the board passes the agreement, the ICEA may then ratify it.

Authorities to file charges against Polk prostitute ring

United Press International

DES MOINES — Polk County authorities say they expect to file charges against the operators of a sophisticated prostitution ring who allegedly have conducted employee meetings to teach prostitutes how to fill out credit card slips for their customers.

Authorities this week said the ring operated as out-call and in-call nude modeling and massage businesses and solicited customers through newspaper ads.

Assistant Polk County Attorney James Bowers said the ring used the names Travelers Associates, Everyone's Choice, Couriers and The Travelers.

He said details of the operation were disclosed during a recent court hearing to determine whether authorities were required to return property seized during an investigation of the ring.

DURING THE hearing, Jean Paho, who identified herself as one of the ring's employees, told of an employee meeting in which she and other women were instructed on how they could help the business run more smoothly.

She said the women were taught how to fill out credit card slips, which ring operators would redeem at cash value, less their 25 percent fee. Customers who paid for the women's services by credit card also paid a 10 percent surcharge, she said.

Paho said the ring also operated a telephone service in which customers were charged a $20 fee on their credit card accounts in exchange for women "talking dirty to them."

Bowers said an investigation of the operation is continuing and he expects several individuals to be charged in the case. But he would not say how many people he expects to prosecute or when they will be charged.

Authorities began investigating the operation last August after police raided the west side office of Donald Griffith and confiscated numerous credit card slips from the operation.

A UI graduate student was arrested by Iowa City police Thursday morning and charged with domestic abuse after his live-in girlfriend reported that he had assaulted her, according to police reports.

Andrew David Smith, 713 Oakcrest St., reportedly assaulted the victim in his apartment Thursday at about 8:55 a.m., according to the report.

Smith allegedly left the apartment after the incident, but police officers were able to locate him. Police then arrested him and took him to the Johnson County Jail, where he was scheduled to make an appearance in Johnson County District Court this morning, according to the report.

Theft: New furniture valued at approximately $2,000 to $3,000 was reported stolen Thursday afternoon from the newly remodeled Delta Upsilon fraternity house, 320 Ellis Ave., according to police reports.

Between 1 a.m. and 8:30 a.m. Thursday, unidentified individuals allegedly entered the house and stole a small couch, a large coffee table, an ottoman, a small table lamp, a standing floor lamp and possibly a small lamp, according to the report.

Theft: Golf equipment and a radar detector valued at $1,100 were reported stolen Wednesday from a Jeep parked in the UI Field House south parking lot, according to Campus Security reports.

The golf bag, golf clubs and radar detector were reported stolen at about 1:30 p.m., according to the report.

Theft: Four containers of Mary Kay cosmetics and jewelry, and an antique spoon valued at more than $300 were reported stolen from an Iowa City woman's car on Nov. 29 or Nov. 30, according to police reports.

Margaret Savage, 456 Samoa Drive, told Iowa City Police Thursday the cosmetics and jewelry worth $260 and a 6-inch antique silver spoon with "Nancy" engraved on the handle valued at $40 were stolen from her unlocked car while it was parked in front of her home, according to the report.

A UI student was charged with assault with intent to commit sexual abuse Thursday, according to Johnson County District Court records.

George H. Hopper, 21, 625 Emerald St., allegedly assaulted a female UI student who is a resident of the Burge Residence Hall on Nov. 5. During the assault the victim's buttock was scratched, according to court records.

A preliminary hearing is set for Dec. 23.

and a ladder in August, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Scot Mitchell Smith, 20, 527 N. Linn St., admitted to stealing a men's Panasonic 10-speed bicycle valued at $300 from Mercy Hospital, according to court records. Officers removed the bicycle from Smith's residence and are holding it for evidence, according to court records.

As a result of the bicycle investigation, Smith was identified as being responsible for the theft of a 20-foot aluminum ladder. Court records indicate the ladder was allegedly stolen from a residence in the 400 block of North Dubuque Street on Aug. 20, according to court records.

Officers observed the ladder valued at $109 in Smith's garage, according to court records. A preliminary hearing is set for Dec. 23.

A Coralville woman pleaded guilty Thursday to trespassing after she refused to leave an apartment on 1200 Fifth St. in Coralville, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Kathy Jean Sprinkle, 22, Coral Trailer Park, was involved in a fight at the Carol Ann Apts. on Oct. 30. When she was asked to leave numerous times by the owner of the apartments, she refused to do so, saying she had a right to be in the apartment and was not leaving until she received a set of keys, according to court records.

Sprinkle was fined $54, according to court records.

Protesters U.S. aid to

By Joseph Levy
The Daily Iowan

Pro-Palestinian protesters held a candlelight vigil on the Pentacrest Thursday night demonstrating against U.S. military support for Israel.

About 50 people braved cold temperatures and strong winds to listen to speakers from the Nov. 30 Committee for Palestine, the Arab Association, the Gen. Union of Palestinian Students and the New Wave.

The first speaker, who has lived in Palestine and asked to be identified only as Saed, spoke about an incident which took place a month ago in the West Bank region where an Israeli military officer shot and killed a Palestinian woman.

"We're standing tonight in memory of those people's souls," Saed said.

PALESTINE IS currently controlled and occupied by Israeli forces, who the protesters say are violating the Palestinians' personal freedoms.

"I just want to try to understand that guy's feelings when he's just spraying those people with bullets," Saed said.

Saed told the crowd he lived

A protester quietly sits on the steps of the Old Capital and listens to a speech protesting U.S. military support to Israel Thursday evening during a candlelight vigil.

Protesters criticize U.S. aid to Israel

By Joseph Levy
The Daily Iowan

Pro-Palestinian protesters held a candlelight vigil on the Pentacrest Thursday night demonstrating against U.S. military support to Israel.

About 50 people braved cold temperatures and strong winds to listen to speakers from the Nov. 29th Committee for Palestine, the Arabic Association, the General Union of Palestinian Students and New Wave.

The first speaker, who has lived in Palestine and asked to be identified only as Saed, spoke about an incident which took place about one month ago in the Palestinian region where an Israeli military officer shot and killed a Palestinian woman.

The woman had eight children. "We're standing tonight in memory of those people's souls," Saed said.

PALESTINE IS currently controlled and occupied by Israeli forces, who the protesters say are violating the Palestinians' personal freedoms.

"I just want to try to understand that guy's feelings when he was just spraying those people with bullets," Saed said.

Saed told the crowd he lived in Palestine for 18 years, and was shot by an Israeli military man when he was 15. "You never know who is going to die there," he said.

Palestine under Israeli occupation is similar to apartheid in South Africa, Saed added.

UI junior Mona Igram, who gave a brief presentation, agreed with Saed, saying atrocities committed under "Palestinian apartheid" are as bad as apartheid in South Africa.

"IT'S UNFORTUNATE that some people accept this kind of discrimination," she said, adding United States support to Israel is aiding the murder of innocent civilians. "It's our money and our weapons."

Following the brief speeches, demonstrators carrying candles and signs left the Pentacrest and marched downtown in support of their cause.

Statements on the signs included:

- "Save the Children of Palestine"
  - "Anti-Zionism does not equal anti-Semitism"
  - "Revolution until victory".
- Another sign said Israel should be considered the United States' 51st state because U.S. support to the Middle East nation is so extensive.

Deficit-cutting plan wins first battle

WASHINGTON — House Democrats overcame Republican opposition Thursday to pass a multibillion-dollar spending plan billed as the first legislative step in implementing the deficit-cutting pact between Congress and the White House. Lawmakers split nearly along party lines in the Democratic-controlled House to cast a 248-170 vote in favor of the $587 billion package drawn up to pay for government programs in fiscal 1988 and to meet spending requirements established in the negotiated anti-deficit agreement.

18 states require AIDS education

WASHINGTON — AIDS education is required in only 18 states, the National Association of State Boards of Education said Thursday in fixing a goal of warning every child of the fatal, sexually transmitted disease. A state-by-state survey on AIDS education in schools showed that the number of states mandating instruction about acquired immune deficiency syndrome has more than tripled from five last spring to 18, the association said.

Senate bans Stinger sale to Bahrain

WASHINGTON — A key Senate panel rejected pleas Thursday from the White House, the defense secretary and the Joint Chiefs of Staff and kept intact a proposed ban on the sale of Stinger anti-aircraft missiles to Bahrain.

Shearson to buy Hutton for $1 billion

NEW YORK — Shearson Lehman Brothers Holdings Inc. said Thursday it has signed an agreement to buy E.F. Hutton Group Inc. for about $1 billion. The merged entity will be the nation's largest brokerage. Shearson will buy up to 28.1 million shares of Hutton common stock at $29.25 per share. Before the agreement, Merrill Lynch & Co. was widely considered to be the nation's largest retail brokerage firm.

Super collider funding in jeopardy

DENVER — Federal funding for the superconducting super collider project is in jeopardy because Congress has failed to make the $4.4 billion atom smasher a top priority, Energy Secretary John Herrington said Thursday. Congress continues to debate whether to grant the Reagan administration's 1988 funding request for the project. The Senate has approved legislation granting $35 million for 1988, but a comparable bill in the House providing $25 million has stalled.

Prosecutor rests case against Deaver

WASHINGTON — Special prosecutor Whitney North Seymour Jr. rested his case against ex-White House aide Michael Deaver Thursday after playing five hours of tapes of grand jury testimony in which Deaver had repeated memory lapses. The final two days of Seymour's case were taken up with playing audio tapes of Deaver's June 20, 1986, testimony before a federal grand jury that showed Deaver responded "I don't recall" or "I can't remember" more than 70 times in 144 pages of transcript.

Iowa high court to swear in new justice

DES MOINES — Justice James Andreasen of Algona will be sworn in Dec. 16 as the 100th member of the Iowa Supreme Court, Chief Justice Arthur McGiverin said Thursday. Andreasen, 56, a district court judge since 1975, will be sworn in by Gov. Terry Branstad during ceremonies at the Statehouse courtroom. He will replace Charles Wolle, who resigned to become a U.S. district judge.

General strike in Haiti called for today

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — A popular political leader called Thursday for a general strike today to force the ouster of the military-led government, which halted voting in the first national elections in 30 years amid unrestrained violence. Silvio Claude, head of the Christian Democratic Party of Haiti, and two splinter political parties called for a 24-hour general strike to force out Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy's government if there is no movement toward democracy, including elections without government intervention.

Woman linked to KAL flight stays silent

MANAMA, Bahrain — A woman linked to the crash of a Korean Airlines jetliner in Burma regained consciousness Thursday after a suicide attempt, but remained silent when questioned by South Korean and Japanese officials. The woman — the only living suspect known by officials in the crash Sunday of KAL Flight 858 with 115 passengers and crew aboard — stared silently during the 30 minutes of questioning at her heavily guarded hospital bed, then closed her eyes and drifted off to sleep, a senior Japanese diplomat said.

S. Korea's candidates campaign on TV

SEOUL, South Korea — Opposition presidential candidate Kim Dae Jung, in a nationally televised campaign speech Thursday, defended himself as a firm advocate of democracy who endorses a more effective anti-Communist strategy than that pursued by this nation's right-wing rulers. Kim Young Sam, the other major opposition nominee in the Dec. 16 presidential election, also delivered a televised address in which he declared the nation "is at the crossroads of choosing between democracy and military dictatorship, between justice and evil."

Reagan raps GOPs opposed to treaty

By Ira R. Allen
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Ronald Reagan described Thursday some Republican opponents of the new missile treaty with the Soviet Union as "ignorant" of its terms and prone to believing that "war is inevitable."

He also said in an interview with four television network anchors that he still believes the Soviet Union is "an evil empire" but he expects to go to Moscow next year to sign a treaty cutting in half the arsenals of intercontinental missiles.

Asked if he would be "heartbroken" if he is unable to reciprocate Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's visit with a trip to Moscow to sign such a treaty, Reagan said, "I think I'd stop short of that, but I'd be very disappointed. I think we're going to have a meeting in Moscow, and I think we're going to have a reasonably good chance to make a step forward in the elimination of nuclear weapons."

ONLY HOURS BEFORE the interview was taped in the Oval Office for broadcast Thursday, Reagan promised that human rights would be "on a par" with arms control in his summit next week in Washington with Gorbachev.

But he told the anchors he would not refuse an arms treaty simply because his human rights agenda might be rejected.

Reagan said he hopes the treaty to eliminate ground-based short- and medium-range missiles, to be signed Tuesday, "is going to sail through" the Senate.

Asked about skepticism and outright opposition to the pact by five of the six GOP presidential candidates and other conservatives, Reagan delivered a harsh blow to many of his hard-core political supporters.

"I THINK THAT the objections that we're hearing, and, yes, from some of our own allies and own forces — they're based on a lack of knowledge on what this treaty contains, and particularly they are ignorant on the advances that have been made in verification," he said.

"I think that some of the people who are objecting the most and just refusing even to accede to the idea of ever getting any understanding with the Soviets, whether they realize it or not, those people basically down in their deepest thoughts have accepted that war is inevitable and there must come to be a war between the two superpowers."

"Well, I think as long as you've got a chance to strive for peace, you strive for peace. But don't have peace and then surrender, and there's no way that we're going to surrender. No way that we're going to sign a treaty that is not to the benefit of all of us."

The interview was conducted Thursday afternoon by Tom Brokaw of NBC, Peter Jennings of ABC, Dan Rather of CBS and Bernard Shaw of CNN. Gorbachev appeared for an hour Monday on NBC.

Sandinistas, Contras to meet for peace talks

By Douglas Tweedale
United Press International

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Nicaraguan negotiators left for the Dominican Republic Thursday to begin unprecedented cease-fire discussions with the U.S.-backed Contra rebels, hours after President Daniel Ortega called the rebels' peace proposal "a provocation."

Although the Sandinistas have said they will not meet the Contras face to face, the indirect talks will be the first formal discussions between the two sides since the Contras began their U.S.-supported war to overthrow the Managua government in 1981.

Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo, the mediator in the indirect negotiations, also left Thursday morning, saying he expected the negotiations to be "very difficult." Obando y Bravo went first to Costa Rica where he met briefly at the San Jose airport with Costa Rican President Oscar Arias and Nicaraguan Vice President Sergio Ramirez.

OBANDO Y BRAVO SAID he would meet with Contra negotiators in Santo Domingo Thursday afternoon or evening, and later meet with the Sandinista delegation at the Nicaraguan Embassy in the Dominican Republic.

Ortega, reversing Sandinista policy, said Nov. 5 he was willing to discuss a cease-fire with the Contra leadership to comply with the Central American peace plan, largely authored by Arias, that went into effect that day.

Since then, each side has put forward a proposal for a cease-fire beginning within one week, and the talks Thursday were expected to focus on those proposals.

Ortega charged Wednesday the rebel cease-fire proposal was drafted by "the most right-wing sectors of the Reagan administration" in an effort "to kill off the possibility of a cease-fire." He vowed to press ahead with the search for a cease-fire.

"WE WILL NOT respond to this provocation," Ortega said.

The rebel cease-fire proposal, made public Monday, calls for a six-week cease-fire beginning Dec. 8, but demands that the Sandinista government make sweeping changes while pursuing peace talks.

Ortega, who met with Obando y Bravo for an hour and a half Wednesday night to explain his government's position, said the Sandinista negotiators would discuss only the technical aspects of a cease-fire and would not consider political issues proposed by the Contras.

Ortega presented an 11-point proposal to Obando y Bravo Nov. 13, calling for a monthlong cease-fire beginning Dec. 5.

DES MOINES — Sen. Dole, R-Kan., told rural Iowa Friday the Republican Party make a mistake if it nominates 1988 presidential candidate who does not understand agriculture.

He called on American farmers and a bipartisan plan to cut $7 billion from the federal deficit over two years. He said package including $23 billion new taxes is necessary to continue a five-year economic recovery.

"Whoever is nominated on Republican side better have a understanding of farms, farm agribusiness, trade, deficits," Dole told 700 members of the Association of Rural Elect Cooperatives.

Dole emphasizes agriculture in race

By Scott Sonner
United Press International

DES MOINES — Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., told rural Iowans Friday the Republican Party will make a mistake if it nominates a 1988 presidential candidate who does not understand agriculture.

He called on Americans to rally and had a bipartisan plan to cut $7 billion from the federal deficit over two years. He said the package including $23 billion in new taxes is necessary to continue a five-year economic recovery.

"Whoever is nominated on the Republican side better have a firm understanding of farms, farmers, agribusiness, trade, deficits . . ." Dole told 700 members of the Iowa Association of Rural Electric Cooperatives.

"Whoever is in the White House must understand the importance of agriculture and all the things that go with it," he said.

DOLE SAID in an interview later his political base will come from farms and farm families. He said no Republican or Democratic candidate compares with his rural support.

"I just happen to have spent a lot of time with agriculture. I think I know more about agriculture than anyone on either side. I don't say that immodestly, it is just fact that I have been working with agriculture," he said.

Among the Democrats, Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri, Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois and civil rights leader Jesse Jackson have staked a claim among rural voters.

Robert Dole

Polls show Simon now leads his party foes in Iowa.

Dole did not name candidates in his speech Thursday. Most polls show Dole and Vice President George Bush fighting for the Republican lead, well ahead of the rest of the GOP pack.

NEA refuses endorsement of any Democratic hopeful

By Robert Shogan
Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The National Education Association, ordinarily a potent force in Democratic presidential politics, has decided for the time being not to endorse any of the party's six 1988 contenders, the head of the 1.9 million-member teacher group announced here Thursday.

NEA President Mary Hatwood Futrell explained that while she considered all the Democratic candidates strong supporters of education, "to date, no one has emerged from the group as front-runner."

The decision not to back any candidate was announced amid evidence of strong support for Illinois Sen. Paul Simon among members of the association's affiliate in Iowa, where the Democratic delegate-selection process begins in February.

Simon had the support of 39 percent, while 32 percent were undecided and 14 percent were for Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, according to Ken Tilp, president of the Iowa group, who attended the meeting here. Simon also leads in other recent polls of the general Democratic electorate in Iowa.

Simon gets his backing from teachers because of his support for education measures in Congress and because "he gives the feeling of telling the truth," Tilp said. In the absence of action by the national organization, the Iowa group and other state affiliates are free to back a presidential candidate.

But Tilp said the Iowa group had no plans to endorse Simon. He cited the substantial number of members who were still undecided, and also cited criticism directed at the teachers and other interest groups for their early endorsements of Walter Mondale in 1984.

make their own decisions," he said. Rather than endorse a candidate for the presidential nomination, Tilp said, "We should let the public at large decide." That way, he added, the Democrats stand a better chance of picking a standard-bearer who can win the general election.

Futrell's recommendation that the national association not endorse a candidate, unanimously approved by the organization's political action council, came after an elaborate effort was made to study the candidates' qualifications and sound out the feeling of the group's members. Futrell said the council would meet again in February and then in April to review the decision.

Consideration of a possible endorsement was limited to Democratic candidates, Futrell said, because none of the six Republican contenders were willing to go through the organization's complete selection process, which included taping an interview and filling out a questionnaire.

Simon gains Biden backers

United Press International

SIoux CITY, Iowa — Illinois Sen. Paul Simon's Democratic presidential campaign received the backing Thursday of more than 60 former supporters of Sen. Joe Biden, D-Del., including one who cited Simon's "electability" as the key to his endorsement.

The list of more than 60 party activists in Woodbury County, one of Biden's strongholds until he dropped out of the race in September, included County Democratic Party Chairman Tim Fox and former party chairs Betty Strong and John O'Brien.

Former state Sen. Milo Colton, D-Sioux City, also was among the northwest Iowans who joined the Simon campaign Thursday.

A number of key Biden backers and staffers joined Simon's camp when Biden dropped out of the race amid accusations he misrepresented his academic record and quoted politicians without attribution, including 1986 Iowa gubernatorial candidate Lowell Junkins.

"As important as anything is his electability," O'Brien said.

"He is a proven winner against formidable Republican opposition in one of our largest electoral states."

Fox said he is backing Simon because of the candidate's dedication to arms control and education.

Journals say doctors and lawyers should help poor

By Larry Doyle
United Press International

CHICAGO — Doctors and lawyers have "as a matter of ethics and good faith" the professional obligation to donate at least 50 hours of service every year to the poor, editors of the official journals of law and medicine jointly declared Thursday.

"Doctors and lawyers today have tended to become overly concerned with their professional incomes and practice efficiencies, but they must not forget their higher duties," wrote George Lundberg and lawyer Laurence Bodine in an unprecedented editorial carried in the latest Journal of the American Medical Association and American Bar Association Journal.

"MANY MEMBERS of our professions have always cared for the poor who need legal or medical help," they wrote. "But their efforts are not what they should be, and there is abundant evidence on unmet needs."

In interviews, the editors emphasized the views were their own, not official policy statements from their organizations.

"This is just George and Larry, not the AMA and the ABA," Bodine said. "But it is something we feel strongly about, and I imagine most doctors or lawyers will agree."

While charitable service has a strong tradition with both professions, it is hardly universal, Lundberg said. The AMA estimates that 17.6 percent of U.S. physicians donate an average of 4.4 hours a week of free care, while the ABA figures 15 percent of lawyers are involved in organized pro bono work. Meanwhile, the editorial said, as many as 50 million Americans are believed to be medically uninsured or seriously underinsured, and poor people must do without attorneys for 68 percent of their legal work.

"WE BELIEVE THAT all doctors and lawyers, as a matter of ethics and good faith, should contribute a significant percentage of their total professional efforts without expectation of financial remuneration," Lundberg and Bodine wrote. "We believe that 50 hours a year — or roughly one week of time — is an appropriate minimum."

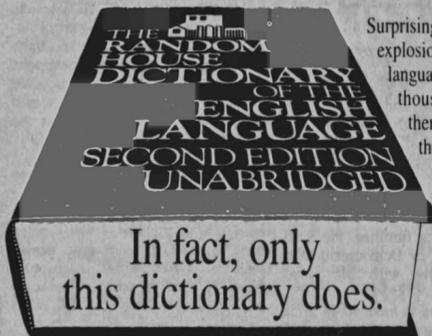

The idea for the joint editorial originated with Lundberg, who has developed a controversial reputation during his six-year tenure as AMA journal editor for taking hard stands on such issues as boxing, arms control and employee drug testing.

Lundberg and Bodine "somewhat arbitrarily" decided on the 50-hour figure as a minimum, primarily because it "was a round figure and it was doable," Bodine said.

Lundberg no longer practices medicine, but said he gives a "substantial chunk of time" every year to teaching. Any remuneration he does receive for his lectures is donated to a scholarship fund for minority medical students, he said.

Bodine said he is not licensed to practice law in Illinois, where the ABA Journal is based, but while working for a Wisconsin law firm he volunteered to work a free legal hotline a couple times a month. He has also coordinated the United Way program for the journal.

You'd think any dictionary would have all the words in this newspaper.

In fact, only this dictionary does.

Surprising? Not really. Not when you consider the cultural explosion that's occurred in the past twenty years. Our language has been enriched—dramatically changed—by thousands upon thousands of vital new words. And there's only one source where you'll find virtually all of them. The Random House Dictionary of the English Language: Second Edition Unabridged.

another 22 percent said they "nothing at all." Only 46 percent mentioned Europe when asked they knew where the U.S. mission to be eliminated by the agreement was located.

The survey also found that expectations are high for next week's summit between President Ronald Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. Nearly three-fifths said next week's summit lead to important accomplishments in arms control. That contrast sharply with a Washington ABC survey taken prior to the 1986 summit in Iceland, when 60 percent of those interviewed expected significant results.

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA Vice President for University Relations Al Alsbrook said Challoner and the university administration immediately took steps to correct the "sick" building and noted that he doubted something was wrong with the building.

"Dr. Challoner is a physician, a Harvard-educated physician who was and is fully aware of the concerns of everyone in the building," he said. "We all have had sick building syndrome. Nobody questioned whether we were sick."

He said pinpointing the problem took several months, but the university's several studies showed the building was never and is another 22 percent said they knew "nothing at all." Only 46 percent mentioned Europe when asked if they knew where the U.S. missiles were located.

The survey also found public expectations are high for next week's summit between President Ronald Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. Nearly three of five said next week's summit "will lead to important accomplishments in arms control." That contrasts sharply with a Washington Post-ABC survey taken prior to the 1986 summit in Iceland, where 40 percent of those interviewed said they expected significant results from that meeting.

AMERICANS ALSO EXPECT a signed treaty next week will lead to further arms agreements, a view held by 74 percent of those questioned. And almost half said they favored additional major arms control agreements with the Soviets.

Two-thirds of those surveyed also were willing to sacrifice President Reagan's goal of developing space-based defenses against nuclear attack — the so-called "Star Wars" plan — for an agreement to substantially reduce nuclear weapons.

Americans continued to be impressed with Gorbachev, according to the poll. Almost three out of five respondents — 59 percent — said they had a favorable impression of the Soviet leader. In comparison, 63 percent gave Reagan a favorable rating.

The polls show the INF treaty to be signed next week would appear to be most vulnerable on an issue that has scuttled previous U.S. and Soviet arms control efforts: fear the Soviets will cheat.

NEARLY TWO OUT OF three respondents — 65 percent — said they believed the Soviets would try to cheat on a nuclear arms agreement. And 70 percent said suspicions the Soviets would attempt to cheat is "an important enough reason in itself" to reject the treaty.

Fears of Soviet cheating on an arms agreement have declined in the past two years. The poll showed 65 percent believed the Russians would attempt to cheat on the agreement to gain advantage over the United States. That is an 11-point decline since a Washington Post-ABC poll in November 1985.

The treaty is somewhat less vulnerable to arguments that the agreement would increase the chances of a Soviet invasion of Europe, according to the poll.

RESPONDENTS were asked,

"Suppose there was a chance that removing medium range missiles from Europe and the Soviet Union would make a Soviet invasion of Western Europe more likely. Would that be an important enough reason in itself for the U.S. to reject the medium range missile agreement or not?"

Slightly more than seven of 10 said it was. But when asked if they believed the proposed agreement would make such an invasion more or less likely, 15 percent said more likely, 10 percent less likely and 35 percent said it would make no difference, with 40 percent undecided.

He said pinpointing the problem took several months, but the university's several studies showed the building was never and is not life threatening and said all employees were offered the opportunity to leave the building.

THE UI PRESIDENTIAL search committee has hosted four other presidential visitors who have met with campus constituencies to discuss their interest in becoming the next UI president.

University of Arizona Provost Nils Hasselmo, University of Illinois-Chicago Chancellor Donald Langenberg, University of Minnesota College of Law Dean Robert Stein and University of Kansas Vice Chancellor Frances Horowitz have visited the UI.

The committee is searching for a replacement for former UI president James Freedman who resigned in July to become the president of Dartmouth College in Hanover, N.H.

UI Professor of Communication Studies and chair of the search committee Sam Becker has said the committee plans to submit a list of presidential candidates for the state Board of Regents at the regents Dec. 9 meeting.

The regents will select the next president.

of the program — $30,000 a year. But residents at the meeting expressed opposition to the cost of some parts of the plan. Many also opposed centering the plan around Kent Park, which would ignore other areas of the county.

Iowa City resident Merle Neubaer said he appreciated the previous work of the conservation board but said "unexpectedly the conservation board members have embarked on a park-building program" concentrating only on Kent Park.

"I got the feeling that this was the 'Kent Park zoo board,' where there would be these Winnebagoes parked on one hill with their television sets blaring and disturbing the bison on the other hill," Iowa City resident Jim Spratt said in criticizing the plan.

Care Facility Director Mary Donovan said. "Originally the facility was totally self-supporting."

She said having the livestock was beneficial for the care facility residents who fed and milked the cattle, helped bale hay and checked on the animals daily.

At one time, the care facility had as many as 40 dairy cattle, Donovan said.

The facility used the dairy cow milk for drinking and for making butter and cottage cheese. The excess milk was purchased by area dairies, Donnelly said.

UNDERGRADUATE MEN

Twenty undergraduate men are needed for a study of competitive decision-making. Four evening hours are required. (Dinner will be provided.) There will be $25 in compensation for each participant. In addition, a prize of $200 will be awarded to the student who wins the competition. Sessions will run at the Clinical Research Center of the University Hospital from 4 pm to 8 pm, December 7, 8, 9 and 10. Small blood samples will be drawn from participants' arms. If you wish to volunteer for this study, contact Professor Douglas Madsen, Chair of Political Science, 310 Schaeffer Hall.

Not just a student

Keaton Smiley has put the pressure on the UI. Smiley, a defensive back for the UI football team, pleaded guilty to assaulting former Iowa volleyball player Cheryl Zemaitis in June and faces another assault charge stemming from a May incident involving UI junior Jennifer Lee. Smiley has been sentenced to serve 60 days in the Johnson County jail for assaulting Zemaitis and is awaiting a verdict in the Lee case.

The UI says it will wait until spring to decide whether Smiley will be allowed to play football next year. At that time, according to a statement from UI Athletic Director Bump Elliot, Smiley "could be considered for an athletic scholarship and participation in intercollegiate athletics" if he is not under restriction from the UI.

In the meantime, the UI must decide what action to take against Smiley. UI Dean of Student Services Phillip Jones, who is conducting the university's investigation, has said "Smiley will be treated like any other student would with regard to the code of student life and university regulations." This sounds fair at first. After all, Smiley, despite his athletic ability, is just another student at the UI. Or is he? That, essentially, is the question.

Clearly, Smiley is more than just another "Joe Schmo," as he so eloquently put it. By virtue of his status as a member of the immensely popular Iowa football team, he is a public figure. And, as a public figure, Smiley both enjoys greater privileges and carries greater responsibilities than the other "Joe Schmoes" walking the streets of Iowa City. He is in the public eye and must therefore be held up to higher standards — whether he likes it or not. That's the price he and others like him pay.

These realities, along with the fact that the crime he admitted to was so brutal, make the UI's decision on Smiley of immense importance. It goes without saying that he should be treated fairly. But, if the UI is to maintain its dignity, if it is to demonstrate that its representatives must behave like civilized human beings, it must severely reprimand Smiley. He should be dismissed from the Iowa football team and ineligible for athletic scholarships.

Volleys and slams

Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt and the Rev. Jerry Falwell battled before the Supreme Court this week. The respective litigants characterized the case as a matter of free speech versus personal honor.

Falwell had sued Flynt over a Hustler parody which depicted the reverend as a drunkard who bragged about an incestuous relationship with his mother. Since the offending piece was clearly not intended to be true, Falwell was unable to claim libel. A jury in Falwell's hometown nonetheless awarded him $200,000 for the "emotional distress" the parody caused him. Flynt's lawyers have appealed the ruling to the high court claiming that such a precedent would destroy the American tradition of political satire.

Clearly, the parody was excessive. Its malicious crudity violates all but the lowest standards of humor. Many would likely agree with Falwell that "any red-blooded male" would be incensed by such a slam at his mother's memory. But since the implications of this case reach beyond the playground, it should not hinge on emotional considerations.

Flynt's lawyer argues correctly that a free press cannot be required to compensate those public figures whom it causes distress. Falwell cannot proclaim himself the chief of a national "moral majority" and still expect the same protection afforded a private citizen. Nor can he actively campaign for the destruction of publications like Flynt's without expecting to absorb a few rhetorical volleys.

Falwell cannot claim that any opinion that matters to him is affected by Hustler magazine. If his award for emotional distress is allowed to stand, every newspaper in the country which runs "Doodlesbury," "Bloom County" or political cartoons will be in jeopardy.

Debate nuggets

Call it the McDebate, providing little nuggets of insight into 12 presidential candidates squeezed between the nettlesome omnipresence of moderator Tom Brokaw and auto ads. The game-show pace of NBC's "America's Future" Tuesday made it impossible for viewers to learn anything in depth about the six Democrats and six Republicans.

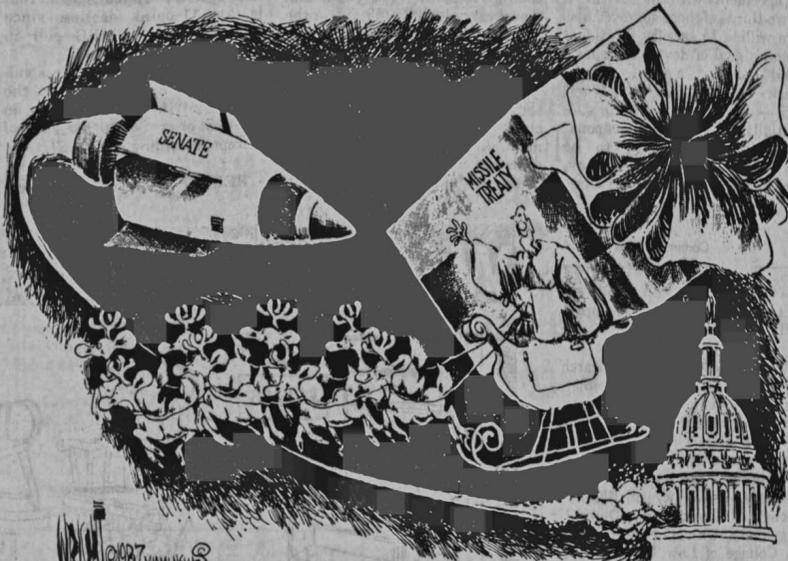

Part of the problem was NBC's effort to turn serious politics into prime-time excitement. Part of the problem is the mandate of analysts to declare winners and losers, to determine who landed punches on whom and who stubbed toes. One supposedly complimentary observation was that the pace was fast. Clearly it was too fast: Too much ground to cover, too many people, too little time.

There will be more so-called debates, but unfortunately they will tread the same vast territory in the same shallow fashion. So what if a candidate can memorize a clever 60-second answer for any question? No one can do that better than Ronald Reagan. Americans need to see the candidates discuss and analyze complex subjects in detail. They should have to answer tough questions that begin with the words "What if?" They should be allowed to talk, not posture and at length — with no time out for commercials.

Presidential campaigns are about things like war and peace and the economic life of the country in a changed world. Tuesday's nuggets were fine, but only as a minimally satisfying appetizer.

Xmas at the Meeses

Dear Friend(s),
Well, isn't it hard to believe the Holiday Season has rolled over us again here at the Meese casa! Speaking of things that roll, my sweet EDDIE is having his annual tussle with the old growth rings. I swear, that man sees a stuffed turkey and he's on it like Jews on Jews at the beach! I tweak his pudgy little snout by calling him "Chunk-Chunk" or "Cottage Cheese Keister" and he puts on this little show and pretends to be mad by putting out a Pall Mall on one of the servants. But I know he's only teasing.

Well, it's official! Our entire spawn will congregate this Yule at Chapeaux Meese! Yes, after all these years, the whole Meeses species will gather around the table, stay arm's length away from papa EDDIE — anything within forking distance is fair game for EDDIE's plate if it doesn't keep moving — and talk about old times. It's been a long time since we've all been together, and I think we may have to knock out a wall to fit everybody in the same room, but it will be doggone worth it! Here's a rundown on what some of the little Meeses have been up to!

OUR ELDEST, EDDIE JR., still hasn't found himself, I'm afraid. I called him last week and asked him what he was doing for a living and he said he had become a full-time sperm donor. I think that's volunteer work with some kind of whale or something. Well, volunteer work is fine, and very American, of course, but Junior is old enough that he should be getting on with his life! I just wish that boy would get a grip on himself.

FRANCES and her genetic engineer hubby, DR. EUGENE MITOCHONDRION, are doing well. She says he brings his work home with him too much, and a vacation from cell irradiation and recombinant DNA (whatever that is) will be good for him. This will also be our first chance to see that new granddaughter of ours, MOTHRA. (I guess that's an old family name from his side.) But I swear, the rigamarole young parents repeat these days as if they knew what they were talking about! I asked

Michael Humes

I'm a little worried about No. 2 son WENDELL, too. First, of all, he's taken to calling himself Wolfgang, which I won't dignify by capitalizing it. If the name we chose isn't good enough for him anymore, well, I guess that just shows us, doesn't it? I hope he just does his own thing way out there in the middle of Idaho. I'm sure he has a lot on his mind besides breaking his mother's heart. He has his Boy Scout work for instance. Every picture he sends us of himself there he is in his little brown uniform and his armband, out in the woods somewhere with his troop, his arm raised, probably pointing at an eagle or something. And every time you talk to him on the phone, it's just "The Order" and "The Order" that. An "order" must be the same as a "troop" or a "den" or whatever. I wish he'd find a nice girl.

HAPPILY, OUR oldest girl FRANCES and her genetic engineer hubby, DR. EUGENE MITOCHONDRION, are doing well. She says he brings his work home with him too much, and a vacation from cell irradiation and recombinant DNA (whatever that is) will be good for him. This will also be our first chance to see that new granddaughter of ours, MOTHRA. (I guess that's an old family name from his side.) But I swear, the rigamarole young parents repeat these days as if they knew what they were talking about! I asked FRANCES how little MOTHRA was doing and she said that while her "larval" stage went well, her "pupal" stage went on longer than they'd expected and they had to help her out of her "chrysalis!" Then FRANCES told me to hide everything in the house made out of wool. "Why?" I asked, "is little MOTHRA allergic to it?" "No," said FRANCES, "she tries to eat it!" I guess I'm not going to give her FRANCES' old blanket after all. FRANCES also told me to buy a lot of bug lights. I didn't even want to ask about that one.

WELL, THAT'S it for the time being, EDDIE will be home soon. He's still getting a lot of cheezy dumped on him about those scruffy Bork and Ginsburg characters, and he wants his pipe, slippers, a chair by the window and a clear shot at the neighbors' dogs the first thing he gets home. And that Ginsburg person is still calling! At least he's stopped coming to the house; I guess he took the hint that we didn't want to see him when we began going to the country club every night. "I still want a joint press conference!" he whines. "Listen, you've got to roll with the punches," says EDDIE. "Why couldn't you keep the lid on this?" he wails. "Do I have to remind you this scandal was strictly home grown?" EDDIE says and hangs up. At least he didn't let any grass grow under his feet in choosing the next nominee!

Anyway, have a happy Gift Giving season!

Gorbachev impresses U.S.

WASHINGTON — If the home crowd is the "12th man" for a football team, then you have to say that Mikhail Gorbachev is bidding to become "the 13th man" in the American presidential campaign. Like a noisy cheering section, the Soviet leader is the presence which can change the dynamics of the game.

We have just seen the first intimations of his potential impact. NBC News gave him an hour for a prime-time interview with anchorman Tom Brokaw on Monday night, then divided two hours on Tuesday night among the 12 Republican and Democratic aspirants for the White House. By my calculation, that gave Gorbachev approximately six times as much exposure to the TV audience as any one of the men who may be our next president.

EVERYTHING we know about Gorbachev and his approach to politics and diplomacy suggests that he will use his first trip to Washington next week to sell himself and his ideas to the American people. As important as signing the intermediate-range nuclear forces agreement with President Reagan may be, his top priority will be a public-relations offensive aimed at positioning the next president as a prospective partner for further deals on arms, trade and other matters.

He will do that by emphasizing the "three Rs" of his glasnost policy, appearing to be reasonable, realistic and reformist. Those are the recurrent themes of his book, Perestroika: New Thinking for Our Country and the World, published this fall by Harper & Row.

David Broder

The more Gorbachev comes across as a "modern man," unencumbered by the ideological fixations of his aged predecessors in Kremlin power, the more he encourages the American people to select a president who has the same qualities.

THE SITUATION is almost made to order for him. Every poll shows many Americans are growing weary of the rising cost of military competition with the Soviet Union. Voters already have signaled their desire for a cessation of partisanship and the achievement of political consensus on important domestic issues like the budget deficit, health care costs and welfare reform, which have remained intractable problems for too long. Gorbachev, it is clear, will seek to nurture the notion that a similar meeting of the minds is possible when it comes to the U.S.-Soviet competition.

Over the years, Americans have learned that it is always wise to be wary of the Soviet smile; it can change in an instant into a teeth-baring threat. One hopes we will not be so naive as to make Gorbachev a new pop hero. But the worse mistake we could make would be to underestimate the man.

HE HAS BEEN extremely impressive in his public diplomacy. While his mind and political resources have been focused on securing power at home and launching his ambitious overhaul of the Soviet economy, he has played a smart, effective game on the world scene. As a relative newcomer, years behind Reagan, he nonetheless has established strong personal relationships with almost all the European leaders and with many in this hemisphere, in Asia and in Africa.

He has shown his skill in political public relations, charming Margaret Thatcher even before he came to power, and playing artfully on mass opinion almost everywhere he has been on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

With the advice of that consummate Washington politician, the long-time former Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, Gorbachev and his wife, Raisa, have given substantial thought to the ways he can influence American domestic politics on the eve of the presidential election.

HE ALREADY has gained some leverage on the next president simply by achieving an arms-control agreement with Reagan. He and Reagan are de facto partners in pushing for Senate ratification of the INF pact. And they will seek together to bring a strategic-

Untimely decision

To the Editor:
I would like to express my discontent about the closing of the study area on the ground floor of Schaeffer Hall. This study hall was the only area conveniently located on the Pentacrest in which students were able to study between and after classes. It was used by many students, and during the weeks preceding midterm and final exams, it was difficult to find a seat anywhere in the room. I would have had an easier time understanding the removal of this area, which the administration is explaining in terms of expanding the language media center and the computer clusters, if it had taken place after finals week. I cannot see that much can be done in this area that could not have waited until then.

Another concern was that the liberal arts administration did this without consulting the student body and made no announcements that they were going to close the area. In the future, I would like to urge the administration to pursue better communication with students regarding issues such as this one, which directly affect students.

No student input

To the Editor:
Once again, the UI, in its infinite wisdom, has deemed to improve conditions for us students. This time it is in the form of a new computer room in Schaeffer Hall, thereby eliminating an important study area.

The study room on the ground floor of Schaeffer is one of the busiest on campus. In the past four years, I have never been by there when it was not at least 90 percent full. The existing terminal cluster on the third floor, however, is seldom used. There have been numerous times when I had the whole room to myself.

Study space is already at a premium, especially with finals approaching. If more terminals are needed, I think that the UI could have found a better place to put them. They should at least have gotten some student input on the matter.

"We have the proof of the papers," Roman said. "We had news the documents that prepared had been initiated. I think it is good news and, we are very happy."

"I would like to see what signed," the bishop said. "You prayed two weeks, but I sure the prayers obtain anything from God," Roman said.

Before announcing they accepted the accord, prisoners crowded on top of the prison hospital and blared a message in Spanish from a loudspeaker.

CUBA EXILE LEADER H. Matos, slating for re-election outside prison, quoted a message as saying, "Tomorrow suffering will be over for everybody. They said everybody. They said tomorrow, but it may tonight."

"They are so happy," Matos said the prisoners.

The inmates voted on the proposal after a two-hour negotiation session that resulted in the tentative agreement to end the strike signed by six representatives of prisoners.

"This is the first time we have ever gotten agreement from all on all points," Korten said.

Officials said the pact had been approved by Attorney General Edwin Meese, but they would disclose the points in the agreement.

A MESSAGE IN Spanish at the agreement blared from a loudspeaker atop the prison hospital building, and relatives of inmates waiting across the street leaped to their feet and cheered.

"They want to inform all of families and members of the pact that they have come to a conclusion and that all of Cuban detainees will be freed," said Elida Dominguez, whose husband is a detainee.

"I am very happy that the Cubans are going to get what they want."

"We have the proof of the prayers," Roman said. "We had the news documents that they prepared had been initiated. . . I think it is good news and, really, we are very happy."

"I would like to see what they signed," the bishop said. "You prayed two weeks, but I am sure the prayers obtain anything from God," Roman said.

Before announcing they had accepted the accord, prisoners crowded on top of the prison hospital and blared a message in Spanish from a loudspeaker.

CUBA EXILE LEADER Huber Matos, speaking for reporters outside the prison, quoted the message as saying, "Tomorrow the suffering will be over for everybody. They said everybody. They said tomorrow, but it may be tonight."

"They are so happy," Matos said of the prisoners.

The inmates voted on the proposed pact after a two-hour negotiating session that resulted in the tentative agreement to end the siege signed by six representatives of the prisoners.

"This is the first time we have ever gotten agreement from all six on all points," Korten said.

Officials said the pact had been approved by Attorney General Edwin Meese, but they would not disclose the points in the agreement.

A MESSAGE IN Spanish about the agreement blared from a loudspeaker atop the prison hospital building, and relatives of the inmates waiting across the street leaped to their feet and cheered.

"They want to inform all of the families and members of the press that they have come to a happy conclusion and that all of the Cuban detainees will be freed," said Elida Dominguez, whose husband is a detainee.

"I am very happy that the Cubans are going to get what they want,"

said Martha Herredia, whose husband, Silvio, is a detainee. "I just want my husband to come home."

Korten said the government spent much of the meeting clarifying its position on "a number of points and offered new language designed to meet some of the concerns expressed earlier by the negotiators for the detainees."

AT THE END of the meeting, the six negotiators for the detainees initiated the two-page document, indicating their agreement on all points of a settlement that would end the insurrection.

Earlier in the day, the Cubans broadcast a Spanish message to President Reagan on their public address system.

"We implore you to bring this to a just finish," the broadcast said. "You are an honorable man and you have seen a lot of events which have had an impact reaching worldwide. Please listen to our plea. We are asking for just a little. We believe, Mr. President Reagan, that you can bring this crisis to an end and the simple justice and reality we trust is in your hands."

"WE DON'T WANT to go to any communist country. We are pleading to you Mr. Reagan, the public and the media. We are ready to die in this attempt. We believe our cause is just."

A group of about 75 detainees standing on the prison roof held up their hands with a V-for-victory gesture with U.S. and Cuban flags fluttering overhead and a decorated Christmas tree with cut-out Santa Clauses next to them, during the message to Reagan.

The Cuban inmates rioted Nov. 23, burning prison buildings and seizing hostages after the Cuban government agreed to repatriate some 2,500 "undesirables" who came to the United States in the 1980 Mariel boatlift. One inmate was killed and there were several injuries.

student input

Editor: Once again, the UI, in its infatuation with wisdom, has deemed to improve conditions for us students. This time it is in the form of a new computer room in Schaeffer Hall, thereby eliminating an important study area.

The study room on the ground floor of Schaeffer is one of the best on campus. In the past few years, I have never been by there when it was not at least 90 percent full. The existing terminal cluster on the third floor, however, is seldom used. There have been numerous times when I had the whole room to myself. Study space is already at a premium, especially with finals approaching. If more terminals were needed, I think that the UI should have found a better place for them. They should at least have gotten some student input on the matter.

Miffed Gable sends 4 wrestlers home

By Scott Wingert
The Daily Iowan

Iowa wrestling Coach Dan Gable does not tolerate complacency. Gable had no intention of watching another sub-par performance from four of his wrestlers this weekend at the Las Vegas Invitational. So he sent them home. Gable was so upset with Wednesday night's efforts from Scott Glenn, Eric Pierson, Mike Traynor and 1987 NCAA sixth-place finisher John Heffernan that he decided not to allow them to compete in Las Vegas.

"We didn't know how a few of our wrestlers were going to respond to big-meet pressure," Iowa assistant coach Mark Johnson said. "But we found out. They aren't ready yet."

ALL FOUR WERE listless during fifth-ranked Arizona State's 22-18 conquest Wednesday over No. 2 Iowa. Glenn was whipped 18-3, Pierson 9-3, Traynor 20-5 and Heffernan 9-3.

So instead of competing in Las Vegas this weekend, which is a top-flight tournament with most of the national powerhouses in attendance, those four will try their luck in an open tournament in Cedar Falls.

"It (sending them home) isn't punishment or anything," Johnson said. "Right now they just need to wrestle a different level of competition. They'll get that in Cedar Falls."

For Gable it was only his 10th loss in 207 decisions at the Iowa helm, but few have hurt worse.

Gable is determined to take back the national title his Hawkeyes lost last year to cross-state rival

Iowa State. And he is furiously looking for his 10 best wrestlers to do it.

FOR WEEKS GABLE has hinted that former Forest City, Iowa, star Bart Chelesvig, a freshman, may be inserted in the lineup at 167 pounds. After Wednesday night's meet, he reiterated that intention and added there will also be wrestle-offs at many other weights.

Iowa's regular 167-pounder, defending national champion Royce Alger, had earlier opted to move up to 177 pounds this year.

But Alger dropped back down to 167 when the Hawkeyes' Brooks

Simpson and Charlie Sherertz, formerly at heavyweight and 190, slimmed down a weight class in an attempt to solidify Iowa's upper weights.

That move, however, may not be Gable's last.

Simpson has been out with a knee injury and should be back in action at 190 shortly. Sherertz' performance at Las Vegas this weekend will have a lot to do with his status at 177.

"THIS MEET IS important to Sherertz as it is to everybody,"

Iowa struggles with injuries

By Anne Upson
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa men's gymnastics team begins its season at Madison, Wis., this weekend in the Wisconsin Open. The team, which finished second in the Big Ten last season, is flagged with key injuries.

Senior co-captain Joe Thome is in a torso brace due to a stress fracture in one of his vertebrae. Thome, who set a school record on still rings with a 9.75 score and was an all-American on the horizontal bar, must practice in the brace for a period of six to 12 weeks. The 1987 academic all-Big Ten player said he was optimistic about performing.

"I'll do what I can. It's restricting," Thome said.

Iowa men's gymnastics Coach Tom Dunn said he is hopeful about Thome's condition.

"JOE HAS NOT worked out a lot, but he is encouraging," Dunn said. "We are still experimenting with his best routines."

Another injured Hawkeye is four-event performer Chris Stanicek. Stanicek, who broke the school record for floor exercise with a 9.85 score, is training with strained ligaments in his right elbow. Dunn said that the senior can "still do quite a bit."

Parallel bars specialist Derrin Pigg is suffering from a knee injury. His brace restricts his performance only in the dismounts, Dunn said.

As if that list of the walking wounded was not long enough, sophomore all-around performer Keith Cousino is out of this weekend's competition with an elbow injury.

"HE HAS A BONE chip in his elbow," Dunn said. "They (doctors) are looking at it to see what they can do."

Even with the injuries, Dunn said Iowa has the opportunity at the Big Ten championship.

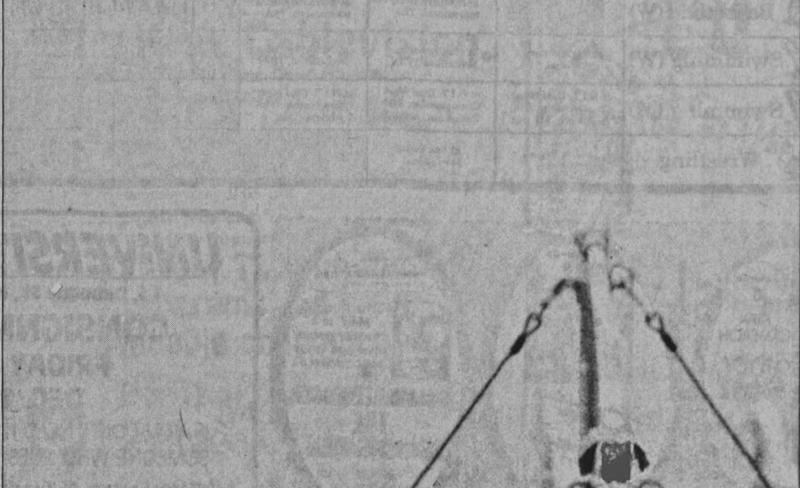

"We have a chance at the title but like last year, the competition is close," Dunn said. "The schools we'll be watching for are Minnesota, Illinois and Ohio State."

According to Dunn, a few players to watch for are all-arounds Jeff Dow and Ron Nasti. Both players are "encouraging," said Dunn.

Iowa gymnast Ron Nasti, a senior from Elmhurst, late Thursday afternoon in the North Gym of the Field House.

The Daily Iowan/Todd Mizener

Dow, as a freshman, was a Big Ten finalist last year on the parallel bars and horizontal bar, and finished 22nd on horizontal bar and 32nd on parallel bars in the NCAA.

Senior Ron Nasti earned all-American status last year on floor exercise, placed fifth in NCAA floor exercise, and was tabbed Iowa's Most Valuable Gymnast.

4-0 Hawks meet Navy in Classic

By Eric J. Hess
The Daily Iowan

Even though Iowa must improve in several areas, Iowa basketball Coach Tom Davis said his ballclub is on the right track.

With a 4-0 record coming into the men's Amana-Hawkeye Classic, Davis said Iowa must keep working hard to keep its No. 10 ranking in the United Press International Coaches poll.

The sixth annual classic opens tonight at Carver-Hawkeye Arena when Jacksonville plays California-Irvine at 6:05 p.m. Iowa meets Navy in the second game at 8:05 p.m.

The two losers play in the third-place game Saturday at 6:05 p.m. The championship game will be played at 8:05 p.m.

The Hawkeyes are coming off a 70-59 victory Tuesday over Drake, two days after winning the Hawaiian Airlines Maui Classic.

"Gosh. How could you ask for more?" Davis said.

YET, THE 11-POINT victory Tuesday featured a slower version of the Hawkeyes, a team battling the fatigue of traveling.

"I think a lot of it's emotional letdown," Davis said, adding the Hawkeyes had played two emotional games against Kansas and Villanova before the Drake game.

Navy comes into tonight's game with a 1-1 record and noticeably without all-American center David Robinson.

"We really don't deal with the loss of David," Coach Pete Herrmann said. But the second-year coach said the Midshipmen don't miss the 7-footer on the offensive end so much as the defensive end.

Without Robinson, Navy has 6-foot-4 senior guard Cliff Rees to pick up the leadership role. Junior forward Derric Turner will also play an important part in the team's fortunes.

The Midshipmen must control the tempo of the game, according to Herrmann. He said his club likes to run but may not be on the same level as Iowa's pressure defense.

"You've got to maintain your composure," Herrmann said. "We can't get into a race horse game with the Hawks."

The Hawkeyes will send the same lineup to start the game as they have the past three games. Kent Hill starts at center, Roy Marble and Al Lorenzen open at the forward positions and B.J. Armstrong and Bill Jones start at guard.

Senior guard Jeff Moe, considered by ESPN's Dick Vitale to be "the best sixth man in the country," will continue to come off the bench, Davis said.

Hawkeyes, 49ers expect 'great game'

By Mike Triik
The Daily Iowan

It will be a clash of titans when Iowa collides with Long Beach State in women's basketball action Saturday.

Seventh-ranked Iowa will play No. 4 Long Beach State in a first-round game of the Northern Illinois Fast-break Classic in DeKalb, Ill.

Iowa has never played the 49ers, who made it to the NCAA Final Four a year ago, but both coaches are expecting an exciting game.

IOWA COACH Vivian Stringer said the 49ers are extremely quick, mobile and strong on defense and will pose a serious test for the Hawkeyes.

"We've got our work cut out for us," Stringer said.

"It should be a great game," Long Beach Coach Joan Bonvicini said. "We've never played Iowa before but we lost to a Vivian Stringer team when she was at Cheney State, so we know what to expect from her. We were in Iowa City at the Amana tournament last week so we have seen them play."

Women's Basketball

Iowa will bring a 3-0 mark into the tournament. Long Beach's only action of the season came in the form of an 89-88 win over the Soviet Union National Team in an exhibition game. Long Beach was the only team to defeat the Russians.

"We don't play (the season opener) 'til tonight (Thursday) against UCLA, so that's in Iowa's advantage," Bonvicini said. "But the game is on a neutral court, so that'll help. We are younger than Iowa but we play similar styles. It should be a good game."

The 49ers have led the nation in offense the past two seasons, averaging 95 points a year ago. Iowa has already lit up the scoreboard a couple of times this year, scoring

Teams from every region of the country will meet in Tuscaloosa, Ala., for the first Crimson Tide National Invitational Tournament this weekend in what promises to be a competitive gathering of swimming powers.

Iowa, 2-0, 12th in the nation) will be one of eight teams competing in the inaugural coed tourney hosted by Alabama. Arizona, Southern Illinois, Southern Methodist, Harvard, Arkansas and Kansas each have men's and women's teams represented, while New Orleans has a women's team competing.

Six teams are currently ranked in the college top 20, while four finished in the top 20 in the NCAA's last year.

Iowa's Tomasz Rossa, a sophomore from Warsaw, Poland, and Steve Wicklund, a freshman from Burnsville, Minn., competed in the diving competition Thursday afternoon.

Men's Swimming

ROSSA FINISHED second in the one-meter competition and first on the three-meter boards. Wicklund finished 15th in the one-meter and eighth in the three-meter. (For complete results see Page 2B).

"I'm real pleased," Iowa men's swimming Coach Glenn Patton said. "Steve learned a lot on the one-meter. He learned a lot in his first big meet. Tomasz did very well, especially on the three-meter. It was a tremendous confidence boost to both divers."

Today at 2 p.m., the Hawkeyes meet the Crimson of Harvard, who finished 22nd in the nation last season as Ivy League Champions. Patton, who said he expects the Hawkeyes to give Harvard "a good battle," said the tournament will be a good experience for Iowa's young swimming corps.

"We wanted to give our younger swimmers a chance to experience a three-day meet," he said. "The Big Tens and NCAAAs are three-day meets."

DON GAMBRIL, THE 15th-year Alabama coach, said Arizona and Iowa are the top two teams in the tournament.

Gambril, who came up with the idea for the tourney, has what some might call illusions of grandeur for the NIT's future.

"After seeing the success the basketball teams generate, I thought it would be good for swimming. We hope next year ESPN will pick it up."

"It brings together enough good teams to insure a good tournament."

Gambril said The Finals, a swim-suit company, is sponsoring the tournament and will award wrist-watches to members of the winning teams.

7 harness drivers suspended

NEW YORK (UPI) — Yonkers Raceway banned leading harness driver Michel LaChance and six others Thursday pending an investigation of a race last month that may have been fixed.

The New York State Racing and Wagering Board Wednesday suspended seven of the eight drivers who competed in the fourth race at the track Nov. 14. The State Supreme Court ordered a stay of the suspension of six drivers Thursday, but the move by the track still prevents them from racing.

LaChance has been the country's leading harness driver the last three years.

Crash may lead to stalled talks

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — South Korea will halt talks with North Korea on sharing the 1988 Olympics if North Korea was involved in the crash of a South Korean airliner, a top sports official said.

Kim Chong-ha, president of the South Korean National Olympic Committee, said in an interview published in daily newspapers that if North Korea is guilty the International Olympic Committee should reconsider its plan allowing North Korea to stage part of the Summer Games.

"We will not continue talks with North Korea in connection with the Seoul Olympics if the crash of a Korean Air (KAL) jetliner is confirmed to be the work of North Korean terrorists," Kim said.

Perry, Little lead in Mixed Team Classic

LARGO, Fla. (UPI) — The odd couple matchup of PGA neophyte Kenny Perry and PGA veteran Sally Little combined for 10 birdies and a 62 Thursday, giving them a three-shot lead after the opening round of the $650,000 Mixed Team Classic.

The pair sank five birdies each on the front side and the back side and avoided bogeys. They covered the Bardmoor Country Club amid 70-degree temperatures and virtually no wind.

Bears aren't paying union dues

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bears have stopped paying dues to the NFL Players Association and have no plans to resume payments. In addition, the team's union representative and alternate have quit and not been replaced.

A union spokesman in Washington Thursday said the Bears' decision was not creating a domino effect, noting no other teams have followed suit as a group.

The NFLPA said Wednesday about 20 percent of the membership had not paid dues since the walkout ended in October.

The Bears were one of the few united teams during the NFL players' strike. No veterans crossed the picket line. But after the walkout, player representative Mike Singletary and alternate Dave Duerson resigned. No move has been made to replace either.

Big Eight Conference honors Sooners

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Oklahoma linebacker Dante Jones, a unanimous choice for all-conference honors, Thursday was named the Big Eight Conference defensive player of the year in voting dominated by the Sooners.

Jones' biggest challenge for the honor came from teammates Rickey Dixon and Darrell Reed, who tied for second in the voting by media members in the six-state Big Eight area. Colorado defensive back Mickey Pruitt and Nebraska defensive tackle Neil Smith also received votes.

76ers sign Henderson, waive Colter

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Wracked by injuries and searching for outside shooting, the Philadelphia 76ers Thursday signed free-agent guard Gerald Henderson for the rest of the season.

To make room on the roster for the nine-year veteran, the 76ers waived guard Steve Colter.

Henderson, 31, was released by the New York Knicks last month after appearing in six games and averaging 2.3 points. In his first eight seasons, Henderson averaged 10.2 points a game, including 10.9 points last season with Seattle and the Knicks. He led New York in assists with 439 assists.

Henderson, who attended Virginia Commonwealth, was drafted by San Antonio in the third round in 1978.

Quad-City Thunder win first game — ever

MOLINE (UPI) — Mitchell Wiggins scored 39 points and Eddie Lee Wilkins added 28 as the Quad-City Thunder defeated the Rochester (Minn.) Flyers 123-111 in a Continental Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

The victory gave the Thunder, a CBA expansion team in their inaugural season, their first win ever. Quad-City moves to 1-6 on the year while Rochester falls to 3-4.

Football Almanac

Football Almanac
Today is Friday, Dec. 4. The Jan. 1 bowls are 26 days away and Super Bowl XXII is 58 days away. If Miami wins its next two games, it would become the first team to post a perfect season after losing a Heisman Trophy winner.

Quote of the Day
"Tim Brown is the best football player I've ever seen in my life. The bad news is that we don't have many chances to get him the ball."
— Notre Dame Coach Lou Holtz on the factor that may prevent his wide receiver from winning the Heisman Trophy.

Trainer's Room
Pittsburgh Steelers offensive tackle Ray Pinney missed practice Thursday because of a back injury. Strong safety Donnie Shell and linebacker Brian Hinkle, who have been out with sore knees, were scheduled to return to practice Friday.

Syracuse No. 1 (in the ECAC)
Sugar Bowl-bound Syracuse, ranked No. 4 by UPI, has been named the top Eastern College Athletic Conference Division I-A team.

Student Bowl
The All-American Bowl is the only bowl that awards money directly to academic scholarship students of the participating schools. This year Brigham Young and Virginia will each receive $100,000 from the Russell Corp., a manufacturer of athletic uniforms.

Rollerdomo
Minnesota Viking cheerleaders, in response to comments made by Chicago Bears Coach Mike Ditka, will wear roller skates to introduce the starting lineup at the Bears-Vikings game Sunday night at the Metrodome. Ditka said Monday domed stadiums should be used for roller rinks.

Looking Ahead
The Indianapolis Colts, part of a four-way tie for first in the AFC East, have offered season ticket holders the opportunity to purchase playoff tickets in two-game sets. Prices for the two-game tickets are $63, $55 and $43 in the stands and $90 for suite holders.

Booted Attempts
In the last two games, the Cleveland Browns have fumbled three field-goal attempts and one conversion.

Diving Results

5 Big Ten meet in

By Brent Woods
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa women's swimming team will get a small taste of February when it meets the Big Ten meet this weekend which travels to the Northwestern International in Evanston, Ill.

The five western-most teams in the conference — Iowa, Northwestern, Minnesota and Wisconsin are slated to be at the meet, which will feature the second order of events scheduled for Big Ten Championships.

"It's the kind of meet where you can let kids have a chance to compete in different events," Iowa Coach Peter Kennedy said. "The Big Ten order of events should help kids get used to this kind of meet."

The Hawkeyes, 2-4 in dual meet competition in duals this season. But Kennedy said he expects to see this meet as a chance to learn about his swimmers — particularly the younger ones.

Spielman garners Lombardi trophy

United Press International

HOUSTON — Ohio State line-backer Chris Spielman, a finalist for the 1986 Lombardi Award, Thursday night won the 1987 Lombardi trophy as the top collegiate lineman in the nation.

Spielman, a 6-foot-2, 236-pound native of Massillon, Ohio, finished his career with 546 tackles, third highest in school history. This past season, he had 156 tackles, 78 solo, 10 sacks and two interceptions.

Former Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce called him "the most intense player I have ever seen" and praised his ability to make great plays in critical situations.

The other three finalists this year were Oklahoma tight end Keith Jackson, Syracuse nose guard Ted Gregory and the only junior, Tracy Rocker of Auburn.

Johnson said. "We have to worry about winning the national title and it's going to be the ten best wrestlers who we'll go with."

Alger has said he feels he can win at any weight and would freely move up to 177 if Gable decides it is the proper move to make. Cheliesvig made a good impression on Gable for his efforts against solid competition at the Northern Open.

"Cheliesvig proved to me he can step in at 167," Gable said. "We'll just have to wait and see how it goes."

IOWA NOTES

• About 50 Iowa wrestling fans were shut out of an opportunity to watch the Hawkeyes in Las Vegas this weekend when the party's travel agency had a conflict with an airline.

Ironically, those fans were part of the reason Gable decided to enter the Las Vegas Invitational, a first for an Iowa squad.

Gable has previously held that it may not be to the team's benefit to compete in such a high-level tournament so early in the season.

"It's the wrong time of the year for that kind of tournament," Gable said. "But because we lost (last year) and because our fans wanted us to go, we're going. It's a good year to go."

• Arizona State wrestling Coach Bob Douglas was still pinching himself Thursday morning after his squad's upset over Iowa.

Douglas had been up for 64 hours straight after returning from the World Cup in Mongolia just in time for the Iowa dual meet.

"This is the biggest thing to ever happen to our wrestling program," Douglas said. "It's still hard to get a hold on. I haven't had a chance to absorb it all.

their times. He said the decision not to shave for the meet is a strategic move, as the Hawkeyes are hoping to upend defending Big Ten champion Michigan for the conference title this season.

• The Hawkeyes overall records vs. opponents this weekend: 0-3 vs.

Alabama, 3-0 vs. Kansas, and 3-6 vs. Southern Illinois.

• The Hawkeyes' final meet of the semester is a dual against Northern Iowa Dec. 11 at Cedar Falls. Iowa has beaten the Panthers 11 of 12 times since the two teams first met in 1972.

85 points against Missouri in the season opener and 93 points in Tuesday's win over Iowa State.

"We will run," Bonvicini said. "We play a very, very fast, pressure-all-of-the-time type of game. It will come down to who makes the most mistakes. Last year we only averaged 15 turnovers and against the Russians we only had 12. It's not a matter of stealing the ball. If you get steals, fine, but it's more a case of forcing the other team into doing things that they usually don't do."

But Bonvicini doesn't think that the defense will be the only key.

"That and the depth will be important," Bonvicini said.

Trip Shakespeare will rock the Wheelroom

Minneapolis group grows in popularity

By Jeff Rynott
 The Daily Iowan

As Minneapolis becomes the Mecca of the Midwestern music scene in the 1980s, spawning ground for popular bands in virtually every genre. While Prince and his burgeoning Paisley Park empire remain the centerpiece of Minneapolis success, reshaping and influencing the pop charts in a movement Smokey Robinson recently called "a new Motown," the city also has representatives in the alternative arena.

Music

Bands ranging from Husker Du on the national scene and The Walllets on the Midwest scene continue to push the Minnesota renaissance further along.

One of the relative newcomers, Trip Shakespeare, will be paying a visit tonight to the Union Wheelroom. The 9 p.m. concert is sponsored by the Union Board. Admission is $2.00.

THE BAND IS CURRENTLY celebrating the second pressing of their 1986 debut effort, Applehead Man, hailed as one of the best Minnesota independent LPs by major state newspapers. A Duluth paper called Trip Shakespeare better than their more well-known brethren Husker Du.

Trip Shakespeare

The band toured the Midwest this summer to raise the money to reprint the album, which has been out of stock since January.

While gaining increasing popularity as a live act in their home state, Trip Shakespeare is no stranger to Iowa City, having appeared here earlier this semester. The band will be selling copies of the LP and tape at their performance this time around.

Applehead Man is an intriguing smorgasbord of familiar sounds and familiar bands, interwoven and varied so that they become the group's own. For example, on "Beate," the lyrics discuss the singer's journey through another's mind while the music discloses another level of meaning to the title — listen closely to the instrumental interlude and you might hear echoes of a song written by a band with a similar title, "Lucy In The Sky With Diamonds."

WORKING ON VARIOUS levels is the forte of the band (guitarist/vocalist Matt Wilson, bassist/vocalist John Munson and drummer Elaine Harris). The music has tinges of '60s psychedelia, enhanced by oblique lyrics and an album cover that portrays the band members' reflections in distorted mirrors. Vivid imagery involved with the often female subjects of the songs runs from the "red liquor" offered by the nearly-vampiric woman in "Fangs" to a girl who can "stop the winter with her eyes" in "Stop The Winter." The simplistic lyrics of the title track, detailing the applehead man's warnings to his apple friends that things aren't so good off the tree, can be taken in a number of ways.

Musically, the band plays with starts and stops, sticking to heavy rhythms with Munson's bass dominate, but always varying the style with each track. On "Applehead Man" the beat slows down only to have Wilson's feedback-laden guitar rise up against it, and the "closing" instrumental is then replaced a moment later by its mirror image.

UI jazz choir to present 'Cocoa and Carols'

Feeeling the stress of final exams week? Holiday spirits need a boost? Take a break on Sunday when the Old Gold Singers salute the season with their annual performance "Cocoa and Carols." The program will have two performances, at 2 and 6:30 p.m. in Hancher Auditorium.

Music

The Old Gold Singers, UI's jazz and swing choir, is under the direction of UI graduate assistant Tim Schumacher. "Cocoa and Carols" consists of musical performance and dance enhanced by a little drama, as well. This year the audience will experience trips through Toyland, the Caribbean and the 21st century. Iowa City elementary school children will also be featured in the final Christmas church scene.

OLD GOLD WILL treat the crowd to performances of traditional favorites such as "The Christmas Song," "Sleigh Ride" and "Silent Night." Newer numbers from the holiday repertory also will be featured with "An Old Fashioned Christmas" and "I Want a Hippopotamus for Christmas." Original choreography by Old Gold members will be performed by the group.

No Christmas celebration would be complete without Santa Claus, and the man himself is scheduled to put in a special appearance. Audience members also will be invited to join the Old Gold Singers in a sing-along of "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer."

The party will continue after the performance as the audience will have the opportunity to join the singers for hot cocoa in the main lobby of Hancher Auditorium.

Tickets for the Old Gold Singers in "Cocoa and Carols" are $4.50 for adults, $3.50 for UI students and are available at the Hancher Box Office. Bring Grandma and the kids — it should be a lot of fun.

Two-minute test may save lives

By Elizabeth Ricci
 United Press International

BOSTON — Just in time for the holidays, a distribution company unveiled a two-minute alcohol screening test Thursday that it said will allow revelers to determine their alcohol level by licking a test strip.

TestAhol saliva tests — not usable as legal evidence — will be sold for 98 cents each in drugstores, department stores and supermarkets in the Northeast and Southwest starting next week, the company said.

"This is one of the scariest times of the year and a lot of people are aware there are problems with drinking and driving," said Richard Hamilton, president and founder of TestAll, which is marketing the test.

Hamilton said he hopes the tests will be used as stocking stuffers and added to holiday party menus.

"IF SOMEONE LEAVES your home after having a last drink at your party and then gets into an accident, you can be held responsible for the damage just like a bartender can be," he said.

To use the test, a drinker must wait at least 15 minutes after the last drink is consumed and then lick the padded end of the test strip.

The pad contains alcohol oxidase enzyme, which upon contact with saliva turns a particular shade of aqua in proportion to the amount of alcohol in the body, the company claims.

Indiana's victory champions the Big Ten's fight to return

By Mike Trilk
The Daily Iowan

CHICAGO — Indiana's last-moment 74-73 triumph over Syracuse in last season's NCAA Championship game was more than the crowning of a new national champion. The Hoosiers' win was a warning to the rest of college basketball.

"The Big Ten is back. I think that the Big Ten could be the toughest since I've been here," Purdue Coach Gene Keady said at the Big Ten's media day last month. "It's been pretty damn tough every year since I've been at Purdue, so that's saying a mouthful."

But some of the league's coaches aren't sure the Big Ten ever suffered a letdown at all.

"As far as I'm concerned the Big Ten never lost respect," Michigan Coach Bill Frieder said. "You people (the media) panicked a little when we had some poor tournament performances, but any time you take the Big Ten over any five- or 10-year period you're going to see that we hold our own."

"OUR NON-CONFERENCE record is good, our NCAA Tournament record is good. We win as many national titles as anybody and we got to the Final Four as many times as any other conference."

And although Big Ten teams don't go head-to-head until January, conference coaches are prepared to expect the usual warfare.

"It will be a dogfight," Frieder said. "It'll probably be a 14-4 record that wins it in a co-championship or something like that. It'll be tough for someone to slip away and win it outright because of the great balance."

But if balance is the Big Ten's buzzword this year, then Purdue, Indiana and Iowa must be the fulcrum. Coaches give the preseason nod to those three teams, with Michigan and Illinois frequently mentioned, followed by Ohio State, Michigan State, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Northwestern.

"THE LEAGUE IS tough," Frieder said. "You have to talk about Purdue, Iowa and Indiana. Two of those three teams won 30 games last year. Two of those three teams won the Big Ten last year and one of those three teams won the national title last year. All three teams have had successful nucleuses back."

On page 2B ...
A complete conference schedule for every Big Ten men's team.

Michigan State Coach Jud Heathcote agrees.

"We have some awesome teams in this league," Heathcote said. "Between Iowa, Indiana and Purdue you could flip a coin. I feel Illinois and Michigan have the best talent in this league, but it is transfer talent, (Proposition) 48 talent and freshman talent and I think untested talent is not consistent enough to win the Big Ten title."

Purdue, which shared last year's conference crown with Indiana returns what Keady calls a "senior-studded team." Seniors Troy Lewis, Todd Mitchell, Melvin McCants and Everette Stephens were the Boilermakers' top four scorers last season and return for one final trip around the Big Ten.

"WE'RE VERY EXCITED about our season," Keady said. "We've had a lot of adversity this fall with Troy breaking his foot and Todd Mitchell having that miracle, arthroscopic knee surgery just three weeks ago, but we've fought through it. You just never know what will happen next."

In the aftermath of Coach Bob Knight's third national crown, Indiana will be without the services of all-everything guard Steve Alford. And despite what Knight may say, his team will remain a power.

"I don't know a whole hell of a lot about this team," Knight said, looking for sympathy.

But with a returning trio of Keith Smart, Dean Garrett and Rick Calloway, Knight will be hard up for sympathy from his Big Ten counterparts.

As will Iowa Coach Tom Davis.

DAVIS GUIDED THE Hawkeyes to a 30-5 campaign in his first year at Iowa a season ago and sent two players into the NBA. Three juniors — including preseason all-American Roy Marble and six seniors — return for the Hawkeyes.

"The big question when you look at Iowa is the six seniors," Davis said. "It is those six seniors that will determine the fate of this team."

Michigan will enter the 1987-88 season with senior guard Gary Grant, the last holdover from Wolverine teams that won Big Ten titles in 1985 and '86.

"The two biggest concerns I have is our inside game and our guards," Frieder said. "Our inside game has got to get better. You can say what you want, but we weren't very good on the inside last year. Secondly, we don't have the guards we've had in the past. We have a great guard in Gary Grant, but after that we don't have one guard in our system with one minute of playing time."

LOU HENSON ONLY has one senior returning at Illinois, but the biggest problem in Champaign, Ill., this year may not be who the Fighting Illini have on their roster, but whom they play.

Illinois' non-conference schedule features the likes of North Carolina, Missouri, Kansas and the team that knocked the Illini out of last year's NCAA Tournament, Austin Peay.

"I've been criticized for losing that game by many people," Henson admitted. "I've even been criticized by our athletic director Neal Stoner. But that's not good enough. He wants to punish me. So he schedules Austin Peay for December 8."

But if Illinois is in the midst of a senior famine, one state away Gary Williams is feasting.

OHIO STATE LOST the services of all-American Dennis Hopson, but the rest of second-year Coach Williams' squad returns intact.

Michigan State, Minnesota and Northwestern each lost three starters from a year ago, while Wisconsin lost four.

"We have no delusion of grandeur that we can win the title," Heathcote said, "the rest of us have good basketball teams. It would be nice that if every year we could draw straws and one team could be put in another conference for a year just to see how we would do. I think that without question that this is this conference is now head and shoulders above the other leagues in the nation."

It looks like UI senior Paul Oetke will have to settle with a degree from Yale or Harvard.

Oetke was one of 12 reg candidates for the Rhodes Scholarship, a high-status scholarship awarded for academic excellence and moral character, but was one of the four from the reg selected for the program.

Thirty-two men and women across the country were awarded the scholarship Sunday, which includes three years at Oxford University in London with expenses paid.

UI Honors Program Assistant Director Sandy Barkan, although Oetke did not win the Rhodes Scholarship, it was a substantial accomplishment for him. He has made it to the regional level.

"There were only 96 nationally, who made it to the regional level," Barkan said. "It is a superb student and a scholar."

OETKE RETURNED TO City Saturday night after participating in regional finals in Minneapolis. Finalists from Iowa, South Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Minnesota were evaluated through a series of rigorous interviews including academic and "moral dilemmas" questions.

"I'm really glad I went through it," Oetke said. "I met so many of the most fascinating people I've ever met, both contestants and judges."

"The interviews were an experience," he added. "I feel that I survived them. It was intense; they tried to get me in the corner."

Oetke, a philosophy major at Cedar Rapids who will graduate in May, is involved in a variety of campus organizations — including the Mortar Board and Omicron Kappa — on campus organization and extracurricular activities at the UI. He is vice president of UI Liberal Arts Student Association.

Every day, hundreds of hearders practicing bagpipes on the UI students on their way to class.

But just who are these people? breathe?

"After you finish a song, the lighted bag," UI junior Tom Mulvenill, sitting in the Highlander's Union Student explained his reasons for joining the UI.

"When you hear the pipe beckoning you," he said. "I with the pipes playing in the battlefield. It holds some mystery. UI junior and band man was similarly attracted to the UI campus."

"I WAS WALKING through I heard the pipes transformed into walking. The music has wide appeal."
