UI presidential search draws fire

Regents president denies allegations of rigging

By John Gilardi
The Daily Iowan

State Board of Regents President Marvin Pomerantz denied charges Saturday that the selection process for a new UI president is rigged in favor of UI Interim President Richard Remington, saying there has been a "misunderstanding" concerning Remington's status in the search.

In a letter submitted to The Daily Iowan by Pomerantz and UI search committee chairman Sam Becker, the two state "whether suggestions for candidates come from the campus search committee, the Board of Regents or elsewhere, those finalists who are seriously considered for the position will be individuals who have been evaluated by both the Board of Regents and the campus groups."

CRITICISM DIRECTED TOWARD POMERANTZ SURFACED during the UI's winter break after Iowa media alleged officials — including Pomerantz, Iowa Athletic Director Bump Elliott, UI Hospitals Director John Colloton, UI Professor Emeritus James Van Allen, Iowa

Football Coach Hayden Fry and Gov. Terry Branstad — have pushed for Remington to be selected for the position by default after one of the candidates withdrew.

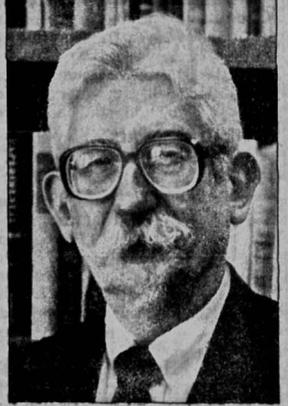

One of two candidates recommended by 17-member search committee, University of Arizona Provost Nils Hasselmo, removed his name from consideration following his interview with the regents Dec. 19 in Des Moines. University of Kansas Vice Chancellor Frances Horowitz, who was also interviewed on that date, said Saturday she is still interested in the position.

AFTER THE INTERVIEWS, THE REGENTS requested that the campus search committee submit additional names. They also invited Remington to interview for the position.

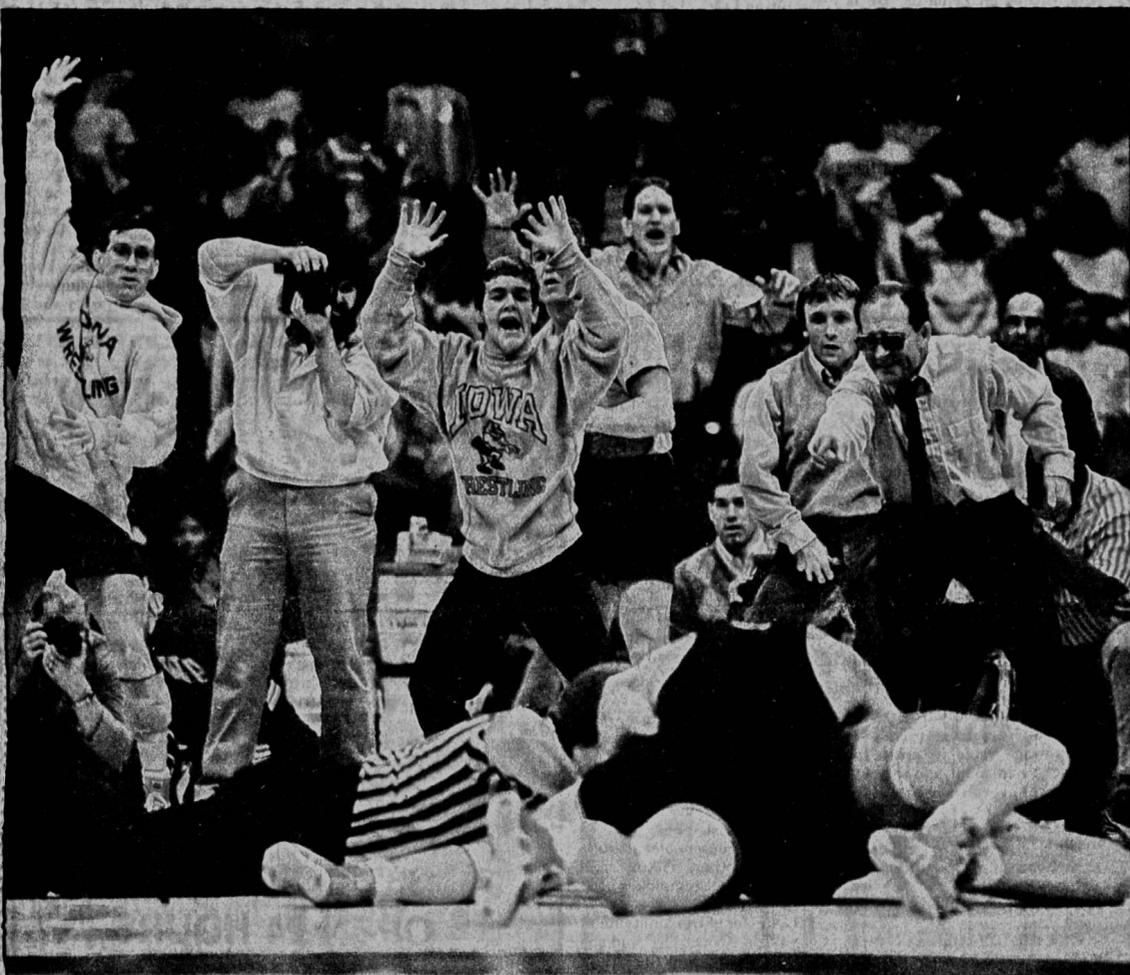

Pomerantz and Becker both said a misunderstanding began when people thought Remington would not have to meet with the search committee or campus constituencies.

"I didn't misunderstand the situation, the search committee didn't misunderstand the situation," Pomerantz said. "The people on the

South Quad may be new home for UI ROTC offices

By Cathy Jackson
The Daily Iowan

More than 70 students living in South Quadrangle Residence Hall will be displaced next fall if plans to move UI ROTC offices — now housed in the UI Armory — are finalized, UI Associate Vice President for Student Affairs Kenneth Moll said Sunday.

The State Board of Regents approved a plan last fall to build a new psychiatric pavilion for UI Hospitals on the site of the Armory in 1989, requiring the Armory's demolition.

"The decision is fairly certain," Moll said. "We need to consult a few others, but this relocation seems to be the best approach."

South Quad currently houses the Foreign Language/International House, a UI program that provides an environment for students to converse in foreign languages.

The students in the five foreign language houses of South Quad — French, German, Spanish, Russian, and Japanese — also provide foreign language activities such as dinners, films, and festivals for the entire campus.

AS A RESULT of the proposed ROTC move, the Foreign Language/International House will be moved to Hillcrest Residence Hall next fall.

UI officials said the move to Hillcrest would have little effect on the language program.

"We'll take care of them in grand style," UI Vice President for

Kenneth Moll

Academic Affairs Philip Hubbard said.

The new facilities in Hillcrest would be similar to those currently in South Quad, Hubbard said. "They will be sure to have their own lounge, and I think we can get them all on the same floor," he said. "We certainly want to keep this program effective."

Hubbard said that UI officials have been considering the ROTC move to South Quad for two to three weeks and that the residence hall is one of the few options with sufficient space for the offices.

City council supports three-year budget plan

By Sara Anderson
The Daily Iowan

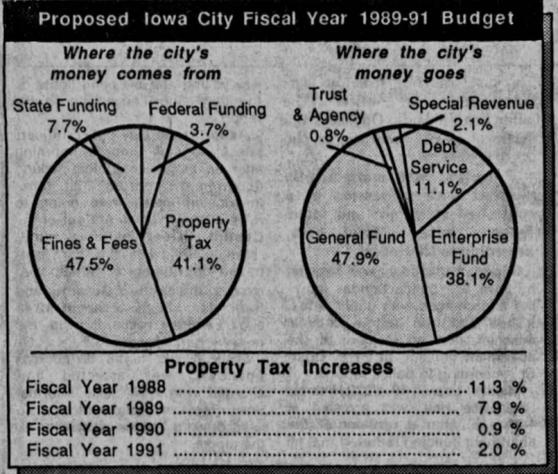

The recently proposed three-year plan for the Iowa City budget is the best way of ensuring that cutbacks in city services will be minimized over the next three years, Iowa City officials say.

Tentatively projected into fiscal year 1991, the submitted budget is the first to include more than one year's finances, according to Iowa City Manager Stephen Atkins.

"What happened is that we found ourselves in the position of struggling with financial decisions and making only temporary ones," Atkins said. "It's difficult to see how to raise and spend money when you're looking only at a one-year period. What you've got to say to yourself is, 'If we spend this money now, what will it cost us in, say, the next two years?'"

The proposed $42.5 million budget for fiscal year 1989 includes a property tax increase of 7.9 percent, to be followed by increases of 1

UI participating in King remembrance

In celebration of the birth of Martin Luther King Jr. — a man some consider the greatest leader in the history of the black protest and one of the greatest spiritual leaders — some UI students and faculty will participate today in a nationwide bell-ringing.

UI Dean of Academic Affairs Fredrick Woodard said about 49 states will simultaneously ring bells to honor and remember King. The Old Capitol bell will ring today at 11:30 a.m., he said. Monday marks the third observance of the national holiday in his honor

WOODARD SAID celebrating Martin Luther King Day is a good way to refamiliarize the UI community with King's autobiography, his philosophy of non-violence and his involvement in world affairs. He said the UI will also sponsor a week-long series of noon readings by UI students and faculty beginning Jan. 25 in the Union.

The UI Black Student Union will sponsor a commemorative service honoring King Friday at 7 p.m. in Danforth Chapel. UI medical student Rev. Martin Crawford will

Third laser scientist declines UI offer

By Anne Kevin
The Daily Iowan

A third top laser scientist who was expected to help lead the proposed UI laser research center has declined the job offer, disappointing UI administrators and upsetting state legislators who last May approved a bill to fund the $25.1 million center.

Northwestern University laser chemist Richard Van Dwyne cited personal reasons for his decision, which UI officials announced last week.

Van Dwyne's decision followed similar rejections by laser scientists Ara Mooradian of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and William Phillips of the National Bureau of Standards who turned down the UI job offers last fall, both citing a combination of factors for their decisions.

"GOOD PEOPLE HAVE already got good jobs," Mooradian told The Daily Iowan Friday. But Mooradian said he is optimistic that the UI will be successful in recruiting other top laser experts for the new center, which is scheduled to be completed in 1990.

"There are other people who are as good or better than I am who could move in," Mooradian said.

Phillips agrees. "It's my opinion that there won't be any difficulty in getting first-class people to come to this facility," he said.

But some state legislators are annoyed at what they view as misleading information conveyed by UI administrators.

According to State Rep. Minnette Doderer, D-Iowa City, UI administrators failed to warn the Legislature of the possibility that the scientists would change their minds.

FORMER UI PRESIDENT James O. Freedman, who left his post at the UI to become president at Dartmouth College in New Hampshire last July, was one of the biggest proponents of the laser research center. Freedman often stressed the need for state funding of the laser center building to successfully recruit the three scientists, who he described as "top candidates" in the laser science field.

But UI Laser Facility Director William Stwalley said he and other UI officials were clear in their explanations to the legislators.

"I think it's important to distinguish between two words," Stwalley said. "One word is promised, and one word is expected. We expected (the scientists) would commit to the university once a building was complete."

Stwalley said the legislators misunderstood the process of recruit-

Care facility goes private

On Jan. 1, after nearly a year of debate and paperwork, the Johnson County Care Facility officially became a private entity.

Now called Chatham Oaks, the 90-patient mental health care facility is under the direction of Mary Donovan. She was also director of the facility when it was under the control of the Board of Supervisors.

Although Chatham Oaks is now in charge of running the facility, Johnson County will continue to pay for about $1.5 million a year in operating costs at the facility.

The board voted last summer to privatize the facility in order to receive about $250,000 in state and federal funds annually.

Cambus expands route

The UI Cambus service will begin weekend bus service Jan. 22-23 for the Hawkeye Apartments. The new route will replace services cut by the Iowa City Transit Department in July.

Service will operate every half hour from 7 p.m. to 12:15 a.m. Saturdays and every half hour from 12:15 p.m. to 12:15 a.m. on Sundays.

The new route was made possible by a grant from the Iowa Department of Transportation, which is paying for 50 percent of the costs of the route.

Center accepts registration

The UI Arts and Craft Center, located in the Union, is currently accepting registrations for adult and youth classes. The non-credit classes will start the week of Feb. 8, with regular classes meeting for 8 or 10 weeks and mini classes meeting for 2 to 5 weeks.

Evening classes for adults include photography, beginning drawing, Audubon drawing, calligraphy, batik and tie-dye, printmaking, fiction writing and chess. Mini classes include basketry, beadwork, bookbinding, knitting and photography classes.

Youth classes, open to people aged 4-17, will be offered in drawing, painting, printmaking, creative writing, photography, manners, Audubon Drawing, needlecrafts and acting. Class schedules are available at the Union and the Iowa City Public Library. For more information, call the Arts and Craft Center at 335-3399.

UI faculty awarded grants

Six UI faculty members have been awarded "seed" grants made possible by an institutional research grant to the UI Cancer Center from the American Cancer Society and other sources.

Researchers receiving awards for 1987-88 include: Timothy W. Brotherton, assistant professor of internal medicine; James F. Donovan, assistant professor of urology; Jan Fassler, assistant professor of biology; Steven H. Green, assistant professor of biology; Charles T. Lutz, assistant professor of pathology; and Dan Weeks, assistant professor of biochemistry.

The grants, with awards up to a maximum of $7,500, are intended to support projects or novel ideas of investigators who do not have other funds for this purpose.

Researcher comes to UI

A top microbiology researcher, scholar and teacher has been appointed to the UI's first endowed professorship to be filled from state lottery funds totaling $500,000 and matched by university funds.

David T. Gibson will be named professor of microbiology in the UI College of Medicine Department of Microbiology and professor of biocatalysis. Gibson currently directs the Center for Applied Microbiology at the University of Texas at Austin.

As the endowed professor in biocatalysis, Gibson will bring an established program of research and teaching to the UI, including about $1.3 million in research grant funds. Gibson will also have a leadership role in the UI Biocatalysis Research group and will encourage collaborations between the group and private industry.

UI's Smiley found innocent of assaulting former student

By Traci Auble
The Daily Iowan

In one of the final actions in a case that has lasted more than seven months, Iowa football player Keaton Smiley was found innocent Dec. 22 of assaulting former UI student Jennifer Lee.

Sixth District Judge Van Zimmer filed the ruling after determining that the evidence of the incident, which occurred at The Fieldhouse bar, 111 E. College St., on May 17, 1986, was at best conflicting, according to court records.

The court found that physical contact did occur between Smiley and Lee during the incident which resulted in injury to Lee. However, Zimmer said in his ruling that it could not be proven beyond a reasonable doubt that the injury occurred as a result of an assault as defined by the Iowa Code, according to court records.

DURING THE INCIDENT at The Fieldhouse, Lee, who had previously dated Smiley, allegedly tossed an ice cube at Smiley from the main floor of the bar, according to testimony delivered at the trial on Nov. 16. Lee and her friend Tracy Hanson then threw five or six more ice cubes at Smiley from the balcony, according to court records.

During the trial, however, Lee claimed she could not recall tossing ice at Smiley from the balcony area. Zimmer said he did not find her inability to remember the incident to be "credible."

After first ignoring the ice throwing, Smiley eventually went to where Lee was standing. Lee and Smiley delivered conflicting testimony as to what followed. Lee testified that Smiley struck her in the nose while Smiley testified that he hit the glass in her hand to protect himself, according to court records.

IN HIS DECISION, Zimmer also took into account Lee's strong animosity toward Smiley which he said was reflected in her admission during the trial to writing obscenities on public walls directed at Smiley prior to the Fieldhouse incident.

Zimmer also rejected a request by Smiley to be released early from jail because of new evidence filed by Smiley's lawyers on Dec. 28 regarding his assault on former Iowa volleyball player Cheryl Zemaitis June 9.

Smiley was sentenced by Zimmer to one year in Johnson County Jail with all but 57 days suspended in connection with the assault on Zemaitis. He is scheduled to be released Feb. 2.

The evidence was based on a signed deposition by William Perkins, an acquaintance of both Smiley and Zemaitis, which stated that Zemaitis never mentioned anything about a knife or serious injuries to Perkins as she had testified in the trial. Zemaitis also allegedly told Perkins she was partially responsible for the assault, according to court records.

IN ADDITION, Zemaitis also allegedly told Perkins she felt Smiley was a decent, honest human being who did not deserve to be imprisoned and the only reason she pushed the case was because she was pressured by her mother and certain women's groups.

But Van Zimmer said in an order filed Jan. 8 that Perkins' testimony did not add anything new to the case and he intends to file a rejection of Smiley's request Jan. 21.

Van Zimmer has yet to rule on a request by Smiley for a school release permitting him to attend classes beginning today. Johnson County Sheriff Gary Hughes has already approved the request.

In a related incident, Richard A. Terrell, 37, of 602 S. Gilbert St., was found guilty of simple assault in Johnson County District Court Jan. 14 after an incident where he created a disturbance in the lobby of the Johnson County District Court House before Smiley's trial for assaulting Lee.

Terrell walked over to where Smiley, Smiley's mother and Smiley's attorneys were seated before the trial and began verbally threatening Smiley. Terrell also alluded to having a gun in his possession during the verbal exchange.

Terrell was sentenced to 30 days jail suspended and 12 months probation and was ordered to have no contact with Smiley. Terrell was also ordered to pay the $20 court costs, according to court records.

UI pays delinquent sewer bill

By James Cahoy
The Daily Iowan

UI students returning to campus from winter break will find sewer service normal, but city and UI officials say the battle over the city's sewer rates isn't over yet.

The UI paid a $109,000 delinquent sewer bill Dec. 28, after Sixth District Court Judge Lynn Brady denied a request by the UI to stop the city from shutting off service.

The UI and the city had been in conflict over the sewer bill since October, when it refused to pay all of its $110,000 sewer bill because of a disagreement with the two sewer rates imposed by the city in September 1986 and July 1988.

UI officials said the increases were unfair, and the school should be allowed to pay a special rate different from other city customers because of its size and large number of accounts with the city. The UI also requested a third party arbitrator to decide the fairness of the city's sewer rate policies.

BUT CITY OFFICIALS responded by informing UI officials that the rates were non-negotiable and threatened to cut off sewage service to the UI on Dec. 28 if the bill was not paid. They said the increases were necessary to finance a new sewage treatment plant ordered by the state.

The Iowa City Council also passed an ordinance on Dec. 1 which allowed the city to cut off service to any customer which was found to be delinquent in sewer service payments.

On Dec. 21, the UI, represented by the Iowa Attorney General's Office, filed suit in Johnson County District Court, requesting a ruling on whether Iowa City had the right to raise the UI's sewer rates in order to build the new plant and to shut off sewer service when the school refused to pay the increase.

The UI also requested a temporary injunction in the suit to stop the city's attempt to shut off sewer service.

BUT BRADY refused to grant the injunction, stating the UI had not proved "that the proposed action by the city is a violation of the UI's rights nor have they alleged that they have no adequate remedy at law."

Brady has not issued a decision yet on the right of the city to raise sewer rates. UI officials are expected to issue a statement today about the case.

Iowa City Manager Stephen Atkins said he was pleased with Brady's ruling and the decision by the university pay its sewer bill.

"I think we have very strongly stated our case. We have always maintained the rates are not negotiable," Atkins said.

Atkins also said he does not foresee the problems between the city and the UI over the sewer rate affecting future relations between the two institutions.

"Personally, I feel when you have two large institutions in the same area, they have to keep up a reasonable attitude toward the other," Atkins said. "I think we will remain on good terms."

UI Director of University Relations Carla Kooper also said she expected the UI and the city to remain on good terms.

"I think there's too much good will and commitment between the two," Kooper said. "We'll get through this eventually and be able to put it behind us."

Two Iowa City men were charged by Iowa City police with second degree burglary and possession of burglary tools Sunday morning after they set off an alarm at La Casa, 1200 1/2 S. Gilbert St., according to police reports.

Philip Harms, 22, 62 Sunrise Trailer Court, and Terry Trueblood, 21, 1339 Davenport St., were arrested at 1:28 a.m. Saturday after police officers apprehended them near the rear door of La Casa, according to the report.

Trueblood then reportedly fled the restaurant on foot, but was apprehended by an officer in the alley behind Audio Odyssey, 409 Kirkwood Ave., according to the report.

Trueblood was subsequently charged with possession of a controlled substance and interference with official acts, according to the report.

Report: A UI student was arrested by Iowa City police Sunday morning and charged with public intoxication and fifth degree criminal mischief after an incident at the apartment building at 24 E. Court St., according to police reports.

Michael Losser, 19, N272 Hillcrest Residence Hall, was arrested at 1:20 a.m. after a resident of the apartment building reported that he was yelling and breaking lights on the third floor, according to the report.

Report: Iowa City police officers arrested a man Saturday morning after an employee of the parking department reported that three intoxicated males were going to drive a brown Trans Am out of the Capitol Street parking ramp.

Police followed the car east-bound on Burlington Street, then stopped the car near Governor and Burlington streets at about 12:48 a.m. Saturday, according to the report.

Leslie Wayne Hunter, 22, address unknown, was arrested and charged with OWI, false information, defective equipment and no valid driver's license, according to the report.

Iowa City schools face monetary concerns

By Craig Sterrett
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa City Community School District is faced with a dilemma encouraged by other school boards across the state with its 1988-89 budget — there isn't enough money to go around.

Therefore, school officials said cuts will have to be made somewhere or more revenues will have to be generated during the next few weeks.

The district has an allowable growth of about 3.5 percent and a predicted three percent growth from the 1987-88 budget, raising next year's budget to $30 million, according to a Jan. 12 memorandum Iowa City Community Schools Superintendent David Cronin sent to school board members.

CRONIN TOLD board members "this budget increase for Iowa City is likely to be insufficient to finance existing district programs and operations in 1988-89."

The district has little control over several costs which will continue to rise including utility and transportation costs.

Because many costs continue to rise out of the control of the district, there will either have to be cuts or the district will have to raise more money.

"No one likes the prospect of making budget cuts," Cronin wrote in the memo. "It is especially difficult in a people-intensive enterprise where more than 80 percent of the operating budget goes to support staff and where much of the remaining budget frequently supports operations over which the district has limited control."

AT A JAN. 12 school board meeting, faculty, staff and parents from each of the district's buildings made recommendations about what areas may be cut most painlessly.

"We are going through the process of getting information from staff, parents and administrators," Assistant Schools Superintendent Jerry Palmer said. "There is nothing I can say at this time about what may have to be cut."

One suggested method of easing the district's budget dilemma is passing an enrichment tax. This tax would be a combination of property and income taxes, which would have to be approved by a majority of the voters in the September school board election or before Feb. 15.

An enrichment tax could raise as much as an estimated $2.3 million over five years.

Another possible method of raising funds would be to increase student fees.

BESIDES RAISING money by increasing fees or passing an enrichment tax, the board may have to make cuts. In the future, the board will examine the feasibility of making the following changes:

- Combining the athletic director positions on both sides of the river into one job or combining the athletic director and dean of students jobs.
- Reducing one of two district curriculum directors.
- Cutting curriculum coordinators.
- Reducing one of six central administrative office administrators.
- Reducing secretarial positions in junior high and high schools.
- Eliminating district financial support for its administrative intern.
- Reducing the number of substitute teachers.

- Increasing fees for use of district facilities.
- Reducing the costs of cablecasting school board meetings.

ONE SCHOOL board member said it is imperative that the board seek as much public input as possible before voting on budget adjustments.

"Before we make any decisions we will have to take into consideration the will of the public," School Board Member Jay Christensen-Szalanski said.

A public hearing will be held Feb. 3 at the central administrative office, 509 S. Dubuque St., to hear public views on what may be eliminated from the budget.

The board will receive the administration's recommendation on budget adjustments on Feb. 5. The board has targeted Feb. 9 for voting on budget cuts.

S. African issues to be debated at local forum

By Lisa Legge
The Daily Iowan

In an effort to better educate Iowans about the complex political issues of South Africa, black activists will present a forum tonight at the First Christian Church, 217 Iowa Ave., at 7:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee, "Southern Africa and the U.S. Elections, 1988," is touring Iowa and New Hampshire, where the first caucus and primary of the 1988 presidential elections are held, according to co-clerk of the Iowa City Friends Meeting Carol Gilbert.

Representatives of the U.S. presidential candidates have been invited to participate.

Speaking tonight will be Tandi Ramogokpa, of the Women's Division of the African National Congress, an anti-Apartheid group outlawed in South Africa, and Jerry Herman, South African Program Director of the American Friends Service Committee, as well as local and Southern African UI students.

SPEAKERS WILL DISCUSS THE SYSTEM of apartheid in South Africa, comprehensive trade sanctions against South Africa, South Africa's occupation of Namibia and U.S. funding of Contra forces in South Africa, including UNITA in Angola and RENAMO in Mozambique, Jones said. They will also discuss the efforts of the Southern Africa Development Coordinating Conference through which the Black-ruled front-line states are seeking economic independence from South Africa.

"The purpose of the tour is to help Iowans become more aware of the issues," Gilbert said. "These issues aren't talked about much in Iowa. This is a chance for Iowans to learn about them."

"We hope people will take these issues to the precinct caucuses and discuss them as platforms," Eugene Jones, Northern Field Secretary for the American Friends Service Committee, said. "We also hope people just keep these issues in mind after the caucuses."

Other forums will be held in more than 50 Iowa cities and towns this week, with speakers such as Tandi Geabasche of the African National Congress and daughter of Nobel prize winner Chief Albert Lithuli; internationally known poet Dennis Brutus; and Fernando Lima, Director of Information Services for the government of Mozambique.

The Iowa City forum is also sponsored by the Southern African/Azanian Students Association, the Iowa City Friends Meeting and the United Nations Association of Iowa City.

Something You Should Know About...

LOW BACK PAIN

Approximately 80% of all Americans suffer low back pain at one time or other in their lives. Back pain can be the result of a car accident or a fall or of lifting something improperly. It can also come from prolonged postural stress. No matter what the cause, the result is pain, discomfort and worst of all, loss of mobility.

Physical Therapy has proven to be an effective treatment for the majority of low back problems. Physical Therapists work to eliminate the pain and discomfort by restoring normal mobility.

Dole seizes lead from Bush in Iowa GOP presidential poll

United Press International

DES MOINES — With three weeks left until the state's first-in-the-nation presidential caucuses, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas has garnered a commanding lead over Vice President George Bush in the GOP presidential race in Iowa, a newspaper poll showed Sunday.

The Des Moines Register's copyright Iowa Poll questioned more than 400 likely Republican caucus-goers 18 years and older to find 41 percent support Dole compared with 26 percent who support Bush.

A Dec. 27 Iowa Poll showed Dole with 37 percent compared with 33 percent for Bush, who has been plagued in recent weeks by accusations that he has not disclosed the extent of his role in the Iran arms-for-hostages affair.

ROUNDING OUT SUNDAY'S poll, conducted last week after the Republican hopefuls sparred in a Register-sponsored debate in Des Moines, were former television evangelist Pat Robertson with 11 percent, Rep. Jack Kemp of New York with 8 percent, former Delaware Gov. Pete du Pont with 4 percent and former Secretary of State Alexander Haig with 1 percent.

Kemp had 9 percent in the Dec. 27 poll, Robertson 8 percent, du Pont 5 percent and Haig less than 1 percent.

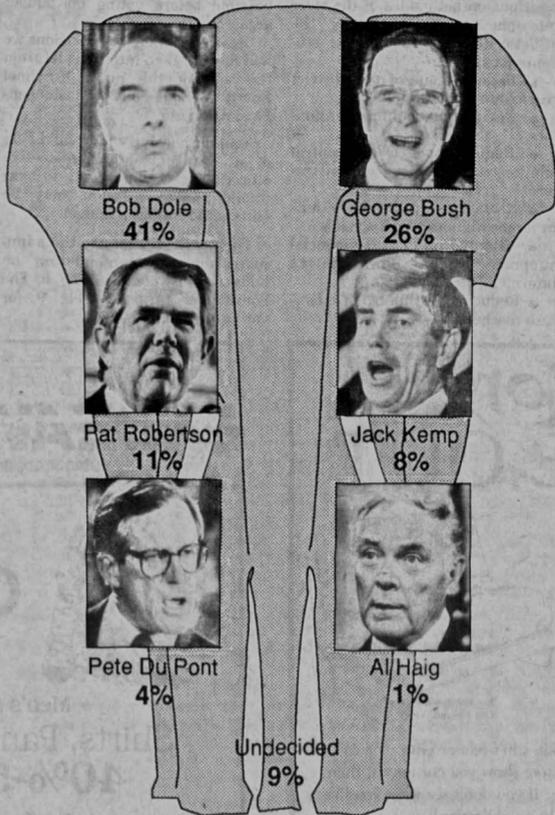

Sunday's poll also shows Robertson, who in recent Iowa appearances has criticized the press for stressing his religious background and neglecting to mention his law degree, apparently has alienated a large share of the GOP audience, with 38 percent naming him among the candidates they are least likely to support.

THE SURVEY ALSO shows mixing religion with politics appears to be a divisive issue in the Republican Party. Thirty-eight percent said placing greater emphasis on religious beliefs would help the party, while 35 percent said such an action would harm the party.

Either of the two top GOP hopefuls would have the support of the Republican faithful if they were to run against former Colorado Sen. Gary Hart in the general election, the poll shows.

Hart is the most recent Democratic front-runner in Iowa, commanding 29 percent support in a Dec. 20 Iowa Poll. His closest contender in that poll, Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois, garnered 18 percent, down from a 35-percent showing before Hart re-entered the race Dec. 15.

AMONG LIKELY REPUBLICAN caucus-goers questioned for Sunday's poll, Dole received 91 percent support compared with Hart's 6 percent, and Bush garnered 84 percent to Dole's 6 percent. The remainder of respondents in both cases were undecided.

The poll also indicates Dole, the Senate minority leader from nearby Kansas, is particularly strong among older voters and farmers. He also is the first choice among respondents identifying themselves as evangelical or fundamentalist Christians, topping Robertson 43 percent to 19 percent.

Tom Synhorst, Dole's Iowa campaign director, said despite Sunday's promising figures, Dole supporters still have "a lot of work to do."

"The vice president started campaigning in Iowa months before we did, so he had a definite advantage there," Synhorst said. "We're proud that we're moving up in the polls and it makes us very happy, but we can't let down our guard for a minute. The race has been too close at different times in the past."

Officials urge against more Contra aid

By Melissa Healy and Josh Getlin
Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Reagan administration officials, unmoved by Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega's day-old promises to abide by the terms of a Central American peace proposal, said Sunday that they will soon ask Congress to approve by early February a new military aid package for the Nicaraguan Contras.

"The president is committed to supporting the resistance," White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk said, adding that a funding request should reach lawmakers early next week.

"Pressure by the Nicaraguan resistance is what brought the Sandinistas to the negotiating table," he said.

BUT ALEJANDRO Bendano, general secretary of the Nicaraguan Foreign Ministry, warned that the peace plan would be "fatally endangered" if the U.S. approved new aid for the Contras.

Speaking on NBC's "Meet the Press," Bendano added, "We expect the Reagan administration not to stab the Central American presidents — who signed the Aug. 7 accord — and their peace plan in the back" by seeking new Contra aid.

Bendano's remarks were echoed by several lawmakers, who urged the Reagan administration to delay any further request for aid to the Contras in the wake of Ortega's concessions.

But the administration reacted with sharp skepticism to Ortega's assurances that he would effectively lift the state of emergency that has restricted civil rights in Nicaragua and hold face-to-face talks about a cease-fire with the armed opposition.

CEASE-FIRES IN THE region's guerrilla wars and abolition of measures that curb civil rights are among the steps required under the Central American peace plan signed Aug. 7 in Guatemala by Costa Rica, El Salvador, Honduras, Guatemala and Nicaragua. At the conclusion of a two-day summit of the presidents of the five countries, the Nicaraguan leader announced the lifting of the state of emergency and said for the first time that his government was willing to meet face-to-face with Contra leaders to discuss a cease-fire.

"Nicaragua has already had 150 days to comply" with the conditions of the peace accord, Popadiuk said, "but all we have in is a track record of broken promises, much rhetoric and some cosmetic measures."

State Department officials expressed concern over the detention Friday and Saturday of four leaders of Nicaragua's internal political opposition, accused by Nicaraguan state security forces of plotting with the backing of the Central Intelligence Agency, "to instigate terrorist and conspiratorial action."

The arrests took place as Ortega announced new measures that would ease the conditions for freeing about 8,000 political prisoners held in Nicaragua. "It appears that he has been making one promise to the world audience, while at home he's making again a chilling move on the opposition," said one administration official.

The Reagan administration has not set the dollar amount on the additional Contra aid that it expects to request from Congress. The White House had hoped last year to give the Contras $270 million in military aid in 1988, but under Congressional pressure, it withheld that request and sought humanitarian aid instead.

Light turnout marks Haitian elections

By Ian Simpson
United Press International

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — Most Haitians boycotted military-sponsored national elections Sunday, fleeing to the countryside or staying indoors during light voting marred by disorganization and apparent fraud.

Turnout was light at polling stations in Port-au-Prince, with some sites closed or deserted much of the day. Many polling places did not have ballots, boxes or workers when they opened at 6 a.m.

Sunday's voting was widely condemned by civic, professional, student and human rights groups who charge the elections were rigged. Four centrist presidential candidates in the November elections boycotted the polls and called for voters to abstain.

The doors at some polling places in the capital closed as scheduled at 6 p.m. But Clement Britto, secretary general of the Oversight Provisional Electoral Council, said many polls would stay open late.

"SOME POLLS WILL NOT close at 6 p.m. because they opened so late," Britto said. Workers at some polls said they did not open the doors until noon.

Only a small group of Caribbean nations, headed by Jamaica, responded to a Haitian request for election observers. Neville Gallimore, head of the delegation, described the election as proceeding smoothly without any great irregularities.

Observers estimated voter turnout in Haiti — where about half of the 6 million citizens are of voting age — at about 5 percent.

"It just shows the whole thing is a farce," said Gerard Bissainthe, spokesman for the National Front for Concerted Action, one of four political parties that called for an election boycott. "It just confirms what we've been saying, that this not democratic."

BRITTO said, "We must be satisfied with any amount we get."

"The essential thing for us is to make this election a success," he said. "We have had an effort to have free and fair elections and we are getting them."

The capital was with no gunfire or heavy peaceful, during the new elections reported Nov. 29 elections — the impoverished Caribbean in the 30 years — were killed at least 34 and wounded scores in attacks on polling stations.

A103 Art and reason

When Mark and I decided to spend the weekend at his mother's house, I never imagined I would be walking into a mouse's nightmare. There were cats everywhere.

Cat plaques, cat statues, cat clocks, even a cat mat. I couldn't begin to duplicate her collection of kitty litter if I spent a year at a garage sale. Conspicuously absent, however, was a real cat. Strange, I thought, and began to fear that a weekend with cat woman could be a lot less than purr-fect.

But then she came home, and Mark introduced her. She was dressed surprisingly well—no leopard pants. In fact, you could say she was the cat's meow, but I'd rather not.

She offered me a cup of Dutch Chocolate Mint. Now that was something I could relate to. Then she brought it out in the most beautiful, distinctly unfeline china I'd ever seen. As we sipped, I found out that Mrs. Campbell has my same weakness for chocolate, loves the theater as much as I do, but, incredibly, never saw "Cats." So Mark and I are taking her next month.

Hart leads Democrats in Texas poll

DALLAS — A poll of Texas Democrats indicates that Gary Hart has charged ahead of his rivals, and his re-entry into the presidential race has cut most deeply into the support of the Rev. Jesse Jackson. Hart, who returned to the presidential race Dec. 15, won 26 percent to 17 percent for Jackson in a poll published Sunday by The Dallas Morning News and Houston Chronicle.

Paper: Meese violated ethics laws

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department found evidence Attorney General Edwin Meese may have violated ethics laws and turned over information about his involvement in the telephone industry to an independent prosecutor, The Washington Post said Sunday. The newspaper, quoting unnamed sources familiar with the inquiry, said Deputy Attorney General Arnold Burns gave independent prosecutor James McKay information that Meese associate Robert Wallach helped set up a meeting between Meese and telephone industry officials.

Senator wants Star Wars budget cut

WASHINGTON — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., urged the Pentagon Sunday to submit a leaner Star Wars budget next month when it sends Congress its 1989 defense spending request. Congress gave the Defense Department $3.9 billion for the anti-missile research program in the current fiscal year, a cut from the $5.8 billion request. But Proxmire said new Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci should cut the request to about $3 billion. He said a reduction also would aid in curbing the deficit.

Broadway producer kills wife, himself

NEW YORK — The Broadway producer of the nude musical revue "Oh! Calcutta!" fatally stabbed his wife and then jumped to his death from the roof of their 15-story apartment building, police said. A doorman found the body of Norman Kean, 54, about 2 p.m. Friday in the rear courtyard of the building, which overlooks the Hudson River in Manhattan, said Det. Joseph McConville, a police department spokesman. The Kean's only son, David, arrived home about four hours later and found his mother, Gwyda DonHowe Kean, 53, formerly of Des Moines, lying in her nightclothes stabbed to death in their second-floor apartment, he said.

U.S. links Soviets to disinformation

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union has apparently renewed its disinformation campaign in the Third World against the United States, despite recent pledges by top Soviet leaders to end it. U.S. officials said a report in the Ghanaian Times alleging the United States had given South Africa chemical weapons, which had been turned over to rebel groups in Angola and Mozambique, bears the imprint of a Soviet disinformation "plant."

Filipinos vote to elect local officials

MANILA, Philippines — More than 25 million Filipinos flocked to tens of thousands of polling centers Monday to elect 16,451 local officials after a bloody, 45-day grassroots election campaign. At least 81 dead, 52 wounded and 17 kidnapped. Sued all Fidel V. Ramos, chief of staff of the armed forces, intelligence commanders on maximum alert after receiving military genre reports indicating that renegade, right-wing squads planned actions to try to disrupt the election.

Study: 62 percent of felons convicted

WASHINGTON — An estimated two and more than 100,000 criminals arrested on felony charges are in custody. One third are incarcerated, according to a study released Sunday. The study by the U.S. Department of Justice Statistics showed that of 532,000 people arrested in 1984 on felony charges in 11 states, 84 percent were prosecuted, 62 percent were convicted and 36 percent were incarcerated.

20 injured in 'freak' car accident

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Nearly 20 people were hurt in a "freak" car accident Sunday. Two of those injured were hospitalized in serious condition, 10 others were hospitalized for injuries and at least six people were hospitalized for injuries. An appearance by the dragster driver at the arena floor and spin its wheels, was expected to cover no more than 100 feet.

Police search for answers from Utah man

MARIO SUGHERO — For the second day Addam Swapp refused to surrender to police surrounding his farmhouse here Sunday. Fresh footprints in new snow Saturday led police to a heavily damaged Kamas Stake Center church to church farm of Addam Swapp, where he was believed to be living with 15 family members in four buildings near the predominantly Mormon community. "Our goal is to find out what happened and why and who is responsible," said John Nelson, state Public Safety Department commissioner. "We let it go unanswered."

It's a celebration of ideas, brotherhood and peace for all mankind. — UI Black Student Union President Rodney Sturgeon on the observance of Martin Luther King Day. See story, page 1A.

Disabled mother fights to raise sons

Washington Post

LOS ANGELES — Tiffany Callo, a disabled San Jose woman waging an unprecedented fight to raise her 10-month-old son, gave birth to a second son Friday and was told he also will be taken from her. With eight months left before her elder son, Antonio David, is scheduled to be put up for adoption, the 20-year-old with cerebral palsy was tearful at the news but seemed resigned to begin another legal and administrative battle for newborn Jesse Robert. "I'm the boy's mother," said Callo, describing her reaction to the news that Jesse will soon go to a foster home. "I don't like it particularly, but I have to be realistic."

Several experts in the problems of the disabled say that Callo and her husband, Antonio Rios, from whom she separated last month, are the first parents they know of who have had children taken from them because of the parents' physical handicaps.

genital defects including stunted arms, must use wheelchairs and acknowledge they cannot lift a baby or do necessary child-related chores without help. Callo has sought a full-time attendant to help care for her children until they are toilet-trained, but Santa Clara County officials have indicated that the county does not have the necessary funds.

A fresh start

Today marks the official start of another semester at the UI. Students, professors and staff members are busy preparing for the next four months, many eager to begin the session with a clean slate. What better time, then, for the UI presidential search committee to start the important task of finding the next UI leader all over again.

In the past four weeks, a number of events have occurred which indicate the only way the top UI post can now be fairly filled is to begin the entire process anew.

For starters, only one of the committee's two candidates remains in the running for the UI presidency; Frances Horowitz of the University of Kansas. The other candidate — Nils Hasselmo of the University of Arizona — removed his name from contention after the state Board of Regents asked for additional candidates after interviewing him and asked UI Interim President Richard Remington to apply.

Several faculty members and student leaders are now saying the entire selection process was a set-up. Many have come out against Remington and many more have voiced disapproval of how little progress has been made in the 7-month search. Many correctly blame the 17-member committee and the nine regents for this mess.

The committee has made several mistakes. First and foremost, instead of submitting a list of six names to the regents as instructed, the committee only recommended two candidates — Hasselmo and Horowitz. While Hasselmo and Horowitz are both qualified individuals, it is highly doubtful they were the only two capable applicants. After all, more than 200 people from across the nation applied for the position.

Furthermore, if the committee was having such a difficult time identifying six capable individuals, this problem should have been communicated to the regents much sooner.

But the regents have made more serious errors. Rather than simply ask the committee to recommend four more candidates, Pomerantz and other state leaders began quietly supporting Remington. The regents even offered Remington an interview with the board although the interim president has yet to interview with the search committee.

And instead of waiting for the committee to come up with four more names and interview all six candidates at the same time, the regents went ahead and interviewed Hasselmo and Horowitz on Dec. 19.

As it stands now, the regents say Remington will be interviewed by the search committee within the next two weeks. And Horowitz remains the only "official" candidate. Meanwhile, faculty members as well as the rest of the UI community continue to wonder just how much voice they really have in such important decisions.

By asking Remington to interview with the board, the regents have sent a strong message to the UI community that what the search committee recommends is irrelevant. The only solution to this fiasco is for the search committee to begin its important task of finding a qualified, respected leader for the UI again.

But this time, the committee should operate as an independent body and recommend a sufficient number of candidates. And the regents should stick to considering those candidates who are indeed candidates rather than pushing the people they want.

Unfinished fight

It's Martin Luther King Day, and it's not a time for self-satisfied back-patting. Not yet.

Blacks still swell the ranks of the nation's unemployed, still average lower on standardized tests, still suffer discrimination in housing, employment and promotion. Despite huge attitude improvements in the years since King's assassination, racism still flourishes across the entire spectrum of society.

Progress is undeniable. Government-sanctioned segregation no longer exists; openly racist politicians and public servants can no longer be elected; most bigots find it more comfortable to hide their prejudices. But bigotry is as pernicious as it is irrational, and it hangs on.

Even the government's hesitation over making Martin Luther King Day an official national holiday is symptomatic of a lack of commitment to the cause of equal rights. Even the late Chicago Mayor Harold Washington's comment at the time of his election, "Now it's our turn," shows an us-them mentality right at the fulcrum of equality. Presidential candidate Jesse Jackson's comment that he is a black man first and an American second blurs the difference between a progressive movement and a grudge match.

King's dream of a discrimination-free society is certainly closer to becoming a reality than it was a generation ago, when blacks were routinely considered second-class citizens. But people must change before nations change. Local and state programs aimed at education deserve as much funding and emphasis as ever. Colleges and universities need to invigorate their recruitment of minority faculty members and staff.

And today needs to be a national holiday, if only to encourage more people to examine the biases in themselves.

Where do we go from here?

By Rodney Sturgeon

Guest Opinion

Once again Martin Luther King's birthday observance is upon us. This year the late King would have been 59 years old. I often wonder what he would think of our world today if he were alive. During his lifetime King wrote a book called Where Do We Go From Here? I believe that the same question can be asked — just where do we go from here?

Many people today erroneously believe that the civil rights movement is over. Many believe that blacks have "overcome." Indeed, this is true to a certain extent. No longer do we see "whites only" signs in restaurants and over water fountains, and no longer are blacks forced to sit on the back of the bus. "Just look at the evidence," many people point out. "Jim Crow is officially dead. The 'dream' has been achieved." Has the dream been achieved?

LET'S TAKE A closer look. Since 1980, black enrollment in colleges and universities across the land has decreased by more than 8 percent. According to a recent article in USA Today, racial violence is on the upswing again. Statistics reveal that since 1980 a racist act has touched at least one person every day in the United States. In our cities, quality, affordable housing is still unavailable to a large segment of our population. The unemployment rate among minorities is still alarmingly high. Even in these ultramodern times — the so-called "Cosby-decade" of the 1980s — the spectre of apartheid still rears its ugly head, serving as a grim reminder to us that the dream of King is still being postponed. The question remains: "Where do we go from here?"

ONE KEY CONCEPT that King recognized was the interrelated structure of life. He reminded us that we live in an interdependent world and that no race, no country or individual, can survive alone. I remember listening to a tape of a speech in which King described how one could not leave his or her own house without depending on most of the world. For instance, when one showers, he or she may bathe with a sponge from a Pacific Islander and soap from a Frenchman.

In the kitchen one drinks South American coffee, or Chinese tea, or West African cocoa, or eats English toast. King went on to conclude that by the end of breakfast one would have depended on more than half the world.

When we realize this basic, fundamental concept of interdependence and live by the "golden rule of humankind," then the world that King envisioned will come true — a world of peace and goodwill toward all will follow.

I CHALLENGE EACH UI student, faculty member and administrator to make, in your personal observance of this holiday, a pledge to try to see each person you encounter that day as a brother or sister. Put aside your racial prejudices and assumptions and try to view each person as a human being first. Try to get to know a person of a different race or culture. Try it, and you might find that you will like it. In doing this, you would have made your own contribution to helping make King's dream come true.

Even in a small community like Iowa City you can make a difference, for, as one wise man once observed, all great waves of the ocean first start out as ripples in the water. Soon each little ripple will combine with another and eventually it will form a wave so strong that it will be impossible to stop. I urge each of us to make our own little ripple of brotherhood.

Finally, I appeal to the university officials and the state Board of Regents to help commit this fine institution to keeping King's dream alive. Officials should give recognition to the King holiday and honor the universal and transcendent principles that he expounded by declaring his birthday an official university holiday and suspending classes in his honor. King had the moral courage to break with tradition during his lifetime, and so should we.

Only when we have the courage to stand up for what is right, to eventually reach the "Promised Land" and the answer to the question "Where do we go from here?" will have been answered.

Rodney Sturgeon is the president of the UI's Black Student Union.

And while you were away . . .

While most of you were schussing down Aspen's Snowmass or greasing your bodies with Coppertone No. 5 on a beach in Cancun, a few of us less fortunate were relegated to spend our winter breaks here in Iowa City, shoveling snow and computing wind-chill factors.

Remaining in Iowa City during break does provide, however, two distinct advantages over vacationing in more exotic locales. One is not having to endure the usually interminable lines at restaurants and movie theaters; and the other is the entertainment provided by the ongoing comic melodrama otherwise known as the University of Iowa.

Yes, even without classes in session many functions of the UI continue on in all their enthralling absurdity. So for those of you who missed this past month's collegiate follies (often euphemistically referred to as "news"), here is a brief review of the more significant goings-on:

PRESIDENTIAL SEARCH DEBACLE. Employing its by now familiar tactic of making major decisions on the day after students and faculty have left for winter break, the state Board of Regents rejected the two candidates recommended for the job of UI president by a university search committee.

In a classic example of non sequitur, Board President Marvin Pomerantz explained the board's rejection by saying, "The two candidates interviewed . . . were outstanding candidates, highly qualified and in our view would make excellent presidents."

Outstanding as they may have been, neither candidate possessed the one qualification the board is looking for in a new president: the name Richard Remington. Remington, when chosen to serve as interim president following James O. Freedman's resignation last April, stated that he was not interested in becoming the permanent head honcho.

But evidently Remington's lack of interest in the job did not please an influential cabal of Iowans, including UI Athletic Director Chalmers "Bump" Elliot, UI Hospitals Director John Colloton and Gov. Terry Branstad. Seeing Remington as the perfect dupe to carry out their belief that the business of the university is business, this group apparently lobbied beyond the purview of the official search process to convince Remington that he really does want the job and to convince the board that it wants Remington.

The upshot of this fandango is that the search committee now has no real chance of attracting any other qualified candidates and that Remington will get the job by default. At least the regents have made clear once again what it thinks of student and faculty interests in making such decisions — not much.

LASER DEBACLE. We did get a chance over the break to see what the future Remington administration might be like. Last year the UI convinced the Iowa Legislature to fund a new $25 million laser research center that would put the school on the "cutting edge" of such technology and its related industries (the word "education" is conspicuously absent from arguments for the center) by strongly suggesting, if not outright promising, that three prominent laser researchers had agreed to staff the facility if it were built. Soon after the Legislature approved bonding for the laser center, however, two of the three topnotch researchers pulled out of their tentative commitments. Last week the third followed suit.

Now many legislators feel they have been conned by the UI. Rep. Jack Hatch, chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Bonding, said he views the withdrawal of the three promised researchers "as damaging the university's integrity" and that the school will "find it very difficult to get any bonding from me."

Remington responded that the UI is still capable of attracting the very best researchers in the field, stating, "most major league ball players would like to have the batting average that we have." Maybe — if they play for the Cubs.

SEWER DEBACLE. Meanwhile, the UI is courting a relationship with Iowa City government that is about as harmonious as its relationship with the regents and Legislature. After the city increased the UI's sewer bill last September, the school cried foul and refused to pay. The city said fine, threatening to discontinue service to the campus one building at a time, a sort of public utilities version of the Chinese water torture.

The UI took the city to court in an effort to block the shut-offs, but the court sided with the city and two hours before the scheduled start of the disconnections the UI forked over the delinquent $109,197. No toilets backed up, but a strong stench still lingers.

Fortunately, Remington has yet to comment on the matter.

J.L. McClure's column appears on the Viewpoints page every Monday.

An open letter to the state of Iowa

With the opening of the new semester, and the understandably great interest in this community about the state of the search for a new university president, we thought a letter from us might be in order. We also want to provide some background on the search and the processes being followed.

First, it is important to understand that the Iowa Board of Regents, in the statutes of the state of Iowa, is charged with the responsibility for appointing presidents to the three state universities. Traditionally, though, the selection of presidents has been a cooperative venture between the university community — represented by a committee of faculty, staff, students, administrators and alumni — and the regents. The university group evaluates candidates and the regents make the final selection. A president of the university can obviously be most effective when enthusiastically accepted by all constituencies.

THEREFORE, WE wish to assure this community and its friends and supporters in the state of Iowa and beyond, that we are following these historical principles. Whether suggestions for candidates come from the campus search committee, the regents or elsewhere, those finalists who are seriously considered for the position will be individuals who have been evaluated by both the regents and the campus groups.

We are continuing the search until we find as fine a president as can be found. The UI is too good an institution for anything less to be acceptable.

king at the service. ACCORDING TO UI BSU president Rodney Sturgeon, there is a common misconception that the celebration of Martin Luther King Day only involves black people. "It's not just a black celebration," Sturgeon said. "It's a celebration of brotherhood and peace for mankind." "I think King stood for the principles and ideas he tried to expound on," he said. "That is important to all humankind. He talked about brotherhood and peace for mankind. He talked about brotherhood and peace for mankind. He talked about brotherhood and peace for mankind."

THE UI BLACK American Law Student Association and the UI Law School Committee on Faculty-Student Activity will jointly hold an assembly for Martin Luther King Day today at 5 p.m. in the Law Building.

In Fontana, Calif., more than 250 people Sunday heeded by racists, marched in a cold, driving rain to honor the birthday of the slain civil rights leader and at least three white supremacists were arrested on weapons charges.

"WE'RE HERE TODAY to show the world what King did and why he did it," said the Rev. David Rodrigues, one of the marchers. "We think it's a big step forward for the city. It's a message for all those people who didn't think we were civic-minded or open to all people."

Members of the Ku Klux Klan were among the several dozen extremists who lined the march route in a frigid rain, some shouting white supremacist slogans. The so-called White Mafia and Aryan Youth Movement also were represented.

MORE THAN 140 rain-jacketed police officers lined the 1-mile route, making three arrests and seizing a variety of weapons from three people headed toward the march route before it began. "We were watching for multiple people driving in vehicles," said Capt. Sam Scott. "We were stopping people to see what their purpose was and where they were going."

Born in Atlanta in 1929, King became an influential Baptist minister and a revolutionary leader of the non-violent protest movement to gain equal rights for blacks.

KING ATTENDED BOOKER T. Washington High School where he skipped the ninth and 12th grades. He went on to study sociology at Morehouse College in Atlanta, an all-male school where many black leaders and ministers have been educated, and the school that King's father and grandfather attended.

While in his junior year at Morehouse, King decided to join the Baptist priesthood and went on to study theology.

2 percent over the following fiscal years.

THE BUDGET DOES not allow for the expansion of services for the Iowa City Transit System and the Public Library, according to WOODBURN, who said additional cuts in those programs in the future is not foreseen.

"I personally just don't see how we can do it," Atkins said. "We're at a delicate balance right now. We'd be hard-pressed to find a way to restore them."

The library reduced hours in 1987, closing early on Thursdays and completely on Fridays due to a lack of city funding for staff.

In June, Iowa City Transit reduced service to once hourly during the day, combined night routes and eliminated Saturday night service. The cost of monthly passes also increased $2.

IOWA CITY COUNCILOR Darlene Courtney agreed with Atkins that increasing transit service is not feasible in the future.

"I don't think there's much hope," Courtney said. "Ridership is down and we're not even sure that the decline has completely stopped."

A recent arrangement made between UI Cambus and Iowa City Transit entailed Cambus taking over a stop near the Hawkeye Apartments. Such cooperation will continue to be needed under the new budget, according to councilor Susan Horowitz.

"Nationally, every single transit system in the U.S. is subsidized, and so this is the sort of cooperation I rejoice in," she said. "It's the kind of cooperation we're going to have to have more of."

Although transit and library services will not be increased under the new budget plan, levels of service in these and other city programs will not drop under the plan either, according to Atkins.

"I DON'T THINK we'll see a heck of a lot of difference," Atkins said. "There will be some changes, obviously. We've postponed a few things, like street overlay, but we'll have the same numbers of firefighters, police and garbage collectors."

But Atkins added that six city positions are to be eliminated as of July 1, 1988, because of the need for cutbacks. Included in these cutbacks are one traffic engineering position, 1 1/2 positions in the finance department, 1 1/2 positions in city engineering, one-half position from parking and making a full-time employee part-time in the planning and zoning department.

The 7.9 percent property tax increase for fiscal year 1989, following last year's increase of 11.3 percent, may be a concern for some, but Atkins points to inflation and the new Iowa City swimming pool as two reasons for the increase.

HE ALSO POINTS out that the tax rate averages out to 3.6 percent over the next three years. Increases in taxes are .9 percent for fiscal year 1990 and 2 percent for fiscal year 1991.

"You have to keep in mind that we go into the market and have to compete just like everyone else," Atkins said. "We're affected by the rate of inflation just like everyone else, too."

Councilors said they will not take a stand on the proposed tax increase yet, but agree it needs to be discussed. The process is just getting underway, according to councilor Randy Larson.

"We all have several concerns about the budget, but it's much too early to say how we're going to come out," he said. "We're just waiting for a chance to go through it line by line."

The council will discuss the budget at a special work session at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in the regular council chambers at the Iowa City Civic Center.

Scientists to head the laser research center. He said funding the laser center was necessary to attract the scientists, but the state funds were no guarantee of their commitments.

BUT DODERER SAID UI administrators were unclear in their explanations of the recruiting process.

"I don't think that's the job of the legislators to listen carefully. I think it's the job of the administration to speak carefully and clearly," Doderer said.

Doderer agrees with Stwalley that development of the laser center will continue as planned. Stwalley said an aggressive search for other qualified scientists to head the center is already underway.

"There are others of comparable stature around the world," Stwalley said. "We're already in the process of interviewing people."

"Who's indispensable? Three scientists? Not on your life," Doderer said. Mooradian emphasized his belief that the UI commitment to the proposed laser center is unequalled by other major universities, and that it will greatly benefit the UI and the state both academically and economically.

"Lasers and opto-electronics are here to stay," Mooradian said. "It is at the stage where computers were 20 years ago. You shouldn't give up, because it's a winner. It's clearly a profitable growth area."

peripheral are the ones who have misunderstood the situation." Remington said Sunday he did not yet know when he would meet with the campus search committee, but declined further comment. Some UI faculty members and student leaders were critical of the announcement by Becker and Pomerantz, citing skepticism that the regents and the search committee would continue to work together.

"IT SEEMS LIKE AN INSULT TO ME for the regents to act on their own and neglect the opinions of the committee and the people who have studied the situation," said UI Collegiate Associations Council President Mike Reck.

"Now they say it is a misunderstanding. I'm very glad to see them attempting to clear up the situation, but the regents have already hurt the university, they have already hurt themselves," said UI Professor George Kalnitsky, who was a member of the search committee which nominated James O. Freedman to the UI president's position in 1982. "It appears they are trying to cover their tracks. They've got to avoid the appearance of it being rigged. They didn't do that very well." Other faculty members, who declined to be identified, said they believe Remington and the regents were trying to bypass the search committee due to controversy of his candidacy.

BUT IN A LETTER REMINGTON SENT TO the search committee Jan. 6, he stated: "I do not believe that the presidential search and screening committee should be bypassed. I know that some members of your committee have questions about my candidacy and they ought to have the opportunity to have them addressed."

Becker said he "just doesn't believe" the charges of collusion, adding he believes Remington deserves the chance to be interviewed by the campus search committee.

The search committee tied in a 6-6 vote whether to interview Remington. Becker broke the tie in Remington's favor.

Remington is scheduled to be interviewed by the campus search committee within the next two weeks, and, following that meeting, the committee will determine whether to have Remington meet campus constituencies, Becker said.

BUT THOSE CLOSE TO THE SEARCH SAID Remington's candidacy has been extensively discussed by the search committee and believe the chances of him now being recommended are unlikely.

Although he feels "sympathetic" toward Remington's position, UI Mechanical Engineering Professor James Andrews said he was "disappointed in the regents trying to gloss over the situation, but maybe this might be the way to heal the wounds."

But Andrews, who said he believed only about 100 of 1,650 faculty members strongly support Remington's candidacy, said the search process will regain integrity only if Remington will "totally remove himself from contention" because the regents have "singled out with Remington already who they want for president."

REMINGTON HAS CHANGED HIS MIND REGARDING his interest in the position.

When he was named interim president by the regents last July, Remington said he wanted to be president for the shortest period possible and vowed he would not apply for the position.

After a trip to the Far East in late November, Remington said he had changed his mind after he learned more about the position and said he was willing to meet with the search committee for a preliminary interview.

UI faculty members who wish to remain unidentified said it appeared friends and other Iowans talked Remington into interviewing with the committee.

Pomerantz, an ex-officio member of the search committee, was present at the search committee meeting when the list of five candidates was narrowed. Two candidates withdrew before the meeting and a third candidate did not receive enough support on the committee to be nominated.

AT THAT TIME, POMERANTZ VOICED CONCERN over the lack of candidates, but said he was flexible about the number, according to sources.

After the list was narrowed to two candidates, the regents scheduled interviews — an action some regents now say was a mistake.

Williams said at that time the regents were committed to interviewing the candidates Dec. 19, but said they "should have waited" on interviewing and "should have taken our chances."

Regent and UI law student Jackie Van Ekeren agreed, saying the board "maybe should have waited" on interviewing Hasselmo and Horowitz.

But regent Bass Van Gilst said "it would have not been fair to have postponed the interviewing of the two candidates until we received more names."

SOURCES SAID THEY BELIEVE THE SEARCH will be completed by March, but Pomerantz said "we're in no hurry, we'll take the time to get a good president."

Some faculty members said UI officials want Remington to be president because he would maintain the status quo at the UI.

"Change is one reason why the regents and people like John Colloton and Bump Elliott want to see Remington become the next president," said a faculty member who declined to be identified. "They don't want people to come in and rock the boat, someone who might tell them to do their job differently or find something out they shouldn't have." Elliott has stated he views Remington as a "friend of athletics," said at an I-Club meeting that the "best person for the job" was in position as interim president.

BRANSTAD SAID DURING A WEEKLY NEWS CONFERENCE that he believed Remington should be considered for the position. Branstad aide Dick Vohs denied, however, that the governor is right in the search process.

While some faculty members said they were disturbed by the regents, others questioned Remington's intentions and his qualifications for the position.

Remington has come under fire from the faculty for his actions with regents concerning term appointments for administrators and allocation of money collected from the 3 percent tuition increase procedure. Students have criticized his support of tuition in the result of the drawn-out search process.

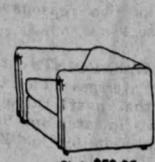

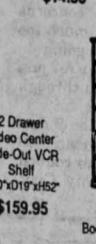

"Can you imagine anyone being interested in this position after what has happened?" questioned UI Music Professor Edward Kottick. "I would think that it is a fix, that it smells. This is a first-rate university. Unfortunately, this selection process would make it rather difficult either Horowitz or Remington to work effectively."

"To be a successful president, the campus must feel good about the search process," UI Law Professor Peter Shane said. "Whoever comes into the position will have to deal with that, but no difficulty insurmountable."

Iowa upsets No. 1 Iowa State

Somehow, it seems Roy J. Carver still contributes to Iowa's wrestling success.

In the den named for the late friend of Hawkeye wrestling, Iowa's Brooks Simpson Saturday scored a dramatic fall over defending national champion Eric Voelker at 190 pounds to propel No. 4 Iowa to a thrilling 22-15 victory over top-ranked Iowa State.

The pin rescued the Hawkeyes from losing their 44-meet winning streak in Carver-Hawkeye Arena, a record started when Iowa downed Oklahoma, 35-7, in the building's christening event Jan. 3, 1983.

"It must be some mystique — pinning a national champion to keep this thing alive," Iowa Coach Dan Gable said. "I guess it proves one thing — you just can't say die until it's over with."

"YOU COULD JUST feel it all through the arena after Simpson's match," Iowa co-captain Royce Alger said. "That's the great thing about this program — the solidarity, the togetherness."

With three matches left, the Hawkeyes' prospects of victory were bleak. Nine points separated the two wrestling titans and the Cyclones still had two highly-

But Alger made a mockery of his much-anticipated bout with No. 2 Mike VanArsdale at 177 pounds. He dominated VanArsdale from the outset, rolling to an 11-3 decision to pull the Hawkeyes to within 15-10.

Then Simpson pulled his magic act.

Though working Voelker into a pair of difficult scramble positions early in the match, Simpson trailed 6-1 after Voelker scored a two-point tilt early in the second period.

BUT SIMPSON completed his next roll from the bottom, putting Voelker on his back. The match ended with 14 seconds left in the period, sending a typically wild

Hawks drop Wildcats, 92-68

By Marc Bona

Riding the crest of the Iowa wrestling team's victory over Iowa State hours earlier, the Hawkeyes topped the Northwestern Wildcats, 92-68, Saturday in Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

The win boosted the Hawkeyes to 11-5 overall, 2-2 in the Big Ten. The Wildcats fell to 6-8, 1-3. The win was Iowa's fifth straight over Northwestern.

The Wildcats showed signs of being a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde team, scrapping point-for-point to

At the 7:54 mark of the first half, Armstrong raced up court with Moe, looked to his left and whirled the ball behind his back to Moe. The bucket gave Iowa its second lead of the game, 22-21.

DAVIS SUBSTITUTED Michael Reaves in for Armstrong, and the 6-3 senior guard from Milledgeville, Ga., showed what

"I WASN'T SURE we were going to get on track," Iowa Coach Tom Davis said afterward. "Anybody that treats that ball club lightly will really have problems."

The scoring surge came on the shooting of Jeff Moe (19 points, 4 of 7 from the three-point line) and Kent Hill (career-high 17 points). Roy Marble added 11.

Equally impressive was the passing of B.J. Armstrong, who had a game-high five assists.

Blue-chip tailback tops latest recruits

Iowa football Coach Hayden Fry received his first two out-of-state recruits over semester break when Ellery Roberts and Jeff Nelson verbally committed to Iowa.

Iowa also received in-state commitments from Ted Faley, a 6-foot-2, 200-pound linebacker from Dubuque Wahlert, and Waterloo East running back Lew Montgomery (5-11, 190) over the semester break.

Montgomery is the Iowa Player of the Year, according to USA Today. He has 861 yards and 13 touchdowns.

Roberts, a 6-0, 205-pound running back who clocks a 4.5 40-yard dash, netted over 2,800 all-purpose yards the past two seasons at Chaminade High School in Long Island, N.Y.

Roberts gained 885 yards rushing as a senior and 1,272 as a junior. He also averaged 32 yards per punt return as a junior but did not run back punts in his senior season.

"ELLERY'S POTENTIAL is unlimited. He's like a Jim Brown, O.J. Simpson type of back," Roberts' high school Coach William Basal said. "He has all the tools — the physical abilities (of) speed and quickness. And, he has the right attitude, an excellent work ethic.

"His best asset is his ability to change speeds and hit the hole," Basal added.

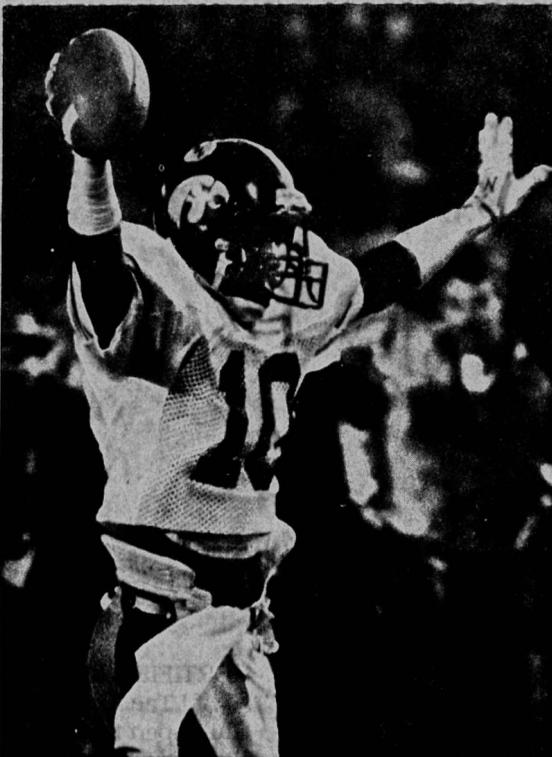

Roberts was a first-team all-Catholic High School Football Conference selection as a tailback. The league is comprised of 24 teams in the greater New York Metropolitan area.

"The people in Iowa, the town, the Big Ten Conference and the coaching staff were the factors that made me pick Iowa," Roberts said from his home.

"I'm an outside runner, not tackle to tackle," Roberts, whose favorite player is Eric Dickerson, said.

ROBERTS OFFICIALLY visited only Iowa, but he has traveled extensively the past three years, visiting such schools as Notre Dame, Penn State, Michigan, Southern California, UCLA and Stanford.

"I really liked Coach Fry," Roberts said. "He seemed real close to his players. I thought Lou Holtz (Notre Dame) was standoffish and (Joe) See Recruits, Page 6B Fair shakes.

Iowa notched another "W" in the win column for bowl games. The Hawkeyes, making their second trip in as many years to the Sea World Holiday Bowl, shook a 12-0 deficit to edge the Wyoming Cowboys, 20-19, Dec. 30 in San Diego's Jack Murphy Stadium.

But bad news surfaced a little more than a week later, when it was reported that Iowa quarterback Dan McGwire — saying he wasn't given a "fair shake" while at Iowa — will transfer to San Diego State.

McGwire, a 6-foot-8, 218-pound sophomore from Claremont, Calif., will have to sit out the upcoming season. He will have two years of eligibility remaining with the Aztecs.

"I'm very unhappy back there, and I'm just glad to get out," said McGwire, who was quoted in the Jan. 6 edition of the Chicago Tribune. "I never felt I had a clear-cut shot like everybody else did."

McGWIRE LOST THE starting job at the beginning of the year, after being named the team's No. 1 passer after spring drills. He will not return for the spring semester. Someone who will return, though, is the quarterback who replaced McGwire: Chuck Hartlieb.

Hartlieb, a fourth-year junior, completed 21 of 35 passes for 237 yards in the game. He finished the year as the Big Ten's top-rated passer, completing 65 percent of his passes for 3,092 yards.

Iowa outrushed the Cowboys but were outpassed by the Pokes' Craig Burnett. The Wyoming quarterback completed 28 of 51 passes for 332 yards and one touchdown.

IOWA NOTES

• The Hawks played without the services of defensive end Joe Mott, defensive back Dwight Sistrunk and defensive lineman Paul Glonek. The three were suspended prior to the game by Iowa Coach Hayden Fry for disciplinary reasons.

• Iowa junior defensive back Anthony Wright was named defensive player of the game. It was Wright's interception return late in the game that helped give the Hawks the win. Iowa's defense See Holiday, Page 5B

Iowa football seniors banquet set

The 10th annual Iowa football team's senior banquet will be held Jan. 29 at the Ironmen Inn, 1-80 at Exit 242. Iowa football Coach Hayden Fry will be the featured speaker; Iowa Men's Athletic Director Bump Elliott will speak, also. Social hour begins at 6 p.m. with dinner an hour later.

Tickets are $15 and may be purchased at any of the following area merchants: Garner's Jewelers, Ewers Men's Store, Suplee's Flowers, Joe's Place, The Fieldhouse, Plamor Lanes, Pumpernickel, Red Carpet Travel & Travel Services and the University Athletic Ticket office.

Those needing more information should contact Gary Hughes at 356-6020.

Rafting trip to Georgia offered

The UI Touch the Earth Outdoor Program is hosting a white water rafting expedition to Georgia during spring break, March 22-27.

The cost of the trip is $200, which includes transportation, lodging, rafting and guide fees. Those interested should register at the Recreational Services Office, Field House Room E216 or call Wayne Fett at 335-9293.

Rangers release Howe

ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — Pitcher Steve Howe, who has been suspended from baseball twice before because of cocaine use, was released Sunday by the Texas Rangers because he failed to comply with his drug recovery program, the team announced.

Team officials did not spell out whether they had evidence Howe had resumed drug use but said he had violated terms of his substance abuse program.

West edges East, 20-18, in Hula Bowl

HONOLULU (UPI) — Ickey Woods of Nevada-Las Vegas capped a 38-yard drive with a seven-yard touchdown run with 3 minutes, 18 seconds to play Saturday, helping the West defeat the East 20-18 in the 42nd Hula Bowl.

An Aloha Stadium crowd of 30,657 saw the West defense limit Heisman Trophy winner Tim Brown of Notre Dame to two catches for 38 yards.

In a game dominated by defense, Woods' touchdown made the score 20-11. It remained that way when Todd Santos' pass attempt for a 2-point conversion fell incomplete. Al Noga of Hawaii set up the drive by recovering a fumble by Ohio State quarterback Tom Tupa.

Ohio State's Tupa engineered a 68-yard touchdown drive that trimmed the margin to 20-18 with 53 seconds left. USC's Ken Henry then recovered an onside kick, preserving the outcome.

North Stars halt two streaks

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Dave Archibald and Dave Gagner scored third-period goals Saturday night, helping the Minnesota North Stars snap an eight-game winless streak with a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Red Wings.

The loss ended Detroit's eight-game unbeaten streak, the Red Wings' longest surge since the 1972 season.

Archibald scored what proved to be the game-winner at 5:59 of the third, firing a low shot from the right circle that beat goalie Glen Hanlon, giving the North Stars a 3-1 lead.

Nelson, Pate tied for lead

CARLSBAD, Calif. (UPI) — Larry Nelson birdied the third hole Sunday to tie Steve Pate for the lead during early fourth-round play at the rain-soaked $500,000 MONY Tournament of Champions.

The inaugural event of the PGA season was suspended four times by 5:15 p.m. because of poor weather. In the morning, rain and gusts up to 40 mph halted play for almost three hours. There were two other 10-minute stoppages — one due to a hailstorm — before the golfers were told to return to the clubhouse after another deluge.

Officials were considering a Monday finish for the tournament held at the La Costa Country Club.

Witsken advances to Open quarterfinal

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Todd Witsken, the lone American left in the Australian Open men's singles competition, qualified for his first Grand Slam quarterfinal Sunday by whipping Dutchman Menno Oosting, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, in the fourth round of the $1.9 million tournament.

Baseball
The Seattle Mariners Sunday signed designated hitter Ken Phelps, who hit 27 homers in 332 at-bats last season, to a one-year contract with a club option for a second year.

Boxing
The British Boxing Board of Control will ask the International Boxing Federation a second time that Tony Sibson's middleweight title fight against Frank Tate be scheduled for 12 rounds and not 15. If the Feb. 7 bout goes 15 rounds, the British Board of Control will not recognize the winner. World Boxing Association bantamweight champion Wilfredo Vasquez of Puerto Rico retained his title, outpointing Japan's Takuyo Murguma in 12 rounds at Osaka, Japan.

Football
Bruce Smith of the Buffalo Bills and Gary Zimmerman of the Minnesota Vikings were named the Lite Beer-NFL Linemen of the Year for 1987.

Marathon
Tommy Hughes of Ireland passed Mstapha Nechachi in the final mile to win the Marrakesh Marathon in Morocco. Hughes finished in 2 hours, 15 minutes 48 seconds. Nechachi is Morocco's main hope for the Seoul Olympics. Caroline Naisty of Britain won the women's portion in 2:41:35. Norwegian Geir Kvernmo pulled away in the 14th mile while Linda Zeman grabbed an early lead as both won the Houston Marathon. Kvernmo qualified for the Norwegian Olympic team with his time of 2:11:44.

Sumo Wrestling
Sekiwake Sakahoko handed Ozeki Konishiki his first loss in the eighth day of the New Year Grand Sumo Tournament at Tokyo. Ozeki Asahifuji, 8-0, emerged as the only undefeated wrestler with a victory over Ozusu.

Olympic gold medalist Evelyn Ashford will compete in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden Feb. 5 against defending 100-meter dash champion Gwen Torrence. Also scheduled to compete are Pam Marshall, Diane Williams and Alice Brown. Ben Johnson, competing at the Achilles indoor track meet at Vancouver, B.C., Saturday night, ran the 60 meters in 6.54 seconds, 13 of a second off the world record he set last year.

Winter Sports
Tond Arne Bredesen of Switzerland collected 412.38 points to defeat countryman Andreas Schaad with 407.78 in a Nordic combined World Cup event at Le Brassus, Switzerland. Norwegian world champion Torbjorn Lokken finished third. Ernst Vettori of Austria won the 11th World Cup ski jumping competition at Galtio, Italy, with Primos Uloga of Yugoslavia second and Jiri Parnal of Czechoslovakia third.

Hawaii makes Iowa welcome

Patton says training went well at islands

Men's Swimming

Hawkeye Swimming Club, won three events. His brother, Rick, also won an event.

Davey, who was active only one day of the meet, said the Hawkeyes also had to deal with some cold water during training when heavy storms hit the islands and forced the pool's heaters out of commission for a few days.

Patton had his swimmers training at Manoa Park in an eight-lane, 50-meter pool, which is the equivalent to an Olympic-sized pool.

"The main purpose of our training there is for an intensive training camp," he said.

USUALLY THE Hawkeyes train at the University of Hawaii, but Patton said he wanted his team to train in an Olympic-sized pool during an Olympic year.

Patton said a typical day began at about 6:30 a.m., when the Hawkeyes would leave for a 2½ hour workout. At about 9:30 the team returned to the hotel for breakfast and then were allowed to hit the beaches.

Three days a week the swimmers enrolled at a health club to train with weights during the early afternoon.

At about 4 p.m. the team returned to the pool area for about 3½ more hours of practice.

Women post strong meet vs. Rainbows

By Brent Woods
The Daily Iowan

Most trips to tropical climates are for lounging on beaches. A break for a fruity, umbrella-crowned drink, maybe. Then back to the beach.

But during the Iowa women's swimming team's holiday excursion to Hawaii, soaking up sun and swilling down suds was not the first order of business.

The Hawkeyes came home with a dual meet win over the University of Hawaii as well as a successful training camp.

"It was one of the best training camps we've ever had," Iowa Coach Peter Kennedy said. "The kids trained real hard."

The first Hawkeyes arrived in the islands Dec. 27, but snow delays kept a few stranded until Dec. 30. But the squad was ready for the Rainbow Invitational Jan. 2-3.

IOWA DEFEATED Hawaii 129½-84 in a dual meet which was taken out of the Invitational, a non-scored event.

"I thought we swam real well considering we were coming off exam week, then we started training real hard," Kennedy said. "After the first day (of the Rainbow Invitational), it looked like were in trouble (against Hawaii). But they bounced back the second day and did the job."

Jane Keating, Sheila Dempsey and Louise Keogh led the Hawkeyes in the meet, each winning two events. Keating claimed the 500-yard freestyle in 5:13.2 and the 200-yard butterfly in 2:12.4, while Dempsey won the 100-yard backstroke in 1:01.85 and the 200 backstroke in 2:14.2.

Keogh won the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:26.33 and the 200 breaststroke.

BERNIE Brandenburg took top honors in the 100 fly in 58.9 with Sherri Sudek taking second.

Kennedy said his team was not affected much by heavy rains which fell in Hawaii early in the trip. Those rains caused flooding, resulting in water contamination which caused about 18 members of the Iowa men's swimming team to become ill with flu-like symptoms.

"We had no injuries, and we usually get some people sick every year," Kennedy said. "But this year we only had one girl sick for a couple days. We stayed pretty healthy."

Iowa will take a 4-4 dual meet record into a Big Ten confrontation with Michigan at the Field House Pool Friday at 4 p.m., then travel to Illinois State Saturday.

Iowa men's swimming Coach Glenn Patton said his team's jaunt to Hawaii over the semester break was successful. About 18 of his swimmers, however, may disagree.

Several of Patton's swimmers drank contaminated water during the trip, causing many to lose time in the pool and the team to lose a meet against Hawaii.

Iowa competed in the non-scoring Rainbow Invitational Jan. 2-3 without about a dozen swimmers, many of whom were then ill. One day later about six more swimmers were affected.

"I don't think it was that big of a deal," three-time Big Ten Swimmer of the Year John Davey said. "It was a bummer that it happened, but it was just one of those things."

Patton said the team's performance against Hawaii was "not as good as the Rainbow Invitational, which obviously left the Hawkeyes below their usual standards."

"WE HAD SO many guys out we weren't at our best," Patton said. "Iowa did win a couple events at the meet. Former Iowa standout Tom Williams, representing the

Meets at Honolulu and Chicago prove rewarding journeys

By Anne Upson

The Iowa men's gymnastics team got a taste of this season's competition during the semester break at the Holiday Invitational in Honolulu and the Windy City Invitational in Chicago.

The Windy City Invitational, held Jan. 15-16, was dominated by Illinois. The Fighting Illini tallied 284.7 points — six points ahead of second-place Minnesota.

Iowa, which has won the last two Windy City Invitationals, slipped to fourth. Ohio State was third with a team score of 277.25, and the Hawkeyes totaled 277.05.

Iowa Coach Tom Dunn said improved competition was partially responsible for his team's fourth-place standing.

"We have done fairly well each year that we have competed," Dunn said. "Two years ago we scored a 274.45 with the second-placed team at a 267.6. Last year we scored a 268.1 and Ohio State, who placed second, scored a 267.75. This year everyone did a lot better.

"EXCEPT FOR THE dominating score by Illinois, the other three teams were within a point."

Men's Gymnastics

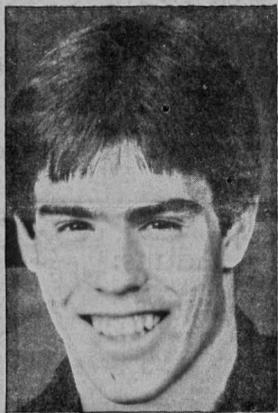

Dunn also said injuries played a role in the Hawkeyes' decline.

Sophomore all-arounder Keith Cousino is recovering from an elbow injury which kept him out of the Holiday Invitational. Dunn said Cousino needs to work on getting his strength back and should be performing at full strength by early February.

Despite his injury, Cousino helped the Hawkeyes by scoring a 9.45 in the floor exercise and a 9.15 on the parallel bars in the Windy City meet.

Dunn said that team captain Joe Thome, who is still competing with a back brace because of a vertebra injury, is also expected to be recovered by February.

ALTHOUGH THE brace is restricting, Dunn said Thome performed well last weekend. "His brace has been awkward — he still can't do certain things, but he did well this weekend," Dunn said.

Thome, a senior all-arounder, placed fifth along with teammate Chris Stanicek in still rings with a final score of 9.55. He also scored seventh all-around in the meet with 55.6 points.

In the Holiday Invitational Jan. 2-3, the Hawkeyes fared better, placing second behind the 1987 NCAA champions, UCLA.

"I wasn't sure how it would go," said Dunn. "I was fairly pleased. The team had a reasonably good performance."

Dunn said Paul Wozniak, who won the still rings, turned in an excellent showing.

"An outstanding performance came from Paul on the still rings," Dunn said. "He scored a 9.8, beating out Joe Thome's school record of 9.75."

The Hawkeyes' next meet will be Feb. 7 in Lincoln, Neb., against Arizona State, Houston-Baptist and Nebraska.

Iowa-Iowa State crowd of 13,575 into an unrestrained frenzy. The pin was the first suffered by Voelker in his collegiate career. "Shiceppens," a mild-mannered Iowa State Coach Jim Gibbons said of the meet. "He (Voelker) got out in a roll, kind of a scramble don't think he was too confident."

NEED help with the... INTERVIEW... out of those situations and come out on top like he did on the first takedown. But they'll go again."

Simpson said he felt relaxed before the match and had not been thinking about the pressure associated with the Carver streak.

"I JUST WANTED to pin that son-of-a-gun," said Simpson, who was wrestling in only his sixth match of the year following minor knee surgery in late November. "I had him there and I wasn't going to let him up no matter what. I knew we needed the points as a team and I needed a win like that to build confidence going."

...about it (winning) every night I pictured winning that match and up to the crowd and them go crazy."

ger, who said he was "as ready to go as ever" after Simpson's match, then polished off the Cyclones' Andy Cope in 1:29 for the final margin.

Iowa started the meet fast, posting expected victories by Steve Martin and Brad Penrith in the first two matches. But then came five straight losses, none of which pleased Gable.

"I'M CONCERNED—there's not a lot of positive coming out of this particular match," Gable, who posted his 199th career victory, said. "We're going to have to make some progression—we have to solidify 10 guys in our lineup."

"But I think that win is going to give me enough from a coaching point of view to keep the guys' morale high—to be able to listen and believe and improve. A loss might have knocked us back and maybe they wouldn't have listened to the coach as well."

IOWA NOTES

- Alger and Penrith captured second place finishes at the 25th Midlands Championship in Evanston, Ill., Dec. 29-30. Penrith dropped his final to Jim Martin of Penn State, 11-5, and Alger lost to Mike Sheets of the Sunkist Kids, 5-0.

Iowa finished fourth at the Midlands. In other duals over the break, Iowa defeated Lehigh 43-3 and Nebraska 40-0.

Freshman Cheloesvig has moved into the 167-pound slot vacated by Alger's move up to 177. Cheloesvig won matches against Lehigh and Nebraska before losing his first varsity match Saturday against Iowa State.

Today former Oklahoma all-American Joe Melchiorre officially becomes a Hawkeye. He will challenge Dean Hoppel and Scott Glenn for the 134-pound slot.

Wrestleoffs are also slated between Eric Pierson and Jeff Strauss at 142 pounds and between Mike Traynor and Simpson at 190 pounds.

Alger's win Saturday moved him past Rico Chiapparelli into 13th place on the all-time Iowa list. The senior from Lisbon, Ia., has a career record of 112-12-2.

In a computer dual meet celebrating the silver anniversary of the Midlands Championships, Gable scored eight points in the third period to defeat former Lehigh all-American Darryl Burley 18-8.

A team of pioneer greats defeated the contemporary champions, 5-4-1.

Stringer has now become the only women's coach in history to take two NCAA Division I schools into the top 2 of a poll. Stringer took her 1983 Cheney State team to No. 2.

Iowa has now won 25 of its last 26 regular-season games. The last Iowa loss was to Louisiana Tech in the NCAA Midwest Regional Final last March.

The game was the seventh consecutive bowl trip for the Hawks under Fry. Iowa is 6-3 in bowl games.

The Hawks won the 1986 Holiday Bowl also by one point, 39-38, over San Diego State.

Iowa finished 15th in UPI's final football poll.

NEW YORK — Esquire magazine chose Michael J. Fox as the cover-boy for its issue on the state of the yuppie but Fox insists he doesn't qualify as a yuppie. Asked to defend himself against charges of yuppiedom, Fox hemmed and hawed a bit before saying, "Well, I have definite rural leanings—that's an easy cop-out.... Also, I'm not into yuppie sports. How can I be a yuppie if I'd rather play hockey than squash? Yeah, I like hockey. And beer. And when I read The Wall Street Journal, I have to be careful at all times that I'm not holding it upside down. I wear black socks with white running shoes." Nonetheless, Fox will soon be starring as the ultimate yuppie in the movie adaption of Jay McInerney's novel "Bright Lights, Big City."

Iowa assistant saddened by 'The Greek's' remarks

By Rod Boshart
United Press International

The head of the Black Coaches Association said Saturday he has been inundated with telephone calls, including one from a Justice Department official probing affirmative action compliance in the hiring of coaches, following racially-charged remarks made by Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder.

"I was very shocked, very disappointed, too," said BCA President Rudy Washington, an assistant basketball coach at the University of Iowa. "Jimmy the Greek has made his living betting off black players. It bothered me and a lot of other coaches."

Snyder, 70, was fired as a CBS Sports commentator Saturday, one day after making controversial remarks about blacks in an interview with a Washington television station.

SNYDER SAID BLACK athletes were superior to whites because during the era of slavery "the slave owner would breed his big black with his big woman so that he would have a big black kid. That's where it all started."

During the interview, Snyder also was asked whether there should be more black coaches in the NFL, to which he replied: "They've got everything. I mean, all the players are black and the only thing the whites control are the coaching jobs. I'm sure they'll take over that pretty soon."

Washington said he had received 50 to 60 calls from irate BCA members before he left home for Saturday night's Iowa-Northwestern game, including the call from a Justice Department official.

"IT JUST HEIGHTENS what we're trying to do," said Washington, whose group currently is conducting a survey of NCAA institutions to find out what percentage of college coaches are black. "My suggestion is not to fire him, but put him in the BCA to educate him."

Washington believes that Snyder's statements exemplified a sentiment that permeates sports at the college and professional levels.

Spartans edge Hawkeyes

By G. Hammond-Kunke
The Daily Iowan

Though nosed-out by San Jose State Friday night in San Jose, Calif., the Iowa women's gymnastics team opened the season displaying the capacity to come back.

Sophomore Robin Zussman of Milwaukee set a school record in the vault with a score of 9.35. Last year Zussman injured her right ankle and had to have surgery after performing in only one meet.

Zussman's score easily topped the 9.20 posted by Kris Meighan against Northern Illinois Feb. 23, 1985 in Iowa City.

"I went into the event thinking that I could break the record," Zussman said. "My goal was that I could do it. It felt really good. I'm really excited about it."

After the opening competition in the uneven bars, Iowa trailed the Spartans by 4.5 points. But the Hawkeyes came back strong with solid efforts in the vault, floor exercise and balance beam.

"WE HAD A good weekend in San Jose," Iowa Coach Diane DeMarco said. "It was a good takeoff point for us with the exception of the bars. We did pretty solid in three of four events."

A slight improvement in the bars would have probably enabled Iowa to open the season with a win. San Jose State won the meet 168.6-167.75.

"We turned in subpar performances on the bars and we just just couldn't afford to do that," DeMarco added.

What pleased DeMarco was the intensity level displayed by her team the rest of the meet. Zussman won the vault while teammate Kirsten Worcester placed third.

Women's Gymnastics

"Everyone turned in solid vaults," DeMarco said. "We have a lot of work to do in (the uneven bars) but our team has the desire and intensity to be a competitive team in all four events. We came on strong throughout the rest of the meet. It was a very exciting meet."

LED BY ZUSSMAN'S 9.2, Iowa swept the balance beam. Two first-year performers, Michelle Cahal of Arvada, Colo., and Tracy Junker of Wheat Ridge, Colo., placed second and third. Cahal was also second in the uneven bars.

DeMarco was also happy with the Hawkeyes' efforts in the floor exercise, in which Zussman had a 9.0.

"Our floor was great. After the meet the judges made a point of telling me that they were impressed with our team on the beam and floor," DeMarco added. "They said we were aggressive and we performed beautifully."

"This was a good meet for us. We had a shaky start on the bars and it was hard for us to catch ground. We just came up a little short in the end," DeMarco said.

In the all-around, Junker finished second and San Jose State's Kris Miller was first. Miller won the uneven bar, finished second in the vault and third in the floor.

Iowa will travel to Columbia, Mo., Friday for a triangular meet with Missouri and Southwest Missouri State.

The Redskins won the Super Bowl after the 1982 season by defeating Miami and lost to the Los Angeles Raiders in the Super Bowl the following year. They advanced to the NFC Championship Game last year, losing 17-0 to the New York Giants.

IN DENVER, quarterback John Elway threw a 20-yard touchdown pass to Sammy Winder with 4:01 remaining Sunday to vault the Denver Broncos into their second straight Super Bowl with a 38-33 victory over the Cleveland Browns, whose gallant comeback was thwarted by a goal-line fumble with 65 seconds left.

WASHINGTON — Doug Williams threw a 7-yard touchdown pass to Gary Clark with 5:15 left and the Washington defense staged two goal-line stands in the fourth quarter Sunday to enable the Redskins to defeat the Minnesota Vikings 17-10 and advance to their third Super Bowl of the 1980s.

The Redskins will make their third Super Bowl appearance in six years under head coach Joe Gibbs Jan. 31.

Williams, aided by a tenacious defense that sacked rival quarterback Wade Wilson eight times, threw two scoring passes and became the first black quarterback to lead his team to an NFL conference title. His game-winning Paterno (Penn State) was distant. The only person who compared to Fry was (Terry) Donahue of UCLA.

"After I verbally committed to Iowa about a month ago, (Miami coach) Jimmy Johnson really pushed after me," Roberts said.

Nelson (6-4, 220), a USA Today honorable mention all-American, started on both sides of the ball at Stillwater (Minn.) High School.

"Jeff is a high-quality athlete," Stillwater Coach George Thole said. "He's the best athlete I've coached since Bill Barnett (who played for the Miami Dolphins for six years). He led us in tackles and averages 20.5 points on the basketball team and was named all-conference twice in both basketball and football."

NELSON, WHOSE only other visit was Wyoming, canceled visits to Western Michigan and Wisconsin. Nebraska, Michigan State, Iowa State and Eastern Illinois also expressed interest in the Minnesota all-state choice.

"I chose Iowa because I really liked the academics and athletics. Also, the people in Iowa City are really great," Nelson said. "I wanted to get the signing over with early because it's nice to not get hundreds of people calling every night."

Nelson will play either noseguard or defensive tackle at Iowa. He has a grade point average of 3.4 and plans to major in electrical engineering.

The Iowa staff has now received a total of eight verbal commitments and could get a couple of top-flight running backs after visits this past weekend.

Iowa has also received verbal commitments from Matt Whitaker, a linebacker from Ankeny, Iowa; Ladd Wessels, a defensive lineman from Cedar Rapids; Jason Dumont, a defensive end from Wellman, Iowa; and Scott Davis, an offensive tackle from Glenwood Center, Iowa. The signing period starts Feb. 10.

IOWA NOTES

● Iowa is recruiting a vast area for some of the nation's best players, including Arizona, Texas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, greater Chicago, St. Louis, New York and New Jersey.

● Some players from the greater Dallas area who have visited Iowa or plan to in the future include: Duncanville High School cornerback Julian Hayward, (6-1, 175); William Washington, a 6-3, 235-pound defensive end/tight end from Tyler Lee High School; and Mark Morgan, a 5-10, 180-pound wide receiver from McAllen High School.

Two other Texans expressing interest in Iowa are Justin Hall, a 6-4, 285-pound lineman from Plano High School, and Ronnie Johnson, a 5-8, 160-pound wide receiver out of Lamartue High School.

● In the Chicago area, Iowa is still after two top tight ends — John Dauskurdas of Benet Academy (Lisle, Ill.) and Andy Ozlowski, 6-6, 225, of Addison Trail.

● Three players recruited by Iowa have brothers currently on the team. Kevin Quast (Rolling Meadows, Ill.), Jim Hartlieb (Woodstock, Ill.) and Kevin Puk of Cedar Rapids are being recruited by the Iowa staff, however Puk recently committed to Stanford.

● Iowa is still in the hunt for Sioux City East offensive lineman Bob Rees (6-6, 235). Rees has visited Michigan State and Notre Dame and will visit UCLA this weekend and Nebraska the following weekend.

NFLPA allegedly withheld records

United Press International

PITTSBURGH — The NFL Players Association lost almost $1.2 million in failed investments, then allegedly withheld its financial records from the U.S. Department of Labor during strike negotiations, a published report said.

The NFLPA lost about half that sum after it unsuccessfully tried to operate several summer sports camps and the "Unions for Youth" camp through a subsidiary between 1978 and 1985, The Pittsburgh Press said Sunday in a copyright story.

The subsidiary, called Professional Athletes International, or PAI Inc., lost the remaining money after the union unsuccessfully staged a series of televised "all-star" pro football games during the 1982 players strike, the newspaper said.

The union was required to file annual financial reports with the Department of Labor within 90 days of the close of its fiscal year.

Civil rights anthem lives on
'We Shall Overcome' known as song of courage

By Carlye Murphy
Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Forty-two years ago this month a group of tobacco workers in Charleston, S.C., was in the midst of a bitter six-month strike against the American Tobacco Co. The union pickets, many of them black women, kept up their courage by singing.

Their favorite song was a traditional hymn called "I'll Be All Right." Walking the line, the pickets changed one line, "I will overcome," to "We will overcome."

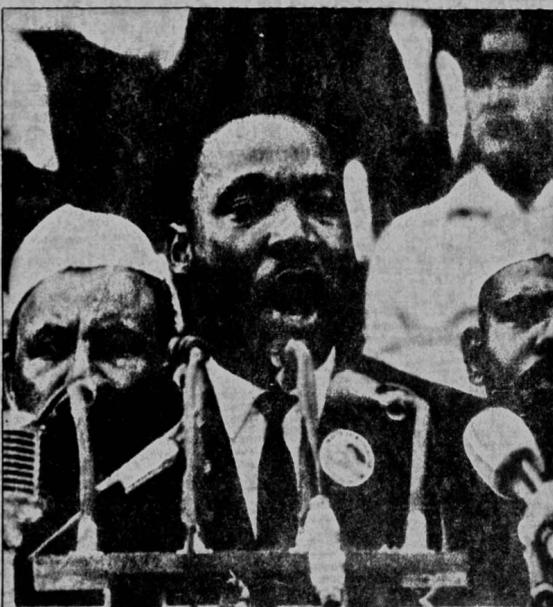

Eleven years later, folk singer Pete Seeger sang the song, somewhat changed in lyrics and melody and now titled "We Shall Overcome," to the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

AFTERWARD, ACCORDING TO Seeger, King told a friend: "You know that song, it really sticks with you."

As was so often the case, King's words proved prophetic. On a warm August day in 1963, more than 200,000 marchers who had gathered at the Lincoln Memorial to hear King's "I Have a Dream" speech linked arms and joined voices to sing the song. Newspapers reported that civil-rights worker Viola Gregg Liuzzo sang "We Shall Overcome" as she lay dying of gunshot wounds.

About that time, President Lyndon Johnson made note of the song in a nationally televised address on civil rights. And that same year, the song echoed through a Johannesburg prison when John Harris, a white South African sentenced to death for planting a bomb in protest against apartheid, sang it as he was led to the gallows.

THE SONG THAT wended its way from the oral tradition of black spirituals to the labor movement of the 1940s had become the anthem of the civil rights movement, a song that filled the air at rallies, marches, sit-ins, boycotts, jailings and even beatings, lending courage to those who worked to bring a new order. As Vernon Jordan put it, "The people were cold with fear, until music did what prayer and speeches could not do in breaking the ice."

Martin Luther King

Today that song is sung around the world.

Students in Seoul sang it in Korean when they took to the streets last fall. Seeger led a Japanese audience in an English rendition at Hiroshima in 1986. And last August, in the West African country of Togo, when Bishop Desmond Tutu, the South African Nobel laureate, was elected president of the All Africa Churches Organization, "the whole place erupted, and we sang that song," Tutu remembered.

WHAT ACCOUNTS FOR the emotional impact of the song?

"It's the genius of simplicity," says Seeger, who is credited with changing "will" to "shall" in the song's chorus and adding the verse "We'll walk hand in hand." "Any damn fool can get complicated. I like to compare it to the backboard in basketball. You bounce your life experiences off it, and they come back with new meaning."

Bernice Reagon, who documented the history and evolution of "We Shall Overcome" in her doctoral dissertation at Howard University, writes that the song gave "added strength in crisis situations" of the civil rights movement.

It is Reagon, director of the program in black American culture at the National Museum of American History, who traces the song's origin to the black hymn "I'll Be All Right," whose lyrics, she writes, "point to a belief in a day or period when present conditions would change."

"I'll Be All Right" was a popular hymn in black Baptist and Methodist churches at the turn of the century. By the time of the American Tobacco strike, the song was being called "I Will Overcome" in some parts of the country, according to Reagon.

THE STRIKE, an arduous chapter in the lives of American Tobacco workers, began in October 1945 when the CIO-affiliated Food, Tobacco and Agricultural and Allied Workers Union walked out in Charleston. Accompanied by a national boycott of American Tobacco products, it lasted until April 1946, when it ended with concessions to the strikers, Reagon writes.

Years later, some of the striking workers told her that "I Will Overcome" was essential in maintaining the workers' determination. It was they who began singing "We" instead of "I."

In 1947, some of the Charleston strikers participated in a workshop at the Highlander Folk School in Monteagle, Tenn. The school's music director, Zilphia Horton, learned "We Will Overcome" from them, taught it to her students and published it in the center's songbooks, which were sent to labor organizers.

Seeger learned the song from Horton that year. "She taught it to me," he said. "But I still didn't get the rhythm right with my banjo." Because of Seeger, writes Reagon, by the mid-'50s the song was a standard at "progressive gatherings in New York and on the West Coast."
