National, local groups oppose Contra aid

White House fights growing signs of Congressional defeat

By Van Kirouac
By Tom McBride
Washington Post

WASHINGTON -- The White House searched Thursday for a way to give Congress a greater say in determining the fate of $6 million in foreign aid to Nicaragua, a move the Reagan administration was about to make.

But Thursday's speech may be a signal to the Democrats in Congress that the current level of support for Contra aid is a politically fragile one. The president's aides were forced to issue a statement promising no new Contra aid for the fiscal year that begins Sunday unless Congress passes the bill. The administration is also expected to introduce a new bill for $6 million in aid.

Unpredictable

The administration has announced that it will ask Congress to approve $6 million in aid for the Contras. But the president is said to be concerned about the political fallout of asking Congress for more aid.

Hart lectures 500 on budget plan at Union stop

By Dena Legge
Tribune-Iowa

Instead of delivering his traditional campaign stump speech, Democratic presidential candidate Gary Hart met Monday night, May 12, with about 500 people about his budget plan Monday afternoon at the Union Building at the University of Iowa campus.

Hart, who is seeking the nomination of the Democratic candidate in the 1988 presidential race, told the audience that his plan would reduce the national debt and create a more responsible federal budget.

"In addition to cutting the deficit, Hart said, while refraining from using his name, "we must also do more to provide the future after taking the federal government out of the way." Hart said the separate role of the president, referring to the recession and the need for a job program, "is a job we should be doing. It is not a job we should be doing as the number of Americans are going to pay the costs." Hart, who is seeking the nomination of the Democratic candidate in the 1988 presidential race, told the audience that his plan would reduce the national debt and create a more responsible federal budget.

"We're not the only ones who have to fight for their future," he said. "But we're also not the only ones who have to fight for the future." Hart said his plan would reduce the national debt by about $1.5 trillion over the next 10 years and create a more responsible federal budget.

"We're not going to pay for the government," he said. "We're going to pay for the future." Hart said his plan would reduce the national debt by about $1.5 trillion over the next 10 years and create a more responsible federal budget.

A place to be proud

The Jan. 20 issue of Time magazine did not get over like financial较大, and the low notes have been attributed to the magazine's lack of enthusiasm for the views of the new administration as well as a lack of willingness to promote its policy agenda.

As Time magazine's then-current executive editor, Meese's previous defense attorney, E. Robert Wallach, who reportedly had doubts about the magazine's coverage of the administration, was faulted for failing to bring the administration's policies to the attention of the magazine's readers.

The Jan. 20 issue of Time was also criticized for its depiction of the administration's policies as being too lenient on the War protesters in the 1960s.

The magazine's failure to address the War protesters in the 1960s was also criticized for failing to address the ever-growing list of War protesters who had been arrested.

Reagan

President Reagan has said that he is not sure if he wants to use nuclear weapons in the next few days, "more or less, until the situation is clarified."

The broadcast was on the edge of policy decisions that aredrawing widespread attention.

In a speech to the nation on the eve of the nuclear-freeze movement, Reagan said that he would use nuclear weapons in the next few days, "more or less, until the situation is clarified." He added that he would use non-nuclear weapons in the next few days, "more or less, until the situation is clarified." He also said that he would use non-nuclear weapons in the next few days, "more or less, until the situation is clarified." He further added that he would use nuclear weapons in the next few days, "more or less, until the situation is clarified." He concluded that he would use nuclear weapons in the next few days, "more or less, until the situation is clarified."

Gibson gives

Dodgers surplus

By Mike Barmas

Los Angeles — The Los Angeles Dodgers will not necessarily make a trade to create more for newly-signed outfielder Kirk Gibson, said offi cials Wednesday.

Gibson was signed by the Dodgers as a free agent last week, and his signing made the Dodgers more than 6 percent over the legal limit.

Gibson, who is the son of former Dodgers star Kirk Gibson, signed a one-year contract for $500,000 with an option for $750,000.

The Dodgers, who were over the limit by 3 percent, were allowed to sign Gibson for $100,000 under new rules.

Gibson was taken in the first round of the 1994 draft by the Dodgers.

Ex-Tar Heel Fenner pleads guilty to cocaine possession

United Press International

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. — Professional football player Martin "Red"

Fenner was sentenced Monday to 45 days in jail for cocaine possession.

Fenner, a former star at North Carolina State, pleaded guilty to the charge.

The sentence included a $250 fine and three years probation.

Fenner was charged with cocaine possession in November.

The former star running back is not scheduled to appear in District Court again until March 28 for sentencing and he could serve up to six months in prison and a $250 fine on the remaining charges.

Fenner, 30, was arrested Feb. 1 at a bar in the District.

The most recent charge against Fenner was one of obstruction of justice.

The charges stem from his arrest on March 1 for cocaine possession and carrying a stun gun.

Fenner's attorney, Thomas H. Scudder, said his client had made a decision to put Fenner in "rehabilitation without a sulfur," a program that would clear his name of any other criminal charges.

Fenner, however, would not comment on the decision.

The case continues.

The charge stems from the St. Cloud State campus of North Carolina, where Fenner was a star.

Fenner is expected to play the rest of his career at the school.

Gibbs: Title defense starts at final whistle

By Mike Eisen
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Washington Redskins won their second Super Bowl in three years Sunday, riding their powerful, defense-oriented attack to an easy 41-10 victory over Denver.

As expected, the Redskins (15-1) were able to build on their 1982 championship. This time, they were able to withstand a Schwarz's Denver Broncos, and their defense was the difference.

"You have to attribute it to Minnesota," Gibbs said. "We were in the zone all game." Williams, who spent his entire career in Minnesota, didn't change his game plan. He was moving from the top of the key, faking passes to set up his outside passers and setting up his playmakers.

"Doug Williams, Timmy Brown, Art Monk and the rest of the receiving corps," Gibbs said. "They were ready to go." Gibbs praised their efforts, as they scored on the ground for the first time this season. They were 1 for 4 on third downs, and 1 for 2 on fourth downs.

"We've been passing really well," Gibbs said. "It's a credit to the guys in the receiving corps. We've been playing better and better." Williams himself had 21 completions on 28 attempts for 180 yards. He also had 602 total yards in the game, easily the most of his career. He set the game's most valuable player award in the first quarter.

"I'm not going to retire," Williams said. "I'm going to keep playing." Gibbs said he was proud to have Williams as a teammate. "He's a special player," he said. "He's got great hands and a strong arm."

Groundhog ready for prediction

by Judith Soper

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. - The annual groundhog day celebration will be canceled on Monday with the ceremony being televised by WQED of Pittsburgh.

PHIL PONDS, 63, 65-pound male resident of Oak Hill in Punxsutawney, will not come out of his burrow for the spring as predicted.

The letter of intent signing period ended Feb. 11.

IOWA COACH Tom Davis is in favor of rules that would prevent him from hitting on relevelers at Iowa. He feels that in order to be successful in baseball, he needs to hit on players. He also feels that hitting on players is essential for hitting on the mound.

"I'm not saying that we're not going to hit on players," said Davis at his weekly press conference. "I'm just saying that we're not going to hit on players as frequently as sometimes is needed in the game, and I'm only talking about hitting on players in the ballpark." He added that he was not talking about hitting on players in the locker room in order to keep the team together.
