Reagan makes final appeal for Contra aid

Congress offered role in decision

By Norman D. Keller

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
WASHINGTON — "Warning signs are flashing," President Ronald Reagan said Thursday morning, minutes before deputizing Congress to provide another $54 million to the Contras.

Mr. Reagan said the money is needed to sustain the anti-Sandinista guerrillas in Nicaragua for the next three months.

His decision came after Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., and House Speaker Thomasreally, D-Mich., tried to negotiate a deal that would include another $160 million for Central America.

But neither proposed a vote that both can accept, and with time running out, the White House decided to go it alone.

"He's making the policy decision, and we're going to see how it goes," Secretary of State George Shultz said Thursday, his first public comments on the Contra issue in two days.

Local rally protests aid to Contras

By Paula Rosman

The Daily Iowan

WASHINGTON - President Ronald Reagan proposed $54 million in military aid for the Contras on Thursday, but a rally held in Iowa City to protest the support for the guerrillas had a more immediate goal.

"We're standing here in Iowa City to make our voices heard," said Tom and Gene Klipsch, who along with several hundred people gathered outside the Federal Building Wednesday night for the "Water Hazard" rally.

Participants say they were only asking for a "no" vote on a Senate budget resolution, which would cut military aid to the Contras by 20 percent.

"We don't want to lose any money for the Contras," said John M. O'Brien, professor of political science and Iowa City activist. "The general public hears that we're getting more money, but that's not the case.

"The money is going to the Contras," he added.

In Iowa City, "water hazard" nears end

By James Casey

The Daily Iowan

Iowa City motorists might want to "break a second, third or fourth law," traffic controller Robert Brinton said Wednesday, predicting an "analytical car haze" would make Saturday morning traffic disastrous.

"People are going to drive erratically," said Brinton, who works as a field representative for the Iowa City Water Board.

"It should be a good party move, with cars drinking in the streets, including the streets in front of the Water Board," Brinton said.

The water plant, which was repaired around 2 a.m. Monday, was turned off at 8 a.m. Tuesday morning.

"The main cause of the city's water is the plant, which is closed down," Brinton said. "I think the city is taking a good shot at this.

"The water plant is currently running, and we are trying to fill the storage tanks tonight," Brinton said.

"It's a very bad situation," Brinton said. "I think we've got a real problem here."

Babbitt speaks in Iowa City, blasts Democratic 'silence'

By Sara Anderson

Iowa City

Former Arizona Gov. Bruce Bab­bitt said Wednesday in an Iowa City campaign stop that the Democratic candidates for president have not only failed to present a "clear, consistent" vision for the country, but also for the nation's farmers.

"If it were a contest, I don't think the candidates would be very well paid," Babbitt, who is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, told a crowd of about 500 people at the University of Iowa's City Center in downtown Iowa City.

"But they are not a contest," Babbitt said. "They are not a competition. They are not a game. They are not something that can be won or lost." He added that the candidates' lack of a "clear, consistent" vision for the country was "an insult to the American people." Babbitt said that he will continue to campaign until the Democratic convention in July.

"I'm not going to stop speaking until the Democratic Party has a clear, consistent vision for the country," Babbitt said.

Babbitt, 64, is a former governor of Arizona and a former member of the U.S. House of Representatives.

He has been in politics for more than 40 years and has served as a U.S. senator from Arizona since 1987.

Babbitt is seeking the Democratic nomination for president in 2020 and has been campaigning in Iowa in recent weeks.

Gephardt voices opposition to Contra aid in UI speech

By Anne Kevel

Rebuffing his chief opponent in Iowa, Democratic presidential candidate Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., told a UI audience the Missouri congressman was "talking nonsense".

"I was not "muscle-bound" in Central America," Gephardt said, speaking during an Iowa City campaign stop Wednesday.

"I think some of the things I was saying were not advanced by armed forces," Gephardt said, speaking about the House vote in 1981 to send $48 million in Contra aid to Nicaragua.

"They were against the Reagan administration," Gephardt said, "and they were against the president." Gephardt prepared to return to Washington later Tuesday to play a key role in the House vote to send $19 million in Contra aid to Nicaragua.

"We're just wrong," the Missouri congressman said.

A poll published by the New York Times showed Contra supporters in Nicaragua were not votes on the House floor.

"I don't think the governor 'doesn't understand in Kenosha, Wis. Former Congress Rep. Henry "镄-He's a DELTA GAMMA NON-FRATERNITY FOR MEN WITH CASH FOR YOUR FAVORITE EYES!"

Prime lending rate slashed by banks

WASHINGTON - The Federal Reserve and other banks slashed the prime lending rate Friday, cutting the rate 0.25 percentage points to 8.5 percent. President Reagan also cut the prime rate by 0.25 percentage points to 8.5 percent.

Chairman Frederic M. Blumenthal also joined in the prime lending rate, which sets the basis for calculating the interest rates on a variety of loans to businesses and small businesses. The rate is used by banks and other lenders to set the interest rates on home equity loans, auto loans and other types of consumer loans.

The rate had been at 8.75 percent since Nov. 30. Bankers raised the rate after the prime reflected interest rate declined that already occurred over the past few weeks in the lending market.

Weinberger urges passage of INF treaty

WASHINGTON - Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger urged the Senate Friday to pass the Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty, saying it could save the country $100 billion over the next 20 years.

"It's time to end the absurd and expensive arms race that has been going on for 25 years," Weinberger said. "As long as the threat of nuclear war lingers, the American people will pay a heavy price for maintaining the mediocrity of the Soviet-American arms race."

Lenders urge passage of savings bill

WASHINGTON - Bankers and other lenders urged Congress Friday to pass a savings and loan bill that would provide an additional $5 billion in federal aid to the savings and loan industry, which they said is facing a financial crisis.

"We are in a situation where many savings and loan institutions are in trouble," said a group of bank executives. "We need a savings and loan bill to help stabilize the industry and prevent a wider financial crisis."

WASHINGTON — Greenspan advocates market reform

The Federal Reserve, which operates under a private governing board, is not binding on Congress, but its actions are respected by financial markets around the world. Greenspan, who chairs the board, says he wants to see more competition among the many banks that make up the nation’s financial system.

Gerard Baker, chief of the Federal Reserve Board, says he hopes to see the board move forward on the issue of financial reform this year.

A spokesman for the Securities and Exchange Commission said the agency is examining a range of issues, including financial reform.

Greenspan says he agrees with proposals to introduce more competition into the financial system, but he says he is concerned about the risks of that kind of change.

"We have been working on financial reform for a long time," Greenspan said. "We have a lot of work to do, but I think it’s important for the country as a whole."

Greenspan added that he believes the financial system is too complex for one person to understand it all.

"I think it’s important that we work together to make sure that the system is as robust as possible," Greenspan said. "And I think it’s critical that we have a strong financial system."
No more Contra aid

Today the U.S. House of Representatives will decide whether to add an additional $75 million in aid for the Nicaraguan Contras. That issue is the most controversial in the current Contra debate. But the Contra issue is not the only one on the agenda. Other important issues are: Should the Contras be able to engage in trade with the United States? Should the Contras be allowed to receive foreign military aid? Should the Contras be allowed to receive arms from the United States? And what should be the role of the United States in the war in Central America? These issues are likely to be discussed in the debate on the Contra aid bill.

Judge Haney, when he has so far ignored civil rights law. However, we have examined Judge Haney's decisions when he was the U.S. District Judge in Des Moines. We find that his decisions have been consistent with civil rights law. We believe that Judge Haney is a good judge and we recommend him for re-election.

SOME MEMBERS of the Iowa College of Law have recently been criticized for their failure to address the issues of race and gender in their coursework. These criticisms are not new, and the College of Law has long been committed to addressing these issues.

But the recent criticisms have led to some soul-searching within the College of Law. The College has now established a task force to examine the issue of race and gender in its coursework.

The task force has been charged with examining the current curriculum and identifying areas where improvements can be made. The task force will also be responsible for developing new courses and curriculum that address the issues of race and gender.

The College of Law is committed to ensuring that all students, regardless of their background, have access to a quality education. We believe that this task force is an important step in achieving that goal.

In December, we learned that a group of Americans held hostage in Iran were being held by Islamic fundamentalists. We were told that the United States was working hard to secure their release.

Water

A recent report indicated that the water supply in some areas was contaminated with harmful chemicals. The government is working on solutions to ensure safe drinking water for all.

Contra

The Contra conflict continues to escalate, with reports of increased violence and American involvement. The situation remains tense and uncertain.

Side

Despite efforts to mediate, the conflict continues to pit the sides against each other. The situation demands urgent attention and a peaceful resolution.

Rally

A rally was held to support the American hostages held in Iran. It was a powerful demonstration of solidarity.

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa — Iowa's Frank Pennington and Don Martin didn't get much rest during Tuesday's National Wrestling Coaches Association All-Star meet at the USDB.

The two top-ranked wrestlers in 112 pounds battled to a 1-1 tie in the first round, but Pennington scored a fall in the second round to advance to the quarterfinal round.

Another four wrestlers advanced to the quarterfinals, including Iowa's David Petty, who scored a 10-0 victory over Mike tuples at 136 pounds.

Iowa's Lorenzen injured

Hawks must face Wolverines without forward

By Joe Frey
The Daily Iowan

Iowa forward Al Lorenzen, sophomore guard, will be out of the lineup when the No. 11-ranked Wolverines, Iowa, come to town Tuesday, leaving the Hawkeyes with a one-sided home court win over the Wolverines. But Lorenzen, who is one of the team's top scorers, will be missed.

"He's suffering from some back problems that have bothered him for the last week or so," said Iowa State coach J. H. Davis.

Junior Ed Harris will replace Lorenzen on the floor. Harris, who is a 6-foot-3 guard, is coming off a strong performance in Monday's game against Iowa State.

Lorenzen's injury came as the Hawkeyes were up 18-13 at halftime in the game against the Wolverines at 136 pounds.

"I'm not sure how long he'll be out," said Davis. "It's a day-to-day basis."

Mackovic may take Illini head coaching job

By Richard Brunelli

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Illinois Athletic Director Dick Beban, speaking publicly for the first time since the announcement Tuesday of Gale Sayers' retirement as the school's next football coach, said Tuesday he was optimistic about the situation and was ready to meet with the screening committee, Interim Chancellor Maurice Wilt and the board of trustees.

If Mackovic gets the job, Tippett said, he would resign as athletic director.

The Chicago Sun-Times, quoting unidentified sources in the athletic department, said Beban was ready to resign Tuesday if Coach Mike Ditka Tuesday from the Hall of Fame.

“IT'S NOT OVER UNLESS IT'S OVER,” he said when asked about his plans Tuesday morning.

HE ALSO NOTED that San Francisco 49ers, assistant coach Dennis Green, also a former head coach at Northwestern, was mentioned as a possible candidate for the job.

“I would never stand in Mackovic’s way,” he said. “Maybe someone else. I've heard enough about how I was not right for the job. I would not stand in Mackovic’s way. Everyone knows that.

The Big Ten Board of Governors will renumerate Mackovic at a special meeting Tuesday night.

His decision Tuesday night was based on his feelings that the school was not ready yet for the job and that there were many important decisions yet to be made.

It’s not over until it’s over,” he said.

Irvin’s lack of timing speed was stressed in only 4.52 in the 40-yard dash.

“I tried not to play it down,” he said.

Irvin, who has always considered himself a slot receiver, is not worried about the coach, who was a wide receiver at Wake Forest in 1978.

“I think the speed would be great for him there. He really is a pure wide receiver for me,” he said.

Irvin was timed in only 4.52 in the 40-yard dash.

Michigan has a good new-combined team. The Wolverines lost at Pac-10 New Mexico last night as they moved out of the mix in the Big Ten Picture. Assistant coach Brian Vaniman added: "Iowa is a tired team, the floor and show your attitude to guard." Frieder said.

"We started the Warmth shade to the other one, it's hard for them to imagine why I would pick blacks, it's hard for them to imagine why I would pick blacks, it's hard for them to imagine why I would pick blacks, it's hard for them to imagine why I would pick blacks," Perry said: "He looked at me, he looked at me, he looked at me..." Held said: "It was all black." But a day later, a Michigan student macro-communism have nothing to do with recent events, women's service mission for the league. It is not an upset Michigan. But the Wolverines will have to do it without Alonzo Mourning, who will miss the rest of the season because of a back injury. He said: "We're in the league and Coach Leftwich is looking for a better shooting performance against Ohio State.

Racial Tensions

"We would not get involved because there are no matters for the IHSSA," said Perry. "I am not sure, but what with those players, I don't recall crying across a dormitory name, I do not know, but when black with blacks, it's hard for them to imagine why I would pick blacks, it's hard for them to imagine why I would pick blacks, it's hard for them to imagine why I would pick blacks," Perry said: "He looked at me, he looked at me, he looked at me..." ‘Summer School’ is here late and doesn’t deserve to stay

By Locke Peterson

The Daily Iowan

It has been fun in recent weeks to take peek into the Iowa City area for their headlining selections, but this summer’s bold Performances, at least, is a yawner. ‘Summer School’ is the latest in a string of similar schoolyard comedies that suggest the old adage, “You can’t win at the office.”

The story opens as members of a seemingly dysfunctional family who have to get into a school about the various merits of YOLO or video viewing. But it’s hard to take many people going to pay your dollars to see a Summer school in a theater where the comedic lines are even more sheerly memorized than that.

Although ‘Summer School’ isn’t a total disaster (“I’m a clown,” says one of the cast members to “deja-vul” the only thing is that the ‘Summer School’ ‘classics-to-be’ are actually old movies including such classics as “The Great Dictator” and “Dr. Strangelove,” which may be considered classics to the die-hard fans of the 1960s. Although not the best of the 1960s, these movies are still worth watching. However, the story is still lackluster and does not get the message across that it intends to.

ALSO ENTERTAINING are Dean Cameron and Gary Riley as we devoiced guys who were involved in the musical ‘Summer School’.

SEEDS OF JUSTICE: Michelle Phillips gets a break from her legal duties to record a song about the mail carrier. "I saw how he delivered mail," she said. "He was a good guy." The song, "Mailman," was recorded for the upcoming album "Seeds of Justice." The album will feature songs about social issues such as child abuse, poverty, and environmental concerns.

HISPANIC HERITAGE MONTH: Several buses will be available to transport people to the Hispanic Heritage Festival, which will feature music, dance, and food from different Hispanic cultures.

John Lennon has been killed. There was little evidence to support the idea of a murder suspect. However, the evidence was overwhelming and the suspect is a member of a radical group.

On a branch in the cemetery where the body was discovered, there was a sign that said, "Lennon, not the book is the fake news. Don't be fooled by its guilt or accuracy," he said.

HOLLYWOOD — The national movie box office was up by $2.3 million, but still lagged last year’s pace as 16 films opened.

Parts of the box-office awash were attributed to Super Bowl Sunday, which traditionally puts a dent in theater attendance, according to industry sources.

Two films that opened February 13 suffered by the lack of any major new films released during the week. Among the top 10, only four were holdovers.

Good Morning, Vietnam, with Robin WIlliams, opened in American 62 die pockey during the first weekend and dropped only 15 percent.

The comedy added 19 screens for a total of 1,207 and still topped last year’s pace as 14 films opened.
