Dole, Gephardt conquer Iowa

An exasperated Kansas Sen. Robert Dole waves to supporters during the caucuses in the state on Monday night. Dole, seen here with his wife, Elizabeth, won a commanding victory over Sen. Pat Roberts and Vice President George Bush in Iowa. Bush, the nation's top conservative, was runner-up.

DES MOINES — Republican Richard Gephardt called his performance in the Democratic presidential struggle in Iowa — and around the nation — a win in a winner.

Gephardt spent more than 100 days in the state but trailed until the final weeks when his campaign caught fire with sharply worded 10-page brochures that described the race as the chance for people to regain control over their uncertain futures.

Gephardt had 26 percent of the vote on the main 86 percent of the precincts called. He also scored 26 percent in an earlier state poll with 21 percent, followed by Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis with 19 percent, Iowa-born Sen. Joni Eidenhoven of Missouri with 17 percent, Iowa-born Gov. Bruce Babbitt of Arizona with 9 percent.

With 94 percent of the vote counted, Gephardt picked up the delegate commitments being held in March that will select delegates to the Democratic national convention in Atlanta. Simon won 17 percent and Dukakis 11 percent.

DES MOINES — Sen. Robert Dole emerged as an expected victor in Iowa's Republican presidential contest Monday, while Pat Roberts said he is considering a challenge to Paul Simon and the Iowa Democratic side of the Iowa caucuses.

Roberts said his strong showing proves he has broad-based support that now turned fundamentalists, Chritians and Dutch believers and Dole's third-place finish will put the vice president on the defensive for the first time since 1981.

Simon earns Iowa City Democratic support

By Anna Keel
The Daily Iowan

Local Democrats Monday night benefited from the state's Democratic party's support for the two candidates. Paul Simon, who is running for president, and the Iowa Democratic committee supported him in the nation's newest contest.

Huge crowds turned out for the popular candidates in the Iowa City area, with Simon backers chosen to delegate to the Johnson County Convention to be held March 20. Thirteen of 28 Iowa City precincts voted for the majority of their appropriate delegates from groups of Simon supporters.

Simon supporter and UI graduate student Craig Nelson and he had anticipated a solid and rough two weeks of campaigning before the precincts.

"I thought it would be pretty close, but I thought it would be like a difference of 19 or a differentiation of 19," said Dole supporter.

Dole supporters were pleased with Monday's results.

"These results are just beginning to be reported from the state level," said Dole. "There's still a lot of people coming in and out. It's just beginning to climb and we're pleased with the victory."

Library provides OASIS for UI law students' research

By Michael Coleman

The Daily Iowan

Law students research hundreds of areas before they attempt to prove or disprove a theory. The Iowa Law Library is one of the largest law libraries in the United States. It houses over 80,000 volumes. The library’s collection includes thousands of titles now available through a computer database called the OASIS. Searches for a book is faster and more efficient. Instead of searching through the computer database housed in the library’s stacks, the law student can easily search the computer database in less time than it takes to walk to the stacks of books.

The SYSTEM helps students search for titles in the library collection. Students can search for a book by title, author, subject or call number. When a student locates a title the system indicates where the book is available in the library. In addition, the system will give the student a brief description of the book. This saves the student time and energy.

The PUBLIC ACCESS systems are located in several areas on the campus. The UI Law Library is one of the few locations on campus where students can access the OASIS. If a person cannot find what he or she needs, the student can call the reference desk for help.

The reference desk is located in the OASIS area of the library. There, reference librarians can help students find the information they need. The librarians are available from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sundays. The librarians are available to answer questions about the use of the OASIS and other computer terminals.

Many areas of the law are available through the OASIS. These areas include criminal law, civil law, family law, business law, international law, environmental law, tax law, intellectual property, and many others. In addition, the OASIS provides access to the legal periodicals and newspapers.

The OASIS is a valuable resource for law students and researchers. It provides access to a vast amount of legal information. The system is easy to use and provides fast access to the information. The OASIS is available to all members of the university community. It is a valuable tool for students, faculty, and staff. The OASIS is maintained by the library and the law school.

Cland in a five-minute red hot tie for Iowa's best Precinct Campaign. State Campaign Precinct Coordinator Connie Tornatore named the Peak Precinct, of which the Harrison-Binky Ballistics Morale Side is part, as Iowa's best because "we're white, we're Iowa, we win!

Tornatore praised the Peak Precinct for its enthusiasm and high attendance. "If we win, we're Iowa, if we lose, we're Iowa." She added that the Peak Precinct had won the Iowa Primary and was "the best of the best!"

The Peak Precinct's victory was significant for the student body, as it marked the first time in recent memory that a student group had won a significant election. "We're so proud of our students," Tornatore said. "They really stepped up and made a difference!"

The Peak Precinct's victory was also significant for the University of Iowa, as it marked the first time in recent memory that the university had won a significant election. "We're so proud of our students," Tornatore said. "They really stepped up and made a difference!"

In a surprise result, the Peak Precinct overtook the student group in the final count, winning the Iowa Primary by a margin of 50 to 40.

"We're so proud of our students," Tornatore said. "They really stepped up and made a difference!"

The Peak Precinct was able to win the Iowa Primary by focusing on specific issues that were important to the student body. "We really took the time to make sure that our students knew what was at stake," Tornatore said. "And they really stepped up and made a difference!"

Overall, the Peak Precinct's victory was a significant moment for the University of Iowa and for the student body. "We're so proud of our students," Tornatore said. "They really stepped up and made a difference!"

Football

Five Iowa football players spent three days last week working on a passing unit at the National Football League training camp in driveway. The offensive unit included quarterback, Matt Sindlinger, who never played quarterback before, and Tight End Davidson, who spent two days working on a variety of passes for Andy. Johnston played fullback, and Tight End Mecklenburg also worked on one of the nation's top passing tandems.

The sterling, a team making frequent use of National Football League training camp, is now 3-4-2-3. But the Iowa's 20 men is an upbeat look at some of the nation's top passing tandems.

Sindlinger continues to surprise

By Steve Wiggard

Iowa heavyweight Mark Sindlinger has surprised a lot of people with his less-than-stellar wrestling back to school. Though the Charles City, Iowa, native has been wrestling more than 12 years, he is one of the top two or three men in the nation for his third season.

The Iowa heavyweight has been in school all season, working hard to improve his technique and speed. He has already made one trip to the national championships, where he was one of the few wrestlers to beat a national champion. His record is now 15-5, with 13 knockouts, and he continues to improve his national ranking.

Sindlinger was third at the NCAA tournament last year and is now back in school.

He has his sights set on the national championship this year, and he is working hard to achieve that goal. He has already won one of the nation's top 225-pound tournaments, and he is one of the favorites to win the NCAA title.

Ice Hawks remain unbeaten with tie

By Hugh Orenstein

The Daily Iowa

The Ice Hawks remained unbeaten after playing to a 2-2 tie at Western Illinois, February 4, 1987. The Ice Hawks improved to 25-1-1 overall and 17-1-1 in the CCHA.

"It was a good game, we just didn't get past the goalie," said No. 20 Michael Fritscher, who scored both of the Ice Hawk goals. "It's a lot of fun playing against Western Illinois." The tie game was the second consecutive game the Ice Hawks played against a CCHA opponent.

Reaves

Lynam, who coached the club for the 1983-84 season, was named the new coach of the Joens University women's basketball team on Tuesday, February 18, 1986. Lynam, who had been an assistant coach for the past three seasons, replaces Coach George Raveling, who stepped down after the 1985-86 season.

"I'm very happy to have Jeff Lynam as the new coach," said Joens University President Mike Lynam. "He has been a valuable asset to our program and I'm confident he will lead us to success." Lynam, who was an assistant coach for the past three seasons, replaces George Raveling, who stepped down after the 1985-86 season.

Jones

As long as there is a team in the tournament, there's always the possibility of getting to the next round. "I can see it happening," said Jones. "The tournament has been a lot of fun." Jones, who scored both of the Ice Hawk goals, was named the game's first star.

Knee problems force Jets to waive Klecko

United Press International

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Joe Klecko, a Pro Bowl player at three defensive positions, could be waived by the New York Jets Monday after his agent informed the team's request that he retire because of damaged knees. Klecko, 36, spent 11 seasons with the Jets after they drafted him out of Notre Dame in 1977. He came back from reconstructive knee surgery to play in the final seven games of 1987 but faced his retirement now. He had had major surgery on both knees. The Jets'['s owner Lou Holtz recommended to Klecko that he not play again after he failed his final physical.

Gala auction raises $18,000

By Steve T. Drosheus
The Daily Iowan

Friday night was marked with subzero temperatures, but the atmosphere inside the Iowa Union was warm with enthusiasm and the thrill of giving.

"We didn't anticipate anything like this," said Mary Franklin Ramsey, co-chairperson of the Friends Development Council, referring to the awards banquet program on Friday night.

The gala auction, which was hosted by Richard Tornstrom, President of the Iowa Union Board of Directors, included a number of items, such as autographed memorabilia, silent auctions on Friday night, and a dinner buffet at the Iowa Hotel.

Over $18,000 was raised in lieu of the gala's admission price, which was twice what anybody expected with the event on site.

Beauvoir, the largest of the white mansions in the Crescent City section of the University of Iowa, will be decorated with the annual Valentine's Day party.

Organizers of the event, which is sponsored by the University of Iowa Department of Human Development and Family Studies, said that they are looking for couples to share the love they have for each other.

"They're hoping they'll be happy people who care about each other and want to spend the special moment together," said Emily Galman, a member of the group.

In addition, there will be a special display of condoms that can be used as valentines.
