Candidates set for New Hampshire contest

Bush ready to stave off Dole attack

By Robert Shogan and Frank Clifford
Los Angeles Times

MANCHESTER, N.H. — Vice President George Bush is striving desperately to head off another defeat by Sen. Bob Dole in the Republican presidential contest, while Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis appears headed for an easy victory in the Democratic column as New Hampshire voters go to the polls today in the first primary of the 1988 campaign.

As all candidates added the closing flourishes to their campaigns Monday, election officials predicted a record turnout — as high as 75 percent of the state's estimated 600,000 voters. But forecasts of rain or snow caused concern among candidates counting on a high turnout.

In both parties the race has been in effect segmented into two levels, with some of the most intense competition among the lower-echelon candidates who are

Primary will limit contenders, but race may still be muddled

By Joseph Mianowany
United Press International

CONCORD, N.H. — The New Hampshire voters will almost certainly kill the White House hopes of some candidates and dramatically boost others today, but they still could leave the presidential race as confused as ever.

For the candidates, much more than a handful of delegates is at stake in the nation's first primary. The main battle will be whether they can leave New Hampshire with the perception that their campaigns should be taken seriously.

On the Republican side, the battle is fairly clear-cut.

Vice President George Bush, backed by New Hampshire Gov. John Sununu, once held a substantial lead. Senate GOP leader Robert Dole of Kansas was a distant second and Rep. Jack Kemp of New York was struggling to oust him.

But then came the Iowa caucuses and former television evangelist Pat Robertson's stunning second-place finish behind Dole, who was the expected winner. The repercussions of that Midwestern bombshell were felt most heavily 1,500 miles east in the Granite State.

POLLS QUICKLY SHOWED THAT BUSH, injured by his poor Iowa showing, was losing his New Hampshire lead to Dole. He launched a frantic week of campaigning, but going into primary day, different surveys showed contradictory data and the focus was on whether Dole could score his version of a "quick kill."

If the senator wins, Bush will be considered seriously, if not mortally wounded. Because of his campaign organization and resources, he would likely continue his effort, but would face an extreme uphill struggle even in areas of the country like the South where he had been

Waldheim: 'My conscience is clear' on past

Jewish students in Tel Aviv, Israel, demonstrate Monday outside the Austrian Embassy, calling for Austrian President Kurt Waldheim's resignation. Waldheim appeared on Austrian television later that night, reaffirming his intention to remain in office.

By John Holland
United Press International

VIENNA — President Kurt Waldheim defiantly told Austria Monday his conscience is clear in the face of accusations he committed war crimes as a German army officer, although he — like others of his generation — "fell under the machinery of war."

In the clearest sign yet he intended to remain in office despite calls for his resignation, Waldheim said in a television address to the nation: "I can only answer the dirt from my opponents finally with a denial. . . I have a clear conscience."

Waldheim, sitting in his 18th-century office with an Austrian flag on his desk, again denied he committed crimes as a German army lieutenant in World War II, saying: "My accusers come with more and more charges and have always promised the evidence. But the proof did not come. There is no proof."

"THE WAR YEARS were a bitter time of learning, which I haven't talked about or wanted to talk about," said Waldheim, conceding that although he tried "as well as possible to reconstruct" his war past, "much too much" remained open.

"I have great respect for the heroes and martyrs of this time, but they were, as always in history, only a few," he said. "We others in my generation fell under the machinery of the war."

In an interview with ABC News, Waldheim once again denied the allegations and apologized to his "friends" in the United States for having possibly misled the public about his past.

"I have nothing to hide. Don't forget at that time I was not even 20. Of course I wanted to survive. Of course this does not mean I had committed any crimes during the war or that I participated in any wrongdoing. I reject this allegation categorically," he said.

"If I had misled my friends in the United States by not saying everything (about his Nazi past), I'm sorry; it was not done purposely. I hope this will be understood. I have so many friends in the United States, I haven't done anything at all."

REFERRING TO a six-member military historians' commission in the Austrian telecast that last week concluded he concealed, lied about or diminished the degree of his alleged involvement in deportations of Jews to death camps, Waldheim said, "Perhaps my silence was a mistake, but it certainly was not a strategy of concealment."

He also said, "Before all else we must also not forget the systematic and perfected annihilation of European Jews by the Nazis."

threatened with extinction if they do poorly.

Among the Republicans, New York Rep. Jack Kemp, former television evangelist Pat Robertson and former Delaware Gov. Pete du Pont are fighting for the right to claim the allegiance of GOP conservatives and to ultimately become the alternative to either Bush or Dole, should one of those leaders be forced out of the hunt.

ON THE DEMOCRATIC side,

Missouri Rep. Richard Gephardt and Illinois Sen. Paul Simon are waging a bitter struggle for second place and the chance to emerge as a credible threat in the South's March 8 Super Tuesday primaries.

2 Israeli soldiers arrested for burial of 4 Palestinians

Youths survive ordeal; investigation begins

By Glenn Frankel
Washington Post

SALIM, Israeli-occupied West Bank — The Israeli army Monday announced the arrest of two soldiers, one of them a master sergeant, for allegedly burying alive four young Palestinians with a military bulldozer in this West Bank village 10 days ago and a military spokesman said more arrests were likely.

Witnesses said that after the bulldozer dumped a full load of earth on the four while they lay, as ordered, face down in a muddy road — and a Jewish settler shouted "Well done" to the soldiers — the sergeant ordered the driver to run over them, but he refused.

The soldiers left about 15 minutes later and residents pulled the four men, unconscious, from under a 30-inch-high mound of dirt. All survived, according to residents, although two remain bed-ridden with injuries. The other two have recovered completely.

Shamir opposes U.S. Mideast peace plan

By David B. Ottaway
Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir has sent an envoy here to tell Secretary of State George Shultz that President Ronald Reagan's "territory for peace" principle cannot serve as the basis for Israel's entering new peace negotiations on the fate of the strife-torn occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The envoy, Ehud Olmert, a member of Shamir's Likud coalition in the Knesset, met Sunday with Shultz's executive assistant, Charles Hill, to discuss the proposed new American approach to the Middle East peace process.

The approach envisages initial Arab-Israeli talks on limited autonomy for the occupied territories and then negotiations on their final status, starting within six months, based on the "territory for peace" principle contained in Reagan's September 1982 speech on the Middle East.

Radio Israel reported that Olmert told Hill that Shamir would "never" accept to negotiate a final settlement for the territories on the basis of this

Union's alcohol policies cause rift

By Cathy Jackson
The Daily Iowan

Some UI foreign language groups may choose to move upcoming holiday festivals from the Union because of confusion about alcohol and decorating policies, UI Coordinator of Campus Programs Deb Parsons said Monday.

The policies are not new, but are being more strictly enforced due to the increased drinking age and Union remodeling, Parsons said, adding students' confusion could be attributed to a lack of communication.

"I think if the administration would get together with student governing bodies and set the policies, we'd rid ourselves of a lot of misinformation," Parsons said.

The problems surfaced last week when UI Foreign Language/International House member John Heath met with Union officials to discuss plans for the French Mardi Gras celebration Feb. 20.

"FIRST THEY told us that we could have no alcohol at the festival unless two-thirds of the people attending would be over 21 and 'responsible,'" Heath said. "Then they said that in order to serve alcohol, we would have to hire four security guards at $17 an hour each."

The four guards would have added about $400 to the cost of the event — an expense the Mardi Gras budget would not allow, Heath said.

But Union officials changed their minds at the end of last week, basing their revised decision on the French House program's good record and the demographics of the group — mostly upperclassmen, graduate students and faculty members. Students will now be allowed to hold the event with two security guards and two graduate student ushers at a cost of about $138.

Citizens complain about sewage plant site

By Craig Sterrett
The Daily Iowan

Several neighbors of Iowa City's proposed sewer treatment plant claim city officials have not attempted to communicate with them about the plant's site — and said they may consider suing the city if the plant adversely affects them.

Iowa City officials are scheduled to meet today with the Department of Natural Resources in Des Moines, after filing a lawsuit Friday against the Johnson County Board of Supervisors to force the board to rezone the 51.5-acre tract one-half mile south of Iowa City on which the city proposes to build its $40 million sewage treatment plant.

The city cannot legally begin construction on the facility until the supervisors rezone the area from agricultural to industrial.

One of the reasons the Board of Supervisors has cited in refusing to rezone the site — located just east of Sand Road and north of Snyder Creek — are concerns that the city failed to adequately consult with the neighbors of the proposed facility before choosing a site.

THOSE CONCERNS were echoed by several residents of an area of homes known as Makada subdivision, located on Sycamore Road just north of the plant site.

Homeowners in the subdivision said they think the city has purposely delayed communicating with them about the plant — stalling until the Iowa Department of Natural Resources forces the county to approve rezoning and allows the city to begin building.

"I think the city council has done a really poor job with it," said Makada subdivision resident Raymond Truitt. "I think the city has delayed things to get the state behind them."

Makada Homeowners Association

President Peter Scott said residents were concerned about the city not agreeing with the supervisors to use a south access road to and from the plant. He also said they were upset that the city had not agreed with the supervisors to avoid storing sludge on the property surrounding the plant.

HE SAID IF the city spreads sewage around the plant, the smell from the sewage may result in lower property values for residents of the area. If that happens, he predicted, many Makada subdivision residents would consider lawsuits against the city.

"What used to be a field behind my house is going to be a big pile of sewage," Scott said. "I finally found a piece of property out here that I liked and I don't think it's fair."

Truitt, who said he built his home in the subdivision in 1980 to get away from the noise, traffic and smell of Iowa City, said he believes the plant will lower his property values, despite claims from Iowa City engineers that the plant will not result in any increased stench around the area of the site.

If his property values are lowered, Truitt said he would definitely

UI looks for new director

A special UI search committee is currently looking for a new student financial aid director to replace former director John Moore, who announced his retirement from the post Jan. 1.

UI Vice President for Student Services and Academic Affairs Philip Hubbard last month appointed UI Dean of Student Services Phillip Jones as chairman of the committee.

Other members of the committee include Director of Admissions Michael Barrons, College of Medicine Financial Director Kay Colangelo, graduate student Brad Ipsan, College of Law Special Support Services Director Dennis Shields, Men's Assistant Athletic Director Fred Mims, Education Associate Professor Lauralee Rockwell and Student Financial Aid Administrative Director of Operations Catherine Wilcox.

The committee received 20 replies to November advertisements placed in various newspapers around the country, Jones said.

From the 20, four candidates were chosen for the position, including one UI employee, Jones said, but he added the four are not necessarily the final candidates.

"I hope we'll get this cleared up within the next several weeks," he said.

The committee will give Hubbard a candidate recommendation in early March.

UI hosts high schools

About 200 Iowa high-school students and teachers are expected to participate in the Iowa Junior Science and Humanities Symposium at the UI this weekend.

The UI Science Education Center is hosting the event in the Iowa City Holiday Inn, 210 S. Dubuque St. The program will feature presentations by 16 of the state's top high-school student researchers.

Franklin Koontz, UI professor of pathology, will open the program on Friday with a 9:30 a.m. talk on "AIDS Update — A Worldwide Problem." Keynote speaker on Saturday, Feb. 20, will be Barbara Stay, UI professor of biology, on "The Excitement of Science."

The students will tour UI science research laboratories where presentations are planned on archaeology, biology, biomedical engineering, botany, computers, museums, pathology, physics and astronomy, music, nursing, biochemistry, chemistry, dental research, geology, hydraulic research, pharmacy, radiation research and psychology.

Also scheduled are discussion groups on issues relating to science, technology and society, including as genetic engineering, ground water contamination, acid rain, waste disposal, drug testing and the space program. Concurrent sessions on directing student research projects are planned for the teachers. The sessions are sponsored by the Iowa Academy of Science Student Programs Committee.

Demand for teachers rises

Nationwide demand for UI-educated teachers rose last year, producing the largest number of listings with the UI Educational Placement Office since 1980, Director Judith Hendershot said today.

A total of 21,212 vacancies were listed with the office last year, up more than 7 percent from 1986. Hendershot said in her annual report. Early recruiting for next year suggests 1988-'89 will see the highest demand for UI teachers and administrators since the early 1970s.

Iowa did not follow the national trend, however, with 6.5 percent fewer openings for elementary teachers listed with the UI Educational Placement Office compared with the previous year, and secondary positions declined by about 5 percent when compared with the previous year, she said.

The figures reflect a decline in enrollment of 168,000 pupils statewide over the past 14 years, and a loss of 23,000 additional students is predicted for the next five years, Hendershot said.

Council hears explanation of sewage plant estimates

By Sara Anderson
The Daily Iowan

The president of a Boston-based engineering firm chosen to design Iowa City's sewage treatment plant appeared before the Iowa City Council in hopes of staving off possible contract termination and legal action between the firm and city.

Robert Bening, president of Metcalf and Eddy, explained to the council why September cost estimates for the project by the firm exceeded original estimates by $12.5 million.

Bening's appearance comes after the council unanimously passed a resolution last Tuesday constituting the first step toward terminating its contract with Metcalf and Eddy.

The terminating action came after Iowa City Manager Stephen Atkins reported to the council that the firm had defaulted on its contracts to build the proposed sewage treatment plant south of town and to renovate the Iowa City Pollution Control Plant, 1000 S. Clinton St.

ATKINS SAID in a memorandum to councilors two weeks ago the firm underestimated project costs and had failed to meet time requirements for submitting plans for the facility. He urged councilors to consider suing the firm for damages.

Bening explained the 30 percent increase from original estimates by saying construction costs change with fluctuations in the market.

"There simply is no verification of construction costs," he said. "We'll walk from a contract before we will guarantee a construction price."

Bening also said termination of the contract would result in a delay in the continuation of work and potential fines by the Iowa Department of Natural Resources. He added if the city decided to sue the firm, Metcalf and Eddy would consider filing a countersuit against the city.

Bening said lack of communication between the firm and city contributed to the current problem.

"EXECUTION OF this contract has been severely impacted by a breakdown in communication and a failure to document actions by both parties," he said. "But I think we can find an approach which will meet with mutual acceptance."

Atkins said the council saw a marked change in the firm's willingness to communicate at the meeting.

"I think this is a remarkable change in attitude we're seeing," he said. "We were unable to get through to the regional staff at all."

Councilors discussed placing an addendum in the contract if the city decides not to terminate its agreement with the firm.

Branstad, Democrats argue over welfare vetoes, budget

By Bill Brewer
United Press International

DES MOINES — Republican Gov. Terry Branstad and legislative Democrats traded verbal jabs Monday over the Legislature's vote to boost welfare payments and Branstad's vetoes of the increases last week.

"Unfortunately, the Legislature has become very polarized on a partisan basis," Branstad said, referring to the Democrat-controlled Legislature's passage of the 6.5 percent increase in Aid to Families with Dependent Children benefits.

"I hope that now this is behind us and we can get back together and put together a bipartisan budget. This is too big a problem for one group or one party to do."

However, Democratic leaders said the budget dilemma stems from Branstad's refusal to cooperate with them by vetoing welfare increases that topped their priority list.

"IT REALLY disturbs me for a person to suggest that they have compassion... but really gives lip service when it comes to the question of dealing with those priorities," Senate Majority Leader Bill Hutchins, D-Audubon, said of the vetoes in a speech on the Senate floor.

Hutchins said Branstad's actions have cast a cloud over negotiations on the $2.6 billion budget for the fiscal year that begins July 1, because few Democrats are willing to pass any more than an 8 cents per pack increase in cigarette taxes to finance Branstad's spending proposals. Branstad last month asked lawmakers for a 12-cent cigarette tax and to levy a new tax on wine coolers to take effect March 1.

Ridiculous comments

Republican presidential candidate Pat Robertson showed this weekend he's got that "old-time" religion. It's too bad the "old-time" dates back to what candidate Ronald Reagan referred to in the 1980 debates as "back when I was young... before there was a Negro problem."

American blacks, said Robertson, don't understand South African politics and want to make the struggle against apartheid "an extension of the United States' civil rights movement. . . . I think that's bad."

Robertson doesn't understand the situation in South Africa, where a minority of whites holds absolute power — political, social and military — over the black majority. He'd like to keep South Africa an extension of the racist American legacy of slavery and cross burnings and keeping pesky blacks down where they belong. His racial views have yet to progress past the Middle Ages.

The former TV evangelist went further yet. When South African police and military forces shoot and club unarmed protesters — South African blacks by law cannot own weapons — they are, said Robertson, playing into the hands of their "enemies" who then use these repressive measures as "cannon fodder" to "hurt them." To make matters even more laughable, Robertson refers to these impoverished street demonstrators as "communists."

"What I essentially want is a free South Africa," conceded the candidate. "I want South Africa as a friend of the West and a bastion of capitalism." Here Robertson betrayed himself. The issue of human rights doesn't matter to him as long as the repressive government is "a friend of the West" that provides a market for American-based multinational corporations and keeps the geopolitical chess match a dead heat.

This is a double standard of the most abhorrent order. There are real people involved in the struggle against apartheid. Many of them have been murdered by a government they did not have a say in electing. And many others, including hundreds of children, are right now languishing in South African prisons for the crime of crying out for the right to vote and the right to walk the streets of their native land without good-conduct passes. All Robertson can do is play apologist for the iron fist.

Those views are dangerous enough. What's even more disturbing is the effect his bigotry will have on his supporters — none. Iowa Republicans gave him 25 percent of the vote in the recent precinct caucuses. Lyndon LaRouche, who holds opinions no less insane than Robertson, has been banished to the political backwater. So should the evangelist.

As for Robertson personally, there is an especially toasty nook in hell reserved for preachers who show compassion only for those who wield the truncheon.

Defining the problem

Hey, wanna hear something really scary? The UI Student Senate and the UI Student Activities Board are trying to decide if New Wave is political or non-political. Sadly enough, it's not even a matter of liberal vs. conservative anymore. The frenzied campus cries of "You're political!" and "No we're not!" are still fun in a goofy, ideological sort of way, but they are irrelevant here.

Here, relevance lies in definition. In her definition of "political," former UI Student Senator Natalie Dale includes distribution of anti-Dole literature containing New Wave's office phone number. Okay.

In his definition, New Wave member Bruce Nestor includes Dale's allegations against his organization, calling them "politically motivated." But wait . . .

UI student Tom Kakert — the one person in this soap opera who should know about things like this since he is currently serving on the student senate — is going to clear things up with this statement: "We were just talking about getting a new definition of what a political group is."

That seems like a good call. New Wave received $3,000 from the student senate in 1987. Dale claims New Wave has been involved in political activities since 1981. Nestor disagrees. Whatever. The kicker here is that large sums of money are being given away to groups whose goals or activities may make them ineligible for funding in the first place. Strict definitions and guidelines are not being followed. If they were, this mini-travesty would not be happening.

Something is rotten in the hallowed halls of student government on this campus, and it is this: fiscal irresponsibility. The UI Student Senate needs to clean up its act.

Clergyman means business

While taking a stroll, I saw the Rev. Hallelujah Jones hurrying along.

I greeted him, but he angrily grabbed my arm and said: "I would appreciate it if you would stop referring to me by that title."

You mean reverend? But you're a TV clergyman.

He adjusted his red tie and said: "I am much more than that. Remember, I am also a businessman."

That's true. And how are your glow-in-the-dark, wind-up, life-size plastic front-lawn Nativity scenes going?

"They did well during the Christmas season, thank you."

And your personally-blessed holy teething rings, guaranteed to ease the distress of infancy?

"They are a steady seller, despite the sinful efforts of family planners to shrink my market."

AND HOW'S the demand for your miraculous oil, which will cure aches, pains, miseries, as well as financial and domestic worries?

"Splendid, especially since we began pointing out that if simmered with a touch of garlic, it also makes an excellent blessed pasta sauce."

All things considered, I have to concede that you are a businessman.

"And I would remind you that I am also a religious broadcaster, a title I also prefer."

Yes, I've watched your Hallelujah Happy Hour. Does any other clergyman broadcast live from a sports theme bar?

Mike Royko

 "No, I was the first to recognize and fill that spiritual void."

I've noticed that many members of your congregation now speak in tongues.

"A few, but I must admit that some of it is the result of the happy hour."

WELL, I'VE been impressed by the miraculous cures you've performed simply by laying hands on them. I've seen people who had been suffering terribly throwing aside their crutches and canes and shouting "hallelujah," because you've cured them of tennis elbows, inflamed rotator cuffs, jammed softball thumbs, jogger's shin splints, athlete's foot and jock itch.

"Did you happen to see the football player I cured of agonizing turf toe?"

Yes, but I was even more stunned by the poor wretch who said that for 30 years, despite seeking help from countless experts, he was still plagued by a chronic, incurable slice. But after you laid hands on his golf bag, he has been hitting the ball straight and long.

"Most people don't realize that the slice is the work of Satan. By the way, I'm planning an instructional tape showing the relationship between praying and one-putting."

THAT SHOULD be a winner. But I still don't understand why you no longer want to be thought of as a TV preacher.

"Unfortunately, it has taken on certain negative connotations in recent years."

Because of the fuss about Jimmy and Tammy and Oral and some of the others?

"Yes. And those in the media, most of whom are agents of the Beast, would tar me with the same brush."

But you've built your considerable reputation through your spiritual powers. You've had so many triumphs. Don't you remember the great stir it caused when you prayed that giant killer bees would not invade Chicago, and sure enough, there wasn't a killer bee in sight?

"And I would remind you that there hasn't been one around here since."

NOR BEFORE. And remember when you prayed that the ice cap at the North Pole would not melt and cause terrible flooding in North America, and it didn't? Or when you prayed that we wouldn't be pelted by hailstones the size of bowling balls, and we weren't? Or the time the skies became terribly dark at midnight and you prayed that there should be light. And doggone if the sun wasn't shining brightly at 7 a.m.?

"I do what I can. It is a gift."

Then I don't understand why you resent being called a TV preacher. Unless . . . say, you aren't thinking of running for president, are you?

"The thought has crossed my mind. I've considered turning my executive skills to returning this country to traditional moral values, bringing prayer back in the schools, the shopping malls and all public elevators, as well as defeating the godless Commies. Were you aware that the Soviet Union is only a few miles from our Alaskan shores?"

YES, IT'S on all the maps. "That just shows how weak and careless we've become. And have you seen how our dollar has been shrinking?"

What would you do about that? "I would have all our currency printed on a blend of paper and polyester."

Obviously, you've already thought out many of the issues. What would you do about our relationship with South Africa regarding racial apartheid?

"An unfortunate situation. I would urge all African blacks to bleach themselves white."

Would you negotiate with Gorbachev?

"Yes, if he agrees to be a born-again Christian, joins the Republican Party and makes English their official language. I'm flexible. Now I'm off to New Hampshire."

Aren't you a little late? "Not at all. If I get three write-in votes, the networks could declare me the front-runner."

No involvement

To the Editor:

Columnist Scott Raab, in his article in The Daily Iowan on Feb. 10, stated falsely that I am involved with "Mid-America Construction" and implied that the firm does business with the University of Iowa. I am not in the construction business and have no connection whatever with the company. Neither am I in the trucking business as he also alleges. He was no closer to the truth in the remainder of the article than he was about my business interests.

For decades The Daily Iowan has been justly proud of its reputation for journalistic integrity. Carrying malicious articles such as Raab's damages that reputation and is deplorable.

Sad commentary

To the Editor:

I am saddened and nauseated after attending the Miss Cedar-Johnson "Scholarship" Pageant on Feb. 6. Allow me to share my experience with those of you who were not able to attend.

There were 10 young women — generally referred to as "girls" by the emcee — competing for the title of Miss Cedar-Johnson. Actually, we were told, "the girls do not compete against each other, but rather each girl is judged according to her own merits." Could someone please explain what that means? The winner of the pageant then goes on to the Miss Iowa Pageant, who then goes on to Miss America (still being judged according to her own merits, no doubt).

The festivities began with the traditional swimsuit competition, not to judge physical appearance, we were told, but rather "self-discipline, physical fitness and poise." Obviously there is no way to evaluate these merits other than to have the women parade across the stage (hips and buttocks "taped" as in the Miss America Pageant), wearing high-heeled shoes, false lashes, false nails, backside to the audience for a count of five.

"The talent competition," we were told, "is what separates our pageant from a beauty contest." How odd, then, that I heard the following comments from audience members:

"Now she's cute."
 "Ooh, who did her make-up?"
 "I just hate her hair."
 "I hope these girls are gonna cruise Durant after the show."

And what a coincidence that the four finalists were the thinnest and most conventionally attractive of all of the women competing.

How sad to see intelligent women — most of them high achievers and honors students with serious career goals — encouraged to degrade and oppress themselves by being judged by such superficial standards as physical appearance, "poise" and "charm." How sad that former pageant winners cited the event as "one of the most important experiences a young woman can have." How sad that the Miss America Pageant, awarding more than $5.5 million per year, is the largest scholarship program available to young women in America.

Can this really be 1988?

Not a credible case

To the Editor:

I am a member of New Wave, and I have a few things to say about the recent charges brought against New Wave by former UI Student Senator Natalie Dale.

First of all, her charges are completely groundless. Secondly, her charges are nothing but harassment. There are other groups on this campus which have clearly violated the student senate guidelines without let or hindrance from Dale; while we, even though we are innocent of the charges brought against us, draw Dale's full fire.

Until Dale goes gunning for such groups as the Campus Review and Young Americans for Freedom, in my opinion, her case against us is not only invalid, but out-and-out harassment. I call upon the Student Senate to deposit the case of Natalie Dale vs. New Wave in the round file and I call upon Dale to get off our backs.

In touch with reality

To the Editor:

It was great. Right smack in the middle of the Viewpoints page of The Daily Iowan (Feb. 12), a columnist expressed dismay at the "conservative bias" in media.

Directly beneath that, Michael Humes moaned something about Pat Robertson being a "horrible threat to any hope for freedom and justice in the United States."

Well, at least Humes wasn't talking about his cats again. But is there anyone at the DI in touch with real life?

New ceramic to boost superconductors

BOSTON — Researchers have discovered a new family of ceramics that promises to carry much greater electrical currents than existing "high-temperature" superconductors, experts said Monday.

The new materials promise to bring practical applications of superconductors much nearer to reality. The inability of the high-temperature superconductors to carry large amounts of current has been the chief problem dogging the new materials since their discovery was first reported 16 months ago.

Unless superconductors can carry large amounts of current, they cannot be used for such promising applications as long-distance electric power transmission, high-speed magnetically levitated trains and ultrafast computers.

Eastern plane loses engine, lands safely

MIAMI — An Eastern Airlines jet with 248 passengers headed for Newark, N.J., lost an engine on takeoff Monday, and debris from the failed engine showered down near Miami International Airport, starting a grass fire.

The plane immediately returned to the airport and landed safely on one engine.

"The case held together and the turbine (parts) came out the back end of the airplane," Jim McGee, assistant operations director at Eastern said. "The captain came around and landed."

Soviets, U.S. resume nuclear test talks

GENEVA — U.S. and Soviet experts Monday resumed formal negotiations on verification measures for a 150-kiloton limit on underground nuclear tests, proposed in two treaties more than 10 years ago but never ratified by Congress.

The talks are considered a first step toward reducing the number and force of such explosions.

Soviet chief delegate Igor Palenikh said "agreement on effective verification measures" should be possible in time for the superpower summit expected in Moscow before mid-year.

China renews crackdown on births

BEIJING — After several years of relatively relaxed enforcement of China's family planning policies, officials Monday announced a new crackdown aimed at preventing unapproved births.

Liang Jimin, director of the State Family Planning Commission's general office, said at a press conference that the action is necessary because China is in the midst of a baby boom.

Women will be encouraged to sign contracts promising to have only one child, or in some cases work units will sign contracts containing specific birth targets, Liang said.

Iran reports strike of Iraqi oil rig

MANAMA, Bahrain — Waves of Iranian jets blasted an oil refinery in Iraq's second largest city and hit Iraqi troops near the Persian Gulf Monday, "inflicting heavy casualties and losses," Tehran said.

The official Islamic Republic News Agency said the planes, launched over a seven-hour span in five sorties, attacked the Basra city petrochemical complex — a large refinery that supplies oil to tankers in the Gulf, about 75 miles south.

"All the attacking fighters returned safely to bases after inflicting heavy casualties and losses on the enemy," IRNA said. The report could not be confirmed immediately.

Economic reforms take priority in S. Africa

By William Claiborne
Washington Post

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — In a major shift in its strategy for gradually dismantling apartheid, the South African government will give economic reform priority over political reform in the next decade, according to the country's leading governmental and private economists.

While President Pieter Botha has not explicitly disclosed the shift in strategy for dealing with the inequities faced by South Africa's disenfranchised black majority, the new agenda emerged in discussions with his senior economic advisers as the 1988 session of Parliament began here last week.

It is certain to run into stiff opposition from anti-apartheid activists, who already are asking whether the switch in priorities is a ruse by the white-minority government for stalling on the question of sharing power with the 26 million blacks.

BUT GIVEN RECENT signs of economic recovery, Cabinet officials say they are committed to implementing what Deputy Finance Minister Kent Durr calls the "new economic dispensation" before giving blacks a role in national politics.

Beginning to undo apartheid without redistributing the country's wealth by bringing blacks into the economic mainstream would be a recipe for disaster, warned Frederic du Plessis, the country's leading Afrikaner businessman and one of Botha's key economic advisers.

"People who suddenly get political power without economic power are a time bomb for revolution," du Plessis said.

Moreover, he said, the government must first put the country's economy on an even keel to be able to meet the enormous costs of economic and political reform.

"It makes no sense to me to be playing with nice constitutional models while the economy is in flames," said du Plessis.

New Hampshire

Though the campaign here has gone on for months because of this state's strategic importance, the Republican contest has been transformed dramatically within the past few days by the shock waves from last week's Iowa caucuses. In that contest, long-time front-runner Bush suffered a humiliating defeat, finishing third behind Dole and Robertson.

Bush spent his last full day of campaigning here Monday visiting a retirement home and sipping coffee and donuts with restaurant customers, telling people he would pull out a victory.

Bush was joined by retired Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the latest in a series of celebrities flown in to shore up the vice president's campaign. "He's the best-qualified candidate of my lifetime," Goldwater said.

OTHER FAMOUS faces in Bush's contingent Monday included former Boston Red Sox star Ted Williams and Penn State football coach Joe Paterno. Williams, drawing as much attention as Bush, found himself signing autographs on the vice president's back.

Undaunted by late polls that show he has lost his lead to Dole, Bush predicted he would score the same kind of upset in New Hampshire that Ronald Reagan did in 1980.

Dole, meanwhile, continued to play it cautious, as he did in Iowa before scoring his impressive victory.

"I'm always skeptical until the polls close," he said. William Brock, Dole's national campaign chairman, expressed more confidence.

"I don't think it's possible for George Bush to win tomorrow," said Brock, who resigned as secretary of labor to run the Dole campaign.

BUT IT WAS Robertson who figured out how to make the most news on the eve of the primary, perhaps unintentionally, with a widely disputed claim that there are Soviet nuclear missiles in Cuba. After saying it first during a televised candidates' debate Sunday, Robertson vacillated in the face of strong denials from the White House, the Pentagon, members of the Senate Armed Services Committee and from rival candidates.

Robertson is generally believed to be in a fight for third place here, a state that was not thought to have a broad base of evangelical voters. However, Douglas Wead, a Bush aide and an expert on evangelical Christians, suggested that there may be a potential support network in the 50,000 active contributors in New Hampshire to the "700 Club" television show that Robertson founded.

Robertson supporters have angered state Republican officials by asking to make their own vote count. Scott Malyrick, the party's executive director, said that his office has received about 25 such requests.

considered strong. Ironically, if Bush squeaks out a narrow win, he will likely be viewed as having stemmed the Dole tide and revitalized his campaign — despite the fact that he will have blown a substantial lead in one of the most pro-Reagan states in the nation.

Robertson's Iowa showing also greatly complicated matters for Kemp, who had portrayed himself as the most loyal conservative in the race. His strategists had boldly said he must beat Dole and finish second in New Hampshire to continue his campaign.

After Iowa, however, they talked about needing a third-place finish.

NO MATTER WHERE HE FINISHES today, Robertson is certain to continue his campaign to the South and the March 8 "Super Tuesday" primaries and caucuses. The only other Republican in the race, former Delaware Gov. Pete du Pont, has little chance of lasting beyond New Hampshire, unless he pulls a major surprise.

The Democrats face a much more complicated scenario. Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis is so heavily favored in New Hampshire that he has become somewhat of a non-factor, with the outside the West Bank city of Nablus had been the source of conflicting rumors and unconfirmed reports ever since it happened Feb. 5, until the army announced the arrests Monday.

"Even in my worst dreams I would never imagine such a thing," Maj. Gen. Amram Mitzna, military commander of the Israeli-occupied West Bank, told reporters this morning. He said the army investigation into the incident would have "the highest priority."

Mitzna, who announced the two arrests, added a note of self-reproach. "I warn the commanders all the time to expect the worst possible things when soldiers in certain places find themselves in control deciding about the lives of civilians," he said. "It's difficult to think of such a thing, but we should have thought."

ARMY OFFICIALS said Mitzna acted quickly in arresting the alleged perpetrators in order to send a clear signal to his own men and to the public that such conduct would not be tolerated. "We could have tried to hide this, but instead we chose to make it plain that this is wrong and the people who did this will go to jail," a military spokeswoman said.

But some critics contend that the burial incident is a logical result of a get-tough policy, including use of physical beatings, that Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir has said was designed to reinstall "the fear of death" into a Palestinian population emboldened by the 2-month-long wave of civil unrest in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The incident also raises questions about cooperation between the Israeli army and Jewish settlers in the area. One of those being questioned is Nissim Haba, a Jewish resident from the nearby settlement of Elon Moreh who the witnesses said helped beat the four men before they were buried and egged on the soldiers, shouting "Well done" in Hebrew.

HABA'S 8-YEAR-OLD son, Rami, was battered to death in a cave outside the settlement last year in a murder that has never been solved but that settlers blame on Arab terrorists. Haba was not at his home Monday afternoon. His wife, Ruth, said her husband had hitched a ride with an army jeep that day but denied any involvement in the burial incident. But, speaking in a living room whose walls are lined with photographs of her dead son, she declared grimly: "The Arabs killed my son. I wouldn't care if my husband buried them all."

Some Elon Moreh residents, however, said they were shocked by the incident and hoped that whoever is responsible will be punished.

formula and warned that if Shultz continues with this approach, the new American peace initiative is doomed to failure.

SHULTZ RECENTLY told visitors to the State Department that all parties must clearly understand that the new U.S. peace initiative will go forward only on the basis of the "territory for peace" formula and U.N. Resolution 242 guaranteeing peace and security for all Middle Eastern nations.

An Israeli Embassy spokesman confirmed that Olmert met Hill Sunday "for a discussion of the American initiative." He described it as "an important meeting" but said it was "not ground-breaking."

The spokesman, Yossi Gal, said Olmert had been in Palm Beach, Fla., for a meeting of the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League, where Shultz was the guest speaker Friday. Olmert reportedly met Shultz briefly there but, because he did not have time to discuss the new American initiative, Olmert came here Sunday to see Hill. Monday Shamir, leaving Israel for a visit to Italy, publicly stated his opposition to any negotiations based on the "territories for peace" formula. A State Department official said there would be no comment on Shamir's statements or the visit of his latest envoy.

MORE THAN 50 Palestinians have been killed and thousands arrested by Israeli authorities in the territories in the past two months. The violence has spurred the Reagan administration after months of diplomatic inactivity to search for ways to revive the long-stalled peace process.

Shamir appears to be hardening his position on the issue of peace talks in preparation for Shultz's visit to the region to discuss the new American peace approach starting Feb. 24. Shultz is expected to meet with Shamir Feb. 28-29, after visiting Egypt and Jordan.

There were scattered incidents of unrest in the occupied territories Monday.

consider suing the city.

"WE'RE NOT going to be able to stop the plant from being built," Truitt said, but added, "If there's a smell one day out of ten, if our property values go down, or if our quality of life goes down, then the city should pay dearly."

He also criticized the city for using Sycamore Road as an access road for the site. He said the road is a worn blacktop that could not handle the heavy traffic which would come to and from the plant site.

Truitt suggested the city should consider relocating the plant somewhere inside the city limits.

"I don't think it should be out in the county in the first place, because we have not caused the problem in the first place," Truitt said.

Nor are residents of the Makada subdivision the only ones concerned about the plant site. Mary Ann Cozine, a resident of Pleasant Meadows, a 33-home subdivision to the northwest of the plant site, said some of her neighbors were concerned about their wells drying up as a result of the sewer plant's dewatering process.

Cozine said the residents of the area would stick together if they thought the plant would cause any major problems for the area.

"We've got a fairly strong association that has gone up in front of the (Johnson County) Health Department before, and I think they would all stand together as a group if it did have an adverse effect," she said.

THE UNION'S stand on alcohol has students upset.

"The alcohol policy seems to fluctuate with every group," Heath said. "This is a French program to teach people about France and give them a taste of French culture, which is totally ridiculous without wine. This is just another one of the administration's decisions that the students had no input in."

But the policy is merely being clarified and more strictly enforced, according to Director of Student Services Phillip Jones.

"The alcohol policy has not been changed. Adequate monitoring has always been required," Jones said. "But until two years ago, people were able to drink at 19, so enforcing the policy was much simpler. The need to enforce it is not a debateable issue."

STILL, ORGANIZERS of the Latin American festival Gusto Latino and the German celebration Oktoberfest are considering moving these events to another location where the enforcement of the drinking law will be less complicated and expensive.

"We want to stay with the Union, but I'm not ready to believe that they'll still let us have alcohol there by next October," UI student and Oktoberfest organizer Mark Hayward said. "I won't hire a band and make reservations when I think they may end up changing the drinking policy."

Hayward said he is also concerned about the Union's decorating policy, which restricts what and how decorations can be hung. That policy is also being enforced more strictly due to recent renovation.

"Because some of the painted walls were in pretty bad shape, and we all knew the walls would be stripped down before we remodeled, we weren't enforcing the policy," Union Services Director Jean Kendall said. "There are ways that groups can decorate the rooms now, though. We just have to sit down and work it out with them."

Mummenschanz explores modern artistic territories

By B. Gordon
The Daily Iowan

Mummenschanz is expanding its horizons — literally. Sunday afternoon's performance at Hancher Auditorium featured "masks" that ballooned to fill the entire stage, tubular creatures who had difficulty keeping their limbs in proportion and titanic silver pillows battling each other for supremacy.

The troupe's new show explores fabric as much as movement. Many of the vignettes were based on the dramatic potential of costumes made out of fluttery, petroleum-based plastic sculpted and then inflated into different shapes.

One of the most poignant of these had two mimes with giant half-face masks perched atop their heads, who continually ran to each other in order to embrace. Because the plastic of the mask was attached to a hoop, the profile of the character would inflate the opposite way from the direction the mime was running. This created the illusion of two people attempting to be intimate but incapable of looking at one another.

SUCH PROBLEMS of being — troubles created by one's own nature — are the meat and potatoes of the Mummenschanz sketch. This focus on the difficulties of existence may account for part of Mummenschanz's appeal to children. Much of the rest involves the weird recognizability of those common threads in a fantastical weave of creations which, to look at them, should not be alive.

To adult eyes, Sunday's show was deconstructionist. Dim lighting made the black-clad mimes invisible as they animated simple lines and geometric shapes. Especially in the opening and ending one-third of the performance, the connection with early cinematic animation techniques was an easy one to make. The final set of skits featured mimes with round, white drawing boards instead of heads, on which they alternately scribbled and attached pieces of colored felt to create expressions.

THEIR MINIMALISM is astonishing: Gender is implied in one sketch whose characters appear to be a pair of rolled-up carpets by the size and movement of the mouthlike openings at the center of the rolls. One of these is only about three feet and "speaks" by opening and closing rapidly; the other grows to five feet and seems to orate with heavy, deliberate jaws.

The expressiveness of Mummenschanz mime is uniquely entertaining, and the all-American company that performed at Hancher is in every way equal to the European originals.

Director revitalizes 'Romeo and Juliet'

By Hoyt Olsen
The Daily Iowan

The Balcony Scene. How many plays are so familiar that a single scene develops a name of its own? How many characters are so synonymous with romance that casual allusions occur in chart-busting pop songs ("O Romeo and Juliet, Samson and Delilah...")? How many classic literary works are so much a part of popular culture that even Saturday morning cartoons include parodies of the original?

Is there anyone left in the English-speaking world who doesn't know that the light breaking through yonder window is the East and Juliet is the sun, that she is a Capulet, that her stars are crossed, that she is young and beautiful and looks remarkably like Olivia Hussey and that the kid hanging out in her garden isn't merely a peeping Tomontague?

So the task faced by Michael Quinn has not been an easy one. Quinn is the director preparing University Theatres' production of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet; in order to succeed, he must somehow deliver both the play the audience expects and the play most of the audience doesn't know at all.

According to Quinn, Romeo and Juliet is the most performed of all Shakespeare's tragedies. It is also the Shakespearean play most frequently taught in high schools, and the lushly romantic Franco Zeffirelli film version has also added to widespread familiarity with the play. The result is that most of Quinn's audience will come to the theater with a definite set of expectations already in mind.

RECENTLY QUINN explained the predicament this creates for a director. "Some accommodation has to be made to the people knowing already what they want to see. But if the audience is going to have an interesting experience at all from an artistic standpoint, there has to be a way to make them see the play in a different way, too."

This is even more true because the typical audience experience has been with a Romeo and Juliet considerably changed in one way or another from the original.

When Zeffirelli decided to use realistically youthful actors, he also de-emphasized the text's language to accommodate their inexperience. Other directors, as early as the 18th century, chose to cut elements of the play that struck them as unsuitable for a tragedy. For instance, the farcical interplay between a servant and some musicians immediately after the discovery of Juliet's faked death has routinely been cut from productions.

THE PLAY VERSION included in high-school anthologies is terrifically bowdlerized, evidently so that high-school students will be sheltered from the shattering realization that sex is not a 20th-century invention. Removal from the play of all references to sex, ribald and otherwise, adds to the otherworldly ideal romanticism of the versions approved for teenage consumption.

As a result, director Quinn has turned to tactics that he says he would not employ for any other Shakespearean play, but feels are necessary for Romeo and Juliet because "the established reading is so strong that as artists we'll be lucky if we can just get a question mark attached to it and open the play up."

Quinn has chosen to open the production with what he describes as "Hollywood baroque conventional romantic images of the play, of the setting, and of the characters themselves" — which will be provided by a few moments from the 1936 George Cukor film starring Leslie Howard and Norma Shearer.

QUINN WILL retain certain conventional images within his own staging, including Italian Renaissance costumes and character interpretations compatible with the preconceived images. But Quinn has also chosen to "frame the play within a theatrical context so that the audience is aware of people actually preparing for those parts."

As part of that framework, Quinn has added a stage manager in the style of Our Town, has emphasized the casting of performers in more than one role and will have actors preparing for their parts onstage. The traditionally bare stage used for most Shakespearean productions will be slightly disrupted by the presence of on-stage costume racks and makeup mirrors.

Quinn hopes this Romeo and Juliet will "show people the action they came to see but will encourage them to ask questions about what that action means to them and why it means those things to them."

This week Quinn and Iowa City audiences will get to see the results of his effort to make a familiar play both old and new at the same time. Romeo and Juliet opens Feb. 17 at 8 p.m. in Mabie Theatre. Additional evening performances will be Feb. 18-20 and 25-27; there will be 3 p.m. matinees on Feb. 21 and 28. Tickets are available through Hancher Box Office.

Earl, Thompson listed on all-state ballot

Two Iowa basketball recruits from Illinois — seniors Acie Earl of Moline and Ray Thompson of Summit Argo — are listed on the UPI Illinois High School all-state basketball teams' ballot. Results will be announced in March.

Iowa moves up 2 places in poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Temple strengthened its hold on college basketball's No. 1 ranking and Loyola-Marymount earned its first-ever Top 20 appearance in voting Monday by United Press International's Board of Coaches.

The Owls, 20-1, received 29 first-place votes, eight more than last week, and totaled 609 points to earn the top spot for the second consecutive week. Arizona received two No. 1 votes and 551 points to leap past Purdue into the second ranking.

The Boilermakers, who earned five first-place ballots, were third and Oklahoma, with three No. 1 votes, fourth. North Carolina held steady at No. 5. Duke improved three positions to No. 6 and Brigham Young, which received the remaining three first-place ballots, slipped a notch to No. 7.

The Cougars were followed by No. 8 Pittsburgh, No. 9 Kentucky, No. 10 Michigan, No. 11 Nevada-Las Vegas, No. 12 Syracuse, No. 13 Iowa, No. 14 North Carolina State and No. 15 Georgetown.

Rounding out the Top 20, it was: No. 16 Vanderbilt, No. 17 Missouri, co-nos. 18 Bradley and Wyoming and No. 20 Loyola.

Temple defeated Villanova and George Washington after advancing to No. 1 for the first time ever last week.

The three Big Ten Coaches who vote in the poll: Tom Davis, Iowa; Jud Heathcote, Michigan State; Gene Keady, Purdue.

Court rules against ex-player's widow

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A federal court jury Monday ruled against the widow of Denver Smith, who sought $1.8 million from the city of Bloomington for the 1983 shooting death of the former Indiana University football player.

U.S. District Court Judge John Daniel Tinder said the jury ruled in favor of the city of Bloomington and three of its officers on three separate counts in the civil suit. Jurors handed down the verdict in their second day of deliberations.

Cynequa Smith had accused police of violating the civil rights of both her and her 4-year-old daughter. Her suit also accused police of negligence and of having an inadequate policy for handling situations involving people exhibiting abnormal behavior.

Smith's career as an Indiana lineman ended in 1982, a year in which he served as a team captain.

During testimony, the three police officers involved in the September 1983 shooting said they acted in self-defense. Officers said they shot Smith after he refused to give up a tire iron and later grabbed for the .357 magnum of one of the officers.

Police said the incident began when officers encountered Smith helping to create a traffic jam while arguing with another man on a busy highway in the city.

Officers testified that the 5-foot-11, 270-pound former football player was wild-eyed and spoke incoherently during the incident, which ended with a struggle behind a city transportation shed and Smith being shot four times.

Wadkins surges past Zokol for win

HONOLULU (UPI) — Lanny Wadkins fired a final-round 6-under-par 66 Sunday to claim a $108,000 winner's check in the $600,000 Hawaiian Open.

Wadkins, who now has 17 PGA titles to his credit, caught the leader, Richard Zokol, on the sixth hole Sunday.

The second-place finish was the highest ever for Zokol, who said he was not disappointed with the $60,400 consolation prize.

No. 32 Schapers tops No. 17 Sanchez

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — Michiel Schapers of Holland ousted sixth seed Emilio Sanchez from the $490,000 Italian Indoor Tennis Championships Monday, handing the Spaniard his second first-round loss in as many weeks with a 7-5, 6-3 victory.

Sanchez, ranked 17th in the world, continued in a slump that contributed to Spain's first-round Davis Cup loss to Denmark. Schapers is ranked 32nd in the world.

Sheehan wins 3rd Sarasota Classic title

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Patty Sheehan, who has 18 victories since joining the LPGA Tour in 1980, won her third Sarasota Classic title in four years Sunday, pulling away to a three-shot triumph on the final nine holes.

Sheehan's effort earned her $33,750 Sunday to take over the lead on the LPGA money list.

Olympic hockey times manipulated by TV

CALGARY, Alberta (UPI) — A top Olympic official disclosed Monday the hockey schedule for the Winter Games was tailored to suit American television viewers and fill seats at games.

The seventh-seeded U.S. team plays all five of its preliminary-round games at night in the new, spacious Olympic Saddle Dome while top seed Sweden must play two of its preliminary games in the morning. With the U.S. games at night, ABC-TV is able to show them live during prime viewing hours.

"Part of the reasoning behind (the United States playing at night) is that ABC requested that," said Keith McGill, supervisor of sports for Calgary's Olympic Organizing Committee (OCO). "We were also trying to get the better games, the large-draw games, at night."

On Sunday, an ABC spokesman denied any knowledge the network had influence in scheduling decisions. Also, a top official with the International Ice Hockey Federation said there were no consultations with ABC about changing the playing schedule.

Mariners, Presley agree on contract

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Seattle Mariners and third baseman Jim Presley agreed on a one-year contract Monday, avoiding a salary arbitration hearing, the club announced.

Presley, who last year hit .247, belted 24 home runs and drove in 88 runs, reportedly signed for a base salary of $530,000 and $50,000 in incentives based on games played.

Winter Olympic Notebook

Today's Winter Olympics Notebook from Calgary, Alberta:

Flaming problem
The unthinkable occurred Monday outside Stampede Park, site of the Saddle Dome and Olympic flame went out.

National gas company workers were immediately summoned to re-light the flame. Don't worry about the same thing happening to the official Olympic flame at McMahon Stadium. It's under round-the-clock security.

Sister's death caused fall
The father of Olympic speedskater Dan Jensen said his son's fall in the 500-meter race Sunday was due to the death of his sister earlier in the day.

Jensen, 22, of West Allis, Wis., was one of the medal favorites in the 500 meters but fell on the first turn. He raced just hours after learning his sister, Jane Beres, 27, had died of leukemia. "I just don't think he could put Jane out of his mind," Harry Jensen said. "She was one of his best friends."

A funeral for Jane is set for Saturday, two days after Jensen races in the 1,000 meters. Beres is survived by her husband, Richard, and three children, Susie, 4; Amy, 3; and Jessica, 1. Beres was diagnosed as having leukemia about a year ago, shortly after the birth of Jessica.

Actor, actress attend hockey game
Richard Dean Anderson, star of the TV series MacGyver, attended the U.S. hockey team's 10-6 opening-game victory against Australia.

Anderson, who was accompanied by Academy Award-winning actress Marlee Matlin, is the U.S. team's honorary captain. He appeared to play in the NHL unit breaking both arms in separate incidents three weeks apart when he was 16.

In keeping with his character in MacGyver, who uses non-violent means to solve his adversaries, Anderson eschews the violent side of the game. "I take a rather idealistic attitude," he said. "I look at the grace and beauty, the finesse and structure of the sport. It encompasses every aspect of team play."

After breaking one arm in a game, the Minneapolis native took the ice with a cast and suffered a second injury, shattering the other elbow. "That kind of took the aggressive edge that you need to make it," he said. "It's tough to give up your dreams. It can alter your personal history."

After living what he described as a "vagabond" existence for many years, he embarked on an acting career. Matlin, a Chicago native, grew up to concentrate and Cubs fan. The pair tried to concentrate on the game while satisfying a throng of autograph-seekers.

Witt, Thomas perform to same music

The top two women's skaters, defending Olympic champion Katarina Witt and American titlist Debi Thomas, will perform to music from Bizet's opera about a gypsy girl.

World pairs champions Ekaterina Gordeeva and Sergei Grinkov won the short program competition skating to tunes from "Carmen" and American Yvonne Gomez, who is skating for Spain, is also performing to "Carmen" songs.

Seoul official visits Calgary
Park Seh-jik, president of the Seoul Olympic Organizing Committee, left Calgary Monday after spending several days in the Canadian city observing the workings of the Winter Games.

"We hope that the thousands of visitors to the Seoul Summer Olympics will leave Korea with the same good feelings that the Seoul delegation has about Calgary," Park said. "We arrived in Calgary to savor the Olympic spirit and to build international momentum toward our turn as hosts to the world."

IOC member flies home
A seriously ill member of the International Olympic Committee from Turkey has flown home on a Canadian Forces jet, IOC spokeswoman Michelle Verdier said Monday.

Turgut Atakol, 72, who has cancer, was too sick to fly home on a commercial airline so returned to Turkey on the Canadian jet Sunday. Atakol was taken from Calgary General Hospital to the airport for the flight, which was arranged by the Canadian government and the Olympic Organizing Committee.

Columns censored
A local newspaper has been forced to scrub plans to run columns by a pair of Canadian ice dancers. Rod and Karyn Garosino were going to write a series of columns on their feelings at the Games.

But columns by athletes are against Rule 51 of the Olympic Charter, which states: "Under no circumstances throughout the duration of the Games of the Olympiad and the Olympic Winter Games, may any athlete, coach, official, press attaché or any other person be accredited as a journalist or perform the functions of the media."

Olympic Almanac

Today is Tuesday, Feb. 16. Medals will be awarded today at the Winter Olympics in pairs figure skating at the Pirmin Zurbriggen of Switzerland, winner of the men's downhill, begins his quest for a second gold medal today in the downhill portion of the combined.

Today's Quiz
Franz Piccard won a bronze medal in downhill at the Winter Olympics Monday, becoming the first Frenchman to win an alpine medal in 20 years. Who was the last French skier to win a medal?

Quote from the Past
"A hundred times they've written that I would never become anybody, and I wanted to show people that I am somebody and that if I didn't do well, there was always a reason."
— Marja-Liisa Hamalainen of Finland after winning the gold medal in women's 10-kilometer cross country at Sarajevo in 1984.

Quotes of the Day
"I knew I had to go as fast as possible, I couldn't make a mistake. I knew this and I accepted this."
— Pirmin Zurbriggen of Switzerland, winner of Monday's men's downhill race.
"It would have taken an angel to beat him."
— Matti Pulli, coach of Finland's gold medal winning ski jumper Matti Nykanen.

Goals of the Day
Marcus Prock of Austria, the world champion in men's singles luge, finished 11th in the Winter Olympics competition.
The Canadian men's downhill team, once considered to have a good chance at a medal, could do no better than a 14th place.

Swedish Meatballs
Sweden's cross-country men's team is rated as one of the strongest in history. But in the 30-kilometer race, the opening event of the men's competition, the Swedes were nowhere to be found among the leaders. Gunde Svahn, who won four medals at the 1984 Games, was the highest Swedish finisher, placing 10th. World Cup leader Torbjorn Mogren was 11th and Thomas Wassberg, the 1987 World Cup leader, was 39th.

Quiz Answer
The last French skier to win a medal in the Winter Olympics was Jean-Claude Killy, who won three gold medals at Grenoble in 1968.

Trainers Room

Did You Know
The medals awarded at the first Winter Olympics in 1924 actually are inscribed as "on the occasion of the celebration of the VIII Olympiad." The first medals to bear the words "Olympic Winter Games" were in the second games in 1928. So the first Olympic Winter Games were actually designated after the fact.

Do You Know The Rules
When shooting from a prone position in biathlon, competitors aim at a circular target 115 millimeters in circumference. The circular inner ring of the target is 45 millimeters. In the standing position, the target is 115 millimeters with no inner ring. Penalties are assessed for each missed shot.

Late Medal
The final results of the 1924 90-meter ski jumping event were not decided until 50 years after it took place. It appeared the great Thorleif Haug had finished third in the event, giving him four medals for the Games. Fifty years later, however, an error was discovered in the computation of the scores and Haug, who had been dead for 40 years, was demoted to fourth. Anders Haugen of the United States was moved up to third, making him the only American ever to win a medal in ski jumping.

If the Ice Hawks blast any intention of losing had better be next season. The league-leading defeated Galesburg night in Waterloo. Galesburg gives the club a 13-0-1 first-place finish in Midstate Hockey Association. "It felt good," Ice Hawks Mike Pugliese said. "I've played really well. The Hawks have been, but played really well." In addition to the Galesburg goaltender, Hawks had to overcome penalty minutes assessed in the contest. "We were shorthanded game," Pugliese said.

Editor's note: Randy Gardner, 17, and Tommie Williams, 15, placed fifth in the 1976 Winter Olympics. In 1980 they were champions and went to the 1984 Winter Olympics. Gardner recently won the 1988 Olympic Spirit Award.

CALGARY, Alberta States never has won in pairs skating at the Olympics, a situation which will be resolved in the 1992 Winter Olympics. A good indication of Americans have made silver medal won by Peter Carruthers at 1984, and we're well again at Calgary by Peter and Peter Oppgaard, two other couples.

Iceners look forward to playoffs

By Hugh Donlan
The Daily Iowan

If the Ice Hawks black squad has any intention of losing a game, it had better be next season.

The league-leading black squad defeated Galesburg 7-3 Saturday night in Waterloo. The victory gives the club a 13-0-1 record and a first-place finish in Midwest Collegiate Hockey Association action.

"It felt good," Ice Hawk President Mike Pugliese said. "I think we played really well. The score would have been worse, but their goalie played really well."

In addition to the obstacle of the Galesburg goaltender, the Ice Hawks had to overcome the 44 penalty minutes they were assessed in the contest.

"We were shorthanded the whole game," Pugliese said.

PAT LANIGAN scored the game-winner on a feed from Todd Benson, the league's leading scorer. One Ice Hawk said the Galesburg goalie "didn't have a prayer" on the play.

Sportsclubs

Benson, the league's leading scorer, is known for his playmaking and setting up the game-winner is nothing new to him.

"I think a lot of it is there are times when you take (the puck) in yourself and you draw other players over," Benson said. "He (Lanigan) was standing there all by himself. You can get a lot more enjoyment out of making a pretty pass."

Other goals were scored by Adam Shell, Eran Cohen, Andy Nilles, Bill Saehler, Mike Ftacek and Benson in the club's final preparation for the upcoming MCHA playoffs.

Pugliese praised the performance of freshman goalie Nick Ridenour of Sioux City, Iowa.

"HE MADE SOME really good saves. I would imagine he'll be our goalie for the playoffs," Pugliese said. Although the club is on the tail end of its first undefeated season, Pugliese said he does not see the team's egos interfering with any plans for a league championship.

"We had problems early in the year, like getting enough people to the games," Pugliese said. "But towards the end of the season, the other teams started playing us tough because we were winning so much."

"As a matter of fact, our last three games we played a lot better than we have been all season."

The Ice Hawks have dominated their opponents this season, but the playoffs will not be taken lightly.

"WE ALWAYS HAVE a tough time with Loras," Benson said, speculating on a playoff opponent. "Hopefully, we shouldn't have too much trouble with them. Player for player, we are the most talented team (in the league). Once everyone is there, we have a good team."

According to Pugliese, the club will continue to play the way it has and the rewards of a championship will come.

"The only thing we have to do is have all our players show up," he said. "Then we can have consistency with our lines."

"They'll probably come out dead serious for the first time," Ice Hawk defenseman Dan Seliger said of his team.

Seliger said other players will be brought up from the less experienced gold squad to insure none of the players are overworked during the playoffs.

"I think everyone is fired up to lock up the championship," Seliger said.

The Ice Hawks will face the winner of the Grinnell-Loras game in the semifinals this weekend. Saturday's game will be at 9 p.m. in Waterloo and Sunday's game will be in Dubuque at 8:30 p.m.

Ex-figure skater rates pairs

By Randy Gardner
United Press International

Editor's note: Randy Gardner, at the age of 17, and Tai Babilonia, 15, placed fifth in pairs figure skating at the 1976 Winter Olympics. In 1980 they were world champions and went to the Lake Placid Olympics as gold medal favorites, but Gardner suffered a groin injury. Despite a brave attempt to continue, Gardner and Babilonia were forced to withdraw. Gardner recently was chosen a winner of the Maxwell House Olympic Spirit Award.

CALGARY, Alberta—The United States never has won a gold medal in pairs skating at the Winter Olympics, a situation I'm certain will be resolved in the near future.

A good indication of the progress Americans have made was the silver medal won by Kitty and Peter Carruthers at Sarajevo in 1984, and we're well represented again at Calgary by Jill Watson and Peter Opegaard, as well as the two other couples.

The key for Watson and Opegaard was the short program, and they came through with a clean routine Sunday night to place third at the halfway point. This puts them in excellent position for a medal since they are willing to gamble a little more in freestyle.

THEIR STRENGTH IS in the throws and lifts, although they had some problems with those in the U.S. Nationals at Denver when Jill fell on a throw. They won the Nationals, but can't afford that kind of mistake in the Olympics.

Most of the other pairs had their own problems in the Nationals and European championships. The idea is to peak for the Olympics, so the Nationals can be difficult.

In my opinion, all of the top couples at Calgary are pretty much equal. Jill and Peter are as good as the others, and that includes the two Russian pairs who placed 1-2 in the short program — Ekaterina Gordeeva and Sergei Grinkov and Elena Valova and Oleg Vasiliev.

The Soviet pairs are very consistent, which is why the USSR has dominated pairs since the early 1960s. They avoid costly errors.

GORDEEVA AND Grinkov are two-time world champions and Valova and Vasiliev won the 1984 Olympics. They have the speed and they'll hit everything, and it's likely they'll take away the gold and silver.

But we are catching up in pairs. Watson and Opegaard should win a medal, and Gillian Wachsman and Todd Waggoner and Natalie and Wayne Seybold also are very strong.

The Olympics is a memorable occasion for everyone who competes. Tai and I had two different kinds of experiences, and I believe we handled both of them well. The media creates a lot of hopes for Olympians, and that pressure from outside forces can be unbearable. To succeed in the Olympics you have to find a way to handle that pressure.

For us, the solution was to key in and focus on our skating.

IN 1976 WE had just won the U.S. Championships, but we had no expectations except to skate well at the Olympics. The atmosphere was good for us, mainly because the pressure was on others, and we were pleasantly surprised to finish fifth.

Bullies are inclined to criminal life

By Rob Stein
United Press International

BOSTON — Schoolyard bullies are apparently much more likely than other children to be headed for a life of crime, a researcher said Monday.

Dan Olweus, a professor of psychology at the University of Bergen in Norway, said Scandinavian studies indicate the common phenomenon of bullying in the schools can also damage the emotional health of victims.

The research showed 60 percent of boys who were considered to be bullies in grades six through nine had at least one court conviction by age 24, and 40 percent of the bullies had three or more court convictions by the same age. In comparison, only 10 percent of children who were not bullies got into trouble with the law at that age.

"The school bullies thus had a fourfold increase in serious criminal behavior in young adulthood when compared with the control boys," said Olweus.

STUDIES IN Norway and Sweden indicate that about 9 percent of students are victims of bullying and about 7 percent are bullies. Bullying is about twice as common in grades two through six compared to grades seven through nine, he said. Boys are much more likely to be bullies than girls.

Tyson will start fund for victims

By Dave Raffo
United Press International

NEW YORK — Heavyweight champion Mike Tyson Monday said he will donate $50,000 to set up a foundation to help victimized children, beginning with a 16-year-old black girl who said she was abducted and raped by six white men in upstate New York.

Boxing promoter Don King matched Tyson's $50,000 and the two announced plans to organize an annual "Hands Across America"-type benefit with celebrities and athletes donating time to raise money.

"PEOPLE HAVE children 13- and 14-years-old being victimized by these animals," Tyson said at a press conference, where he was joined by King. "I try to think how I'd feel if something like this happened to my wife or sister. Maybe I'd go off the end, maybe I'd be mad at everybody. Maybe I wouldn't like anyone if somebody violated my wife like that."

World Heavyweight Champion Mike Tyson, left, and boxing promoter Don King each will donate $50,000 to aid victimized children, the two announced Monday at a press conference in New York.

Tyson has yet to name the foundation or decide how and when the money would be allocated.

"He's trying to use his fame and notoriety to do some good," King said.

Tyson, who was married to actress Robin Givens last week, went with King and his new bride Saturday to visit Tawana Brawley, the Wappingers Falls, N.Y., cheerleader who was found dazed and half-naked Nov. 28 curled inside a plastic bag near her home.

"It starts with her, she's just the first," Tyson said. "These victims need the necessities to make it in this world, and that's education."

TYSON SAID Brawley's spirit soared when she met the champion and his wife.

"We're like neighbors," said Tyson, who has lived in Catskill,

N.Y., since he was 15. "She only lives 40 or 50 miles away. The first thing she said was 'I wanted to be a famous model and meet you and go out with you.' When she was happy to see me I was at ease."

When found after the attack, "KKK" and a racial slur were scrawled across Brawley's chest with charcoal, and she told her family she had been sexually attacked.

Monday night, Zurbriggen already was concentrating on mental preparations for the next race, Tuesday's combined downhill. He could emerge from the Games as the first Olympic skier to win four gold medals.

Mueller defeated Zurbriggen by 33 hundredths of a second to win the 1987 world championship downhill race and the two have been battling for downhill preeminence for the past two years.

"He knows what he has to do and I know what I have to do," Mueller said. "We are perhaps not hard friends. He is a team member and we have no problems."

THOUGH MUELLER and Zurbriggen passed within inches of each other in a post-race interview room, there were no words spoken between them and neither sought to make eye contact with his rival. Zurbriggen dismissed questions about his stormy relationship with Mueller, a downhill veteran at age 30, saying "we have no problems with each other."

Picard, 23, said he hoped his bronze medal signaled the start of "a new era for the French team."

"It was very good for me and the French team," he said. "I'm proud naturally, but I didn't think about the past. I just worried about myself."

Leonhard Stock of Austria, the surprise winner of the 1980 Olympic downhill race, was fourth in 2:01.56, while compatriot Gerhard Pfaffenbichler was fifth in 2:02.02.

A.J. KITT of Rochester, N.Y., was the best American finisher, clocking 2:04.94 for 26th place. Jeff Olson of Bozeman, Mont., finished 28th and Doug Lewis of Salisbury, Vt., was 32nd. Bill Hudson of Olympic Valley, Calif., did not finish the course.

Czechs bounce U.S. team

By Gerry Monigan
United Press International

CALGARY, Alberta — Igor Liba scored a short-handed goal at 14:31 of the third period Monday night to break a 5-5 tie and help lift Czechoslovakia to a crucial 7-5 comeback victory over the United States in the second round of the Olympic hockey tournament.

With the Americans pressing deep in the attacking zone on a power play, Liba sprang loose with Dusan Pasek on a 2-on-2 break. Pasek drew defenseman Scott Young and Brian Leetch to one side, and fed Liba, who beat goaltender Mike Richter from 10 feet into the top of the net. Pasek added an empty-net goal with nine seconds remaining.

The third-seeded Czechoslovakians, who trailed 3-0 after 6:08 of the first period, evened their record at 1-1. The seventh-seeded United States fell to 1-1 and damaged its chances to advance to the medal round. The U.S. team meets the Soviets Wednesday.

PASEK PULLED Czechoslovakia to 5-5 at 12:35 of the third, after Scott Fusco had broken a 4-4 tie at 6:27.

Fusco, a veteran of the 1984 Olympic team and a Harvard graduate, cruised across the goalmouth, took a centering pass from Scott Young and beat falling goaltender Jaromir Stel.

double figures with 12 points, opened the game's scoring, Iowa went to Jeff Moe for a three-pointer from the left side of the key.

Lewis countered with a three-pointer of his own. It was an Ed Horton dunk off a Moe assist that evened the score at 5.

Fouls played a key role in the first half. Stephens and Mitchell both had three fouls by halftime, forcing Drake to make several lineups changes.

The Iowa bench was hit with a technical foul with 5:41 to play after Davis complained to one official and was given the technical by another referee. Purdue took a 24-23 lead on Lewis' two free throws.

"I'M STILL upset about the call but not only the call but the officiating and everything," Davis said. "It's something I have to address within the proper channels."

been doing so since 1974.

In fact, Drake has been a thorn in the Hawkeyes' side as the Lady Bulldogs lead the series between the two schools 19-2. Until last year's meeting, Drake had won 19 out of 20 games in the series. Drake has never lost a game in Carver-Hawkeye Arena but as of last week a few Iowa players didn't know a whole lot about the Lady Bulldogs.

"I FORGOT that we had to play them," Iowa guard and Big Ten leading scorer Michelle Edwards said last week. "I'm sure when next week rolls around that coach won't let us look by them, though." Iowa center Shanda Berry also thought Drake showing up on the schedule in the middle of February was strange. "Yeah, this is kind of weird," Berry said. "We usually play them before the Big Ten starts. I'm sure they'll be ready for us and it should be a good game. It's always been a great intrastate rivalry."

While Drake didn't fit into Stringer's preseason structure, the fifth-year Iowa coach said her team will be ready for the Lady Bulldogs.

"We will approach this game just like we would any Big Ten game," Stringer said. "Every game is very important to us. Drake is a very fine team and hopefully we'll be prepared mentally. With this group of kids it's not a physical matter. We just need to keep being mentally tough each week."

No. 3 Boilermakers clip Hawkeyes

Cold shooting hurts Iowa; Lewis leads Purdue with 20

Senior Troy Lewis poured in 20 points and No. 3 Purdue dominated Iowa on the boards in defeating the 13th-ranked Hawkeyes 73-66 Monday night at Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

The Hawkeyes fall to 17-7 overall and 7-4 in the Big Ten. Purdue improved to 21-2 overall and 10-1 in the Big Ten, increasing its conference lead to one game over 9-2 Michigan. The Boilermakers completed a season sweep of Iowa, winning in West Lafayette, Ind., 80-79 last month.

"Obviously we were beaten by a real good team," Iowa Coach Tom Davis said. "I like everything about them. I think their experience showed and they are a good, settled club."

THE HAWKEYES' problems began in the second half when lackluster shooting from the field and free-throw line helped the Boilermakers pull ahead for good.

Iowa shot 34.8 percent from the field, the lowest percentage for a Davis team at Iowa, and 65 percent from the line for the game.

Purdue Coach Gene Keady said Iowa's zone defense may have played into the Boilermakers' hands.

"I like that," Keady said of the Iowa zone, "especially when we're hitting the shots."

Purdue was more efficient from the outside, hitting 57.4 percent from field-goal range and 53.3 percent of its three-pointers. Purdue also hit 11 of 15 from the free-throw line.

IOWA, outrebounded 39-34, had trouble with the three-point shot in the second half, hitting 3 of 16.

The Hawkeyes' frustration culminated with six seconds remaining in the game when they missed three consecutive three-pointers off two offensive rebounds.

came off the bench for 10 points and five rebounds, said Keady emphasized at halftime that the Boilermakers dominate the rebounding and control the tempo. Yet even with a slow-down tempo, Purdue had few problems.

"I was a little shocked they played that slowly," Davis said. "They are quicker than that. The guards have great quickness. They can play any tempo they want."

Everette Stephens, who scored 10 points, was also a key for the Boilermakers, leading Purdue with eight assists.

Hawks can't forget Bulldogs

When the season began, Iowa women's basketball Coach Vivian Stringer said she wanted to attack her schedule in three stages.

The first stage was the pre-Big Ten schedule, during which Iowa posted a 9-0 mark, beat five top-10 teams and captured the nation's No. 1 ranking.

In the second stage, Iowa wanted to win the Big Ten title outright. To do that, Stringer predicted the Hawkeyes may need to go 18-0.

Finally, if the Hawkeyes should survive the first two waves, Stringer wanted to take on the NCAA tournament as a final chapter to the season.

SO FAR THINGS are going as planned. Iowa is 10-0 in the Big Ten, 19-0 overall and still holds the No. 1 ranking in America. But in her three stages, Stringer forgot about Drake.

Iowa hosts the Lady Bulldogs tonight in a rare non-conference game that really doesn't fit into Stringer's overall plan. Tonight's tip-off is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. The game will be broadcast live by KRUI-FM in Iowa City.

It's funny that anybody associated with Iowa women's basketball could forget about Drake. The Hawkeyes and Lady Bulldogs play each other once a year and have

2 Swiss skiers take top medals

By Rob Gloster

MOUNT ALLAN, Alberta — A man of quiet piety won the most glamorous race of the Olympics Monday by skiing like a devil.

Pirmin Zurbriggen, fighting to keep control of his skis, roared down a bumpy Mount Allan course in one minute and 59.63 seconds to capture the downhill gold medal, beating his teammate, Peter Mueller, by 51/100ths of a second.

Calgary '88

Franck Piccard, who started immediately after Zurbriggen, was third in 2:01.24. He became the first French male downhiller to win a medal since Jean-Claude Killy in 1968.

Zurbriggen, a devout Catholic, clasped his hands in prayer and lifted his face skyward after crossing the finish line. When he saw his winning time posted, the 25-year-old racer, who normally eschews displays of emotion, threw his arms in the air so hard he nearly fell off his skis.

BUT THAT WAS hardly the first time Zurbriggen appeared on the verge of toppling.

He raced from the 14th start position after Mueller, the first skier down the course, had posted a time that was beginning to seem unbeatable. Zurbriggen fought off several mistakes at the top of the mountain and at times seemed perilously close to crashing. But his strength and his gliding ability enabled him to tenaciously hold his line.

"I had to go as fast as possible. I couldn't make a mistake. I knew this and I accepted this," said Zurbriggen. "At the start I knew Peter's fantastic time. I made a few mistakes in the upper part but I just gave everything in the gliding bottom part. I skied to the limit."

Zurbriggen said his mistakes were minor and normal for a skier who is speeding down an icy mountain at 60 mph. "It was so bumpy and it was really difficult to control the skis," he said. "But I took all the turns very fast."

THE VICTORY did little to diminish the harsh rivalry between Zurbriggen and Mueller. Aside from being in constant competition as the world's two best downhillers, the two Swiss racers have vastly different lifestyles.

Zurbriggen is a shy mountain boy who still lives at home and helps his mother wash the dishes, while Mueller is an urbanite who enjoys a good party.

Iowa's Chelesvig is expected to return against Iowa State

By Scott Wingert
The Daily Iowan

Iowa 167-pound wrestler Bart Chelesvig is expected to be back in the lineup when the Hawkeyes travel to Ames Sunday to face Iowa State.

Iowa Coach Dan Gable said Monday that Chelesvig received medical clearance to compete last Friday, but was left under the rehabilitative and instructional tutelage of former Iowa wrestler Rico Chiapparelli instead of competing at Oklahoma State. Chelesvig has been bothered with a sore neck.

If Chelesvig cannot wrestle at Iowa State Sunday or the Big Ten Championships March 5 and 6, Rick Novak would be his replacement. Chelesvig did not workout last week.

NOVAK, WHO started the season as a 150-pounder, is the only available fill-in at 167 at this time. Gable said under no circumstances would he consider moving 177-pounder Royce Alger back down to 167 pounds for the tournaments.

"Royce is a better wrestler at 177," Gable said. "Besides, we have no one to fill in with at 177. Chelesvig is still questionable right now until I can see him train, but he should be ready."

IOWA NOTES

Gable said some positive results came from last Saturday's dual-meet defeat at Stillwater, Okla. He singled out Steve Martin, Joe Melchione and John Heffernan as three wrestlers who made significant strides in the meet.

"Considering the caliber of competition, those three really wrestled well," Gable said. "From a team standpoint, that may have been our best effort all year."

Iowa, which has lost three duals this year by a total of nine points, is still in the title hunt, Gable said. "I figured a dominant team would emerge by now, but there isn't one yet," Gable said. "Nobody's loaded with bear. It's the team that puts it together from here on in that's going to win it. That's what we're looking at."

Chiapparelli was one of three United States freestyle wrestlers to place at the Tbilisi Tournament in Russia Jan. 27-29. Chiapparelli finished third at 180.5 pounds with an overall record of 5-3 in the tournament plus two duals.

"I learned I could wrestle with those guys," said Chiapparelli, who won the 177-pound NCAA championship for Iowa last year. "The world champion at that weight was fourth and the bronze winner didn't place."

Kenny Monday, who wrestled collegiately at Oklahoma State, was the 163-pound champion and former Nebraska wrestler Bill Scherr was second at 190.

Iowa's two major in-state recruits, John Oostendorp of West Liberty and Tim Anderson of West Des Moines Dowling, will both compete in district tournaments Saturday.

Oostendorp, who is undefeated and rated third in Class 2A at heavy-weight, will face second-ranked Todd Kinney of Dewitt Central at a district tournament in Durant.

Anderson, an undefeated returning state champion for the top-ranked Maroons, will compete at the Urbandale district.

Oklahoma State Coach Joe Seay, who in December said he thought Gable was keeping his team from "getting shellshocked" by keeping four wrestlers away from the Las Vegas Invitational, said last Saturday that Iowa is an improved squad.

"I think Dan Gable has brought the young men that he's coaching this year a long ways," Seay said. "I saw them earlier this year and I wasn't very impressed, but I've watched tapes since that time and I've seen the progression. They are progressing."

"I never see a down year for Iowa. I see maybe not quite the same team as ones in the past, but I do see the same technique and the same intensity level come out of those kids. By the time they get the experience and development, they'll be like the team of the past."

With a victory over third-ranked Mike VanArsdale Sunday, Iowa's Royce Alger will move into an eighth-place tie with Chris Campbell and Mike DeAnna on the all-time Iowa win list.

Alger, 32-1 this year, has a career record of 121-12-2.

Campbell compiled a 122-6-3 record from 1974-77 enroute to national titles at 177 pounds in 1976 and 1977.

DeAnna, a four-time Big Ten champion who now coaches at Edinboro State in Pennsylvania, was 122-18-2 at Iowa from 1977-81.
