University presidents request greater legislative support

By Paula Rodney

"We're at a crossroads, and this is a critical year in which the advancement of the state universities will be protected or denied," said Rodney. "If three budget cuts in five years are seen as a financial crisis, we must stop such attacks on the universities."

The Fieldhouse has donated $200 to KRUI for their "Field Day" promotion. "We take our banner (with the UI logo) to every game," said Pope. "They are not allowed to mention any beer prices, and they don't make the biggest effort to promote alternative music nights," Pope said.

"Those who want the universities to suffer are wrong," said Pope. "They are not allowed to mention any beer prices, and they don't make the biggest effort to promote alternative music nights," Pope said.

"We are running ads saying The Fieldhouse is the place to go for alternative music," said Pope. "The Fieldhouse is one of the few places that have live jazz in town."
Linda Neuhouser, Lloyd-Jones initiate sewer legislation

By Craig Barrett

The Daily Iowan

While the Iowa State University master's class in sewer system design, state leg­ his class is urging the city of Cedar Rapids to adopt a new sewer system for northeast Cedar Rapids and Johnson County. The new system is designed to prevent flooding in the city and to alleviate drainage problems in Johnson County.

The class, under the direction of Prof. John C. Allen, plans to present the new system to the city council next month. The city council will then make a decision about whether to adopt the new system.

"We feel that our design is better than the existing one, so we're hoping the city council will accept it," said course director Allen.

The new system would cost $2.5 million to construct and would be funded by the state. The city council is expected to make a decision on whether to adopt the new system in June.

Iowa City man heads fight against state fireworks bill

By Sara Anderson

The Daily Iowan

An Iowa City man says he will continue his battle against a bill that would legalize the sale and manufacture of fireworks in the state.

Jim Neuhouser, of South Camp­den, says he is fighting the bill because he believes it is dangerous and would lead to increased crime and accidents.

"I'm going to fight this bill until the bitter end," said Neuhouser.

The bill, which was introduced by Rep. Tom O'Neal, R-Iowa City, would allow the sale and manufacture of fireworks in the state. The bill is currently being debated in the Iowa House of Representatives.

"I just can't afford to spend the money to fight such a closely contested issue," said Neuhouser.

Neuhouser said he will con­inue to fight the bill even though he is not a professional lobbyist.

The bill was introduced in the Iowa House of Representatives on Feb. 1. The bill's sponsor, O'Neal, said he introduced the bill because he believes it is necessary to increase the state's revenue.

"I believe the state needs to increase its revenue to fund important programs," said O'Neal.

The bill has been met with opposition from some lawmakers and citizens who believe it is dangerous and would lead to increased crime and accidents.

House speaker drafts Contra aid plan

WASHINGTON -- Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, and Wednesday the House Democratic leadership is drafting a bill to provide $50 million in military and nonmilitary aid to Nicaragua's Sandinista-backed Contras. The legislation could be voted on as early as Thursday. The move would be a policy break for the Contras, which are fighting against the Sandinista government and have been backed by the Reagan administration. The measure would provide $2.5 million a month to buy military supplies and $10 million in grants for nonmilitary aid, including $3.5 million for an independent commission to study the aid program.

Contras, Sandinistas resume talks

Havana -- Negotiators for Nicaragua's Sandinista government and the Contras resumed discussions Wednesday in Havana. The talks, set to last until next week, are the first since the Contras went to the island to offer an alternative to the Sandinistas in the next round of talks. The talks are expected to last at least another week. The talks are expected to last at least another week.

Reagan submits 1989 budget to Capitol Hill

By Linda Wertheim

United Press International

WASHINGTON -- Administration officials said Wednesday that President Ronald Reagan's $1.1 trillion budget request Wednesday ready to implement tax increases and federal aid to Washington with Congress. The president's plan being sent to Congress Wednesday would have the president's plan for increasing the federal budget to $64 billion in new taxes in fiscal 1989 and to hold down spending in both military and domestic accounts.

For each of the past 12 years, Congress has rejected the president's budget plan. Congress has consistently rejected the president's plan for increasing the federal budget to $64 billion in new taxes in fiscal 1989 and to hold down spending in both military and domestic accounts.

Going to the root

On Wednesday, the state Board of Regents was presented with plans for increased minority enrollment at the three state universities. The board had previously made a $2.5 million target set by the regents.

This kind of program can be very effective, but universities must follow through in a timely manner. The universities should be preparing for their next year's enrollment now. If this is not done, the schools will be repeating the same mistakes over again.

Readers: Say no to Amway

Scott Raab

I'm writing in response to an article which appeared in the February 1988 issue of the Northern Minnesota News. The article was about a new law that was enacted last year which allowed Amway to continue its operations in the state. The law was opposed by many people, including myself, because it allows Amway to continue its operations in the state.

I am writing this letter to express my concern about the law and to encourage others to take action to prevent Amway from continuing its operations in the state. Amway is a multi-level marketing company that sells products such as vitamins, supplements, and household items. The company has a history of unethical practices and has been involved in numerous legal disputes.

I believe that the law is unfair and should be overturned. I urge everyone to take action to prevent Amway from continuing its operations in the state. Thank you for your attention to this important issue.

Mike Royko

...and the only reason that the law was enacted was for the financial benefit of the state. It allows Amway to continue its operations in the state and to continue to cheat people.

I hope that you will all take action to prevent Amway from continuing its operations in the state. Thank you for your attention to this important issue.

'Shoot to Kill' wastes Poitier in disappointing, flawed plot
By Kevin C. Kriechbaum

The Daily Iowan

O f all the biographies of the '50s that have appeared in this past decade, "Pete Seeger - Folk Singer" is the best. It is a testament to the power of music to unite people and to the enduring legacy of one of America's greatest artists.

Seeger was born in 1919 in New York City, the son of a Jewish father and an Irish mother. His parents were both involved in the labor movement and were strong supporters of the Soviet Union. Seeger grew up listening to his parents' records of Russian folk songs, which inspired him to learn the guitar and to write his own songs.

In 1938, Seeger joined the left-wing labor union the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO) and became a member of the Communist Party. He used his music as a tool to spread the message of the CIO and to raise money for its campaigns.

In 1940, Seeger formed a group called the Almanac Singers, which became one of the most popular folk groups of the time. The Almanac Singers' music was a mix of traditional American songs and social commentary. Their most famous song was "The internship in the New Deal Government," which criticized the Depression-era New Deal policies of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1942, Seeger was drafted into the army and served as a mechanic in Italy. After the war, he returned to the United States and continued to perform and write songs. In 1950, he was called before the House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC) and was accused of being a communist. Despite the witch hunt of the 1950s, Seeger refused to testify and was subsequently blacklisted from the entertainment industry.

In 1958, Seeger was invited to perform at the Newport Folk Festival, which was the first major folk festival in America. The festival was a huge success and helped to popularize the folk music genre. Seeger performed there for the next 30 years, and his music became synonymous with the civil rights and anti-war movements.

In 1960, Seeger organized thesing-a-long at the March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom, which was a key event in the civil rights movement. Seeger's music was heard at many major events of the 20th century, including the civil rights protests of the 1960s and the anti-war movement of the 1970s.

Seeger died in 2014 at the age of 94. His legacy lives on through the music he created and through the many people he inspired. He was a true American icon, and his music will continue to inspire generations to come.

Swimmers focus on Big Tens

By Grant Wood

The Daily Iowan

The best teams go into a conference championship meet as the favorites, the worst teams are the ones who labor through each race. The Iowa men's swimming team, which finished third at the Big Ten meet last season, will be back in the same boat this year.

"The swimming problems shouldn't be as bad this year," senior striker Royal McIntosh said. "We've been giving our best through the first few meets of the season and we know the season will be hard."

"It's not going to be until until Big Ten," Hecko said recently. "Everything points toward Big Ten and we want to do our best there."

The second half of the season, with a 4x100 medley and a 4x200 medley, will have improved swimmers and more solid and good health should also help Iowa's chances at the championship.

"Now we don't have any flu or ear problems, and we're feeling our legs again," Hecko said. "And this year's team is a lot closer than last year, especially the seniors and freshmen. We've had great leadership from our seniors this year."

The speech, sponsored by the UI College of Law, UI Athletic Association and the Board of Regents, will focus on salary arbitration, drug suspensions and violence.

NCAA probing SMU basketball, track

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) - The University of Kansas athletic department, in an 1988 basketball season because of illegal payments to players, to be investigated by the NCAA, for possible rule violations in the basketball and track programs, the Dallas Times Herald reported Wednesday.

SMU Athletic director Doug Stafa confirmed that the NCAA is investigating "very sensitive program concerns" in both the basketball and track programs. The newspaper reported in a copyright story.

Cubs sign pitcher Baller, 4 others

CHICAGO (UPI) - The Chicago Cubs have agreed to terms with pitcher Jay Baller on a one-year contract, two months after Baller was suspended in a Pennsylvania hospital.

Last year, Baller collapsed in a shopping mall near his home in Pitmon. The 31-year-old right-hander was diagnosed with a testicular problem and fell into a deep coma.

Baller agreed to a Class AAA contract, but will earn more money with the Cubs, who have the option to purchase his contract for the 1989 season.

The Cubs also have agreed to terms with three minor leaguers and three free agents. The four minor leaguers are with the Cubs on their one-year contracts for the 1988 season, the club said.

Also signing one-year contracts were outfielder Dwight Finch, pitcher Tom Davis, pitcher Jim Reams and infielder Wally Newcomb.

Blue Jays sign American League MVP

BOSTON, Mass. (UPI) - The Blue Jays have agreed to terms with the American League's most valuable player, Dave Stieb, on a two-year contract, an Associated Press source said Wednesday.

Stieb, the All-Star reliever who pitched to a 2.66 earned run average last season and helped the Blue Jays win the American League East, is expected to get a $3 million deal.

He replaces the 24-year-old Bob Knepper, who played for the San Diego Padres for the 1988 season.

Steelers, city settle; team to stay til '99

PITTSBURGH (UPI) - The Pittsburgh Steelers agreed to terms Wednesday with the Steeler City Board, which represented the city's residents, in a contract which allows the team to stay in Pittsburgh until the 1999 season. The team was due to leave the city at the end of the 1987 season, settled with the steel city after an eight-week arduous battle to replace the stadium which had been built to house the team.

Patriots buy time to fight Trump

DRESDEN, Mass. (UPI) - A Superior Court judge Wednesday extended the New England Patriots' request to suspend the team's license to operate a football stadium, giving them time to continue negotiations with the New England Patriots, Inc., the Patriots owner.

Lawyers for the Patriots owner said Friday that a new group led by the Philadelphia-team owner Freeman McPherson, who holds the option to purchase the New England Patriots, Inc., has been negotiating for the franchise along with former Patriots owner Donald Trump. Trump previously owned the franchise but lost it in a two-way deal to Danbury businessman Ronald Schneider.

Coroner: cocaine caused recruit's death

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Ron Marshall, a star running back at the University of Maryland, was killed in a car accident last week, according to the coroner's report. Marshall died last week of cocaine and alcohol intoxication, the coroner said.

Marshall died Thursday evening, less than two hours after reportedly having his pre-draft physical exam. He was one of two recruits chosen to compete in the Southeastern Conference's most prestigious recruiting challenge.

Tourney will boost top players

LOLLA, Calif. (UPI) - Some of the PGA Tour's top names are expected to compete in the Lotta Tourney, which will be held July 28-31 at the Lotta Golf Club, located on the north coast and considered the leader of the field in last year's champ, George Weaver.

Olympics

The United States men's hockey team took home a gold medal against Canada Feb. 14, with a 3-2 win over the Canadians in the deciding game. The Americans, led by 19-year-old forward Paul Henderson, scored the game-winning goal with just 34 seconds left in the game to win the gold medal.

Gamble

Gamble, who had missed the 1980 Olympics due to a bout of mononucleosis, returned to form in 1984. He won two gold medals in 1984 and was named to the U.S. men's hockey team.

Cyclones, Redbirds face tumbleurs next

By St. Hammond-Kenze

Iowa State's women have a chance to break their own record in the vault this weekend, as the Cyclones take on the University of Illinois and the University of Minnesota. The Cyclones have the fifth highest vault average in the Big Ten Conference, and a strong showing in this event could propel them to a higher ranking in the conference.

Iowa State broke her own record in the vault earlier this season, tallying four. while Darrin Ott of Sharples has no idea if he'll be the best athlete of the weekend. He has been working very hard on his routine, and is one of the top athletes in the conference. Ott has been practicing every day, and is looking forward to making the most of the opportunity to compete.

Ex-Hawk standout believes Thunder will lead to big time

By Michael Tink

"WOLKEN THUNDER" is a quick glance—a quick glance, mind you. A lot of people I've heard from say "Good luck. You'll never make it..."

Wolken has all of the earmarks of an veteran—all the chips, the rime patterns, the experience missing from the NBA's Portland Trail Blazers, who have also announced his presence.

The question is whether or not the Blazers, who have signed him, will allow him to play the same game as they have used him over there. We'll have to see how the game plays out on the court.

"The Final Four is a tremendous event. It's a time to remember the teams that made it to the Final Four. It's a time to remember what it takes to get there. It's a time to remember what it means to play in the Final Four.

As for Gamble, he and his coach, Tom Davis, are both coming into the Final Four with a lot of confidence. The Final Four is a time to remember what it takes to get there. It's a time to remember what it means to play in the Final Four.

"We're looking for a championship, and we're ready to take the step."
